AGAIN AT DEATH'S DOOR

GEN. SHERIDAN HAS A VERY SERIOUS RELAPSE.

His Physicians Express Little, if Any, Hope of His Recovery—The Action of the Heart Grows Alarmingly Feeble.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Gen. Sheridan was worse last night, and the doctors and family have the greatest fears for the next few hours. After the attack of Wednesday night the General rested comfortably until yesterday afternoon, when the man who supplies the oxygen gas was hurriedly sent for, and there was considerable excitement among the inmates of the house and the small groups who constantly keep guard outside. A bulletin then gave the assurance that the patient was resting easy and that no trouble was feared. They are on the constant watch, however, for signs of the recurrence of the attack of last evening. That attack was brought on by a fit of coughing, with which the General was seized at 5 p. m. but which was not thought to be of a dangerous character. Before long, however, this coughing increased in frequency and violence, and brought on a faintness of the heart's action, which filled all within the house with the gloomiest forebodings. The pulse grew weaker and the action of the heart feebler, with each recurrence of the spasms of the throat, and everything that could possibly be done was immediately undertaken. Digitalis was administered to counteract the feebleness of the heart.

Meantime the General's condition grew worse, and, notwithstanding all that was done, the attack stubbornly refused to yield to treatment. The gas made him flighty and irrational. It was then discontinued and other remedies applied, only to give way at frequent intervals to a renewal of the oxygen treatment.

For some time the General appeared to be very much like a drowning man, and it was feared that the end had come. By extraordinary exertions, however, the patient was rallied, and at 11¾ in the morning he had improved to some extent. The General fell asleep soon after 2 and rested a little. His slumbers were light and at times broken by coughing spells. Hope that the General would be able to rally has well nigh been abandoned. There have been several recurrences of the heart trouble, each attack has apparently left him weaker than the previous one, and it is becoming more and more difficult to rally him. His breathing has become laboured and heavy, and the lungs are gradually getting more and more œdematous. The presence of œdema has also been again noticed in the legs, and this indicates that the circulation of the blood is growing more feeble. One of the physicians, in summarizing the case, said:

"General Sheridan is extremely ill; he is in a very dangerous and critical condition. He has been getting better and worse for the last week or ten days, and now he is very bad."

Gen. Sheridan remains perfectly conscious and rational and suffers no pain except arising from difficulty in breathing. The action of the heart varies constantly. Sometimes the heart will be acting with a good deal of vigor, and the next moment the whole situation will be changed, and its action will be fluttering and weak. The circulation through the lungs has likewise become slow and very much embarrassed. The General has shown a remarkable degree of vitality and composure, and has kept up his spirits remarkably. Dr. N. S. Lincoln, one of the leading physicians in this city, and well known to the medical profession throughout the country, was called in consultation and spent some time in the sick room. Afterward he said:

"The treatment has been very successful and I think the physicians have managed the case admirably. But for the promptness of action of those who have attended him he would have died at various times during his illness. He has been kept up so far, but it is difficult to say how much longer it can be done. It is becoming more and more difficult all the time."

The latest reports give the General's condition as unimproved.

Bills Signed By Gov. Hill.

ALBANY, June 1.—The Governor signed the following bills yesterday:

Appropriating $15,000 for a State armory at Mohawk.

Amending the acts regulating the practice of veterinary surgery.

Appropriating $10,000 for deepening the channel of Peconic River, Suffolk county.

Amending the act in reference to apprentices and employers.

Amending an act for the better regulation of county and State prisons.

To extend the time for payment of the capital stock of certain corporations.

To provide for the care of poor and insane Indians.

Amending the charter of and reorganizing the American Veterinary College.

Amending the act to prevent deception or fraud relative in stallions.

Legalizing certain bonds of Portchester.

Providing for the correction of errors in real estate conveyances to religious societies.

Victory for the Boss Brewers.

ALBANY, June 1.—The boycott has been raised from all non-union beer and a verbal agreement has been made between the Knights and the boss brewers to the effect that the wages and hours of the men shall remain the same as before; that only Knights of Labor shall be employed; that the bosses may discharge men for other reasons than because they are Knights, and that the brewers will take such men back as are not obnoxious, as vacancies occur. This is a victory for the brewers.

North Carolina Democrats.

RALEIGH, June 1.—The State Democratic Convention is in session here. The names of Daniel G. Fowle of Raleigh, Chas. M. Stedman of Wilmington, and Lydenham R. Alexander of Charlotte were presented for Governor. The first ballot resulted as follows, there being 961 votes, with 481 necessary to choice: Fowle, 375; Stedman 329; Alexander, 226; J. A. Gilmer, 8; R. F. Bennet, 1. On the thirteenth ballot the vote stood: Fowle, 304; Stedman, 312; Alexander, 230.

Nominated on the Fortieth Ballot.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., June 1.—Francis P. Fleming was nominated for Governor by the Democratic Convention on the fortieth ballot.

LAST DAY OF THE CONFERENCE.

The Methodists Finish Their Work In a Rush—Assigning the Bishops.

NEW YORK, June 1.—The last days' session of the Methodist General Conference was characterized by a rush of important business that should have received careful thought and deliberate attention, but was crowded over until the last moment and railroaded through. The conference has been in session not quite a month. There have been twenty-seven regular sessions, and a dozen extra afternoon and evening sessions. Many important matters go over to the next General Conference, four years hence, for lack of time. The total expense of bringing the great body of delegates from all parts of the world and providing for them while here, and of paying all the expenses of the General Conference, is estimated at $80,000.

Bishop Fitzgerald presided to-day. The first business of importance transacted was to give local self-government to the Methodist Church missions in Japan and authorize their union with those of the Canada Methodist Church. Dr. R. S. Macklay, who has been a missionary in China and Japan for forty years, and the other Japanese delegates spoke in favor of the union. It was decided to amend the charter of the Missionary Society, so that its annual meetings may be held in any city of the United States, instead of in New York City, as at present. The society disburses over one million dollars annually, and it was claimed that the annual meetings attracted no attention in this city and were ignored by the press, while in other cities they would be largely attended and fully reported in the papers.

The committee on the Dallas Mission case reported recommending the refunding of $23,700 to the persons who purchased the property from the Missionary Society. The property is located in Dallas, Ore., and was sold by the society after their rights to the land had been certified by the Secretary of the Interior. The Supreme Court has decided, however, that the society had no rights to the land. The refunding of the money was ordered as recommended.

In the assignment of the bishops to the episcopal residences they are to occupy for the next four years the choice of location falls to them in the order of seniority, the last elected having only Hobson's choice. At a meeting of the Board of Bishops at St. Paul's Church, Fourth avenue and Twenty-second street, after adjournment of the Conference yesterday, it was settled that Bishop Bowman should remain in St. Louis, Bishop Foster in Boston, and Bishop Merrill in Chicago. Bishop Andrews comes from Washington to New York, Bishop Warren remains in Denver, Bishop Foss goes from Minneapolis to Philadelphia, Bishop Hurst goes from Buffalo to Washington, Bishop Ninde remains at Topeka, Bishop Walden goes from Chattanooga to Covington or Cincinnati. Bishop Mallalie remains at New Orleans, and Bishop Fowler remains at San Francisco.

Thus the seniors of the board provided for themselves and left to their five newly-elected colleagues Buffalo, Minneapolis, Chattanooga, Omaha or Lincoln, and all Texas from which to choose. Bishop Vincent selected Buffalo. Bishop Fitzgerald took Minneapolis. Bishop Joyce Chattanooga. Bishop Newman will decide between Omaha or Lincoln, Neb.

The closing exercises of the Conference were very affecting. Bishop Foster asked the Divine blessing and guidance, the "Mortals Awake" was sung, Bishop Bowman pronounced the benediction, and the gavel fell for the last time in declaring the Conference adjourned without day.

AMERICAN FISHERMEN GET BAIT

They Avail Themselves of the Modus Vivendi—No Bait for Frenchmen.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., June 1.—The schooner Druid arrived yesterday from a Grand Bank codfishing voyage, bringing about 180,000 pounds of fish. Capt. James L. Kenny has been absent two and a half months, and found the fish very scarce. In regard to the purchase of bait in the provinces, Capt. Kenny said he has put into Newfoundland to procure bait, and found the coast, particularly at Fortune Bay, patrolled by four Government steamers.

A large fleet of American and French fishermen had put into Fortune Bay for bait. The French boats were not allowed to buy any under any conditions, but about all the American vessels availed themselves of the modus vivendi. Capt. Kenny could not procure any bait without a license, so closely was the coast guarded. He paid for his license under protest. The French vessels that he visited were getting no fish, for they had no bait. At St. Pierre the French fishermen were in a bad state, many of their vessels not being able to leave, and they waiting in hopes that some Newfoundland fishermen would run the blockade and bring in a load of herring. He believes that this will be ruinous to the French, for they are watched more sharply than Americans, and cannot buy licenses.

A Young Wife's Attempt at Suicide.

READING, Pa., June 1.—An attempt at suicide by shooting was made last evening by the wife of Hiram K. Getz, a wealthy business man of this city. The young wife has been a great sufferer for several years past with neuralgia, and melancholy over her ill health is the only cause ascribed for the rash act. Her condition is critical.

Joseph De Golier, of Troy, Dead.

TROY, June 1.—Joseph De Golier, one of the most prominent manufacturers of this city and for many years engaged in making varnish in this city and Chicago, died yesterday.

More Civil Service Clerks.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—The House resumed consideration of the report of the committee of the whole on the Legislative appropriation bill. The amendment increasing the clerical force of the Civil Service Commission was adopted by a vote of 88 to 45.

Banker Rawson's Family Trouble.

CHICAGO, June 1.—The Appellate Court has reversed the order of Judge Shepard in the Rawson divorce case, in which he allowed Mrs. Meckie L. Rawson a large sum of money for temporary alimony and solicitor's fees. Mrs. Rawson thereby loses a large amount, and Banker Rawson gains a financial victory.

DEBATING THE TARIFF

THE FIVE-MINUTE ARGUMENTS ON THE MEASURE BEGUN.

A Motion to Change the Date When the Free List Shall Take Effect—Mr. Fuller's Nomination to be Reported Favorably.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—The five-minute debate on the tariff bill was begun yesterday afternoon. McKinley, of Ohio, asked that the bill be read through. There are sixty-seven printed pages of it. Mr. Mills replied that the reading had been disposed of when debate began. McKinley then asked unanimous consent that the bill be read. Mills objected. The Ohio man asked that the report be read. Objection was again made. Then Chairman Springer had read the rule relating to the five-minute debate for the information of members. The public ought to know it, for it will be referred to frequently in the newspapers. It provides that when a bill is taken up by paragraphs amendments to each paragraph will be in order. The person offering the amendment is allowed to speak for five minutes in defense of it, and then the chairman is compelled to recognize some member who wishes to oppose it. No member can speak longer than five minutes, except by unanimous consent. Of course all sorts of amendments can be offered to any paragraphs for the purpose of securing time for discussion.

At the rate of progress made so far it would take about three years, working every day except Sunday, to finish the bill. Mr. Adams, of Illinois, offered the first amendment, and that was to make the free list action of the bill take effect on January 2, 1889, instead of July next. He attacked the committee for placing brick on the free list, and pointed out the probable effect of Canadian competition on Chicago brick makers.

Mr. Kelly, of Pennsylvania, spoke for the Southern lumber interest, as, he said, no one on the Democratic side cared to do it. He pleaded with the House not to impoverish the poor people of Tennessee and South Carolina, and decrease the value of their splendid timber land by making lumber free.

Mr. Weaver, of Iowa, protested against any action that would fasten the lumber trust upon the farmer and rob the consumer.

Mr. Parker, of New York, offered an amendment proposing to substitute November 30, 1889, for the date given in the section. He said that the effect of the lumber clauses would be to reduce the price of lumber until our producers were ruined and the industry destroyed, when the prices would go up again.

Mr. Mills read a newspaper statement of an interview with a Chicago lumberman, to the effect that he was protected by the tariff, but not the laborer. His wages were regulated by the laws of supply and demand.

A vote was taken on Mr. Parker's amendment, resulting in its rejection by yeas 89, nays, 134.

Mr. Boutelle then proposed to make the date in Mr. Adams's amendment 1890 instead of 1889. He said that the result of the lumber tariff was shown in the fact that lumbermen on this side of the line received from 25 to 40 per cent. better wages than were paid on the Canadian side.

Mr. Lind, of Minnesota, did not believe that the removal of the tariff would cheapen lumber or affect the trusts, but he urged that the tariff caused the cutting of timber to be confined to American soil. Was that a wise thing to do? Any law that tended to hasten the destruction of our forests was not a wise law.

Mr. Boutelle maintained that the modern lumberman was the strongest conservator of the forests. There was more timber in Maine to-day than there was twenty years ago.

Mr. Lind did did not believe that the removal of a duty of $2 per thousand would drive every American lumberman out of business.

Mr. Boutelle's amendment was rejected.

Mr. Baker, of New York, had read an amendment which he intended to offer providing that in all cases a duty shall be imposed upon products on the free list whenever Canada imposed a duty on like goods.

Mr. Mills asked that debate on the section be considered as closed, but objection was made, and he moved that the committee rise. This prevailed by a vote of 122 to 89.

Senator Evarts presented in the Senate resolutions adopted by the Board of Directors of the Maritime Association of New York City, protesting against any reduction in the duty on sugars, unless a proportionate reduction of duty is made on molasses. The Board takes this action on the ground, stated in the resolution, that such discrimination would have the effect to absolutely destroy an important industry here, and transfer it to foreign countries that impose heavy duties on exports, and that at the same time it would deprive a large class of American vessels of their principal source of employment at a certain season of the year.

The Senate committee on the Judiciary returned yesterday to the consideration of the nomination of Melville W. Fuller to be Chief-Justice. The much-talked-of charges were discussed in an informal way but they were not given a very thorough investigation, as the majority of the committee do not think them worthy of serious attention. The committee will hold another meeting to-day, when it is generally expected that the nomination will be favorably acted upon, and confirmation will follow in a few days.

They Can't Accept for Another Congress.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—The House Committee on Judiciary took adverse action on Mr. Cox's joint resolution, accepting the invitation to Congress tendered by the New York Executive Committee, to attend the celebration of the anniversary of Washington's inauguration in April, 1889, for the reason that this Congress has not the power to bind its successor.

O'Neill's Labor Bill Passed.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Representative O'Neill, of Missouri, presented the Conference report on his bill to create a Department of Labor, which was accepted, and the bill passed in substantially the same shape as it came from the Senate.

BY THE WAY.

—Oh! for a Y. M. C. A. building.

—The M. E. church people will hold a sociable in the chapel this evening.

—Five dogs were sent into the hereafter at the dog pound on Wednesday evening.

—In another column will be found bargains advertised by Pope worthy the attention of all buyers.

—This evening the Mayor and Council of the borough of North Plainfield will hold their regular monthly meeting.

—The Rev. Mr. Dilts will occupy the pulpit of the Seventh Day Baptist church to-morrow morning, in the absence of its pastor.

—Today initiates the Summer season, and if the weather for the month continues as it is at present, it will be agreeable to most people.

—A resident of East Front street writes to the Board of Health in notification of this remarkable occurrence: "A dead dog has strayed upon my premises."

—Some of the firms of the city give notice in the advertising columns, that they will hereafter close at seven o'clock, every evening excepting Saturdays.

—Twenty-five guests arrived last night at Netherwood, in spite of yesterday's storm, impatient to take up their residence at the Hotel the moment its doors were thrown open.

—Mr. D. S. Roberts, the North avenue liveryman, on Friday disposed of another team of handsome bay horses. The purchaser is a gentleman by the name of Stone, who resides at Morristown.

—Elsewhere is announced the strawberry and iced cream festival by the Crescent Glee Club, at the corner of Front and Grove streets, on the evenings of Tuesday and Wednesday, June 5th and 6th.

—Some of Plainfield's very best people have already been treated by Dr. Kimbell at the City Hotel, and so thorough and satisfactory have been the results, they are very earnest in praise of the Doctor's skill and affability.

—Justice Nash yesterday rendered his decision in the case of Utzinger vs. Marx, awarding the plaintiff $25 and costs. The case was tried last week, the Justice reserving his decision at the time. The defendant will appeal the case.

—At the Friends' meeting house on Peace street, Sunday afternoon at four o'clock, a temperance service will be held under the auspices of the Friends' Temperance and Literary Society. Good speakers will be in attendance to address the meeting.

—A colored man in the employ of Mr. R. J. Shaw, had a narrow escape from losing his eyesight yesterday. He was engaged in transferring from one vessel to another some sulphuric acid, when some of the liquid came in contact with his face, terribly burning the flesh.

—Edward Cuff, the young colored man who lost a foot while attempting to board a coal train at Evona, a few days ago, was released from the Hospital on Monday, and taken to his home on Lake street. On Wednesday the lad was able to walk out with the aid of crutches.

—All of the four wards in the city are now provided with garbage and swill collectors, and solicitors are going about from house to house asking patronage. It is to be hoped that the matter of collecting swill will be heartily concurred in by the citizens, so as to leave no possible chance for disease.

Plainfield Should be Ashamed of Herself.

The sparse and scattered audience that attended the Capinini concert in Music Hall, last evening, determined the musical status of our community. The lack of appreciation and patronage accorded, destroys all probability of Plainfield being ever again favored with a company of first-class vocalists.

Our public in general has evidenced its ignorance of the better music and its best intrepreters. The Hall was crowded to hear Kellogg, who can sing no more and who is accompanied by a job lot of warblers who can sing even less. Last night but a few assembled when the opportunity was offered of hearing Campinini, who can still sing, and a company of artists each and every one of whom excelled the star in many respects.

Plainfield has never had such a concert before. THE PRESS doubts if it ever will again.

NO MAN IN HER ROOM.

A Letter from Mrs. Gaddis.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS—DEAR SIR: I wish to contradict a statement made in your edition of Tuesday, saying that I, Mrs. Nettie Gaddis, was living in seclusion for the past three years. I came to Plainfield to live three years ago, and have never secluded myself from any one. For the past year I have resided on Plainfield avenue at No. 3, and at present I am boarding with a lady who lived at the same place. I am a dressmaker and have Iworked at my business in this place. further wish to state that no one has seen any man emerge from my rooms, either in the morning or evening. The woman to whom you alluded entered my room and assaulted me while at my work, and the gentleman with whom I board ordered her to leave his house or he would have her arrested. I have not received any notice to leave my present quarters, as you so kindly term them in your paper. Please oblige me by publishing this.

Yours respectfully,
MRS. NETTIE GADDIS.

Plainfield, May 29, 1888.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. Leonard Gibson of New London, Conn., is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Wm. Wright, of Park avenue and Sixth street.

Mr. A. L. Shotwell, city treasurer of Fargo, Dakota, is visiting his mother, Mrs. E. V. Shotwell of East Second street.

Hon. and Mrs. Chauncey Shaffer of New York city, were the guests on Decoration Day, of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Burt of West Seventh street.

Mr. Griswold Harte and Mr. Cleveland—the latter the son of Jersey City's popular Mayor—were visitors to this city, yesterday, and made a welcome call at THE PRESS office.

Mr. Lawrence Meyers and family, who have been spending the Winter months in New York city, have returned to Plainfield, and taken possession of their Summer residence on East Front street.

Senator H. M. Nevius of Red Bank, the orator in Music Hall on Decoration Day, together with his wife, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Peck of West Front street, during their stay in this city.

Miss Lottie Westervelt of Somerset place, North Plainfield, entertained about eighteen of her friends and most intimate acquaintances at her residence last evening. Vocal and instrumental music, games, and a general good time was had by all present.

The funeral of the late George M. Phillips, who died suddenly on Tuesday, took place from the late residence of the deceased on Park avenue, yesterday afternoon, Rev. Dr. Ketcham officiating. Interment was made in the Presbyterian cemetery in North Plainfield.

On the first page of this issue is given an account of the last day of the Methodist General Conference. Bishop Vincent was able to secure a more desirable episcopal residence than he hoped. It was expected that nothing East of Kansas would fall to his lot, but he will go to Buffalo.

208 Miles in 312 Minutes.

As stated in THE PRESS, yesterday, the weather at Manassas, Va., was so cloudy and rainy on Wednesday morning, the Plainfield Homing Club's birds that had been expressed to that point the day before, were not released, as intended, for a Decoration Day race. Sky, air and wind were all auspicious this morning, however, and the birds were started for this city at 6:25 o'clock.

The members' lofts were represented in the race, as follows: C. E. Doane, four birds; J. Hervey Doane, six; Sanders, three; and Dorman, four. The wind at the start was with the birds, but afterwards shifted to the Northwest. As a consequence of this, and also because the birds had been shut up away from home so long, the time was slow and all came in so near together that it will be necessary to figure the variations of the different watches before the winner can be announced.

At Dorman's loft, three birds alighted together, and two entered at once, at 11:37 A. M. Four of J. H. Doane's birds arrived at the same time and three entered the loft at 11:39; but the timer's watch at this loft is said to be a little faster than the former's, which would be to the latter's advantage.

The judge's decision in the matter will be given in these columns to-morrow.

Take It as a Gift.

The frame building, formerly located on the North corner of Park avenue and Fourth street, has been standing in the roadway on East Fourth street for a week or more past. The building is to be removed to a point about 200 yards East, but the wet weather has interfered with the work of removing the structure. Some funny person tacked a notice on the front of the house with the following words conspicuously inscribed thereon:

THIS HOUSE WILL BE GIVEN TO ANY PERSON MOVING IT.

Today the house is on the move.

Woodbridge vs. Y. M. C. A.

A most interesting game may be expected on the Y. M. C. A. grounds, Saturday, from the fact that the last game between the above nines was tied at the ninth inning at which time the home team was obliged to take the train for this city.

The "Crescent" nine will put a strong team in the field, and it is hoped that W. Cadmus will pitch, although G. Cadmus—who will be passing his final examinations at college—cannot be present to catch.

BISHOP VINCENT'S RECEPTION.

A Large Audience Greets the New Bishop in the M. E. Church.

A large audience was present in the M. E. Church, Tuesday evening, on the occasion of a congratulatory reception given to Bishop John H. Vincent, D. D., LL. D., by the Plainfield Methodist church. An orchestra from New York was stationed in the rear of the pulpit and discoursed pleasing music.

When Bishop Vincent entered the church and took his seat beside Bishop Warren on the platform, he was greeted with applause. Rev. Drs. Hurlbut and Ketcham also occupied seats on the platform. Among those of the city clergy noticed in the gathering were, Rev. Messrs. Richards, McClintock and Koechli. Rev. A. V. V. Raymond formerly pastor of the Trinity Reformed church was present during the latter part of the proceedings. The pulpit was neatly decorated with choice flowers.

Mr. James McGee presided. In an informal way he said that the whole of this evening is directed to one end—that we may receive our new Bishop, Dr. John H. Vincent. Rev. Mr. Meeker led in prayer, after which Mr. McGee read a telegram from Rev. Dr. Tuttle, a former pastor of the church, and a congratulatory letter from Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, regretting his inability to be present.

Mr. McGee was the first speaker, on behalf of the church. He cautioned the new Bishop not to forget his flock in Plainfield and told of the pleasant relationship Dr. Vincent had with the church for upwards of twenty years.

Rev. Dr. Ketcham spoke on behalf of the clergy, and warmly congratulated the new Bishop, whose removal to a distant field of labor he said would be regretted by all.

Rev. Dr. Hurlbut, Corresponding Secretary of the Sunday School Union and Tract Society was next introduced. He spoke in behalf of Chautauqua movement and gave greetings to the new Bishop.

Bishop Warren spoke at length on the curious experiences the new Bishop would encounter, and stated that Bishop Vincent would look over the whole world with a sense of ownership. Many changes would come in his life, but all will be great and glorious.

The congregation arose and received Bishop Vincent, who followed with a few remarks. He said he had lived here since November, 1866, with the exception of four years absence at New Haven. "I love Plainfield," Bishop Vincent said, "and I know of no other place on the planet where the spirit of Christian love is so well developed as here. I promise you first, in my new field of labor I shall be a Sunday school worker. Second, I shall continue to be as practical a Chautauquan as I ever have been. Third, I promise you, that notwithstanding my relationship with the Methodist Episcopal church, I shall not sever my relationship with the members." The Bishop said he did not yet know where he would go, and stated that he should carry with him pleasant memories of Plainfield.

A reception followed in the chapel, where congratulations were heaped upon the new Bishop from all sides.

WESTFIELD.

(The PRESS is for sale by W. W. French.)

A strawberry and iced cream festival was held in the Presbyterian church parlors last evening. A large number were in attendance, and an enjoyable time had by all.

Our popular druggist, Geo. A. Bayard, after having a new ceiling put in his store, is now having a hard wood floor put down and is painting and remodeling the whole interior, which when finished will present a neat and attractive appearance.

Mr. John Dorval, the gentlemanly and obliging young man who mixes and otherwise attends to the wants of the customers in Bayard's drug store, and who is the captain of Westfield's "Thursday-Night" bowling club, while playing a practice game a few evenings ago, succeeded in making the remarkable score of 279, which beats all past scores made on Gale's alley, and is the second best ever made in the State, the highest being 290. Mr. Dorval is also one of the best general average players in town.

Wm. B. Chamberlin died at his residence on North avenue, yesterday afternoon, at 5:30 o'clock. He was in the 55th year of his age, and had suffered at intervals for years, from a complication of ailments, principally Bright's disease of the kidneys, which was the immediate cause of his death. He was a member of the Odd Fellow's Lodge and also of Bucket & Engine Co., No. 1. The funeral services will be held in the Baptist church on Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Interment in Greenwood Cemetery, N. Y.

Decoration Day was quietly observed in Westfield. Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., of Plainfield, of which there are several members here, arrived at about 10:30 A. M., accompanied by the Plainfield Cornet Band and several stage loads of school children. They were met at the Broad street crossing by the Westfield members of the Post and the different fire companies, where a line of march was formed, led by Rev. Messrs. Cadwell, Patton, Owen and Folwell; members of the Town Committee and other officials. Upon arriving at the cemetery a prayer was offered by Rev. Mr. Folwell, and appropriate remarks made by Rev. Mr. Owen, after which the members of the Post proceeded to decorate the graves of those with whom they had fought to preserve our country's flag.

BY THE LADIES HOSPITAL BOARD.

A Year of Christian Women's Work.

As promised in THE PRESS, is given below the Tenth Annual Report of the Ladies Auxiliary Board of Muhlenberg Hospital:

The Ladies Auxiliary Board of Muhlenberg Hospital, celebrates this year its tenth anniversary. Years of active service have been fraught with discouragements at times—especially so at the commencement of the work, when opposition seemed paramount. Many considered the building premature for a town the size of Plainfield; but, like all other good enterprises, prejudice weakened and today we stand upon the heights of victory, for "Humanity, weak and helpless in the deep dark places of earth, will never cry in vain for help or deliverance unto any one who wears God's crown of royalty upon the cross."

"The poor thou lear'st them always to our care,
And what we do for them, we do for thee;
Thou lovest them; then be our deeds our prayer.
Who helps thy loved ones, doeth most for thee."

FINANCE.

Friends have reciprocated generously when solicited, so that our Treasury has been replenished from time to time, and also by a few special exertions, viz: A lawn party held the first year on Miss Kenyon's seminary grounds, July 11, 1878, when $375.50 was realized; a dramatic entertainment given by the Plainfield Reading Society in 1879, when the net proceeds amounted to $250. In May 1881, a bazaar was held in Vandeventer Hall, which was well patronized, and considering that it was open only one afternoon and two evenings, we felt we had succeeded when we placed $1,660 into the treasury. A fair held Nov. 18 and 19, 1884, proved more effectual, as we raised 2,248.40. An entertainment given by Madame Alberti added $91.16; and the fair held Dec. 1, 2 and 3, 1885, more than reached our expectations (having had one the preceeding year) by giving us $1,500.60. We would especially mention a parlor sale given last Oct., 1887, by some little girls of Netherwood at the residence of Mrs. Henry E. Bowen, when the sum of $59.63 was procured. Even the little ones have contributed in various ways towards carrying the work along.

This present year the receipts have amounted to $992.98, while our expenditures have been $776.32 leaving a balance of $226.96 in the hands of our treasurer.

In the ten years we have with donations, dues, fines, subscriptions, and with the special efforts above mentioned, raised $10,000 dollars, for which we feel grateful and encouraged, so that today we are free from debt, and stand on a better financial basis than in any preceeding year. Perhaps it would be well to speak of the tencent scheme projected by Miss White (but entirely independent of our Board) in which our ladies have assisted in circulating the papers. The last report was very encouraging, as $500 had been placed in her hands already. This, with the $59.63 raised by the little girls of Netherwood, is to be appropriated towards the proposed addition of the Hospital building, which is so much needed. Our Board has promised $700 to the Governors Board when desired.

OFFICERS OF THE BOARD.

PRESIDENTS.

We have had comparatively few changes in our officers. At the organization of the Board, March 19, 1878, Mrs. Charles E. Hart was elected President; but at a special meeting held May 28, for considering the Constitution and By-laws, an election of officers was held; when—Mrs. Hart declining nomination—Mrs J. T. Johnston was elected. At the next regular meeting, held June 27, 1878, Mrs. Johnston having declined the office, Miss E. E. Kenyon was unanimously chosen, and served in that capacity until May 27, 1880, when Mrs. Augustus Saltzman was elected and held the position until May 29, 1884. Unwilling to accept for another year, she was succeeded by Mrs. F. S. Wells of sainted memory, who had been a regular attendent of nearly every meeting from the organization of the Society, and continued to be so until her last sickness. The very latest service rendered outside of her home, was to the inmates of the Hospital as a faithful visitor. She loved the work and we miss her encouraging words which were so helpful. Still her works do follow her, and she is permitted to reap the reward. At the close of her presidential year she absolutely refused to keep the position longer; whereupon Mrs. Rowland Cox was elected, and has faithfully performed her duties two years. Then declining to serve longer, Mrs. Edgerton was chosen and still occupies the position.

VICE PRESIDENTS.

At the meeting held June 27, 1878, Mrs. Lissignola was chosen for Vice President, and continued to serve until May 27, 1880, when Mrs. A. Saltzman took the position and remained in office until May 26, 1881. On that date Mrs. Wells was elected and continued in office until May 29, 1884. Mrs. Samuel Huntington took the office at that time and retained it until May 26, 1887, when Miss Mary Tweedy was elected, who is still our Vice President.

SECRETARIES.

March 19, 1878, Mrs. Samuel Huntington was elected Secretary and Treasurer, but at the special meeting which was held May 28, Miss Emilie Schipper was chosen for Secretary, and served well and competently until May 29, 1884, when Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson was elected.

TREASURERS.

Mrs. H. D. Burlingham was elected Treasurer, May 28, 1878, and still retains the office. We can all testify to her ability and faithfulness in this the most arduous office, and hope her name will continue in this office for many years.

Officers stand as follows for year ending May 25, 1888:

Mrs. M. E. Edgerton, President; Miss Miss Mary Tweedy, Vice President; Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson, Secretary; Mrs. H. D. Burlingham, Treasurer; Mrs. W. E. Lowe and Miss Mary Tweedy, Auditors.

MEMBERSHIP.

There have been eighty-one active and twenty-four associate members. A few names have been transferred from the former to the latter—the ladies finding it impossible to meet with us every month, and perform their duties as visitors. We number at the close of this present year, forty-five active and thirteen associate; the largest membership ever upon the Secretary's book. Having at the commencement of the year, only thirty-three, we have been privileged to add fifteen new names. Two have left the active for associate, and one has removed from the city.

ATTENDANCE.

The average attendance has been, considering increased membership, nearly the same. While we stood 12⅔ last, it has been 15⅓ this year. We have changed the time of meeting to Friday morning instead of Thursday afternoon, in order to accomodate many of the ladies, who could leave home better at that time, and the attendance has not decreased by making the change.

VISITING COMMITTEE.

The visiting committee, six in number, has been appointed by the President each month, and the ladies have faithfully attended to their duties, both in visiting patients, and purchasing necessary articles. Five hair-mattresses have been placed in the men's ward; a new carpet in Mrs. Walrod's room, and a new rug for dinning-room, the old rug being transferred to an upper room. There have been numerous articles purchased, but the Secretary is unable to mention them, not having a list. There being a demand for sheets, both in private rooms and in wards, the ladies present at the February meeting offered to donate one pair each. Thanksgiving and Christmas were remembered by kind friends; and our President, Mrs. Edgerton, at our November meeting, stated her intention of placing a Christmas tree in the Hospital and wished to remember each member of the household. The ladies of the associate and active membership, contributed towards the gifts for the patients, nurses and servants, as well as for the private purse to the efficient Superintendent, Mrs. Walrod. Those present at the tree can testify to the taste and hard labor of our President, as well as the pleasure it gave to those receiving the gifts. We all felt, while the young ladies were singing, as we looked into the bright faces of the recipients, certainly "it is more blessed to give than to receive." We would remember with gratitude all those who have by their donations rendered it so easy for us to make it pleasant and comfortable for the suffering ones, and sincerely hope each heart thus prompted to lessen another's sorrow or grief, may enjoy in its fullest measure the satisfaction of more of the Christ-love and life.

We cannot close without a loving tribute of remembrance to the four "not lost to us, but gone before," Mrs. J. L. Brewster, Mrs. J. H. Cuthbert, Mrs. F. S. Wells and Mrs. J. H. Whiton, whose generous impulses, and kindly interests, aided so materially in the good cause; and we would reverently speak of the two physicians, Dr's Burlingham and Hart, who first projected this enterprise. They were permitted to see the building planned and erected; were faithful to the last degree in serving the sick, and looking after the Hospital's best interests.

Who shall tell what vast influences for good have emanated from the project born of a thought, and reared to soothe, bless and uplift the poor and the weary ones of earth. God alone can estimate the true value of body and soul serving. May we each be faithful, and do our part in the blessed mission.

Respectfully submitted,
M. D. TOMLINSON, Sec.

New Market's Mail Improved.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—The P. M. explains that the mail leaves here earlier than the Dunellen mail. I have not in my correspondence at any time, reflected in the slightest degree upon the dispatching of mail matter from this point. The benefit of the early start was entirely lost by the system of return, which would remind one of a man going to Plainfield to dispose of a load of eggs and returning by the way of the Yellow Tavern at Bound Brook, as the nearest way back to this point.

However, the difficulty seems to have ended, and our mail facilities improved, as a communication from Plainfield mailed at 4:30 P. M., was delivered here the same evening.

BROAD BRIM.

Coffee for the Firemen.

Chief Doane of the Plainfield Fire Department, has been enlisted by the ladies of the W. C. T. U., to assist them in establishing a system for providing the firemen with coffee. The intention is to run a coffee cart, so that the men when they become wet and tired can have something to warm and cheer them up. The Chief is heartily in favor of the project, and will do all in his power for the success of the undertaking.

—The colored people of Mt. Olive Baptist church, continued their strawberry and iced cream festival, in the church, last evening. The attendance was large, and the financial receipts were encouraging.

General Telegraphic Despatches.

GEN. FISK FOR PRESIDENT

NOMINATED BY THE PROHIBITIONISTS BY ACCLAMATION.

John A. Brooks, of Missouri, Nominated For Vice-President—Woman Suffragist Question—Features of the Platform.

CLINTON B. FISK.

INDIANAPOLIS, June 1.—Chairman St. John rapped the Convention of the National Prohibition Party to order and at the same moment the Missouri delegation entered the hall with a banner bearing the names of Fiske and Brooks. Considerable applause was elicited, but it was not general.

The convention immediately proceeded to get into a tangle on the rule limiting debate on the suffrage question, those most interested in this probable plank in the platform objecting seriously to so circumscribing debate. Those favoring an extension of the time of the debate were led by the Rev. W. T. Mills, of Ohio and Delegate Bascom of Massachusetts. The latter gentleman moved to extend the debate on the suffrage plank to four hours, the leading speakers to be selected by the two parties and confine the debate to them. On this the previous question was moved and it was voted down. The rules were then adopted as reported, and thus the first battle on the suffrage question ended without a decisive victory for either side, as various delegates favorins the extension of time oppose woman suffrage

The report of the Committee on Finance was presented. It recommends the adoption of the National Committee's plan already formulated, for an assessment by States with the additional provision that voluntary contributions be taken in the Convention. The report of the Comm ttee was adopted, and $25,000 was soon collected. P. F. Sturtevant of Boston gave $2,000; J. B. Hobbs of Illinois, $1,000; R. H. McDonald of California, $1,000; W. J. Demorest of New York, $500; the Missouri delegation, $1,000; J. K. Johnson of Grand Rapids, Mich., $1,000; A. A. Wheeler of Chicago, $2,000, and Rev. Mr. Mahony of St. Paul gave $100.

The Resolutions and Platform Committee presented its report. The platform declares against the manufacture and sale of liquors, and says it should be a public crime; that national constitutional amendments are necessary; that any form of high license is contrary to good government; arraigns old parties for complicity with the liquor crime; declares for immediate abolition of internal revenue; that the right of suffrage rests not on color or nationality, and that where it has been withheld it should be restored; that public revenue be raised by import duty and equitable tax on property, but that no surplus should be accumulated; that civil appointments should be based on moral and educational qualities for the abolition of polygamy, for the preservation and defense of the Sabbath; that arbitration is the wise method of settling disputes between nations and large employers and employes; declares in favor of equal wages for men and women for equal work; that immigration laws should be so constructed as to prevent pauper and convict emigration.

John M. Olin, the only dissenting member of the committee, presented a minority report in which he thought it would be unwise to place in the platform any indorsement of women suffrage. The majority report was adopted by a two-thirds vote.

In the evening the roll of States was called for nominations for the Presidency. Silence prevailed until the name of the State of New Jersey was called. Then arose such cheering as had not before been witnessed in the Convention. Judge Morrow took the rostrum, and in an eloquent speech proceeded to place the name of Gen. Clinton B. Fisk before the Convention. As he closed the Convention rose, and as one man with one impulse saluted the mention of his name. Cheer followed cheer in such rapid succession that it was impossible to distinguish them. As soon as the Convention quieted down a dozen voices were heard moving that Clinton B. Fisk be nominated by acclamation. Amid applause the question was put and carried without a dissenting voice. The nomination was then confirmed by a rising vote.

The call of States was then begun for nominees for Vice-President. Alabama placed in nomination John T. Tanner. When Georgia was reached Sam Small nominated George W. Bain, of Lexington, Ky. Mr. Bain, immediately after the enthusiasm caused by the mention of his name had died away, pleaded with the Convention not to consider his name. Cries of dissent were heard, but he insisted that he would be more valuable on the stump as an agitator. The next nomination was that of John A. Brooks, of Kansas City, Mo. The applause with which the name was greeted was hearty and general. Mr. Bennett, of Kansas, nominated Sam Small, of Georgia, who immediately declined to run. Texas nominated E. L. Dohonry. At the close of the roll call John T. Tanner, of Alabama, withdrew in favor of Mr. Brooks. Mr. Cranfill withdrew Dohonry, and then, on motion of Mr. Christian, of Illinois, the nomination of John A. Brooks was put through by acclamation with a rush.

The Kaiser Visits His Father's Tomb.

BERLIN, June 1.—Emperor Frederick had a satisfactory night. The police now refuse to allow the people to throw flowers and petitions into the Emperor's carriage when he is driving. Prince Bismarck had a long interview with the Emperor, remaining until 5 o'clock last evening. Afterward the Emperor and Empress drove in an open carriage to Grunewald. They returned at 6 o'clock, when the Emperor paid his first visit to the mausoleum since the funeral of the late Emperor William. Kneeling beside the coffin of his father his Majesty offered a silent prayer.

THE DOCTORS PUZZLED.

A Man Hurt at the Frederick, Md., Explosion Now Expectorating Powdered Glass.

FREDERICK, Md., June 1.—A singular case is puzzling the physicians here. On Monday evening, when the explosion occurred during the fire at C. S. Zeller's grocery, Peyton Brown, a colored man, was one of the many injured. Now he astonished the doctors and every one else who sees him by spitting out of his mouth at frequent intervals fine pieces of glass in an almost powdered state. It appears that Brown was struck by a large quantity of glass from the front windows of the stor when the explosion happened. The most of the stuff struck him in the region of his stomach, and when he was examined his chest and the upper portion of his abdomen were found to be perforated in many places. It is supposed that the glass lodged in the flesh so deeply that it soon worked its way through into the victim's stomach, and that he is now by a gradual process of expectoration getting it out of his system.

About 150 persons in all were injured by the explosion and the number of men walking about the streets with their heads or arms bandaged is so large that the scenes sometimes presented on the main thoroughfares are such as to give a stranger the impression that a riot must have recently occurred in this usually quiet town. Edward Hauck, one of the firemen hurt, is in a very precarious condition.

It is now discovered that the fire was not caused by an explosion of gasoline. The gasoline caught fire, but did not explode. Soon it melted the leaden pipe that connected the gas pipes in the stores with the mains in the street, and, the gas escaping, filled the whole house, so that when the firemen entered the house with a light to put out the fire the gas was ignited, causing the disaster.

Accidents With Firearms.

HAZLETON, Pa., June 1.—Mrs. Ann McClafferty, a well-known lady of Yorktown, was shot yesterday by her son Hugh. He playfully pointed a shotgun at a girl who was visiting the house and the weapon was discharged. Mrs. McClafferty received the contents in the face. The woman's injuries are fatal.

POUGHKEEPSIE, June 1.—Frank R. White, aged 11 years, jokingly pointed a gun at Mary E. Lester, aged 6½ years, pulled the trigger, and blew the top of her head off, killing her instantly.

CHICAGO, June 1.—Mrs. David A Colbert, a bride of two weeks, and but 17 years of age, was accidentally shot and killed by her husband yesterday.

The Kankakee Line Cuts Rates.

CHICAGO, June 1.—The Kankakee has made some change in the passenger rates that will hasten the settlement of the troubles between the lines in interest. A rate of $5 was made from Chicago to Indianapolis and return, while the round trip rates between Chicago and Louisville and Chicago and Cincinnati were fixed at $8, a reduction of $3.

Her Shoes Torn Off by Lightning.

SHARON, Pa., June 1.—Sarah, a young daughter of William Edmonds, of Wheatland, was lowering a window yesterday just as a storm came up. A flash of lightning struck the house, passing through the girl's body, and tearing off her shoes. She died before medical aid could be summoned.

Fire in a Hospital.

PHILADELPHIA, June 1. — The hospital building, one of the three structures comprising the University of Pennsylvania, located at Thirty-fourth and Spruce streets, West Philadelphia, burned yesterday. The building was completely gutted.

ON THE DIAMOND FIELD.

An Off Day for Baseball Yesterday—But One League Game Played.

NEW YORK, June 1.—At 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon when the umpire called "play" at the Polo Grounds the Pittsburg players were absent. The New Yorks took the field, with Wildman in the box. He pitched several balls to Murphy, then the players began throwing the ball over the field amid many jocular remarks from the people on the grand stand. After waiting nine minutes, the umpire called the game in favor of the New Yorks by a score of 9 to 0, and the players came in from the field.

An Old Paper With a New Name.

ST. LOUIS, June 1.—The old Missouri Republican appeared in a new dress througout yesterday, with the announcement that Chas. H. Jones, recently of the Florida Times-Union, is editor, and that Chas. W. Knapp is publisher and business manager. The name is changed to the St. Louis Republic and the price is reduced to 3 cents a copy, with a proportionate reduction by the year. The Republic is the first of the older papers in St. Louis to reduce the 5-cent rate, and Cincinnati is thus left as the only one of the important cities of the country in which that price is maintained.

Boycotters Fined and Jailed.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 1.—Otto Schiebel, Julius Waltzgott and Gregar Gersl, for conspiring to compel Joseph Weibel, a brewer, to discharge his foreman, Joseph Schneider, who was obnoxious to the New Haven Brewers' Union, and for establishing a boycott on Weibel, have been found guilty. Waltzgot and Gersl were fined $75 and costs each, and Schiebel, who is secretary of the brewers' union, was fined $ 200 and was sent to jail for six months.

Preferred Liberty to Reformation.

NEWARK, June 1.—Joseph and Herman Romacher, boys, succeeded in escaping from Police Headquarters yesterday, and their absence was not discovered until everything was in readiness to send them to the reform school, where they were to go until their 21st year for theft. They had picked the lock of their cell and had passed through the court room, now undergoing repairs, into the street without being observed by the workmen.

Dr. James Freeman Clarke Dying.

BOSTON, June 1.—The Rev. Dr. James Freeman Clarke is on his death bed. He is suffering with a complication of diseases from which recovery is impossible. He may live for several days, but it is not expected that he will survive the week.

Of Interest to Laboring Men.

A union of photographer workmen has been organized.

Another strike among the cigarmakers has taken place at Glaccum's factory, New York. The cause of the strike was a reduction of $2 a thousand on making cigars.

Joseph Franz, of New York, has been elected a member of the National Executive Committee of the Tailors' Progressive Union. It has been decided not to hold a national convention this year.

The Progressive Painters' Union, of New York, has decided not to work with painters who refuse to become American citizens, or with those who have not resided in the States for one year. The importation of contract labor was also denounced.

A conference will be held among the union bakers in New York and vicinity on June 8, for the purpose of discussing the best way in which to work for the abolition of Saturday night work. The question of joining with the Knights of Labor will also be discussed.

DON'T PROCRASTINATE.

Some Mistakes of Young People—They Are Not Pleasant to Remember in After Years.

One mistake made by young people is to imagine they will have more time to do things as the years advance.

Alas for the books we put off reading until "after while!" I did not read "Sanford and Merton," or any of Richardson's books, or Gulliver, in due season, and now shall never have time or patience to wade through them. I am "going" to take a course of Henry Thoreau yet; but blessed be that good leap which brought Bunyan and D'Aubigne, and Plutarch to my hands in childhood. And "Swiss Family Robinson," and the real Crusoe, and Cowper—who has to be loved and studied daintily. The true leisure period is that happy age before responsibility settles down upon you like a hen that has taken a large nest-contract. Then are summer landscapes or winter evenings woven into tales, so that Hawthorne's "House of the Seven Gables" will forevermore associate closely with rain, wet grass and the scent of many roses, while "Kenilworth" seems to glisten with snow crystals.

And alas for the short-hand we were "going" to learn; for the practical use we meant to make of botany; for the free-hand drawing not yet attained to! Alas for many things!

And directly on the heels of this mistake follows that other one of imagining that they can do every thing. They can not, though it sometimes takes considerable pressure to condense their steam to the points where they will find their motive power.

Another mistake of young people's is to see the whole world in league against them, or, on the opposite hand, the whole world created solely for their benefit. It is hard to say which class of youths is the most harassing. Both tear your heart; the one with useless repinings, the other with overriding selfish demands. This one fact ought to be sufficient proof of the life hereafter—namely, that we grow to middle age before we get enough common sense to lubricate our passage through this world. Our long beginning must mean eternity for completion. Boys and girls never know—how can they know it?—that the world was created neither for nor against them. It is no more, no less, than the good old hearty world, kindly indifferent to them until they make themselves of value to it.

And what a mistake it is for them to think with resentment that their parents feel infallible! Their poor parents, who are but older children harassed by care and anxious love!

Many are the blunders of these experimenting new-comers; but their most serious mistake is to think they can do foolish forbidden things without paying the penalty forever afterward—that they can play with danger like children touching the cars of a freight train with daring finger-tips as it rattles past the platform.

David begged that the sins of his youth should not be docketed against him in the court of Heaven. He felt that their memory and the consequences of them were as much as he could bear—penalties which could never be taken away.

MARY H. CATHERWOOD.

THE TREASURY VAN.

The Odd-Looking Vehicle Which Hauls Uncle Sam's Millions About Washington.

Every morning a heavy, dismal-looking vehicle that in Chicago or New York would at once be supposed to be a "Black Maria" with its freight of criminals going to or from some jail, may be seen standing at one of the little Fifteenth street doors of the Treasury building in Washington. Two splendid large Percherons are hitched to it. The vehicle is massively built on the pattern of the modern street herdic. The hind wheels evidently bear the greater portion of its load. Over the entire vehicle is a roof as well made as that of a palace car. In the summer time a second roof like the fly of a tent is stretched over this to keep off the hot rays of the sun. The sides of the big van are panelled in strong timbers firmly ironed together. On the seat sits a smooth-faced old Irishman, Jerry, who has driven this van now for nearly fifteen years. By his side sits a well-dressed person who seems to be a detective. His little black eyes are forever glancing about him as if he suspected some danger. He keeps his right hand under the skirt of his coat. Possibly there is a revolver underneath it. The only opening to this van is at the rear, where there are two doors locked by heavy steel bars which are fastened in place by large tumbler padlocks.

Around the rear of the van are six well-dressed individuals who have apparently

nothing so do but keep their eyes open and their hands conveniently near certain inside pockets of their coats. These, too, are undoubtedly detectives. When the doors of the van are opened, four or five stout clerks and colored men trundle out from the cellar of the Treasury a small safe, push it up into the van, lock the stout doors, old Jerry whips up the Percherons, the six detectives jump on behind clinging by the steel bars, and the van rolls off down Fifteenth street and the avenue to the Pennsylvania depot.

This is Uncle Sam's treasure van. It has carried untold millions of gold, and silver and notes back and forth from the Treasury building. "Sure, I don't know," says Uncle Jerry, "how many tons of silver and gold I've hauled. Hardly a day but there's a million or two, and we have never lost a dollar, nor a nickel." This mass of treasure going back and forth is for the various sub-treasuries.

More Salt.

"Now," said the country school superintendent, who was examining a class in spelling at the annual exhibition, "who can spell 'psalter?'" Little boy in the corner raised his hand.

"Please, sir, I can," said the youth.

"Very well. Speak loud so all can hear."

"P-s-a-l, psal, t-e-r, ter, psalter."

"That is correct. Now who can define the word?"

"I kin!" exclaimed a bright-eyed urchin, as he almost clambered out of his seat in a frantic endeavor to obtain the chance to distinguish himself.

"Yes, yes, Johnny. I see you. Get back into place in your proper position; then you may explain the meaning of the word before the class. There, that's it. Now, what does 'psalter' mean?"

"More salt," shouted the boy, at the top of his lungs.

A VEIN of coal over six feet thick has been discovered at Knobnoster, Kan.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Toting Wood Into the Capitol—Children in the House and Senate—A Monster Petition.

[Special Correspondence.]

"Fo' de lam', boss, I'se done gone dead. Dis totin' wood up dese yere stairs takes de bref all out of my pore ole body."

This was a remark made to me this morning by one of the most dismal, sorry-looking figures in the Capitol—one of the colored wood-carriers. There are a score of these poor black fellows who seem to be all day busy carrying huge burdens of heavy hickory wood up the long marble flights, of stairs to the various committee-rooms.

There are something like eighty open fireplaces in the Capitol, and on all of them, from early morning till late at night, a bright, hot fire of hickory is kept burning, and to supply the eager and consuming appetite of these eighty fire-places a dozen negroes are kept toiling to overcome the law of gravitation, and "tote" the cord-wood up-stairs. They carry it on a contrivance something like a hod-carrier's "partner." It is an inverted sawhorse, with long arms or legs sticking up like big V's and with a liberal allowance of sheepskin to make it rest easy on the shoulder a pretty big load can be taken.

Notwithstanding that it seems a good deal like a luxury to have these open fires, for it takes between three and four hundred cords of wood a winter to keep them going, they undoubtedly pay for themselves many times over in the ventilation which they afford to the close and illy-planned committee-rooms.

There is a wide difference between the Senate and the House in many usages and rules, but in none is there a more decided dissimilarity than in the way they treat children. Whoever saw a child on the floor of the Senate when that body was in session? The "grave and reverend seignors" would not deign to notice or even admit to their presence one of these little ones. Over in the House, however, members are glad to have the little folks come in, and it is not an uncommon sight to see half a dozen bright-faced little boys and girls scampering about or perched on the knees of some old war-horse of debate, chattering away as happy as birds.

It is rather hard to understand why the Senators offend the Scriptural injunction to be kind to the least of these little ones, for many of them are passionately fond of little children. Senator Ingalls likes nothing better than to take three or four of his pretty daughters for a long stroll every afternoon. I have seen Senator Sawyer on all fours in his library playing elephant with his little grandson and the whole family standing around shrieking with laughter to see the circus. Senator Evarts is very fond of children and has a score or more of little pets, with whom he has a regular outing every few days. William E. Chandler is another Senator who is happiest in the society of children, and he is never quite so happy as when he is romping with little Hale Chandler up and down the floor of the parlors in his I street house. Senator Spooner and his little eight-year-old boy, Phil, are almost inseparable companions. Gorman, of Maryland, has a handsome boy the very image of the Senator, who meets him at the Capitol every afternoon at the adjournment for the pleasure of walking down the avenue with his father.

But for all this the dignity of the Senate would hardly endure the presence of children on the floor. It is as much as the old fellows can do to stand the pranks of the pages, and nobody has yet seen a Senator indulge in so much as a smile or a look that would in any way betray his recognition of the boys. They are treated as so many machines to fetch and carry, but never as play-fellows.

In the House it is a different thing, and it is not an uncommon sight to see a member pull some bright-faced boy to him by the ear, put his arm around him and enter into a jolly confab with him. Some of the members have a very adroit way of inviting children in on the floor when constituents call upon them at the Capitol. Dick Townshend, of Illinois, never fails to please a fond mother's heart in this way. Joe Cannon is another, who glances about the ladies reception-room regularly every day to see if there are any children from Illinois. Even the great American objector, Mr. Holman, of Indiana, is often seen escorting some handsome little girl to his seat.

The other morning a page came in from one of the rear doors of the Senate with a heavy bundle that at first sight was taken to be a big cheese. In a few minutes Senator Platt, of Connecticut, arose and formally presented the cheese, explaining that it was a remonstrance from one hundred and sixty thousand American people against the admission of Utah as a State, until a majority of the citizens of that Territory should be unmistakably opposed to polygamy.

The petition was rolled up on a reel and carried by a frame two feet and a half long and eighteen inches wide. The pieces in this frame were nicely wound with red, white and blue ribbons, and the petition itself was tied together with red, white and blue cords, ending in a large rosette with streamers. After formally going upon the records of the Senate, this unique expression of public sentiment was carried down into the room of the Committee on Territories, where it will remain during the rest of the session.

GEN. SHERIDAN PROMOTED

CONGRESS AND THE PRESIDENT HONOR THE DYING SOLDIER.

He Takes His Oath as General, Names His Staff and Issues His First Order—His Condition is Still Unchanged.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Gen. Sheridan's condition is regarded as less hopeful. The physicians have now evidently given over any belief that he can recover. It is apparently only a question of a few days at most. The fact that two physicians outside of the regular army staff have been called in strengthens the belief. It is said that at least one physician outside of army circles has been for some days assisting in the case. He found when called that digitalis had been given to an alarming extent. He substituted strychnia, a powerful nervine, and suggested the use of oxygen. The fluid which produced œdema has penetrated the abdomen and found its way into the lungs, producing congestion and a cough.

The congestion and the cough increased, and to relieve the pressure on the lungs the General was at Dr. Lincoln's suggestion bolstered up in bed, and to carry off the water which had congested the lungs cathartics were administered. This treatment seems to have been followed with some measure of success, but no great encouragement is now held out by any one.

One of the physicians said: "The situation remains about the same. Through the day General Sheridan's mind has been lucid. There has been no recurrence of the last attack, though there has been but an incomplete recovery from its effects. No new unfavorable symptoms have developed. The unavoidable excitement connected with the promotion has had no deleterious effect whatever. He slept through a great part of the night, and passed a fairly comfortable day."

The passage by the House of the Sheridan bill, the approval of the measure by the President, the nomination of General Sheridan to the place created, its confirmation by the Senate, and, lastly, the issuing of the commission, consumed very little time. In less than an hour, indeed, after the bill passed the House the commission of Philip H Sheridan as General of the Army was in the hands of a messenger for delivery at the General's residence.

General Hawley drove from the Capitol to the White House with the enrolled bill in his hand and presented it to the President in person. The nomination of General Sheridan was at once made out, and General Hawley posted back to the Senate with it. The Senate went immediately into executive session and confirmed the nomination, and upon receiving notification of the fact by telegraph, the President signed the commission, and the great compliment was complete.

Five minutes after the President had handed them the commission, Senators Hawley and Manderson, who had hurried to the White House immediately on the nomination being confirmed, were in the drawing room of the Sheridan home. Mrs. Sheridan was summoned and soon appeared. Senator Hawley handed her the commission with a few appropriate words. Mrs. Sheridan told the Senators that she thanked them and all others who had assisted in conferring this great honor on her husband.

"If anything can cure him this will," she said. "Early this morning he seemed greatly pleased when he learned of the efforts that were being made. I will show him the commission as soon as he wakes."

General Sheridan woke a few minutes after 3. His wife told him the news and the sick man seemed greatly pleased.

"That's the best tonic I've had in a week," he said.

Chief Clerk Tweedale of the War Department was sent for and soon arrived. The members of the General's staff who were in the house were summoned to the sick room and the formal oath was administered to the stricken soldier by Mr. Tweedale. While waiting for him a letter of thanks to the President, at the General's request, was prepared, and a few moments later he affixed his signature to the letter, his first attempt at writing since he was taken sick.

After taking the oath, General Sheridan, now General of the United States Army signed the necessary official papers, and immediately announced his staff to be same officers who had served him as Lieutenant-General. This appointment gives each of them the rank of colonel. He then issued his first order as General, which was a notification to the army of the appointment of his staff. Sympathetic and low-voiced congratulations were tendered to General Sheridan by those present during the simple ceremonies.

BOSTON'S DEADLOCK.

No Money for City Employes and Their Families Suffering.

BOSTON, June 2.—The Board of Aldermen and the Council of the City of Boston have been at a deadlock over the appropriation bills for a month past.

The trouble began about a half a million dollar loan to the parks. When the Council could not get this through it refused to pass any appropriation bills for the pay of the city employes, and in consequence about 8,000 men are working without pay. It was all right as lokg as the tradesmen would trust the men, but now many are refusing to grant credit.

The result is that several hundred families have no means of support and some are actually hungry. Evictions for non-payment of rent have been begun, and five or six families are already without homes. Cases of destitution have been reported to the Overseers of the Poor, who are unwilling to send city laborers to the island for the city to support. In spite of all that privrte charity can do, however, the need of succor increases every day.

Unless aid comes soon at least half of the city employes will be obliged to ask for assistance. To-day the Board of Aldermen again refused to concur with the Council, and the deadlock is as firm as ever.

Conley Becomes a Professional.

BOSTON, Mass., June 2.—Wm. Conley, the disqualified amateur sculler, has decided to become a professional, and is ready to row Joyce, of Springfield, who defeated Teneyck on Wednesday for $250 to $500 a side.

POWDERLY SUSTAINS QUINN.

The Master Workman's Suspension Illegal. A Blow to D. A. 49.

NEW YORK, June 2.—General Master Workman Powderly has given his decision in the case of James E. Quinn and D. A. 49. The decision which the Grand Master Workman was called upon to make arose out of a controversy between Quinn and William Martin, at present a city employe who is a member of the Knights of Labor, and by Quinn refused admittance to the meeting of Local Assembly No. 2,234. Charges were brought against Quinn and the local, and the assembly and Quinn were both suspended. But Quinn got around this by joining another local assembly. He was, however, finally suspended, but he ran off with the charter and the local could not hold a meeting.

The General Master Workman prefaces his opinion with a letter to the secretary in which he says:

I have reason to believe that there is a conspiracy on foot to destroy District Assembly No. 49, and when this case comes before the General Executive Board I shall state my reasons. Until that time arrives I shall continue to gather evidence. The day has gone by when District Assembly No. 49 can be continued as a power for good, unless the rank and file of the District Assembly assert their right to take charge of the practical affairs of the District Assembly. The officers cannot save it, for they do not agree with each other and will not agree to bury their differences. Such being the case, a strict adherence to law and a vigilant guard over the deliberations of each session by each and every member of District Assembly No. 49 is an absolute necessity.

In conclusion he sustains the court in suspending Quinn, but does not concur in the suspension because insufficient time was not allowed between the time that the charges were made and action taken by the local assembly.

District Assembly No. 49 met last night in Pythagoras Hall. Quinn was present and displayed the charter and the letter and decision of Mr. Powderly were read. They were not received at all pleasantly, in fact there was much strong language used against the chief of the order. No other business than the reading of the documents was transacted.

THE BIG FOUR INDICTED.

Jersey City's Grand Jury Returns Two Bills Against Swindling Officials.

JERSEY CITY, June 2.—All doubt about the finding of an indictment against the Big Four combine in the City Board of Public Works was dispelled yesterday by the batch of bills presented by the Grand Jury to the court. There was an indictment against each of the combine, Wm. F. Kern, Pearl C. Hilliard, Thos. Reynolds and John Watt, and two additional ones against Hilliard and Watt.

The members of the combine were conspicuous by their absence, and owing to this the indictments were not read. The indicted Commissioners were notified in the afternoon by court officers to appear yesterday morning and plead to the indictment. They appeared and gave bail for trial. The trial will not take place before September.

The indictment against the four Commissioners are said to contain twelve counts each, in fraudulent pay rolls and grosse misappropriation of money, especially in the Water Department, are alleged. The nature of the two additional indictments—against Hilliard and Watt, could not be learned.

Drawing the Color Line.

ALLEGHANY, Pa., June 2.—Just before the Reformed Presbyterian Synod adjourned for dinner yesterday the statement was made that Rev. G. M. Elliott, of Alabama, a member of the Synod, the day before had gone into Swoger & Son's eating house in company with Brother Matthews, of Illinois, and Brother Elliott, who is colored, was informed that he could not eat there. He was told that if he wanted a meal he could only get it by going to the kitchen. He therefore retired to the basement, where, among the cooks and servants, he ate his frugal bite. The members of the synod promptly determined to give the restaurant in question a wide berth.

A Daring Robber Gets $4,000.

OMAHA, Neb., June 2.—As Mrs. J. E. Garneau was entering her house last night she met a stranger coming down stairs from her room. The man drew a pistol and told her if she made an outcry he would kill her. He then walked from the house and down the street. Mrs. Garneau fainted. When she recovered she found that $4,000 worth of diamonds and some money had been taken from her room.

Proposed Statute to John P. Hale.

CONCORD, June 2.—Senator Chandler and Mrs. John U. Hale and her daughters, Mrs. Kensley and Mrs. Chandler, have decided to erect a statue to John P. Hale in the State House Yard of the same size as the Daniel Webster statue. The artist has not yet been decided upon, but it is thought Alex. Doyle, of New York City, will be chosen.

Three Killed and Several Wounded.

WYANDOTTE, Mich., June 2.—The boiler in the plate mill of the Eureka iron and steel works exploded yesterday, wrecking the entire building. The killed are: Terry McCoy, about 60 years old, an employe of the mill 32 years, night watchman; Patrick Finn, 22 years of age; Gerge Green, 33 years old. A number were seriously injured.

Michigan's Labor War.

GLADSTONE, Mich., June 2.—The troubles between striking dock laborers, who belong to the union and the non-union men who have taken their places, are daily becoming more serious, and the aid of the State troops may be required to quell the disturbances.

Jay Gould Reported Very Ill.

KANSAS City Mo., June 2.—Jay Gould returned to this city yesterday morning in his special car Atalanta. The car was sidetracked so that he would not be harrassed by visitors. Messengers were dispatched to a neighboring drug store for prescriptions as soon as the train reached this city. It was reported that Mr. Gould was very low, having a severe attack of illness at Omaha, and he decided that it would be best for him to return at once to New York.

ON THE DIAMOND FIELD.

New York, Brooklyn, Boston, Detroit and Chicago Clubs Some of the Winners.

NEW YORK, June 2.—Great interest was manifest in yesterday's game. The smoky City players had not only prevented the Giants from winning a game on their own home grounds, but they had divided honors with them in this city on Decoration Day. Added to this was the strong feeling the Pittsburgs forfeit of the day before had developed in baseball circles.

A Shocking Accident.

ELMIRA, June 2.—At about 6 last evening a shocking accident occured at the crossing of the Erie and Southern Central Railroad, near Waverly. Six Hungarians, employes of the latter road, were on a hand car on their way from work. While going over a bridge in the centre of a curve they were struck by a fast passenger train and hurled a great distance. Two of the men were instantly killed and four others seriously, if not fatally injured.

BY THE WAY.

—Oh! for a Y. M. C. A. building.

—All Christian women are welcome to the meeting of the Women's Class, in Y. M. C. A., Hall, Monday afternoon, at 4:45 o'clock.

—There will be an important meeting of the Mission Band in the parlors of the Crescent Avenue church, next Tuesday afternoon, at four o'clock.

—Our telegraphic advices this afternoon, state that Gen'l Sheridan still lives, the Kerr jury disagree, and Jay Gould's illness seriously alarms "the street."

—More testimonials from Plainfield citizens are added to Dr. Kimbell's list of endorsers in another column. The Doctor may be consulted at the City Hotel, during to-morrow, also.

—Nothing should be thrown away. Even an old tomatoe can when polished up and painted, with a few strips of ribbon neatly and tastefully adjusted, can be made usefulas a prize for a Progressive Euchre party.

—Mr. A. C. La Boyteaux who has so acceptably led the Young Men's Meeting on former occasions will conduct the meeting on Monday evening at the Y. M. C. A. at 8 o'clock. Spirited singing from "Gospel Hymns number five." All are welcome.

—In June the roses start their boom,
Tho' storms o'erwhelm us, still they
Are counted on to blush and bloom,
But will they? will they? will they?
We pause! No sage a guess presumes
But this we know securely;
Thro' all yet Collier's business booms,
Ah surely! surely! surely!

"Mayor Male" One of the Winners.

Below is the official record of the result of the race of the Plainfield Homing Club's pigeons, from Manassas, Va., to this city, yesterday. The birds were released at 6:25 A. M., and the time, all things considered, was good. The winners showed a speed of 1,178 yards a minute, continuously for over five hours. By comparison this is greatly to the credit of the Plainfield birds. During a recent race of the Germantown, Pa., Club, in which 58 pigeons took part, the winner's average was only 1,107 yards a minute.

An Endorsement of Some Worth.

Among the former guests who have again taken rooms at The Netherwood, and are already there for the season, are Mr. and Mrs. Ira G. Canfield. At the close of the Hotel last Fall, this gentleman and his wife were expecting to return to New York, but an opportunity being offered them of securing the charming home of Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Myers for the Winter, they remained in Plainfield. Mr. Canfield is most earnest and flattering in his endorsement of this city as a place of residence. Its social advantages, and the convenience and comfort of its railroad service, he considers unexcelled in the country. Besides being especially qualified by breeding and culture to judge of what is most desirable and necessary in a place of residence, Mr. Canfield is also particularly fitted by travel and experience to judge of the best by comparison. His endorsement of this city is, consequently, to be appreciated.

Upset and Runaway.

About half-past eight o'clock this morning, Mrs. C. V. Shaddle, of Woodland avenue, and Mr. Gratton of New York, were seated in a covered sidebar-buggy on Park avenue near the railroad bridge where their horse was stopped while a train was passing. At that time one of Mr. Henry Liefke's baker wagons came up behind Mrs. Shaddle's vehicle and collided with it. The buggy was completely overturned and the occupants were thrown into the roadway, but fortunately neither Mrs. Shaddle nor her friend were seriously injured. The horse took fright and ran away, but was subsequently caught at the corner of Park and North avenues.

Those who saw the accident assert that Mrs. Shaddle's escape from serious injury was marvelous.

EJECTED FROM A PASSENGER TRAIN.

A Prominent Plainfield Commuter Put Off a Train at Elizabeth—Who is to Blame?

When the 7:30 P. M. Philadelphia express train from New York, reached the Elizabeth station last evening, there was a scene of great excitement in one of the passenger coaches. A prominent and well-known commuter residing on West Seventh street, this city, was dragged from his seat and forcibly ejected from the train. Several other passengers in the car who had known the Plainfielder for many years past, remonstrated, but it was of no use, and a general wrangle ensued. The train was about ten minutes late when it left Elizabeth.

It appears that the commuter in question purchased a yearly ticket between this city and New York. Yesterday being the first of June, he forgot to take this month's ticket with him, and offered instead a ticket for the preceding month. The conductor reasoned with him, but refused to punch the old ticket, and demanded the payment of his fare. The commuter refused to pay it, hence his ejectment from the train.

Passengers on the train declare that the Plainfielder has a good chance for recovering heavy damages from the Company. They say that the habit of accepting a ticket of the month previous was generally practiced by the conductors, but since the wholesale discharge of the Central's conductors has taken place, and this being a Reading man, the Company's orders are followed out to the letter.

MULDOWNEY APPEALS.

Convicted on Questionable Evidence.

In the cases of the City vs. James Muldowney and wife, tried before Judge Suydam, in which in the first case Muldowney and wife were convicted—and in the second case in which the city, after swearing two witnesses, abandoned the case being unable to substantiate the charge—the principal witness for the plaintiff was one McMullen who has been in America only a few months, and who not many weeks ago, while on a spree, terrorized the citizens of the city and borough by rushing frantically up Front and Somerset streets, breaking in Smith's show windows and the windows in French's store, and was finally captured and lodged in the lock up.

The sale was denied, point-blank, by Muldowney and wife. McMullen, on the evidence of Stephen McIntyre, was shown to have returned to Muldowney's after the complaint was made, and stated to Mrs. Muldowney that when he made the complaint he was in such a condition that he did not know what he was doing. That if he had some money he would leave the town, so that he would not be obliged to swear to it. Mrs. Muldowney told him that if five cents would take him out of the country, he could not get it of her. It was also shown, on cross-examination, that he had left a board bill unpaid at Muldowney's when he left some weeks ago.

Mr. Muldowney feels that his conviction on the unsupported testimony of such a witness as McMullen—in the face of his and his wife's denials under oath and McMullen's impeachment by McIntyre—is an injustice, and has appealed the case.

Death of S. R. Pope.

By wire yesterday, Mr. Elias R. Pope received the saddening news of the death of his brother, Simeon Randolph Pope, late of Dunellen.

The deceased had gone South about a month ago, accompanied by his wife, in search of renewed health. Although so ill for some time that much anxiety was felt, yet his death was somewhat unexpected and the immediate cause is not known to the relatives here. He leaves a wife and three children—the eldest of the latter being about six years old. Deceased was forty years of age.

At the time of his death, Mr. Pope was at the small post-village of French Creek, West Virginia. There is no undertaker at the place, and it is miles away from any railroad station. Mr. David S. Pope, another brother, left at once for the South to arrange for the care of the remains and their transportation to the late home of the deceased's.

A Plainfielder Awarded the Contract.

Mr. John T. Odam, the slate roofer, of this city, yesterday entered into a contract with the Central Railroad Company for the completion of the work of roofing the new depot now in course of construction at the Jersey City terminus of the road. The building when completed will be one of the most attractive along the river front, and Mr. Odam is to be congratulated upon his success in securing so large a contract.

Meeting of the W. R. C.

A regular meeting of the Woman's Relief Corps, No. 10, Auxiliary to the G. A. R., was held last evening. Business of interest to the members was transacted. The members of the corps meet every Friday evening to ascertain whether any of the members, either of the Post or the Corps, are sick or disabled, and to render assistence whenever it is needed.

Reform Club Meeting.

Thursday's meeting of the Reform Club drew together a good-sized audience. Vice President Harper presided in his usual pleasing manner. Remarks of an appropriate nature were made by Wm. L. Smalley and Ethan Lamphear.

The Proposed Amendment to the Sunday Ordinance.

The proposed amendment to the Sunday ordinance reading as follows: "That nothing contained in section 3 of the amendment of September, 15, 1883, above referred to, shall be construed to prohibit or impose a penalty for the keeping open of barber shops, restaurants or iced cream saloons, or butcher shops, for the transaction therein of the legitimate business appertaining thereto," will come up before the Common Council on next Monday night for final action. We think it should be adopted.

We are aware that several of the clergy and some very highly esteemed citizens have protested against its adoption, but we think their opposition arises from a misapprehension of the scope and effect of the proposed amendment. The State law reads as follows: "That no traveling, worldly employment or business, ordinary or servile labor, or work, either upon land or water (works of necessity and charity excepted) * * * * shall be done, performed, used or practiced by any person or persons within this State on the christian Sabbath, or first day of the week, commonly called Sunday; and that no person shall cry, show forth or expose to sale any wares, merchandise, fruits, herbs, meat, fish, goods or chattels, upon the first day of the week, commonly called Sunday, or sell or barter the same:" and fixes penalties for so doing.

This sufficiently prohibits worldly pursuits on Sunday. To have a city ordinance with severer penalties will give rise to questions as to whether there is not a conflict between the State law and the City ordinance, and may lead to difficulties which are easily avoided by adopting the amendment in question, the effect of which will be not to permit worldly pursuits on Sunday, but simply to leave the prohibition and punishment of such pursuits where the State law has put it, in the State authorities and the State courts. We are sure nine-tenths of those who have carefully considered the State laws relative to these matters, will agree with us that they are sufficiently severe to give us all needed protection in that respect.

Again, is Plainfield to be regarded as so exceptionally derelict in respect to violation of the Sunday laws as to require both a State law and a City ordinance for their enforcement here, while in other parts of the State the State laws are found all sufficient for the purpose? Again we say, we hope the proposed amendment will be adopted.

The Work of the Boys' Branch.

At the Annual Meeting of the Y. M. C. A., the committee having in charge the "boys' work" in the Association, reported as follows:

From May 12, 1887, to April 30, 1888, fourteen meetings have been held, chiefly under the auspices of the Senior Society of the Boy's Branch. Formerly this work was divided, the Junior Class, or those under 14 years of age, being in charge of a committee of ladies, while those over 14 were organized into a society under the above title. This organization is under the general supervision of a Committee from the Association, but they elect their own officers and conduct their meetings for business. During the Fall months their meetings were held on Tuesday evenings, and with some regularity, but later it was found impracticable to continue them, as the boys occupied with their studies and other engagements of the Winter season, did not attend in sufficient numbers to warrant their continuance. We have endeavored to maintain the interest of the members in this Society by giving them from time to time instructive and pleasant entertainments, such as familiar talks on popular subjects, from persons qualified to instruct and amuse them; and there was also held during the Winter a mock trial, which was greatly enjoyed by those who witnessed it and into which the boys entered with great zest, acquitting themselves in a most creditable manner. Our object in all this is to bring the boys within the influence of the Association, familiarize them with certain features of its work, and also accustom them to parliamentary usages, which are observed in all business meetings of the Society.

In March of the present year a Junior Training Class was organized, and sessions of the same have been held regularly each Sunday morning at 9:15 o'clock, with an average attendance during the month of April of nine, and since that time with increased numbers and interest. During the warm months the boys have been kept somewhat under our sight through athletic sports, such as base ball, pedestrian excursions and trips to the sea side, and then is opportunity offered for reaching a larger number in this direction; but in the Winter these methods of attracting them to the Association are inoperative, and it is in this connection that our building project offers a desired means to this end. With a good gymnasium there would be no difficulty in bringing within the walls of our building, and presumably within its influence also, a large number of boys from 12 years of age and upwards, and this without any special effort or labor on our part. They would feel an interest in the Association as a pleasant place for recreation; would come in contact with our active members generally, and thereby be susceptible to those influences which we wish to throw around young men, and which we trust will be the means of leading them eventually into useful Christian lives. Another advantage to the boys' work resulting from a building, would be the possession of sufficient space to give them a room for their meetings which they could feel was their own. We have been and are sadly deficient in this respect, having only one available room besides the hall, and this room occupied several evenings in the week by classes or committees. If a building is needed for young men using the adjective in a somewhat elastic manner, as including those from 20 to 40 years of age, then in the boys' work the necessity is emphasized, as it is evident that the younger the person the more needful is it that indirect means to the end desired, be employed. We confidently expect that when the building is completed a large number of the older boys will be reached and won to the Association, constituting a reserve force, from which our active membership can be recruited, and who will enter the ranks of active workers, familiar with the processes and methods of Association work, and thereby prepared to do efficient service from the start.

STEPHEN CAHOONE,
Chairman of Committee.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Miss Whitman, sister of Senator Whitman, of New York, is the guest of Miss Clarkson, at "The Elms."

Miss Lena Vanaman of Somerville is visiting Miss Mabel Van Middlesworth of Warren street, North Plainfield.

The Misses Sarah and Hattie Manning will again be among the vocal soloists at two prominent New York concerts in June.

Mr. Samuel Moore of North Plainfield, a veteran of the late war, has been confined to his home by illness for the past nine weeks.

Miss Gertrude Lathrop has been seriously ill of fever, at the residence of her uncle, James Clark, Esq., of Seventh street, West.

Mr. John H. Staats, formerly proprietor of the City Hotel in this city, opened on Thursday at Chatham, N. J., the large Fairview Hotel.

Those who have been grumbling over the protracted wet weather will probably be howling next month that the grass crop is suffering for want of rain.

Mr. Fred Knowland, Fire Commissioner and ex-Councilman, made his maiden speech in the temperance cause, at a public meeting in Elizabeth, last evening.

On Decoration Day when all was sunshine, and waving flags, and beautiful flowers, and bright music, a little son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Robinson Pound, of East Second street.

Mr. James Whalen, Jr., of Sixth street, has succeeded Mr. Albert Runyon in charge of the general delivery department at the post-office, the latter having severed his connection with the office entirely.

The Messrs. Cocks and Mr. Leonard Spangenberg, of Fifth and Sycamore streets, have purchased property at Netherwood, whereon they will soon begin the erection of residences for their own occupancy.

Mr. P. B. Wright of this city, who will have charge of the Coleman House, Asbury Park, for the coming season, left for that resort yesterday to perfect final arrangements for the opening of The Coleman about the latter part of June.

At her home in Scotch Plains, last evening, occurred the death of Mary A., wife of Albert Brown, after a lingering illness from Brights disease. The deceased was in her 39th year and was beloved by all who knew her. The funeral will take place from the house, on Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, and at the Baptist church at 3 P. M.

A beautiful life-size crayon portrait of Rev. E. M. Rodman, rector of Grace church, is on exhibition at Field & Randolph's city pharmacy. The portrait was skillfully executed by Miss Florence L. Pelletreau of Brooklyn, a pupil of Prof. Whittaker of the Adelphia Institute. Miss Pelletreau also has a class at Rodman Seminary, where the pupils are taught to sketch from life.

Sunday Services.

Dr. J. L. Hurlbut will preach in Hope chapel, to-morrow evening, at eight o'clock.

The Worker's Training Classes meet in Y. M. C. A., Hall, to-morrow morning, at nine o'clock.

Services to-morrow in the Trinity Reformed church at 10:30 A. M. and 7:45 P. M. In the morning the sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be celebrated. In the evening the pastor's subject will be "A Christian's Prayer and Desire."

Services in the Park Avenue Baptist church, to-morrow—preaching by the pastor, Rev. Asa Reed Dilts, at 10:30 A. M. and 7:45 P. M. Morning subject, "The Second Coming of Christ." Evening subject, "Hindrances to a Religious Life."

Jesse H. Griffen of Amawalk, Westchester Co., New York, a prominent temperance lecturer and a member of the Society of Friends, will deliver an address in the Friend's meeting house on Peace street, to-morrow, Sunday, at 4 P. M., under the auspices of the Friends Temperance Association of Plainfield. All are cordially invited to attend.

Cutter's Hall, Lord's Day, 11 A. M.; "The Sin of Glorying in Men;" 2:30 P. M., International Bible Lesson; 7:30 P. M., "Who may properly receive Christian Baptism?" Questions on this subject invited, and replies attempted. Mr. Angleman speaks in the afternoon, and Mr. Cleaver in the morning and evening. Twenty-third week of nightly meetings. All invited who are not Christians.

The Sunday Selling Question.

The following is a garbled account of the recent difficulty between Mr. John H. Tier and the city, as quoted from a Newark paper:

John H. Tier, of Plainfield, was recently convicted of selling ice cream on Sunday, and his place has been closed. He is now procuring the names of all newsdealers and livery stable men and will seek to stop the Sunday sale of newspapers and the Sunday rental of horses and carriages. If he succeeds in shutting off the First Day people, however, there are enough Seventh Day Baptist and Hebrews in Plainfield to make things lively. When the Common Council, Mayor and Chief of Police shut up the cigar stores, Seventh Day Baptist went into the business, and now reaps a big Sunday harvest. Tht Sunday soda water trade, prohibited ae the drug stores, has gone to a Jewish firm. A negro Baptist does all the Sunday tonsorial work. In Tier's case City Judge George P. Suydam has suspended sentence until he sees what action Council takes regarding an ordinance now pending allowing butchers, barbers and ice cream saloon and restaurant keepers to do business on Sunday. The city ministers have adopted resolutions against all Sunday business except in cases of drug stores and milk vendors.

SUBURBAN SAUNTERINGS.

Testing the Sunday Law in Plainfield—A Parlor Sale Under the Management of Miss Carrie Hall.

Last Sunday being the twenty-seventh day of May in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty eight, the sky, among its other qualities, possessed one feature in common with the laws, that is it was blue. Bluer than the nose of the frozen urchin, bluer than the air when Mr. ——— misses his train, bluer than the depths of the Atlantic Ocean, bluer than all these rolled together, was the complexion of the Statute Book last Sunday in the noble city of Plainfield. Another Mayor Hewitt had arisen upon the scene and insisted upon the enforcement of obnoxious laws which people had regarded as effectually buried beneath a mass of custom and forgetfulness as if they were reposing under the waters of the Red Sea. In company with a friend, I took a stroll on Sunday afternoon in the direction of the afflicted city, in order to test the truth of the vague reports we had heard. Now the friend just mentioned would be dreadfully shocked were the fact to be published that he had tried to violate the law, for he is a most exemplary young man and would not for the world set a bad example to the rising generation, so I will call him Mr. Thomas. The first stronghold we attacked was the drug store of Mr. R. J. Shaw. The counters contained a dazzling display of Hood's Sarsaparilla, Carter's Little Liver Pills, Gin Crack's sure cure for hay fever and hasty consumption, Smitkin's Corn Eradicator (four dollar size), and other preparations for maintaining the physical proportions of the typical man. Now it so happened that Mr. Thomas was just then suffering from a severe attack of laminated bronchitis, and for this complaint, as every one knows who knows anything about Sunday laws, there is nothing quite so effective as a mild Havana cigar. But we couldn't make Mr. Shaw understand this. He had cigars, he said, but he wasn't allowed to sell them on Sunday. As we left, Mr. Thomas exclaimed, "pShaw, this is queer." I respectfully submit that considering the day, this was quite inexcusable. I told you I think, that Mr. Thomas' ailment was laminated bronchitis. The peculiarity of this species of the disease is that it is liable to come and go at the most ridiculously short notice; in fact, my friend was not troubled with it again for five minutes. The five minutes expired, curiously enough, just as we were passing a little cigar store on North avenue. We had been told that this store was kept by a Seventh Day Baptist, who was therefore allowed to sell what he pleased on Sunday. Mr. Thomas' ailment recurring at this moment with renewed violence, he hastened to procure a cigar, which afforded immediate relief. This cigar, and a quarter of a pound of peppermint drops which we obtained at a drug store, were all that we could buy in the whole city of Plainfield. We came to the conclusion that the law was pretty well observed.

All persons who care to see a very interesting display of fancy goods and other things, with an opportunity for purchase, should be very careful to attend the children's fair to be held on Wednesday, June 6, at the residence of Mr. David P. Hall. The fair is for the benefit of the Perkins Institute for the blind of Boston. The name of Dr. Howe is a sacred one to all those blind or deaf mutes who were permitted to receive instruction at his hands, and it Dr. Howe's granddaughter, Miss Carrie Hall, who originated this fair. No one who can go should fail to attend. A nominal admission fee of ten cents will be charged, and the fair will last from three to nine P. M.

Services at Hope Chapel.

Howell Division, No. 97, Sons of Temperance, will hold another public meeting at Hope chapel on West Fourth street, on the evening of Monday, June 4th. There will be appropriate music and interesting addresses. All are welcome.

Amateur Photographers.

An adjourned meeting of the amateur photographers of this city will be held at the Y. M. C. A. rooms, Thursday evening, June 7, at 8 o'clock, to mature plans for a permanent organization.

Borough Council Meeting.

Mayor Cooley and Councilmen McCutchen, Needham, Emmons and McGee, representing the Borough Council met in regular session last evening. Borough Counsel Chas. A. Reed was also present.

A petition was presented from property owners on Washington and Rockview avenues, asking that the said thoroughfares be macadamized. They agreed to contribute $600 toward paying for the work. The petition was referred.

A petition for a crosswalk on Duer street at the north side of Park Place was also referred. Sundry petitions for peddlers, cartmen and scavenger licenses were granted.

Claims were presented as follows: Job Coddington, $52.08; R. H. Radford, $4; Chas. Seibel, $3.20. Referred.

Clerk Arnold's monthly report showed a balance of $223.98 on hand. The monthly statement of the tax collector was received and filed.

Mr. McGee, from the Fire, Water and Lamps Committee, reported that two lamps had been located on Madison avenue, and Mr. McCutchen reported that a full set of the borough ordinances had been compiled.

The Street Committee reported improvements on Madison and Mountain avenues. It was also stated that a note had been given for $800 in anticipation of taxes. The Committee recommended the purchase of 1,000 tons of crushed stone and 500 tons of dust; also to macadamize the avenues above mentioned. The report was filed.

The Finance Committee reported the above bills correct, and they were paid.

Mr. Chas. A. Reed submitted a communication from Messrs. Suydam & Stillman stating that the suits of the two hackmen, Lynch and Finney, on certiorari, would be settled without further litigation upon payment of the costs amounting to $18.71 in each instance. The matter was referred to the Laws and Ordinance Committee.

A resolution by Mr. McGee to accept the $600 offered by the petitioners towards the cost of macadamizing Rockview and Washington avenues, was adopted.

A bill of $12.50, presented by Oseola Currier for services in appraising the fire department property, was referred.

A motion by Mr. McGee providing for the purchase of 1500 tons of crushed stone, prevailed, and Mr. McCutchen's motion to lay a cross walk on Craig place in a line with the easterly side of Duer street, was also carried.

Two hundred copies of the recently compiled borough ordinances, were upon motion of Mr. McCutchen, ordered printed in pamphlet form.

The same Councilman submittted a resolution, that provided for the purchase of that part of the Fire Department property now located in the borough for $3,062. The resolution also provided for the issue of six bonds of $500 each, the first to fall due on January 1st, 1890. The resolution was amended so as to provide for the issue of one bond to fall due on the date above stated, and to issue six bonds of $500 each, two coming due each year after the payment of the first. The original resolution was then adopted.

It was ordered that the bonds be advertised and that same be awarded to the highest bids. Upon motion of Mr. McGee the matter of effecting a transfer of the Fire Department property to the borough, was referred to committe on Laws and Ordinances.

A cross walk was ordered laid on Westervelt avenue, at the intersection of Manning avenue, after which the Council adjourned.

A Plainfielder Contests His Father's Will.

There is to be a contest of the will of Gen. Quincy A. Gillmore, who died in Brooklyn on April 7. The will was executed on March 31. The widow, Mrs. Laura M. Gillmore, who was the General's second wife, was to receive all the estate, with the exception of legacies of $500 to each of the four sons by the first marriage. The latter—one of whom is Mr. Edward Gilmore, of East Second street—are contesting the will on the ground of mental incapacity and undue influence.

In his petition William B. Gillmore says his father told him a year ago that in 1882, before he underwent an operation, he made a will providing for his wife and leaving the bulk of his estate to his sons. He also says that lawyer Joseph M. Greenwood informed him that when the second will was made the seals were torn from the will of 1882, which was then taken by Mrs Gilmore. He has asked Surrogate Lott to order the first will to be produced in Court. Argument on the motion is to take place today.

A Temporary Retirement from Professional Cares.

Dr. Chauncey M. Field, of this city, has been in poor health for some months past owing to overtaxing professional duties. He has consulted the ablest New York physicians and by their advice will take a needed rest, leaving his practice in the hands of Drs. Berg and Hedges. The following letter from Professor Weir, explains itself.

37 West 33rd street,
New York, May 30th, '88.

My Dear Doctor:

I have examined today our friend Dr. Field and consider it essential that he should take some rest from his work. He has never fairly treated his body since his exhausting illness of last Summer, when I saw him. He should quit work at once and for some time.

Yours most truly,
R. S. WEIR.

MOLES AND WARTS OF THE FACE, NECK, OR ANY PART OF THE BODY.

Dr. Kimbell offers $500 for a mole or wart that will baffle his skill to successfully remove.

He guarantees to cure the worst case in one treatment.

All bad cases solicited.

During the past five years Dr. Kimbel has treated 10,000 persons, ladies and gentlemen.

☞ Ladies often make up parties of from two to six and call upon Dr. Kimbell together. The most timid lady, aged person or child can have the most aggravating feet troubles radically and permanently cured and suffer nothing from the treatment.

Dr. Kimbell will furnish remedies that will cure the worst bad odor of the feet or arm pits, ingrowing nails, soft corns, and removes all soreness and swelling from the great toe joints. These remedies never fail to give immediate relief.

Dr. Kimbell's remedy for bad odor and excessive perspiration of the feet and armpits cures the worst cases in 10 days. Try it.

APPOINTMENTS:

SHOTS IN THE COURT ROOM.

Banker Rawson's Wife Fatally Wounds Her Husband's Counsel.

CHICAGO, June 1.—A tremendous sensation was caused in Judge Jamieson's court yesterday.

While the docket was being called Mrs. Meckie L. Rawson was impatiently waiting for the divorce case of her husband, Banker Rawson, to be called. Col. H. C. Whitney, her husband's attorney, was sitting at a side table writing, when the court was suddenly startled to hear a shot and Col. Whitney disappeared under the table. The shot was followed by four more in rapid succession and Mrs. Rawson was seen pursuing Whitney with a Smith & Wesson 38-calibre revolver.

Mrs Rawson succeeded in emptying her revolver at Whitney before she could be captured. Two of the balls hit the lawyer, one taking effect below the groin, the other in the left leg.

Chief Deputy Gleason was ordered by the Judge to at once remove Mrs. Rawson to the county jail, there to serve 60 days for contempt of court. The order was at once carried out. "I'm so cold," she said, as they led her into the jail yard. It was the first time she had spoken since the shooting. Then she complained of loss of sleep, but half on hour after being locked up she had comforted herself with a cup of tea and felt better.

Col. Whitney's wounds, when examined by a surgeon, proved to be serious. One bullet had passed through his right thigh, just missing an artery. The other had entered the groin. The wounded man, however, was able to limp to the elevator and afterward to a carriage, which took him to his home. There he was resting easily last night. The bullet in his groin, however, is giving his physicians a great deal of anxiety. Col. Whitney is an old-time lawyer and well known here. He was a partner of Leonard Swett, and often went on circuit with Abraham Lincoln, whom he knew intimately. Mrs. Rawson, if not crazy, is believed to be very nearly so. She, it will be remembered was under arrest some months ago on the charge of prompting her son, by another husband, to shoot Banker Rawson. The youth, a mere stripling, met his stepfather one Sunday as the latter left the church door, after morning service, and deliberately shot him. Rawson lay between life and death for some days, and then finally recovered.

Eighteen Years in One Cell.

KENOSHA, Wis., June 2.—Members of the State Board of Charities and Reform have been investigating the case of an insane man, near Truesdell, this county. The man, who is 50 years old, is alleged to have been confined in a locked and barred cell in an outhouse for eighteen years. The cell was foul and the man had simply a blanket to cover him. Once or twice a week in warm weather he was taken from the cell and it was scrubbed, but it is claimed that he has not been taken out in Winter at all.

North Carolina Democratic Convention.

RALEIGH, June 2.—The Democratic State Convention has completed its State ticket. The platform cordially endorses President Cleveland and a tariff tax reduction, and calls for the abolition of the internal revenue, root and branch.

CONDENSED DESPATCHES.

C. P. Huntington is wanted in Louisville for contempt of court.

A drunken man at Sharon, Pa., yesterday shot and killed his sister-in-law.

The loss by recent storms in the Allegheny Valley is estimated at $1,000,000.

A despatch from Rome says that the Pope will send a comforting address to the Irish bishops expressive of his policy of non interference in Irish affairs.

Lord James Douglas, of the house of Queensberry, has been imprisoned in England for annoying a daughter of Lady Scott. It is said that he sent her indecent messages.

Silvie Burnes, who came over with Sullivan in search of pugilistic honors, has sailed back to England. Sullivan entirely neglected him and more than once he nearly starved.

May and Nellie Moselay, aged 21 and 19 at Kansas City, were drowned in the Missouri River, while boat riding by the capsizing of their boat. Their male companions escaped.

The novelty works of John T. Bon & Co., and the picture frame factory of Raymond, Papworth & Burkhart, in Syracuse, were gutted by fire Friday. Loss, $40,000; insurance, $26,000.

United States Marshal Gordon, in open meeting of the Elizabeth, N. J., City Council, Friday night served on President Rankin a writ of peremptory mandamus, issued by the Supreme Court in the suit of R. T. Bonner & Brothers, bondholders, and directing that their judgment against the city for $20,000 be put in the tax levy. The city, however, is governed by a special act of the Legislature, and will resist the mandamus.

GERMAN POLITICS

BISMARCK AND THE KAISER'S LONG DISCUSSION.

The Behavior of Herr Von Puttkamer the Theme—The Emperor's Trip to Potsdam—General Foreign News.

LONDON, June 2.—The return of Prince von Bismark from his home at Varzin to his official residence in Berlin, and the Chancellor's long and frequent interviews with the Emperor, appear to be connected more or less closely with the difference which has always existed between Emperor Frederick and Herr von Puttkamer, and which has had a tendency of late to assume a more definite shape. The Liberals reproach Herr von Puttkamer for exercising strong governmental influence at the elections, in order to preserve a Bismarck majority; and the Emperor's letter to him was a slight reproach for adopting this course of action and, as is charged, preventing a true expression of the real sentiment of the people. Herr von Puttkamer has submitted to the Kaiser an explanation of his activity at the elections, and it is rumored that he entertains the intention of resigning his post in the administration. This report, however, is not confirmed, and it is not probable that Bismarck will permit matters to reach this crisis.

THE EMPEROR FREDERICK.

His Journey to Potsdam on a Yacht in Charge of the Crown Prince.

BERLIN, June 2.—Emperor Frederick had a good night. He left for Potsdam at eleven o'clock yesterday on the steam yacht Alexandria, in command of the Crown Prince. The weather was showery, and his Majesty retired to the cabin as soon as he got on board, and remained there. The yacht was covered with flowers. Enthusiastic crowds were at the dock.

A great crowd greeted the yacht on her arrival at Spandau. There was much cheering and bands played the national hymn. The Emperor appeared at the cabin window and bowed to the people and the Empress waved her handkerchief from the deck.

The yacht reached Potsdam at 12:40 o'clock. His Majesty was no worse for the trip.

Dr. Mackenzie yesterday introduced to the Emperor a boy six years of age upon whom he had performed tracheotomy a year ago. The Emperor conversed with the boy's mother, loaded the boy with sweetmeats, and asked him to visit the palace again. The mother says that, being accustomed to her son's talking, she understood perfectly every word uttered by the Emperor.

Carl Schurz at a Berlin Festival.

BERLIN, June 2.—Mr. Carl Schurz attended a festival given by the Academy youth in celebration of the seventieth birthday of Professor Hoffman. Mr. Schurz was stated at the table of honor between Profs. Seller and Gneist. Professor Gneist offered a toast to Mr. Schurz, who in reply dwelt lengthily on academic reminiscences and spoke of the intellectual spirit which now pervades literature, art and science in America. In conclusion he asked for cheers for the German universities. His remarks were received with applause.

About the Bottled Wine Tax.

LONDON, June 2.—The French Chamber of Commerce in London has addressed a letter to M. Legrand, French Minister of Commerce, for the purpose of removing the impression that obtains in France that the duty on bottled wine proposed by Mr. Goschen, is a protectlve measure.

Manchester's New Acquisition.

LONDON, June 2.—The legatees of the late Joseph Whitworth have offered land, buildings and money to the extent of 153,000 pounds toward a scheme to give to Manchester a pleasure park and an institute to be known as "The Whitworth Institute of Art and Industry."

Amenities Between France and Russia.

PARIS, June 2.—Baron von Mohrenheim, the Russian Ambassador here, gave a banquet and reception last evening in honor of President Carnot. All of the Cabinet Ministers and many prominent statesmen and diplomats were present.

Mr. Pyne Released.

DUBLIN, June 2.—Mr. Pyne, M. P., who was imprisoned at Clonmel for offences under the crimes act, was released yesterday. A crowd greeted him with cheers as he left the prison.

Sea Breeze Wins the Oaks Stakes.

LONDON, June 2.—The great race for the historic Oaks Stakes was run at Epsom Downs yesterday, and was one by Sea Breeze, with Bada second, Bell Mahone third.

RIOT IN WEST VIRGINIA.

Negroes Attempt to Rescue One of Their Number from the Officers.

BRAMWELL, W. Va., June 2.—All the miners in Bluestone district went out on strike Thursday for two weeks' pay, and to add to the excitement yesterday a negro was arrested for disorderly conduct. After the arrest it was rumored that the whites would take him from the guards and lynch him. Near midnight last night the town was thrown into a violent state of disturbance about one hundred negro miners marching to Bluestone Inn, where the prisoner was under guard and demanded his release. The guards did not surrender him and the mob began firing on the building with pistols and a general riot ensued. Several men were shot among the rioters by members of the mob the whites had organized. At a late hour the mob had dispersed after several were arrested. More trouble is expected.

Stole $1,900 While Postmaster.

ERIE, Pa., June 2.—John F. Rayen, ex-Postmaster at Sandy Lake, Mercer County, was arrested on the race track here by Deputy U. S. Marshal Hickernell on the charge of embezzlement from the money order department while he was Postmaster. The amount is placed at $1,900. Rayen's accounts were found to be crooked recently and he was relieved. Subsequently an investigation of the accounts revealed the fraud. When arrested he broke down, cried and admitted his guilt

Pineapples and Sponges.

NASSAU, N. P., June 2.—The pineapple crop, which is large and good, is being shipped to New York and Baltimore. The average price here is fifty cents a dozen on shipboard. The sponge trade is lively; plenty is offering at good prices. The Greek spongers who arrived last fall to engage in the sponge fisheries have found the business unprofitable, and will at once sail for home. General business is dull.

When the Green Gits Back in the Trees.

In spring, when the green gits back in the trees,
And the sun comes out and stays,
And yer boots pulls on with a good tight squeeze,
And you think of yer barefooted days;
When you ort to work and you want to not,
And you and yer wife agrees
It's time to spade up the garden lot—
When the green gits back in the trees—
Well! work is the least o' my idees
When the green, you know, gits back in the trees!

When the green gits back in the trees, and bees
Is a-buzzin' agin,
In that kind of a lazy "go-as-you-please"
Old gait they bum roun' in;
When the groun's all bald where the hayrick stood,
And the crick's riz, and the breeze
Coaxes the bloom in the old dogwood,
And the green gits backs in the trees.
I like, as I say, in sich scenes as these,
The time when the green gits back in the trees!

When the whole tail-feathers o' wintertime
Is all pulled out and gone!
And the sap it thaws and begins to climb,
And the sweat it starts out on
A feller's forrerd, a-gittin' down
At the old spring on his knees—
I kind o' like jes' a-loaferin' roun'
When the green gits back in the trees—
Jes' a-potterin' round' as I—durn—please—
When the green, you know, gits back in the trees!

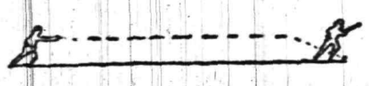
—James Whitcomb Riley.

WHAT MAKES IT CURVE?

FEATS OF OUR MODERN PITCHERS.

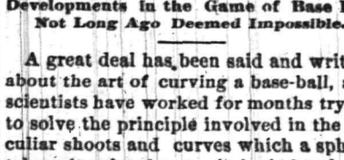
Developments in the Game of Base Ball Not Long Ago Deemed Impossible.

A great deal has been said and written about the art of curving a base-ball, and scientists have worked for months trying to solve the principle involved in the peculiar shoots and curves which a sphere takes after leaving a pitcher's hand and continue in a semi-circle until it loses it force and falls to the ground. but it has never been satisfactorily explained how a ball may be made to move in a straight line for quite a distance, and then take a quick shoot; or how it will move in a straight line for a certain distance and then fall to the ground, although traveling at a rapid rate of speed when it falls, as for instance:



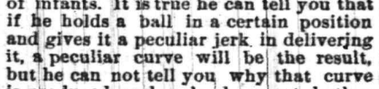
THE DROP BALL.

And yet such wonderful phenomena are witnessed at every game of ball played during the year in Chicago and elsewhere. The average artist can, as a rule, explain his art, and the whys and wherefores of this and that, but to the ball-pitcher the cause and effect produced by his work is as a sealed book of whose mysteries he is as ignorant as the tiniest of infants. It is true he can tell you that if he holds a ball in a certain position and gives it a peculiar jerk in delivering it, a peculiar curve will be the result, but he can not tell you why that curve is produced, and so he does not bother his head about it, so long as it proves deceptive to the batter.



THE OUT-CURVE.

It may prove interesting to readers of The Mail to recount the different curves used by a pitcher, and the manner of holding and delivering a ball to produce those curves. It must not be understood that every pitcher has all these curves, as some of them are peculiar to some men, while these same may be ignorant of other curves. It is often said, for instance, that this or that pitcher has a good drop ball, or a good jump ball, by which it is meant that his most deceptive delivery is one or the other of the above. The most common curve, and without which the average pitcher cannot hope to be effective, is the out-curve. This may be obtained by holding the ball firmly in the hand with the tips of the first and second fingers closely pressed to the sphere. The ball, in being delivered, is given a peculiar jerk. It slides across the tips of the fingers, and out between the first finger and the thumb. The in-shoot is as common as the out-curve. If comes straight for a distance, and then shoots in toward the batter, as for instance:

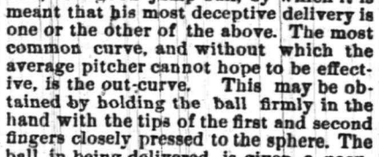


THE OUT-CURVE AND IN-SHOOT.

It is a very effective ball, because more speed can be given to it than to any other. It is also not so hard on a pitcher's arm as it does not require that peculiar jerk needed in producing the curves. To produce it the ball is held the same as the out-curve, except that instead of the ball being delivered through the thumb and index finger it is allowed to glide out right across the tips of the first and second fingers.

A remarkable ball is the drop ball, now used so much. It comes straight from the pitcher's hand for a short distance and then falls to the ground. It is produced in several ways and by some pitchers is held the same as an out-curve.

It must always be started at a good height, most pitchers delivering it from above the shoulder. It is then given a peculiar jerk downward as it leaves the hand. It is a great ball with some of the most effective pitchers in the country, as



THE DROP BALL.

Clarkson, Ramsey, Hudson, Sowders, and others. It is the most nickle of all the curves and may desert a pitcher for weeks at a time. Thus Clarkson has been known to lose his drop ball entirely for a period although he delivered the ball the same way all the time. This is probably caused by a stiffening of the muscles brought into play in producing the shoot, and thus preventing the desired effect. A common ball with those pitchers who use the drop ball is the combination down and out-shoot, which is very deceptive when coupled with good speed. It is produced by turning the hand in the same manner as to produce an out-curve, and bringing the ball from as high as the shoulder. This is one of the hardest deliveries on the pitcher's arm that is used, and those who continue to use it do not last long as twirlers. Thus, after games last year, Clarkson's arm would sometimes turn perfectly red and puff up, thus showing the terrible strain upon it. A ball which was formerly used considerably, and which yet is seen occasionally, is the raise ball, as it is called.

It consists merely in starting the ball from close to the ground and forcing it to gradually rise until after it passes the plate. It is easily produced, but it is very hard to command and hence is not used extensively. Moreover, it is not particularly effective. It was formerly used with wonderful effect by Tom Bond, of the old Boston team. Its chief exponent now is McCormick, of the Pittsburg club, who continues to use it with good effect. He has wonderful command of it, and has speed combined, which makes it wonderfully effective.

Many people who watched one of last season's Milwaukee pitchers marvelled at his effectiveness, and wondered how he succeeded in fooling the batters with what seemed to them a straight ball. The close observer would notice that the batters almost invariably struck under the ball. This was owing to the fact that he was master of what is called the jump ball, which, owing to the fact that but few men have mastered it, remains as probably the most effective ball pitched. It comes up to the plate apparently perfectly straight and then takes a quick jump. This is one of the phenomena which scientists have yet to explain satisfactorily. It is produced by holding the ball well in the palm of the hand, with the tip of the fingers closely pressed to it, the first and second fingers having almost entire control of the ball, however. The hand is held with the palm toward the ground and the ball is brought from as high as the shoulder, with a sweep down. When relieved it is allowed to glide over the tips of the fingers. It seems to ride the air for a distance and then takes the peculiar jump noted. These are the principal curves and shoots used on a ball field, although some men find a more effective delivery in a change of pace rather than in the use of curves. Stories have been told of men who could curve a ball in a zigzag around several posts, but the feat never has and never will be accomplished, simply because a zigzag curve does not exist. The rules for curving a ball, as given above, are not the only ones that can be used, as some men use, for instance, three fingers in producing an out-curve, etc. But if followed and practiced they will produce the desired effect.—Chicago Mail.

THE JUMP BALL.

ST. LOUIS CONVENTION

NEARLY ALL THE DELEGATES ARE NOW IN THE CITY.

Hotels Crowded and the City All Bustle and Confusion—The Exposition Building a Failure.

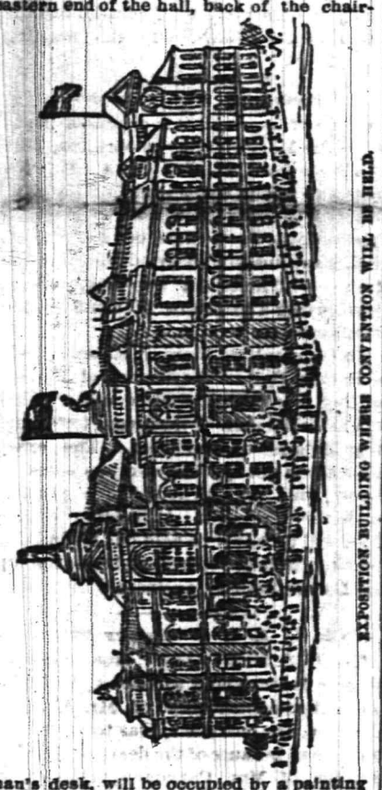
ST. LOUIS, June 4.—The whirl has begun, the crowd increases hourly, and the rotunda of the Southern Hotel, which is the principal headquarters, is crowded to overflowing.

The delegations from Wisconsin, Kansas, Nebraska, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Maine, Iowa, Montana, South Carolina, New Hampshire, Alabama, Ohio, North Carolina, Illinois, New Jersey and New York will be on the ground at midday tomorrow.

The Randall Club, of Philadelphia, with a Cleveland and Thurman banner, the Record Club of the same city, headed by ex-Attorney-General S. C. Cassidy, also shouting for the Ohio man, and the Hendricks Club of Indianapolis, in white hats, white gloves, gray badges, and with a military band, were among the arrivals of the day.

The members of the National Committee who were here Saturday held a meeting at which Messrs. Barnum of Connecticut, Gorman of Maryland, Ham of Iowa, Tarpey of California, Brown of Indiana, Fordyce of Arkansas, McHenry of Kentucky, Prattor of Missouri, and William L. Scott of Pennsylvania, who holds the proxy of ex-Senator William A. Wallace, were present. They considered the question of a selection of temporary and permanent Chairman, and it was decided to recommend to the full committee, at its meeting on Monday, the name of ex-Lieut-Gov. Stephen M. White, of California, for temporary chairman, and that of Gen. Patrick A. Collins, of Massachusetts, for permanent chairman. It is supposed that the committee will agree to these selections. There can be no doubt about the choice of Gen. Collins for permanent chairman, for the committee had decided months ago that he should have the place and informed him of that fact.

Back of the chairman's desk there has been placed a large portrait of President Cleveland. The decoration of the hall has begun. When it is completed, the entire eastern end of the hall, back of the chairman's desk, will be occupied by a painting of the Capitol at Washington. The picture will be of gigantic size, sixty feet long by fifty-eight feet in height. Hanging against this picture will be the portraits of Grover Cleveland, Samuel J. Tilden, Winfield Scott Hancock and Thomas A. Hendricks.



EXPOSITION BUILDING WHERE CONVENTION WILL BE HELD.

It is feared that the Convention hall is a failure. Not one-tenth of the citizens who will be present to witness the proceedings will be able to see the delegates. They may hear the speeches, but they will hear them as a man would who should stand ten feet distant from a well and listen to his friend's voice coming out of the depths of the earth. The hall is the Exposition Building, a vast structure of brick, stone and iron, covering a block of ground. The building has an imposing front upon Olive street, the main entrance being reached by a long and wide series of steps similar to those of the Capitol at Washington, but this entrance only admits one to a large music hall in the front part of the building. The hall in which the convention will be held is directly in the rear of the music hall, and will be reached from one of the side streets. The convention hall at first glance has a rough resemblance to a cathedral, long but narrow, and with a high arched ceiling. In this case the narrowness seems exaggerated and has been heightened by the construction of two galleries, well up toward the ceiling and sweeping completely around the room, and a sub-gallery beneath it around only a part of the room. The galleries are so far toward the ceiling that only those who sit in the front row of seats will be able to see the delegates, there being no inclination of the gallery seats which will permit of those sitting in the rear seats seeing the floor of the hall.

Lives and Property in Danger.

DAYTON, Ohio, June 4.—Fire started from a hot box on a lumber car that had been dropped on a siding here yesterday afternoon, and a northwest wind drove the flames through the lumber piles so fiercely that when the Fire Department arrived they had to begin 200 feet away to fight its spread. Six dwellings were burned, one fireman was overcome by heat and five others otherwise injured.

Salt Works Burned.

WARSAW, N. Y., June 4.—The refinery of the Crystal Salt Works at Saltville, near here, was burned Saturday night. Loss $75,000, partially insured.

LILLIE HOYLE'S DEATH.

Her Sister is Said to Have Given a New Version of the Case.

WORCESTER, Mass., June 3.—It is now asserted that there is evidence to show that the published accounts of how Lillie Hoyle met her death are not strictly correct. The new evidence is said to place the responsibility for the drugging of Lillie upon her sister Alice, who is said to have administered the chloroform. The new story is also to the effect that Alice Hoyle did not get into the wagon with the men at the time Lillie was taken from the house, but left the house in advance and was told to walk ahead down the road. She did so, and it will be remembered that Dr. Brown testified to seeing a woman going by his house. It is also said that the girl was met down the road, near the bushes so frequently spoken of, and taken into the wagon. Lillie had died, and when the fact was disclosed to Alice she screamed. The two men quieted her and, it is said, prevailed upon her to keep the secret by telling her that it was from the effects of the chloroform administered by her that Lillie died. In this manner she was persuaded to keep silent, believing she was the cause of her sister's death and alone criminally responsible.

If it is true that Alice Hoyle was the person that went by Dr. Brown's in the dark as he sat smoking on the piazza, it was not known at the time the grand jury met, or the doctor would have been summoned as a witness as well as the German woman who heard the screams. While this latest story may be true so far as it is a statement made by Alice, it is certain that it was not known to the officers before, and it confirms the story frequently heard, that Alice Hoyle is not reliable and has made several conflicting confessions.

Young McQuade, while at the jail here, has attended mass and received communion. Said an old detective who saw him at the jail: "If you are guilty of this you have the greatest nerve I ever saw a man of your years possess." McQuade replied smilingly: "Everything will be all right in the end, but it seems hard to be obliged to remain in here till then."

HE WILL KEEP HIS VOW.

Peter Rosmussen Will Be a Missionary at His Own Expense.

BALTIMORE, June 4.—Peter Rasmussen sailed with his family for Norway yesterday in obedience to a vow he made twenty-five years ago, when he came to this country. Shortly after his arrival in this country, he was converted at a revival then being held at the First German Church in this city.

He says he then made a promise that if God would bless him in business and give him enough of this world's goods to enable him to preach the Gospel to his countrymen in Norway, without receiving any salary, he would do so. He has so prospered in business that he can now afford to devote his life to preaching without pay. He is an earnest member of the German Methodist Church, about fifty-five years of age.

A Sheriff and Tax Collector Decamps.

NEW ORLEANS, June 4.—The news has been received here that W. J. Sowers, sheriff and ex-officio tax collector of Winn parish, in this state, has decamped, being a defaulter to the state and parish to a considerable amount. Sowers was very popular, and seems to have been even more soft-hearted than Uncle Dick Tate, of Kentucky, for whenever a taxpayer pleaded poverty or hard times he ususually gave a receipt in full for taxes, becoming himself personally responsible for them; and a large part of his defalcation is attributed to this peculiar charity at the expense of the State. The people of Winn express only sorrow and sympathy for the defaulter rather than anger over the disappearance of the parish funds.

The Runaway Orphan Girl Heard From.

CANANDAIGA, June 4.—After bidding all her friends and the police authorities Mabel Burnett, the sixteen-year-old orphan girl, who, on Thursday last left the aristocratic and luxurious home of her grandmother to earn her own living, sent a despatch to her grandmother Saturday from Auburn, saying that she had procured good, honest work in that city, was happy and contented, and hoped that no one would worry about her. Her brother and other relatives have gone to Auburn in the hope of inducing her to return. Miss Burnett is an intelligent and self-reliant girl for her age.

Reading's New Arrangements.

PHILADELPHIA, June 4.—It is asserted with some authority that arrangements are now being made for closer traffic connections between the Reading and the Baltimore and Ohio Railroads. The new arrangements are a modification of the old ones drawn up by Mr. Gowan, but which were never ratified by the Reading receivers. Concessions of no mean importance were made to the Reading, and also to the Jersey Central, in order to stimulate the agents of those companies to send all the business they could control over the Baltimore and Philadelphia Railroads.

A Double Scull Regatta.

BOSTON, June 4.—There has been talk for some time of getting up a double scull regatta, and arrangements for the event were completed yesterday. It will take place at the Point of Pines, Monday, June 18. The contestants will be Hanlan and Ross, Hosmer and Lee, and Gaudaur and McKay. Wallace Ross left here for New York Saturday night, having been called there by the sudden illness of his wife.

One of the "Big Four" Missing.

JERSEY CITY, June 4.—The deputy sheriff who is hunting with a capias for William F. Kern, the only member of the "Big Four" combination in the Board of Public Works, who failed to appear in court on Saturday and plead to the indictments, had not found him last night. It is understood, however, that he in the hands of friends and will appear in court to-day.

A $300,000 Fire In Panama.

PANAMA, June 4.—A fire, which started in the Hotel Roma a 2 o'clock yesterday morning, entirely gutted ten large houses. It is estimated that $300,000 worth of property was destroyed.

SHERIDAN WORSE AGAIN

A SLIGHT RELAPSE CAUSES GRAVE APPREHENSION.

Oxygen Gas Again Administered After Nearly Two Days' of Disuse—Dr. Pepper Telegraphed For.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—General Sheridan appeared to be on the high road to recovery yesterday. He passed the day sleeping at intervals. During his waking moments he was cheerful and talked and joked with his attendants, seeming to be much stronger. He took the nourishment which was administered to him with a good deal of relish, and in his hurry to get well asked for more than the doctors thought good for him.

Throughout the day there was nothing to see in his condition but what would lend strength to the hope that he was going to throw off the disease with which he is afflicted. There were no dangerous symptoms noticeable.

The General's wonderful vitality has long been commented on by his physicians, and they seemed so think that their patient would pull through. The day passed quietly in and about the house. The General was resting very easily, and his sleep seemed to natural and refreshing.

Occasionally, however, he would wake up with a slight cough, but the doctors were not alarmed at this, since he cleared his throat of phlegm easily. But as the evening wore on these coughing fits grew more frequent, and were of longer continuance, and greater difficulty seemed to be experienced by the patient in relieving himself of the accumulations from his partly congested lungs.

At 5 o'clock a consultation of the physicians was held, and it was decided that if these symptoms continued they should send for Dr. Pepper of Philadelphia. They did not attach any immediate, grave significance to these coughing spells, but General Sheridan has been so long in bed, and has lost so much strength, that they do not feel that they could afford to run the slightest risk in his present condition, and have decided that a consultation of all the physicians in attendance on the case should be called if there was the least return of unfavorable signs.

Accordingly, while they did not feel that there was any immediate necessity to telegraph to Dr. Pepper, instructions were given to Colonel Kellogg, one of the General's aides, who had been constantly in attendance at the house, to hold himself in readiness to summon him at a moment's notice.

Toward 9 o'clock in the evening the frequency of the General's coughing fits began to have its effect. Both his pulse and respiration became feeble; at times he appeared likely to suffocate and oxygen gas had again to be resorted to in order to relieve his spasms of choking.

Word was immediately given to Colonel Kellogg at the first sign of difficulty in breathing manifested by the patient, and he immediately drove down to the telegraph office in the cab which had been kept in waiting for this purpose and summoned Dr. Pepper, who arrived here at 1 o'clock this morning.

When Colonel Kellogg returned to the house he found the place in confusion. Every face had resumed that anxious look which had been borne during the worst spells of the General's sickness. In the sickroom the doctors were using every effort to restore the waning vitality of the General.

The injection of digitalis was again resorted to after nearly two days of disuse, and the well defined rumor spread that the distinguished hero and soldier was rapidly sinking. A bulletin was issued at 9 o'clock which read as follows:

"General Sheridan passed a satisfactory day. Since 8 o'clock this evening there have been some unfavorable changes in the pulse and respiration."

The latest bulletin was in substance as follows:

General Sheridan's pulse and respiration are about as they were before the last bulletin. His condition is better. He is now sleeping quietly.

HIS EIGHTIETH BIRTHDAY.

NEW ORLEANS, June 4.—Yesterday at his home at Beauvoir, on the shore of the Gulf of Mexico, Jefferson Davis, the ex-President of the ex-Confederacy, celebrated his eightieth birthday. The house was filled with flowers sent by his neighbors. The mail yesterday morning brought many letters of congratulations from old army and political friends, and Mr. Davis received such as called to express their good wishes in person.

He is in better health than he has been for some time, and bids fair, with careful treatment, for many years to come. He is greatly interested in current events, political and social. He is concerned in the outcome of the St. Louis Conventtion, and reads all the newspaper gossip with the ardor of a young politician. He is interested in the condition of Emperor Frederick and John Bright, both of whom he met during his visit to Europe after the war, and expressed a kindly solicitude for the health of Gen. Sheridan, to whom, as Secretary of War, he gave his first commission as Lieutenant on graduating from West Point.

Beating the Ocean Record.

NEW YORK, June 4.—Ocean travelers, steamship owners and the public generally had a startling surprise yesterday when the news came from Sandy Hook that the Cunard Line Steamship Etruria had been sighted at 9:30 a. m., having made the voyage from Queenstown to this port in six days, one hour and fifty-five minutes, beating the previous fastest passage, which was made by the Umbria, of the same line, in May, 1887, by two hours and fifty-seven minutes.

Quinn Resumes His Functions.

NEW YORK, June 4.—At the meeting of District Assembly No. 49, K. of L., yesterday at Pythagoras Hall, James E. Quinn resumed his duties of Master Workman and presided as he was in the habit of doing before his troubles. There was reconciliation on all sides and affairs moved as harmoniously as though well greased.

BY THE WAY.

—Oh! for a Y. M. C. A. building.

—There were twenty-one raining days during the month of May.

—The days will be at their greatest length on the 21st instant.

—Next Sunday will be observed as Children's Day in the churches.

—The regular monthly meeting of the City Council will occur this evening.

—The Summer resorts are making the usual preparations to receive the pleasure-seekers.

—A special meeting of Zephyr Hook and Ladder Company is called for this evening.

—The black bass season is now at its height, but we have not heard of any large catches in this vicinity.

—A temperance meeting under the auspices of the Sons of Temperance, will be held in Hope chapel this evening.

—Regular meeting of the Exempt Firemen's Association this evening, in their new rooms over the First National Bank.

—At eight o'clock, in the Y. M. C. A. Hall, to-night. Young men's meeting. A. C. La Boyteaux, leader. All men welcome.

—The Young People's meeting will be held in the lecture room of Trinity Reformed church this evening at eight o'clock.

—The regular business meeting of the W. C. T. U., will be held at their rooms 73 West Front street, to-morrow afternoon at three o'clock.

—The regular monthly devotional meeting of the "Y" will be held in their rooms to-morrow afternoon at four o'clock. A large attendance is desired.

—A wrestling match was arranged for Saturday evening, but a desirable place could not be obtained, and the match was declared "off" for the time being.

—The public will notice in our advertising columns, the list of merchants who will close their places of business at seven o'clock, commencing this evening.

—The regular meeting of the Brotherhood of Carpenters & Joiners, will be held to-morrow evening, at seven o'clock, in Woolston & Buckle Hall, North avenue.

—Mr. John H. Tier, who was convicted recently of selling iced cream on Sunday, will appear before Judge Suydam to-morrow morning at 11 o'clock for sentence.

—The members of the Police Board held a meeting in Corporation Counsel's Marsh's office on Saturday, but the business transacted was of a private nature.

—A horse belonging to Edward Ranionetti ran away on Peace street, this morning. A delivery wagon, to which he was attached, was considerably damaged.

—A lawn party and strawberry festival will be held at the corner of Grove and Prospect streets, to-morrow afternoon and evening, under the auspices of the young people's missionary society of the First Baptist church.

—No one can so satisfactorily and permanently cure tender feet and remove all their causes, as Dr. Kimbell, now at the City Hotel. His treatment is painless and the relief instantaneous—the boot or shoe can be worn with comfort at once.

—Don't forget the Crescent Glee Club and their strawberry festival on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, June 5 and 6. They have always been ready to help the public in religious and temperance meetings. Show your appreciation for their services rendered and patronize them.

—There are no new developments in the Lovell-Parker scandal, and so far as can be ascertained no papers in a suit for divorce have been served upon Lovell. It is probable, however, that testimony will be taken before a Master in Chancery, and the same submitted to the Chancellor.

—A strange carrier pigeon that has taken up its abode in the loft of President Doane, of the Plainfield Homing Club, has been found to be the property of Mr. Bennett of Newark. The bird was released at Charlottesville, Va., 300 miles away, on May 25, and reached Mr. Doane's loft the same day.

—The eighth anniversary of the Congregational Sunday school of Westfield, was celebrated in the church; yesterday, by a sermon in the morning and appropriate exercises in the afternoon. The usual services of Children's Day—which is next Sunday—were included in these ceremonies of yesterday.

FELL DOWN STAIRS.

An Elderly Lady Severely Injured by Falling Backward Down a Flight of Stairs.

Mrs. C. E. Benedict, an elderly widow lady, residing with her daughter, Mrs. F. R. Stevens on West Fourth street, near Grant avenue, met with a serious accident, about six o'clock, on Friday evening. Mrs. Benedict had finished her evening meal, and while the other members of the household were yet seated around the table, she started to feed the chickens. Stooping down she obtained a quantity of corn from under a table, and rising again she accidentally backed up against a door leading to the cellar stairs. The door flew open, and Mrs. Benedict was precipitated backward down the flight of stairs to the cellar below.

The unfortunate lady was picked up unconscious and carried to an upper story. Dr. Endicott was hastily summoned and administered restoratives, but considerable time was required to bring the patient to consciousness. The doctor made a careful examination, but discovered no broken bones. He found the patient suffering from severe bruises about the head and body, which will confine her to the house for several weeks to come. Today, the doctor reports her condition as slightly improved.

Crescent Y. M. C. A. vs. Butler of Woodbridge.

A short time since the Crescents embarked for Woodbridge, crossed bats with the Butlers and parted even on even innings, the score being 12 to 12. Saturday was the day fixed for the second trial, on the grounds of the home club, and the Crescents trusted through their good reputation for hospitality, to receive the strangers worthily and take them in.

A large concourse of visitors were present; old men and women, young men and maidens, together with the children, smiling with hope to cheer and encourage their favorites in the anticipated victory. Alas! for the vanity of base ball expectations. The end came, and from hundreds of throats came the same cry: "We have met the enemy and we are theirs."

The game opened most brilliantly for the Crescents in the outfield. Three excellent fly catches in the 1st, two in the 2d, and two in the 3d innings, kept the score of the Butlers down to two, while that of the Crescents was five. Now commenced the circus. Error after error was committed by the home team, more than enough to have stocked a dozen comedies, and in the five succeeding innings the visitors added 21 runs to their score, the Crescents increasing their number only two. The end came. Plainfield was badly beaten, completely done brown by their strong adversaries.

Among the Butlers the Brown trio, with Downs and White, particularly distinguished themselves by fine fielding, hard hitting and skillful base running. Their battery was strong and efficient. All the members of the team are excellent players, and though they may be "buckwheats," they will usually be the threshers instead of the threshees.

The Crescents can play a better game than that of Saturday. There were many fine individual plays. It was Jack's day, and he was the errorless player of his nine. The two double plays of Dilts were excellent. The trouble was their batteries were too light for the armor of their visitors, who pounded and pounded to their heart's content.

The market is always glutted with advice, but it will not injure the home club if they will have stated periods for practice, and play ball some times when not confronting other clubs.

At the Friend's meeting House.

A large audience gathered in the Friend's meeting house on Peace street, yesterday afternoon, to listen to an address by Jesse H. Griffen, of Westchester County, N. Y. The meeting was given under the auspices of the Friends' Temperance and Literary Society, and was attended by many persons, not members of the Society of Friends. The speaker took for his text "The Gored Ox," which he handled in a masterly manner. He proved himself to be an uncompromising opponent of the liquor traffic in any form.

It is the intention of the Society to hold meetings of a similar nature in the meeting house on the first Sunday afternoon in each month, and so far as practicable interesting speakers from abroad will be secured to make addresses.

"Bringing In the Sheaves."

An evidence of the fitness of the Rev. Cornelius Schenck for the work of the Lord, is shown in the unprecedented growth of the membership and congregation of the Trinity Reformed church, under his ministration. At yesterday's communion service, thirty-eight were admitted—twenty-six on confession of their faith and belief, and twelve by letter—the largest number joining at any one time in the history of the church.

The sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered to an unusually large attendance of communicants. In all, seventy-one have joined this church during Mr. Schenck's pastorate of one year. The number of young men among these converts, evidence the pastor's popularity and power with a class where special grace and fitness is needed by him who would be successful in their conversion.

In all other ways is the Rev. Mr. Schenck well endowed to have dominion over a church and its people. Through his earnest and eloquent appeals, the funds have been raised to cancel a $4,000 mortgage that rested heavily on Trinity. Verily his people have righteous reason for their gratitude to God for the shepherd he has given them.

Reform Hall Meeting.

Reform Hall last night contained a fair-sized and highly appreciative audience. Judge Harper was in the chair as Vice President, Rev. Mr. Honeyman conducted the devotional exercises, and Mr. Vanderbeek as usual led the choir. The speaker was Jesse H. Griffen, a Westchester county, New York, farmer, a member of the Society of Friends, and an active worker in the cause of temperance.

Mr. Griffen proved himself to be an interesting speaker. He is evidently not only a well-read man, but a profound thinker. His style is unassuming, language fluent and correct, and his ideas logically presented. His illustrations drawn from Bible history and made applicable to the present time, were strikingly clear. As a temperance advocate he is uncompromising, having no friendship for high or any other kind of liquor license.

The usual appeal for pledge signers was made and a few gave in their names. Captain Ostrom then referred, in a few beautiful and appropriate remarks, to the coming absence of Rev. Mr. Honeyman, who goes on a visit to Colorado for the benefit of his health, and the meeting closed.

Memorial Day Returns.

Over and above all the expenses incurred in the Memorial Day celebration, Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., will come out about $50 ahead. Last year, although the day was not so generally observed, the Post came out a little behind, but some kind hearted friend of the Post, contributed a two-dollar check, thus leaving a balace of 27 cents to the Post's credit.

The musical and literary entertainment in Reform Hall on the evening of Memorial Day, was well patronized, and resulted in a financial gain of between forty and fifty dollars to the Post. The exact amount is not yet known, as some of those who sold tickets, have not yet made their returns. A meeting of the Post will probably be held on Wednesday evening, to hear reports, and to settle up the Decoration Day business.

The C. L. S. C. History Party.

The U. S. History party, announced in these columns about a month ago, to take place at the residence of Mr. Stephen Cahoone, Jr., on June 7, was to have been postponed because of the death of the only brother of Mrs. Cahoone's mother and aunt who both reside with her.

The party was to be given by the local circle of the C. L. S. C., and its members were to appear in the costumes of historical personages or characters from the works of American authors. No other available residence is fitted for the project as is Mr. Cahoone's, so it was first thought better to postpone the affair until the Autumn meetings. Arrangements have been made, however, to have the entertainment at the home of Miss Sadie Grant, on West Seventh street.

Dying Far From Home.

Georgiana, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Force of West Second street, died at Oakland, California, yesterday afternoon. The deceased during her journey from New York by way of the Isthmus, contracted the fever that is endemic in that region. A letter received from her on Friday last, written a week before, stated she was in San Francisco and recovering; but a relapse occurred and she died at the residence of family friends, of gastritis.

The remains are expected to arrive next Monday. Notice of funeral will be given hereafter. The deceased had a large circle of friends and acquaintances. Among her sisters, resident of this city, are Mrs. Augustus J. VanDeventer, Mrs. Stewart H. Whitney, Mrs. Charles Burnet, Mrs. James W. Davis and Mrs. John M. Burnet.

—The Somerset County Bible Society has resolved to urge all heads of families to supply each child and employee with a copy of the Bible for thier bedroom, and to enjoin them to read a small portion every day at rising and retiring.

—Mr. William H. Barton, of Westfield, has lost a valuable horse. The animal had not been exercised as much as it should, lately, and in consequence was not in condition to stand a long drive, during yesterday, from the effects of which it died last night.

WARREN MISSION INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL.

Celebrating the Fifteenth Anniversary—Interesting Exercises in Warren Mission Chapel—The Secretary's Report, and Other Details—Awarding the Prizes.

The fifteenth anniversary of the Warren Mission Industrial School was celebrated in Warren Mission chapel on Saturday afternoon. The chapel was well filled with the parents of the scholars and friends of the school; when the sliding doors were opened disclosing the pupils seated in rows in the rear of the stage proper. The scene was a beautiful one.

Mrs. F. H. Gardner, the Superintendent presided, and announced as the opening piece, a "welcome song" by the school. This was followed by a chorus, "Try O Try" by the scholars. Mrs. Gardner stated that on account of the recent death of a near relative of Miss Emma L. Cadmus, the Secretary, the latter was unavoidably absent, and her annual report was read by the Assistant Secretary, Miss Flora Petrie. It was as follows:

With this anniversary, our Industrial School closes its fifteenth year of work. In reviewing its history we take pleasure in presenting a few details of its progress. The idea of such a useful branch of industry was conceived in the minds of a little band of women known as the Warren Mission Ladies Aid Society, whose object it was to clothe the destitute in the Mission Sunday School. The Aid Society was organized June 18, 1873, and on Nov. 1st of the same year the first experimental session of the Industrial School was held. All being favorable, the school was regularly incorporated into the society, Feb. 10, '74, with Mrs. (Dexter) Tiffany as President and Miss Anna Marsh as Secretary. Much credit is due the founders of the school for their model methods of work, and many of the principles established by them are still in use by us. They gave reward tickets which were redeemed with garments; muslin strips were introduced for practise pieces, patch-work quilts made and given to a worthy charity. The infant school commenced its existence with seventeen scholars and five teachers, but before the first anniversary it had increased to nearly one hundred scholars and fifteen teachers. Mrs. Tiffany presided five years during which time steady progress was made. The enrollment reached as high as 175, the average attendance, 60. The one difficulty in the outset, as at the present day, seems to have been a lack of efficient, devoted workers. During Mrs. Tiffany's term in the year 1878, the Plainfield Relief Association was organized and the Ladies Aid Society was consolidated into the new enterprise. Our school was adopted—thus the Relief Association became our authority and support.

Mrs. Tiffany was succeeded by Miss Emma Horton, Mrs. Pack and Mrs. Bushnell, respectively, each continuing in office one year. There were obstacles in the way of an increased roll, during these three years, though the average attendance was proportionally large. At the beginning of this period, button-hole and knitting classes were formed and a third merit ticket awarded.

Mrs. Frank Gardner next assumed charge of the school. During her term of seven years, the membership has increased from 100 to 263 scholars, the average attendance from 48 to 149, and the number of classes 16 to 36. These figures with the following details speak for themselves of the efficient services of our retiring Superintendent. Seven years ago there were two scholars who were perfect in attendance during the year, and three who were absent but once. These lists have increased each successive year, and today crowns the whole—37 having been present at every session, and 9 absent but once. In the Winter of '81 and '82 the Sewing Primer was introduced. In '82 and '83 the Cutting class formed.

In '83 and '84 the system of tickets supplemented by class books; a special prize given for improvement in left hand work, and during the year an evening musical was held, the proceeds of which, $24, were given toward the Mission Library Fund, as a thank offering for the use of the chapel.

In '84 and '85 fancy stitch and darning classes were formed, the roll of honor and awarding of handkerchiefs introduced, and the singing book, "Sterling Gems," presented for our use, the music of which is well suited to the school.

In '85 and '86, the great problem of our history was solved and put into execution—that of grading the school and systematizing the work. At the closing entertainment of this year, as of the year following, a prize was offered to the one who should win in a primer match. The contests were sharp and exciting.

In '86 and '87 the school was formally organized as an auxiliary to the Relief Association, a constitution adopted and a regular monthly teachers meeting appointed.

This year we have made no special leap in our work, but have been content to enforce and carry out the progressive ideas of former years.

As before mentioned, we now have enrolled 263 scholars, with an average attendance of 150. We have indulged ourselves in new class books this year, designed expressly for our use. The prices of garments have been raised, consequently not as many have been bought this year as last. The number bought is 288, 125 of these were made in the garment classes, and the rest by our friends, the Ys, and various church societies.

The number of handkerchiefs sold to scholars is 275; the number awarded for Roll of Honor, 203. The patch-work quilt pieced by the scholars and bought with their voluntary marks, will be appropriated for a different purpose this year than heretofore—to Mrs. Gardner as an expression of love and appreciation. On account of the Saturday matinee of the Historical Drama, the session on Jan. 21st was held at 10 A. M.

Our dry goods bill amounts to $73.55, incidental expenses about $25.50.

Trusting that we may be reunited in this good work another year, this report is

Respectfully submitted,
EMMA L. CADMUS, Sec.

June 2, 1888.

Following the reading of the Secretary's report came a "Round" by the Misses Emma Teller, Carrie Case, Dasy Morse, Kitty Ackerman, Minnie and Laura Smith. This was thoroughly enjoyed, and was followed by the "Alphabet," in which twenty-six girls, each representing a letter of the alphabet advanced to the front of the stage, three at a time, and recited an appropriate verse.

In the order named followed a chorus by the school: "Song of the Brook;" recitations by Miss Minnie Gulick and Miss Lena Meyers, and a song and chorus entitled "I'd be a Fairy," by Miss Annie Mulford, Miss Amelia Kister and Miss Carrie Case, accompanied by a chorus of female voices.

An admirable feature of the exercises was a "Flag Song" by seven little Misses each one bearing the stars and stripes and marching around the platform and singing, accompanied on the piano by Miss Josephine Petrie. Another particularly pleasing part of the programme was a "Symphony" by sixteen boys and girls. The instruments used were two musical hoops, two trumpets, two sets of chimes, two tambourines, two birds, a cricket, triangle, symbols, bones and a drum.

After the "Primmer Song" by the chorus, Mr. F. H. Gardner, addressed a few words to the children and awarded the following prizes:

FIRST PRIZE—THIMBLE AND CASE:

For regular attendance, not having missed a day during the year — Minnie Smith, Mary Pierson, Laura Smith, Maggie Lawler, Lizzie Bird, Mattie Mason, Lulu Avery, Louise Koller, Amelia Kister, Ida Lohring, Mamie Steiner, Lena Case, Laura Coddington, Julia Clark, Ella Perrine, Mamie Clark, Emma Bolsterli, Rachael Emmons, Josie Feller, Ella Coddington, Annie Feller, Hannah Clark, Katie Donahue, Carrie Case, Try Mattox, Cora Young, Minnie Force, Lida Pangborn, Nellie Arnold, Mattie Humble, Annie Myer, Minnie Gullick, Mamie Koller, May Squires, Laura VanNest, Nettie Wyckoff, Mamie Teller.

SECOND PRIZE—NEEDLE CASES.

For being absent but one session—Ella Mackey, May Perkins, Katie McInnery, Minnie Buckley, Annie Mackey, Lottie May Clark, Hattie Tainer, Lillie Mirex, Lucy Closson.

THE OTHER PRIZES.

Darning, a toilet set—Carrie Case. Buttonhole, a toilet set—Laura Smith. Best made garment, a toilet set—Gertie Conover.

Boxes of writing paper were awarded as follows; For gathering and sewing on band, Mattie Mason; over-casting, Julia Clark; felling, Katie Powers; running, Mamie Clark; stitching, Kitty Watts; hemming, Gussie Newman; over-handing, Kitty Dunn.

After all the prizes had been awarded, the school sang "Light and Gay," and the audience dispersed.

The exercises throughout were very commendable, and reflected great upon the officers and teachers who have worked diligently with the little ones during the year just closed. At the completion of the programme scholars were provided with refreshments.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. Thomas L. Kinney of Perth Amboy, spent yesterday among his many friends in this city.

Mr. W. J. Robbinson and Mr. Kinzey, of Brooklyn, spent Sunday with friends on New street.

A young couple, both residents of North Plainfield Township, will enter hymen's yoke before a fortnight elapses.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hewson of Memphis, Tenn., arrived in this city on Saturday, and will permanently locate here.

Mrs. W. J. Robbinson, of Brooklyn, returned to her home today, after spending several days with her mother, Mrs. Geo. Goodwin, on New street.

Justice V. W. Nash on Saturday officiated at the marriage of a middle-aged couple, who immediately went to housekeeping in a dwelling near the Pond Tool Works.

Miss Flora R. Petrie, Secretary of the Mission Band, sends notices of an important meeting in the parlors of the Crescent Avenue church, to-morrow afternoon, at four o'clock.

We acknowledge with appreciation the receipt of an invitation from the Cincinnati Press Club to be present at the dedication of the Press Headquarters at the Centennial Buildings, Cinninnati, on July 9th.

The remains of S. R. Pope, who died at French Creek, W. Va., as told in THE PRESS of Saurday, were brought to the late home of the deceased in Dunellen, where the funeral services were held at noon, today.

At the residence of Mrs. F. X. Schoonmaker, Putnam street, during Saturday afternoon and evening of this week, a lawn fair will be held for the benefit of the Grace Church Building Fund. The display of pretty things will be unusual.

The Royal Craftsman, a journal edited by Assemblyman Ulrich of this city, and devoted exclusively to the fraternity of Masons, has been issued for May. The paper is filled with much interesting reading matter of particular interest to the Masonic brotherhood.

Mr. Hugh McDonnell, the West Sixth street liveryman, has purchased from the Thorn estate the desirable piece of property on the West corner of Arlington avenue and Sixth street. The lot has a frontage of about 100 feet on Arlington avenue, by about the same depth. The consideration was $3,000. Mr. McDonnell will himself occupy the premises.

The funeral of the late Edmund V. Shotwell, who died last week, took place from the house on Saturday afternoon, and was largely attended by many of the older citizens. Rev. K. P. Ketcham, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, conducted the service, and Mr. E. E. Runyon sang a solo. Interment was made in the Presbyterian cemetery in North Plainfield.

The remarkable coincidence of the sudden deaths of George M. Phillips who died in this city, and his sister who died in Albany during Tuesday of last week, is all the more strange because of the fact that the father of the deceased also died on the same day, in Amsterdam, N. Y. They were the sole survivors of the family, and all died without even knowing of one another's sickness.

—If it be true that a character can be blackened by a shrug of the shoulders there are some people in this town who hope no shrug will be made when they are spoken of.

General Telegraphic Despatches.

ANOTHER YOUTHFUL PRODIGY.

His Sermon a Marvel of Eloquence—He Says He is Inspired.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 4.—A boy preacher only eleven years old, and wearing knee breeches, is creating a sensation in the city pulpits with his finished sermons and spontaneous eloquence. His name is Pascal Porter, and he reached here last Sunday. Since then he has delivered a sermon every night and has drawn immense audiences to hear his fervid discourses. He preached for one hour and five minutes in the pulpit of the Walnut Street Baptist Church to a congregation which filled every pew and overflowed the aisles. His text was the "Attributes of God, Justice and Mercy." His language was remarkably correct and his delivery surprisingly easy and graceful. The sermon was generally conceded to be a marvel of eloquence and feeling, and the congregation went away marvelling at the youthful prodigy.

A number of ministers and theological students remained to question the boy concerning his religious views. One of the latter asked him if he understood the doctrine of the atonement. With a puzzled air the child shook his head.

"I don't think I do," he answered thoughtfully.

The student put another question concerning the efficacy of grace, but received no satisfactory reply.

"I don't understand these things, nor all that I say," candidly said the boy. "They are given me and I speak by inspiration. The spirit gives me the words."

Nothing more was elicited from him by further questioning.

ACCUSED OF MURDER.

Bowman and Harby Charged With Killing Justice Haynesworth Are Acquitted.

COLUMBUS, June 4.—Three days ago the trial of P. G. Bowman and Walter Harby, charged with the murder of Justice George Haynesworth, was begun in Sumter. There were five men indicted for this murder, but Bowman and Harby were considered to be culpable, and their trial was brought up first.

The murder created the most intense excitement throughout the State. Haynesworth was a man of high standing and the five defendants were among the best families in the State. The two men on trial had distinguished counsel, while the State was represented by the Attorney-General and the Circuit Solicitor. Judge Aldrich sat upon the bench until 6 yesterday morning when a verdict of "Not Guilty" was brought in. The other three defendanta will next be tried, but they cannot now be convicted.

The Workingmen Favor Diaz.

MEXICO, June 4, via Galveston.—Yesterday a monster parade of workingmen took place in this city, it being a demonstration in favor of the candidacy of President Diaz for re-election. Opposition organs represent the demonstration as a job, but there is reason to believe that the popularity of Diaz with the working classes is genuine. President Diaz has shown marked sympathy with the laboring classes and a disposition to protect them from injustice on the part of employers. It is believed that the continuance of Diaz in power means a continuance of peace and the investment of foreign capital, which has given steadier and more remunerative employment to the laboring classes than they have had at any previous period.

This Check is Not an Asset.

CINCINNATI, June 4.—In the suit of R. H. Warner & Co. against the Fidelity National Bank to recover the value of a check deposited with the officers when they knew the bank was insolvent. Judge Peck, of the Superior Court, ruled that it was fraud to receive the check and ordered the receiver to return it to the plaintiffs.

LATE EUROPEAN NEWS

THE EMPEROR RECOVERED FROM HIS RECENT FATIGUE.

Bismarck and the Council Threatened to Resign in a Certain Event—Aroused By the Papal Rescript.

BERLIN, June 4.—The Emperor passed a better night than the one previous. His lassitude is gone. He drove in the Wild Park with the Empress yesterday morning, and afterward spent a good deal of time in the castle garden and in the park. At 6 p. m. he drove in an open carriage with the Empress and Dr. Mackenzie to the marble palace to visit the Crown Prince, remaining an hour.

In Shell Hall, Friedrichskron, several hymns were sung at half-past twelve o'clock at his express desire by the famous choir of the Church of the Twelve Apostles from Berlin, which consists of about eighty voices.

The whole imperiol family feel more at home in Potsdam than in Charlottenburg, where the castle, notwithstanding its size, affords but small accomodation. The Emperor lived many years at Friedrichskron, a place full of recollections of Frederick the Great. It had always been called the New Palace, but the present Emperor gave it the name of Friedrichskron, in memory of his great ancestor. The gardens and the new avenues in the forest were always under the supervision of the Empress, who preserves the residence.

Professors Leyden and Krause go to Friedrichskron by rail every morning at 8 o'clock and return at 11; Professors Bennedeven and Senator every Wednesday and Sunday. It is now confirmed that the Emperor intends three or four weeks hence to go to Hamburg, and proposes spending there the months of July and August.

The Volkszeitung declares that all the physicians have now abandoned the theory that the Emperor's malady is cancer.

Herr Von Puttmaker has not yet sent in his report in reply to the Emperor's letter insisting upon perfect freedom of election as the condition for prolonging the legislative period of the Prussian Diet from three to five years, and it is stated that the Emperor will not allow the publication of the law prolonging the term of the Diet unless full liberty of election is insured. Many think Prussia face to face with a ministerial crisis which may even lead to the retirement of Prince Bismarck.

The Crisis in Germany.

BERLIN, June 4.—The Cologne Gazette says that the Council, at a meeting on Friday, Prince Bismarck presiding, resolved to resign if the Emperor should insist upon the publication of his letter to accompany the promulgation of the Quinquennial law.

Aroused By the Papal Rescript.

CORK, June 4.—A monster meeting was held in City Park here yesterday to take action with reference to the Papal rescript. The meeting endorsed the resolutions adopted by the Irish Bishops at their recent meeting in Dublin. Mr. William O'Brien, M. P., said that the people had the support of the Bishops. The leaders of the Irish movement, he said, wished to drop the rescript agitation, but they would continue it if necessary.

Dom Pedro Better.

MILAN, June 4.—The Emperor of Brazil is improving. He started for Aix les Bains this morning.

THE TWO CADETSHIPS.

Army Officers Anxious to Have Their Sons Appointed.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—A lively contest is now in progress among army officers to have their sons appointed to the two cadetships at large in the West Point Military Academy. The two vacancies do not occur until next June, but the appointments are now due, it being the custom for the President to name the candidates a year in advance in order that they may have an opportunity to prepare for the examination.

There are many other candidates besides the sons of army officers, but it is believed that the President will follow out his policy of favoring the latter class. The son of Lieutenant-Colonel Sawtelle, of the Quartermaster's Department, it is understood, will be named for one of the places.

The "White Caps" After the Editors.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., June 4.—The "White Caps" of Spencer County have made a new movement. They have written and posted in several places a lengthy proclamation defending their lawlessness on the ground of the laxity of the officers in punishing crime, and say that their attention is especially directed against wife-beaters, loafers, lewd women and the men who visit their houses and boys under sixteen who run about at night. The remarkable part of the manifesto is a command that the newspapers in the county publish their proclamation under penalty of chastisement of the editors. One of the papers has complied. There is much interest felt as to what will be the result in the case of the others.

A Circus Train Wrecked.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., June 4.—A special train bearing 15 cars and 180 persons connected with Miller & Freeman's Circus, over the New York & New England Railroad, was wrecked at East Long Meadow, five miles south of this city, early yesterday morning. When about 100 yards north of the Long Meadow station, one of the cars near the engine was thrown from the track by a misplaced frog at the switch, and three other cars followed. The first, loaded with gasoline tanks, canvas and side show properties, became ignited and was at once in flames. Several persons were injured, but none it is thought fatally.

New State Laws for New York.

ALBANY, N. Y., June 4.—The following additional laws been have filed with the Secretary of State:

Authorizing t he formation of elevated tramway corporations.

Appropriating $5,000 for a State armory in Jamestown.

Amending the act of 1887 relative to the Trust Fund of the State.

Amending the act in relation to the duties of supervisors relative to the filing of bonds.

Another Gobble by Western Union.

FORT WORTH, Texas, June 4. The sale of the Fort Worth and Denver Telegraph Company to the Western Union was announced Saturday. The line extends from here to Denver and is the only telegraph line running northwest from the Pan Handle. The terms were private.

Hegelman Wins the Walking Match.

SPRINGFIELD, June 4.—The seventy-two hour six days go-as-you-please race in this city ended at 11 p. m. Saturday. Hegelman won, making 351 miles 2 laps; Vint came next, with 329 miles 14 laps, and Day was third, with 325 miles.

TO GO OVER THE CATARACT.

Potts and Hazlett Send a Rooster Over the Falls and Will Go Over Themselves.

BUFFALO, June 4.—Potts and Hazlett, who distinguished themselves once by going through thn perilous Niagara whirlpool rapids in a small barrel, have resolved to perform a much more dangerous feat, that of going over the Nigara cataract in the little craft. They made some preliminary experiments yesterday.

The barrel was launched this morning in Chippewa Creek, not far from the upper rapids, and towed to the centre of the current which feeds the Horseshoe Falls. The cask had been ballasted with sand, and a bantam rooster was placed in it before the air valve was closed.

Half an hour elapsed before the barrel went over the brink. In five seconds it reappeared in the boiling torrent below and rapidly drifted into Bass Rock eddy, a dangerous spot, where it whirled around from noon until 5 o'clock. Then it was carried toward the Maid of the Mist landing, where it was picked up by some boatmen. The ballast had shifted, and the rooster was dead and dismembered. The experiment was witnessed by a large crowd of people.

Mr. Potts said that either he or his partner would undoubtedly undertake to go over the falls next Sunday. The ballast would be better secured, and as the barrel showed only one mark of having come in contact with a rock, he felt that the trip would be safer than many people thought.

TOPPLING DOWN A RAVINE.

An Express Train Turns a Somersault Into a Gulch—Eight Victims.

BALTIMORE, Md., June 4.—The northbound passenger train from Annapolis, on the Annapolis and Baltimore short line, met with a serious accident yesterday. As the train rounded a short curve near Marly's Station the engine and the entire passenger train left the track. All were precipitated down a ravine. The cars were turned completely over. Fortunately, not many passengers were aboard, but none of them escaped injury.

Horace Tydings and wife, of Annapolis, were seriously injured. The engineer, fireman and baggage master were seriously injured. One of the firm of Marcy & Meyers, near St. Margaret's, is among the injured. John Hammelhofen, engineer at the State House at Annapolis, had his ribs broken. William Baker, news agent, was feverely cut about the face and head. William P. Lenely had his back strained and one of his legs injured.

Weather Crop Bulletin.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—The weather crop bulletin for the week ended Saturday, June 2 says: "The weather during the week has been generally favorable for all crops in the States of the Mississippi, Ohio and Missouri valleys, where the crop conditions have doubtless improved, although in the extreme Northern States the temperature has been too low for rapid growth. Portions of Michigan report too much rain for corn, and some damage from hail is reported from Kansas. The season is well advanced in Tennessee and South Carolina, where harvesting should be in progress. The weather conditions having particularly favored the crops in the former State, but not in the latter. In the States on the Atlantic coasts excessive rains and almost total cloudiness have not been favorable for rapid growth, and have delayed planting in some localities."

A Disastrous Storm.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., June 4.—Evansville, this State, has just been swept by a storm which nearly ruined the town, and it is believed fatally injured several persons. The storm struck the place at nightfall. There was a light wind, accompanied by rain. The gale increased in violence until everything was swept before it. The heaviest losers are Messrs. Flynn, Ferguson, McClure, Homman, Wahl, Denton, Goodrick and Matthews. The fine residence of J. R. Flynn was torn to pieces, burying a family of five in the ruins. Flynn himself escaped with slight injuries, but his wife and two daughters were dangerously wounded. Mrs. Martha Flynn, Mrs. S. A. Matthews, Mrs. D. T. Matthews and Miss Marion Flynn were also seriously injured.

The Sibleys Are After Broker Swimm.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 4.—Wakeman J. Sibley and wife, who figured in Brooklyn courts quite recently in suits for damages against T. W. Swimm, alleging that Swimm had alienated Mrs. Sibley's affections from her husband, and in a later suit for criminal libel, are again in New Haven. The pair called on City Attorney Daily Saturday night and told him that Swimm would be here shortly on a business trip, and they wanted him arrested and compelled to furnish bonds for his appearance in court. Mr. Dailey refused to issue any warrant. Sibley says he will have Broker Swimm arrested on a civil process the moment he comes into New Haven.

Farms and Crops Under Water.

NORFOLK, Va., June 4.—The floods have been disastrous in this section all the week. Several more washouts on the railroad lines were reported last night. At Branchville and Franklin many mills have been washed away. The rain poured in torrents all day yesterday, and the farmers throughout Southampton County have been nearly ruined. Their cotton is all drowned and peanuts lately planted are rottening in the ground. Farms in the Dismal Swamp are four feet under water; the Irish potato crops are ruined, and the corn crop damaged. The loss will be immense will be immense to the farmers from the storm and freshets combined.

Appealing to the Mayor for Work.

BALTIMORE, June 4.—Now that Mayor Latrobe has closed up all the dives the streets are full of women who are absolutely without means of subsistence. Four of the women who had been habitues of the places of vice have appealed to the Mayor's Secretary, Love, and asked him to assist them to find work. Two of the women carried babies in their arms, and one of them stated that for eight years she had supported an invalid mother. They were referred to the charity society.

Accused of Getting Engineers for the "Q."

ELMIRA, June 4.—Much excitement has been caused here among the railroad men by the charge that Calvin S. Wheaton of this city, the Grand Chief Conductor of the Conductors' Brotherhood, has been active in getting locomotive engineers for the "Q" road. Seymour Wooster, a well known engineer here, charges positively that Wheaton offered him a place on the "Q" line as engineer.

The Trial of the Diss Debars.

NEW YORK, June 4.—Unless another postponement is granted, Ann O'Delia Salomon and "General" Diss Debar will be called to the bar in the General Sessions to-day. Three indictments have been found against the Princess and one against the General. The conspiracy charge will probably be the one heard first.

IDOLIZED BY THE VETERANS.

Aunt Becky Young, the Heroine of Many War Hospitals.

Aunt Becky Young is a character known to every member of the Grand Army of the Republic in Iowa. She, with one exception, is the only woman in the state who is a member of that organization. She is present at all their reunions, and by that means keeps the fervor of her patriotism at full war-heat. Aunt Becky's principal claim to notice is the service she rendered as a nurse during the war. It was as Ninth Corps Hospital Matron that she became so widely known to the soldiers, and today a soldier is the dearest thing in the world to her. "I don't care anything about civilians," she says; "they're not just what soldiers are, anyway."

AUNT BECKY YOUNG.

Those who wore the army blue seem glad to perpetuate her good deeds by every mark of appreciation and respect they can bestow. At post, and state, and national reunions they look to it that Aunt Becky has passes, and are disappointed if her plain little figure, with its one badge, "W. R. C."—Woman's Relief Corps—is not seen in their midst.

When a young woman of thirty-two, a widow with two little children, she left her home in Ithaca, N. Y., to go to the front as a nurse in field hospitals. She did this work heroically for three years, receiving $6 per month for her services. She was the only woman in eight adjoining counties in Western New York who went in that capacity. Some thought it was very unwomanly in her to expose herself to the hardships of the field when she could have stayed at home and taken boarders, or have done any other femininely conventional thing for her own maintenance. But such critics knew little of the indominitable will and devoted purpose of a nature like hers. She could not resist the call to go where there was suffering. "I knew my back was made for just such a burden," she says. And her life since the war shows that charity, philanthropy and self-sacrifice are the fountain-springs of her existence. For eight months at one time, she was the only woman in the camp. She had a tent of her own, which was made as comfortable as possible for her, and worked like a slave in caring for the sick, cheering the convalescent and feeding the hungry.

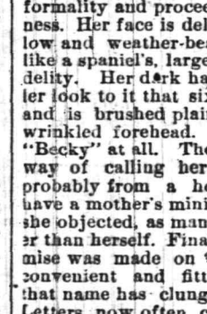
Aunt Becky has a most unique personality. Plain and retiring as she is, one recognizes at a glance a force of character in her which of inherent necessity must have worked out an unusual career. The war gave her her opportunity. She helped to make history in an obscure and toilsome way, and is now reaping her reward of affection and honor. In person Aunt Becky is rather undersized, lean and bent of body, but with an active step and a certain readiness and command of manner that does away with all formality and proceeds at once to business. Her face is delicate in outline, sallow and weather-beaten, but with eyes like a spaniel's, large, dark and full of fidelity. Her dark hair has the dusty-miller look to it that sixty years will bring, and is brushed plainly back from the wrinkled forehead. Her name is not "Becky" at all. The army boys got in a way of calling her "mother" at first, probably from a homesick longing to have a mother's ministrations. To this she objected, as many of them were older than herself. Finally a happy compromise was made on "Aunt Becky" as a convenient and fitting sobriquet, and that name has clung to her ever since. Letters now often come to that name alone, and there is no trouble in getting them to their proper destination. When the war was ended and she left the East to make her home in Iowa she thought to drop the title from a certain timid dislike of being in any way conspicuous. But on her arrival at her new home the first one who accosted her called her 'Aunt Becky," and she knew it was of no use. So Aunt Becky she has remained.

Of late years Aunt Becky has given her time and strength to charities and neighborly kindnesses to those in sickness or trouble. She has a pension of $30 a month, secured for her by a special request to Congress from the Iowa General Assembly. She is soon to remove from her home in Des Moines to California, where she expects to spend the remainder of her days.—Cedar Rapids, (Ia.) Letter.

AMELIA RIVES OF VIRGINIA.

The Literary Phenomenon Who Leaped to Fame with One Short Story.

Miss Amelia Rives, the literary phenomenon who in three years has become one of the most popular writers in this country, is the granddaughter of William Cabell Rives, the Congressman, Senator, and Minister to France of the earlier half of the present century. Her father, Col. Alfred Landon Rives, was born in Paris, and can boast Lafayette as a godfather. In 1861 he was married to Miss Macmurdo, the granddaughter of Bishop Moore of Virginia and a noted beauty. To them was born in 1863, in the Town of Richmond, Va., the now famous Amelia Rives. During early childhood she lived at the home of her old grandfather, Castle Hill, Albemarle Co., Va., and there she contracted an almost passionate love for the old homestead, and gained that familiarity with flowers, fruits, and all the beauties of nature which find such frequent expressions in her writings. When a young girl her father removed to Mobile, Ala.; and, though she grew to be fondly attached to the quaint southern town—making of its tropical growth, the blue waters of its perfect bay, its Southern skies, and winds, and bird-notes, the Italy of her imagination—yet the long visits to Virginia from early spring to the long, lingering days of autumn were the times of her greatest joy. Before she could write a sentence she had begun to draw, feeling her way patiently through difficulty and ignorance, until it suddenly dawned upon her family that she possessed unusual talent. At an incredibly early age she became an omniverous reader, going always instictively to the highest. Shakspeare was soon her daily and intimate friend and companion.



AMELIA RIVES.

She never went to school, but had governesses, who guided rather than taught. With a mind so eager for knowledge there was little fear of idleness. Miss Rives' prowess in horsemanship has been much commented on. As a matter of fact she is an excellent horsewoman, though not, as the gossips would have us believe, in the habit of jumping five-barred gates as a frequent amusement. One can see her nearly every day in the autumn and early winter sending her large bay Usurper along the picturesque roads that surround Castle Hill.

Among the red hills of Albemarle, with her horses, her dogs, her dumb-bells, and her studio, the young authoress, upon whom so many talents have been bestowed, is in the element she loves best. When the inclination seizes her she will shut herself in her studio, and stand before the easel ten hours at a time; or else, having read everything bearing upon the subject chosen, write as many hours with a rapidity and exactness that is well-nigh inconceivable. The latter quality is exemplified in her sixteenth century story, "A Brother to Dragons." In this manner, though just entered upon her twenties, she has written dramas, poems, and stories covering many pages of manuscript, and embracing a wide range of subjects, from the deluge to the present time.

Her "Brother of Dragons" was published in the Atlantic Monthly and immediately met with favor. Since that has appeared "The Farrien Lass o' Piping Pebworth," "Nurse Crumpet's Story," and an intensely passionate poem called "Grief and Faith," the "Story of Aron," and recently in Lippincott's appeared "The Quick and the Dead," a very powerful novel, or perhaps more properly called a study.

BENEVOLENT PHILOSOPHY.

Harry's mother, having heard for some little time what seemed to be a moaning or crying in some distant part of the house had a search made, and found in a remote, very small and perfectly dark closet, the family dog, Leo by name, shut in, with scarcely room enough to turn around. How did he get there? Why, Harry had shut him up, of course. Harry was summoned and questioned.

"Why did you shut Leo in that closet?"

"Oh, 'cause he'd feel so good when he got let out!"—Boston Transcript.

THE WEARY HOURS OF SICKNESS.

Young Victor, who had been for three weeks lying ill with pneumonia, asked one day to see his overcoat. It was brought out with no little wonderment by his mother.

"Hang it on the foot of the bed, won't you, mammy?" he asked.

"Yes, my boy, if you wish; but why do you want to have it out here?"

"Just to look at it, mamma. It's been such a long time since I've seen it.—Boston Transcript.

UNTIMELY MIRTH.

This small boy, while out walking the other day, became much interested in the movements of a lot of feathered beauties, headed by a handsome rooster, which were crossing the roadway just ahead. They get over in safety, but one of the fowls had a narrow escape from being run over by a passing team, and her frantic attempts to flee from impending danger excited him considerably. Just as she reached the sidewalk the rooster crowed lustily, and Master Bert turned to the Historian, with indignation in his tone. "Uncle, uncle" he cried, "isn't that rooster naughty to laugh at the poor hen so?"—Boston Record.

A POINTER.

"Please, sir, have you seen a gentleman without a little girl?" "Well, and what if I have, little one?" "My uncle John has lost me, and I thought if you'd seen a gentleman without a little girl you could tell me where he was.—New Moon.

POPULAR OPINION.

A preacher began his address to a Sunday-school thus: "Now, children, I am going to take a text out of the Bible. I always find when I preach that the text is the best part of my sermon. Isn't that so, my dear children?" And the children shouted: "Yes, sir; that's so!" And those enjoyed the joke most who had heard the preacher oftenest.—Religious Herald.

Joseffy, the pianist, has been receiving a great deal of social attention in Washington of late. He remembered having met Mrs. Cleveland when she was a school-girl at Aurora, N. Y. "Have you forgotten how we girls bothered you for your autograph?" asked Mrs. Cleveland. "I don't believe you ever knew it was my good fortune to secure no less than twelve of these autographs, one of which written on the margin of the concert programme, is still retained by me as a souvenir of that occasion."

She Knew Him.

"Have you a very stylish young girl you could recommend me?" said a gentleman in an employment bureau.

"Excuse me, sir," replied the affable manager, "but do you live in the corner house?"

"Yes, but why do you ask?"

"Because your wife was here only a moment ago to see if we had a tow-headed girl with a wart on her nose.—Judge.

Young Mr. Diplomat (at Washington party)—I am so sorry, Miss Naive, that you have been down to supper. I had anticipated the pleasure of acting as your escort. Miss Naive—O, thank you, Mr. Diplomat, but—er—I—have only been down once.—New York Sun.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION

OPENS IN ST. LOUIS EXPOSITION BUILDING TO-DAY.

Stephen M. White, of California, to be Temporary Chairman—The Second Place the Absorbing Topic.

ST. LOUIS, June 5.—The Democratic National Convention was called together in the Exposition Hall to-day. Stephen M. White, of California, will be temporary chairman. The permanent chairman will be P. A. Collins, of Massachusetts.

The Ohio delegation unanimously decided to give Allan G. Thurman their undivided support at a meeting which culminated after 7 o'clock. The availability of Thurman and Gray was discussed at length and with considerable spirit.

Prominent leaders of the Gray movement were presented to the caucus and made powerful arguments in support of the Indiana Governor. Finally, to test the prevailing opinion, Caker, of Cincinnati, submitted a resolution setting forth that, in the event of the name of Allan G. Thurman being presented to the Convention for Vice-President, the Ohio delegation would give him its undivided support. When a show of hands was called for all but two went up.

California has voted to present Thurman's name, the expectation being that its mention so early in the roll call will stampede the Convention in its favor. Ohio will second it.

The Illinois delegation last night selected William R. Morrison as its chairman by 28 votes against 16.

At a meeting of the National Committee Wm. H. Parnum presiding, all the states were represented.

On motion of Mr. Tarpey, of California, Hon. Stephen M. White, of California, was unanimously chosen for Temporary Chairman of the Convention, and on motion of Mr. Semple, of California, Hon. F. O. Prince, of Massachusetts, was unanimously chosen for Temporary Secretary. The following gentlemen were unanimously elected assistant secretaries in the temporary organization: Alfred Olendorf, of Illinois, W. W. Scott, of Virginia. T. E. Barrett, of St. Louis, Leopold A. Trauss, of Alabama, A. O. Hall, of Minnesota, John Triplett, of Georgia, L. E. Rowley, of Michigan, Olney Newell, of Colorado, T. J. Single, of Missouri, and E. L. Merritt, of Nebraska.

T. J. Pettit, House of Representatives, Washington, D. C., was chosen for chief reading clerk, with the following assistants: M. T. Barrett, New Jersey; F. O. Walker, Iowa; R. H. Henry, of Mississippi, J. Oscar Henderson, of Indiana, Joseph Carr, of Missouri, and E. D. Sawyer, of Ohio.

On motion of Hon. F. E. Dawson, of South Carolina, Colonel Edward B. Dickinson, of New York, official stenographer of the National Democratic Committee, was chosen as official stenographer of the Convention.

At a meeting of the New York delegation it was decided to ask to be passed on the first roll call for Vice-President, and if they are refused the delegation will retire to consult. Daniel Dougherty will present the name of Cleveland.

The Convention Hall will be opened for the admission of delegates this morning at nine o'clock. They will be given three hours' grace in which to find their places, hold caucus and get ready for business. At noon precisely Chairman Barnum will call the meeting to order and business will be begun.

The merchants and others of St. Louis, have contributed over $100,000 to defray the expenses of the celebration, and the methods devised to spend this money are many and liberal.

The city's streets will be illuminated every night during the sitting of the Convention, as they are illuminated regularly during the fall festivities each year. The lighting of Olive street will be the most brilliant. The street from Fourth to Fourteenth will be as gorgeous as gas, colored globes and thousands of burners can make it. The pipes are already up, the globes in place and everything ready for the illumination. At the intersection of Fourth and Olive streets four double arches, forming a square, 300 lights in each arch, has been erected.

On Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, a grand civic and military parade will start. It will be made up of the fire department and the uniformed civic and military societies and the resident and visiting uniformed and ununiformed political clubs. The Hendricks Association, the leading Democratic association of St. Louis will "spread itself" on this occasion. It will lead the political division of the parade, and the members will be Democrats even to their uniforms. They will wear Greeley hats of white felt, Cleveland canes of black, with a metal medallion of the President for a handle and badges of white silk, stained in blue with the name of Thomas A. Hendricks.

The delegates to the Convention and the distinguished guests and visitors will review the parade from the Olive street side of the Exposition Building.

BISHOP NEWMAN'P PULPIT.

He Will Remain in Washington Until His Successor is Selected.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Bishop Newman says he will occupy the pulpit at the Metropolitan Church in this city until July and probably longer. Two weeks from Sunday last he will keep an engagement in Boston made some time ago; excepting this unavoidable absence he will be with his congregation every Sunday. To-day a reception will be given to the Bishop and Mrs. Newman in the church. The congregations of all the Methodist Episcopal churches in the city have been invited to participate.

Several eminent ministers are talked of as successors to the pulpit which has been filled by Bishop Newman. Among these are Dr. McGregor, of Brooklyn, and Drs. Cony and Peck, of New Yotk.

Maxwell to Be Hanged July 13.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., June 5.—The Supreme Court has fixed July 13 next for the execution of Hugh M. Brooks, alias Maxwell, the famous chloroformer, who murdered Charles A. Preller, in a room of the Southern Hotel in April, 1886.

ON THE BALL FIELD.

New York, Pittsburg and Chicago Among the Winners in Yesterday's Contests.

NEW YORK, June 5.—The New York and Indianapolis teams played their second game at the Polo Grounds in the presence of a large audience. Result:

New York	3
Indianapolis	2

FITTSBURG VS. BOSTON.

BOSTON, June 5.—Fine weather brought out crowds to the ball grounds. Radburne was under the weather so Bowders was put in the box for Boston, with O'Rourke behind the bat and Kelly in the right field. Result:

Pittsburg	3
Boston	2

CHICAGO vs. PHILADELPHIA.

PHILADELPHIA, June 5.—One of the largaudiences of the season paid their respects to the ball grounds yesterday. Van Haltren, the left-handed California pitcher, was in the box. Philadelphia had Casey, another left-hander, as pitcher. Both were effective. Pfeffer did some brilliant fielding at second, and, in fact, the fielding all around was good. Result:

Philadelphia	2
Chicago	9

DETROIT vs. WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—The recent poor playing by the Washingtons has disgusted the enthusiasts and although the weather was delightful not more than 500 people were present. Score:

Detroit	5
Washington	4

A Protest from Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, Pa., June 4.—A formal protest against counting last Thursday's game, which Umpire Decker awarded to New York, was sent to President Young by President Nimick of the Pittsburg Club. Mr. Nimick says he brought back with him from the metropolis a number of affidavits, which he mailed to Washington along with a general statement by himself. He says he is prepared to prove that the weather was totally unfit for ball playing, and that the New Yorkers resorted to meanr trickery in claiming the game.

Prohibitionists Will Be Interested.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., June 5.—The Lutheran Synod of Ohio, Pennsylvania and Virginia has decided "that the prohibition question was purely one of a political character with which the Church had nothing to do."

DOINGS IN CONGRESS.

Several Bills Passed By the Senate—In the House.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—The Senate yesterday passed the following bills:

Senate bill to authorize the Paris, Choctaw and Little Rock Railway Company to construct and operate a railway, telegraph, and telephone line through the Indian Territory.

House bill to make inauguration day a holiday in the District of Columbia.

Senate bill appropriating $35,000 for an equestrian statue of ex-President Zachary Taylor in the city of Washington.

Senate bill appropriating $100,000 for a public building at Waterbury, Conn.

Senate bill to restrict the use and sale of opium in the District of Columbia and the Territories.

Senate bill fixing the number of assistant astronomers at the United States Naval Observatory at five, and their salaries at $1,800 for the first term of three years, $2,100 for the second term of three years, $2,400 for the third term, $2,700 for the fourth term, and $3,000 after twelve years' service.

Senate bill creating an additional retired list of the army for eighty officers now on the retired list but incapacitated for active service.

House bill authorizing the President to appoint and retire Alfred Pleasanton, with rank and grade of Colonel, with an amendment reducing the grade to that of Major.

Senate bill to refund to William Schaus of New York $12,500 collected from him on an oil painting of Rembrandt's painted in 1640 and not subject to duty.

The Senate bill authorizing the President to place on the retired list, with the grade of Major, Major-Gen. William W. Averill.

The House bill appropriating $50,000 for a public building at Hoboken, N. J.

House bill to promote agriculture, requiring American Consuls abroad to make monthly reports on agricultural and horticultural subjects.

The House Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds decided to unanimously recommend that the House pass the Allentown, Pa., Public Building bill over the President's veto. The committee's report will contain no reflection whatever upon the President's course, but will hold that the committee has better facilities than the Executive for ascertaining the needs of the town where it is proposed to erect the building.

The Senate Committee on Appropriations has increased the aggregate of the Diplomatic and Consular Appropriation bill $11,000. The salary of the Minister to Corea is increased to $7,500. Secretaries of Legation are provided for the Argentine Republic and Venezuela at $1,500 each, several Mexican Consulates get increased salaries, and clerks are provided for Consulates at Toronto and Brussels.

Mr. Bound, of Pennsylvania, introduced a resolution in the House yesterday directing the Committee on Foreign Affairs to inquire into the alleged action of the Brazilian Government in imposing an export duty on coffee nearly equal to the duty formerly imposed by the United States on that commodity, and in aiding British capitalists to establish flour mills in Brazil while maintaining an excessive duty on American flour.

A bill to restrict the immigration of foreigners was introduced in the House by Mr. Oates, of Alabama. It imposes a duty of $25 on each immigrant. Diplomatic representatives are excepted.

NEW YORK ABOLISHES HANGING

Gov. Hill Signs the Bill Substituting Electricity for the Rope.

ALBANY, June 4.—Governor Hill has signed the bill abolishing hanging for all murders committed after January 1, 1889, and substituting death by electricity therefor.

The bill consists of elaborate and carefully drawn amendments to the Code of Criminal Procedure, providing that the prisoner sentenced to death shall be immediately conveyed to one of the State prisons and there kept in solitary confinement until the day of execution, to be visited only by officers, or by his relatives, physician, clergyman or counsel. The Court imposing sentence shall name merely the week within which the execution is to take place, the particular day within such week being left to the discretion of the principal officer of the prison. The execution is required to be practically private, only officials, clergymen, physicians and a limited number of citizens being allowed to be present. After the execution funeral services may be held within the prison walls, and the body shall be delivered into the custody of relatives, if requested, otherwise it shall be decently interred within the prison grounds.

Philadelphia Stock Brokers Crippled.

PHILADELPHIA, June 5.—A number of brokers's offices yesterday were without quotations from the New York stock market, owing to a disagreement between the New York Telegram Company and the Electric Reporting Company of this city. The latter has a circuit of about 100 instruments, and has heretofore been furnished with quotations by the New York Telegram company, but at the opening of the stock markets in the morning the New York firm failed to fulfil the terms of the contract. The cause of the trouble is not known, but the managers of both companies are in conference in New York.

Blondin Again in this Country.

NEW YORK, June 5.—The Chevalier J. F. Blondin, famous for his daring exploits upon the tight rope, arrived in this city this morning by the steamship Arizona, and is now staying at the Hoffman House. Those who saw Blondin this morning in his rooms could hardly believe that the short stout man before them was the same who twenty-eight years ago repeatedly performed the feat of crossing the Niagara on a rope. Blondin arrived at the hotel in company with his agent, under whose management he proposes to give exhibitions.

Labor Notes.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., June 5.—The furnacemen and miners in the employ of the Dayton Coal and Iron Company, at Dayton, in East Tennessee, have quietly accepted the 10 per cent. reduction in their wages made on the 1st of the month.

HUDSON, Mass., June 5.—Sixty-five lasters in Stowe, Bills & Hawley's large shoe factory have struck, refusing to work with non-union men.

BY THE WAY.

—Oh! for a Y. M. C. A. building.

—We are to have a decent City Park, at last.

—The Mugs will wump this year as usual. It is because they are built that way.

—John Ferguson and John Welsh were gathered in by the police last evening for being drunk. They were fined $5 each this morning.

—The gray caterpillar has made an unusually early appearance, and to save the fruit and foliage trees, the nests must be destroyed at once.

—The result of the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Pond Machine Tool Co., held yesterday, will appear in these columns to-morrow.

—The next fly of the Plainfield Homing Club's pigeons will be from Lovingston, Va., on Saturday of this week. The distance is 310 miles, air line.

—Weather prophet Devoe predicts fine weather for both Democratic and Republican National Conventions but heavy thunder showers for the Prohibitionists.

—A new and attractive delivery wagon was today added to the rolling stock of the United States Express Company in this city. The wagon will take the place of a heavier one.

—Our home merchants ought to remember there is nothing like advertising in their local papers to insure successful business. To be popular one must be known, and to be known one must advertise.

—A special agent of the Central Railroad has been stationed at Grant avenue to succeed Mr. A. G. Pierson, resigned, the latter gave up the position about a week ago, after being located there for a year.

—Tuesday afternoon and evening of next week the "strawberry festival of the season" will be given in Vincent Chapel by the ladies of the Aid Society. Refreshments, a la carte, and, besides all that, music as fine as fomerly.

—The peach crop in Warren and Hunterdon counties promises a fairly good yield, although, perhaps, not quite up to former years. The cold snap injured the buds on the north side of the orchards. The south side of the trees escaped.

—At a meeting of the Exempt Firemen's Association held in Firemen's Hall, last evening, a vote of thanks was tendered to Messrs. Stephen C. Ryder and John M. Shepherd for the attractive manner in which they papered and painted the new rooms of the association.

—The Elizabeth Journal truly says: "Plainfield is musical in spots, the same as Elizabeth. Recently Kellogg sang—or tried to sing—there and had a packed house. On Thursday night Campanini and an excellent company honored our sister city and sang grandly, but to a beggarly array of empty benches."

—Wm. H. Davis of Bound Brook, reported on Saturday night to Officer Martz, of the Elizabeth police, that while he was sitting in the Union Depot at Elizabeth waiting for a train to take him home, ex-Constable Harry Kipp, who was sitting alongside of him, tried to pick his pocket. The complaint will be investigated.

—More testimonials are today added to Dr. Kimbell's advertisement on the opposite page, from a few of the ladies and gentlemen whose tender feet he is treating. The Doctor's consulting rooms in the City Hotel were crowded during all of yesterday, and a number were only able to make engagements for today.

—The Council proceedings take up most of our space in this issue, but they are very interesting reading. The city purchased the property of the Fire Department; the amendment permitting iced cream saloons, restaurants etc., to be open on Sunday was lost; money was voted to reclaim and repair the City Park, and much other business of importance to the entire community, was transacted.

—Outside barbarians and fat-witted punsters are in the habit of ridiculing New Jersey because one or two of its municipalities have had unfortunate financial experience, and there appears to be an impression, even among many who live in those unfortunate cities and should be better informed, that the whole State is hopelessly in debt. The truth is that the entire bonded debt, State, county and municipal, will not exceed eight per cent of the assessed values of the ratables in the State.

PUBLIC SCHOOL MATTERS.

Changes Among the Teachers—Gov. Green May be Present at Commencement—A Long Vacation.

President Kirkner, Secretary Wadsworth, Superintendent Hurlbut, and Principal Bulkley, were present at the Board of Education meeting, last evening.

A letter was read from Governor Robt. S. Green in reply to an invitation from the Board, which stated that he should endeavor to be present at the Commencement exercises in Music Hall, on the evening of June 21.

Superintendent Hurlbut reported that Mr. Edwin H. Lewis had been compelled by ill-health to decline a reappointment as teacher of the High School senior class, and that such vacancy would be filled next term by the engagement of Mr. Lincoln B. Goodrich. Miss Mary Hornby of the High School had also resigned, and Miss Alice Whitney of the Grammar School, Fourth street, would be promoted in her place. Miss Alice Lansing of the Primary Department, Fourth street, will be advanced to Miss Whitney's class, and the former's place will be filled by a new teacher, Miss Owen.

It was resolved that the schools shall reopen after the Summer vacation, on Monday, September 10.

Republican Association Meeting.

Notwithstanding the numerous meetings held last evening, the attendance at the Republican headquarters, over the City National Bank, was quite large, and the meeting spirited.

President E. R. Pope, at 8:30 o'clock, called the meeting to order, and Sec'y J. H. Doane read the minutes of the previous meeting, which on motion, were approved as read. The Committee on Constitution and By-Laws reported progress, also the Committee on Roll Book. After some further routine business, the meeting adjourned until next Monday evening at 8:30 o'clock.

The rooms of the Association have undergone a decided improvement. The walls are neatly frescoed, and the woodwork painted and varnished. The work was performed by Messrs. Woolston & Buckle, and is a very creditable piece of workmanship.

Her Throat Was Not Cut.

The residents of Elm place, formerly known as plain "Water street," were thrown into a frenzy of excitement, last evening, by a row in the bosom of John Burns' family. Rumors as thick as politicians at St. Louis, grew until the neighbors gathered around the city jail and begged for Officer Lynch's presence and protection. It was said that Burns had cut his wife's throat, and was then engaged in "loading his gun" for more victims.

Officer Lynch and a PRESS reporter hurried to the scene at once. All was quiet, but Mr. Burns confessed that he had had "a few words" with Mrs. Burns. The latter kept out of the way, but Officer Lynch insisted on seeing her. She was found to be in good health, although a little nervous as a result of the family difference that had arisen. A careful search, however, revealed no cut throats.

A Plainfield Lady to Wed.

A few weeks ago THE PRESS contained an item, calling attention to the mysterious and sudden disappearance of a dress maker from her apartments on West Second street, and the general opinion which prevailed among her friends at the time—namely, that she intended to take unto herself a life partner in the person of a gentleman residing near Dover. The lady referred to is Miss Jeannette Pound and the following from a Dover paper will explain the situation:

"Silas Dell, Esq., of Cherry Grove, near Dover, will be married to Miss Jeannette Pound, a highly respected lady of Plainfield N. J., at the residence of the bride's sister, Mrs. Judge Morton, on Wednesday, June 6th. After the ceremony and the lunch they will take the cars for a wedding tour of several days."

Try It and See What the World Thinks of You.

Put down in figures the year in which you were born; to this add 4; then add your age at your next birthday, provided it comes before January 1, otherwise, your age at last birthday; multiply result by 1,000; from this deduct 677,423; substitute for the figures corresponding letters of the alphabet, as A for 1, B for 2, C for 3, D for 4, etc. The rusult will give the name by which you are popularly known.

East New Jersey Baptist Association.

The annual meeting of the East New Jersey Baptist Association convened in the Fairmount Baptist church in Newark, today. City Clerk O. B. Leonard of this city, as Clerk of the Association called the meeting to order. The association includes about thirty of the Baptist churches of Newark, Elizabeth, Rahway, Plainfield and other suburban places. The session will continue throughout to-morrow.

North Plainfield Board of Health.

Messrs. Murphy, Brokaw and Carmon, constituting a quorum of the North Plainfield Board of Health met at the residence of Dr. J. H. Carmon, last evening. The principal business transacted was the location of a dumping ground. It was decided to designate the Mair Brother's property to the north of the borough as a dumping ground, and scavengers will now be obliged to dump their garbage, etc., there.

—One of the employees at the Pond Tool Works had his left foot badly burned by stepping into some molten iron.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Rev. W. E. Honeyman and wife of North Plainfield, start for Colorado, tomorrow, to be absent until September. Doctor Honeyman's ill health necessitates a change of climate.

Editor W. J. Leonard, Rev. T. L. Murphy, Mr. A. Winter and Mr. J. Scott, of this city, have received their appointments as authorized representatives and officers of the State Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. This will probably result in the organization of a Plainfield, or a Union County Branch, at least, of the S. P. C. A.

Mr. Lincoln B. Goodrich, who will succeed Mr. E. H. Lewis as teacher of the High School senior class, next term, is a brother of the Rev. C. L. Goodrich of the Congregational Church. He is a graduate of Amherst, and has been President of his class in that college, for four successive years. His success as a tutor, warrants the Board in engaging him for so important and responsible a position.

Mr. A. W. Lord and son have returned to their home in this city, after an extended tour of Europe. They arrived on the new German Steamer, "Lahn," which, had it not been detained a day outside by fog, would have made the quickest passage on record. Mr. Lord is earnest in his praise of the new vessel, and says that in all his experience of ocean travel he has never known so handsome and well equipped a steamer.

New Coaches for the Central.

Thirty new passenger cars to be run on the Philadelphia and Long Branch sections of the Central Railroad have been received. They are handsome cars and a decided improvement on the old ones. They were built by the Pullman Company. They are about the same length as the old cars and are of a light yellow color outside. The interior is of light wood, highly polished and ornamented with paintings of flowers. The seats are spacious and covered with red plush. Three new patent lamps, which can be taken all apart, furnish the light. The windows are of plate glass and wide. The toilet rooms are arranged in great style and include marble washstands. The brackets for packages are twice as big as those in the old cars. The wheels are of papier-mache. There are several new and valuable improvements. One is a lever, which, by turning, puts on the air brakes and does away with first having to communicate with the engineer by a rope, as formerly. The brake hangs outside the toilet room. Another is the presence of chains beneath the platform which connect the cars. These, in case the drawheads should become misplaced, prevent the cars being disconnected.

Mr. Tier Sentenced.

Mr. John H. Tier appeared before the City Judge at eleven o'clock today, to hear sentence passed upon him for being convicted of the charge of selling iced cream on Sunday. He was fined $5. Mr. John H. Jackson, of the law firm of Jackson & Codington, as counsel for Mr. Tier, gave notice of an appeal, and asked for time to file an appeal bond.

Amateur Photographers.

The amateur photographers of this city will hold an adjourned meeting in the Y. M. C. A. rooms, on Thursday evening, June 7th. at 8 o'clock, with the view of forming a permanent organization and otherwise promoting the art of amateur photography, which has already made such rapid progress.

General Telegraphic Despatches.

THE GARFIELD WEDDINGS.

Rev. V. W. Davis, of Worcester, Mass., to Officiate on the Interesting Occasion.

WORCESTER, Mass., June 5.—The Rev. V. W. Davis, pastor of the Union Church in this city is to go to Cleveland, O., to officiate at the double wedding at the Garfield Mansion, June 15, when Miss Mollie Garfield is to marry Mr. J. Stanley Brown, and Mr. Harry Garfield and Miss Bebe Mason are to be wedded.

Mr. Davis was pastor of the Euclid Avenue Presbyterian Church at Cleveland for several years, and Miss Garfield was the first person received by him into church membership. He has since been on terms of warm personal friendship with the Garfields.

Flight of the Train Dispatcher.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 5.—Frank W. Gibbs, the night train despatcher, whose conflicting train orders caused the collision on the Air Line Division of the New Haven Road, has fled. As soon as he learned of the accident he notified the chief train despatcher, and then left his office. The police have as yet been unable to find him.

An Unusually Good Shad Season.

ROXBOUT, June 5.—The shad season which will close on June 15, has been noted for the large size of the fish caught, and the run has been immense. At Port Ewen, on Saturday, 750 were canght in one haul of a seine, making the day's catch by one party 2,150.

A "Dry" Majority Reversed.

RALEIGH, N. C., June 5.—The local option election in the township in which Raleigh is situated resulted in a majority of 141 for license. Last year the township went dry by a majority of 31.

An American Schooner Seized.

HALIFAX, N. S., June 5.—Consul-General Phelan has received a despatch saying that the fishing schooner Ambrose H. Knight, of Booth Bay, Me., Capt. Diggins, has been seized at St. Johns, New Foundland, and her crew arrested for selling bait at St. Pierre. The captain gave a bond and he and the crew were thereupon released with their vessel.

A $300,000 Fire In Panama.

PANAMA, June 5.—A fire, which started in the Hotel Roma a 2 o'clock yesterday morning, entirely gutted ten large houses. It is estimated that $300,000 worth of property was destroyed.

COMMON COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.

The Purchase of the Fire Department Property—Refusal of Another License Application — Councilman Randolph succeeded by Ex-Councilman Bowers—No Sunday Selling—The City Park to be Reclaimed.

The City Council held its regular monthly meeting in the Council Chamber last evening. The meeting was called to order at 8:45 o'clock, with the following members present: President Marsh and Councilmen Clark, Dumont, Dunham, Erickson, Ginna, Moffett, Randolph, Squires, Watson and Wilbur—all. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

Petitions and Communications were presented and referred to the proper committees as follows except where otherwise noted: From Chas. Hand asking the city to accept DeKalb avenue, recently laid out by him at Evona, between North and Dunellen avenues; from the Electric Light Company, calling attention to the low branches on the trees in many parts of the city, and asking that some action be taken so as not to interfere with the street lighting service—referred with power to the Street Committee; from sundry hack and peddlers asking for licenses, granted. From residents and property owners on Grant avenue, asking for two electric street lamps—one at the intersection of 7th street and one at Grant and Sherman avenues; also for three lamps on Richmond street, North of Front street; also for stone cross walks on Putnam avenue at Franklin place, Kensington and Carlton avenues, granted; for cross walk at Eighth and Division streets, granted; for cross walks on West Seventh street at Liberty street and Plainfield avenue, granted; from residents on Cottage place and East Fourth street, stating that a fence in front of the property owned by Mr. Ettinger projected fully 25 feet on the street line. Objection was made to the encroachment, and the matter was referred to the Laws and Ordinance Committee.

From John M. and Elizabeth Schorb, asking for proper remuneration for damages sustained on account of small pox patient quarantined in their boarding house on East Front street during ten weeks dating from March 27th, 1887. The estimated damage was placed at $384.50.

Referring to the above item Mr. Dumont said it was one of the transactions of the Council of the previous year; perhaps the President was one of the best informed in the matter. His motion to refer it to a Special Committee of three, the chairman to be one, prevailed, and before the close of the meeting President Marsh named Messrs. Clark and Dunhan as the other members of the Committee.

Communications protesting against the adoption of the proposed amendment to the Peace and Moral Ordinance, which was designed to authorize the keeping open of butcher and barber shops, iced cream saloons and restaurants, were read from the clergy, W. C. T. U., members of Trinity Reformed church, the butchers, (nine in number), and the barbers.

J. B. DUMONT, Treas.

State of New Jersey, County of Union. } ss

John B. Dumont, of full age, being duly sworn, saith that the above statement is true and correct.

J. B. DUMONT.

Sworn and subscribed to before me this 2d day of June, 1888.

WM. M. STILLMAN, Master in Chancery.

The Library contains 7,058 volumes, of which 433 have been added during the year by purchase and exchange, and 195 by gift. Fourteen periodicals and nineteen papers have been received regularly. There are 1,117 card-holders, and the total number of visitors to the Library during the year was 19,993. No books are reported lost, and 17,528 were loaned out and returned.

The Board would further report that the lot in the rear of the building, running back to College place, was donated by Mr. Male, subject to a charge of $500 to cover the expense of grading, fencing and putting in order the lot and flagging the sidewalk along the same. This sum the Board of Directors have undertaken to raise by voluntary subscriptions; and of this sum $400 has been actually raised, and the residue will be raised, so that the acquisition is free from all charge to the Library.

June 1, 1888.

JOB MALE, President.

Corporation Counsel Marsh sent in a communication, asking for a six weeks leave of absence to renew his health. He stated in his letter that Judge Suydam had kindly consented to share a portion of the burden during his absence, and the request was unanimously granted.

Chief Doane of the Fire Department submitted a list of the officers recently elected in the various companies, recommending their confirmation by the Council. The report was received and recommendation adopted.

The Several Committees returned as correct the bills referred to them during the evening, and the claims passed into the hands of the Auditing Committee.

Mr. Erickson, as chairman of the Fire, Water and Lamps Committee, submitted a carefully drawn up deed and mortgage, providing for the purchase of the Fire Department property. He called upon Corporation Counsel Marsh to explain the condition of the mortgage. The latter told briefly but explicitly the provision made in the contract, which was in short to secure the payment of fifteen bonds of $500 each, the first to fall due on July 1, of the present year.

In accordance with the deed above referred to Mr. Erickson offered the following resolution, which was unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That the property of the Plainfield Fire Department described in draft of deed herewith submitted by the Special Committee on Fire Department, be purchased upon the terms and consideration therein expressed, and that the Mayor be and hereby is authorized to accept said deed.

Resolved, That the sum of five hundred dollars be appropriated to cover the cash consideration of proposed purchase of property from Plainfield Fire Department, the exact amount to be paid to be determined by calculation on the basis recommended in report of Special Committee on Fire Department matters.

Resolved, That the First National Bank be and hereby is requested to pay such sum of money, to be calculated as aforesaid, upon request of the Committee on Fire, Water & Lamps, for the purpose last above mentioned, and present bill therefor at the ensuing meeting of the Common Council.

Committee recommend adoption of this resolution.

E. M. ERICKSON,
J. B. DUMONT,
S. A. GINNA.

Mr. Erickson submitted a resolution providing for the payment of two bonds Nos. 73 and 74 falling due on July 1; and the Laws and Ordinance Committee, through Mr. Randolph, presented a resolution in relation to the apportionment of taxes and cost of sales of certain parts of the Martine estate, as petitioned by Stephen Cahoone and others, at a previous meeting; both of which were adopted.

Mr. Moffett, submitted a majority report on the Bock liquor license application. He stated that a majority of the License Committee had examined the application and found it to be correct. The remonstrances against granting the license, he said, had been considered, but notwithstanding the fact, the Committee recommended the granting of the same.

Mr. Ginna presented a minority report. He said in the first place he had every reason to believe that Chas. Monfort, one of the signers, did not own any real estate; also, that he had been informed that Michael Ettinger, another of the signers was not a naturalized citizen. Mr. Moffett vouched for Mr. Ettinger as being naturalized, and stated that Mr. Monfort was a freeholder. The license was refused by the following vote:

Ayes—Messrs. Moffett, Randolph, Watson, Wilbur—4.

Nays—Messrs. Clark, Dumont, Dunham, Erickson, Ginna, Marsh, Squires—7.

The clerk was, upon motion of Mr. Clark, authorized to furnish for the Collector two books suitable for entering the taxable property of 1888.

Mr. Dumont, from the Street Committee, reported in favor of granting certain cross-walks on Putnam avenue, above referred to. The committee further reported with recommendation the clearing of all rubbish and refuse from the City Park; also to lay a stone sidewalk along the Eighth street side of the park; the Street Commissioner to continue scraping the streets, bounding the park, and that an additional appropriation of $75 be made for other improvements. At the suggestion of Mr. Ginna, the committee embodied in their recommendations the laying of cross walks on Eighth street, at the intersections of Arlington avenue and College place. The report was received and recommendation adopted.

Mr. Dumont submitted an offer of Mr. F. A. Dunham to correct the old grade maps, and furnish new ones for $150, recommending the acceptance of the same. So ordered.

Mr. Erickson offered a resolution which prevailed, authorizing the Collector to make returns to the City Judge on July 2, of a list of the delinquents for the year 1886, together with their individual amounts, the latter to issue his warrant to Mr. F. A. Dunham for collection.

A resolution by Mr. Dumont, appropriating $120 for rental of the city court chamber, was adopted, and the Police Committee was authorized to arrange with the landlord for rent of the same.

Mr. Randolph communicated with the Council, tendering his resignation, on account of moving from the city. It was accepted.

Upon motion of Mr. Watson, Council proceed to fill the vacancy: Mr. Moffett nominated Mr. Karl T. Polak and Mr. Dunham nominated Mr. B. O. Bowers. A ballot was taken, showing that ten votes had been cast, of which number Mr. Bowers received six, and Mr. Polak, four. Mr. Bowers was declared duly elected.

The ordinances providing for the establishment of a Fire Department, and for the macadamizing of certain streets, were taken from the table and adopted on the third reading.

Mr. Watson called up the ordinance to amend the Peace and Moral Ordinance, relating to the keeping open of iced cream saloons, barber shops, butcher shops and restaurants. The ordinance was lost on its third reading by a vote of seven to three, Messrs. Moffett, Watson and Wilbur voting in the affirmative.

Mr. Moffett submitted the following resolution, which one of the Councilmen playfully moved to refer to the Attorney General for an opinion:

WHEREAS: The laws of the State prohibit the running of passenger trains on Sunday, and the duty of enforcing the laws of the State as well as the ordinance of the city devolves upon the the mayor and other executive officers of the city,

Resolved, That the attention of his Honor the Mayor be called to the constant wilful violation of this penal law of the State, and that he be respectfully requested by the Common Council to instruct the police officers of the city to take such measures as may be necessary to bring the offenders to justice.

The Auditing Committee returned the various claims referred to them during the evening, and they were ordered paid by warrant.

Council adjourned at 11:20 P. M.

The Central Railroad Employees.

A few additional changes are reported among the employees of the Central Railroad by resignation or removal. Most of them are on the through trains. There have not been many changes among the conductors on trains from Somerville, Elizabeth, etc., to New York, but general uneasiness prevails all along the line. Gen'l Supt. Ohlhausen has published a card, in which he says:

Good, honest and capable employees are not generally dismissed without cause, and there is no railroad in the country that appreciates these three qualities in its employees more than the Central Railroad of New Jersey.

—According to the prophets this is said to be the year for the return of the seventeen year locusts.

DUELS IN THE STREET.

Two Sanguinary Affairs at Paris, Tenn. One Resulting Fatally.

PARIS, Tenn., June 5.—Kennie Porter and Bill Edmonds met this evening at 6 o'clock in front of the Wright and Edward's saloon. Edmunds was standing on the street talking when Porter stepped behind a brick pile and began firing. Edmunds drew his pistol and started toward Porter, firing all the time, but before he could get a fair shot three balls had struck him and he fell. He fired once after falling. Two balls went through his left wrist, which he had raised for protection. One ball struck him in the hip.

Porter shot first and fired five times. Edmunds fired three times. There was not a word spoken until Porter began shooting when Edmunds drew his pistol. The wounds are not necessarily fatal. Porter has left town, but several persons are in pursuit of him.

As Alex. B. White, cashier of the Commercial Bank, was standing talking to some one in front of F. C. McNeill's drug store, at 9:15 last night. Dudley Porter walked up and remarked, "You are telling a ——!" at the same time running his hand into his vest pocket to draw a pistol. White drew his pistol first and shot Porter twice, once through the heart, killing him instantly.

Kennie Porter and White had a shooting affray some time ago in which the former was badly wounded, and this is the cause of the killing. White did not attempt to get away.

The Porters are sons of James D. Porter, ex-Assistant United States Secretary of State, who felt compelled some time ago on account of his sons' troubles to have his name withdrawn in connection with the election of United States Senator by the Legislature next January, to succeed Senator Isham G. Harris. Dudley Porter shot and badly wounded a man in New York some years ago.

The wildest excitement now prevails.

Americans Securing Nova Scotia Coal Mines

HALIFAX, N. S., June 5.—John R. Bothwell, of New York, has interested certain New York capitalists in the purchase of a number of Cape Breton coal companies which are to be consolidated into one management. Among the companies selling to the Bothwell syndicate are the Sydney and Louisburg Coal and Railway Syndicate, the International and the Caladonia Company. It is likely that a number of collieries now owned in Halifax will be taken into the consolidated company.

Breaking Up a Band of Counterfeiters.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., June 5.—United States officers have succeeded in capturing Fred Fowler and William Ferguson, two members of a band of counterfeiters who have been working this section for more than two months. It is estimated that there is upward of $15,000 in counterfeit coin now in circulation, besides a large number of $5 silver certificates. It is believed the whole gang of counterfeiters will be apprehended within the next ten days.

H. R. H. Sends Regrets.

BOSTON, June 5.—Major Durrant of the Honorable Artillery Company is in receipt of a letter, under seal, from his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, addressed to Col. Henry Walker of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, in reply to an invitation to be present at the celebration, and expresses regrets that he cannot join in the celebration and congratulating the company on its honorable record. This was read at the banquet. The Duke of Portland also sends a letter.

CONDENSED DESPATCHES.

The German Anarchists, Etter and Wabeler, have been expelled from Switzerland.

Miss Catharine Gormby, aged 67 years, deliberately walked in front of a train of cars at Saratoga and was killed.

Edward A. Deacons, convicted in Rochester of the murder of Mrs. Ada Stone, was sentenced to be hanged on July 10, between the hours of 10 a. m. and 3 p. m.

E. P. Pomeroy of Rochester, N. Y., aged 60 years, while visiting his sister at Harpswell, Me., hanged himself. He was temporarily insane.

Patrick E. Morris was arrested in North Adams, Mass., charged with murder in the first degree, and committed without bail. Morris crushed the skull of Sylvanus Morgan on May 25, from which Morgan died.

The machinists in the employ of L. S. Graves & Son, elevator builders of Rochester, N. Y., numbering about 100 men, refused to go to work Monday morning. The difficulty appears to have been caused by the painting of the glass in the lower sashes of the windows in the room where the men were employed.

Weather Indications.

BOULANGER DEFEATED

A LIVELY BREEZE IN THE FRENCH CHAMBERS.

His Motion For a Revision of the Constitution is Lost—The Clan-na-Gael Plot—Foreign Intelligence.

PARIS, June 5.—Gen. Boulanger has taken his first step in the Chamber of Deputies for the revision of the Constitution. He gave notice to the Chamber that he would submit a proposal for a revision of the Constitution and would demand urgency therefor. He read a preamble saying that the elections which had produced so many manifestations in his favor compelled him to call attention to the sufferings of the country and to the intense crisis which threatens to become very serious. France, he declared, no longer feels the confidence in the future which is necessary to every well-governed country This statement met with loud dissent.

He then went on to say that the present system ought to be completely reformed. A revision of the Constitution was the only effectual way to take the Government from the hands of the privileged class.

It was notorious that some Ministers had drawn money from the public treasury in order to secure electoral votes.

At this point the General was again interrupted by cries of dissent, and the President of the Chamber asked him to withdraw his statement. General Boulanger declared that he had no intention of attacking the present Ministers. This declaration was received with cries of "Names!" "Names!" and many protests. Continuing General Boulanger asked whether a President for the Republic was really a necessity, and whether France could not do as well without a President.

The President of the Chamber here advised Gen. Boulanger taat it was time to bring his speech to a close.

The General in conclusion, said that France, reconstituted, could promise the continuity of her foreign relations. Supported by a powerful army, she would become the best guarantee for the peace of Europe.

He then read his motion for a revision of the Constitution and a dissolution of Parliament.

The motion was rejected, 377 to 186.

The Clan-na-Gael Plot.

LONDON, June 5.—Walsh, who was suspected of being implicated in a plot similar to that which led to the murder of Lord Frederick Cavendish, finding himself dogged at every footstep, accorded an interview in Paris to an agent from Scotland Yard. He said the police had discovered all the details of the matter in which he was interested, and that he had abandoned his mission. Walsh sailed from Havre for New York on the steamer La Normandie on Saturday, taking passage under the name of Walters.

Emperor Frederick's Condition.

BERLIN, June 5.—The Emperor has suffered some from a headache, due to the oppressive heat. In the afternoon the headache abated, and the Emperor drove to Bornstedt with the Empress and Dr. Mackenzie. On his return he spent some time in the park.

Belfast Proclaimed.

BELFAST, June 5.—The Government has proclaimed Belfast under the Crimes act. This will enable the Court to grant a change of venue in the trial of the persons arrested for defrauding the Equitable Life Insurance Company of New York.

Emperor of Central Asia.

BUCHAREST, June 5.—A report is in circulation that it is the intention at Samarcand to crown the Czar Emperor of Central Asia at Samarcand, in order to offset the influence of Queen Victoria's title as Empress of India.

Friar's Balsam Scratched.

LONDON, June 5.—Sir F. Johnstone's three-year old chestnut colt Friar's Balsam has been scratched for the Ascot meeting.

The St. Mary's at Southampton.

SOUTHAMPTON, June 5.—The New York school ship St. Mary's has arrived at this port.

ELEVEN INMATES PERISHED.

Only Two Persons Escape Alive from a Burning Hotel in Rockdale, Texas.

ROCKDALE, Tex., June 5.—A fire occurred here yesterday in which eleven lives were lost and several people were seriously injured, originated in the office of the Mundine Hotel, a three-story brick structure. The flames spread with wonderful rapidity. Out of the thirteen people known to have been in the hotel, only two escaped with their lives. Following is the list of dead so far as known:

Isaac Crown, a young business man of Rockdale.

Pemberton Pierce, a travelling man representing George Zeigler, of Philadelphia.

Mrs. W. A. Brooks, wife of the proprietor of the hotel.

The four Brooks boys, aged four, six, nine and fifteen years respectively.

J. F. Briscoe, wife and two children.

The hotel register was lost, and it is not improbable that other lives were lost.

No one was heard to call or scream, all dying without a cry for help. A great crowd quickly gathered, and exhausted every effort to afford a rescue. The remains of several have been recovered from the ruins, but they are unrecognizable. Every business place is closed in town out of respect to the dead. Mr. Pierce is the only victim not a resident of Rockdale. The Mundine Hotel was valued at $8,000, and was insured for $1,500. T. B. Kemp, whose store occupied a part of the building, was completely burned out. His loss is $5,000; insurance, $3,000. Joseph Rowland's building was crushed by the falling walls of the hotel, but his stock was saved, though badly damaged. He is fully insured.

Whittier Congratulates Dom Pedro.

BOSTON, June 5.—The poet, Whittier, on hearing that slavery was abolished in Brazil by act of Parliament, sent the following cable to Emperor Dom Pedro at Milan:

With thanks to God, who has blest your generous efforts, I congratulate you on the peaceful abolition of slavery in Brazil.

JOHN G. WHITTIER.

Vicomte Nivac, who is in attendance on Dom Pedro, at once cabled the Emperor's thanks, and stated that his condition is still critical. The Emperor and the poet are personally acquainted with each other.

Destructive Fires in Japan.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 5.—The steamer Oceanic arrived from China and Japan yesterday. Advices from Japan state that 230 houses were destroyed by a conflagration on the 5th of May at Tourangeka, and at Kameka the next day 710 houses, one temple, and a number of huts were burned. No loss is given.

A SENTIMENTAL LOVER.

GOOD ADVICE TO A YOUNG MAN.

How a Swoon and a Picnic Plunged Two Young Hearts in a Whirl of Troubles.

It gives me the heartburn to receive a letter like the following, which came yesterday.

DEAR SIR:—I am 22 years of age and am studying law in the office of Judge Chapin, and my present income is somewhat limited, but I thought I would write to you and ask your kind advice in a matter which has given me great unhappiness. I am in love with a young lady here and I think she is in love with me. I met her first at the brass-band picnic which went to Henderson last 4th of July. She swooned from the excessive heat and I carried her home, and thus it was our love began. I have escorted her to all the sociables and to our debating society, and at the strawberry festival, which is coming off next week, I hope to have the engagement announced. But before I do I write you this letter in order to satisfy myself that I am doing right by myself and by her. She is seventeen and a half years old, has blue eyes and blondine hair, and is a graduate of our High School, but her father has often said that she will not know her own mind for several years to come. I know that her parents want her to lead a frivolous society life for several years and then to marry wealth, which I will never have. Now, I love her and I think she loves me, only, on my present income, until I can practice at the bar and fight my own way to the summit of fortune and fame, I cannot hope to support her in queenly style. I do not see why, as her mother already has two boarders, I could not be one of them, even if I were her daughter's husband, and I write to ask you if you do not think that will be the best way out of our difficulty. Enclosed please find 2-cent stamp, and, thanking you for your kindness, I am yours r's'py.

J. OLIVER KANE.

P. S.—I write to you in strict confidence.

This is a complicated case and one requiring a great delicacy of discrimination and nicety of judgment to determine, but I am certain that if you take my advice in a large allopathic hunk it will reach the right spot, J. Oliver, and do you much good.

Your certainty that you love her and your uncertainty that she loves you lead me to believe that you have been backward in coming forward. Of course I can readily understand that your complicated struggles with a course of subpoena, certiorari, mandamus, habeus corpus, duces tecum, nolle pros., posse comitatus, replevin, nulla bona, de lunatico inquirendo, in hoc signo vinces, E. Pluribus Unum, Erin go bragh, de minimis non curat lex, quo warranto, ne exigeat, and other delights of your learned profession, when combined with moonlight, alabaster cheeks and the melting sapphire eyes of a golden-haired girl, are apt to produce a species of sentimental indigestion well calculated to lower the tone of the system of any young and ambitious citizen of Adams Centre, N. Y.

WORTH $17.

Nevertheless, it appears to me that ample time has been afforded you since the happy yet lamentable picnic which you describe to have grasped her young affections gently, and yet firmly, led rose-winged love a captive to your manly charms, and, in response to the hoarse masculine ardor of your devotion, learned from her twittering lips that she loved you in return.

I have trembled, J. Oliver, many times since reading your sad, soulful epistle, to think that perhaps, even after that mad 4th of July episode and the long course of social gayeties and silent kerosene vigils in which you have since indulged, your own girly girl may be leading you through a labyrinth of bamboozle, toying with the noblest of your emotions and merely dancing like a little careless glittering mote through the broad shafts of the sunshine of your tropical worship. Woman! O woman! exquisite, adorable, red-lipped woman, inconstant as the changeful moon, and—er—

But this is irrelevant, J. Oliver. Let us take it for granted that she does love you and that your two souls are like earth's lone hemispheres fused into one—with a safety fuse. Let us assume that within a week after you have perused this sober and patriarchal reply to your inquiry, you will again revisit the flower-decked scene of the picnic swoon, and in some mellow moonlighted hour when the veils of purple evening are softly dropping upon the scene and the blooming branches above you and around you are full of the folding and fluttering of weary wings; when the early firefly jewels the gloom with his fitful torch; when the whippoorwill shrills from the distant copse and the drowsy rooster clucks a good-night to his sleepy harem and composes himself to ruffled dreams—there, under the broad canopy spangled with glory, you will take her soft, unresisting hand in yours; you will murmur the tremendous question; there will be a silence; slowly and coyly her dainty head, with its lovelocks tossed awry, will sink upon your breast, and then the young-eyed stars will gaze with rapture upon your first, long and unutterable betrothal kiss. Ah me! J. Oliver, that moment will be one for which you would not take $17.

AN APPROXIMATION.

But this is not all. In your present frame of mind you look forward to that as the end, whereas to my cool and somewhat cynical eye it is but the beginning. From what you have told me of her parents, of their desires, ambitions and purposes, and of the calm and somewhat solid way in which they seem to regard your advances I am inclined to think that your future will have a few clouds and perhaps a light sprinkling of wet rain.

I regret to say that I cannot discuss this subject except in a brief, cursory and unsatisfactory manner, but it appears to me that your proposition to take up board with the old folks after your marriage is not one which will be conducive to unalloyed bliss. There is a certain business element inserted in your cup of joy which may possibly spoil the flavor. After a year or two you may find that with your enlarging prospects you would like to change your hotel, vary your bill of fare, occupy a room with a southern instead of a northwestern exposure, try a new brand of Persian powder, or introduce some other little modification in your domestic arrangements to add to your comfort. Under ordinary conditions this is very easy, but where the mercenary interests are intimately commingled with the connubial you may find it difficult. It gives me pain, J. Oliver, to inform you that upon the whole I think yours is a desperate case. You hold a ticket in a lottery which has not been drawn, and as nearly as I can cipher it out you have but a slight chance for even an approximation.

But perhaps I am anticipating. I earnestly trust that at the coming strawberry festival of which you speak all will go well. But it seems to me that instead of figuring upon future board bills just at present you should concentrate your powerful energies upon first getting the girl. Having loaded her up with all the sour berries and frozen custard which her system can stand, you will certainly find her powers of resistance at their very lowest ebb, and while she is still in a comatose condition you may extort from her a promise to marry you and thus give you something really substantial to build upon. When you have accomplished this and the splendor of a brand-new $2.50 amethyst emblazons the third precious finger of her darling left hand, and when you have broken the news gently but haughtily to the old folks and they have given you in return a large and obnoxious piece of their mind, you may write to me again in strict confidence and I will give you further advice. At present your affairs are in an entirely too hazy condition to justify an opinion. Get the girl, J. Oliver; get the girl and get thee gone.—Henry Guy Carleton.

All He Wanted for Breakfast.

I heard a new story the other day on Col. Allen, of the Merchants' hotel, and like all stories of which he is the bull, it is characteristic.

Before the Milwaukee road was built travel between St. Paul and down-river points was about evenly divided between the steamboats and the stages. Col. Allen was interested in the latter, and once found himself with a goodly company of others, interested like himself, down at Red Wing and doing a big stroke of business for the stage lines. The evening was spent by the whole party in a decidedly convivial mood and manner, and the midnight was long past before they felt sleepy. They parted full of good things with a mutual agreement to meet and breakfast together in the morning.

Thanks to the bell-boy, they all got to the breakfast-room on time, but they looked very solemn, and probably felt as they looked. Col. Allen sat at the head of the table. The waiter girls stood about and waited for orders. No one spoke, and each man waited for his neighbor. Finally Col. Allen beckoned a girl.

"Daughter, bring me two pails of water and a pickle."

That settled the breakfast, and the party sought the laboratory and an appetite for dinner.—Minneapolis Journal.

Saved.

The other day a man was walking slowly up Miami avenue and encountered a man walking hurriedly down. They ran into each other, both drew off and apologized, and the one in a hurry added:

"I've been so mad all the morning I couldn't see straight."

"Nothing serious, I hope."

"Well, my wife had some photos taken and the artist made a botch job. I'm now on my way to punch his head."

"Can I see them?"

They were exhibited, and after a careful inspection the gentleman said:

"My friend, you are way off. The work is well done, and you ought to be proud of your wife's looks."

"Do you mean it?"

"Certainly. There are not ten as handsome women in Detroit."

"Shoo!"

"It's a fact, and the work is that of a real artist. You should be more than satisfied."

"Well, I declare! I guess I have been too hasty, and I'll drop the matter right here. Glad I didn't punch the photographer's head."

"Yes, so am I," said the other to himself as he walked away.

It was the artist himself.—Detroit Free Press.

A Glutton.

[By a girl, eleven years old. The spelling, punctuation, capitalization, etc., are all hers. This is what she thought about the picture, without any suggestions.—EDITOR.]

The picture looks to me, as if it was evening, and there was a lamp lit. I think the boy has finished his supper, and has eaten so much he does not know what to do, like boys who don't eat so much. So he is sitting on a chair, he is on it in such a way as to make a picture on the wall of himself like a hog. I think the picture teaches that people who do not eat so much are brighter and happier than one who does. One should learn from it that gluttons are not nice people to associate with, because they are so stupid or dull, and it is not right to be one.—Young People's World.

DEMOCRATS IN ST. LOUIS

The National Convention Begins Its Laborious Duties.

OPENING PROCEEDINGS.

Speech of Lieutenant-Governor S. M. White, of California, the Temporary Chairman. The Temporary Organization the Same as Previously Announced—The Convention's Big Parade.

ST. LOUIS, June 6.—The trickling stream of humanity which began to run into the big Exposition Building as early as 8 o'clock had grown to a torrent which surged in and filled the great nave of the hall to overflowing, and long before noon 10,000 human faces gazed upon the high desk reserved for the presiding officer of the convention, with its gleaming white silver gavel—a gift of the Nevada delegates—full of curious interests for the expectant multitude. The noble proportions of the hall strike one at a glance with admiration. It is oblong in shape, relieved upon either side by balconies reaching back 200 feet, above which, stretching entirely around the auditorium, is a broad overhanging gallery. An ample stage reaches from the rear of the chairman's platform fifty feet to the east wall of the hall and accommodates 440 of the gathered leaders and fathers of the National Democracy, who thus are enabled to overlook officers, delegates and spectators. The decorations are simple but effective. The stage is hung with red, white and blue bunting, relieved by festoons and borders of evergreens. Upon a pedestal on the right of the entrance of the stage stands a bust of the President and suspended upon the face of the gallery above the stage heavily framed in gilt is a large portrait of the President. On either side are similar portraits of Cleveland, Hancock, Tilden, Hendricks and the late Gov. Marmaduke, of Missouri. The balcony and gallery pillars and the face of the long widening galleries and the fronts of the balconies are profusely decorated with American flags in alternate long and short festoons, caught up with large red, white and blue rosettes. Festoons of American flags and red, white and blue bunting hang from the open woodwork supports of the roof and the high graceful pillars which support the rafters are bound with encircling garlands and ropes of evergreens.

At 12:30 Chairman Barnum during a scene of tremendus tumult rapped the gavel calling the Democratic National Convention to order, and after prayer by Bishop Grandberry, Lieutenant-Governor White, of California was chosen as Temporary Chairman. The balance of the temporary organization are the same as predicted in these despatches before.

Secretary Prince read the names of the temporary officers. At mention of the names of Temporary Chairman White, of California, and Secretary Prince there was applause.

Senator Gorman, Bryce, of Ohio, and Dawson, of South Carolina, were appointed to escort Chairman White to the chair.

The California delegation gave three cheers standing for Chairman White. His remarks were punctuated with applause and cries of "Hurrah for California" from the California delegation.

Chairman White, on taking the chair, spoke at some length.

He said he was grateful for the honor conferred, because it was an appreciation of his section of the country. He assured the convention that he and his fellow delegates from the Pacific slope were profoundly impressed with the first distinction of the kind in the history of the Democracy. He congratulated the convention at the encouraging circumstances which attended the inauguration of its proceedings. He alluded to the administration by saying that for the first time in 25 years a National Democratic Convention was being held while the affairs of the country were conducted by the Democracy. The experience of four years, he said, has disproved the assertions and charges that the Democracy could not be trusted with the government of the country. Continuing, Mr. White said:

The platform of principles adopted at our last National Convention prescribed with accuracy the rules of conduct which should should control government action.

Grover Cleveland was selected by that convention as a man whose firmness, ability, integrity and statesmanlike qualities pre-eminently fitted him to undertake the task of carrying out the great reforms thus suggested by the organization to whose tenets he had ever been ready to yield compliance.

For years it had been generally conceded that it was necessary to reform the tariff. The existing law on the subject had been called into being during the excitement and because of the exigencies of war. The Republican party, while not denying the necessity for reform, has never failed to suggest any remedy, and has universally thwarted the efforts of the Democracy to afford the needed relief. The present administration has realized the promises made by the Democratic Convention of 1884. It has sought to reduce taxation and lighten the burdens of the people, and to reduce the revenue so as to prevent undue accumulation in the Treasury, and has at the same time taken the requisite steps to foster and protect domestic industries.

The existence of an enormous surplus in the Treasury threatens the industries of the country, is a constant source of injury to the consumer and men of moderate means, who find it difficult to obtain monetary assistance, because of the withdrawal of a large portion of the circulating medium. He touched on land grant grabs and Chinese immigration, and gave the Democracy the credit of stopping both. He declared that the sentiment of the people demanded the renomination of Grover Cleveland. Applause.

As soon as Governor White had taken his seat, Governor Green, of New Jersey, sent up a resolution adopting the rules of the last convention, subject to some slight modifications. Mr. Waller, of Missouri, raised the point of order that until the Committee on Credentials had reported, they did not know who composed the Convention. The point was overruled, and the resolution was adopted by a majority vote.

Mr. Patterson, of Colorado, in behalf of the delegations from that State, rose in his seat to present to the chair a silver gavel, made of material from the bowels of Colorado's earth, the workmanship the handiwork of Colorado's artisans. He hoped that with it would be made the announcement of President Cleveland's renomination. The present was accepted by the chairman, who remarked that for the present the Convention would have to be ruled by silver.

Roswell P. Flower, of New York, moved a recess until noon to-morrow. Ex-Governor Abbett objected, and suggested 10 a. m., on the ground that he desired to see the President renominated to-morrow and not on the third day. The majority settled the question in favor of Governor Abbett, and the Convention took a recess until this morning at 10 o'clock.

GOVERNOR GRAY.

The Committee on Resolutions went into session at the National Committee room at the Southern Hotel at 5:30 p. m. The proceedings opened with a contest that is generally regarded as affording a test vote on the tariff issue. Henry Watterson, of Kentucky, was put in nomination for the position of chairman. Mr. Watterson was elected, receiving twenty-two votes to twenty for Senator Gorman.

The election of Mr. Watterson as Chairman was made unanimous, on motion of Senator Gorman, and Mr. Watterson, on taking the chair said that if the public knew now very slight the shade of difference Senator Gorman and himself as to what the Democratic Party should now say in its platform, no significance would be attached to his choice instead of that of the Senator from Maryland.

The Convention's Big Parade.

ST. LOUIS, June 6.—The streets along the line of the parade last night were literally choked with people. The Convention parade of all the delegations, from the Canadian line to the Gulf, and from the saw mills of Maine to the vineyards of California, with generously decorated marshals on prancing horses, and crashing bands, has made the night one that will be remembered by St. Louisians long after the visitors have departed. It is estimated that there were 40,000 men in line and each delegation was headed by a band. The paraders were reviewed by the Governor of the State and the Mayor.

Jack Dempsey Wants to Fight.

CHICAGO, June 6.—Jack Dempsey, the light weight, who arrived from New York a few days ago, is anxious to fight Billy Myers, of Streator, Ill., at 133 pounds. He has no backers and wants to fight for a purse. Myers refuses to meet him for a purse of less than $1,000.

J. G. Blaine Going to Scotland.

LONDON, June 6.—James G. Blaine and party started for Andrew Carnegie's summer resort to-day. Mr. Blaine will have to face the chilly blasts of the Highlands, as a heavy snow storm has just taken place, covering the hills west of Glasgow.

A CITY SWEPT BY FIRE

THREE HUNDRED HOUSES DESTROYED IN HULL, QUEBEC.

Two Thousand Persons Homeless—The City Hall and Other Public Buildings Burned—Loss Over $500,000.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 6.—A fire swept over the Fourth and Fifth Wards of the city of Hull, opposite Ottawa, yesterday afternoon destroying between 300 and 450 houses and rendering over 2,500 people homeless. Six or seven blocks are now a smouldering mass of ruins.

The fire broke out at about 4 o'clock in the City Hall, situated in the centre of the most populous portion of the city, and the raging wind served to spread the flames with remarkable rapidity. The fire brigade was on the spot almost immediately, but the fire appliances were miserably insufficient and the water pressure was very low. The building was soon a mass of flames, and the wind hurled burning embers eastward across the square into a long block of wooden houses, which took fire at once.

The fire then swept everything before it, spreading further east, and also extending northeast about three blocks, and literally burned itself out, about half a mile from where it started. The area it traversed extends from the City Hall square to McRae's dock outside the city limits.

Hundreds of families are camped in the open air without shelter of any kind. Prompt measures for their relief have been taken, and matters are likely to be in better shape to-day.

The loss is hard to estimate. It may be $500,000 and possibly it will reach $800,000. The insurance will not reach one-fifth the amount of loss. The principal buildings burned, apart from fifteen or twenty stores, were the City Hall, the Catholic Church, a stone structure worth $100,000; a three-story stone presbytery and a convent.

The origin of the fire is unknown.

The fire was one of the largest that has ever visited Hull, but scarcely equalled in extent the big conflagration of two years ago. The east end of the city is a smoking ruin to-day. The fire nearly spread, by way of North End, to the upper or most populous portion of Hull destroyed two years ago, but owing to assistance from Ottawa, the fire in that direction was checked near the corner of Victoria and Brittania streets.

All the dwellings were miserable shanties or cottages, principally occupied by mill hands. The houses were nearly as dry as tinder, and in almost every instance the occupants barely escaped with their lives. Women wild with terror rushed around searching for their children, and the blinding smoke tended to increase the confusion and excitement. Many citizens seeing their dwellings were doomed turned their attention to the contents of the church, and many of the statues and ornaments were saved.

No lives are reported lost, though many sick people were rescued from a terrible fate, but not a moment too soon.

Losses by Fire.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 6.—Forest fires are doing great damage in Wisconsin, South of Ashland. At "Thirty Mile Siding" on the Chicago, St. Paul Minnesota and Omaha Railroad the postoffice, three houses, 30 cars, 5,000 ties, and 3,000 posts have been burned. Trains are delayed and fears are entertained for other towns in the vicinity.

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 6.—Cromwell, a small place twenty-two miles west of Northern Pacific Junction, Minn., was wiped out by fire.

NEW ORLEANS, June 6.—Joseph Seidel & Bro.'s furniture factory in Gasquet street was burned entailing a loss of $10,000.

NEWBURGH, N. Y., June 6.—Peter I. Hanmer's flour and feed store was burned yesterday; loss $1,000; insurance $3,500.

Fleeing From the White Caps.

LOUISVILLE, June 6.—John Williams, his wife and four children have arrived in Jeffersonville from Salem, Ind. They were leaving Indiana on account of persecution by the White Caps. Williams says he owned a little farm near Salem, on which he was brought up. He refused to join the White Cap band in his neighborhood. A dozen masked men entered his house and bound him and bore him to the woods. He recognized two or three, he thought, and called them by names. This seemed to startle them, but after a consultation they bound him to a tree and began beating him with hickory switches. His wife and children, attracted by his cries, came and begged piteously for mercy, but the flogging did not stop till two hundred lashes had been laid on.

Missionary Anniversary.

SARATOGA, N. Y., June 6.—The American Home Missionary Society, Congregationalist, has begun its sixty-second anniversary at the Washington Street Methodist Church. President Seelye, of Amherst College, the President of the Society, presiding. George Leon Walker, D. D., of Hartford, Conn., recently appointed to fill the vacancy in the Board of Visitors of Andover Theological Seminary occasioned by the death of the Rev. Dr. Eustus, of Springfield, Mass., preached the opening sermon. This was followed by the usual communion service.

They Want the Sugar Duty Repealed.

BALTIMORE, June 6.—The Board of Trade, at its monthly meeting, adopted a resolution requesting that Congress remove the duty on sugar altogether, or if that is incompatible with the new Tariff bill, that the lowest rate of duty be extended to embrace No. 18 Dutch standard. The resolution declares that the proposed duty on sugar as indicated by the Mills bill gives greater protection to the Sugar Trust than ever.

Irish Presbyterians Against Gladstone.

BELFAST, June 6.—The Presbyterian General Assembly met in this city. The retiring moderator declared in his opening speech that the Presbyterian Church is soundly Unionist in its views. Gladstoneism, he said, implied the crippling of the church's resources, the transfer of education into the hands of the Romanists, and, perhaps, the expulsion of Presbyterianism from the greater part of Ireland.

BY THE WAY.

—Oh! for a Y. M. C. A. building.

—The weather of yesterday and today, has been the regular mid-Summer sort of weather.

—An electric lamp now illuminates the front of Councilman Wilbur's residence on East Third street.

—The Potter employees defeated a nine from the Pond Tool Works at a game of base ball on Saturday.

—One of the questions most common with the ladies nowadays is: "Where are you going to spend the Summer?"

—A regular meeting of the Union county Board of Chosen Freeholders will be held in the Court House at Elizabeth to-morrow afternoon.

—The driveways leading to the Grant avenue depot from Front street, are being put in good condition for Summer travel, and the lawns about the depot are being beautified.

—The big draw of the Baltimore and Ohio bridge across the Kill Von Kull, the largest single span in the world, will be placed in position or swung for the first time on next Sunday.

—A cake and candy sale for the benefit of the Young Ladies' Mission Band, will be held in the parlors of the Crescent Avenue church, Monday next, from five to seven o'clock, P. M.

—The Y's assembled in their rooms, yesterday afternoon, for the last Devotional Meeting before closing for the Summer months. The meeting was full of interest, and everyone regretted that the warm weather was approaching to put a close to these gatherings.

—The engagements he already has to fill, will keep Dr. Kimbell in the city for at least a week longer, but those whose tender feet are a continual feast of pain, should call on him as soon as possible or they may miss an opportunity they will long regret. His treatment is painless, and cure instantaneous.

—Everybody seems to recommend Clark's Mile-end cotton as the best for hand sewing and all kinds of sewing machines. The white thread is wound on black spools and is for sale everywhere. Mr. John Beat, the representative of the agents, was in Plainfield today, and reports the sales in this city as remarkable.

—Communion was celebrated at Grace church on Sunday. During the service in this church, Archdeacon Rodman took occasion to allude to the forthcoming convention of the Bishops of the World, to be held in London during the coming Summer. Two of the subjects to be discussed, he said, were "Temperance" and "Divorce."

—Messrs. S. A. Fleming & Co., Lutkins & Hummer, Benj. A. Moore, Peter H. Bennett, Geo. A. Moore, Chas. Arnold, Peter Holm, J. W. VanSyckle and I. Lewis, are the butchers who signed the remonstrance presented to the Council on Monday evening, against the adoption of the proposed ordinance authorizing butcher shops to remain open on Sunday.

—Some of the garbage collectors who have been in the habit of collecting swill for their pigs, have gladly carried away ashes also for the sake of getting the swill. They now complain that the new health ordinance prohibits them from making their usual rounds, and the individual rates charged under the new ordinance, they say, exceed the former prices.

A Plainfield Lady Honored.

Mrs. Rev. W. E. Honeyman of North Plainfield, who today started with her husband for a trip to Colorado, has been honored by being elected Vice-president of the Woman's Executive Committee of the Home Mission of the Presbyterian churches of America. This Board which was commended by the General Assembly, last year collected $226,000 for Home Missionary purposes. The Board employs 140 teachers, who are located in Alaska, and among the Indians and Mexicans. The honor thus bestowed upon Mrs. Honeyman is a just one, and which her many friends will doubtless be glad to hear of.

The Holy Cross Choir.

The new choir building that is to connect the Holy Cross church with the chapel is in process of erection. As soon as it is completed, which will be in about two weeks, the vested choir of men and boys, now in course of training, will make its appearance in the church.

BY THE PRESS SPECIAL SERVICE.

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND RE-NOMINATED.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 6.—The Democratic National Convention in session here, this afternoon re-nominated Grover Cleveland for President of the United States. The nomination was made by Daniel Dougherty of New York, and carried by acclamation.

The Valedictorian of '88.

The credit and the honor of being chosen valedictorian of this year's graduating class of the High School, will be given to Miss Marion F. Randolph. The dignity of this particular appointment is the greater, because the Class of '88 is the largest, if we are not mistaken, that has ever been graduated from the Plainfield schools.

The young lady who has secured the appointment, is both deserving and worthy of it. During her entire scholarship she has been faithful and efficient in all studies—a credit and a satisfaction to her teachers, the pride and admiration of her classes, and an honor to her school.

After the close of the Summer vacation that follows the term's completion here, Miss Randolph, it is said, will enter Wellesley, as will, also, Miss Burt, who was the valedictorian of '87. An odd coincidence connected with these consecutive appointees, is this: Miss Burt was awarded a language prize in '86 and was valedictorian in '87; Miss Randolph was awarded a language prize in '87 and was valedictorian in '88.

Hungarian Music and Electric Lights.

On Saturday afternoon and evening of this week, there will be held a lawn fair on the beautiful and spacious grounds of F. X. Schoonmaker, Esq., Putnam street and Carlton avenue, by the misses and masters of that neighborhood, at which novelties in fancy articles will be offered for sale, and seasonable refreshments will be served. Hungarian music will enliven the occasion, played from the balcony of the handsome residence of Mr. Seymour Marsh adjoining the premises of Mr. Schoonmaker.

The young people of that vicinity are in great glee over the good time coming, and are selling tickets for the occasion with a vim and energy that are surprising and which display remarkable enterprise. The entertainment is for the benefit of the Grace church building fund, and is a worthy object. Everybody hopes the fund will be increased to a considerable amount by the efforts of the lads and lasses engaged in the noble work. It is hoped that the good people of Plainfield will lend their liberal aid to the work of the young folks and make the affair a grand success.

Mr. Leo Daft has kindly offered to light the grounds by electricity, and Chinese lanterns will also give brilliancy to the occasion. The event will undoubtedly be memorable in the history of Putnam street and vicinity. The price of tickets is fixed at ten cents each, and are being offered by a band of workers, wonderful in their persuasive powers and grace of action. Following are the names of the committee who have the matter in charge: Miss Tilla Daft, Chairman, Miss Anna Daft, Misses Alice, Jennie and Dolly Schoonmaker, Miss Flora Smith, Masters Seymour W. Marsh, Gilmore Drayton and Thomas Daft.

Plainfield Defeats Newark by One Game.

The pleasant parlors of the Bicycle Club was the scene of many a hard-fought fight and creditable victory, last evening. The best eleven chess players in Newark swapped pawns with eleven members of the Plainfield Chess Club, and at the finish of the contest, the latter organization was one game ahead. But Plainfield's always ahead.

During the evening, refreshments were served the visitors in the wheel-room. When train time, 11:23, arrived, two games were still unfinished and they were decided as drawn. This left the score as follows—giving the names of the Plainfield players only:

WON—Clarence Murphy, Edward St. John, A. Venino, Prof. Jacobus and Wm. Gilbert—5.

LOST—R. B. Keys, Roscoe Channing, Jr., Gen. Eli Long and Mr. Boice—4.

UNFINISHED—Russell Jacobus and Mr. Lloyd.

Mr. Keys spoke for the Plainfield Club in bidding the visitors farewell. He thanked them for their presence and expressed a hope to meet the adversaries in Newark at an early day.

A representative of the Newark players returned the compliment. He said they had been met more like friends than foes, but he hoped when they came together again in Newark, the players of that city would do better. Mr. Keys replied, he hoped not.

Cooking Classes.

The Cooking Classes in connection with the W. C. T. U. Kitchen Garden will be open to the public next Saturday afternoon from 2 to 5 P. M., and it is hoped the many friends interested in these little cooks will be glad to be present during the afternoon and leave a ten cent piece, to help defray the expense of this most important branch of work under the Women's Christian Temperance Union.

Alumni Organization.

About thirty of the graduates of the North Plainfield Public School, met in the school building, last evening, and organized an Alumni Association. The following were selected as its officers:

PRESIDENT—Wm. Wilcox.
VICE PRESIDENT—Anna Hull.
SECRETARY—Geo. P. Taggart.
TREASURER—Elston French.

Annual Meeting Of The Pond Co.

On Monday afternoon the first annual meeting of the Pond Machine Tool Co., since its organization, was held at the office of the company in this city. The meeting was, principally, for the election of seven Directors, and also for the transaction of any other business.

There was a large representation of the stockholders present, and the following Board of Directors was chosen:

David W. Pond.	J. Rogers Maxwell.
Albert C. Stebbins,	Henry S. Manning.
Charles E. Maxwell.	Charles A. Moore.
Eugene L. Maxwell.

The Board subsequently met and organized by the election of its executive officers as follows:

PRESIDENT—David W. Pond.
VICE PRESIDENT—Albert C. Stebbins.
SECRETARY AND TREAS.—Charles E. Maxwell.
EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE—J. R. Maxwell, H. S. Manning and E. L. Maxwell.

The meeting also afforded the stockholders an opportunity of inspecting the company's model works. All were thoroughly charmed with the perfect arrangement of every department, and the complete equipment of every service. In this connection the following, from the current number of the American Machinist, expresses the condition of affairs:

The shops of the Pond Machine Tool Co., recently erected at Plainfield, N. J., are well worth a visit by one interested in shop architecture, and afford a striking example of what can be done in that line by manufacturers who have had sufficient experience in their particular business, to know just what they require, and at the same time are possessed of the necessary capital to have things just as they want them.

Situated on the outskirts of the city, on the line of the Central R. R. of New Jersey, the location has been chosen not only with a view to convenience of access, and for receiving stock and making shipments of finished products, but also with regard to the healthfulness of the surroundings and consequent welfare of the men who may be employed there.

Light, pure air, and good water are there in abundance, and every provision has been made to make full and liberal use of them.

The Pocono Mountaineers Seriously Alarmed.

Telegraphic despatches just received as we go to press, state the arrival in the Pocono Mountains of three men answering to the description of Christopher M. Goddard, Joseph G. Miller and John Vetterlein of this city. They are accompanied by rubber boots, bait cans, various bottles and other technical and professional paraphernalia of fishermen.

The despatch goes on to say: "The residents here, however, are not entirely prepossessed with the appearance of the strangers, and think the fishing tackle may be a disguise under which to tackle anything else. Consequently, all the chicken coops have been securely fastened; the dogs of the whole neighborhood loosened; and the inhabitants have locked themselves in their houses and made preparation to sit up all night."

The Elizabeth Tennis Tournament.

The finals of the singles were played Saturday afternoon on the North Broad street grounds. Elliott beat Wotherspoon of this city 6-1, 6-4. Glazebrook beat Green 6-5, 3-6, 6-4. Much interest centred in the final between Elliott and Glazebrook, as the latter had beaten Elliott in this city last year. Elliott won with ease, outplaying Glazebrook at every point and winning the tournament by a score of 6-4, 6-1. The attendance was large. The presence of many ladies lent a great charm to the whole affair.

—THE PRESS expects to be able to give a full and interesting report, to-morrow, of the fair that is being held today in Scotch Plains by the granddaughter of Dr. Howe, for the benefit of his Boston institute for the blind.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Miss Amy Green of Eighth street started today for a week's visit with friends at Boston.

Mrs. Asa Collier and family leave today for a Summer at Ocean Grove. They will reside on Cookman avenue.

Mr. John R. Truell and family of Central avenue, will spend the Summer at Ocean Grove, returning to Plainfield about the first of September.

Mr. Edward Campbell who came to this city from Washington, D. C., to bury a child, a few weeks ago, returned on Friday. Mrs. Campbell will spend the Summer in this city.

A musical at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Munger in Washington Park on Monday, was thoroughly enjoyed by a select few of the society people of this city and the borough.

At a meeting of the consistory of Trinity Reformed church, held last evening, Mr. P. P. VanArsdale was elected treasurer to succeed Mr. Daniel VanWinkle, the late efficient treasurer, who was obliged to resign on account of increased business engagements.

The scholars and teachers of the primary department of the Crescent Avenue Sunday school, will be entertained on the grounds of Mr. H. B. Newhall, West Seventh street, Saturday afternoon from three to five o'clock. Should it be stormy, the affair will be held in-doors.

The programme for the fourteenth anniversary exercises of the Hackettstown Institute, has been announced. The exercises will begin on Sunday next, at 10:30 A. M., when Bishop John H. Vincent, D. D., LL. D., of this city will preach the Baccalaureate sermon, and conclude with the Commencement on the following Thursday.

Mrs. Jacob Schultheis of this city has received a letter from her husband, who sailed for Europe a few weeks ago, stating that on the way over Mr. Schultheis slipped and fell on the deck, badly spraining one of the knee joints. The injured man is laid up at Bremer, and will be obliged to remain there for some time to come.

By the nomination of Eugene A. Laine to the office of First Assistant Chief of the Plainfield Fire Department, the Mayor made a good selection. Mr. Laine is well known here, and his connection with the fire department dates back for a period of about ten years. As an active fireman he is one of the foremost, and his confirmation for the office of First Assistant Chief was unanimous.

Lawn Party and Festival.

The lawn party and strawberry festival by the Young People's Mission Band, of the First Baptist church, held on the lawn at the corner of Grove street and Prospect place, last evening, was a grand success, both financially and socially, and the Society will realize about $125 as the result of its efforts.

The beautiful lawn shone resplendent with the lights of many lanterns, while in the house there was a grand display of flags, bunting, and other decorations.

On the lawn Miss Addie Gardner and Miss Helen Thompson presided over the flower booth, and Miss Grace Cooley dispensed candies and nick-nacks from a table on the porch. The Plainfield Cornet Band furnished appropriate music for promenading, while the pretty waitresses flitted about in hey-day attire attending to the wants of their numerous patrons. Iced cream, strawberries and cake were served on the lawn by the following young ladies:

Marie Balen, Edith Taylor, May Shreve, Clara Thompson, Lulu French, Gertrude Eddy, Dora Grant, Lizzie Seers, Ida Lewis, Susie Woodland, Nettie Gardner, Fannie Gardner, Florence Runyon, Emma Teller, Maggie Winters, Bertha Needham, May Clawson, Nettie Whitlock, Sarah Long, Minnie Ammermann and Emma Case.

Crescent Glee Club Festival.

The first annual strawberry festival of the Crescent Glee Club of this city, was held in the spacious building at the corner of Front and Grove streets, last evening. Notwithstanding the fact that there was another festival in progress, not a hundred yards distant, the club received a fair share of public patronage. The large hall was tastefully decorated, and at convenient points tables were located for the sale of cake, cream, etc. The music for the occasion was furnished by the new city Cornet Band.

During the evening Mr. C. H. Farlee sang a solo, with chorus by the club, and a quartette composed of Messrs. Farlee, Vail, Williams and Ackerman also sang a selection. The festival will be continued this evening.

Protection for Monopolists Only.

Here is a reason for fair trade that strikes us right where we live. We quote from the Trenton True American.

"Some of the Philadelphia type founders deny that there is a type founder's trust, but perhaps they didn't like the name. There is, beyond doubt, a combination by which prices were advanced, and an agreement made not to undersell each other. This may or may not be a trust, but its effects are the same.

"If the duty was knocked off type for a year, it would teach them a lesson and save twenty thousand printers from being robbed."

—The scholars of the Chimney Rock Sunday school, will observe Children's Day on Sunday afternoon next. Outdoor exercises will be held, beginning at 3 P.M. A number of persons from this city will be in attendance.

Muhlenberg Hospital.

The annual meeting of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital was held May 28, 1888. At this meeting the annual reports of the President and Treasurer, and of the medical staff were submitted, and officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows:

PRESIDENT—Rufus K. Case.
1ST VICE PRESIDENT—Chas. Schipper.
2D VICE PRESIDENT—Edward B. Clark.
SECRETARY—Wm. R. Cock.
TREASURER—George H. Goddard.

The Treasurer's report for the year, ending May 31, 1888, shows receipts and payments as follows:

RECEIPTS.

Cash in treasury May 31, 1887		$ 267 50
From individual donations		744 50
From paying patients		1,630 61
From Hospital Sunday collections		472 42
From Ladies' Auxiliary Board		560 00
		$3,675 03

PAYMENTS.

For provisions	$1,188 50
For salary of Superintendent and wages of other employees	1,027 66
For fuel	210 50
For medicines	349 27
For surgical instruments	40 39
For building acc't	65 77
For other expenses	291 00	3,173 09
Cash balance		$ 501 94

Certain sums due to the Hospital, and deemed collectable, will, when collected, increase this balance by $168; making a total of $669.94.

The report of the medical staff shows that during the year covered by the report, patients have been treated at the Hospital, as follows:

In-door patients	88
Dispensary patients	127
Whole number treated	215
Operations performed	20

The results in the cases of in-door patients treated (in number 88), were as follows:

Cured	71
Improved	9
Not improved	1
Died	7—88

At the date of the last report nine patients remained under treatment.

The general condition of the Hospital is prosperous. Its present accommodations are hardly adequate to its needs, and the Board has contracted for the purchase of additional land, and contemplates an addition to the present building for the use of patients needing isolation from the general wards. This addition will probably be erected during the coming year. It is hoped that this Institution, the value of which to the community has been fully proved, will continue to receive the sympathy and generous support of all classes.

Inconsistent Apportionment.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—I desire to call public attention to the injustice of the apportionments of school moneys in the county of Middlesex. The various districts all pay, pro rata, their share of the State School tax, and common sense would suggest that they should receive the State money, pro rata, in proportion to the number of children of school age in their respective districts.

In 1887 the census gives 15,611 as the number of scholars, and the State apportionment amounts to $67,904.80.

In Piscataway Township the following table of apportionment of this money will show its inconsistency, and a remedy should be applied at once to have a more equitable distribution:

District.	Name.	Amount per scholar.
1	Harris Lane,	$5 85
2	Dunellen.	3 85
3	New Market,	3 85
4	Maple Grove,	7 35
5	New Brooklyn,	3 85
6	Fieldville,	8 28
7	Newtown,	8 33
8	Union,	7 23
9	Raritan Landing,	8 28

Is this money was divided equally, each district would receive and is entitled to $4.34 per scholar, and would give the following result:

No. 1.	Harris Lane,	$277 76	instead of	$375 00
" 2.	Dunellen,	1,202 18	"	1,067 82
" 3.	New Market,	477 40	"	424 05
" 4.	Maple Grove,	221 34	"	375 00

In Hunterdon county the division is made thus: Under 45, $200; between 45 and 70, $350; over 70, $500 per scholar. Under the new law next year, they apportion under 45, $275; under 58, $375; over 58, $6.47 per scholar.

Although this is an improvement upon the apportionment in this county, no plan is so just as an equal pro-rata distribution, and if the law does not require it in express terms, the spirit of the law means it should be so. If the County Boards do not so act, the sooner it is made obligatory by statute, the better for all parties concerned.

It is now in order to hear from some other county.

Yours faithfully,
STANLEY DAY.

New Market, N. J., June 5, 1888.

Temperance at Hope Chapel.

The second meeting under the auspices of Howell Division, No. 97, S. of T., at Hope Chapel, Monday evening, June 4, was well attended. Remarks were made by members of No's 97 and 223 Divisions, S. of T., and a recitation by Mrs. Bolstelie of No. 223, S. of T.

Miss Carrie Dewey accompanied on the organ, and Mr. Frank Dodge sang the "Wandering Boy" with great effect. Eleven persons signed the pledge.

General Telegraphic Despatches.

OREGON GOES REPUBLICAN.

About 4,000 Majority—Legislative Majority of Twenty.

PORTLAND, June 6.—Returns from all parts of the State accessible by telegraph indicate that Hermann, Republican, for Congress, has 4,000 majority. His majority in Multomah county, which includes Portland, is 2,500. The Prohibition vote was very small. The Republicans made gains in every county in the State.

The Democrats carry only two counties in the western half of the State. It is the largest Republican majority since the close of the war. A still more surprising result is the returns for members of the Legislature. There are ninety members in both Houses. Of these the Republicans will have about sixty-six and the Democrats about twent-four.

Arkansas Democrats Break the Deadlock.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., June 6.—The State Democratic Convention, after an exciting contest of five days between five candidates for Governor has reached a conclusion by nominating J. P. Eagle for Governor, B. B. Chism Secretary of State, W. S. Dunlap Auditor, P. M. Coobs Land Commissioner, and W. E. Thompson Superintendent of Public Instruction. S. P. Hughes was elected member of the National Committee.

New York's Invitation Not Accepted.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Representative Oates reported adversely from the Judiciary Committee the resolution to authorize the acceptance of the invitation tendered the House to attend the centennial celebration of Washington's inauguration in New York in 1889. The report, which was read, takes the ground that this House has no power to bind its successor.

One More Delegate for Sherman.

NEW CASTLE, Pa., June 6.—The Republicans of the Twenty-fifth Congressional District, of which United States Senator Quay is a resident, yesterday elected Captain William Kyle and W. C. Thompson delegates to Chicago. Kyle is for Sherman. His colleague is non-committal.

Illinois Supreme Bench Republican.

CHICAGO, June 6.—The Republican candidates for Judges of the Illinois Supreme Court, David J. Baker, Jacob W. Witkin, Joseph M. Bailey and Benjamin D. Magruder, were elected in the First, Third, Sixth and Seventh districts, and John M. Scofield a Democrat, the present incumbent, in the Second district. This makes the Supreme Bench of Illinois Republican for the first time in its history.

Electricity Moving Yachts.

NEWBURG, N. Y., June 6.—Great interest is manifested here in the experiment that is about to be made in propelling vessels by electricity. A yacht built by the Messrs. Bigler for the Electric Light Company of Newark, N. J., is being fitted with machinery that will be run by electricity stored in batteries. The yacht is 38 feet long and 9 feet breadth of beam.

Was Himself a Shooter.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 6.—Dudley Porter, son of ex-Gov. Porter, of Tennessee who was shot and killed at Paris, Tenn., on Monday evening, attended Eastman College in this city a number of years ago. While here here he shot A. M. Doty, a prominent druggist of this place. Mr. Doty narrowly escaped with his life.

Dom Pedro Doing Well.

AIX LES BAINS, June 6.—The Emperor of Brazil eats regularly. He passes much of the time in conversing with his doctors on scientific subjects. He will probably drive in the park to-morrow.

NEWS FROM WASHINGTON.

A Bill To Amend the Fishery Retaliation Act--Doings In Congress.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—The House yesterday went into a Committee of the Whole on the tariff bill, debate on the pending clause, "wood manufactures not especially enumerated or provided for," being limited to thirty minutes.

Mr. Parker, of New York, addressed the House in opposition to the lumber clauses of the Tariff bill. He was followed in the opposition by Mr. Reed, of Maine, while the bill was defended by Mr. Cox, of New York, and Mr. Bynum, of Indiana.

The next clause of the free list was: "Hubs for wheels, posts, last blocks, heading blocks, and all like blocks or sticks, rough, hewn, or sawn." He said he had heard that the St. Louis platform would straddle the tariff question. He predicted that all the Democratic banner would read "Cleveland and the red bandana." [tremendous applause on Democratic side.] The Republicans in November standing on a protection platform would be victorious. Mr. Bayne's motion was lost and the committee arose.

The President returned to the House without his approval bills for the erection of public buildings at Bar Harbor, Me., and for the purchase of additional ground for the building at Council Bluffs, Iowa. The veto of the first-named bill was received with laughter by the Republicans.

Count Arco Valle, the new German Minister, had an interview with Secretary Bayard, and arranged to present his credentials to the President on next Tuesday.

The Senate, considering the Diplomatic and Consular Appropriation bill, agreed to transfer to the grade of Envoys Extraordinary and Ministers Plenipotentiary the Ministers Resident in Belgium, the Netherlands, Sweden and Norway and Venezuela, without change of salary, $7,500, and inserted the item "Minister Resident and Consul-General in Corea, $7500;" also to transfer the grade of Minister Resident and Consul-General the Charge d'Affaires to Paraguay and Uruguay without change of salary, $5,000.

On motion of Mr. Sherman an item of $25,000 was inserted for the salaries and expenses of a scientific Commission of three persons, an officer of the army or navy, a geologist and mineralogist, and a naturalist, to visit and report upon the commercial resources of the Upper Congo basins, the salaries, not exceeding $6,000, to be fixed by the President, and the Commission to expire June 30, 1889.

Senator Chandler has introduced a bill to amend the fishery "Retaliation act" by striking out the words "in his discretion," and by also striking out the reference to "other products of the Dominion" than fish. This would absolutely deny Canadian vessels the right of entry whenever the President is satisfied that the rights of Americans in Dominion ports are abridged or whenever they are subjected to annoyance, and would also forbid the importation of Canadian fresh or salt fish.

Senator Quay has been authorized to report favorably his bill granting pensions to soldiers and sailors confined in Confederate prisons.

The President has nominated Capt. William B. Remey of the Marine Corps to be Judge Advocate-General of the navy, with the rank of Colonel in the Marine Corps.

Bills Signed By Gov. Hill.

ALBANY, June 6.—Gov. Hill has approved the following bills:

To legalize concurrent resolutions for printing Volume 15 of the Colonial History.

Amending section 1,340 of the Code of Civil Procedure relative to appeals from county courts.

Amending section 2,620 of the Civil Code relative to wills.

Amending the act for the incorporation of life, health and casualty insurance companies.

Amending the general act for the construction of steam railways.

Amending the act establishing a Forest Commission.

Cignarale and Lyons to Hang.

NEW YORK, June 6.—The Court of Appeals, sitting at Saratoga, has affirmed the judgments of the lower courts in the cases of Mrs. Cagnarale and Daniel Lyons, both confined in the Tombs awaiting execution, the former for the murder of her husband, Antonio Cignarale, and the latter for assassinating in cold blood Joseph Quinn, the young athlete.

TRAINING SAILORS.

A SCHOOLSHIP AND HER JOLLY CREW.

It Isn't All Fun on Board—There is Plenty of Hard Work and the Ship is No Place for Lazy Jacks.

YING at the foot of East Thirty-first street is the city schoolship St. Mary's. Small boys who wander into that neighborhood look longingly at her trim spars and white decks and go home and beg leave to go to sea. Their little heads are filled with pictures of the strange sights seen by the blue-jacketed youngsters, and the ambition to be one of the tight-trousered crowd who go skipping through the tops has been enough to make many a boy leave home by stealth and try to go aboard. Alas for their hopes! Alas also for their ambitions! No boy will be taken aboard the ship who is not brought there by his father or mother or by his legal guardian. The St. Mary's is no place for truants. Any boy who wants to sail in her must not only have the consent of his guardians. He must be the owner of a good moral character in first rate working order, otherwise he will never hearken to the orders of Commander Crowninshield or listen to the hearty voice of Lieut. Field.

Many years ago, when American ships were not so scarce as they are nowadays, the Board of Education of this seaport town resolved to teach boys how to be first-class sailormen. It was one of the best resolves that learned Board ever made. The United States Government very kindly handed over to them the ship St. Mary's, she being a 900-tonner and carrying three skysail yards aloft, and having a record of sixteen knots an hour with the wind two points free and everything drawing. Also the Government detailed a commander, three lieutenants and one surgeon from the national navy to look after the welfare of the boys and train them up in the way good sailors should go. The city of New York has ever since maintained the ship and her crew, and the Government has supplied her with proper officers.

The St. Mary's was a chaser of slave-ships before the war, and was one of the fastest sailing cruisers ever owned by Uncle Sam. When she was mustered out of the service her spars were much shortened and her sailing rig so altered that she could be more easily handled. She is still able to travel twelve knots an hour under all canvas, and she is one of the best rough-weather ships that ever floated.

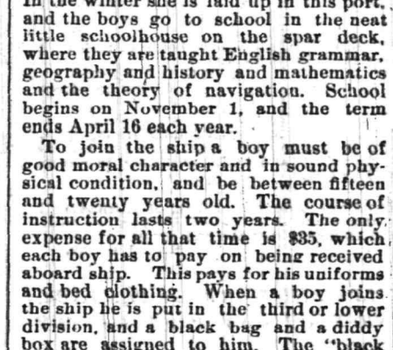
During the summer the St. Mary's cruises in the Atlantic, and the boys have lots of chances to learn all about practical seamanship and navigation. In the winter she is laid up in this port, and the boys go to school in the neat little schoolhouse on the spar deck, where they are taught English grammar, geography and history and mathematics and the theory of navigation. School begins on November 1, and the term ends April 16 each year.

To join the ship a boy must be of good moral character and in sound physical condition, and be between fifteen and twenty years old. The course of instruction lasts two years. The only expense for all that time is $35, which each boy has to pay on being received aboard ship. This pays for his uniforms and bed clothing. When a boy joins the ship he is put in the third or lower division, and a black bag and a diddy box are assigned to him. The "black bag" is a long cylinder of black canvas and fills the place of a trunk. The diddy box is one of a hundred little lockers that is fastened with a big padlock and holds the boy's comb and brushes and all sorts of little traps. The boys all sleep on the gun deck. Their hammocks are slung in long rows above the mess table, and the ventilation of the big room is perfect. It is heated, by the way, with steam, which is supplied from a big boiler forward. This is a luxury the boys won't find on many ships after they leave school, but it doesn't hurt them and it's a fine thing while the ship is in port. For dress occasions the boys wear suits of blue throughout, but ordinarily aboard ship their rig is of white canvas from head to foot.

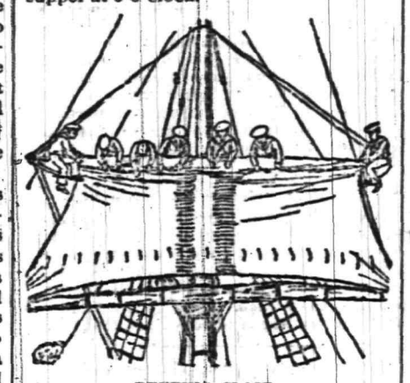


CLIMBING UP THE FUTTOCK SHROUDS.

While in dock the routine is as carefully regulated as at sea. Promptly at 7 o'clock every morning the bos'ns' mate, two of the brightest boys in the Senior Class pipe all hands to deck. When everybody has turned out the cooks are piped below and the rest of the lads carry coal, sweep decks and swab them if swabbing is needed. Then they are piped to breakfast, and at 9 o'clock they are piped up on the spar deck (the topmost one) for inspection. The whole school is divided between the port and starboard watches. Each is drawn up in line and the officer of the day inspects them narrowly. Woe be to the boy whose clothing is torn or his shoes unshined, or who has a spot on his white duck uniform. A bad mark is scored on his record and he will have to do a bit of extra work to atone for it.

After inspection the boys go to school until 12:45 o'clock and work like beavers, or nailers, or any other kind of hard, honest and industrious workmen that you can imagine. Promptly on the moment they are piped on deck and divided into three companies. Each is stationed on the starboard side of the mast. The word is given and up they go in the fore, main and mizzen rigging, nimble as cats and quick as monkeys. They run up to the futtock shrouds, swing lightly over the top (you never saw a sailor boy sneak through the lubber-hole) and then away to the topmast-head and so down again until they reach the deck on the port side. How mere land schoolboys envy them! Every day when the weather is fine the youngsters have this run aloft. It braces them up and gives them an appetite for dinner, and it's one of the prettiest sights any man every looked at to see so much young muscle and health and high spirits go skipping through the tops. Then "Cooks below" is piped, and all the boys who are not cooks have liberty to go out on the big wharf and play all the games they choose until dinner.

School begins again at 2 o'clock and lasts until 4. "Cooks below" pipes out again, and everybody tumbles down to supper at 5 o'clock.



REEFING CLOSE.

From then until 9 o'clock they amuse themselves as they like. At that hour they are piped below to swing their hammocks, and at 9:20 o'clock "lights out" is piped, and the schoolboys' day is over. Half an hour before bedtime they lay out the fire-hose where it will be handy if needed.

In the play hours of the evening the boys may choose their own sports and have all the fun they like. The lieutenants teach them how to fence and box once in a while and provide them with masks, foils and boxing-gloves out of their own pockets. The boys not only like Lieut. Field for his genial ways and kindly treatment, but they revere him for the way he can use the gloves. He is a six foot 200-pounder, and while he is as agile as the youngest boy he can hit a blow fit to crack oak planks. He was one of the famous six-oared gig crew, by the way, that upheld the honor of the American navy in Yokohama Harbor years ago, when like crews from the English, German, Italian, Spanish, French, Russian and Portuguese navies held an open regatta. Rowing and naval men all over the world were talking of it at the time, and the record shows that Lieut. Field's boat beat the second crew more than one minute in a two-mile pull. He is a fair example of the kind of men the Government provides to show boys how to be good sailormen, and it is no wonder that the graduates of the St. Mary's are a credit to her.

At sea the port and starboard watches do regular duty, just as watches of full-grown sailormen would. That, of course, prevents them from keeping such regular hours as they do in port, but they still have plenty of time for sleep, work and play.

"I believe in giving them all the work they can do," says Commander Crowninshield, "but to do it well they must have lots of play and enough sleep."

The boys soon learn how to handle a ship, and they serve their tricks at the wheel, stand watch, and make and mend sails in ship-shape order. After one year's instruction the boys are promoted to be petty officers. There are eight small boats aboard besides the Captain's gig. The coxswain of this craft is one of the smartest lads aboard. Then there are two captains for each of the other crews who are responsible for the order and maintenance of the boats. Two bos'n's mates are chosen from the brightest boys, and they are the highest in authority aboard ship of all those who are made petty officers. They boss the captains of the crews, and at sea they are captains of the foremast watch and watch. In warm weather the boys have a swim every morning, unless there are sharks around or they should happen to find bad weather. In that case they bathe in the big bath-house on the spar deck. Once a week two boys are chosen from each boat's crew to do the cooking. All but the petty officers do this work in turn. The cooks draw rations for their crews, cook them, and are responsible for the mess gear.

In order to make sure of being able to handle the ship in bad weather a crew of fourteen men before the mast is carried. These do most of the work, and some of them lend a hand now and then and show the lads how to make knots, splices, Turk's-heads, Matthew Walkers, and all kinds of ropy mysteries. The school-books are put away at sea and the boys study nothing but navigation and seamanship. They have shore leave at the interesting places they visit, and while they are laying in a seafaring education they certainly enjoy life aboard the St. Mary's.—New York World.

CLEVELAND THE CHOICE

Renominated for President By the Democratic Convention.

PERMANENT ORGANIZATION.

DANIEL DOUGHERTY'S SPEECH NOMINATING GROVER CLEVELAND.

Gen. P. A. Collins's Address as Permanent Chairman. Judge McKenzie, of Kentucky, and Judge Twiggs, of Georgia, Second the Nomination on Behalf of Their Respective States.

ST. LOUIS, June 7.—Just as the doors of the Exposition building were thrown open at 9 o'clock to admit the vast throng which had been patiently waiting outside the military band that was stationed at the base of the Washington equestrian statue in the western balcony burst forth with the Doxology.

The delegates were not as prompt in assembling as on the first day. Nearly all of them had turned out in the parade of the night before, which did not disperse until close upon midnight, when probably one-half of the lot took in the town until footsore and weary, but jolly in spirits.

The first applause was evoked when a magnificent floral shield, about four feet in heighth, was carried upon the platform and placed before the Chairman's desk. It was a tribute to Permanent Chairman P. A. Collins of Massachusetts, whose name, with that of his State, was inscribed across the centre in yellow roses.

The Church delegates from Dakota, Col. W. T. Steele and George H. Meggulier, who had been elected by the Committee on Credentials, were among the first to arrive, and there was a half-satisfied smile upon their faces as they picked out their location.

The Pennsylvanians were next upon the scene and were accorded a hearty reception. After them came Ohioans, and from this on the various delegations filled in rapidly.

At 10:22 temporary Chairman White dealt the desk several severe blows with the silver gavel and called the Convention to order. There was so much confusion, however, that it was several minutes before he succeeded in getting what he wanted.

Then the Rev. T. G. Green was introduced, and while the delegates and visitors arose he prayed.

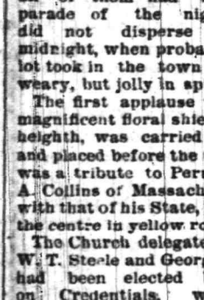
A resolution was read by the Secretary thanking the Colorado delegation for its present of a silver gavel and adopted.

Mr. Campbell, of New York, offered a resolution recognizing and enforcing the Monroe doctrine. Referred to Resolutions Committee.

Mallory, of Florida, offered a resolution recognizing and indorsing the Tariff Reform. Received with prolonged cheering.

Committee on Credentials report was amended that two delegates from Alaska be admitted.

Messrs. Barnum, of Connecticut, Flower of New York, and Oday, of Missouri, were made a committee to escort Mr. Collins, the permanent Chairman to the chair. The Massachusetts delegates gave him three times three cheers. He began his speech in rather a weak voice, causing cries of "Louder" from the rear. Chairman Collins, after thanking the Convention for the honor conferred upon him said:



P. A. COLLINS.

"We represent in this Convent on more than thirty millions of the American people, we bear the commission to act for them, and their injunction to act with all the wisdom that God has given us to protect and safe-guard the institutions of the Republic, as the fathers founded them."

Describing the influence of Jefferson upon the formation of the Republic and its history, he continued:

The Democratic creed was not penned by Jefferson for a section or a class of people, but for all time. These principles conserved and expanded the Republic in all its better days. A strict adherence to them will preserve it to the end.

We meet to-day under conditions new to the democrats of this generation. How often we stood in conventions when to others it seemed as if the shadows of death closed about us, when the day of victory seemed almost as far away as the day of judgment. It could not then be said that we met for spoils or personal advantage. We met to keep up the fires of democratic liberty alive till the dawn of another day. If we were a party of misfortune it must also be agreed that we were a party of undaunted courage and inflexible principles.

The administration of President Cleveland has triumphantly justified his election. It compels the respect, confidence and approval of the country. The prophets of evil and disaster are dumb. What the people see is the Government of Union restored to its ancient footing of justice, peace, honesty and impartial enforcement of law. They see the demands of labor and agriculture met so far as the Government can meet them by legislative enactments, for their encouragement and protection. They see the veterans of the civil war granted pensions long due them, to the amount of more than twice in number and nearly three times in value of those granted under any previous administration. They see more than twenty-two million acres of land, recklessly and illegally held by the grantees of the corrupt Republican regime, restored to the public domain for the benefit of honest settlers.

They see the negro, whose fears of Democratic rule were played upon by demagogues four years ago, not only more fully protected than by his pretended friends, but honored as his race was never honored before. They see a financial policy under which reckless speculation has practically ceased and capital freed from trust. They see for the first time an honest observance of the law governing the civil establishment and the employes of the people rid at last of the political highwaymen with a demand for tribute in one hand and a letter of dismissal in the other.

They see useless offices abolished, and expenses of the administration reduced, while improved methods have lifted the public service to high efficiency. They see tranquility, order, security and equal justice restored in the land, a watchful, steady, safe and patriotic administration—the solemn promise of the Democracy faithfully kept. No President in time of peace had so difficult and laborious a duty to perform. His party had been out of power for twenty-four years. Every member of it had been almost venemously excluded from the smallest post where administration could be studied.

The Secretary read a communication from the Washington Woman's Convention asking that a representative be allowed to address the Convention for ten minutes. On motion of Mr. O'Donohue of New York the request was granted.

The Hon. Tim Campbell of New York presented a resolution of regret at the serious illness of Gen. Sheridan, which was adopted with applause.

Mr. Brown of Tennessee moved to adjourn to eight p. m.

Mr. Hensel of Pennsylvania offered a substitute for a roll-call on nominations, no ballot to be taken until the platform is adopted.

Mr. Gov. Brown's resolution was beaten, and the Hensel resolution adopted amid cheers.

The roll-call for candidates at once began. Alabama tendered the first right to nomination to New York, and Daniel Dougherty recognized to renominate President Cleveland. He said:

I greet you, my countrymen, with fraternal regard! In your presence I bow to the majesty of the people! The sight itself is inspiring, the thought sublime! You come from every State and Territory, from every nook and corner of our ocean-bound, continent-covering country. You are about to discharge a more than imperial duty, with simplest ceremonials. You, as representatives of the people, are to choose a magistrate with power mightier than a monarch, yet checked and controlled by the supreme law of a written Constitution.

Thus impressed I ascend the rostrum to name the next President of the United States. New York presents him to the Convention, and pledges her electoral vote. Delegations from the thirty-eight States and all the Territories are assembled without caucus or consultation, ready simultaneously to take up the cry and make the vote unanimous.

We are here not indeed to choose a candidate, but to name the one the people have already chosen.

He is the man for the people. His career illustrates the glory of our institutions. Eight years ago, unknown save in his own locality, he for the last four years has stood in the gaze of the world, discharging the most exalted duties that can be confided to a mortal. To-day determined that, not of his own choice, but by the mandate of his countrymen, and with the sanction of Heaven, he shall fill the Presidential chair for four years more. He has met and mastered every question, as if from youth trained to statesmanship. His promises in his letter of acceptance and inaugural address have been fulfilled. His fidelity in the past inspires faith in the future.

He is not a hope. He is a realization.

Scorning subterfuge, disdaining re-election by concealing convictions, mindful of his oath of office to defend the Constitution, he courageously declares to Congress dropping minor matters, that the supreme issue is reform, revision, reduction of national taxation; that the Treasury of the United States glutted with unneeded gold oppresses industry, embarrasses business, endangers financial tranquility, and breeds extravagance, centralization, and corruption; that high taxation, vital for the expenditures of an unparalleled war, is robbery in years of prosperous peace; that the millions that pour into the Treasury come from the hard-earned savings of the American people; that in violation of equality of rights the present tariff has created a privileged class, who, shaping Legislation for their personal gain, levy by law contributions for the necessaries of life from every man, woman, and child in the land; that to lower the tariff is not free trade; it is to reduce the unjust profits of monopolists and boss manufacturers, and allow consumers to retain the rest.

The man who asserts that the lower tariff means free trade, insults intelligence. We brand him as a falsifier. He is furthest from thought to imperil capital or disturb enterprises. The aim is to uphold wages and protect the rights of all.

This Administration has rescued the public domain from would-be stricken barons and cormorant corporations faithless to obligations and reserved it for free homes for this and coming generations.

There is no pilfering. There are no jobs under this Administration. Public office is a public trust. Integrity stands guard at every post of our grand empire.

While the President has been the medium through which has flowed the undying gratitude of the Republic for her soldiers, he has not hesitated to withhold approval from special legislation if strict inquiry revealed a want of truth and justice.

Above all, sectional strife as never before is at an end, and sixty millions of freemen in the ties of brotherhood are prosperous and happy.

These are the achievements of the administration. Under the same illustrious leader we are ready to meet our political opponents in high and honorable debate, and stake our triumph on the intelligence, virtue, and patriotism of the people. Adhering to the Constitution its every line and letter, ever remembering that powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution nor prohibited by it to the States are reserved to the States respectively or to the people by the authority of the Democracy of New York, backed by the Democracy of the entire Union, I give you a name entwined with victory.

I nominate Grover Cleveland of New York.

The Convention broke into wild enthusiasm at the close of Mr. Dougherty's speech. Hats were waved and thrown into the air, bandanas streamed out all over the hall. When order was restored Kentucky was granted unanimous consent to second the nomination and James A. McKenzie was recognized. Mr. McKenzie's speech was interrupted by frequent applause. Judge Twiggs, of Georgia, then rose also to second the nomination.

At 12:30 Grover Cleveland was nominated by acclamation.

The Convention at 2 o'clock adjourned to meet to-day at 10 a. m.

Pritchard to Be Released.

MEDINA, Pa., June 7.—The Grand Jury ignored the bill of indictment against Alexander Pritchard, colored, charged with perjury in the trial of Samuel Johnson, colored, who was convicted of the murder of Farmer Sharpless and sentenced to death. Pritchard was arrested in New York several days ago by Detective Donaghy, of Philadelphia, and has been detained there ever since waiting for a true bill to be found before the necessary requisition papers could be issued. A despatch has been sent to the New York authorities to release Pritchard from custody. The action of the Grand Jury explodes the theory of the crime connecting Pritchard with the murder of Sharpless.

LATE WASHINGTON NEWS

GENERAL SHERIDAN PASSES A GOOD DAY.

He Seems So Much Improved that Everybody Is Hopeful that the Worst Is Passed—Doings In Congress.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—Not a single unfavorable symptom has developed in the condition of General Sheridan for the last thirty hours, and the doctors and friends are actually talking of recovery. It was reported at a consultation that all the symptoms of the patient were more favorable than on any one day since he was taken sick. His pulse, at all times high, was normal, respiration easy, kidneys and liver working properly. This condition of things was surprising even to the doctors, and one of them said that when he saw the General sleeping as sweetly as a baby it was hard to believe that had been and is very ill.

Mrs. Sheridan has gained a great deal of rest during the last few hours, and is feeling hopeful and strong. The children were allowed to see their father for a brief time, and their little visit to the sick room did the General good. There can be but little talking, but the sight of their fresh, sweet faces gives the sick man pleasure.

Since the almost fatal relapse of Monday afternoon, the General has recovered his good looks, and his countenance now is bright and natural, with a good color. His illness has given him but little pain, therefore he does not grow thin and worn, as might be expected. He has known when the attacks were about to come on. Sometimes he would say, "Doctor, it's coming up again." When easier he would say, "Doctor, it's going down a little now." In this simple and direct manner he referred to the "heart failure" attacks, threatening the agony of suffocation.

The statement in the bulletin that there is no œdema in the legs is regarded as very favorable by most people; but it is not so regarded by outside physicians, who say it is not in the legs as it should be, as it is less dangerous, and could be relieved by tapping.

Doings in Congress.

The House went into Committee of the Whole on the tariff bill.

Mr. Dingley, of Maine, proposed an amendment continuing existing duties on the lumber schedules wherever the exporting country denied our vessels the right to touch and trade and take bait.

Mr. Breckinridge, of Kentucky, offered an amendment to Mr. Dingley's amendment providing that "whenever Canada shall grant to the fishing and other vessels of the United States commercial privileges and the right to buy bait and provisions and to transship cargoes, then herring, mackerel, salmon, and other fish, pickled, smoked, or preserved, except sardines and anchovies in oil from that country, shall be admitted duty free; and providing that whenever Canada admits to free entry articles produced in the United States, a similar privilege shall be granted in the case of like Canadian products."

Mr. Dingley opposed the amendment on the ground that it was an effort to buy privileges from Canada to which this country was of right entitled. Without action upon the amendment the committee arose. The House again immediately went into Committee of the Whole to act upon the Senate amendments to the Indian Appropriation bill. These were generally nonconcurred in, and the bill was sent to conference.

The Senate resumed consideration of the House bill to prevent the employment of alien labor upon public buildings or other public works, and in the various departments of the Government.

Mr. Hawley regarded the bill as belonging to a narrow and illiberal class of legislation. It shut out from employment all poor men who had just arrived from a foreign country, and who were looking around for the chance to earn a dollar by carrying a hod or wheeling a barrow.

Mr. Blair defended the bill. It would work no hardship on bona fide emigrants, who could immediately on arrival declare their intention to become citizens. As no quorum was present the bill was laid aside, and Mr. Blair gave notice that he would call it up as soon as possible.

The Senate received a message from the President, returning without his approval a bill pensioning a widow, on the ground that the death of the husband, for which the pension was allowed, had nothing to do with military service, but was the result of suicide. Mr. Blair remarked that these veto messages were uniformly unjust, and might as well be discussed at once, as they were never reported back. The message and bill were referred to the Committee on Pensions.

The Senate passed all the pension bills on the calendar, 1,167 in number. Among them were bills increasing the pensions of the widows of Major-Gen. Thomas Kilby Smith to $75; of Major-Gen. Heintzelman to $100, and of Brig.-Gen. Schimmelfennig to $50, and giving a pension of $50 a month to the widow of Commodore Truxton.

Homan Found Guilty.

LOCKPORT, N. Y., June 7.—The jury in the case of William A. Homan, the ex-Suspension Bridge Water Works Commissioner, on trial for embezzlement of bonds, after being out four hours, came in yesterday noon and failed to agree. The defense presented no witnesses, but sent the case to the jury on points of law, citing that the village of Niagara Falls issued more bonds than it had authority to do, and the sale of the bonds by the defendant, if any, was not criminal, as the bonds had no mark and value. The jury was locked up again, and some hours later returned a verdict of guilty of grand larceny in the second degree.

Three Killed and Twelve Injured.

ST. PAUL, June 7.—An explosion of a boiler in James H. Duffy's Eagle Iron Works, last evening, killed J. D. Nevin, Philip Fisher and Mr. Duffy. Twelve men were seriously injured. A boy was thrown 200 feet, but didn't get hurt. John D. Monfort, a Chicago drummer, had his valise hurled out of his hand and carried 200 feet away. He was only scratched.

The reporter was courteously received, and invited to inspect the mammoth works. Foreman Lee of the foundry kindly pointed out all the points of interest in that particular department.

BY THE PRESS SPECIAL SERVICE.

THURMAN TO BE VICE PRESIDENT.

TODAY'S PROCEEDINGS OF THE DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION AT ST. LOUIS.

The Fair Trade Message Indorsed.

THURMAN.

ST. LOUIS, MO., June 7.—The question of the Vice Presidency is settled beyond cavil, and Allen G. Thurman will be the nominee of today's convention.

The meeting late last night of the New York delegation settled any doubts that have existed in regard to its intentions.

From the start the delegation had been regarded as the pivotal one. With it at their back the Indiana men would have been on the road to success.

After the adjournment yesterday they thought they had won the New Yorkers over. But the midnight meeting, when in response to the appeals of William L. Scott, Senator Gorman, John R. Fellows, Edward Cooper and others, the thirty-seven Gray men decided to make a change of front and go over to Thurman, the business was settled and New York's solid vote will be cast this morning for the "Old Roman."

Scott told the caucus plainly that Thurman would be worth ten thousand votes to the ticket in New York city alone.

9:45 A. M.—The third and closing day of the Democratic National Convention opened up with the most torrid temperature of the week.

The sun was on the rampage, and its red hot rays poured in through the glass roof of the Exposition nave with a vigor that boded something more than discomfort to those who were about to participate in the proceedings of the day.

The women were out in even greater force than on any of the preceding days, and from the stage half way down the hall the boxes on either side presented an unbroken line of brilliant costumes and equally attractive specimens of the milliner's art.

THE COMMITTEE ON RESOLUTIONS UNANIMOUS.

10:35 A. M.—After prayer the Hon. Henry Watterson, of Kentucky, submitted the report of the Committee on Resolutions.

Mr. Watterson announced that the report was the unanimous agreement of the Committee.

It indorses the platform of 1884 AND ALSO INDORSES THE VIEWS EXPRESSED BY CLEVELAND IN HIS LAST ANNUAL MESSAGE.

THE TICKET COMPLETED.

3:45 P. M.—Allen Thurman was nominated for Vice President, by unanimous acclamation, amid great enthusiasm. Thousands of flags and banners waving with his name and face upon them. The cheering was continuous for many minutes, and such excitement has never been seen before.

A Runaway.

The Truck team of horses were engaged carting electric light poles on East Fourth street, yesterday afternoon, when the animals ran away. The team collided with and carried away a portion of the fence in front of Mrs. Dr. Burlingham's residence at the corner of Park avenue and Fourth street, but were captured before doing further damage.

Caught at Last.

David White, one of the men implicated in a row on the Boulevard several weeks ago, but who has since evaded arrest, was gathered in by Chief Carey, yesterday. This morning before the City Judge, the prisoner pleaded guilty and was fined $20. Several other persons who took part in the affray, are keeping out of the way of the police.

—Wm. Ball and James O'Brien appeared before the City Judge this morning to answer to the charge of disorderly conduct, by fighting on Park avenue, yesterday. Ball was fined $5, and O'Brien was committed for twenty days, being unable to pay a $5 fine.

—The new city band will give a free concert at Caspar's Hotel on Friday evening between eight and eleven o'clock. Mr. Caspar intends to give free concerts, both brass band and string orchestra, alternately, at short intervals during the Summer months.

APPORTIONING ITS MANY MISSIONS.

$543 For Various Beneficiaries and $5 For the Baby.

The quarterly meeting of the Crescent Avenue Sunday school, was held last evening. The Secretary being absent, the Superintendent gave a report of the Missionary Committee, from memory. It has decided on the following disbursements for the coming year: For Foreign Missions, $100; Mr. Mason, of Minnesota, $100; Children's Home, $50; Bethel and Hope chapels, $25 each; teacher in Utah, $50; teacher in Brazil, $50; for the support of a Chinese girl in a Home in California, $75, and for the support of an Indian in Hampton Institute, $70; with an extra $5 for a baby named for Mr. Richards.

The question of abbreviating the morning session of the school during the Summer months, was discussed. It has hitherto been held from the first Sunday in June to the third Sunday in September, inclusive. It was moved and adopted to resume the afternoon session on the second Sunday in September, and a motion was then made and laid on the table until a fuller meeting, to confine the morning session to the months of July and August.

It was moved that a committee be appointed by the Superintendent to consider and submit to the teachers, plans for Christmas exercises.

Were the Councilmen Consistent?

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—It is a well defined maxim in business, that the delivery of goods consummates the sale. Payment may be made at the time or afterwards, but the fact remains that the delivery is the consummation of the sale.

With this fact in view we may ask how many of those who condemned Mr. Tier, are responsible for violations of this very law on Sunday? How many of the Council, and others who signed the petition against it, have their iced cream delivered on Sunday? It would be interesting to know. Can they conscientiously say in their hearts: "Lay not this sin to my charge." If it is unlawful to sell to the poor man the small modicum craved by his children, is it not equally so to sell by the gallon to the rich man? Is there in this enlightened age one law for the poor and another for the rich? In this case the usual spectacle presents itself of the Council and others straining over the poor man's single plate of iced cream, and swallowing the rich man's gallon. If, as is proclaimed, this is for the better observance of the Sabbath, it might be a pertinent question, how many of those who sat in judgment would be competent to cast the first stone? LIBERAL.

Slept Through the Excitement.

On the night of Sunday May 27, last, the dwelling house occupied by Mr. P. C. Lips and family on Walnut street, North Plainfield, was totally destroyed by fire, together with the contents. A man by the name of Bremer, occupies a house directly opposite to where the fire occured, and his entire family slept soundly while the fire was in progress. The members of Mr. Bremer's family were surprised the next morning when they learned that their neighbor's home had been swept away by the flames, while they had slumbered peacefully through the excitement.

'Rah for The Ticket!

The friends in this city of the President that is—and to be—Grover Cleveland, propose to celebrate his renomination this evening, by music and gunpowder. The Plainfield Cornet Band has been engaged for the occasion, and will start from their headquarters in the evening and proceed to entertain our citizens with some of their fine music in honor of the event of the nomination of the next President and Vice President of the United States. The celebration will be under the charge of a competent committee of young Democrats.

Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Ladies' Christian Work Society of the German Reformed church, will be held at the residence of Mrs. V. Utzinger, corner of Mercer avenue and Duer street, North Plainfield, this evening. The election of officers will take place, and other important business transacted.

To-morrow evening the above Society will celebrate its first anniversary by holding a sociable in the lecture room of the church. The congregation in general and the friends of the Society are invited to participate.

The Lovell-Parker Affair.

Both Albert K. Lovell and his wife have left the city, since the former's scandalous relations with Miss Parker were made public by his arrest about a fortnight ago. The girl, however, is in direct communication with Lovell, who is still located at Bridgeton, N. J. A few days ago, it is said, Miss Parker walked to the Grant avenue station and requested the station agent to put a letter on the mail train for her. The letter was addressed to "Mr. A. K. Lovell, Bridgeton, N. J."

Plainfield Trout-Catchers in Luck.

Latest reports from Pocono Mountains, Pa., state that the trout fishing party from this city, consisting of well-known and influential citizens, are having fine luck in capturing the speckled beauties. All they don't want after catching, they will throw back in the streams again. Their numerous friends may expect a good mess of trout upon the return of the wanderers to this city to-morrow night. Of course, we always get left.

WILL BUILD A NEW CHURCH.

The First Presbyterian Church Decides to Accept Mrs. Latimer's Generous Gift of $10,000, and Will Erect a New Edifice—Meeting of the Congregation Last Evening.

The usual Wednesday evening service was held in the chapel of the First Presbyterian church last evening. Rev. Dr. R. P. Ketcham, the pastor, made a few remarks, taking for his topic the words "Seeing, Hearing and Believing," after which the meeting was thrown open for prayer and singing.

At the close of the service, a congregational meeting was held for the purpose of considering the advisability of erecting a new church building. Rev. Dr. Ketcham was elected chairman and Mr. H. A. Pope secretary. Mr. E. St. John spoke a few words on the subject, and subsequently offered a resolution bearing on the matter. He said he thought all of the members felt the need of a new church edifice, and all would sanction the project.

A motion by Mr. Robert Radford to get the sentiment of the congregation, resulted in a vote unanimously in favor of the erection of a new church.

Mr. St. John offered the following resolution which was unanimously adopted:

Whereas, A generous donation of $10,000 has been offered this church, for the building of a new church edifice,

Resolved, That we hereby record our grateful appreciation of the same, and that we hereby appoint the church officers, elders, deacons and trustees respectively, together with Messrs. F. Lounsbury, Van Slyck and P. Hoagland for the congregation, a committee to take charge of the whole enterprise, with power to appoint sub-committees, to raise money, to adopt plans, and in particular we hereby authorize the church trustees to sign contracts and to transact in the name of the church, all such business as properly belongs to the proposed erection of a suitable church edifice.

Mr. I. L. Miller, one of the officers of the church, asked to be relieved from serving on the committee, as his absence from the city during the Summer, he said, would prohibit him from giving the necesary attention to the matter. He also entered a protest against taking any money from the pastor's salary to aid in the construction of the church, and stated that he thought the salary now paid was inadequate.

Rev. Dr. Ketcham acknowledged his appreciation of the kind sentiments shown by members of the congregation, after which the meeting adjourned.

The officers of the church held a private session at the close of the business meeting.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. Corlies has returned to "Road Ending," after a brief visit with her sister, Mrs. Mason of Boston.

Dr. C. M. Field is rusticating in Connecticut, seeking the renewed health his innumerable friends sincerely wish for him.

Mr. Chas. S. Day, of New Market, of the firm of Stanley Day's Sons, has left for St. Louis to attend the Democratic Convention.

Mrs. Mary Skillman of Long Branch, is spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. C. H. Bryan of Chatham street, and with other relatives and friends in Plainfield.

Messrs. Charles Sandford and Louis Walz started for Baltimore, this morning, on their bicycles. They left Plainfield at five o'clock for Bound Brook where they will take the train.

A reception at the residence of Mr. R. J. Swackhammer, will follow the Commencement exercises of the Dunellen public school, to be held in the M. E. church, at that place, Thursday evening of next week.

Mr. Edwin M. Adams, the Park avenue merchant, in company with his mother, returned from Georgia on Sunday, after an absence of several weeks from the city. The change of climate proved a great benefit to Mr. Adams' health.

Second in excellence and standing in the High School graduating class of this year, is Mr. Edward Perine. The appointment of valedictorian was awarded another, but as honors were easy, Mr. Perine should feel no vexation because the preference was given to a lady.

North Plainfield Public School Commencement.

The North Plainfield Public school will close for the Summer vacation on Thursday, June 21st, and the scholars are looking forward in happy anticipation to the close of the school year. The past year has been one of steady advancement among the pupils, which speaks well for Principal Boss and his corps of able assistants.

The graduating exercises will take place in Warren Mission chapel, on the evening of the 21st instant. The list of graduates this year will include eighteen pupils, the majority of whom are young ladies.

Talbot in Philadelphia.

Lord Courtenay, or—as he expressed a preference for being called when a resident of this city—"plain John Reginald Talbot," is in and about Philadelphia as large as life and probably about as natural. When seen a few days ago, sauntering along Chestnut street, he was well clad with customary good taste and his usual appearance of nonchalance.

Since leaving here, and subsequently Newark, it is said that Talbot fell into intimacy with and the good graces of a resident Englishman of means in the vicinity of Philadelphia, and was taken under the Englishman's wing.

But just imagine Talbot the protege of anyone.

A VERY NARROW ESCAPE.

A Stray Bullet Strikes Within Four Feet of Mrs. J. K. Myers as She Sits on the Piazza—The Miscreant Escapes, But the Police Will Investigate.

Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Myers occupy the premises at the North corner of Seventh and Sycamore streets. Directly opposite on the West corner is a vacant lot, the site upon which Grace church proposes to erect its new edifice.

About dusk last evening, Mrs. Myers was sitting on the front piazza, when she was suddenly startled by the shattering of a pane of glass in the conservatory, about four feet from where she was sitting. Some boys were playing ball on the lot opposite at the time, and Mrs. Myers at first supposed that the ball had been batted into the yard, and striking the conservatory, had broken one of the panes of glass. She waited for a time, expecting that the boys would come into the yard and claim the ball, but they kept on playing, ignorant of the fact that they were suspected of breaking the glass.

An investigation, however, disclosed the fact that a bullet of about 32 calibre had been shot through the glass, and striking an inner partition dropped to the floor.

In passing through the glass a deep ridge was cut into the bullet, as though with a saw. The boys who were playing ball say they distinctly heard firing at the time, but declare that they know nothing whatever about the matter. Mayor Male was notified of the occurrence, and the police will make an investigation.

Mrs. Myers' escape from probably fatal injury is considered fortunate, but the person who fired the shot should be apprehended and made to answer as law and justice may direct.

THE SAME OLD STORY.

Even Dunellen is Not Safe From the Misrepresentations of the Ignorant.

To the Editor of The Press—In a certain vulgar sheet still issued in your city, appeared the following on Monday:

Mr. Thos. B. Brown, for many years in charge of the singing at the Dunellen Episcopal church was in his old place temporarily, as precentor, yesterday. His son, Mr. Thos. M. Brown, conducted the choir at Rector Tremble's Netherwood chapel, as usual.

There are some egregious mistakes here which need correction. In the first place, at present no services are held in the Episcopal church—Sunday school being held there only. Mr. T. B. Brown was never an attendant there at any time—he most generously gave his services to the Presbyterian church for eight years or more. The precentor at that church on Sunday, was Mr. Vanderbeek. Mr. Brown might have been among the congregation.

The item that precedes the above, in the same issue, is this:

Mr. E. R. Pope has received a message that his brother, Simeon Randolph Pope, late of Dunellen, is dead at French Creek, West Virginia. David S. Pope, another brother, has gone South to take charge of the remains.

This is copied from The Press of two days before. At the time it was printed as above, the remains had been brought on, and the burial services had already been held in Dunellen.

Oh, that we were out of the reach of the ignorant, is the prayer of another

Suburban Sufferer.

Wrong On the Face Of It.

To the Editor of The Press:—In my communication relating to the apportionment of State money for schools, I stated that Middlesex county had, as per census, 15,611 children of school age, and received $67,904.80. This is divided amongst the 13 townships, and gives the rate per scholar as per statement under:

South Amboy,	$3 85	Cranbury,	$4 71
Monroe,	4 89	Madison,	6 25
Perth Amboy,	3 85	New Brunswick,	3 85
Piscataway,	5 16	Raritan,	5 14
Woodbridge,	4 58	North Brunswick,	4 61
East Brunswick,	4 20	Sayreville,	3 85

South Brunswick, $5 28.

Cannot some of your readers explain why some townships receive as low as $3.85, whilst one receives $6.25 per capita. It looks upon the face of it, radically wrong.

Yours faithfully,

Stanley Day.

Library Directors Meeting.

A special meeting of the Board of Directors of the Plainfield Public Library and Free Reading rooom, was held in the Library building on Saturday evening. Those present were Messrs. Male, Dumont, Baldwin, Yates, Tracy and Stillman.

The meeting was called principally to pass upon the annual report, which was submitted to the Council on Monday evening, and published in full in these columns on the following day.

The annual reports of the Treasurer, Secretary and Librarian were received and filed, and claims for salary and sundries were ordered paid.

Judge Harper Presided.

Yesterday morning the usual special session of the Orphans' Court was held. In the absence of Judge McCormick, who is one of the delegates to the Democratic National Convention, Judge Harper presided. Several orders in the Orphans' Court were signed.

The criminal branch of the Court will meet on the 13th inst.

May the Best Bird Win.

Fourteen carrier pigeons owned by Messrs. H. Doane, C. Doane, Dorman and Sanders of the Plainfield Homing Club, were shipped by express, this morning, to Lovingston, Va., where they will be released Saturday morning, 310 miles from home.

General Telegraphic Despatches.

Paine Leads in the Shooting Match.

Springfield, Mass., June 7.—Ira A. Paine, of Providence, and Frederick E. Bennett, of Boston, finished three days of revolver shooting for $2,000 a side yesterday afternoon, and will continue the match at Providence the rest of the week. The score now stands 2,606 and 2,590, Paine being 16 ahead. He led Bennett by 32 the first day, and 22 at the close of the second. Bennett's friends are confident that he will win. The best string made with a Smith & Wesson revolver, Russian model, 44 calibre, was 96, and the poorest 76. Paine made the poorest single shot, which was 5. The distance is 50 yards, and the target the American standard.

Italy Quarrels With Zanzibar.

London, June 7.—Advices from Zanzibar say that the Italian Consul at that place has hauled down the Italian flag and suspended relations with the Sultan. An Italian man-of-war is expected to arrive shortly. The Sultan of Zanzibar refused to ratify the convention concluded by his brother, ceding territory to Italy, and sent a discourteous reply to King Humbert's letter, and refused to apologize. The matter has been referred to England and Germany.

Over a Year On Her Voyage.

San Francisco, June 7.—The British bark Balaklava has arrived from London after a remarkably long voyage of one year and seventy-four days. Her misfortunes were many. There is not a sailor aboard who shipped on her from England. Ten sailors were washed overboard and drowned in a storm off Cape Horn. While at Valparaiso for repairs the remainder of the crew deserted. The bark was again caught in a storm after leaving that port and lost two more men.

Princeton's Orators Selected.

Princeton, N. J., June 7.—The Faculty have awarded appointments for the Commencement class of '88 as follows: Hugh T. Dobbins, of California, Latin Salutatory; Edward M. Hopkins, of New York, English Salutatory, and Winthrop M. Daniels, of Ohio, Valedictory.

A Successor to Bishop Lee Elected.

Dover, Del., June 7.—Dr. Leighton Coleman of Layre, Pa., has been elected Bishop by the Protestant Episcopal Convention of the Diocese of Delaware to succeed the Right Rev. Alfred H. Lee, deceased.

Over a Niagara Precipice.

Lockport, N. Y., June 7.—George Pfotch, German boy 12 years old, while playing at Suspension Bridge, along the Niagara River, lost his balance and fell over. After a tumble of forty feet he caught in a clump of bushes. He crawled to the top and had to be carried home. It is feared that the boy has suffered internal injuries.

A Mock Convention.

Des Moines, Iowa, June 7.—The students of the Drake University last night, in their mock national convention, nominated Gresham and Allison, adopted a moderate tariff and restricted foreign immigration platform.

Five Men Buried By Falling Walls.

Superior, Wis., June 6.—The walls of the Land and River Improvement Company's Hotel, now building, fell yesterday afternoon, burying five men and injuring as many more.

That Rarest of Combinations.

True delicacy of flavor with true efficacy of action has been attained in the famous California liquid fruit remedy, Syrup of Figs. FIRE IN TAMMANY HALL.

Interior of the Building Wrecked—Tony Pastor's Theatre Damaged.

NEW YORK, June 7.—Fire broke out yesterday morning on the stage of Tony Pastor's Theatre, in the Tammany Hall building, in East Fourteenth street.

When the firemen arrived they found the flames burning fiercely in the middle of the big building, advancing rapidly towards the roof. Finding that they had a very serious task on hand, they summoned all the reserves available between the Battery and Yorkville, but, with seventeen engines in the street, they had their hands full. It was not until after a full hour's determined struggle that the fire was gotten under control. The additional danger that arose from the proximity of the Academy of Music was successfully met, and the fire was kept within the walls of the Tammany Hall building.

There it wrought sad havoc. The big hall, so lately deserted by its usual frequenters, now attending the Convention in St. Louis, is wrecked. The fire ate its way all around it, destroyed the rooms adjoining it, and got into the hall itself, where fire, smoke, water and the rescuing firemen have left little to remind the Tammany men on their return of its old appearance. Tony Pastor's Thatre is wrecked, too. The whole inside of the big building is in ruins, and only the front on Fourteenth street looks as usual. The chief damage was done in the rear, towards Fifteenth street. The loss, at a hasty estimate, is not less than $50,000.

His Accounts Show a Big Shortage.

WILMINGTON, Del., June 7.—It is made public to-day that the accounts of M. L. Lichtenstein, lately Secretary and Treasurer of the Perpetual Building and Loan Association, show a shortage of $33,250. Mr. Lichtenstein confessed judgment yesterday in favor of the association for $40,000, upon which execution has been issued. These and his sureties are expected to save the association from loss.

A Schooner Lost.

COLBORNE, Ont., June 7.—The schooner Blanche, of Colborne, which left Oswego on May 23 for Brighton with coal, has not yet reported, and there is no doubt that she sunk with all hands. On Monday afternoon she was seen by the schooner Fleetwing about eight miles from the Canadian shore. It is supposed that she was struck by a steamer.

Cadets and the Wine Question.

WEST POINT, June 7.—The third class is divided on the temperence question. It is customary to have a banquet at a New York hotel before separating for the two months' vacation. The majority of the class voted to have no wine at the banquet, and the minority refuse i to submit, deciding to have a separate dinner, at which they intend to drink all they want.

Big Storm in Canada.

LANARK, Ont., June 7.—A terrific thunderstorm, accompanied by rain, hail and wind swept through this section, parooting dwellings and leveling fences and barns and almost everything else in its course. Some farms have been left without a fence or an outbuilding.

The Republican Victory in Oregon.

PORTLAND, Ore., June 7.—The count is proceeding slowly, and the returns are still coming in, with several counties to hear from. Multnomah County, including Portland, returns are nearly complete. These give Hermann, Republican, for Congress, 2,900. This will give him over 4,000 Republican majority. Lord, the Republican candidate for Judge of the Supreme Court, has a majority nearly as large as Hermann's. From present indications the Republicans will have sixty-five in the Legislature and the Democrats twenty-five. Every Republican State Senator in Oregon is probably elected.

Three Newspapers Consolidate.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—A consolidation of the Post, the Republican and Evening Critic has been effected, to result in the publication, on or before July 1, of the Daily Post, in its present eight page form, as an independent morning journal, the Critic to apper as an afternoon edition of the same. This new enterprise will be under the direction of a syndicate which has been formed by William Henry Smith, of the Associated Press, the present management retiring.

Humorist Pelham's Son Drowned.

BOSTON, June 7.—Harry A. T. Pelham aged twenty-five, a son of Mr. Walter Phelam, the English humorist and literateur, was drowned in a creek off Minot street, Dorchester. He was fishing and it is supposed that he had a fit and fell into the water. The Pelham family were to have given a concert at Neponset last evening.

NYE ON ELECTRICITY.

A MOST MARVELOUS INVENTION.

Something Quite New In the Way of a Do-All—Its Great Versatility Its Great Drawback.

ITTLE did B. Franklin wot that some day the little start he made when he baited his pin hook with a good conductor and tapped the low-browed and bellowing nimbus with his buoyant kite, and the pickle jar of electricity thus crudely acquired, would be the egg from which inventors and scientists would hatch out a system which could not only encircle the globe with messages swifter than the flight of Phœbus, but that anon the light of day would be filtered through a cloud of cables loaded with destruction sufficient for a whole army, and the air be filled with death-dealing, dangling wires, says Bill Nye in New York World.

Little did he know that he was bottling the genii which would one day pull out the stopper with its teeth and grow till it overspread the sky, planted its bare, bleak poles along every highway, carrying day messages by night and night messages when it got ready, darkening the air with its rusty wings—provided, of course, that the genii wear wings—and with the harsh, metallic, gouldish laughter of a signal-key, with one foot on the neck of the sender and one on the neck of the recipient, with one hand on the throat of the convention and the other in the pockets of the world, defy aggregated humanity to do its worst and command all civilization in terse, well-chosen terms, to either fish, cut bait or go ashore.

Could Benjamin have known all this at the time, possibly he might have considered it wisdom to go in when it rained.

I am not an old fogey, though I may have that appearance, and I rejoice to see the world move on. One by one I have laid aside my own encumbering prejudices in order to keep up with the procession. Have I not gradually adopted everything that would in any way enhance my opportunities for advancement event hrough tedious evolution, from the paper collar up to the finger-bowl, eyether and nyether?

This should convice the reader that I am not seeking to clog the wheels of progress. I simply look with apprehension upon any great centralization of wealth or power in the hands of any one man who not only does as he pleases with said wealth and power, but who, as I am informed, does not read my timely suggestions as to how he shall use them.

To return, however, to the subject of electricity. I have recently sought to fathom the style and motif of a new system which is to be introduced into private residences, hotels and Police Headquarters. In private houses it will be used as a burglar's welcome. In hotels it will take the strain off the bell-boy, relieving him also of a portion of his burdensome salary at the same time. In the Police Department it will do almost everything but eat peanuts from the corner stands.

The system is on exhibition in a large room downtown, with the signals or boxes on one side and the annunciator or central station on the other. By walking from one to the other, a distance in all of thirty or forty miles, I was enabled to get a slight idea of the principle.

It is certainly a very intelligent system. I never felt my own inferiority any more than I did in the presence of this wonderful invention. It will do almost anything, it seemed to me, and the main drawback seems to be its great versatility, for it thereby becomes so complex that in order to become at all intimate with it a policeman ought to put in two years at Yale and at least a year at Leipsic. An extended course of study would thus perfect him in this line, but he would not then be content to act as a policeman. He would want to be a scientist, with dandruff on his coat collar and a far-away look.

Then, again, take the hotel scheme, for instance. We go to a dial which is marked Room 32. There we find that by treating it in a certain way it will announce to the clerk that Room 32 wants a fire, ice-water, pens, ink, paper, lemons, towels, fire-escape, Milwaukee Sec, pillow-shams, menu, Croton frappe, carriage, laundry, physician, sleeping-car ticket, berth-mark for same, Halford sauce, hot flat-irons for ironing trousers, baggage, blotter, tidy for chair, or any of those things. In fact I have not given half the list on this barometer because I could not remember them, though I may have added others which were not on the indicator. The message arrives at the office, but the clerk is engaged in conversation with a lady. He does not jump when the alarm sounds, but continues the dialogue. Another guest wires the office that he would like a copy of the Congressional Record. The messages are filed away automatically, and the thrilling conversation goes on. Then No. 7½ asks to have his mail sent up. No. 25 wants to know what time the 'bus leaves the house for the train going East, and whether the tarin will connect at Alliance, O., with a tide-water train for Cleveland in time to catch the Lake Shore train which will bring him into New York at 7:30, and whether all these trains are reported on time or not, and if not will the office kindly state why? Other guests also manifest a morbid curiosity through their transmitters, but the clerk does not get excited, for he knows that all those remarks are filed away in the large black-walnut box at the back of the office. When he gets ready, provided he has been through a course of study in this branch of business, he takes one room at a time, and addressing a pale young "Banister Polisher" by the name of "Front" he begins to scatter information, baggage, towels, morning papers, time-tables, &c., all over the house. It is also supposed to be a great time-saver. For instance, No 08 wants to know the correct time. He moves an indicator around like the combination on a safe, reads a few pages of instructions, and then pushes a button, perhaps. Instead of ringing for a boy and waiting for him some time, then asking him to obtain the correct time at the office, and come back with the information, conversing with various people on his way back, and expecting compensation for it, the guest can ask the office and receive the answer without getting out of bed. You leave a call for a certain hour, and at that time your own private gong will make it so disagreeable for you that you will be glad to rise. Again if you wish to know the amount of your bill, you go through certain exercises with the large barometer in your room, and, supposing you have been at the house two days and have had a fire in your room three times, and your bill is therefore $132.18, the answer will come back and be announced on your gong as follows: One, pause, three, pause, two, pause, one, pause, eight. When there is a cipher in the amount I do not know what the method is, but by using due care in making up the bill this need not occur.

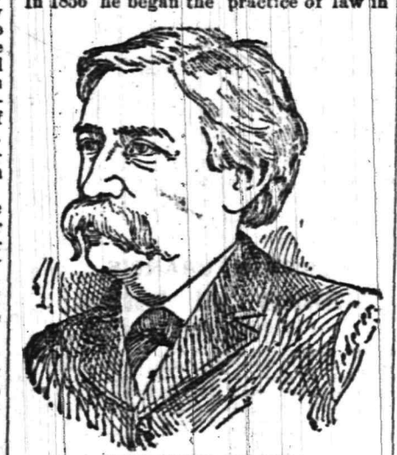
Electricity and Spiritualism have arrived at that stage of perfection where a coil of copper wire and a can of credulity will accomplish a great deal. The time is coming when even greater wonders will be worked, and with electric wires, the rapid transit trains and the English sparrows under the ground, the dawn of a better and brighter day will be ushered in. The car-driver and the truckman shall lie down together. Boston will not rise up against London, he that heretofore slag shall go forth no more for to slug, and men shall learn scrapping no more.

THE NEW CHIEF-JUSTICE.

The Brief Story of a Clean, Busy and Useful Life.

Melville W. Fuller, the new Chief-Justice of the United States Supreme Court, was born in Augusta, Me., Feb. 11, 1833. His parents were Frederick A. Fuller, son of the Hon. Henry W. Fuller of Augusta, and Catharine Martin, daughter of Chief-Justice Nathan Weston. The history of the family in New England dates back to the Mayflower.

Mr. Fuller received his early education in Augusta and graduated at Bowdoin college in the class of 1853. He began the study of law in the office of his uncle, George Meiville Weston, at Bangor, and afterward attended lectures in the law department of Harvard university. In 1856 he began the practice of law in



MELVILLE W. FULLER.

Augusta and also acted as one of the editors of The Age newspaper. He was elected a member of the common council of Augusta, became its president, and was also the city solicitor. He did not remain in Augusta more than two years, but came to Chicago, and has for thirty years enjoyed a large and lucrative law practice in that city.

Mr. Fuller's practice has won for him the name of a learned lawyer and a faithful counselor. Among the most important cases with which he has been connected and which won for him a wide reputation were the cases before the Supreme court of Illinois arising out of the prorogation of the legislature of Illinois by the late Gov. Richard Yates, also, the defense of the Rev. Charles Edward Cheney before an ecclesiastical court for omitting words from the prayer book of the Episcopal church. The late Bishop Whitehead was Mr. Fuller's legal opponent in the latter trial.

Politically Mr. Fuller has always been known as a Jeffersonian democrat. During all his career he has taken the keenest interest in politics, but has persistently refused to allow the use of his name as a candidate for any office. In 1861 he was chosen a member of the constitutional convention. In 1862 he was elected to the legislature as a democrat from a strong republican district. He was a delegate to the democratic national conventions of 1864, 1872, 1876, and 1880.

As an orator Mr. Fuller's diction is polished and elegant. He was chosen to deliver the address of welcome to Stephen A. Douglas in 1860, and has made many other public addresses.

Mr. Fuller has been married twice. His first wife was Calista O. Reynolds, whom he married in 1858, and after her decease he married Ellen, daughter of the late distinguished banker, William F. Coolbaugh. His family consists of eight daughters and one son six years old.

Society Note.

Recently two parties were to be held on the same evening in South Stanhope and unfortunately the same people received invitations. As if by common impulse they all gathered at one house, which so angered the other would-be host that he went to the house of his "party" opponent and by means of threats and a liberal use of stones succeeded in compelling the pleasure-seekers to come to his house, where a gay time was had until morning.—*Sussex (N. THURMAN IS NOMINATED

Selected for Second Place on the Democratic Ticket.

THE PLATFORM AS ADOPTED.

IT REAFFIRMS THE PLATFORM OF 1884 AND ENDORSES VIEWS IN THE PRESIDENT'S LAST MESSAGE.

The Indiana Men Fought to the Last for Gov. Gray—Black's Name Also Presented to the Convention—He, However, Withdraws His Name by Telegraph—The Convention Adjourns Sine Die.

ST. LOUS, June 8.—The delegation space began to fill, the usual battle of the handkerchiefs broke out, the Thurman red and the muslin indicative of the name of the Indiana candidate being hoisted to the masthead by the respective admirers of the contestants. As each new color was raised it was greeted by shouts from the galleries, but it was evident from the volume of sound that the Old Roman was the favorite of the spectators, many of whom sported red bandanas in every grotesque manner of head and neck gear.

The New York delegation was the last to enter and when she pinned Thurman colors to her standard the assemblage rose on foot and gave her a hearty cheer. But Indiana was not dismayed and answered with defiant shouts, and for some moments confusion, noise and excitement reigned.

The Convention was called to order at 10:30 o'clock. Prayer was offered by the Rev. Dr. Brankfield. The Chair then stated that he was advised that the Committee on Resolutions was ready to report and he introduced Mr. Henry Watterson, the Chairman of the Committee.

The reading of the Platform was interrupted by loud cheers. There were cheers for Cleveland and for Thurman. The mention of the President's message drew forth a storm of cheers.

Mr. Watterson, turning to the Chairman, said that he had the honor to report the resolutions unanimously agreed upon by the Committee on Platform, which was then read as follows by Secretary Thomas S. Pettit of the Convention:

The Democratic party of the United States in the National Convention assembled renews the pledge of its fidelity to Democratic faith, and reaffirms the platform adopted by its representatives in the Convention of 1884, and endorses the views expressed by President Cleveland in his last earnest message to Congress as the correct interpretation of that platform upon the question of tariff reduction; and also endorses the efforts of our Democratic representatives in Congress to secure a reduction of excessive taxation.

Chief among its principles of party faith are the maintenance of an indissoluble union of free and indestructible States, now about to enter upon its second century of unexampled progress and renown, devotion to a plan of government regulated by a written constitution strictly specifying ever granted power and expressly reserving to the States or people the entire ungranted residue of power; the encouragement of a jealous popular vigilance, directed to all who have been chosen for brief terms to enact and execute the laws, and are charged with the duty of preserving peace, ensuring quality, and establishing justice.

The Democratic Party welcome an exacting scrutiny of the administration of the Executive power, which four years ago was committed to its trusts in the election of Grover Cleveland, President of the United States. But it challenges the most searching inquiry concerning its fidelity and devotion to the pledges which then invited the suffrages of the people. During a most critical period of our financial affairs, resulting from overtaxation, the anomalous condition of our currency, and a public debt unmatured, it has by the adoption of a conservative policy not only prevented a disaster but greatly promoted the prosperity of the people.

It has reversed the improvident and unwise policy of the republican party touching the public domain, and has reclaimed from corporations and syndicates, alien and domestic, and restored to the people nearly one hundred millions of acres of valuable land to be sacredly held as homesteads for our citizens.

While carefully guarding the interests of the people and remaining true to the principles of justice and equity, it has paid out more for pensions and bounties to the soldiers and sailors of the Republic, than was ever paid before during an equal period.

It has adopted and consistently pursued a firm and prudent foreign policy, preserving peace with all nations, while scrupulously maintaining all the rights and interests of our own government and people at home and abroad. The exclusion from our shores of Chinese laborers has been effectually secured under the provision of a treaty the operation which has been postponed by the action of a Republican majority in the Senate.

In every branch and department of the Government under Democratic control, the rights and welfare of the people have been guared and defended; every public interest has been protected, and the equality of all our citizens before the law without regard to race or color has been steadfastly maintained.

Upon its record thus exhibited and upon the pledge of a continuance to the people of the benefits of Democracy it invokes a renewal of popular trust by a re-election of a Chief Magistrate who has been faithful, able and prudent, and invokes an addition to that trust by the transfer also to the Democracy of the entire Legislative power. The Republican party controlling the Senate and resisting in both houses of Congress a reformation of unjust and unequal tax laws, which have outlasted the necessities of war and are now undermining the abundance of a long peace, deny to the people equality before the law, and the fairness and the justice which are their right. Then the cry of American labor for a better share in the rewards of industry is stifled with false pretences; enterprise is fettered and bound down to home markets; capital is discouraged with doubt, and unequal, unjust laws can neither be properly amended or repealed. The Democratic Party will continue with all the power confided to it, the struggle to reform these laws, in accordance with the pledges of its last platform, endorsed at the ballot by the suffrages of the people.

Mr. Watterson moved that the report of the committee be adopted, which was agreed to by a unanimous vote.

Mr. Scott, of Pennsylvania, under instructions from the committee on resolutions, offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That this convention hereby indorses and recommends the early passage of the bill for the reduction of the revenue now pending in the House of Representatives.

The resolution was adopted amid loud applause.

The convention then proceeded to the nomination of a candidate for Vice-President. When California was called in the list of States, Mr. Tarpey was introduced and proceeded to nominate Allan G. Thurman, of Ohio. Mr. Tarpey said:

This Republic holds no superior to Allan G. Thurman, of Ohio. The greeting accorded his name is a well-deserved tribute. Its spontaneity has been nobly earned. Allan G. Thurman, what an epitome of American civil history is embodied in that name! Taking his seat in the United States Senate in 1868, the imprint of his genius is found conspicuously in the legislation of the country. From his first appearance in the Senate until his retirement from that body his voice was always raised in behalf of the people and in defence of their rights. For forty years he has been a prominent figure in public life, and yet to-day no man can point to a single act or expression of his which does not do him credit. Large of heart, large of brain, and larger still in experience, he is the man of all men whose record justifies his nomination at your hands in the sense that he cannot be defeated before the people. When the Pacific coast was endeavoring to retard Chinese immigration, when it had decided that National Legislation was necessary to accomplish the desired result, when the merits of the subject were not understood east of the Rocky Mountains, Allen G. Thurman, then a Senator of the United States, was the first to raise his voice in defence of those whose means of living were in danger and whose homes were threatened with destruction.

When the great railroad corporations evidenced an intention to evade payment of their obligations to the Government, this great man prepared that remarkable enactment known as the Thurman bill, by which the offending corporations were obliged to provide a sinking fund for the redemption of their promises. During the trying times of reconstruction Mr. Thurman was the central figure in the United States Senate in upholding the dignity and integrity of the Constitution. The waves of party passion lashed into fury by ill-advised jealous partisans broke harmless upon his leonine front and seemed back into calmness from the force of his logic and the power of his oratory.

Four years ago the California delegation put forward Mr. Thurman as their candidate for the Presidency and were enthusiastic in pushing his nomination. Four years have but augmented their reverence and affection for him. The patriot of Columbus cannot be allowed to wither in retirement. His fame is not his alone; it is the proud heritage of the American people. His name may be most fittingly coupled with that of our honored President Grover Cleveland. Cleveland and Thurman will be a ticket absolutely invincible. It will sweep the country with a mighty rush, a tidal wave of approval. Against it all opposition will be fruitless.

When Allan G. Thurman, the favorite son of each and every State of the Union, in answer to the universal demand for his acceptance, consents to leave the peace and tranquility of his fireside and again serve his grateful countrymen so prominent, so colyssal in his political and mental figure in the public eye that all others must of necessity retire into the shade of its immensity. Nominate Allan G. Thurman. Nominate him by acclamation. Let it not be said that one single democrat in all this great Union failed in this testimonial to the greatest American of his day, the noblest breathing man upon American soil, fit co-mate in the temple of fame to those patriots of the past—the founders of our institutions whose sacred dust lies beneath the sods of Mount Vernon, Monticello and the Hermitage, awaiting the dedication of our national pantheon.

When Mr. Tarpin finished speaking Mr. Piggott, of Connecticut, seconded Thurman's nomination. Mr. Patterson, of Colorado, presented the name of Gen. Black. He made a good speech, but everybody in the hall knew Mr. Black was already out of the race, and the delegates were anxious to nominate Thurman and go home. Senator Dan Voorhees put Gov. Gray in nomination. He told the delegates they could not win without Indiana, and he concluded by making a plea for him. The Hoosiers yelled themselves hoarse at every mention of Gray's name. Mr. Cox, of Georgia, followed and seconded Gray's nomination. Then Mr. Patterson withdrew Gen. Black's name, and the contest narrowed down to Thurman and Gray, with the old Roman several lengths ahead. Editor Dawson, in the name of South Carolina, seconded the nomination of Thurman. Sam Powell, of Ohio, followed him. After him came George Raines, of Rochester; Dorsey, of Nevada; Throckmorton, of Texas; Senator Daniels, of Virginia; MacGinness, of Montana, and others. It was then decided to make the nomination unanimous.

The Convention then adjourned.

A VERY LONG CABLE.

From British Columbia to Australia—The Survey to Take Three Years.

VICTORIA, B. C., June. 8.—The Provincial Government has been informed that the English Admiralty has designated H. M. S. Egeria to survey a route for mail steamers and for a submarine cable between British Columbia and Australia.

Admiral Fairfax, commander of the Australian Squadron, has received the necessary orders directing the use of the Egeria for the work. The vessel is a composite sloop of 940 tons, specially built for surveying service and is under the command of Captain Pelham Aldrich.

The work, which is one of the greatest ever undertaken of this kind, will occupy nearly three years. The route to be surveyed will be 200 miles wide for the entire distance. It will commence from a point on the east coast of Australia and proceed via the extreme northern coast of New Zeland, thence to British Columbia, passing the Fiji Islands and landing at Victoria, on the southern end of Vancouver Island.

It was through the influence of the Canadian Pacific Railroad that the work was undertaken. The distance is over 7,500 miles.

Progress of the Nicaragua Canal.

SAN CARLOS, June 8.—The whole line of the Nicaragua Canal will be located by June 10, including complete and thorough surveys of the two possible locations on the east end known as "the lower route" and "the upper route." All problems have been successfully solved, so that on the return of the engineers sent home to plot the work, the company will be in possession of the date necessary to prepare for construction.

THE BAIT ACT VIOLATED

AMERICANS AND CANADIANS EQUALLY GUILTY.

Newfoundland's Fishing Laws Deliberately Set Aside—Buying Bait On a License and Reselling at a Profit.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 8.—The information just published that the authorities at St. John's, N. F., have seized the American schooner Ambrose H. Knight, of Boothbay, Me., a Grand Banks Fisherman, on a charge of violating the terms of the license under which she was allowed to buy bait, is just what has been expected by the Dominion Department of Marine and Fisheries ever since the fishing season began.

It should be understood by everybody that the seizure of the Knight is not by the Government, nor by its orders, nor by any of its cruisers, nor under any Canadian law. It is wholly and exclusively an act by the Government of Newfoundland, which has nothing to do whatever with the Domtnion of Canada, except that it belongs to the English Empire. It has a Legislature of its own and a Governor appointed by the Queen.

The act under which the Knight has been seized is known as the Bait act, and was passed by the Legislature of 1887, before the Fishery Commission, that drew up the pending treaty, was thought of. The act was intended to drive away from Newfoundland fisheries the French fishermen, who, given a bounty of nearly fifty per cent by the French Government on all the fish they catch in Newfoundland coast, are enabled to sell the Newfoundland fish at less than cost of catching, relying upon the bounty for profit which is a very handsome one.

All the fish sold in the Spanish, Portuguese and Italian markets have been caught by the Frenchmen and disposed of far under the prices asked by the Newfoundlanders and Nova Scotians, and the former, thinking that if the Frenchmen were prohibited from buying bait they would be driven from the fisheries, had the act passed.

The Home Government withheld its approval of the Bait act in 1887, but the act was passed again during the present spring and despite the frantic protests of the French fishermen and the French Government the Home Government approved it.

No foreigners can buy bait in Newfoundland except Americans, who, under the modus vivendi of the pending treaty, are allowed to do so after paying the license fee of $1.50 per ton. Thus the Americans, who can buy bait by paying a license, are better off than the French, who cannot buy bait under any circumstances.

Judge Prouse in his report quotes Fisheries Commissioner W. L. Putnam as approving of the Bait act, in the following utterance at the recent Washington Convention:

We have also been brought face to face with the statute which Newfoundland has been compelled to pass for protection against French fishermen, who, by the aid of bounties, are excluding her from her accustomed foreign markets. Newfoundland is a large customer of the United States, receiving from her annually about $2,000,000 of goods, we purchasing in return only about $200,000; and if we lawfully could, we ought not to aid to cripple her by breaking down a system of regulations in a matter of this nature, intended for her own protection. If the French, driven from the waters of Newfoundland, should demand of us the right to exhaust, by purchase or otherwise, our clam bait in Maine and Massachusetts, in violation of our local regulations, we would not submit.

Judge Prouse also reported that several Fortune Bay fishermen had reported to him that several French fishermen had fitted out at St. Pierre for the Banks, had plenty of bait, and that they, the Fortune Bay fishermen, believed that the St. Pierre fishermen had been supplied with bait by either American or Canadian fishermen who had got their supplies at Fortune Bay.

The captain of the Ambrose H. Knight, a Nova Scotian, bought twice as much bait as any fisherman of his size ordinarily needs, cleared at the Custom House, and went directly to St. Pierre, where, amid the rejoicings of the Frenchman and accompanied by two Nova Scotian fishing vessels, which had also bought twice as much as they needed, he sold more than half of his cargo of bait for more than he paid for the whole of it. The Nova Scotia men did likewise.

While they were at work transferring the bait from one vessel to another a Government vessel sailed into the harbor. The American and the Nova Scotia men immediately weighed anchor and left. The case was reported to Newfoundland, and a week later, when the Knight, under command of Captain Diggins, came into port for a harbor she was seized. An examination of her hold showed that she had on board only half the amount of bait she had bought at Fortune Bay and no fish. She had gone alongside a wharf, and it was here that Captain Diggins was notified that he could consider himself and crew under arrest.

Consul-General Phelan, at Halifax was telegraphed to by Consul Molloy, and he answered to obtain bonds for the crew and captain; that he would proceed to St. John's and attend personally to the case. Bonds were not demanded at by the Newfoundland Government, as the schooner was alongside the wharf and Captain Diggins asserted that he would not leave until the matter was settled.

There are three Canadian fisherman on the black list, and these, as soon as the Newfoundland authorities can catch them, will be as summarily treated as has been the Knight. No favoritism will be shown, but Canadians and Americans will be treated alike if they violate the Provincial law against selling bait to Frenchmen that has been bought or obtained on Newfoundland shores.

Clingstone Will Trot Against the World.

CLEVELAND, June 8.—W. J. Gordon's bay gelding Clingstone is now ready to trot a three-in-five heat contest against any trotter in the world. Secretary Fasig of the Cleveland Driving Park has offered J. J. Case of Racine and G. A. Singerly of Philadelphia, owners of Jay Eye See, 2:10, and Prince Wilkes, 2:10, chances to trot Clingstone on the Cleveland track for a big purse on July 4. Neither of these horses is ready to trot yet, but Clingstone is. An offer has now been sent to C. Schwartz of Chicago, owner of Oliver K., 2:16¼ for a similar contest race against Clingstone.

BY THE WAY.

—Oh! for a Y. M. C. A. building.

—Mr. John H. Albert is the duly authorized garbage collector of the Third ward.

—It is expected that the new curate of St. Mary's church will officiate at Mass on next Sunday.

—The Crescents held a practice game on the East Front street grounds on Wednesday afternoon.

—A ten-ton casting was made at the Pond Tool Works foundry on Saturday. Yesterday the casting was ready for use.

—The first Mass in St. Mary's church, this city, on Sundays, is at 6:30 o'clock, A. M., and will continue so during the Summer months.

—The ball game between the Y. M. C. A. Crescents and the Roseville nine tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock, bids fair to be one of unusual interest.

—Chancellor McGill has entered judgement of absolute divorce in favor of a lady residing in this city, for whom Assemblyman Ulrich was counsel, upon the ground of desertion.

—The Jr. O. U. A. M., nine of this city will play the Jr. O. U. A. M., nine of Rahway, on Fourth of July at 10 A. M., at the latter place, on the Base Ball Association grounds.

—Mr. Samuel D. Frazee, the musician, is the agent in this city for the celebrated Grover Cleveland five cent cigar. Lovers of good cigars would do well to try this particular brand.

—The Electric Light Company has removed the large poles which they erected on East Fourth street, recently, in order that two frame dwelling houses could be moved under the wires.

—The Rev. Yaroo M. Neesan, a native of Persia, will address the congregation of Grace church, on Sunday, at 4:30 P. M. He will be in the dress of his native land and speak on the religious condition of his people.

—The members of Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., of this city, will go to Scotch Plains in a body, this evening, and visit Goodwill Lodge, No. 101, K. of P., of that place. Stages will start from the Post Office at 7:30 o'clock.

—The Y. M. C. A., Crescents will put the strongest team they can raise, on their ball field, to-morrow. The visitors will be the "Rosevilles," who have a record of having already beaten a nine that beat the "Cuban Giants." Game will be called early.

—The members of the Middlesex Gun Club are invited to attend a "home bringing" at the residence of their President, Mr. E. H. Robinson, at Dunellen, this evening. Mr. Robinson purchased three goats at an auction sale, yesterday, and intends to take them to his home today.

—The Reform Club is the first organized body to come out in favor of a Fourth of July demonstration. At the business meeting of the club held last evening resolutions were adopted favoring public commemoration of American Independence. The resolution appears in another column. It is the intention of the committeee to hold appropriate exercises in the hall. An oration will be delivered, followed by refreshments.

Meeting of The Friend's Temperance and Literary Society.

A regular meeting of the Friend's Temperance Society was held at the residence of Mr. Adelbert Vail, on West Fourth street, last evening, and was largely attended. Judge Nathan Harper presided in his usual polished manner.

The subject for discussion was "John B. Gough." Extracts from his writings and speeches were read by Miss Lue Adams, Mr. and Mrs. John Deitrich, Harry Adams and Judge Harper. The meeting was thoroughly enjoyed by all present. "Longfellow" will be the subject for discussion at the next meeting.

The Mosquito.

The first delegation of the very much loved insect, known as the mosquito, has arrived from Elizabeth and is now among us, bringing with him the same old tune which has been sung by his ancestors from time immemorial. Like his predecessors, he comes fully armed with that weapon whose point can penetrate any substance, barring a plate of steel or a block of marble. In fact he has arrived fully armed and equipped for the fray, and woe be unto the man who possesses a bald head.

LAST NIGHT'S DEMONSTRATION.

The Democratic Nomination for President and Vice President Heartly Endorsed in this City—The Procession and a [Grand] Pyrotechnical Display.

The nomination of Grover Cleveland and Allen G. Thurman, for President and Vice President of these United States, by the Democratic National Convention, seems to meet the hearty approval of all true Democrats in this city. In honor of the nominations, a grand demonstration and Democratic rally was held last evening amid the roaring of cannons, the blazing of bonfires and the discharge of Roman candles and other pyrotechnics. The streets were lined with people, and when the procession formed in line on Park avenue, it seemed as though everybody was out, and each one had a cousin with them.

Headed by Plainfield Cornet Band the procession first went to Force's Hotel, and serenaded Postmaster Force. At this point the members of the "Mock Orange" Club discharged numerous rockets and Roman candles, and the heavens were brilliantly illuminated with variegated fires.

The paraders then proceeded to Judge Nathan Harper's residence on West Second street, but as the Judge was away from home their cries for a speech were not answered. The boulevard was next visited, where a bonfire blazed brightly. Mr. Geo Thatcher was then serenaded.

The procession halted at the Park House, while the band serenaded Councilman Watson, after which the residences of Mr. J. W. Yates, Senator Robt. L. Livingston, Mr. James E. Martine and several others were visited. At the latter's place, Mr. Martine delivered one of his old time Democratic speeches, in which he advocated Democracy as the only successful form of government. Mr. Martine later in the evening, furnished refreshments for all hands at the City Hotel.

A company of artillerymen, commanded by Messrs. Frank Vosseller, Edward Van Winkle and Wm. H. Bachman, followed the procession, and discharged ammunition all along the line of march. Much enthusiasm was manifested during the evening, and everything passed off very pleasantly.

THE LOCAL C. L. S. C.

Characters From American History and Fiction, Mingling Together.

As announced in THE PRESS, the local circle of the C. L. S. C., held a historical party, last evening, at the residence of one of its members, Miss Sadie Grant. There was a large gathering including numerous friends outside the Circle, but the spacious house accommodated the crowd in comfort and gave room for those in fancy dress to spread and show themselves.

The evening's programme consisted of readings, vocal and instrumental music and tableaux. Want of space precludes the specification of it all in detail, or the giving of a complete list of the characters portrayed from American history and fiction. Here are a few:

Martha Washington, Mrs. P. M. French; Candace, Mrs. L. M. French; Barbara Frietchie, Miss Kate Kimball; Queen Isabella, Miss Sadie Grant; Mrs. Alexander Hamilton, Miss Georgie Chamberlin; Priscilla, Miss Ida Angleman; Aunt Chloe, Mrs. Stephen Haff; Lady Winthrop, Mrs. R. C. Dingee; Grandma Garfield, Miss Julia Taylor; Maud Muller, Mrs. Gorton; Topsy, Miss Emily Haff; Katrina, Miss Kate Haff; Gretchen, Miss Lu Radford; Eva, Miss Della Grant; Old Woman, Miss Carrie Dewey; Columbus, W. Angleman; King Ferdinand, Mr. Wm. Martin; Gen'l Putnam, Mr. Alvin Hoagland; Ichabod Crane, Mr. Larrabee; Rip Van Winkle, Mr. A. W. Sperry; Miles Standish, Mr. Forton, and John Alden, Mr. Frank Clawson.

Light refreshments were served, and the entertainment closed unusually early.

A Very Serious Accident.

Between nine and ten o'clock this morning, Mrs. Fred W. Lewis was thrown from her carriage on Seventh street near the Congregational church. She was riding with her coachman at the time, when one of the front wheels of the buggy came off and its occupants were hurled violently to the ground.

The nature of Mrs. Lewis' injuries could not be ascertained. She was able with assistance to get into a passing wagon that conveyed her to her home on Carlton avenue. The coachman was tended by Dr. Penfield, who arrived just after the occurence. Examination showed the fracture of a small bone just above the ankle. The unfortunate man was lifted into the Doctor's gig and taken to his employer's residence.

Meanwhile the horse that had been attached to the ill-fated buggy, ran through Seventh street strewing pieces of the vehicle along the route. On reaching Broadway, the frightened animal jumped over the railing and into the lawn of Mr. J. Wesley Johnson. The remnants of the buggy, however, were left on the outside of the fence.

—Some more electric lights would not be amiss on East Second street, as those at present are few and far between.

—Of the 64 candidates recently examined for teachers' certificates, in Somerset county, 42 were successful. The certificates issued were, 11 for first grade, 13 for second grade and 18 for third grade positions.

AT THE SEMINARY.

Junior Exercises That Included a French Play and Calisthenics.

The acquaintances and parents of the scholars, with a number of Miss Kenyon's personally invited friends, gathered in the assembly room of the Seminary, this morning, and were much entertained with the exercises of the Juniors.

The principal features of the programme were two plays, the first in pure English, and the second in French not quite so pure but spoken with various accents greatly to the credit of the young ladies who constituted the cast and who were perfectly understandable after the lucid explanation of their intentions that was so gracefully given in advance by Miss Corlies.

Miss McClure read a prologue to the English play in two scenes, "The Masque of Comus," and its several characters were remarkably well taken by the young people. A gentleman of color, whose name seemed to have been unintentionally omitted from the programme that was etched upon the blackboard, was particularly commendable for the activity with which he changed the scenery from forest to castle-hall, in plain sight of the audience and with nothing concealed in his sleeves.

Interspersed throughout the Juniors' exercises, were piano solos by older young ladies. These were thoroughly enjoyable, but received with inattention that bordered on rudeness. Miss Van Boskerke played La Fontaine, by Lysberg, with charming expression. Miss Ginna played an Impromptu of Chopin's with a tone that only such an admirable touch as her's can bring from the instrument. Miss Sandford, always a favorite soloist with the Plainfield public, rendered a Valse, by Rubinstein.

Calisthenics by a class of about fifty, closed the morning's exercises.

A PLAINFIELD LADY INJURED.

Mrs. F. T. Lerned Receives Painful Injuries, on the Pennsylvania Railroad, While en Route from Trenton to this City.

Mrs. F. T. Lerned of Madison avenue, this city, was painfully injured on the Pennsylvania Railroad between Rahway and New Brunswick, while on the way from Trenton to Plainfield on Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Lerned, accompanied by her husband, was seated in a passenger car speeding along at the rate of about forty miles an hour when the accident occurred. Some projecting object from a train going in the opposite direction, struck the car in which Mr. and Mrs. Lerned were seated, tearing away a portion of the woodwork, and demolishing several of the windows. The flying glass struck Mrs. Lerned in the face, inflicting deep flesh wounds on the cheek, ear and chin. Several of the other passengers in the car were slightly injured, and some ladies fainted.

Mrs. Lerned was able to continue her journey, but when she arrived home she was weak from loss of blood. Doctress Keeney dressed the wounds, and today the patient's condition is reported as improved. It is stated that the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will be called upon to pay damages.

The Putnam Avenue Lawn Fair.

Referring to our observations on Wednesday, regarding the lawn fair to be held on the grounds of our fellow townsman, F. X. Schoonmaker, Esq., to-morrow afternoon and evening, we desire to add to the roll of honor the names of Miss Bessie Morgan, Miss Grace Edson and Miss Gertrude Walz, all of whom have rendered grand and efficient service in the good work. We hope the citizens of Plainfield will continue to buy tickets for the occasion, and thus keep up the feeling of gladness and exultation that animates and possesses the hearts and minds of the young people engaged in the lau lable enterprise; and at the same time make themselves happy, and also materially increase the building fund of Grace church. Tickets may be had of any of the young folks interested in the affair. Price ten cents each.

If the weather should prove stormy the entertainment will be postponed until Tuesday evening of next week.

Reform Club Meeting.

The regular monthly business meeting of the Reform Club was held last evening. After caring for sundry routine matters, the following resolutions were introduced and adopted:

WHEREAS: Public commemoration of the birth of American Independence is a patriotic duty, therefore

Resolved, That, under the auspices of the Reform Club of Plainfield, the coming Fourth of July be appropriately observed in Reform Hall, and that a committee of five be appointed by the acting President to make all necessary arrangements therefore.

Resolved, That the aforesaid committee be requested to invite members of the Women's Christian Temperance Union to co-operate in carrying out the proposed celebration.

Judge Harper, as acting President, named the committee as follows: J. W. A. Bauersachs, William C. Smith, William Hand, H. Newton Spencer, A. Vanderbeek.

Bitten by a Dog.

A young son of Mr. Joseph Sallery, of South Second street, was severely bitten on the leg by a dog in North Plainfield, yesterday. The boy was delivering papers on Grove street at the time, when the animal sprang upon him and inflicted painful wounds, from which the blood flowed freely.

THE PLAINFIELD CAMERA CLUB.

Its Auspicious Organization, Its Advantages and Its Intentions.

A meeting of amateur photographers at the rooms of the Y. M. C. A., last evening, resulted in the formation of an organization, the outcome of which will be the Plainfield Camera Club.

A large number of interested persons were present. Mr. A. J. Gavett called the meeting to order and stated its object, and Mr. C. H. Davis read the Constitution and By-Laws of the New Haven Camera Club, a society that has had a prosperous existence for the past three years. These articles were adopted with a few minor amendments; they provide for four classes of membership, viz.: active, associate, honorary, and visiting. The first two pay initiation fees and dues, which for the present were fixed at two dollars for initiation and fifty cents per month, and the visitors pay a smaller amount, not yet determined.

The club proposes to have a room, with sky-light if possible, a well-equipped dark room, a library of photographic literature, to which contributions are already promised, and also expects to purchase some apparatus such as every amateur has a desire to use occasionally, but does not feel that he can afford for his exclusive use. An arrangement for the wholesale purchase of supplies has also been effected, enabling members to enjoy the substantial benefits of reduced prices. This will also save members the trouble of making purchases in the city and bringing them out. Everything necessary will be kept on hand at the club room.

Discussions, interchange of thought and experience, possibly lectures, or at least informal talks by well-posted experimenters, lantern slide exhibitions, etc., all of which will prove of great interest and benefit, are proposed. These will make the society an educational one in a large degree, and the inducements to amateurs to unite with it and aid in making it a success will be almost without number.

The following officers were elected:

PRESIDENT—Oscar L. Teale.
VICE PRESIDENT—L. W. Serrell.
SECRETARY—W. H. Lyons.
TREASURER—A. J. Gavett.
EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE—Messrs. Squires, Ch'n; Burr, Anderson, Wright, Andrews, Davis.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Capt. Wm. B. Ostrom and Wm. H. Sampson will be speakers at Reform Hall, Sunday evening next.

THE PRESS received its information concerning the nomination of Thurman for the Vice Presidency, direct from St. Louis, yesterday.

Miss Erickson of Eighth street, entertained a few of her friends last evening. The evening was spent in dancing and other social amusements.

District Deputy, Rollinson, of Rahway, was present at the meeting of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., last evening, on important business.

The marriage of a prominent young lady of East Third street, and a young gentleman of West Second street, is announced to take place next week.

Mr. Geo. P. Baright of Los Angeles, Cal., is in town today visiting among friends. Mr. Baright came East with a party of thirteen car loads of excursionists.

Mrs. C. E. Benedict, the aged lady, who received painful injuries by falling down a flight of stairs, is reported by the attending physician to be in an improved condition.

Mr. George Burdick, who is staying at the residence of Mr. Charles Potter, was taken seriously ill there a few days ago, and last night had a return of unfavorable symptoms.

Mr. and Mrs. George Moy of Morristown, N. J., have removed to North Plainfield, and permanently located on Park place. Mr. Moy is engaged in Mr. R. J. Shaw's pharmacy.

Prof. Thos. B. Stillman of Stevens Institute, and family, recently finished a visit with Mr. Stillman's mother on Grant avenue, and have returned to their home at the Trenton Apartments, Hoboken.

Mr. John Osborn on Wednesday afternoon drove "Lady Thistle," one of Mr. J. W. Johnson's handsome horses, two single mile heats on the track of the Gentlemen's Driving Park Association, in 2:47½ and 2:38½.

—Park avenue from the railroad to Fifth street, and Fourth street between Peace street and Madison avenue, was in total darknesss last evening. Not an electric light burned in the territory above named.

Miss Gertrude Lathrop, whose severe sickness at the residence of her uncle, Mr. James Clark, was recently spoken of in these columns, has since grown alarmingly worse and during last night seemed to be sinking rapidly. This morning, but little hope was had of her recovery. The disease is typhoid pneumonia.

Mrs. Joseph Walls of West Fifth street was a passenger on the steamer City of Rome, which arrived from Europe, yesterday. Mrs. Walls has been spending a year in England for the benefit of her health. She was a passenger on the outgoing steamer Brittanic of the White Star Line, when that vessel and the Celtic came in collision about a year ago.

This Afternoon's Despatches.

General Sheridan holds his own. There is no marked change in his condition this morning.—Mr. T. Harrison Garrett was drowned in the bay near Baltimore last night. His yacht was run down. He was a brother of Robert Garrett.

FANWOOD'S FAIR.

Those Who Were There, And Its Unexpected Success.

The children's fair held Wednesday under the direction of Miss Carrie Hall and her friends was a very decided success. The day was one of those perfect June days with which we have been favored during the past week, and warm enough to make the toiling public turn its thoughts to iced cream. During the afternoon the arrivals from Plainfield were so numerous that the carriages nearly filled the short street and every new comer was obliged to take its turn.

Miss Lizzie Kyte and Miss Florence Kyte had charge of the refreshment room, in which was carried on a most thriving trade. Miss Carrie Hall herself, had charge of the fancy table, where some unique things were to be found. There were portraits of Laura Bridgman, and her autograph, which were all sold as well as some articles made by the blind children themselves. Among these last were little baskets made of beads, the workmanship of which would have done credit to one in possession of all his faculties. The fan table was under the direction of Miss Hildegarde Hawthorne, who enjoyed the distinction of being left in the evening without a single unsold fan. Miss Sykes and Miss Napier, a visitor, attended the confectionery department. One of those fish ponds, which are gradually supplanting the grab bag as a means of excitement for infants, was among the features of the day. With this arrangement the victim places in the little tin cup handed him for the purpose, five or ten cents, as the case may be. This is lowered by means of a fish line and pole into the innermost recesses of the pond, where a discerning manager, seated beneath a screen, attaches a package to the hook, and the fish is caught. The lemonade table was placed out-doors. It was enclosed in a booth of evergreens.

The fair commenced at three o'clock, and was not over until after nine. During the whole of that time the house was full of people—so full, indeed, that navigation from room to room became a difficult problem, attended with many uncertainties and dangers, and only to be undertaken in case of extreme necessity. At one time the door-keeper observed that "they were getting pretty full in there," but this was incorrect. The house indeed, was getting pretty full, and very full, for that matter, and very, very full, but in his or her individual capacity there was no person who was anywhere near full.

In the evening the mosquitoes joined the scene with tuneful lay, but they were not on hand in such overpowering numbers as to occasion much discomfort.

Mrs. John I. Brower was present, and was warmly greeted by many of her old friends, who, except for this opportunity, would have been ignorant of her visit in the village.

Mrs. Charles Hyde, of Plainfield, Miss Edith Hyde and Mr. Charles Hyde, Jr., were on hand. Among others present were Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Shepard, Miss Shepard and Miss Daisy Shepard, these last two taking a very active part in the work of the fair; Mr. and Mrs. Julian Hawthorne, Dr. Abraham Coles, Miss Coles, Mrs. Warren Ackerman, Miss House, Miss Mead, Mrs. Deforest Thomae, Miss Alice Stuart, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Peckham, Mrs. B. L. Dodd of Orange, Miss Dodd, Mr. Rutherford Shepard, Mr. Edwin Fancher, and a long string of other names, not only "too numerous to mention," but too numerous to try to remember for more than two consecutive minutes.

The managers of the fair had hoped to make twenty-five dollars, but were trying to run the receipts up to fifty. Judge, therefore, of their delight when a careful count of the receipts revealed the sum of one hundred and fifty-eight dollars and forty-five cents.

To Set Aside the Sheriff's Deed.

At the offices of Jackson & Codington, Advisory Master, Hugh M. Gaston, of Somerville, yesterday, heard evidence in the case of Elizabeth Elliott vs. Albert Brugler and others in a Chancery suit to set aside a Sheriff's deed given under foreclosure proceedings. Several witnesses were sworn and gave their evidence on the part of the complainant, and the further hearing of the cause was adjourned until next Wednesday.

The complainant was represented by Hon. Foster M. Voorhees of Elizabeth, and the defendants by Messrs. Jackson & Codington and Wm. K. McClure.

The Whole Town Will Have Fish For Breakfast.

The Pocono Mountain fishermen, Messrs. Goddard, Miller and Vetterlein, have telegraphed that they expect to arrive in Plainfield, this evening, at 8:40. Their friends are respectfully requested to meet them at the station, as it will be more convenient to divide the fish while the car is being unloaded. Each one is requested to bring his own basket, and a full attendance is desired.

No. 2. Engine Company Meeting.

Foreman Thomas Carty presided at a regular meeting of Plainfield Engine Company held last evening. Besides the usual routine business, the resignation of First Assistant Chief Engineer Eugene A. Laine as First Assistant Foreman and a menber of the committee on horses was accepted. Mr. Jacob Benner was elected First Assistant Foreman, and Mr. A. D. Jennings was elected a member of the above committee.

General Telegraphic Despatches.

PLUCKY LITTTE SHAKERS.

An Attempted Abduction Defeated by a Rough and Tumble Fight.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., June 8.—There was a very lively fight at the home of the Mount Lebanon Shakers yesterday, and the sisters took a hand. Not only has there been personal violence, but a recourse to the law of the land is to be made by these usually peaceful people on account of an outrage perpetrated upon them. The story is this:

A Pittsfield hack stopped shortly after two o'clock yesterday afternoon in front of the office of the south family shakers at Mount Lebanon. A gentleman alighted and entered the office, inquiring for Miss Grace Eaton. The girl, who is about fifteen years old, soon appeared and was greeted affectionately by the gentleman, whom she recognized as her father. A few words passed between them when he informed her that there was a lady in the carriage wishing to speak to her. He invited her to accompany him to the carriage. The girl, however, preferred to see the lady indoors and requested that she come in. Her father informed her that it was her stepmother who wanted to see her, and again urged her to go. An emphatic "Nay" was her reply.

This excited the parent's anger and he attempted to force her out of the building, but the girl uttered a cry, which brought Elder William Anderson upon the scene. Elder Anderson informed the callers quietly and politely that he would not allow the girl to be forced away against her will since she was legally bound to him.

At this point the girl's angry parent struck the elder a heavy blow, which landed him across a handrailing, and then held him by the throat while the driver, who had left his team in the highway, made a rush among the sisters surrounding the girl, knocking a number down, aged and young. The sisters fought bravely, they pulled the hackman's hair and tore his clothes. They screamed for more help, when other sisters from the neighboring houses came rushing in and immediately took part in the fight. They got the hackman down and drove the father and stepmother of the girl out into the street. The cowardly hackman was roughly used before making his escape.

Elder Anderson was quite severely hurt in the encounter, and two of the sisters are suffering from nervous prostration. The assaulting parties reside in Boston. The Shakers, although not revengeful, will seek full satisfaction for this dastardly attack in the courts.

Revision of the Liquor Laws.

ALBANY, June 8.—The Governor has signed the bill appointing Dr. Howard Crosby, Daniel G. Rollins, Denis O'Brien, James S. Smart, Frederick W. Kruse, G. Thomann and Max Stern to revise the liquor laws and report to the next Legislature, and Secretary of State Cook has appointed June 14 and his office as the time and place for the organization of the Commission.

The Paine-Bennett Match.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 8.—In the pistol shooting contest between Paine and Bennett yesterday very good work was done by both men, and the day's work placed Bennett seven points ahead and only nine points behind Paine in the four days's record. As a result Bennett's backers are offering even money for the first time during the match.

THE DAY OF JUBILEE.

Brazil's Freed Slaves Celebrate Their Release From Bondage Enthusiastically.

RIO JANEIRO, June 8.—The bill extinguishing slavery was brought by the Senate Committee to the Princess Regent at half past three p. m. on Saturday and was immediately signed by her. As the news reached them the new made freemen abandoned pots and pans, and shovels and hoes, to rush into the streets and march arm and arm, hurrahing for liberty, the Princess Regent, John Alfredo, Josquine Nabuco, Clapp, Patrocinto and other persons prominently connected with the cause of abolition. Processions were organized and until late at night the city was traversed with long trains of ex-slaves and their sympathizers, accompanied with bands and carrying torches and colored lanterns, filling the air with hurrahs and rockets.

The Princess Regent had at once started for Petropolis, where she is still resident, but the President of the Council, John Alfredo, received a grand ovation, which was kept up for two hours, and similar demonstrations were made before the offices of the newspapers that had aided to fight the battle of freedom. All day yesterday the agitation continued and work of all kinds was practically stopped. The population of the city was mostly in the streets, which at night were brilliantly illuminated, and traversed by torchlight processions. From all parts of the country the Princess Regent received the warmest testimonials of the popular appreciation and gratitude at the fall of slavery.

Amid all these expressions of exulted feeling nothing has occurred on the part of the ex-slaves to mar the general rejoicing and excite personal apprehension. The freemen are exultant, but they show no malice.

In general, the slave owners have accepted the new situation with resignation, if not with pleasure; but some of them have not been able to conceal their annoyance, some having, the moment the news reached them, thrust all their ex-slaves, old and young, into the street. But such cases are very few.

AN INTERESTING OPERATION.

Dr. Chisolm, of Baltimore, Transfers a Rabbit's Eye to a Man's Head.

BALTIMORE, June 8.—Dr. J. J. Chisolm has just performed the operation of transferring a rabbit's eye to a man's head, the Presbyterian Eye, Ear and Throat at Charity Hospital, in the presence of a large number of physicians. The patient had been blind for many years. A piece of the blind eye was cut out by using a circular punch, very sharp, driven by clock work. With the same instrument a duplicate piece was taken from the sound eye of a living rabbit. The clear patch fitted accurately into the hole made in the man's eye. The operation was made painless by the use of cocaine. The best results are expected.

The Honourable Artillery Doing Boston.

BOSTON, June 8.—The members of the Honourable Artillery Company of London now in this city called on Gov. Ames at the State House yesterday morning. They were escorted from their hotel by Messrs. Folsom, Frost, Stevens and Hichborn of the Ancient and Honourable Artilley Company, and were met by Adjt.-Gen. Dalton and Col. Rockwell of the Governor's staff and Commander Smith and Chairman Allen of the Ancients' Anniversary Committee. After a short chat with the Governor and Lieut.-Gov. Brackett, the party visited the Council Chamber, where Secretary of State Pierce explained the relations of the Governor and Executive Council. The Treasurer's Department and the halls of both branches of the Legislature were also visited. The party then went to the City Hall and were presented to the Mayor, who introduced the guests to the heads of the City Departments. On leaving the City Hall the party rode to Fort Hill Square, where an exhibition of the work of the Fire Department was given. In the afternoon the London delegation called on the Hon. Robert C. Winthrop at his home in Brookline.

Forest Fires in Newfoundland.

ST. JOHN'S, Newfoundland, June 8.—Destructive forest fires are raging on the south shore of Conception Bay. At Collier's nine houses, at Placentia the dwelling of the railway officials, at Harbor Grace Junction seven houses, and at Seal Cove seven houses have been burned. At Little Bay North 26 families have been burned out, nothing being saved, and one woman and two children were burned to death.

A Wreck on the Erie.

PORT JERVIS, June 8.—Yesterday afternoon two freight trains came together head to head east of the Erie Railroad bridge over the Delaware River at Hancock. The force of the collision was so great the river span broke down, carrying three cars of merchandise and two of live stock into the river. No person was hurt.

Weather Indications.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—For New England, New York, Eastern Pennsylvania and New Jersey, generally warmer, fair weather, followed by light to fresh northerly winds.

AN AMERICAN ABSCONDER.

Found In London By New York Detectives—Signed Under Protest.

LONDON, June 8.—Jerome L. Hill, the old Union Club man, who misappropriated $250,000 of the funds of the Lattimer estate, and who, after confessing the deed, ran away in April last, has been found in this city by New York detectives who have been diligently searching for him, at the expense of his fellow executors, ever since. He has been keeping very shady. He appears to have frittered away a large portion of the money he made away with, and he looks old and haggard, as if a life of secrecy and disgrace were telling on him. He will be closely shadowed, and if there is any chance to bring him to justice the thing will be promptly done. The dectives say that Hill's family are in close communication with him. They have left Yonkers, where they lived in style, and moved to New York.

He Signed it Under Protest.

BERLIN, June 8.—The law providing for quinquennial sessions of the Prussian Diet has been officially published. The Emperor's letter to Minister Von Puttkamer does not accompany the new law. Consequently according to the Post, the resignation of Minister von Puttkamer is in abeyance. It is reported that a royal rescript will be issued reminding local authorities that it is their duty to abstain from using undue influence in elections.

Leopold Opens the Brussels Exhibition.

BRUSSELS, June 8.—King Leopold yesterday opened the Interstate Exhibition. In his address he congratulated the people on the progress of their industries, and said the time had arrived for Belgian capital to seek distant shores. Manufacturers, he said, must make the world their adjective.

Italy's Trouble with Zanzibar.

ZANZIBAR, June 8.—Later explanations of the difference between Italy and Zanzibar show that the Sultan has refused to ratify the cession of the islands Kismayu and Sala, demanded by Italy as a compensation for the alleged insult of the late Sultan King Humbert.

Emperor Frederick's Condition

POTSDAM, June 8.—The Emperor remained indoors to-day, owing to unfavorable weather. He passed a good day and transacted much business. The irritation of the throat which caused him to cough has ceased.

Food For the Hull Sufferers.

TORONTO, June 8.—Relief is urgently needed for the sufferers of the Hull fire. Homeless families are camped around Lake Flora. They have been supplied with food by the Christian Brothers, but yesterday the provisions were out.

He Wouldn't Do.

There was a Fifth avenue dude
With conceit dness strongly imbude,
His feet and face
Often ran in a race,
As may in the picture be vude.

With a window-pane stuck in his eye
He would ogle the girls on the sleye,
With his feet round the curve,
While his head, you observe,
Endeavor'd to pass the girls beye.

But the girls didn't fancy his figure,
Which would not have been owned by a nigure,
So they passed in disdain
By the dude's window-pane,
Till the pain in his bosom grew bigure.

SNIPE SHOOTING.

How the Subtle English Snipe Usually Succeeds in Escaping the Sportsman.

The English snipe is the most subtle of the beasts of the field. He bloweth whither he listeth, and he usually getteth there about thirty minutes before you are quite sure that he has started. All sportsmen desire to be considered good snipe shots, because he is the hardest bird in the world to hit. I mean to hit with shot fired out of a shotgun. I think a good player could hit one with a base-ball bat, because the bird flies much after the manner of the erratic curved ball of the moderns.

I have had a great deal of experience as a sportsman. I have shot the fierce chipmunk from his airy perch on the top of a five-rail fence, and I have knocked the euphonious cat-bird stiff from the limb of a sour-apple tree. I have also slain the giddy mud-hen and the wily woodchuck. But never, till last week, did I go gunning for English snipe. A friend lured me into it; but he is now a wiser man, and so am I.

He and I and Rockingham Spot (a dog) started out early in the morning for the happy hunting grounds. My friend told me that the English snipe was a bird of retiring disposition, and of damp habits; he sought as his dwelling place the marshes, where he could feed on sand-worms and other delicacies of the early spring, while he lay concealed from public observation behind the hummocks of marsh grass.

"When he rises to fly," said my friend, "he utters a sound like the word 'Scape,' and he frequently does 'scape. He starts off at a great speed, and with a twisting flight which is very puzzling to the beginner, because it upsets his belief in the regularity of the earth's revolutions. But, of course, it will not disconcert an old-timer like you. All you have to do, is to let him twist away for a moment or two. Before he gets out of gunshot he will stop twisting and fly straight; and then all you have to do, is to put up your gun and knock him over."

I had my doubts about the success of this scheme, but I concealed them. We proceeded to the hunting grounds, which presented a wide and monotonous aspect of mud and brown marsh grass. Rockingham Spot scented the battle from afar of, and began to dance up and down over the marsh, while we walked along its edge. Presently the dog began to move cautiously, and my friend said:

"You go ahead and take the first shot. The bird will undoubtedly be found hiding behind a hummock."

Presently the dog paused on the edge of a tall hummock, and, elevating his back to a considerable angle, pointed straight downward. I hastened forward as best I could, for I found that the mud was very soft and very deep between the clumps of grass. I sank into it like a fly into a quart of molasses, and had almost as much trouble in pulling myself out. The dog was very patient, though his position was one that required considerable judgment and some practice to maintain. I finally reached the place, and ascended the hummock on which the dog was still balancing himself. As I raised my gun, the weary animal toppled over, and I heard the snipe exclaim "'scape!" as he sprang into the air.

I had been led to believe that there was only one snipe there; but there certainly had been a convention. The air was full of snipe. They didn't twist; they gyrated. They whirled around like ten thousand feathered pin-wheels; they whizzed; they radiated. I saw whole constellations of English snipe revolving in space like a cataclysm of unshackled asteroids. My eyes bulged out; my lungs nearly burst; my heart beat like a tympani-player in a Wagner opera; my ears buzzed with the buzz of a thousand buzz-saws. I was somewhat startled. I think I neglected to fire. I shouldn't be surprised if I dropped the gun. I know I found mud on it afterward. At the time, I heard about twenty reports; but my friend afterward assured me that there had been only one.

"Did you fire into the flock?" I inquired.

"What flock?" he asked.

"The flock of snipe," I said.

"There was only one snipe," he said, "and here he is." I didn't say anything; but I know I saw thousands of snipe. He managed to hit only one of them, and tried to lie out of it by saying that's all there was. Why, if I had fired, I could not have helped hitting a dozen. If I hadn't slipped and dropped my gun, I should have bagged a fine mess.

However, I got even with my friend. We started again, and after proceeding down the marsh for a mile or two, the dog once more showed symptoms of distress. But, somehow, we could not urge him on. He looked at me so sadly every time I spoke to him, and then stole around to the other side of my friend and whined. So I said I would go and find the snipe myself. I waded in, and, proceeding cautiously, soon came in sight of the largest snipe I ever saw.

He was standing on one foot, on the end of a small log that projected over the water. I gazed upon him in silent awe, for I knew that if he should fly up and begin to revolve, there would be an earthquake. I determined to slay him while he stood upon one foot and dallied with his fate. I rested my gun on the limb of a bush, offered a silent prayer, took a long and careful aim, and fired.

The snipe fell dead.

"Hit him?" shouted my friend.

"Dead bird," I answered.

"Good!" he exclaimed.

Then I carried my snipe over and laid it in triumphant silence at his feet. He burst into a roar of laughter.

"That's not a snipe!" he exclaimed: "it's a bittern."

Brethren, I treated him with contempt; and, slinging my king snipe over my back, left him then and there. I may be a young man, and an inexperienced searcher after long-billed game, but when I have seen ten thousand small snipe all at once, I think I ought to know a big one when I see him sitting on a log.—Puck.

GAMBLING FOR PENNIES.

The Fascination of Such Games as "Liner" and "Crack."

The news-boys of all our large cities are inveterate gamblers and most of the little waifs of the streets habitually play games of chance and some of them are daily cheated out of their last penny and are forced to leave the place where the game is carried on without money enough to buy a meal.

The gamin usually tries his fortune in the shadow of some tall building, in a court, or alley, and considers it a trespass on his rights if a pedestrian pushes his way through and interrupts a game.

To be able to tell these who are interested and who do not know all about this game a reporter hunted up a little chap the other day who had "gone broke on der pavement" and who was anxious to sell all his knowledge of the game for a small consideration. There are, according to this boy's story, two ways of pitching pennies. The first game is called "liner," and it may be played by from two to eight boys. In this game a line is chosen and the players stand a certain distance off and pitch their coppers as near as possible to the line, but not over it. If five are playing they all pitch. Suppose three of them put their coppers across the line and two this side. The pennies beyond the line are lost and must be divided between the other two. The one whose penny lies nearest the line takes all the pennies, shakes them in his hand and drops them to the pavement. The heads belong to him and the tails to his opponent.

THE YOUNG GAMBLERS.

Another and more difficult game is played and is called "crack." It is played just the same as the liner game, except that the penny must first be thrown against the wall and made to rebound to that part of the pavement where the chosen crack is situated. This requires more skill than the other game, and only those who are expert ever attempt it.

Another favorite game of these little chaps is called "crap." It is played with a single die and is shaken in the hand, and the opposite player calls "odd" or "even" for the number of spots on the face of the die.

As superstition is to be found among all classes of gamblers, it is also to be found among the penny-pitching newsboys, and it takes some queer shapes. Not a lad of them who sells papers will pitch a penny until he has made at least one sale, and the little fellow with the box is just as determined and will not try his fortune until he has had one "shine." Again, nearly all of the boys have their favorite pennies, in which they believe, and they cherish it just as fondly as the late John T. Raymond did his pretentious 1804 dollar, and these pennies are often the one thing about the boys that are kept scrupulously clean. Another, and probably the most peculiar superstition, is that they believe a woman brings them bad luck. If, in playing on the street, a woman passes before a boy who is about to pitch, and between him and the crack at which he throws, he can, if he likes, refuse to throw, and the game is given up and another crack is chosen. Why a woman and not a man should be chosen as the omen of ill-luck does not appear, but "Dey allus bring de rocky wid 'em."

Organs were first used in the year 755.

LATE WASHINGTON NEWS

THE SALT PARAGRAPH OF THE TARIFF BILL FINISHED,

Twenty-nine of the 1,382 Lines of the Mills Bill Disposed of By the House. Other News of Interest.

WASHINGTON, June 9.—The House has finished four lines more of the Tariff bill, making twenty-nine of the 1,382 lines in the bill. Salt was the subject, and it remains upon the free list, all motions to change it having been rejected.

Mr. Cox, Dem., N. Y., pleaded for cheap salt in the interest of the dairymen and the farmers. They were now subject to a direct tax, for they needed the best grade of salt, and that could not be produced in this country. Why should Congress discriminate against the dairymen and in favor of the fish packer of New England?

Mr. Belden, Rep., N. Y., denied that such was the case, and added that Mr. Cox did not know what he was talking about.

Mr. Cox replied that he had good authority for his statements. He wanted to reduce the surplus and to reduce the cost of the breakfast table.

Mr. Adams, Rep., Ill., wanted to know whether he was willing to cut off the sugar duty.

Mr. Cox replied that he could not be caught by such a question. Yes, he would favor a reduction of the sugar duties.

Mr. Burrows, of Michigan, declared that the National Butter and Cheese Association had awarded the majority of prizes to users of American salt, which seemed to meet the charge that the United States could not produce the best grades of salt. To put salt on the free list would be to surrender a portion of our market to foreign producers.

Mr. Whiting, of Michigan, although a salt manufacturer, did not feel justified in opposing the movement to reduce taxation. He asserted that large quantities of English salt were sold in Michigan for $2.25 a barrel, although the native product could be had for sixty cents. The dairy people wanted it.

Mr. Burrows asked if the gentleman's salt was not fit to pack butter.

Mr. Whiting replied that it was, and he shipped half of his product to the Atlantic seabord in competition with English salt and held his own. If American salt makers chose to make good salt, he said, they could retain their market.

A vote was then taken on a motion made by Mr. Burrows to strike out the paragraph, and it was rejected.

An amendment offered by Mr. Grosvenor of Ohio to exclude bulk salt from the free list, admitting only dairy and table salt, met with a similar fate. This concluded the consideration of the salt paragraph.

Mr. Hayne, of Pennsylvania offered an amendment to insert rice, cleaned and uncleaned, in the free list. Rejected.

The four lines, 30, 31, 32 and 33, relating to flax, were read, and Mr. Browne, of Indiana, moved to strike them out of the free list. Pending debate the committee rose,

The House Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds has finally agreed to report a bill appropriating $430,000 for the acquisition of a site for a postoffice building for this city. The site designated in the bill is west of Judiciary Square, and is bounded by Fifth and Sixth and D. and E streets, is centrally located, and convenient to the street cars.

The President has approved the acts for the erection of public buildings at Paterson, N. J., at Tallahassee, Fla.; the act to increase the appropriation for the public building at Sacramento, Cal., and the act to amend the act to establish agricultural stations in connection with colleges.

The House bill authorizing the construction of a bridge over the Missouri River, near Omaha, Neb., and the Senate bill granting right of way through the Indian Territory to the Paris, Choctaw and Little Rock Railway Company, were passed by unanimous consent.

COUNT MITKIEWICZ COMPLAINS

The Inside History of His Chinese Concessions Will Now be Made Public.

PHILADELPHIA, June 9.—The inside history of the grants of franchises of great value made by the Chinese Government to Count Eugene Mitkiewicz and a syndicate of American capitalists, whom he represented, is at last to be given to the public. Count Mitkiewicz has brought suit against Wharton Barker, the Philadelphia capitalist, who was expected to furnish the money to carry out the enterprise, and yesterday his complaint was filed in the Court of Common Pleas here. Messrs. Sackett & Bennett are the Count's New York lawyers, while Alexander Farnham represents him in Philadelphia.

The action is brought in the equity side of the court and is to compel the defendant to carry out an agreement in relation to the consummation of the enterprise alleged to have been made by Barker, William L. Paine and the plaintiff. The bill of complaint contains a full history of the conception of the scheme, and makes some new disclosures concerning the manner in which this enormous enterprise was launched.

The Iron-Workers' Convention.

PITTSBURG, June 9.—At yesterday's session of the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel-Workers the resolution to extend fraternal greetings to the Knights of Labor ironworkers, also in session here, was rejected. The balance of the session was taken up with the consideration of the scale question. Secretary Martin refused to say what progress had been made, but from one of the delegates, it was learned, that it had been decided to ask $5.50 per ton for boiling on a two-cent card.

Decker Resigns and Kelly is Appointed.

WASHINGTON, June 9.—President Young has accepted the resignation of Umpire Decker and appointed John Kelly, late manager of the Louisville Club, to the vacancy. Kelly, who has evidently had all the experience he cares for as manager of a losing club, at once accepted Mr. Young's offer and telegraphed that he would report for duty in this city on the 12th inst. His work will begin here.

DEATH OF T. H. GARRETT.

Drowned from His Yacht Near Baltimore—The Body Not Recovered.

BALTIMORE, June, 9.—Search for the body of T. H. Garrett who was drowned from his yacht, The Gleam, Thursday night between 10 and 11 o'clock off Seven-Foot-Knoll fourteen miles down the bay, has been abandoned. The accident was caused by the Steamboat Joppa running into Mr. Garrett's yacht and sinking her.

The Gleam had been down to Annapolis and was returning to Baltimore when the collision occurred. A scene of the wildest excitement followed and Mr. Garrett clung to the bow chains of the Joppa as she crashed into the yacht. Then as the big steamboat backed off he was washed from his position and perished before a boat could be lowered to rescue him.

According to the quoted statement of Capt. Tory of the Gleam, the collision was the result of a misunderstanding of the whistle signals as the yacht and the Joppa approached each other. After the transfer of the passengers the Joppa proceeded on her trip down the bay.

T. Harrison Garrett was about 42 years old, and manager of the old banking house of Robert Garrett & Sons, a concern established by his grandfather. He was very wealthy, and Evergreen, his suburban residence, contained the finest library in Maryland.

Mr. Garrett was a member of the Maryland Club and also a director of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. He owned the finest collection of etchings and engravings in this country, and it is probable that he had already taken steps to make it public property.

THEIR ACADEMY DAYS OVER.

Graduating Exercises of the Naval Class of '88—Grand Ball Last Night.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., June 8.—The graduation exercises at the Naval Academy have been concluded, and the Class of '88 is free from Academy life, with their diplomas in their pockets ready to go upon the deep blue sea in our ships of war. The graduating ceremonies began yesterday morning at 10 o'clock, when Secretary Whitney, accompanied by Mrs. Whitney, and all the members of the Board of Visitors took their station on the grand stand. After ex-Representative Proctor Knott, of Kentucky, had delivered his address to the graduating class in the chapel building Secretary Whitney handed the diplomas to the cadets, who, as they stepped forward to receive them, were enthusiastically applauded by the remaining members of the Academy.

The grand ball of the Class of '88 last night was largely attended and proved to be a grand affair. This has been the greatest week ever witnessed at the Naval Academy, and the beautiful weather during those days has largely contributed towards making the graduation exercises this year a grand success. The North Atlantic Squadron will remain here until the early part of next week.

THE PAINE-BENNETT MATCH.

Mr. Paine Withdraws and Enters a Protest Against Bennett's Sight.

PROVIDENCE, June 9.—The Paine-Bennett match yesterday came to a sudden end, so far as a contest was concerned, by Paine entering a protest and withdrawing from the match, while Bennett shot out his ten strings of 100 shots, and scored 878 points.

Mr. Paine said he had objected on previous days to the sights used on the revolver and at last was compelled to make a formal protest and call for military sights, such as the articles of agreement demanded. He also protested against Mr. Bennett exceeding the time limit in firing. In accordance with these views, his judge, Newton Dexter, gave the protest to Referee Bull, who at 3 o'clock gave as his decision that as he had allowed the sights on four days of the match he could not order them changed on the fifth day. He then ordered that to proceed with the shooting. He said that under the articles of agreement the protest would go to the Secretary of the National Rifle Association. Mr. Paine declined to go on, and Mr. Bennett, at 3:10, began to shoot his 100 shots, finishing at 4:35, and making 878 points.

Business Failures.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., June 9.—Austin Fields & Company, wholesale shoe dealers, 837 Market street, have made an assignment. At a meeting of creditors the firm stated its liabilities to be between $250,000 and $290,000, and assets, represented by stock, bonds, etc., at $146,000. An offer to settle at fifty cents on the dollar at three, six and nine months, and secured paper, was made.

MONTREAL, June 9.—Wm. Latty, lumber merchant, formerly of New York, has made a judicial abandonment of his estate. His liabilities are between $150,000 and $200,000; assets about $125,000.

CHICAGO, June 9.—Jackson & Pearson, dealers in hats and caps, confessed judgment yesterday aggregating $40,000. It is estimated that the liabilities of the firm will be about $40,000, and the assets between $15,000 and $20,000.

To Beat the Canadian Law.

MONTREAL, June 8.—The bucket shop proprietors have hit upon a plan to evade the law passed at the late session of the Dominion Parliament for the suppression of bucket shops. A head office will be established in Buffolo, and dealing or transactions will be completed there by wire. In this way, the law, it is said, can be rendered of no avail. The transaction does not take place in Canada, and will, therefore, be out of the reach of the Canadian statutes.

Sensation Stakes at Latonia.

COVINGTON, Ky., June 9.—Results of the races at Latonia yesterday were as follows:

First race—Seven furlongs. Pat Donovan first, Galiatin second, Galata third. Time, 1:26¾.

Second race—Half a mile. Brahman first, Minnie Palmer second, Gypsy third. Time, 49¾.

Third race—Six furlongs. Parthia first, Vivanza second, Antonio third. Time, 1:16.

Fourth race—Six furlongs. Tam O'Shanter first, Orange Girl second, Business third. Time, 1:16.

Fifth race—One mile. Elmira first, Hector second, Glenhall third. Time, 1:45.

Sixth race—Sensation stakes, six furlongs. Kasson first, Proctor Knott second, Come to Taw third. Time, 1:16.

VON PUTTKAMER TO GO

THE GERMAN CRISIS IS STILL UNSETTLED.

A Letter from the Emperor Causes Him to Resign—The Tories Back Down. General Foreign News.

BERLIN, June 9.—It is reported that Herr von Puttkamer, Vice-President of the Prussian Ministerial Council and Prussian Minister of the Interior, has asked the Emperor for permission to resign. Herr von Puttkamer's decision to resign, is owing, it is said, to the contents of an autograph letter from the Emperor which he received last evening.

The Post and the National Zeitung both state that Herr von Puttkamer has resigned from the Ministry.

The Emperor has conferred the Grand Cross of Hohenzollern upon Herr von Puttkamer.

The Ministry met at the residence of Prince Bismarck yesterday. Herr von Puttkamer was absent.

The Volksblatt opposes the proposal of the German socialists to attend the Trades Union Congress at London.

The North German Gazette, Prince Bismarck's organ, commenting on the eventuality of a change of Ministers, says: "Such a change would not be of grave importance if it only resulted in showing the incapacity of the opposition. Symptoms of instability and disunion in the Ministry would be more serious. They would serve to depress the confidence of the friends of the Ministry, to encourage the hopes of their opponents and to lead the latter to conclude that the ruling powers were no longer what they were, while the task of the Ministry would be especially difficult."

An imperial order has been issued directing the court to continue to wear mourning for the late Emperor William until Aug 6.

The British War Scare.

LONDON, June 9.—The Daily Telegraph continues to print war-scare articles. It advises the Hartington Commission to appoint a Minister of National Defence, to decide disputed military and naval questions, and to appoint a Defence Committee consisting of military, naval and civilian members, to examine the heads of naval and military departments and to report to Parliament. The Telegraph gives statistics showing the need of five more ironclads and 120 fast cruisers.

News From Egypt.

CAIRO, June 9.—In upper Egypt the cotton crop is forward and is in an excellent condition. In some of the Delta provinces, however, it is backward, but healthy. The season is cold. Water is abundant. The Khedive has dismissed Nubar Pacha, president of the council, minister of foreign affairs and minister of justice, and has summoned Riaz Pacha to form a cabinet.

England's Central Asia Policy.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 9.—The Novoe Vremya states that the measures which India desires to impose upon the Ameer of Afghanistan, with a view to preventing amicable relations between the Afghans and Russian Turkomans, can lead to no practical result, but only to discontent among the Afghans, which will prejudice the interests of England.

Emperor Frederick Improving.

POTSDAM, June 9.—The Emperor passed an excellent day yesterday. In spite of the recent police order the Emperor has directed his coachman to drive more slowly in the streets, in order to enable him to accept floral offerings from the people. The Empress and suite have started for the scene of the Vistula floods.

Col. King-Harman Will Not Resign.

LONDON, June 9.—Col. King-Harman denies the rumor which has been put in circulation that he intends to resign his office of Under Secretary for Ireland and his seat in the House of Commons.

Nubar Pasha Dismissed.

CAIRO, June 9.—The Khedive has dismissed Nubar Pasha, President of the Council, Minister of Foreign Affairs, and Minister of Justice, and has summoned Riaz Pasha to form a Cabinet.

The Tories Back Down.

LONDON, June 9.—The government, fearing defeat, has withdrawn the licensing clauses of the County Government bill.

Dom Pedro Recovering.

AIX-LES-BAINS, June 9.—The Emperor of Brazil is rapidly recovering.

BISHOP TURNER IN POLITICS.

He Gets Himself Into Trouble at the Session of the A. M. E. Conference.

PHILADELPHIA, June 9.—Bishop Turner, of Georgia, precipitated a lively discussion on politics at yesterday's session of the Philadelphia Conference of the African Methodist Episcopal Church by declaring that he was in favor of prohibition, and had left the Republican party because it had refused to protect his wife and children from insult in the South.

He added that he had just come from the National Prohibition Convention, where he had helped to nominate General Fiske for the presidency.

Before the Bishop had concluded his remarks several delegates were on their feet and clamoring to be heard. One declared that he was a Republican and intended going to the Chicago Convention, where he would help to place in nomination the next President and Vice-President of the United States.

Bishop Turner discovered that he had made a mistake, and explained that he did not expect his brethren to follow him.

"No," exclaimed an old preacher, "we do not intend to follow you."

Shortage in a Sheriff's Accounts.

PITTSBURG, June 9.—The County Commissioners have been officially notified by County Comptroller Speer that the accounts of the Sheriff's office during the term of Col. Joseph H. Gray would not balance, owing to a deficiency of $15,658.59.

BY THE WAY.

—Oh! for a Y. M. C. A. building.

—Six dogs in all were captured by the dog-catchers this week.

—The roads in this vicinity are now in an excellent condition for bicycling.

—The beautiful and sweet scented magnolias are becoming quite plentiful.

—The Star base ball club, colored, is anxious to cross bats with the Crescents.

—A number of young people from this city are today holding a Shakespearean picnic at Feltville.

—Patrick Muldoon, a resident of West Third street, fell out of a wagon a few days ago, and fractured his knee pan.

—The vested choir in Holy Cross church will sing at both the morning and afternoon service in that church to-morrow.

—June is the month of brides; her birds
And breezes of glad nuptials sing,
And say, as plain as spoken words,
"At Collier's get your wedding ring."

—Our local fishermen in need of fishing tackle of any description, should call on A. M. Vanderbeek & Co., 33 Park avenue, as they have a full stock.

—"Our Commission" 2 Cor. 5: 20, is the topic for the young men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A., Monday evening. Leader, Mr. Fredrick Moon. All men welcome.

—Thursday evening was the time set for a meeting of the Music Hall Directors, but a quorum of the members failed to materialize, and the meeting was adjourned.

—Messrs. Warden & Fowler of this city furnished their excellent iced cream for the Baptist church strawberry and iced cream festival at New Market on Wednesday evening.

—To-morrow the scholars of the Chimney Rock Sunday school will observe Children's Day by holding out-door exercises. A delegation from this city will attend the services in the afternoon.

—Admission will be free to the cake and candy sale to be held in the parlors of the Crescent Avenue church, Monday afternoon next, from five to seven o'clock, for the benefit of the Young Ladies Mission Band.

—Ex-Fire Commissioner Solomon Flaig stopped a runaway horse on East Second street, Thursday evening. The animal became frightened at the report of the cannon which was discharged in honor of the Democratic nominations.

—A great comfort, and one within the reach of every man, is the ten-dollar, all-wool, cheviot suit that the Schwed Bros., are offering with a hundred other garments, at their establishment on Front street, opposite Park avenue.

—A preparatory meeting was held in the chapel of the First Presbyterian church last evening. To-morrow seven persons will join with the church by letter and two upon the profession of their faith.

—Messrs. Van Emburgh & White will offer the best of bargains during the coming week. The firm invites the public in general to call and inspect their goods. In their advertisement elsewhere, are quoted some of the more important bargains.

—At a regular meeting of the Plainfield Gesang and Turn Verein Society, held on Thursday evening, it was decided to open a training school for boys. The school will open on the first Friday in July, and the pupils will receive instructions in turning, etc.

—Mr. N.W. French makes an announcement today to the effect that he has on hand at his store, No. 7 East Fourth street, a full line of clover and timothy hay mixed, all the best grades of flour, and that he is also agent for the Stevens' prepared flour.

—Chief Carey is in possession of the bullet which came so near striking Mrs. J. K. Myers of East Seventh street, on Wednesday evening, as told exclusively in these columns on the following day. The bullet is a large one, and was evidently shot from a revolver.

—The methods of treatment used by Dr. Kimbell are entirely new discoveries of the medical and scientific professions, and as thoroughly harmless as they are completely painless. Aggravated corns and all the minor discomforts of the kind, are removed at once, and the shoe or boot can thereafter be worn with ease. The Doctor will retain his consulting rooms at the City Hotel for some days longer.

THE 19TH ANNUAL AT THE SEMINARY.

The Concert to Precede the Soiree, Next Tuesday Evening.

The usual Commencement Soiree at Miss Kenyon's Seminary, will be held, this year, during Tuesday evening of next week, and will be preceded by a purely musical entertainment under the direction of Mr. A. Venino. The ladies who will take part in the rendition of the programme, are some of the best of the many pupils in that gentleman's class. The instrumental selections will include two eight-hand pieces, and other difficult classical studies.

Besides all of which in general, Miss Alice Holmes in particular will sing a charming selection for mezzo-soprano, from "Il Giuramento," and one of the most beautiful of Dudley Buck's compositions. The following is the complete programme:

Danse Macabre, (Midnight Dance of Death) St. Saens.
Misses Holmes, Maxon, Dumont, Hart.
Fairy Dance, Duet ..... Jensen.
Miss N. Whiton and Mr. A. Venino.
Selection, From "Il Giuramento" ..... Mercadante.
Miss A. Holmes.
a. Arabesques, } ..... Schumann.
b. Novelette, }
Miss E. Rollins.
Sonata, Op. 2. No. 3. Part I. ..... Beethoven.
Miss M. Potter.
Capriccio Brilliant ..... Mendelssohn.
Miss Holmes. 2d Piano, Mr. A. Venino.
Ballad, G minor ..... Chopin.
Miss E. Sanford.
"When the Heart is Young," ..... Dudley Buck.
Miss Holmes.
Valse Brillant ..... Moszkowski.
Misses Holmes, Maxon, Dumont, Hart.

They Escaped the Congratulations of Their Friends.

Among the crowd of acquaintances that gathered at the station, last evening, to welcome the return of the Pocono fishermen—and to help them unload and carry their fish home—there were noticeable for the size of their baskets, a clothier of North avenue, a city official, a butcher of Front street, an artist of the Borough and the "little doctor."

Just as the train was approaching Plainfield, the engineer was compelled to slacken its speed and to run slowly into the station on account of the danger to the excited crowd with baskets and pails that was gathered about the track. The returning fishermen not knowing that it was an assembling of their friends, jumped in the dark from the front car into a Peace street coal yard, and escaped unseen.

The disappointed friends waited around the station for some hours afterwards, expecting that the fishermen might come in on a special, or that the second section with a half-dozen car loads of fish would arrive at any minute.

They eventually wandered home with their empty pails and baskets, and ate a disconsolated meal, this morning, of crackers.

Sangerbund Items.

The usual weekly practice of the Turning section was held at the hall of the above named society on East Second street, last evening.

A delegation from the Plainfield Gesang and Turn Verein Society will attend a picnic of the Liederkranz of Trenton, at that place on Monday.

At a meeting of the society held on Thursday evening, the members decided to add a Debating club to their organization. It was also decided to hold a picnic in Kellar's Grove, on the afternoon and evening of July 4th, and Prof. Conde's band has been engaged for the occasion.

A committee from the National Turn Verein of Newark and Elizabethport will meet a committee from the Plainfield society in this city to-morrow, to make arrangements for the forthcoming reunion of the several societies, which is to be held in this city on the 17th instant.

A Particularly Sad Death.

A telegram was received in this city on Tuesday, announcing the death in Southern New Mexico, of Mr. Charles Beidelman of this city, whose widow is the daughter of Mr. James E. White. The deceased was married to Miss Hattie White on October 14th last. His health failed him, and in February of the present year he started for New Mexico. He wrote encouraging letters to his wife, who remained in this city, but his disease, consumption, developed so rapidly that he died, without even his wife knowing of his death.

Mrs. Beidelman, fearing that her husband's illness would terminate fatally, started on Sunday to join him, and while on the way to New Mexico the sad news of his death was received in this city. She will probably learn of her husband's death when she reaches her destination, today.

Paid a Fraternal Visit.

Last evening Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., of this city, paid a fraternal visit to Good Will Lodge, No. 101, K. of P., of Scotch Plains. A very interesting session was the result. The visitors were warmly received by the Scotch Plains brethren. Some excellent speeches were made by Bros. Ford, Ulrich, Turton, Higgins, and others of Perseverance Lodge; also a recitation by P. D. D., John H. Carney. Songs were well rendered by Bros. Joseph Brown, Ed. Flannery and Treno of Good Will. After the meeting the visitors were escorted to Bro. John Flannery's hotel, and served with refreshments.

—The Trustees of District School No. 3, are soliciting plans for a new school house, and we direct the attention of architects to their advertisement in this issue.

ONE YEAR'S WORK.

What the Ladies of the German Church Have Done.

The anniversary of the Ladies' Christian Work Society of the German Reformed church, which was held yesterday evening, in the lecture room of the church, was much enjoyed by the great number of attendants, and was a real success.

The meeting was opened with the singing of a hymn, and a prayer by the pastor. Then came a very interesting report from the Secretary of the Society, Mrs. V. Utzinger, showing the prosperity and good work and spirit of the society. By the report of the Treasurer that followed, it was shown that the income of the first year was $164, besides the fair receipts which were $1,100. This money was spent for the benefit of the new church home and the mission.

After this the names of the officers for the coming year, who were elected in the general meeting the previous evening, were announced. All the old officers who had served so faithfully were re-elected, as follows:

Mrs. C. Hook, President.
Miss M. Handwerk, Vice President and Treasurer for the Mission money.
Mrs. V. Utzinger, Secretary.
Mrs. N. Smalley, Treasurer.

After this came an address by the pastor, songs, and a declamation by little Miss Lilly Zeisz, followed by refreshments served by the ladies, and social entertainment. Music was furnished by Mr. Hasselmann.

Dogs by the Wholesale.

The following notice was inserted in our cent-a-word column last evening:

WANTED—20 Dogs, any breed, must not be more than three years old. Enquire Geo. Thatcher, Central avenue, cor. Seventh street.

To show the value of an advertisement in THE PRESS, it may be stated that up to date 174 dogs by actual count have been taken to Mr. Thatcher's residence. Soon after the paper went to press last evening, boys by the dozen could be seen leading dogs through the streets, all going in the same direction. There were registered dogs of high and low degree, from the black in tan up to the mastiff, black, white, brown and yellow male and female dogs, lap and spitz dogs, mongrel and bull dogs, setters and pointers, all pointing for the minstrel's home. In fact there was a "corner" on dogs last night.

People were at a loss to know what Mr. Thatcher was going to do with so many dogs, but the general opinion prevailed that he was going to open a bench show. The dogs came so fast that Mr. Thatcher was obliged to load up a gattling gun which he left in charge of the workman, while he made his way to town. Someone had perpetuated a joke on him, but George promises to have his say in Music Hall on September 5th.

Training Class Notes.

The Workers' Training Class taught by Mr. W. D. Murray, will meet at the Y. M. C. A., this evening, at 8 o'clock.

Members of other Training Classes will meet as usual, to-morrow morning.

The Women's Training Class will be taught by Mr. E. L. Suffern, Monday afternoon at 4:45 o'clock. All Christian women invited.

Exempt Firemen's Association.

A special meeting of the Exempt Firemen's Association of this city will be held in Firemen's Hall, over the First National Bank, on Monday evening next at eight o'clock. A full attendance of the members is desired. The object of this meeting is to consider and take action whereby exempt firemen may receive the benefits of the late supplement to "an act concerning taxes."

—The weather is still quite cool in the early morning and evening, and a light overcoat is not uncomfortable.

—No. Two Engine Company took their apparatus out for a "wash" last evening. The engine appeared to be in fine working order.

—The Central Railroad Company is building a signal and switch tower at the junction of the Newark, Long Branch and main lines opposite the Elizabethport station. From this tower several switches will be operated.

—The dog-catcher gathered in a large dog of the new Foundland species, which was following a lady on Front street, this morning. The lady entered a protest, and sought an officer to have the dog-catcher arrested. "Jim" took the dog like a little man.

—The Juror Commissioners, Mr. Chas. Russ, of Elizabeth, and Capt. Frank Sheldon of Rahway, are preparing the list from which to select jurors for the October term. Exempt firemen who wish to escape jury duty are advised to have their exemption registered.

—The Street Commissioner is engaged in macadamizing the roadbed of East Second street, from Washington to Richmond streets, which when completed will be a great improvement over the former poor roadway. This gives a macadamized thoroughfare from Park avenue to Richmond street.

POISON IN OUR DRINK.

Not Alcohol—which one may avoid—but BRASS AND LEAD which one takes unsuspectingly. "How—When—Where?" Well, say, in a glass of Soda. Pity the most popular and wholesome of all artificial drinks—which Soda honestly is—should ever deserve a touch of suspicion, but

is that in some Soda Fountains economy and mechanical facility are studied to the neglect of the weightier matter of purity. Some men are too "smart;" some Soda Fountains are too "ingenious."

We have recently had made a Fountain which secures Absolute Purity for the beverages. Rather pretty, too, we think. We selected the "Matthews' make" because it is the only fount in which the syrups have positively no metallic contact, being discharged direct from glass jars into the tumblers—no tubes; while the waters are contained in and flow through solid block tin,

PURE AS CRYSTAL, COLD AS CHARITY.

We make our own syrups—from REAL FRUIT JUICES, or from chocolate or coffee, etc., as the case may be; no nonsense of essences or make believe.

New drinks? Yes, some of our own contriving. "Winks?" Not a wink; not licensed for winks, and we have an opinion of druggists who take a wink.

Come and try the new Fountain; if you like your drink we'll thank you for saying so, and you'll pay us five cents and come again—it will do you good; only don't come Sundays; no use—Fountain WON'T WORK.

WESTFIELD TO HAVE A NEW SCHOOL.

$15,000 Voted for the Purchase of a Lot, and the Erection of a New School Building.

The legal voters of School District No. 10, held a special meeting in the school building at Westfield, on Thursday evening, for the purpose of raising money and to consider the advisability of erecting a new school building. The meeting was largely attended, many ladies being in the audience. The matter was discussed at length, and it was finally decided to raise $15,000 for the purchase of a lot, and the erection of a new school building, by a vote of 81 to 61. The chairman decided that ladies could not legally cast their ballot, although several of them were desirous of doing so.

A building committee composed of the following persons, was appointed to confer with the trustees: Messrs. W. G. Del Mater, James T. Pierson, L. B. Clark, A. A. Drake and Dr. Cooper. Bonds will be issued to cover the required amount.

School District No. 10 is now free from debt, and has property valued at $20,000.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. S. A. Davis, of West Second street, is confined to the house with an attack of lung fever.

Miss Hall of Brooklyn, N. Y., is the guest of Miss Mamie French of West Front street.

Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh sailed for Europe today, on the steamer LaGascogne.

Captain Wm. B. Ostrom and Wm. H. Sampson will address the Reform Club meeting to-morrow evening.

Mr. Charles Davis, of East Fourth street, left this morning to make a short visit to his parents at Bridgeton, N. J.

Mr. Lewis Apgar, an attendant at the City Hotel, visited Neshanic, on Wednesday, and found the crops and the people all thriving.

There is but little improvement in the condition of ex-Councilman Taylor, whose prolonged illness dates back for a period of several months.

Mrs. Joseph Stockbridge, a former resident of this city, but now residing in Philadelphia, is the guest of Mrs. D. C. Green of Eighth street.

Rev. Bishop J. H. Vincent of this city, will preach the Baccalaureate sermon before the graduating class of the Hackettstown Institute, in the new M. E. church of that place, to-morrow morning.

The remains of the late Georgiana Force, who died in California last week, are expected to arrive in this city on Tuesday next. The arrangements for the funeral have not yet been completed.

At the residence of the bride's sister in Washington Valley on Tuesday of next week, will occur the marriage of Miss Hattie E. Spencer and Mr. George W. Demler. The ceremony will take place at three P. M.

A stage load of people drove over from New Brunswick last evening and surprised Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Butterworth at their home on East Second street. The evening was passed very pleasantly in singing and other social amusements.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. A. Chapman of Central avenue and Eighth street, who have been absent in New York city most of the time for several weeks past, will return to Plainfield on Tuesday next, for a fortnight, before starting on their usual Summer outing.

At the convention of the East New Jersey Baptist Association, held in the Fairmount Baptist church, at Newark, on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week, Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes, pastor of the First Baptist church of this city, was elected a member of the Committee on Church Applications.

The Misses Scribner and Newton tendered the elder scholars of their select school, a reception at the school building on LeGrande avenue, last evening. A large number of young people were in attendance, and participated in the festivities, which included dancing, charades and refreshments.

SUNDAY SERVICES.

In the absence of the pastor, Rev. W. D. McClintock will occupy the pulpit of the Congregational church, to-morrow morning.

Services will be held in St. Mary's church to-morrow morning at 6:30, 8:30 and 10:30 o'clock. Preaching at the 10:30 o'clock Mass.

M., What was the unpardonable sin in the day of Jesus—and what is it today? Public questioning. All who are not Christians invited.

RESTLESS RAILROAD MEN.

The Cutting Down Policy of Austin Corbin Creating Trouble.

Recently a number of conductors, engineers and brakemen were discharged by the Philadelphia & Reading Railroad Co. Some of the employees conducted trains on the Philadelphia & New York division, several of the conductors running passenger trains between the two cities.

The men have been connected with the road a long time, and as there seems to be no apparent cause for their dismissal, there is much murmuring and dissatisfaction among their brother trainmen. At one time the feeling was so great at the alleged unwarranted and unjust action of the Company, that the members of trade organizations, to which the discharged men belong, held a meeting and passed resolutions severely denouncing the action of the heads of the departments who were responsible for the removals. While the excitement has quieted down, there is a strong undercurrent of feeling adverse to the restrictive policy of the Philadelphia & Reading Company, and private reports come from all parts of New Jersey, since the discharges have occurred, to the effect that the least indirect movement upon the part of the corporation managers may eventuate in an extended and complicated aggressive upheaval.

It is also understood that some old employees, ascertaining that they would be "laid off," tendered their resignations. So far as the conductors are directly concerned, it is stated that President Austin Corbin has determined to cut down the number of men merely as a matter of economy, while it is hinted that the detectives of the Company made unfavorable reports relative to the habits and methods of certain trainmen.

While the opinions of those interested are greatly diversified, the general sentiment is, that the Philadelphia and Reading Company has made a serious mistake, and one that will be deeply regretted in many ways. Further developments will be awaited with much interest in all sections where the lines of the Philadelphia & Reading Company extend.

Little Cities West, Ahead of Big Cities East.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS.—Your estimable paper is sent me through the kindness of Mr. L. L. Martin, of your city, and I read with great pleasure the news and the topics of the day contained therein.

Having spent a portion of my life in Plainfield I naturally take a great interest in her welfare. What has impressed me very favorably and kindled a warm spot in my heart for your sprightly paper is the liberal space you recently gave to news from Kansas—"Sunny Kansas" as she is generally termed. The State of the three s's—salt, sugar and sun-flowers.

The little city in which I am located, contains 2,200 inhabitants, and is surrounded by fine farming land. Annexed to our little city are two additions, which are about 50 or 75 feet higher than the city proper. These are laid out in large building lots and parks, and are rapidly being built upon by the wealthy citizens. A beautiful stream of water named the Cottonwood river, flows to the north and east of us, and a short time ago a company of captalists completed for us a water system not excelled in the State. We also have electric lights, and expect shortly to have a telephone company. I mention these facts to illustrate how quickly the modern conveniences and improvements of the 19th century are taken hold of in the West.

We have two general merchandise stores, one doing an $80,000 and the other a $75,000 business every year. and smaller ones averaging from $15,000 to $50,000 a year. We have two excellent stone quaries, one employing 1,000 men the other 500. The principal products are, cattle, hogs, corn, oats, wheat and rye. The crops are looking unusually good and the prospects of a large yield are very bright and in consequence thereof the farmers are happy.

I do not wish to occupy too much of your valuable space, so I will not expatiate on the many beauties and advantages of Kansas. Suffice it to say: let those who contemplate locating in the West, gaze on her rolling hills of green, inspect her fertile soil, experience the cool evenings and enjoy the salubrious and healthful climate, of this most glorious State, and I venture to say they will seek no further, but settle on her shores to live in peace, plenty and prosperity.

Respectfully yours,
L. LEGGETT.

Florence, Kansas, June 2, 1888.

Too Many Hackmen.

Mayor Male is in favor of placing certain restrictions on the hackmen. He says there are altogether too many of them, and that one-half as many would be sufficient to attend to all the hacking business. It is probable that at a future meeting of the Council some provision will be made for revoking the license, in case a hackman is convicted for disorderly conduct or for violating any of the city ordinances. The Mayor says North avenue, in the vicinity of the depot is taken up almost entirely by the hackmen, and that owners of private carriages experience more or less difficulty in passing along that thoroughfare.

—A periodical row occurred at the corner of Third street and Plainfield avenue, between twelve and one o'clock this morning. One man had his clothing torn into shreds, and this morning crimson spots on the ground bore evidence of the viciousness of the fight. Fuller particulars will probably be given in our court proceedings in a few days.

General Telegraphic Despatches.

A Double Explosion.

READING, Pa., June 9.—The boiler of an engine on the farm of Edwin Mickey at Maple Grove, Lehigh County, exploded yesterday. The crash was immediately followed by the explosion of 125 pounds of dynomite and a quantity of powder which was stored in the engine house. Mr. Mickley's barn, which cost $5,000, was completely wrecked. Window panes a half mile distant were broken.

Treasurer Webster $35,000 Short.

CENTRAL CITY, Neb., June 9.—A committee appointed by the County Commissioners to examine the books of Treasurer Col. W. H. Webster has reported a shortage of about $35,000 in his accounts. Colonel Webster's deputy, Otto Foster, was also found to be short $1,000.

Being More Pleasant

To the taste, more acceptable to the stomach, and more truly beneficial in its action, the famous California liquid fruit remedy, Syrup of Figs, is rapidly superseding all others. Try it. One bottle will prove its merits. For sale in 50 cts and $1.00 bottles by Field & Randolph.

AN IDOLIZED POLISH PRIEST.

The Man Whom Bishop Borgess Deposed Received With Tears and Shouts of Joy.

DETROIT, Mich., June 9.—Two years and a half ago Father Kolasinski, pastor of the Polish Catholic Church of St. Albertus, was accused of divers offences and deposed by Bishop Borgess. A series of riots followed, in which some blood was shed, and the whole town was kept in a state of excitement for many weeks. Kolasinski finally went to Dakota. He left behind him here between 5,000 and 6,000 adherents who formed a kind of band, and vowed not to rest content until their priest was restored to them. Last week it was announced that Bishop Borgess would officiate in St. Albertus Church, June 24. This caused the Kolasinskians intense uneasiness.

Having sworn that the bishop who deprived them of their beloved pastor should never officiate in his old place, they sent for Kolasinski, who arrived yesterday. He was given a remarkable reception. Over 6,000 Poles, one-half of them women, fought with each other to get near the priest, kissed the hem of his garments, the ground on which he walked, and prostrated themselves before him. A lot of women, sobbing as if their hearts would break, lifted their idol upon their shoulders and bore him to the parish schoolhouse, where they held a grand and disorderly levee. Kolasinski says he will be reinstated by Bishop Borgess's successor. A collision is expected to occur between the Kolasinskians and Dombrowiskites, who are the bishop's supporters.

A New Eldorado Discovered.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 9.—Two prospectors have arrived from the Cascade range of mountains, in British Columbia, with a lump of almost pure gold, weighing forty-two pounds. They had it tested until satisfied of its value, and this morning shipped it to Montreal to be melted up. A speculator here offered them $5,000 for their find, but his offer was refused. The men are absolutely silent as to where the lump was found. They are looking up the subject of mining rights and will go West immediately upon satisfying themselves that the Eldorado they have discovered is theirs to keep.

Many Miles of Railroad.

CHICAGO, June 9.—From January 1 to June 1, 1888, 2,271 miles of railway track have been laid. This is a very large amount to be reported so early in the year, and indicates that the total for 1888 is well-nigh certain to exceed 8,000 miles, with a likelihood that it will reach 10,000 miles, and a possibility that it may not fall short of 12,000 miles. Almost 13,000 miles of track were laid in 1887, the year of greatest construction ever known.

CONDENSED DESPATCHES.

The Italian Chamber of Deputies has voted to abolish capital punishment.

It is semi-officially stated that England has signed the Suez Canal convention as modified by the Porte.

The St. Louis Bakers' Protective Association has refused to recognize the union, and 200 bakers are on a strike.

The trial of Diss Debar the spook medium on the charge of attempting to defraud Lawyer Marsh is still in progress in New York.

Four prisoners, Bazaar, Cunningham, Eggleston, and another, broke out of the Fonda jail late yesterday afternoon. The country is being scoured in search of them.

A hospital nearly completed at Planasville, Conn., and intended for the faith cure, was burned Friday by an incendiary fire. Loss, $8,000; it was owned by Elder Weymar.

A divorce has been granted in London to the wife of the Rev. Henry Whyte Melville, who eloped in December last with the daughter of Captain Dunne, late Governor of the Castlebar jail.

The New York Senate Investigating Committee appointed to investigate alleged corruptions in the City Departments resumed its labors in New York City Friday after a recess from April 28.

The Italian Chamber of Deputies has rejected the Bishops' petition to eliminate from the Penal Code bill the articles imposing penalties for abuses committed by the clergy in the exercise of their functions.

While out riding at Saratoga Springs Friday, Judge Andrews of the Court of Appeals was dragged from his horse by a telegraph wire and greatly bruised by the fall. He is confined to his room.

The preliminary trial of William H. Hawley, druggist, of Danbury, for the attempted murder of Virgil E. Barnum, his brother-in-law, whom he shot on the morning of April 17, has resulted in a verdict of guilty. He was held in $15,000 for trial at the October term of the Superior Court.

The Bell Telephone Company threatens to quit business in St. Louis, because an ordinance has been passed reducing the annual rental of telephones from $100 to $50. Many instruments have been removed and the Mayor has ordered that in all such cases the wires and poles be taken down.

BALL GAMES YESTERDAY.

Chicago Badly Defeated—A Great Contest Between Boston and Detroit.

New York,	19
Chicago,	2

NEW YORK, June 9.—The advent of the Chicago club to this city is always a notable event in the ball calendar. Capt. Anson, who is admittedly the Napoleon of baseball generals, and probably the most unique and inzeresting character on the ball field, is regarded as a host in himself, and there are thousands who are always ready to give him a rousing greeting. He has his faults on the ball field, but they are so slight in comparison with his genius for training ball players that the crowd like to gaze at, discuss, and admire him, and wonder whether rich and liberal New York will ever be able to get a player in any respect like him to give Gothamites the pleasure of knowing how it feels to win the League baseball pennant.

The attendance at yesterday's game was large and applauded loudly as the big Swede's twelve, headed by their darkey mascot in his blue suit, cap trimmed with gold lace, and carrying a drum major's baton, passed the grand stand. The players presented a fine appearance with black coats, caps and stockings, and white jersey shirts and trousers. Welch and Ewing were down for the home club, and Vau Haltren and Darling for the Chicagos. When the game was called fully 7,000 visitors were in attendance. Score by innings:

Chicago	0	0	1	0	0	0	1	0	0	—2

DETROIT vs. BOSTON.

Boston	5

BOSTON, June 9.—The crowd yesterday filled the pavillion and the side seats, and yelled at all the good plays. The air was cool, and the wind blew freshly from the outfield. The $30,000 battery occupied the important position for Boston, while Getzein and Bennett did the same work for the visitors. The Detroits demonstrated their ability to bat by scoring a home run the first thing. That took a little confidence out of Clarkson, but when the Bostons did the same thing the crowd yelled itself hoarse. It was evident that the game was to be full of lively batting. Score by innings:

Boston	1	0	2	1	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	0—5

WASHINGTON vs. INDIANAPOLIS.

Indianapolis	1

WASHINGTON, June 9.—The Indianapolis Club began a series of four games here yesterday and their rivals, the Senators, were extremely anxious to send the Hoosiers away from the Capital with just three more defeats against them. Before the game started little Hoy, who took Paul Hines place in centre field, made some catches that took the crowd by storm. The spectators commented freely on Hoy's work against Hines, but everybody awarded Hoy first honors. When Hines stepped to the plate in the first inning some enthusiastic admirer presented him with a beautiful basket of flowers. Hank O'Day puzzled Spencer's men and Healy fooled the Senators. Score by innings:

PITTSBURG vs. PHILADELPHIA.

Pittsburg	0

PHILADELPHIA, June 9.—The Pittsburg and Philadelphia clubs played here yesterday to a slim audience. Buffinton and Galvin were the pitchers, and both did generally good work throughout the game. There was considerable objection to the umpiring of Decker. Dunlap began the criticisms in the first inning. Wood was on first base; Andrews hit to Dunlap; Wood held back, and Dunlap threw to Maul, retiring Andrews. Maul threw to Smith, who was covering second. Dunlap interfered with Wood, and Smith was waiting for him with the ball. When he got to the bag Decker gave Wood his base because of Dunlap's interference. Hence Dunlap's kick. The score by innings:

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION.

BALTIMORE, June 9.—The Baltimores won yesterday's game with the Athletics handily. The score:

Baltimore	3	0	1	1	0	0	0	0	0—5

Base hits—Baltimores, 9; Athletics, 8. Errors—Baltimores, 3; Athletics, 7. Batteries—Cunningham and O'Brien; Maltimore and Gunning. Umpire, Doescher.

Jersey City, 5; Allentowns, 0.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., June 9.—Allentown could not size up Pyle's delivery and was shut out. Lang received a gold watch from his Allentown admirers. The score:

Jersey City	3	0	1	1	0	0	0	0	:—5

RACING AT CLIFTON.

Turfites Swarm to the Jersey Half Mile Track.

CLIFTON, June 9.—There being no racing at any of the more important tracks, the sport at the Clifton half mile course yesterday was liberally patronized.

First race—Six furlongs. Flush first, Lizzie C. second, Pirate third. Time, 1:21½.

Second race—Five furlongs. Nina W. first, Adolph second, Bass Viol third. Time, 1:05.

Third race—Six and a half furlongs. Barnum first, Easter second, Costello third. Time, 1:25.

Fourth race—One mile. Kink first, Brian Boru second, Garnet third. Time, 1:46.

Fifth race—One mile. Trueborn first, Glenbrook second, Traveler third. Time, 1:47½.

A Sketch in Black and White.

A sketch in black and white you ask me for?
Here it is—humid, senseless Dinah.
"All black," you say? No; not quite all:
A soul's within, and overtopping this,
In an artistic sense (and in heredity)
Her pa's a kalso miner.

—Judge.

YE SUNDAY FISCHERMANNE.

PROEM.

Ye fishers go out to fish on ye sabbath.
'Tis of some Sunday fisher-folk
Who went forth to the lake,
The perch, the roach, the chubb,
The dace, or eke the whale to take.
Naught cared they for the sabbath day
Naught for the minister,
But each one went his wicked way
Upon this purpose sinister.

Their apparatus.
And each was armed with hook and line,
And each with pole and bait,

Their curious belief in the efficacy of spitting on ye bait.
And each one had made up his mind
To spit upon his bait.

YE MORAL.

Ye poet moralizeth upon ye manner in which ye woman pursuth ye man while as ye man pursuth ye fish.
These sinful folk were mostly boys,
With here and there a girl:
For, be it sorrows, be it joys,
Be it what ye please,
Wherever there are lots of he's
There's sure to be some she's.

Ye boys.

YE NIBBLE.

The limner here doth show a scene
Of calm, serene enjoyment,
Whereon a pier it doth appear
To get a bite each boy meant.
One wraps his features round a stump,
Around a stump his feet sure,
And both do watch most breathlessly
To hook some finny creature.

They do not know that a catastrophe impendeth.
And both look down upon their floats,
And off across the sea,
And neither thinks that hastening on Comes a calamitie.

YE CONSEQUENCE.

Ye other boy slumpeth.
The float it jumped,
The boy he humped,
And the other bumped
Who off was dumped
Into the water.

YE FISHING SMACKKE.

Ye price of minnowes.
Far from the madding crowd's ignoble strife for minnows at 10 cents a quart
Two young ones wandered down the pier afar and safe apart,
And in their eyes was love, and in their hands a pole of hickory.

Ye portable property which they had with them.
A line and worms and other things—some ginger bread and licorice
Sh!—List, he speaks in accents fraught with love and feeling.

He wooth her.
With manly cunning to her very soul of souls appealing
Ah, dear! how fond, how melting are his proffered terms:

How he induced her to kiss him.
"Say, Polly, kiss me, and I'll let you stick on all the worms!"
The picture showeth better than this humble, artless history
The plans and specifications of the manner and the style how kissed her he.

JAKEY RHEINSTEIN'S MISHAP.

It was Mr Jakey Rheinstein,
Of Weinstein, Rheinstein & Einstein,
Who did a fishing go.

Ye little Issacher is taken along to see ye show, and to be taught ye mystery of tysschingge.
He taught him how to snare the perch
And how he should proceed to search
For the shy minnow.

Ye (apparent) bite was so vigorous that ye pote declares not even leviathan could have jerked more stalworthy.
But as he talked there came a bite
Which jerked him from his seat
And tugged upon his slender rod
And pulled him off his feet.
The pull could not be higher then
E'en had he hooked leviathan.

Ye reader is taken into ye confidence of ye epote.
(It was a bad a wicked youth,
And not a fish at all,
That jerked our Rheinstein off his perch
And caused him to fall.)

He followed out, he followed far,
He followed into the lake—
But the boy was gone and the rod was gone,
And there was nothing left but Jake—

Ye dolorous plite of Jacob and his son Issacher.
But Jake in the water down below,
An Issacher on the shore,
While the thieves made off precipitately
And left them in peril sore.

Ye pote finds an ingeniousanalogy between Aphrodite rising from ye sea and Rheinsten climbing upon ye breakwater.
What form is this that climbs the breakwater?
Is't Venus rising from the foam
Ah, no? 'tis not the Paphian Venus fair!
'Tis Rheinstein—and he's going home.

Ye pirates rejoyse.
While far away the brigands of the wave
Who got away with Rheinstein's line and pole
Make motions of derision with their hands
And con the value of the goods they stole.

THE OLD, OLD STORY.

Ye pote fearth ye clangorre of ye chestenutte hys belle.
This is the old, old story,
The story we love so well,
The story that always fetches
The mellow chestnut bell.
It is of the scientific fisherman,
With reel and flies and hope,
Who went to chase the finny tribes,
Who with the perch would cope:

Ye fishermanne getteth short commons.
But all he got
To put in the pot
For his morning fare
Was a stickleback,
With an evident lack
Of savoir faire.

Ye fishermanne meeteth a vulgar boy with fisch—and buyeth—and lyeth.
He meets a vulgar boy,
Who takes improper joy
In showing off his luck upon the lake,
But the scientist can buy,
And afterward can lie,
About the fish he's numbered in his take.

—Chicago Daily News.

Not Always One Way.

Directors of bank, with anxious countenance, to president of same with serene expression:

"I would suggest—that is, hadn't we better offer our cashier a two weeks' vacation!"

"Oh, he doesn't want it."

"But that would afford us an opportunity, you know, to look over our accounts, and—and see how we stand."

"H'm, worth thinking about—see you later—mighty cute idea of yours. Mum is the word."

Three days later it is announced that the president had used $300,000 of the bank's capital to speculate with, but it hoped that depositors will be paid 50 per cent.—Wall Street News.

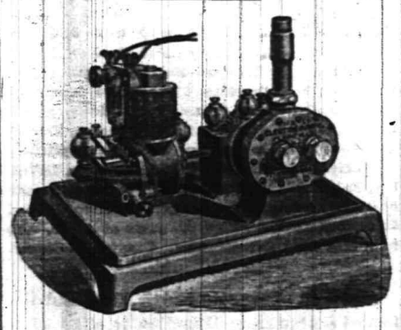
DOMESTIC WATER SUPPLY.

Water for Lawns and Gardens.



The citizens of Plainfield are respectfully invited to call at the drug store of Messrs. Field & Randolph, on West Front street, between the hours of 5 P. M. and 10 P. M., and see the working of the HALL ELECTRIC PUMP, an ingenious combination of an Electric Motor, a Rotary Pump and an Electric Switch attached to an ordinary House tank, whereby any residence in Plainfield may be furnished with a constant and abundant supply of water for all Domestic purposes; for sprinkling lawns and gardens, and for use in stables and carriage house without giving the subject any more attention than is required by a complete gravity system of water works. The Electric Pump is Automatic, Safe, Reliable, Compact, Clean, Economical, Simple, Noiseless. No Ashes! No Coal Dust! No Smoke! No Fire! No Gases! No Heating of the Atmosphere! No Valves to get out of Order! No attendance required! No Danger to Life! No Explosions!!!

It is always ready!

The Hall Electric Pump Company specially invites the most searching examination into the mechanism of the Electric Pump, and invites the criticism of experts upon the efficiency and reliability thereof. The Pump has already been in actual every day use for many months, and as its need in this city is well understood, so it is hoped that the citizens will be sufficiently interested to call and see it at work. Its use will reduce the size and weight of House Tanks very materially. It provides a constant supply of fresh water, without the labor of hand-power or any personal attention other than a fortnightly supply of oil. It is so free from danger to life that the youngest child may receive all the Electricity passing through it, without even feeling it.

The Hall Electric Pump Company is incorporated under the laws of the State of New Jersey and is made up of Plainfield citizens. It proposes to sell Electric Pumps and the power to run them to the citizens of Plainfield, and its aim is to deal with its patrons on the most liberal and accommodating terms that are consistent with resonable business prudence.

SHERIDAN'S BRAVE FIGHT

HE STILL BELIEVES THAT HE WILL WIN THE CONTEST.

No Recurrence of the Heart Failure For Three Days, and His Friends Greatly Relieved.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—A general feeling of relief is felt by Gen. Sheridan's physician's and friends that yesterday, the third day from the last attack of heart failure, passed without a recurrence of its accustomed appearance. They had, however, prepared themselves for the worst.

They know the General's strength is not sufficient to make it probable that he will be able to survive another severe attack. They accordingly administer preventive remedies, and endeavor to tone up his system so that he will be in as good a condition as possible to make the struggle should it become necessary.

They telegraphed for Dr. Pepper, in order that he might be on hand in case his services should be needed. The gentleman arrived here at about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Fortunately, however, the day passed without any recurrence of alarming symptoms.

Whether this was due to the preparations made to receive the attack or to an actual improvement in the condition of the General's heart the doctor will not say. Nor do the bulletins issued afford any indication that the organic valvular disease of the heart is in any way under subjection or more sympathetic to treatment than it has hitherto showed itself to be.

The probabilities are that the preventive medicines which were administered have proved successful in postponing, at least, the heart failure. The General has made no progress, however, and the physicians content themselves with saying that his "condition continues at least as favorable as it has been for three days past." At intervals throughout the day his cough, which has never left him, produces a condition of semi-suffocation, during which it was difficult for him to breathe, but the application of a stream of oxygen gas to his nostrils and mouth at these times assisted him in recovering his respiration and in restoring him to tranquility.

He still expresses the utmost confidence in his ability to pull through, and greeted Dr. Pepper yesterday with a remark to that effect. He was aware equally with the doctors of the possible recurrence of the heart failure, and as the afternoon and evening passed by without its making its appearance he expressed his pleasure and repeated he was going to get well. His mind has been perfectly clear all day. His pulse is slower, and the expectoration produced by his coughing has been lessened. According to the 7 o'clock bulletin there is no present indication of any serious complications impending.

Waging War On Quacks.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., June 11.—Important action was taken yesterday at the eighteenth annual meeting of the Orange County Medical Society, held at Goshen, toward publishing the unauthorized practitioners of the healing art who have set up business in the county. A resolution was unanimously passed instructing the censors of the society to employ counsel to prosecute all offenders who are practising under spurious diplomas or without official registration as required by law. One of these pretenders, named William H. Sagendorf, who quit working in a tannery and set up as a clairvoyant doctor, and who has prescribed to a circle of deluded patients in this town and vicinity for a number of years, recently made a professional visit to Honesdale, Pa., and hasn't returned yet. The authorities there arrested him for practising medicine unlawfully, and clapped him into jail, where he still lies in default of the payment of $300 fine. A new law of this state authorizes county medical societies to prosecute this class of offenders, and to reimburse the costs of prosecution from fines collected and the local medical bodies throughout the interior generally moving in the matter.

Monument to the Haymarket Victims.

CHICAGO, June 11.—The monument to the policemen who fell in the Haymarket massacre will be a mile and a quarter from the Haymarket. The reason assigned is that the Haymarket, surrounded by factories and saloons, is not well suited for a work of art. Union Park, a beautiful piece of green sward in a choice residence district, will be the site of the monument. The design will be a female figure, austerely draped, holding aloft an open book. The figure is Law, the book the Statutes. The pose best speaks the triumph of order over Anarchy. The book proclaims that in this Commonwealth law is supreme.

Drowning of a Cornell Student.

ITHACA, N. Y., June 11.—Orange Judd Green, a post-graduate of Cornell University, was drowned here yesterday while bathing. His home was in Alfred Centre, N. Y.

NATIONAL CAPITAL NOTES

CROP REPORT OF THE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE.

Bills Signed by the President—The Treasury Report of Bond Purchases—To Attend the Garfield Double Wedding.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—The crop report, issued by the Department of Agriculture, says:

The apparent reduction of breadth of winter wheat, as compared with that of last year, is about one and three-fourths millions of acres. The percentage of reduction for the entire winter wheat region is placed at 7.2 per cent. The average decrease of area for the spring wheat region is 1 per cent. The area in wheat is apparently slightly below 30,000,000 acres. The average of condition of winter wheat is 73.3 against 73.1 in May.

The acreage of barley is nearly the same as last year; condition, 88.8.

The area of rye is practically the same as last year; condition, 93.9.

The area of cotton appears to have increased in every State except Florida. The preliminary survey of acreage makes the increase 2.9 per cent. and brings the aggregate breadth close to nineteen millions. General average of condition, 88.2.

The President has approved the act of Congress providing that pensions heretofore or hereafter granted to widows of soldiers of the war of the rebellion shall begin at the date of the death of their husbands. This legislation favorably affects all claims of widows of the late war which have been filed in the Pension Office on or after July 1, 1880, and which have been allowed to begin from the date of filing the claims; but will not favorably affect the claims of such widows as were filed before July 1, 1880, and which have been allowed, pensions having already been granted in those cases from the date of their husbonds' death. The Commissioner of Pensions gives notice that in the settlement under this law of claims already allowed no formal application will be required, and that the services of attorneys will not be necessary. Widows entitled under said law need only write a letter giving name, postoffice address, and certificate number, and the claims will be allowed with as little delay as practicable.

The following statement in regard to the purchase of United States bonds under the circular of April 17 last was prepared at the Treasury Department: Amount purchased, 4s, $13,871,750; amount purchased 4 1-2s, $7,647,750. Total, $21,019,500. Cost, 4s, $16,983,468.56; 4 1-2s, $8,240,679.21. Total, $25,179,147.77. Cost at 4s, $23,667,997.50; 4 1-2s, $8,850,858.18. Total, $32,518,855.68. Saving, 4s, $6,729,528.94; 4 1-2s, $610,178.97 Total, $7,339,707.91.

The President has signed the act making appropriations to supply the deficiency in the appropriation for expenses of collecting customs; the act for the relief of Thomas Jordan; the act to authorize the removal of an obstruction to the navigation of Broad Creek, Delaware, and the acts granting pensions to George W. Schell, Stephen C. Lobdill, Margaret M. Collins, Michael Lane and John G. Merritt.

Major Powell of the United States Geological Survey and Mrs. Powell, Mr. and Mrs. George Kennan, and a number of well known Washington people expect to leave here early in the week for Mentor, Ohio, to attend the double wedding of Mr. J. Stanley Brown and Miss Garfield, and Mr. Harry Garfield and Miss Mason.

Prince Roland Bonaparte, grandson of Lucien Bonaparte, brother of the Emperor Napoleon I, has arrived in this city. He comes with the special intention of paying a visit to the President.

The Trip Was for Naught.

SANTIAGO DE CUBA, June 11.—The United States gunboat Yantic, Oscar F. Hyermann, Commander, has arrived here from Port-au-Prince, Hayti, in order to communicate by cable with the Navy Department at Washington. Capt. Hyermann reports that upon his arrival at Port-au-Prince, where he had been sent from Port Royal by Admiral Luce in order to look after American interests on account of the supposed outbreak on the island, he found everything perfectly quiet. The Yantic was sent to Port-au-Prince on account of a report made by the United States Consul-General at that port, informing the State Department at Washington that a revolution was imminent, and the presence of a man-of-war at Port-au-Prince was required for the protection of American residents and their property.

Murdered By His Mother.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., June 11.—There is much excitement at Greenfield, the county seat of Dade county, over a discovery just made that a supposed suicide was a singular case of murder. Late Sunday morning, May 27, George, the fourteen-year-old son of Mrs. Stoffie, a widow living on a farm near Springfield, was found hanging dead in a barn. The general belief at the time was that he had committed suicide. The mother's grief took a very violent form soon after the funeral and she was placed under restraint. It then came out that she had threatened the boy's life; and in one of her lucid moments she said she had drugged her boy with morphine and then dragged him to the barn and hanged him.

General Butler's Brother-in-law Dead.

LOWELL, Mass., June 11.—John M. G. Parker, a leading citizen, died last night, aged 52 years. Before the war he was postmaster here. He enlisted in the Thirtieth Massachusetts Regiment, was made postmaster of New Orleans by General Butler, his brother-in-law, and was Surveyor of the Port under President Grant.

Baltimore Exhibition Building.

BALTIMORE, June 11.—General Felix Agnus, publisher of the American, has undertaken the task of raising half a million dollars for the erection of an exhibition building in Baltimore. The General's efforts in a short period have resulted in subscriptions amounting to $180,000 toward the project.

BY THE WAY.

—Oh! for a Y. M. C. A. building.

—Nine persons were admitted to membership in the First Presbyterian church, yesterday.

—Printed programmes were a feature and a convenience of the children's service at the Crescent Avenue church, yesterday.

—The June meeting of the Somerset County Board of Chosen Freeholders will be held to-morrow at the Court House in Somerville.

—Spirited singing from Gospel Hymns number five, and short talks by young men at the Y. M. C. A. rooms this evening. All men welcome.

—The subject of collecting garbage and swill, and the tariff question, were thoroughly discussed in a Park avenue cigar store, Saturday afternoon.

—How can I be of most service in my church?" was the topic discused yesterday as the second part of the Training Class lesson at the Y. M. C. A.

—The annual meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Hillside Cemetery Association will take place at the Public Library Building, this evening.

—The new curate of St. Mary's church officiated at the 10:30 A. M., Mass, yesterday, and preached an effective and instructive sermon on "The Church."

—A lot of men and women got into a free fight at the corner of Fifth and Peace streets, late on Saturday night. The fight continued for fully half an hour, and some of the participants were pretty badly used up.

—There will be no cost of admission at the candy and cake sale, in the parlors of the Crescent Avenue church, this evening, from five to seven o'clock. The proceeds are for the benefit of the Young Ladies' Mission Band of the Presbyterian churches.

—A party of young men from this city, held a clam bake in the vicinity of New Market yesterday afternoon, and they all report having had a good time. The menu consisted of about 500 clams, pickels, cheese, crackers, etc., together with liquid refreshments.

—The lecture of Rev. Father Flood occurs on next Wednesday evening in Reform Hall. His subject will be "The Irish Peasantry." The proceeds of the lecture are for the benefit of an orphan asylum in Ireland, a worthy object indeed. Let there be a full attendance on the above evening.

—The Potter base ball nine tried to arrange a game of ball with the Actives for Saturday, but the latter club, it is stated, is not yet fully organized. The club also sought to arrange a match with the Dunellen and Bound Brook nines, but the former nine was unable to play, and the latter played with the Flemington team.

—There will be sweepstake shooting on the grounds of the Middlesex Gun Club, on Wednesday, June 13, at live and inanimate targets. At a meeting of the Board of Directors, Saturday evening last, it was resolved to place the management of the grounds and shoots hereafter in the hands of President E. H. Robinson, who will at all times be ready to provide birds for any shoots the members may desire on the grounds. Under this new management we may expect to see the Middlesex Gun Club take a fresh impetus and provide some excellent entertainments.

The Surpliced Choir at the Holy Cross.

The services in the Church of the Holy Cross, yesterday, were exceedingly interesting. A surpliced choir of men and boys for the first time, led the musical services.

Between thirty and forty vested choristers, at precisely eleven o'clock, entered the church singing a processional hymn—"The Son of God goes forth to war a kingly crown to gain." They must have had a thorough drill, as they took their respective places in the chancel like veterans accustomed to this kind of singing for years. It was a very imposing sight and the service was rendered throughout in such a manner as to surprise those who knew it was the first time they had ever appeared before a congregation. The service in the afternoon was equally well rendered.

Holy Cross church is to be congratulated, and Mr. Kellogg deserves great praise for the efficiency of his choir. The organist, Mr. Clarence Eick, of Elizabeth, accompanied them in a professionally able manner.

SUNDAY AT TRINITY REFORMED CHURCH.

Large Audiences at Both Services—Children's Day Observed in an Appropriate and Pleasing Manner—The Decorations, and Other Minute Details.

Yesterday was a day of general rejoicing with the congregation and scholars of Trinity Reformed church and Sunday school, the occasion being the annual Children's Day celebration. The delightful weather in spite of the occasional lowering skies had a tendency to increase the attendance at both the morning and evening service.

At the morning service, Rev. Mr. Schenck, the pastor, preached a very able and eloquent sermon to a large congregation, from the text: "He that is faithful in that which is least, is faithful also in much"—Luke 16th chapter, and a part of the tenth verse.

EVENING SESSION.

In the evening the exercises were conducted under the auspices of the Sunday school, in commemoration of Children's Day. The service was especially adapted to the children, who turned out en masse, and everything possible was done to make them feel that it was their day. Their happy faces gave answer to the result, and gladdened the hearts of their pastor and superintendent. The school occupied seats reserved for them in the front rows, while the congregation and friends of the church and school, filled the remaining available space to overflowing.

On the platform there was a profusion of sweet scented flowers. Several set pieces of cut flowers occupied prominent positions and added beauty to the surroudings, the most conspicuous being two crosses, a crown, a harp and two wreaths, besides numerous bouquets and other attractive floral decorations, all of which were arranged in a truly artistic manner, and reflected great credit upon the committee of ladies and gentlemen from the Young People's Society, who had the matter in charge.

The exercises were in charge of the Superintendent, Mr. E. E. Anthony, and opened with a hymn, No. 297, followed by the pastor invoking the divine blessing. After another hymn was sung, the superintendent and school read responsively the Nineteenth Psalm, and Miss Lily Zeisz recited pleasantly, "Little Ones Like Me." A feature of the service, and perhaps the most noteworthy on the carefully prepared programme, was the building up of an immense cross seven feet in height. A representative from each of the forty classes, advanced to the platform and reciting a verse from the scripture contributed a handsome bouquet of cut flowers, which Mr. John H. VanWinkle fastened to the cross. The cross when completed was beautiful to behold.

Another hymn was sung, after which Superintendent Anthony addressed a few words of encouragement to the school. He stated that the school was in a prosperous condition, adding that 47 scholars had joined during the year. Mr. George L. VanEmburg, a former superintendent, and the pastor, each made a few remarks, and Rev. Mr. Schenck dismissed the audience with the benediction.

A SUCCESSFUL FETE.

What Some Little Ladies Accomplished for the New Grace Church.

The lawn fair held on Saturday afternoon and evening in the extensive grounds of F. K. Schoonmaker, Esq., was a success in every way beyond every one's expectation. The little ladies who conceived and arranged the affair, and the older ones who assisted, are deserving of more commendation than we have the space or ability to record.

The grounds were illuminated with gorgeous lanterns and rays of electricity. Handsome booths from which were sold articles of use and ornament, and tables on which were served iced cream and cake, were scattered about the lawn. On the piazza of the adjoining residence of Seymour Marsh, Esq., was stationed an orchestra—some of the members of which were selected from Gilmore's Band—that rendered a programme of the choicest airs.

The attendance was large, and included the best of Plainfield's people. The affair was for the benefit of the Grace church building fund, and a number of the members of that congregation were patrons of the occasion. The receipts will reach about $200, which proves it was the most successful of its kind ever given in this city.

The committee in charge who are to be thanked for it all, are: Miss Tilla Daft, Chairman, Miss Anna Daft, Misses Alice, Jennie and Dolly Schoonmaker, Miss Flora Smith, Masters Seymour W. Marsh, Gilmore Drayton and Thomas Daft. Miss Gertrude Walz, Miss Grace Edson, Miss Bessie Morgan and others, also deserve a share of the credit.

Fell From a Scaffold.

Richard Scott, a middle-aged man, was seriously injured by falling from a scaffold on Orchard place, about ten o'clock this morning. The man was employed by a carpenter named Wyckoff of Dunellen, and was working on a scaffold surrounding the new house of Mr. Jacob Benner, now in course of construction, when one of the boards turned, precipitating him to the ground below, a distance of fully twenty feet. The unfortunate man was picked up and carried into Mr. Thos. Carty's residence, near by. Dr. Boone was hastily summoned, and found upon examination, besides severe bruises on the legs and back, a compound fracture of the left arm. Subsequently the patient was removed to Muhlenberg Hospital.

The Crescents Again Victorious.

About the most pleasing ball game of the season, was played on the Y. M. C. A. grounds, last Saturday, between the "Crescents" and a nine from Roseville, N. J. The score was close throughout as shown in detail below. Specially creditable was the playing of McCutchen and Lee, and the catching of Cadmus. The attendance was very large, and again the grand stand could not accommodate its patrons. The score:

The Records of the Contestants in the Pigeon Race.

The race from Lovingston, Va., by birds of the Plainfield Homing Club, was won by Mr. Charles E. Doane's "Hermes," according to the official record below as certified by Mr. Richard Stevens of this city, Race Representative of the Philadelphia Federation under the rules of which the flies of the Plainfield club's birds are contested.

The birds were shipped in baskets to the starting point to be released on Saturday morning by Mr. W. Stephenson, Postmaster of Lovingston. The birds were started at 8:53 A. M., and the time of the arrival of the first one home at each loft is as follows:

Owner.	Bird.	In Loft.
C. E. Doane	D. 77—"Hermes"	4:21½ P. M.
E. S. Dorman	B. 2,940—"Independence"	4:22 "
G. E. Sanders	B. 2,202—"Washington"	4:26 "
J. H. Doane	Reg. 549—"Anc. Mariner"	4:42½ "

The distance to the winner's loft was 309 miles, 1,056 yards, and the average speed of the bird was 1,214 834-897 yards per minute for about seven hours and a half. The distances to each loft, and the average of each bird, was:

Reform Hall Meeting.

Considering the weather, Reform Hall contained a fair-sized audience last night. Vice President Harper presided, and Mr. Vanderbeek and his full choir were in attendance. Mr. Wm. H. Sampson of Crescent Avenue church, offered prayer and read the scripture lesson.

The appointed programme was somewhat changed, because of the unexpected presence of a native of far away Persia, the Rev. Mr. Neesan, who came in company with Archdeacon Rodman. Mr. N. was the guest of Doctor Rodman, and had preached yesterday morning in Grace church. He is a fine-looking gentleman, a graduate of the Episcopal Theological Seminary and one recently ordained. Coming to the United States six years ago, totally ignorant of the English language, and speaking as he did last night for nearly an hour fluently and correctly, shows what intelligent application to study can accomplish, aided, as he himself declares, by water as the only beverage.

Mr. Neesan, dressed in the native costume of Persia, presented a striking appearance on the platform of Reform Hall. He was the only speaker and held unbroken sway over his hearers. He advocated temperance thoroughly, and drew many comparisons between the drinking habits of this country and those of Persia, not in any way creditable to our national repute. His description of the customs of the people of his own land, their religious beliefs, etc., was highly interesting and instructive.

After a brief address from Mr. Sampson in favor of pledge signing, the singing of the doxology closed the meeting, and all retired pleased with having been there.

—An interesting account of the Children's Day exercises by the scholars of the Chimney Rock Sunday school, together with much other interesting reading matter, is crowded out today, but will appear to-morrow.

Not Alcohol—which one may avoid—but BRASS AND LEAD which one takes unsuspectingly. "How—When—Where?" Well, say, in a glass of Soda. Pity the most popular and wholesome of all artificial drinks—which Soda honestly is—should ever deserve a touch of suspicion, but

is that in some Soda Fountains economy and mechanical facility are studied to the neglect of the weightier matter of purity. Some men are too "smart;" some Soda Fountains are too "ingenious."

We have recently had made a Fountain which secures Absolute Purity for the beverages. Rather pretty, too, we think. We selected the "Matthews' make" because it is the only fount in which the syrups have positively no metallic contact, being discharged direct from glass jars into the tumblers—no tubes; while the waters are contained in and flow through solid block tin,

PURE AS CRYSTAL, COLD AS CHARITY.

We make our own syrups—from REAL FRUIT JUICES, or from chocolate or coffee, etc., as the case may be; no nonsense of essences or make believe.

New drinks? Yes, some of our own contriving. "Winks?" Not a wink; not licensed for winks, and we have an opinion of druggists who take a wink.

Come and try the new Fountain; if you like your drink we'll thank you for saying so, and you'll pay us five cents and come again—it will do you good; only don't come Sundays; no use—Fountain WON'T WORK.

HALF-A-MILLION A YEAR.

A Plainfielder Who Will Undertake To Get That Much Out of New York's Rubbish.

A New York daily, in the editorial columns of its issue of Saturday, has the following to say of Mr. Seymour G. Smith of Central avenue:

"A man named Smith has undertaken to treat the refuse of the city by a system of separation and cremation. Heretofore the only separation that has been attempted has been that of Italian ragpickers, who have industriously sifted the great mass of material whose ultimate destination is the lower bay. Smith is an humble but determined beginner of a much-needed practical reform. The street sweepings and garbage of New York are worth, under intelligent treatment, no less than half a million dollars a year. That is to say, they ought to be made to yield that amount to the city government, as delivered upon the city dumps.

"The experience of European cities demonstrates this fact beyond a possibility of doubt. Instead of receiving anything for this exceedingly valuable material the city pays about $350,000 a year to the bureau of corruption whose function it is to deposit the refuse in the waters of the Atlantic Ocean, and whose principal energy is devoted to closing up the channels of navigation and polluting the beaches which are the Summer resorts of thousands of our population. Any practical minded man who attempts, against the tremendous discouragement of official New York, to treat this momentous question as Mr. Smith has begun to treat it, deserves the hearty encouragement and assistance of all good citizens."

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. Ira. G. Canfield, Jr., of The Netherwood, is visiting at her former home in Cleveland.

Mrs. C. A. Marsh will spend the Summer with her sister, Mrs. Henry Greene, at Amsterdam, N. Y.

The choir of the Crescent Avenue church will be entertained by Mrs. J. W. Murray, this evening, at her residence on Central avenue.

Mrs. Williams and son, of Philadelphia, mother and brother of Mrs. Rev. Cornelius Schenck, are visiting at her home, 10 Craig place.

Mrs. Charles R. Miller, with her daughter, Miss Mamie Miller, spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Goodwin of New street.

Mrs. Emily Martin has issued invitations to her many friends requesting the pleasure of their company at the marriage of her daughter, Miss Bettie, to Mr. Fernando Brown, on Wednesday of next week.

Mr. and Mrs. Murray Tallman of Brooklyn, N. Y., spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Leader, of Duer street. Mr. Tallman holds a lucrative and responsible position with the United States Express Co., in their main office in New York city.

Mr. L. Melville Evans of Messrs. Evans & Evans, the well-known produce merchants of Sharp, Dover and Patterson streets, Baltimore, was in Plainfield yesterday, the guest of his father, John H. Evans, Esq., at the latter's country seat, "Oakwood."

Mr. Addison Allen, of Columbia, spent yesterday with his college mate, Mr. Herbert W. Peck of this city. Mr. Allen expressed himself much charmed with Plainfield, which was probably due somewhat to the fascinating influence our young ladies are said to possess.

The specially large congregation that gathered in the First Baptist church, yesterday morning, upon the announcement that the pulpit would be occupied by Mr. B. Rush Rhees, was favored with a remarkably sound, well-reasoned and forcible sermon. Mr. Rhees is the grandson of Mr. Wm. M. McCutchen, of Rock View Terrace. He is a graduate of the Plainfield High School and of Amherst College, but reflects equal credit upon himself by his noticeable powers and fitness.

The Police Make a Raid.

At eleven o'clock on Saturday night, Chief Carey took a corps of officers to the boulevard, for the purpose of capturing some of the persons implicated in the recent free fight there. Officers were stationed along the railroad track on South Second street, and Chief Carey approached a saloon on West Third street. The piazza in front of the saloon was crowded with men at the time, who scampered in all directions. One of them, Thos. Dowd, Jr., ran through to South Second street, directly into Officer Giesse's arms. The Chief followed them, and in running through a neighboring dooryard, stumbled and fell headlong over a cow, but fortunately was not injured. The rest of the men made their escape.

Dowd was locked up, and this morning before Judge Suydam he pleaded not guilty to the charge of fighting and quarreling on the night of April 28. James Cahill became his bondsman in the sum $100, for his appearance to stand trial tomorrow at eleven A. M.

—The Rev. Yaroo M. Neesan, a native of Persia, delivered an interesting address before the congregation of Grace church, at four o'clock yesterday afternoon. The gentleman wore his native costume which was unique and pleasing to the eye. His address was confined to the religious condition of the Persians, and was thoroughly instructive and enjoyable. Last evening Rev. Mr. Neesan, delivered a stirring temperance address before the Reform Club.

SUBURBAN SAUNTERINGS.

The Fanwood Town Committee Accused of Bad Judgment.

I have heard considerable comment on the remarkable action of our Town Committee in the matter of proposals for hauling crushed stone. It will be remembered that the Committee gave public notice, by means of appropriate posters, that at the regular meeting to be held on the fifth of this month, bids would be received for hauling crushed stone to certain points in the Township. The Committee met at the appointed time and received the various proposals, and ultimately accepted one of them. By the terms of this bid, the Township is to pay the contractor for hauling crushed stone at different rates per ton, varying from twenty-five cents to one dollar. Now the curious fact appears that at the time of accepting this bid, and thus agreeing to pay these rates, the Town Committee had before it another bid at a very much lower rate—some of the work being as low as twenty-five cents where the successful bidder asked thirty, and others in proportion, part of it being placed at the same figures, and in one instance only was a higher sum asked. And yet, with this bid spread before them specifying every detail, the committee gave the work to another and higher bidder. The public will naturally be anxious to know upon what grounds the Township money is to be spent upon high-priced contractors in preference to more moderate ones, for this resolution means nothing more or less than increased taxes next year, or else less to show for the present appropriations. The explanation is as follows, but I would advise any one who expects to read the same to withdraw their attention from everything else, send the children out of the house, pull down the blinds, and fix the eye upon a spot in the ceiling. For in no other way can an ordinary mortal prepare his mind for the full comprehension of the Town Committee's reasoning. It seems that the bid which was rejected was not signed by the principal in proper person, but, as a matter of convenience, by his foreman in charge, who had full authority to sign as he did. This bid in question was made by Mr. George Kyte, whose name is a sufficient guarantee of the work proposed to be done. And because Mr. Kyte had not actually taken his pen in his hand, and personally caused the ink to assume the form of the letters of his name, but told Mr. William Manning to sign it for him, the Town Committee has proceeded to foist an additional burden on the people. The claim that the bid could not be recognized because not personally signed is about as absurd a one as could be imagined. And the committee's action is worse than absurd, it is willful neglect of the Township's interests. I will venture to say that if anyone of the Honorable Committee should wish his home painted, or repairs made in any of his buildings, and should advertise for proposals, he would not stop to enquire if each bid were personally signed or not. He would accept the lowest reliable bid, and if the contractor backed out he would make it tremendously hot for him. In the present case it would have been time enough to test the validity of the signature when Mr. Kyte should deny it, which of course, would never have happened.

Those who have never tried it have a very faint idea of how difficult it is to find a good fountain pen and what a blessing it is when once you have it. The wear and tear on the muscles caused by the constant dipping of an ordinary pen may not amount to much, but when we consider the continual trouble of ink, the giving out of pens at the critical moment and the difficulty of obtaining your favorite pen and ink when in the country, it would really seem that there was a pressing demand for a good reliable fountain pen, one that would write like an ordinary pen and not like a pin point, and that would not drop ink on the page, one that would not leak in the pocket, nor do any of those things which made the old fashioned feed-pen such a nuisance. In view of these facts, I feel that I am but rendering a public service in recommending Caw's Dashaway Pen to the readers of THE PRESS. By the principle of a double feed, a continuous and even flow of ink is maintained, and the pen made the easiest and fastest writer that can be imagined. After once using one, it seems impossible to do without it, and from a careful consideration of all its points, I would advise everyone who does any writing at all to obtain a Dashaway pen.

SUBURBAN SAUNTERER.

Dr. Kimbell Going Soon.

The last days of Dr. Kimbell's stay in Plainfield are rapidly drawing to a close. Many people will no doubt be sorry, when it is too late, who meant some day to screw up their courage and visit the doctor at his quarters in the City Hotel, and be permently cured of some troublesome corn, bunion, ingrowing nail or the like. But there is still a little time left in which to receive the benefit of Dr. Kimbell's skill and experience, and he may be found at the above mentioned place daily from nine A. M. till six P. M. The doctor advertises as a specialty the positive removal from the face of disfiguring and hideous warts and moles, and his skill as a chiropodist is undisputed. He has the testimonials of many well-known and prominent residents to back his statements. It would be well to take advantage of this last opportunity to be comfortable.

—The gum-chewing mania is still increasing rapidly among the youthful belles of the aristocracy. The proper and correct gift for a young lady being now a box of gum, decorated in dainty fashion and tied with pretty ribbon.

Union County Republican League.

An enthusiastic meeting of the Union County Republican League was held on Friday evening in Library Hall, Elizabeth, N. J. A new constitution was adopted, new officers elected, and a number of new members enrolled. The whole control of the League was vested in an executive committee, assisted by a conference committee of their own appointment, and the plans of work for the coming campaign were talked over. A meeting of the executive committee will be held on Tuesday evening. This committee consists of President, Charles C. McBride, Editor of Elizabeth Journal; Secretary, James McMasters, and L. V. Deforest, of Roselle; C. M. Goddard, of this city; Frank S. Miller, of Westfield: C. E. Reed, of Rahway, and Augustus Moore, of Elizabeth.

NO MERCY FOR SALOON MEN.

Justice To Be Dealt Out With a Firm Hand In Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, June 11.—Liquor sellers who will not abide strictly by the law are having hard times of it. The Grand Jury has just returned twenty true bills against persons charged with selling without a license. Saloonkeeper Galera has been sentenced to pay a fine of $1,000 and to imprisonment for one year and three months. The lawyers of the others indicted are doing all they can to have the cases postponed until after Judge Gordon's term.

The new drink, "Ambrosia," has been decided by chemists who have analyzed it, and policemen who have officially drank it, to be so much like beer that several of the unlicensed dealers who sold it are held for trial.

A saloon-keeper who had not paid the United States Government tax of $25, but had paid the State license, under which he was selling, has been bound over to answer to the United States Government.

In one or two cases, after license had been granted, the saloon-keeper died, and the courts refused to allow the business to be carried on by his family. It is argued that under these circumstances the license money should be returned.

A number of small manufacturers of cigars are to cease operations, owing to the closing of so many saloons.

In Chester saloon-keepers have been fined $50 each, and sent to prison for three months, for selling liquor without a license. They pleaded guilty, and were astonished at the sentence.

FAST TIME ON THE WING.

Pigeon Race By the Birds of the Volunteer Association.

PHILADELPHIA, June 11.—The best pigeon race ever flown for the distance, and the best from any distance since 1885, was by the birds of the Volunteer Association. The entries were: Charles E. Doane, three; Charles Ritchie, two, and G. W. Pangburn, one. The start was made from Orange Court House, Va., at eleven minutes to seven a. m., and the birds flew to Brooklyn, N. Y. The entire entry was at home before half-past one o'clock.

The birds of the Ritchie and Doane lots were found at one o'clock and certified at ten minutes past one, distance about two hundred and eighty miles; average speed, counting time of finding as time of arrival, 1,332 yards per minute. The G. W. Pangburn bird, Captain Haff, was found at twenty-five minutes to two p. m.; distance, 278.8 miles. The best previous speed from this distance is 1,265 yards and was made in 1885.

Bills Signed By Governor Hill.

ALBANY, June 11.—Gov. Hill has signed the following bills:

Amending the act authorizing the use of State armories by associations of discharged soldiers and sailors.

Appropriating money for an armory at Middletown.

Increasing the salary of the Deputy Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Incorporating the city of Middletown.

In consequence of Saturday being a legal half-holiday, the constitutional limit for the Governor to act on bills left in his hands at the adjournment of the Legislature does not expire until midnight. Hence a number of bills approved by him Saturday afternoon and evening will be filed with the Secretary of State on Monday. On the same day or on Tuesday he will make known in brief memoranda his reasons for allowing those which fail to receive his signature to die. Since the adjournment of the Legislature he has approved 252 measures and vetoed one; the number now remaining in his hands is 162. It is believed that the Ballot Reform bill has died, but there is no authority for saying that it has.

Suing Mrs. Potter.

NEW YORK, June 11.—Harry Miner's strained relations with Mrs. James Brown Potter has come to an end, and Mr. Miner signalized the event by serving her with a summons to appear in the Supreme Court and respond to a suit brought by Howe & Hummel for him. Mr. Minner claims that Mrs. Potter owes him $3,000 for moneys which he advanced to her, and for which she has not accounted. She was quite indignant when she learned of the action, and asserted that if there were any unsettled accounts between them Mr. Miner was the debtor and not she. It is understood that now the legal ball has been set rolling by Mr. Miner Mrs. Potter will soon take a hand at twirling it, and that she will soon be plaintiff instead of defendant in a suit where Mr. Miner will be called on to respond in heavy damages for various things.

Cornell University Crew.

ITHACA, June 11.—It is now settled that the Cornell University crew will leave here the latter part of this month to row against the University of Pennsylvania, at Philadelphia on July 4. The "four" have been selected, and are as follows: McComb, stroke; Thayer, No. 3; Dollor, No. 2; Tobey, bow; Ross substitute. Charles Courtney, the trainer, will accompany the boys. The Union Springs oarsman is hard at work with the oars and expects to row Wallace Ross in the near future. The Cornell crew had intended to go to Worcester next week to compete in the regatta there, but the non-arrival of the scull yesterday prevented them.

Iron Furnaces Closing Down.

READING, Pa., June 11.—An enumeration just taken here of the furnaces in the Schuylkill Valley, which have recently gone out of blast because of the depression in the iron business, shows that out of twenty-one first-class furnaces in the district from Conshohocken to Pottsville which were going a month ago, eleven have closed down and are taking advantage of the temporary dullness to make repairs. In this eleven is the Robeson furnace, which is the largest in the country, producing 800 tons per week, the Mount Laurel and the Macungie furnaces, two at Birdsboro, and one in this city.

Grasshoppers Coming.

ST. PAUL, June 11.—The rumors of grasshoppers in Otter Tail County have been confirmed by investigations just completed by Prof. Lugar, of the State Experimental Farm. There are millions of the pests hatching out in the neighborhood of Perham, and many of them are big enough to jump. Prof. Lugar says a number of large townships are literally alive with the hoppers. They are the genuine Rocky Mountain variety, that did such damage a number of years ago. Four carloads of material has been purchased for shipment to Perham to be used in an endeavor to kill most of the pests.

A New Monument in Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, June 11.—A committee, has been appointed to arrange for the erection in Fairmount Park of a memorial to the signers of the Declaration of Independence and of the Constitutional Convention. One of the committee said that the monument will probably consist of a grand arch, having at its base thirteen arches, six Southern and six Northern States being on the side of the Keystone State.

GETTING READY AT CHICAGO.

Preparing the Big Hall for the Republican National Convention.

CHICAGO, June 11.—The gentlemen who have charge of the auditorium are working with might and main getting the big hall ready for the Republican National Convention. A part of the ceiling decorations is already completed. It consists of immense strips of red, white, and blue muslin stretched taut from end to end. The elliptical arches are to follow next, then the walls. Between each of the big arches stars of incandescent lights are now in place. There are twelve of these, six feet in diameter standing in four rows directly above the delegates' pit, and ten additional ones will be placed on the walls at the right and left. In addition twenty-six smaller stars will be put in the centre of the wall and form a crescent. The novelty will be an immense shield of these incandescent lights, standing directly above the proscenium arch, 8x10 feet. It will represent the stars and stripes, 150 colored incandescent lights of red, white and blue, making up the shield. It is now nearly finished, and will be put in position to-morrow. Each of the nine elliptical arches has 60 lights.

Mr. Clarkson is annoyed about the exaggerated figures relating to the seating capacity of the hall. There will be 7,272 seats, he says, and no standing room. All other estimates, he believes, are inaccurate.

The hotels are getting in trim to handle an immense crowd. It is thought they will be able to accommodate 12,000 strangers without much trouble. Extra beds and bedding are being moved into all the big down town hotels, and the West Side and North Side boarding houses and hotels are making extensive preparations for the rush. The weather remains cool and pleasant.

HIS SPEECH ENDED BY DEATH.

Stricken With Apoplexy While Addressing a Sunday-School.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., June 11.—The people of this section are shocked by intelligence of the sudden and tragic death yesterday of Charles H. Winfield. He had accepted an invitation to address the children of the Sunday-school of the First Reformed Church at Walden, this county, and while engaged in speaking he staggered and fell to the floor, and died almost instantly. His death is attributed to apoplexy. His age was 69 years. Mr. Winfield was a native of this county, and was admitted to the Orange County Bar in 1846, and was for many years one of its leading members. He served as District Attorney of the county from 1851 to 1854. He represented the Orange and Sullivan District in the lower house of Congress from 1864 to 1868. About fifteen years ago he became senior member of the law firm of Winfield, Leeds & Morse, New York City, now Winfield & Leeds. His health failed, and he partially retired from practice about three years ago, since which period he has resided most of the time on his farm in the town of Crawford, this county. It was from his home there that he went to Walden yesterday morning to address the Sunday-school. He was a member of the Manhattan Club of New York City. He was an able lawyer and an eloquent speaker on political and general topics. He leaves a widow, but of the several children born to him none survive him.

By Her Own Hand.

WARE, Mass., June 10.—Mrs. Albert Edmonds, a young woman shot herself yesterday morning. About church time her husband was lying in a hammock strung in the yard. Mrs. Edmonds appeared at the window and said, "Are you going to church?" "No," he answered. In about five minutes she reappeared, simply said, "Goodby," and in an instant Mr. Edmonds was startled by a pistol report from the house, and he rushed within and discovered that his wife had taken a revolver from a bureau and shot herself in the breast. She cannot possibly live. No cause save temporary insanity can be assigned for the act.

New York State Food Exhibition.

ALBANY, June 11.—Great preparations are being made for the State Food Exhibition on the Fair Grounds in this city, Sept. 10, and it is expected that it will be the largest of its kind ever held in this country. The exhibition is to be held on the old County Fair Grounds, and the entire space in the big exposition buildings is already taken. It is thought that additional buildings will have to be erected to accommodate the crush of exhibitors.

Prof. Danforth Ill.

ELMIRA, N. Y., June 11.—Prof. Edward Danforth of this city, known throughout the State in connection with Sunday-school work, is dangerously ill with Bright's disease, having been for two days in a semi-conscious condition. For several years he has been Secretary of the State Sunday-School Association and was at one time Deputy State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Gas Suffocated Him.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., June 11.—The body of Edward McCullough, superintendent of the gas furnaces of the Pottsville Iron and Steel Company, was found last evening in one of the gas flues, with a lamp still burning beside it. It is supposed that he entered the flue for the purpose of cleaning it and was overcome by the gas.

Quiet Quakers in Newport.

NEWPORT, R. I., June 11.—The yearly meeting of Friends is in progress here, and the attendance is large from all over New England. There were several services yesterday.

Ashore in Buzzard's Bay.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., June 11.—The coal laden steamer Allenton, from Philadelphia for this port, went ashore in Buzzard's bay yesterday during a fog.

CONDENSED DESPATCHES.

Serious trouble is feared among the striking brickmakers at Peekskill, N. Y., and the State may be called upon for military aid.

A large party of New Jersey newspaper men have arrived at Ottawa on a business and pleasure trip over the Canadian Pacific Railroad from the Pacific coast.

The uniformed Knights of Pythias, of Florida, left Jacksonville, Sunday, for Cincinnati, to attend the session of the Supreme Lodge, K. of P.

Thirty-three members of the Arkansas City, Kan., division of the uniformed rank Knights of Pythias, will compete at Cincinnati for the grand prize offered to the best drilled division of the order.

Fire broke out in a row of wooden buildings at Fresno, Cal., on Saturday night, which swept through the block and effected a damage of $75,000. Charles Rogers was burned to death while endeavoring to save his property.

The annual convention of the Intereational Typographical Union will open in the Board of Trade building at Kansas City this morning, and will continue in session for over a week. Between two and three hundred delegates from all parts of the country and Canada have already reached Kansas City.

COOL CHAIRS AND CARPETS.

A Change in Furniture for the Summer as a Change in Clothing.

"House-cleaning? Yes, I'm in the middle of it," said Mrs. X—— yesterday, as she drew off a pair of wash-leather gloves, and gave a mysterious feminine pat to the lobsided red handkerchief which was twisted about her head, "but I don't in the least mind resting for a little while if you want to talk. Mary, go on with the dining-room curtains, and when they're finished fold them carefully, and take them up to the cedar chest.) Thank goodness, I've seen the last of those curtains for six months! I do get so tired of winter furniture, don't you? But I forgot, you poor things who live in boarding-houses have the same furniture all the year round.

"The same musty, fusty, dusty woolen curtains and carpets and plush chairs, whether the thermometer is twenty below or a hundred above. How utterly abominable. I don't think there is anything more absolutely certain to put one in a bad temper with one's self and all the rest of the world than a stuffy velvet chair on a hot July evening. Nowadays all right-minded people who don't keep boarding-houses have come to the unanimous conclusion that summer furniture is just as necessary as summer clothing, and the wrong-headed people suffer for their stupidity. They're not only much more uncomfortable than they need be themselves, but they are avoided by their friends.

"I remember last summer overhearing a conversation between two young men, which is apropos. Said No. 1: 'Your ardent admiration for Miss A— seems to have cooled off. She told me you hadn't been to see her since May. Have you discovered that she paints, or did she refuse you her photograph, or what is the matter?'

HIS REASONS.

"'Miss A—— is as charming and amiable as ever,' answered No. 2, 'but the fact is the A——s are not summer people. Their house is quite unbearable in hot weather. They don't seem to know how to be comfortable.' Making a call there in summer means something like this: You arrive about 8 o'clock and are shown into that gorgeous drawing-room of theirs, where your feet sink into several inches of Wilton carpet and you feel as if you can hardly breathe, you are so hemmed in by great, heavy crimson curtains. There is a tremendous blaze of gaslight, and you sit on the edge of an upholstered chair and slowly stew, till Miss A—— comes down. She is in elaborate toilette, and looks hot and tired, and as she has kept you waiting more than half an hour you are convinced that she was in a wrapper when you came, and is probably wishing you at Jericho. That doesn't make you any happier, of course, and what can be expected of a call which begins like that? No, my dear fellow, cultivate the B——s if you want some delightful summer acquaintances. They have crimson curtains, and Wilton carpets, and all the rest of it in winter, but in summer their house is a different place. They regularly go in for making themselves and other people comfortable. Think of a stifling August evening, when dinner is an abomination, the club unbearable, and you're inclined to believe that a watery grave, provided it's cold, offers attractions not to be despised.

"Think of the dirt and heat overtown and then imagine a big, high room with matting on the floor, thin muslin curtains, wicker chairs, quantities of fans, great bowls of flowers on low tables, cool, fresh-looking girls, in soft, simple white gowns, and the clink of ice, suggestive of the claret cup in the background! There is sure to be a subdued yellow or rose-colored light, and presumably one of the girls will sit down and play some dreamy, rippling bit of Schumann or Mendelssohn, or one of those fellows. I can tell you that ice-water grave very soon ceases to have any charm. In about half an hour life seems worth living again.'

REAL COMFORT

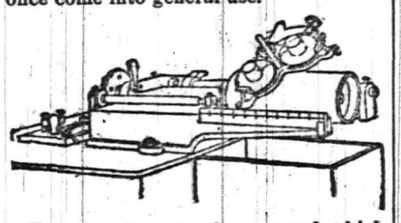
"That young man, by the way, is now engaged to one of the Miss B——! But they are by no means the only people who understand the importance of preparing for summer. Summer furnishing has become quite usual here, and there is no task I enjoy more. Think of the pleasure of banishing those heavy velours curtains and putting up transparent yellow-and-white art muslin; packing away that stuffy Axminster, and laying down yellow-and-white matting; sending off those upholstered chairs, and replacing them with light willow ones. Then I shall have some old turquoise-blue flower-pots in my white-and-yellow windows. You know yellow has passed through its stage of popularity and consequent vulgarity, and one may safely revel in it once more. Unfortunately, however, before the time arrives for those beautiful finishing-touches there is a frightful amount of disagreeable everyday house-cleaning to be gone through with, and really I'm afraid I shall have to ask you to go now. You don't think me rude?"—Chicago News.

A FEATURE.

EDISON'S NEW PHONOGRAPH.

Carefully Adjusted and Run by an Electric Motor—Designed to Be of Practical Use.

Ever since Mr. Thomas A. Edison invented his phonograph he has been dissatisfied with it. Like all men of ceaseless energy and continual bright ideas Mr. Edison has just completed the construction of a new phonograph, in which the faults of the old machine are remedied, so far as electrical and mechanical science can at present remedy them. The new phonograph works to a charm, and there is no reason why it should not at once come into general use.



The new phonograph, a cut of which is here given, is nothing more in principle than what is known to mechanicians as a lathe of precision, turned by an electric motor. In the cut the motor is concealed in the big box at the left, upon which the body of the phonograph rests. The motor is of the common pattern, and consists of four electro magnets on a circular base. It causes to revolve the vertical shaft seen at the left of the figure, and this shaft, in turn, by the friction of a thick leather band upon a rubber disk whirls around with extreme rapidity the big horizontal shaft in the center. The horizontal shaft terminates at the right in a hollow metal cylinder four inches long. This cylinder is coated with another tight-fitting cylinder, varying from one-eighth to one-sixteenth of an inch in thickness, and made of a curiously prepared wax compound. This wax compound takes the place of the tin foil in the old phonograph.

Surmounting the wax-covered cylinder, as seen in the cut, is the queer-shaped instrument which looks like a pair of spectacles. Mr. Edison calls it "the spectacle." It is merely two diaphragms, each about the size of a half-dollar, one of celluloid, the other of gold-beater's skin, in connected copper frames. There is a steel handle by which the whole instrument can be twisted about. The "spectacle" rests, by a connecting beam, upon a steel sleeve over a horizontal shaft just discernible at the rear of the cut. As the sleeve runs back and forth on its shaft the spectacle runs back and forth over the wax-covered cylinder. The outside of the diaphragms of the spectacle have copper coverings, and upon these rest projecting collars of copper. Into these collars fit the sleeves of talking and hearing tubes. One of the diaphragms thus becomes the transmitter, and the other the receiver of the phonograph. Upon the bottom of the receiving diaphragm, which is the celluloid one, is a fine steel knife point. When the talking tube is affixed to the diaphragm and the air vibrations of the human voice tremble in it this knife point vibrates up and down correspondingly to the vibrations made by the voice. The sleeve of the shaft upon which the spectacle rests is attached to the central main shaft which turns the wax-covered cylinder by a steel bar, threaded. The main shaft is also threaded toward the right. Thus when the main shaft revolves the spectacle is carried from left to right along the cylinder. A projecting point on the spectacle moves along an index scale at the base of the cylinder, so that the location of the spectacle on the cylinder can always be ascertained.

Now to make the phonograph work. The spectacle is pulled down over the cylinder so that the knife point on the receiver just touches the wax. The motor is turned on by a little switch, and the cylinder begins to revolve at the rate of eighty revolutions a minute. The knife point cuts a groove in the wax on the cylinder which is barely perceptible, the wax parings falling into a wooden receptacle. The spectacle is carried along the cylinder and the groove of the knife point likewise and around the cylinder, so that the cylinder is threaded almost like the shaft that turns it. Then the talking tube is fitted to the outside of the receiving diaphragm, and when the talking begins the voice vibrations cause the knife point to make little dots and dashes, like those of the telegraph system, in its groove around the cylinder. The surface of the cylinder will hold about 1,000 words, and other waxen covers can be put on if more than 1,000 words are sought to be recorded. When the talking is done the spectacle is lifted from the threaded shaft, and moved back to that point on the cylinder where the talking begun, as is shown by the index scale. Then the spectacle is turned on its pivot, so that the transmitting diaphragm is brought next to the cylinder. This diaphragm is the one made of goldbeater's skin. Across its shining outer surface is stretched a piece of rubber wire, infinitely elastic, it seems, and so small in diameter that it fits neatly into the tiny groove made by the knife point of the receiver in the waxen surface of the cylinder. The dots and dashes in the groove made by the voice vibrations are reiterated upon the rubber wire, and cause corresponding vibrations upon the diaphragm of the transmitter. The vibrations of the diaphragm are repeated to the ear through the hearing tube, and the person listening hears the words spoken into the phonograph perhaps a month before. By pressing the connecting lever between the cylinder shaft and the spectacle shaft down upon the shaft in the front of the cut, the lever, by a mechanical arrangement, is lifted from the cylinder shaft, and the revolving of the front shaft, which is left instead of right threaded, causes the spectacle to go from right to left along the cylinder, and then words which happen to be lost when the transmitting process is going can be caught again.

Joan of Arc, the sainted maid of Orleans, died in 1431.

The war of Roses occurred in 1455.

Printing was introduced into England in 1474.

The first watches were made in 1476.

The first newspapers were printed in 1494.

The first postoffice was established in 1516.

The reformation began in 1517.

Printing was known in China in the sixth century, but it was not introduced into America until 1536.

The modern needle came into use in 1545, and five years later the first knives were used in England.

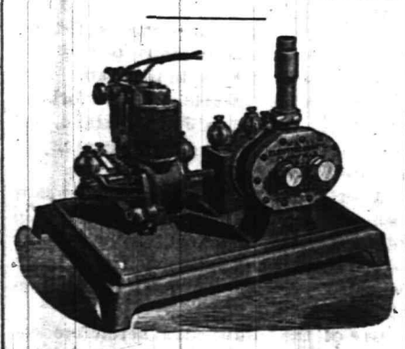
DOMESTIC WATER SUPPLY.

Water for Lawns and Gardens.



The citizens of Plainfield are respectfully invited to call at the drug store of Messrs. Field & Randolph, on West Front street, between the hours of 5 P. M. and 10 P. M., and see the working of the HALL ELECTRIC PUMP, an ingenious combination of an Electric Motor, a Rotary Pump and an Electric Switch attached to an ordinary House tank, whereby any residence in Plainfield may be furnished with a constant and abundant supply of water for all Domestic purposes; for sprinkling lawns and gardens, and for use in stables and carriage house without giving the subject any more attention than is required by a complete gravity system of water works. The Electric Pump is Automatic, Safe, Reliable, Compact, Clean, Economical, Simple, Noiseless. No Ashes! No Coal Dust! No Smoke! No Fire! No Gases! No Heating of the Atmosphere! No Valves to get out of Order! No attendance required! No Danger to Life! No Explosions!!!

It is always ready!

The Hall Electric Pump Company specially invites the most searching examination into the mechanism of the Electric Pump, and invites the criticism of experts upon the efficiency and reliability thereof. The Pump has already been in actual every day use for many months, and as its need in this city is well understood, so it is hoped that the citizens will be sufficiently interested to call and see it at work. Its use will reduce the size and weight of House Tanks very materially. It provides a constant supply of fresh water, without the labor of hand-power or any personal attention other than a fortnightly supply of oil. It is so free from danger to life that the youngest child may receive all the Electricity passing through it, without even feeling it.

The Hall Electric Pump Company is incorporated under the laws of the State of New Jersey and is made up of Plainfield citizens. It proposes to sell Electric Pumps and the power to run them to the citizens of Plainfield, and its aim is to deal with its patrons on the most liberal and accommodating terms that are consistent with resonable business prudence.

GETTINGS THINGS SHAPED

ARRANGING FOR THE REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

All But a Few of the Delegates Have Secured Their Hotel Accommodations. General Gossip.

CHICAGO, June 12.—All the delegations to the National Republican Convention have secured their hotel accommodations, with the exception of those from Mississippi, North Carolina, Texas, Utah and the District of Columbia. At the Sherman House will be quartered the delegations from Alabama, Maryland, South Carolina, and the Young Men's Republican Club of Baltimore. The Grand Pacific will shelter the National Committee and the delegations from Arkansas, Colorado, Connecticut, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Louisiana, Maine, Michigan, Minnesota, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Oregon, Wisconsin, and Dakota, Idaho, Montana, and Washington Territories. The California delegation will have the billiard room at the Leland for its headquarters, and there will also be at the Leland the delegations from Delaware, Massachusetts, part of Pennsylvania, Vermont and New Mexico. At the Palmer House these delegations have engaged quarters: Florida, Georgia, Kansas, Kentucky, Missouri, Nevada, part of Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Tennessee, Virginia, West Virginia, Arizona, and Wyoming Territories. The Tremont House has reserved most of its rooms for parties of five or ten. Senator Quay, of Pennsylvania, has taken 40 rooms there for his friends, and rooms have also been engaged for the Union Club of Philadelphia. There are few delegates or boomers yet here, but the hotel lobbies are well filled. The hotel clerks are telling transients that they must be prepared to double up after Sunday and are fortifying themselves for the siege of next week.

Mr. McKinley, of Ohio, is mentioned as possible Chairman of the Committee on Resolutions.

Ex-Gov. John W. Grier and Senator D. B. Henderson of Iowa, arrived here last evening from Washington to take a hand in furthering the fortunes of Senator Allison. They say that they are for Allison first, last, and all the time, and have no other candidate.

Fifty Chicago Republicans of Indiana birth met at the Grand Pacific last evening and passed resolutions indorsing the candidacy of Judge Gresham, and urging the Indiana delegation to vote for him after casting a complimentary vote for Harrison.

The Illinois First Congressional District held its convention yesterday, and, among other things selected Judge Eugene Cary and W. J. Campbell as delegates to the National Convention. It also adopted resolutions indorsing Judge Gresham's candidacy and instructing its delegates to work for his nomination.

The Gresham badge came out to-day in the form of a white button, bearing the name of Gresham in glit over a gilt star.

Charles W. Clisbee, of Cassopolis, Mich., Reading Clerk of the last Convention, and an attache of the House of Representatives in Republican days, is at the Grand Pacific. He will probably officiate at the coming convention.

Gen. Charles Fitzsimmons, of Chicago, who has been appointed Sergeant-at-Arms of the Convention, will have the list of his doorkeepers, ushers and others ready to give to the public by Thursday morning. He has established headquarters at Room 2, Grand Pacific Hotel. He says that he has been almost swamped by the large number of applications which poured in upon him. Several thousand persons had applied for places in the convention.

The National Committee Headquarters will be in Parlor 44 at the Grand Pacific. It adjoins the breakfast room, and has a long table in the centre, chairs being arranged on all sides of the room except the north end. Chairman Jones of the committee has engaged two rooms at the Leland on the first floor.

It is not known whether there will be any delegation at the convention from Alaska. The members of the National Committee who are here say that the Alaskans will be seated if they show up in the city.

Carnegie and Two Associations.

PITTSBURG, June 12.—It is learned that Carnegie, Phipps & Co. have decided to cut loose from the Manufacturers' Protective Association and the Amalgamated Association and run indepently. The break will be made on July 1, when wage scales will be adopted for the Union Iron Mills at Twenty-ninth street, the Thirty-third street mill and the large steel plant at Homestead.

Swift Kentucky Vengeance.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., June 12.—At Henderson, Ky., twenty miles below here, at early yesterday morning, James Forster, colored, was taken from jail by a mob and hanged. Forster was arrested Thursday morning, at the instance of John Howard, charged with assault upon the latter's little eight-year-old daughter, a few miles from Henderson, in the country.

Annual Sunday School Convention.

ROCHESTER, June 12.—The thirty-third annual convention of the Sunday School Association of this State will be held here to-day, Wednesday and Thursday. Many interesting subjects will come up for discussion. To-day Dr. A. B. Kendig will deliver an address, "What?" "How?" "When?" On Thursday morning Miss C. E. Coffin and Mrs. Frederick Perhune, of Brooklyn, will deliver addresses.

Ex-Treasurer Carter $8,000 Short.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., June 12.—Ex-Treasurer H. C. Carter has been discovered to be about $8,000 short in his books, and has turned over his property to his bondsmen. At the last election Carter, who had been Treasurer for two terms, was elected City Auditor.

Ex-Gov. Cornell's New Estate.

NEW HAMBURG, June 12.—The country seat once the home of George Clinton, Vice-President of the United States and twice Governor of New York, has been purchased by ex-Gov. Alonzo B. Cornell for $112 per acre.

LATE WASHINGTON NEWS

THE ORIGIN OF THE RED BANDANA EMBLEM.

Postoffice Appropriation Bill Increased—A Big Sum Paid Out on Account of Pensions—Other News of Interest.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—The appearance of the red bandanna handkerchief as a Democratic political emblem has attracted attention to the claim that W. F. Hudson, one of the clerks of the House of Representatives, was the first man to put it to such a use. Mr. Hudson was a member of the Iowa delegation at the Democratic National Convention of 1884, and his candidate was ex-Senator Thurman. His attention being attracted by some red handkerchiefs in a store window, he bought one, because it called up a characteristic image of Mr. Thurman in his mind. He carried it to the Tammany headquarters, tied to the end of a cane, and waved it like a flag. The Tammany men were on the lookout for some taking badge for an anti-Cleveland boom, to use as effectively as the Hancock ribbons were used in 1876. They grasped as this, and in a few hours the Convention Hall and the streets in the neighborhood were liberally decorated with bandannas, worn in every way—as handkerchiefs, necktles, hatbands, etc. The scheme did not work, however; the Convention's mind was fixed, and it refused to be stampeded by a piece of red cloth. It is considered an amusing evidence of the whirligig character of politics that the anti-Cleveland emblem of four years ago should be the Cleveland emblem of the coming campaign.

It is asserted, with positiveness, there will be a new Democratic paper started here. One man is said to have planked down $5,000 and wants $400,000 more. He is reported as saying that he has the chance of getting one of the Press Association despatches. If necessary, a wire between here and New York would be leased, and the news in the late evening editions of the papers of that city would be used. To-day there was said to be $70,000 in cash raised, and a large sum of money promised if needed. The object in getting $500,000 is to put the paper on a good paying basis. The Baltimore, Philadelphia papers have made a big inroad on the Washington papers, and as the outside dailies reach here at an early hour in the morning, they have played great havoc with the local papers.

A caucus of the Democratic members of the House was held last evening. One of the subjects brought up was a proposition to lay aside the Tariff bill during the Republican Convention and take up the remaining appropriation bills and general legislation. Another question discussed was that of the best way to limit the debate on the Tariff bill. No conclusion was reached in regard to either of these propositions and the matter was left, as formerly, in the hands of the Democratic members of the Ways and Means Committee. It is quite probable, however, that appropriation bills will be taken up during the Chicago Convention.

The Senate Committee on Appropriations has increased the Postoffice Appropriation bill by $1,549,000, of which $1,000,000 is appropriated to carry out the Eight-Hour law with respect to letter-carriers, of whom 1,600 additional will be required, and $800,000 is appropriated for subsidies. The House provision appropriating $50,000 to pay postoffice clerks for unusual business is struck out and the $650,000 for rent, light and fuel for third-class offices is reduced to $450,000.

A colloquy arose in the House yesterday between Mr. Woodburn, of Nevada, and Mr. Cox, of New York, turning upon the reference by Mr. Cox, in his tariff speech, to Nevada as a rotten borough. Mr. Woodburn defended his State and was bitterly personal in his attack upon Mr. Cox; but the latter gentleman replied in a more good-natured manner, although he also indulged in some biting personalities.

The Senate Committee on the Judiciary further considered the nomination of Melville W. Fuller to be Chief Justice, without result. The meeting continued nearly half an hour after the Senate had assembled, and the case was then postponed for two weeks.

The Secretary of the Treasury yesterday paid out nearly $4,000,000 on account of pensions.

The Seifridge court-martial completed its work yesterday and its findings are in the hands of the Judge Advocate General.

Prince Roland Napeleon Bonaparte called at the White House yesterday and subsequently had an interview with Secretary Fairchild at the Treasury Department.

There being no further danger of a revolutionary outbreak in Hayti, orders have been issued to the United States steamer Yantic, at Port au Prince, to return to the United States.

ROASTED IN A RATTLE TRAP.

Three Persons Burned to Death and Several Others Seriously Injured.

LOWELL, Mass., June 12.—Eugene Vallerand, aged 18, Peter Vallerand, aged 8, and Delia Vallerand, aged 5, were burned to death by the burning of the tenement house at Rock and Millie streets, early yesterday morning. Their mother, Mrs. T. Vallerand, a widow, jumped from a third story window and broke her leg. Alfred Vallerand, aged 14, was so badly burned that he will die.

Mrs. Balsvert inhaled smoke and may die. She carried her babe out safely through the flames. One of her children is missing, but is thought to have escaped.

The house was a rattle trap, with narrow stairways. It contained nine persons.

$3,000 Worth of Cotton Burned.

NORFOLK, June 12.—By a fire yesterday in a building belonging to the Boston Wharf and Warehouse Company, and formerly occupied by the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad Company, 250 bales of cotton were consumed. The British bark Verona, of Quebec, lying at the wharf, had her masts, rigging and sails badly damaged. The loss is $30,000.

BY THE WAY.

—Oh! for a Y. M. C. A. building.

—Again that season of the year has come when the school boy counts the days until Summer vacation arrives.

—A diamond pin and a Waterbury watch are reported lost at the clam bake on Sunday. The total value is about six shillings.

—We, the undersigned, wish to publicly express our thanks to all those who in any way helped us to make our festival a success. CRESCENT GLEE CLUB.

—This evening the plot holders in the new Hillside Cemetery will meet in the Public Library building, to elect trustees for the ensuing year.

—The mechanical drawing class will meet at the Y. M. C. A. rooms this evening at eight o'clock. Every member is urged to be present.

—A young son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Day, of West Fourth street, was christened at St. Mary's church, by Rev. Father Smyth, on Sunday at 4 P. M.

—A beautiful bush of Jack roses in full bloom, in the door yard in front of Mr. D. J. Marshall's residence on Park avenue, is admired by many passers-by.

—The Central B. B. C. is trying to arrange a match game with the Crescents on the 20th inst. The Centrals will then be fully equipped in their new uniforms.

—The regular encampment of Winfield Scott Post, G. A. R., will be held this evening, at which time the memorial detail will submit their report and a muster will take place.

—Harmony Lodge, K. of P., of Elizabethport, will visit this city to-morrow evening as the guests of Unity Lodge, No. 102, K. of P. Refreshments will be provided for the visitors.

—A change may be seen in A. M. Vanderbeek & Co's. advertisement today. You will do well to give them a call for fishing tackle and musical goods. See the prize rod to be given to the luckiest fisherman.

—An alleged picture of Detective Gregory of New Brunswick, as he appeared when discovering a brace of wrong doers in Plainfield recently, embellishes a page of the Police Gazette. The detective repudiates the picture.

—Much to the agreeable surprise of all concerned, the receipts of the cake and candy sale in the Crescent Avenue church parlors, yesterday, were about $60. The funds are for the benefit of the Mission Bands of the Presbyterian churches.

—There is said to be a movement on foot to organize a battalion of Cleveland Republicans, and it is the intention of the projectors of this movement to prevail upon Mr. R. C. Dingee, a veteran of several campaigns, to drill and command them.

—A game of base ball was to have been played in the Borough on Saturday afternoon, between a nine composed of North Plainfield lads and a nine captained by Master Mumford. The latter nine did not put in an appearance, however, and the match was declared "off."

—What has become of that organization formerly known as the "Plainfield Democratic Association?" It is quite necessary for its officers to recognize the fact that Cleveland and Thurman are the Democratic candidates for President and Vice President. Why should there not be a grand ratification meeting at an early date? And have a good one.

An Alleged Impostor.

There is said to be a man going about town in the guise of a tailor, who can scarcely speak a word of English. The man is a Swede by birth, and by his pitiful tales, and under the pretext of bringing his wife to this country, has succeeded in borrowing a considerable amount of money from his fellow-countrymen. Those who have become his victims, now denounce him as an impostor, and signify their willingness to help ride him out of town on a rail.

Another Case of Sunday Selling.

Chief Carey was the complainant in a case before Judge Suydam this morning, charging Henry Goeller, Jr., of Plainfield avenue, with selling cigarettes and candy on Sunday the 10th instant. The complaint was lodged upon information furnished by Willie Frey and Charles Sutterlein, two boys. The accused pleaded not guilty, and the trial was set down for Monday next. Mr. John H. Jackson, of the firm of Jackson & Codington will represent the defence.

THE HIGH SCHOOL COMMENCEMENT.

Final Arrangements Perfected—Bishop Vincent to Address the Graduates—Only Ten Essays to be Read.

School Trustees Kirkner, Wadsworth and Murray, with Miss Bulkley, were just a quorum of the Board of Education present, last evening, at a meeting to make final arrangements for the annual commencement exercises of the High School, to be held in Music Hall, Thursday evening of next week.

Secretary Wadsworth read acceptances from the several members that had been appointed on the committees of prize awards. Mr. James W. Jackson, however, of the committee on pemanship, sent regrets at his inability to serve. The Board thereupon selected Mr. John B. Dumont, and instructed the Secretary to notify him. The committees now stand:

On Penmanship—W. B. Wadsworth, Elias R. Pope and John B. Dumont.

On Composition—Mason W. Tyler, Rev. Cornelius Schenck and Ernest R. Ackerman.

Mathematics—William M. Stillman.

The question of apportioning tickets for the commencement, occasioned the usual discussion. It would be necessary to reserve the entire parquette of 284 seats, to provide the accommodation proper for the parents and friends of the graduates, the families of the Board, the teachers, the members of the prize committees, the Junior class, and a few others. It was subsequently decided to give each graduate eight, and to divide the remaining seats among the others in the same way as in past years.

President Kirkner then called the attention of the Board to the fact that the present graduating class numbered nineteen, and that it was utterly out of the question to permit each and all to read an essay at the public exercises. He proposed that ten essays be sufficient, averaging eight minutes each. "But," he continued, "how is the selection to be made? There are parents who have already given warning that they will be very indignant if their son or daughter should not be appointed."

It was suggested that the appointments of those of the nineteen graduates who are to read in public, be made according to the "thought matter" of their essays, their powers of elocution and their ability to be heard. The names of the entire class and the title of each one's essay, to be printed on the programme, and that it be understood that it is no reflection upon the standing or ability of any because they can not be permitted to read, for want of time. The decision as to who will be the ten, was left by the Board to Miss Bulkley's choice.

A review of the programme convinced the Board that about three hours would be taken up in its completion. Besides the reading of the essays and the valedictory, the music by the N. Y. Seventh Reg't band, and the awarding of prizes and diplomas, Bishop Vincent is to address the graduates, and other speakers who are invited and expected, are Governor R. S. Green, State School Superintendent C. C. Fuller, and the Hon. Isaac H. Maynard, Asst. Secretary of the U. S. Treasury.

Further matters before the Board consisted of the payment of sundry bills, and other miscellaneous business. The construction and furnishing of the long proposed science room, were left in the hands of Messrs. Murray, Wadsworth and Kirkner. The Secretary was instructed to advertise for proposals for furnishing 260 tons of furnace coal to be delivered as required by the Board. A resolution was adopted authorizing the borrowing of a sum not to exceed $5,000, for a period not to exceed 30 days, to provide the funds necessary to make the first payment according to contract, on the new school building. Such sum to be borrowed in anticipation of the loan on the building now in course of arrangement with the Mutual Life Ins. Co., of New York.

The question of the pay of substitutes for teachers who had been absent for any cause, came up for adjustment before the making out of the final pay roll of the term. Last year, no charge upon absent teachers was made, but the Board was of the opinion that a resolution had then, or since, been adopted to the effect that the Board would pay the full cost of the substitute, where the teacher was absent for sickness or other good cause, up to five days, but if more than that the teacher would be required to pay one-half. The substitutes are principally supplied from the High School Training class, at a remuneration of one dollar a day and the experience thrown in.

The Campaign of Slander.

Under the above heading the Public Ledger of Philadelphia, Pa., whose editor is Geo. W. Childs—and who once advocated Republican principles until they became too strong for him to swallow—says regarding the scurrilous and infamous circular-scandal issued by a Republican so-called minister and circulated broadcast among the delegates to the Democratic National Convention:

Mrs. Cleveland will not be a candidate in the coming campaign; she will have no share nor part in it. Her life, her home should be held sacred from the coarse assaults, the infamous slanders of the political Hessian and Freelance. If Mr. Cleveland cannot be defeated because of the faults of his own life, or of the errors of his administration, then, in the name of all that is just and manly, let him be elected. If he is unfit to continue in his present high office let it be made clear that he is, but unless the spirit of honor and chivalry is wholly dead in the heart of Americans, let no American seek his defeat by brutally assailing him through his wife or his home life. Republican victory would be too dearly purchased at the cost of such cowardice, such dishonor, such infamy.

SATURDAY'S TROTTING.

Some Good Time Made on the Track of the Gentlemen's Driving Park Association.

The attendance at the Saturday races on the track of the Gentlemen's Driving Park Association was large, and the trotting by the local horses, commendable. The Judges were: Messrs. Nathan Robins and Wm. VanSyckle. All of the races were friendly trials of speed, and no prizes were offered. Admission to the track was free.

The first event of the day was a mile brush between Mr. Edward Waring's "Ledger Boy" and Mr. Zimmerman's bay horse, "Unknown." The former horse won in 2.41½.

Next came a mile heat between John Hayes' "Andy" and Mr. VanDerveer's sorrel mare. "Andy" winning in 2.59.

In the third event there were three entries, namely: John Stelle's "Tramp;" August Trust's "Dominoe," and Newton Honeyman's stallion. Mr. Stelle's horse won the heat in 2.58. "Tramp" and "Dominoe" trotted a second heat, the former crossing the line in 2.50. This race completed the programme.

John Osborn drove Mr. J. W. Johnson's "Lady Thistle" two single mile heats in 2.40 each.

The track of the Gentlemen's Driving Park Association is perhaps one of the finest half-mile tracks in the State. It is equipped with suitable and comfortable stables, an attractive Judges' stand, and a grand stand with a seating capacity of several hundred.

A series of interesting contests is now being arranged to take place in the course of a few weeks, which will include many of the best horses in this vicinity. There will also probably be good trotting on the track on the Fourth.

One of the drawbacks heretofore encountered, is the fact that none of the entries were made until the horses arrived on the ground. This necessarily occasions a delay in starting the racing, and to overcome this obstacle the races will hereafter be arranged several days in advance.

No Cause of Action.

An action on contract brought by Jeremiah B. VanDeventer vs. Julia B. Austin to recover $75 the amount alleged to be due on a note, was tried before Justice T. R. Crosley in North Plainfield recently. Mr. Wm. A. Coddington, Esq., appearing for the plaintiff and Mr. John H. Jackson for the defendant.

Following is the text of the Justice's decision, ruling that a married woman is not liable as maker of an accommodation note, even in the hands of a bona fide holder for value before maturity:

"After a review of the evidence and proceedings in the above cause, and a careful and impartial examination of the Statutory law concerning married women, and also after consulting the best authorities available, I am compelled to reach the conclusion that the defendent, Julia B. Austin is not liable under the provisions of the act known as the Married Woman's Act, and the plaintiff under the construction of the said law or act, cannot obtain judgment for the amount claimed on note, for the recovery of which the suit has been instituted. Therefore, my verdict in this case is, 'No cause of action.'"

"The Lady or the Tiger?"

The Summer season of the McCaull Opera Company at Wallack's Theatre, New York City, is proving the most successful that this well known organization has ever enjoyed, as their latest production, "The Lady or the Tiger," is one of the most popular works ever brought out in comic opera. Possessing a most interesting story, full of fun and amusing situations, with music that is bright and catchy, the merry opera is now well on in its second month without any signs of abatement in popular interest, the theatre being crowded at every performance.

Colonel McCaull has never before given so meritorious a production, for to his groundwork of a good opera, he has added a strong cast, including all the favorite artists of his organization, a large and excellent chorus, scenery that is simply gorgeous in its beauty, and costumes of the richest kind, so that an evening at Wallack's, listening to the music, laughing at the comedians, and admiring all that is bright and pretty, is a time well and profitably spent.

The Saturday matinees, commencing at two and ending at 4:30, are patronized largely by out of town residents.

Young Ladies, in Particular, Will be Interested.

The announcement in another column of the coming fair of the New Jersey Athletic Club, will be of much interest to many of our readers, and the occasion will undoubtedly call forth a liberal patronage from our community because of the membership of so many of Plainfield's young men in this organization of over 500 amateur athletes and lovers of out door sports.

A New Bridge Across South Avenue.

Director Hubbard and Messrs. Kyte, Kleinhans and Vanderbeek, constituting a committee of the Union County Freeholders, met in this city yesterday afternoon, and decided to erect a new bridge across the creek on South avenue, near the Scott Press Works. The bridge when completed will be about 80 feet in length, diagonally, built of brick arches, with iron girders, and covered with concrete.

The Committee was instructed to ascertain the probable cost of erecting the bridge, and report the same to the Board for acceptance. The Committee also decided to replank the bridge crossing Cedar brook at Broadway.

POISON IN OUR DRINK.

Not Alcohol—which one may avoid—but BRASS AND LEAD which one takes unsuspectingly. "How—When—Where?" Well, say, in a glass of Soda. Pity the most popular and wholesome of all artificial drinks—which Soda honestly is—should ever deserve a touch of suspicion, but

is that in some Soda Fountains economy and mechanical facility are studied to the neglect of the weightier matter of purity. Some men are too "smart;" some Soda Fountains are too "ingenious."

We have recently had made a Fountain which secures Absolute Purity for the beverages. Rather pretty, too, we think. We selected the "Matthews' make" because it is the only fount in which the syrups have positively no metallic contact, being discharged direct from glass jars into the tumblers—no tubes; while the waters are contained in and flow through solid block tin,

PURE AS CRYSTAL, COLD AS CHARITY.

We make our own syrups—from REAL FRUIT JUICES, or from chocolate or coffee, etc., as the case may be; no nonsense of essences or make believe.

New drinks? Yes, some of our own contriving. "Winks?" Not a wink; not licensed for winks, and we have an opinion of druggists who take a wink.

Come and try the new Fountain; if you like your drink we'll thank you for saying so, and you'll pay us five cents and come again—it will do you good; only don't come Sundays; no use—Fountain WON'T WORK.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Archdeacon Rodman officiated as usual in Grace church on Sunday morning.

Mr. Albert G. Mabee, one of the organizers of the Plainfield Reform Club, will pitch his tent at Boonton this week.

Miss Flora Mayo of Newark, is spending a few weeks with Miss Mamie Taynor of Chatham street, North Plainfield.

Mr. W. L. Patton and family of Ninth street, started yesterday for Washington, D. C., to attend the wedding of a sister of Mrs. Patton.

Mrs. F. A. Church, of Craig place, after a very severe illness of a month past, was able to be up and out for a short drive, yesterday afternoon.

Messrs. J. W. Johnson, A. C. Vail and Bert Darby, started last week on a tour of inspection through the stock raising farms of Kentucky. They will probably make some purchases, provided they see anything they want.

A correspondent sends us the following with the statement that he will vouch for it. "Mr. Ethan Lanphear and wife left for Washington, Sunday. In anticipation of the election of Clinton B. Fisk to the Presidency of the United States, and with an eye to business and the postoffice, Mr. L. thinks it wise and proper to be there in time."

The death is announced today of Mrs. George E. Hoadley, of this city, who has been under the care of skillful practitioners and specialists, at Brooklyn, for some months past. The funeral services will be held on Friday at 2:30 P. M., at the residence of the deceased's daughter, Mrs. W. Palmer Smith, Belvidere avenue, Netherwood.

A Recent Treatise of Value, by Dr. Charles F. Stillman.

There is probably no young man better known to the older residents of this city, nor any more justly popular with a large circle of friends here, than Charles F. Stillman, M. S., M. D., son of the late Dr. C. H. Stillman the originator of public school instruction in New Jersey and, before his death, the most prominent citizen of Plainfield in all public and righteous works.

The younger Dr. Stillman, for the past few years since his removal from this city, has been established in New York, where he has built up a position and practice that are most enviable. He is Clinical Professor of Orthopædic Surgery in the Women's Medical College, Orthopædic Surgeon to the New York Infant Asylum, Medical Examiner for the Mutual Life Insurance Co., Examining Surgeon of the Travelers Insurance Co., and is well-known and esteemed throughout the profession for his inventions and publications of incalculable value in the field of general surgery.

His latest publication is "The Life Insurance Examiner," a practical treatise upon medical examinations for life insurance. The volume aims to be a text book for the medical examiner and a guide in his relation to the science of life insurance. There are 30,000 of these examiners throughout the country, and as already many of the largest companies have adopted the book as their manual, its sale promises to be exceedingly large.

Republican Association Meeting.

An enthusiastic meeting of the above Association was held last evening in their rooms over the City National Bank. At 8:30 o'clock the meeting was called to order by President E. R. Pope. The Secretary, Mr. John H. Doane, read the minutes of the previous meeting which, on motion, were approved as read.

Mr. John Ulrich, from Committee on Roll Book, reported with book, with the following preamble:

"We, whose names are hereunto subscribed, do hereby pledge ourselves to advocate, promote and maintain the principles of Republicanism as enunciated by the Republican party; to endeavor to interest those who heretofore have been indifferent as to their political duties; to give our hearty support to the nominees of the Republican party, and to perform such other work as may conserve to the best interests of said party."

The following Committees reported progress: Rooms and Entertainments; Finance; By-Laws. A special committee was appointed to make arrangements for a ratification meeting after the nominations are made at Chicago. The Association starts off with a roll of 125.

After some further routine business, adjournment was had until Tuesday evening of next week.

Children's Day at Chimney Rock.

The Chimney Rock Sunday School held its Children's Day exercises Sunday afternoon out of doors, under the large shady oaks West of the old hotel building. Among the 300 people that were present, were several from Plainfield.

The ladies of the school had prepared wreaths of flowers which were suspended from the branches of the trees; and two large floral pyramids on either side of the organ and in front of the congregation.

The programme consisted of recitations and singing by the boys and girls of the school, together with short addresses by John C. Shaw, Wm. H. Ayers, Chas. Mc Nabb, Rev. W. W. Jordan, Ranson Lamb, and Supt. W. A. Coddington.

A very interesting part of the service was the baptism of eight children, whom their mothers presented.

The Sunday school had purchased a very handsome pocket-book to present to Mr. Coddington on this day. Mr. Lamb made the presentation, accompanied by a speech apropos of the occasion, to which Mr. Coddington replied. This concluded the exercises.

The Game Laws.

The Legislature of last Winter, among many other foolish transactions, passed a law which does not seem to meet the approbation of sportsmen of the State in all its parts. While the abolishment of Summer woodcock shooting meets with favor by all the sportsmen, the absurd division of the State into game sections is condemned, and will prove inoperative. For instance, the line of the northern game section is drawn along the borders of Somerset and Monmouth, which join. In the former county shooting of grouse, quail, rabbit and squirrel is allowed between the First Day of November and Dec. 15th. (The latter part of the law is good.) In the southern section you must not shoot the above game until after the Fifteenth of November. Only a fence may divide the two counties, but a difference of fifteen days is made in the commencement of legal shooting. Then again the English snipe is not protected in the northern section, but is in the southern section. And again woodcock may be shot in the northern section the last fifteen days of September, but in the southern section only during the last fifteen days of October, and between the fifteenth day of November and the twenty-fifth of December. What a rarity a woodcock will be on the 25th of December! The following is the law in question, procured from the Secretary of State office at Trenton by the New Jersey Game and Fish Protective Society whose headquarters are at Plainfield. Read it all ye sporters, for its provisions will be enforced while it is a law:

Chapter 253, Laws of 1888. State of N. J.

An Act to divide the counties of this State into two sections; to be known as game sections, and to fix the time for shooting certain game birds and animals therein.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the several counties of this State be and the same are hereby divided into two sections, to be known as the northern and southern game sections.

2. And be it enacted, That the northern game section shall comprise the counties of Bergen, Essex, Hudson, Hunterdon, Middlesex, Morris, Passaic, Somerset, Sussex, Union and Warren; in the counties comprising the northern game section, as named in this act, no person shall take, kill, or have in his possession after the same has been killed, any American pheasant or ruffed grouse, quail, gray squirrel or hare, commonly called rabbit, except only between the first day of November and the fifteenth day of December of any year; any woodcock, except only during the last fifteen days of September and the months of October and November of any year; under a penalty of twenty dollars for each and every game bird or animal so unlawfully taken, killed or had in possession.

3. And be it enacted, That the section to be known as the southern game section, shall comprise the counties of Atlantic, Burlington, Camden, Cape May, Cumberland, Gloucester, Mercer, Monmouth, Ocean and Salem; in the counties comprising the southern game section, as named in this act, no person shall take, kill or or have in his possession after the same has been killed, any American pheasant or ruffed grouse, quail, gray squirrel or hare, commonly called rabbit, except only between the fifteenth day of November and the twenty-fifth day of December of any year; any woodcock except only during the last fifteen days of October, and between the fifteenth day of November and the twenty-fifth day of December; any English snipe, except only between the thirty-first day of August and the first day of November of any year; any rail bird or marsh hen, except only during the months of September, October and November of any year, under a penalty of twenty dollars for each and every bird or animal so unlawfully taken, killed or had in possession after the same has been killed.

4. And be it enacted, That all general acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved April 2, 1888.

Concerning Some Hackmen.

EDITOR DAILY PRESS:—I have read with interest your statement that the Mayor proposes to take steps to reduce the number of hacks in our city. That, I think, could be easily done by revoking, for cause, the licenses of several hackmen who assume to own the streets of Plainfield, and charge excessive fares for the transportation of passengers; and who also conduct an express business without being licensed therefor.

One case in point is of a saucy hackman who carried some bundles for a passenger last Summer, and was paid the legal fare, and who has ever since been annoyingly demanding fare for the bundles, which has been refused, because it was an attempt at imposition. If such demand is persisted in, said hackman will have a complaint lodged against him. He claims a certain portion of the city as his territory, and objects to any other hackman doing business therein. Such cheek should be sat down upon.

As to the monopolizing of North avenue in front of the railroad station by the hackmen, comment is unnecessary. It should not be allowed, and the Mayor would be doing simple justice to the public by preventing it, and teaching the hackmen that other people besides themselves have some rights that must be respected.

M.

Praise for a Plainfield Architect.

The new Methodist Episcopal church at Hackettstown, N. J., was formally dedicated on Wednesday. The building, of brick and trimmed with red granite, was erected by Mr. Isaac W. Pangborn of North Plainfield. In speaking of the interior of the new edifice, The Hackettstown Gazette says: "The seats are in amphitheatre style, and it is a credit to the skill of the architect, Mr. Oscar S. Teale, of Plainfield, that there is not one seat in the whole building where the pulpit and the choir are not in full view."

—It is quite evident that Dr. Kimbell, the successful chiropodist, will be very busy during the remainder of his stay in Plainfield. As there are so many people here who wish to avail themselves of the Doctor's services, who have not yet consulted him, on all human and pedal afflictions, they will do well to see him at once, as his stay in Plainfield is drawing to a close.

Children's Cooking Classes.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—The cooking classes in connection with the Kitchen Garden of the W. C. T. U., gave a reception on Saturday afternoon, in the rooms of the Union, 73 West Front street, which was well attended, and the entertainment was a decided success. Shortly after two the little cooks, each clad in a neat white apron and cap, marched to their places. Roll call and distribution of work took but a few minutes, and then it would seem as though all was confusion, by the way pans, kettles, bowls, knives, forks, spoons, eggs, potatoes, onions, sugar, salt, meat, etc., flew about; but the little cooks understood their business, as even the matrons confessed, though they did look through criticising eyes.

The following dishes were prepared, most of which, were, at the close of the lesson, disposed of at the cost of material used:

Potato soup, by Lena Case.
Mock duck, by Lina Sergeant and Etta Yeager.
Potato balls, by Georgie Totten.
Molasses cake, by Lottie Clark and Try Mattox.
Lemon Pudding, by Mattie Cook.
Cocoa pudding, by Minnie Drake.

We thank the few friends kindly who gave their presence and left a two-cent piece, for it put in our treasury, $3.30. This closes the cooking department for the Summer.

The closing entertainment of the Kitchen Garden will occur in about two weeks, which will be equally interesting and attractive.

ONE OF THE MANAGERS.

Sent Up For Thirty Days.

Thos. Dowd, Jr., the young man arrested on the Boulevard on Saturday evening for being implicated in the assault upon Michael Jones on the night of April 28th last, was convicted of disorderly conduct before the City Judge this morning. Dowd's conviction was wholly from his own admissions. He was committed to the County Jail for 30 days.

Accident on the C. R. R.

The second section of a West-bound B. & O. emigrant train ran into the rear of a coal train near the Elizabethport station on the Central Railroad, a little after eight o'clock last evening. No one was injured, but travel over the main line at that point was suspended for some time.

GEN. SHERIDAN IMPROVING.

His Friends and Physicians Encouraged. A Chance That He May Recover.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Gen. Sheridan's attendants think that his condition is more favorable than at any time since last Thursday. Yesterday afternoon Dr. Yarrow left Gen. Sheridan's house, and Dr. O'Reilly was the only one left with the patient. There was no change in the General's condition, and everything seemed quiet and favorable. This is the fifth consecutive day of improvement, and everybody is buoyed up by encouragement and hope. Mrs. Sheridan partakes of the general good feeling, and has rallied considerably during the past few days. The doctors are watching closely for another attack of heart failure, but say that it is possible it may not come for some time. That it will not come at all they do not seem to hope. They do not say the General will recover, but they do say that his condition is very favorable, and that he still has a fighting chance for life. A late bulletin gives his condition:

There is no change to be noted in Gen. Sheridan's condition since 9 p. m. He has coughed occasionally, but without distress. His pulse is good, and his respiration about the same as before. He slept comfortably at times during the night.

The Knights of Pythias at Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, June 12.—The streets are gay here with the red plumes of the Knights of Pythias arriving to take part in the great meeting of this week. Upon arrival they are escorted to the headquarters on Walnut street, where an entire business block is fitted up as a reception and dining hall. After feeding the hungry, they are assigned to permanent quarters for the meeting. The great parade, which is expected to eclipse everything of the kind heretofore seen, is set for Wednesday afternoon. The entire twenty-five foot side walk in front of the Government building, extending from Walnut street to Main, is covered with an immense reviewing stand, from which the Supreme Chancellor and other dignitaries will review the procession.

Types in Convention.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 12.—The thirty-sixth annual convention of the International Typographical Union began its session yesterday at the Board of Trade Hall, William Amison, the International President, presided. Mayor Kumpf made a speech of welcome to the visiting delegates. A welcome was also given by Mr. Kennedy in behalf of the Kansas City Pressmen's Union. After appointing the Committee on Credentials the president declared the session adjourned until afternoon. This is the Committee on Credentials: Delegates Lawler, of Columbus; Colbert, of Chicago; Blake, of Washington; Leighly, of Pittsburgh, and Mehan, of Boston.

Burial of James Freeman Clarke.

BOSTON, June 12.—The funeral of Rev. James Freeman Clark, D. D., took place yesterday afternoon from the Church of the Disciples. The church was filled. Seats in front of the pulpit were reserved for representatives of the Boston Association of Ministers, trustees of the Public Library, Massachusetts Historical Society, Board of Overseers of Harvard and members of the Class of 1829 of Harvard, with which Mr. Clarke graduated. Rev. A. P. Peabody conducted the services. He was assisted by Rev. S. J. May. The interment was in the family lot at Forest Hill Cemetery.

His Accounts $33,000 Short.

WILMINGTON, Del., June 12.—N. L. Lichtenstein, late candidate for President of the City Council, and still more lately $33,000 short in his accounts as treasurer of a building association, has treated Wilmington to another sensation by unexpectedly sailing for Europe on Saturday. He leaves his family behind. Some of his friends say he will come back again, and that the property he has turned over to the association will cover the shortage.

Guilty of Letting Prisoners Escape.

TRENTON, N. J., June 12.—Jail Warden Muirhead, who was indicted for failing to keep certain prisoners in his custody on election day, was tried in the Mercer County Court yesterday and was convicted. The verdict was worded so as to show that the men escaped by reason of the warden's negligence and not through his connivance.

GERMANY'S SICK KAISER

RUMORS ABOUT HIS HEALTH FOUND TO BE GROUNDLESS.

The Cabinet Resignations—Not So Easy to Invade England—Francis Militia. Blaine's Coaching Tour.

POTSDAM, June 12.—Emperor Frederick passed a good night. The difficulty in swallowing which has troubled him for a few days past has not quite entirely disappeared. His appetite is better. Crown Prince William called upon his father at eight o'clock yesterday.

Dr. Mackenzie, in the presence of Drs. Wegener, Krause and Bardeleben, inserted a new silver canula.

The Emperor still experiences difficulty in swallowing. Last evening his condition was slightly improved, but later he became feverish.

The National Zeitung says: "The insertion of the canula in the Emperor's throat causes difficulty because the trachea has become so enlarged that the tube no longer fills it completely, and pus coming from the upper part can thus flowing to the air tubes. To prevent this a rubber ring has been fitted to the canula so as to fill the space between the tube and the wall of the trachea. In order to remedy the dryness of the throat arising from the difficulty in swallowing the Emperor takes frequent sips, day and night, of lukewarm milk and whiskey."

THE CABINET RESIGNATIONS.

Bismarck's Organ Lets Von Puttkamer Down as Easily as Possible.

BERLIN, June 12.—The North German Gazette denies that the Emperor demanded of Herr von Puttkamer explanations of his administration of his office. The imperial rescript, beyond giving notice of the Emperor's assent to the Quinquennial bill, only added that the Emperor assumed that the freedom of electors was carefully guarded by the representatives of the government, in order to avoid anything like pressure upon voters. Herr von Puttkamer's report proved most of the complaints to be groundless; that few cases of corrupt practices had been proved, and that guilty officials were punished. Herr von Puttkamer did not cling to his office. On the contrary, he had intended to resign when the present Emperor came to the throne, but was delayed in effecting his purpose because his colleagues urged him not to resign until the Emperor's health improved.

It is stated that Herr Scholz, Prussian Minister of Finance, has resigned his portfolio.

Prince Bismarck gave a farewell dinner last evening to Herr von Puttkamer. All the Ministers were present.

It is stated that Count Herbert Bismarck will take a furlough early in July.

Not So Easy to Invade England.

LONDON, June 12.—In the House of Commons Lord George Hamilton, First Lord of the Admiralty, said that the calculation made in regard to the number of transports necessary to enable 100,000 men to land in England, and to seize London by surprise, took into consideration only the conditions under which such a feat was possible: that the whole army could disembark simultaneously, and when landed, that it would be capable of rapid movement. The estimate that ships with a gross tonnage of 480,000 would be required for transporting the invading force, he said, was on the assumption that it would be equal to three army corps comprising cavalry and artillery.

Captured After Many Days.

BERLIN, June 12.—A shoemaker named Albert Wettber has been arrested at Crimmitzschau, Saxony, on the charge of having murdered a banker of Watertown, United States, on August 24, 1886. The crime was committed for the purpose of robbery, and the murderer secured $18,000. Wettber has since been in various parts of Germany. An anonymous letter to the authorities, stating that Wettber was the criminal, led to the arrest.

Resignation of the Spanish Cabinet.

MADRID, June 12.—The Cabinet has resigned after accepting the resignation of Gen. Martinez Campos, Governor General of the province of New Castile, tendered some ago. This will enable Senor Sagasta, the Prime Minister of the retiring Cabinet, to form a new Liberal Government.

The Suit Against the London Times.

LONDON, June 12.—Mr. Frank Hugh O'Donnell, who brings suit against the Times for libel, has subpœnaed Earl Spencer and George O. Trevelyn, respectively, former Lord Lieutenant and Chief Secretary of Ireland, to appear as witnesses in the trial.

France's Militia.

PARIS, June 12.—At the sitting of the Council-General of the Seine M. Vaillant gave notice that he would introduce a resolution in favor of the organization of the people into a national standing army, with the object of counteracting the efforts of the monarchial coalition.

Locusts Overwhelming Algeria.

ALGIERS, June 12.—The locusts are advancing in a compact mass over twelve miles long by six in breadth. A panic prevails in the province of Constantine. The valley of Guelma has been devastated by the locusts.

A Duel with Swords.

PARIS, June 12.—A duel took place yesterday between Paul Deroulde and Mr. Arene, member of the Chamber of Deputies for the Department of the Corse. The weapons used were swords. M. Arene was wounded.

Blaine's Coaching Tour.

LONDON, June 12.—Mr. Carnegie and Mr. Blaine have arrived at Grantham. So far their tour has been an enjoyable one.

Van Camp and the Money are Missing.

ROCHESTER, June 12.—Ex-Sheriff Benjamin F. Van Camp, of Carlton, Orleans, who had been cited to appear before Surrogate Signor yesterday to account for moneys received as executor of the Amos Kelley estate, which amounts to $10,000, did not appear in court. He is the executor of several other unsettled estates, and it is supposed that he has decamped, leaving an indebtedness of between $20,000 and $25,000. Warrants of attachment have been obtained by several creditors and others are being granted. Van Camp is an old resident of Carlton. Previous to this his honesty and integrity have never been questioned.

General Putnam's Monument.

BROOKLYN, Conn., June 12.—The monument to the memory of Major-General Putnam, a gift of the State, will be unveiled and dedicated here on Thursday night. The monument consists of a life-size equestrian statue of the General on a substantial base fifteen feet in height.

Goody Two Shoes.

I Carried home two tiny pairs of shoes—
A pair of "ones," the other number "two's;"
The pretty smaller ones for pretty Kate,
The scarcely larger for her sister Mate.

A gush of thank-yous filled my willing ear—
Some fraction of the same
no doubt sincere;
Then came swift terrors of the home-made pun,
The more they tortured
me the more the fun!

Here follow samples of their style of thing:—
"Both girls and shoes you've got upon a string."
"My aces beat your bigger deuces," and
"Let's hold them, thus, to keep new shoes on hand."
Then, turning me-ward, "It is shoe I love."
"So-leather's not all other things above."
"Our understanding's by a-dress revealed.
"Keep tak-in-steps that prove how well you're heeled.
More wretched puns on "sole" succeeding fast;
I had to stand a dose of "awl" and "last."
The aggravation was that, they believed
Such drivel worthy to be well received.
Nay, more! they really thought it "awful smart,"
And lack of encore sorely took to heart.
At last, by strategy, I spiked their gun
And charged the enemy upon the run.
I seized Kate's shoes, and with a feigned surprise
Exclaimed, "Why! these are not of equal size!"
Said Kate, "There! Just my luck! Oh, cruel fates!
"Explain." "They're odd because they are Mate's."

—John Albro, in Judge.

HORSEBACK-RIDING.

HOW THE FAIR SEX SIT THE SADDLE.

The Etiquette of the Art Fully Explained by a Competent Writer—Dress Regulations.

Horseback-riding is becoming more than ever popular among women. Possibly Amelia Rives is to some extent responsible for this. Her heroines spend most of their time riding thorough-breds through rain-storms, beating refractory dogs over the head, or rescuing their lovers' favorite coursers from burning barns.

Riding is not for a woman as simple a matter as it is for a man. It is more conventional, unnatural, and difficult.

First as to dress. "Good form" demands that it should be simple and entirely without ornament. The habit itself must be quite dark, or even black, perfectly plain in the waist, with black buttons up to the neck, with a scant, short skirt only just long enough to cover the feet. The cuffs and collars must be of plain linen, no color or flutter of ribbon being anywhere permissible. The handkerchief must not be thrust in the breast, but kept in the saddle-pocket, and if a veil is worn it must be short and black. The hair should be put up securely so that it will not shake down. If there is a pretense of dressing, the regulation silk "cylinder" hat should be worn, which, by-the-by, looks better rather low in the crown. No petticoats should be worn, but merino drawers and easy trousers of the same material fastened over the instep with straps. Corsets should be worn loose. Easy gloves and shoes are suggested, and as to the relative merits of crop and whip, the individual is left to her choice.

A lady's mount must be immaculate from ear to hoof, in coat and mane and entire equipment. It is in a great degree their exquisite neatness that gives such an air of style not only to English horsewomen, but to English turnouts of all kinds, which, nevertheless, have not usually the "spick-and-span-new" look of fashionable American equipages. On coming out, therefore, prepared for a ride, take time to look your horse over swiftly, but keenly, noting first that his eye and general appearance indicate good health and spirits; secondly, that he has been thoroughly groomed, his mane freed from dandruff, his hoofs washed but not blacked; thirdly, that the saddle and bridle are perfectly cleaned and properly put on. Every buckle should have been undone and cleansed, the leather suppled, and the bright metal polished; the girths, three in number—never fewer than two—should be snug, but not tight enough to impede free breathing; the bits in their proper place, that is to say, the snaffle just high enough up not to wrinkle the corners of the mouth, and the curb considerably lower, with its chain, which should pass below the snaffle, lying flat and smooth against the skin in the chin groove; finally, the throat-latch loose.

In mounting ease and grace count for much. When the horse is brought to the door, let the groom stand directly in front of him, holding the bridle, not by the reins, but with both hands by each cheek just above the bit. Stand a moment and look your animal over, give your orders quietly, and pat his neck a moment, speaking pleasantly, so that he may get accustomed to your voice. Now, standing a few inches from the saddle, facing the same way as the horse, and with your left shoulder slightly thrown back, place the right hand on the second pommel, holding in it the whip, and the reins drawn just tight enough to give a feeling of the bit. Your attendant will stand facing you, and as close as convenient, and will now stoop forward, with hands clasped and with his right forearm firmly supported on his right thigh. Now, with your left hand lift your riding-skirt in front and place your left foot in his hands. Let go the skirt, rest your left hand on his shoulder, and give him the cue by bending the right knee, spring up erect on the left foot, and, seating yourself sideways on the saddle, place the right knee over the horn.

If your attendant is unused to rendering such service, you had better make your first essays in some secluded place, in which you can instruct him where to stand, just how high to lift your foot, and caution him to put forth strength enough to support you steadily without lifting too violently. Do not be deterred by awkwardness on his part or on your own from learning to mount from the ground, for the more awkward the better practice for you. Your attendant will now lift your skirt above the knee, so that it will hang properly without dragging, and then, disengaging the stirrup from beneath the skirt, will place your left foot in it.

Too much care cannot be taken with the position in the saddle, which should be exactly as shown in the accompanying cut. The left leg should invariably hang perpendicularly from the knee, with the heel depressed, and with the foot parallel with the horse's side. The length of the stirrup-strap should be such that the knee thus is out of contact with the hunting-horn, but near enough to be brought firmly up against it by raising the heel. The right knee should rest easily but snugly over the pommel, so as to grasp it in case the horse springs. Neither foot should be allowed to sway about nor project so as to be seen awkwardly poking out of the skirt. If your clothing does not feel quite comfortable rise in your stirrup and shake it down, resting your hand, if necessary, on your attendant's shoulder, for it will be awkward should it become disarranged on the road. Now put your handkerchief in the saddle pocket, take the reins in the left hand, or in both hands if you prefer, and start the horse with a touch of the heel. It is bad form to start him with a cut of the whip.

A question much discussed and disputed in this country is this: On which side of her escort should a lady ride? In England, the universal habit of turning to the left places the lady on the left, but here we turn to the right, and so the lady should be on the right. Why should not some independent American ladies set the fashion of sitting on the right side. The Princess of Wales, always does so for some special reasons, and the Empress of Austria, one of the boldest and most graceful riders, as well as one of the most beautiful women in Europe, has saddles made both ways, using them alternately. The same plan is adopted by noble ladies of England, who hunt regularly in the season. However, accepting the present feminine seat as a thing not to be changed, the advantages in this country of riding on the one hand of the escort or on the other are so equally divided that the balance may incline to either side, and a lady is always free to do about it as she pleases without exciting remark.

A Desperate Situation.

Stranger (soothingly)—Good doggy; nice doggy! Say, friend, call him off, will you?

Owner (calmly)—Can't do it. He's deaf as a post. Wait till he gets hold of you, and then turn 'round and I'll try to ketch his eye. He minds by sight.—Judge.

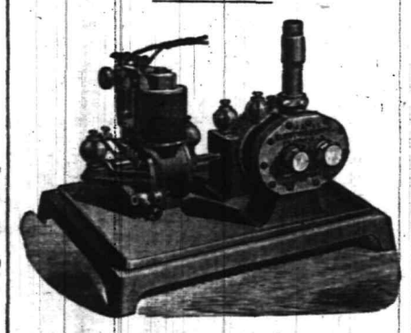
DOMESTIC WATER SUPPLY.

Water for Lawns and Gardens.



The citizens of Plainfield are respectfully invited to call at the drug store of Messrs. Field & Randolph, on West Front street, between the hours of 5 P. M. and 10 P. M., and see the working of the HALL ELECTRIC PUMP, an ingenious combination of an Electric Motor, a Rotary Pump and an Electric Switch attached to an ordinary House tank, whereby any residence in Plainfield may be furnished with a constant and abundant supply of water for all Domestic purposes; for sprinkling lawns and gardens, and for use in stables and carriage house without giving the subject any more attention than is required by a complete gravity system of water works. The Electric Pump is Automatic, Safe, Reliable, Compact, Clean, Economical, Simple, Noiseless. No Ashes! No Coal Dust! No Smoke! No Fire! No Gases! No Heating of the Atmosphere! No Valves to get out of Order! No attendance required! No Danger to Life! No Explosions!!!

It is always ready!

The Hall Electric Pump Company specially invites the most searching examination into the mechanism of the Electric Pump, and invites the criticism of experts upon the efficiency and reliability thereof. The Pump has already been in actual every day use for many months, and as its need in this city is well understood, so it is hoped that the citizens will be sufficiently interested to call and see it at work. Its use will reduce the size and weight of House Tanks very materially. It provides a constant supply of fresh water, without the labor of hand-power or any personal attention other than a fortnightly supply of oil. It is so free from danger to life that the youngest child may receive all the Electricity passing through it, without even feeling it.

The Hall Electric Pump Company is incorporated under the laws of the State of New Jersey and is made up of Plainfield citizens. It proposes to sell Electric Pumps and the power to run them to the citizens of Plainfield, and its aim is to deal with its patrons on the most liberal and accommodating terms that are consistent with resonable business prudence.

MRS. SHERIDAN DEAD

THE SICK GENERAL LOSES HIS MOTHER.

Old Age, the Cause as Much as Anything, of Her Death--General Sheridan's Condition Unchanged.

MRS. SHERIDAN.

SOMERSET, Ohio, June 13.—Mrs. Sheridan, mother of Gen. Philip H. Sheridan, died here yesterday afternoon, at the age of eighty-seven years and two months.

Mrs. Sheridan's death was due as much to extreme old age as to a slight cold contracted last week. She had been bedridden for only one week, and in the morning it was thought she was decidedly better, until toward noon, when a change for the worse set in. She retained all her faculties, except that of speech, to the last.

Mrs. Sheridan was born in Ireland in 1801, her maiden name being Mary Moinah. She was marriage to John Sheridan at an early age and came with him and their one child to the United States in 1829. After two years' residence in Albany, N. Y., they came to Somerset, where Mrs. Sheridan's home has been ever since. Her husband died in February, 1873; Patrick, the oldest son, in 1849; and Mary, the only daughter, in 1867 or 1868. But three of the family are now alive—General Sheridan, Col. Michael D. Sheridan, aide on the General's staff, and Col. John L. Sheridan, of Indian Territory, who was with his mother at her death.

Mrs. Sheridan's funeral will take place at Somerset. She was never informed of her son's critical illness and her illness had been just as seduously concealed from the General. Col. Michael Sheridan has telegraphed that it will be impossible for him to attend the funeral on account of the General's grave condition.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—General Sheridan's wonderful improvement continues. His coughing spells are still frequent and annoying, and he breathes with some difficulty, otherwise his condition is greatly improved. The doctors now have hope, and they say that if his power to assimilate the small amount of liquid food given him continues to increase so that he can eat solids he will have some chance of recovery. They do not talk in as hopeful a strain as Col. Sheridan does, however, and it is not likely that they believe at heart that General Sheridan well ever be a well man again.

The friends of the sick man are surprised at his changed condition, but they are constantly on the watch for a return of the heart trouble, and do not appear to be sanguine that the General will get well.

A late bulletin is as follows:

There is no change to be observed in Gen. Sheridan's condition. It continues to be substantially the same. His pulse is 104 to 108, of fair volume and tension. He coughs but little and his respiration remains irregular. He takes plenty of nourishment without any indications of failure of digestion or assimilation.

SLAIN BY HIS SON.

A Drunken Father's Murderous Attack on His Wife Causes a Parricide.

BALTIMORE, June 13.—Peter Alt, proprietor of the Arlington House, near the Pimlico race track, was shot and almost instantly killed by his son William, aged fifteen years. Alt's wife says the shooting was done in her defence.

Her husband had been on a spree for some time. He came into the house and, after breaking a heavy cup and saucer on her head, began to call her hard names and to beat her. She struggled with him and both fell on the floor.

He got a hold on her throat and she thought that he meant to kill her. She was almost insensible when she heard the report of a gun. Her husband's grip on her throat relaxed and he fell over on the floor. Young Alt, who is a bright looking boy was arrested and locked up, after an affectionate parting with his mother.

The Birds Had Flown.

CINCINNATI, June 13.—Chief Gill has received a depatch from Lieut. Schmid at Delhi, saying that the "Big Four" desperadoes had been located in an empty house on the Muddy Creek about a mile from where the train robbery took place. A patrol wagon and twelve men left immediately for the place, and under the direction of Chief Gill surrounded the house. At daylight an advance was made on the building, but it was found to be empty. Two more arrests were made late last evening in connection with the robbery at Chevoit, a small village near Delhi. They were brought to this city and locked up. They registered as William Schmid, of Columbus, Ohio, and William Coates, of Richmond, Ind.

Six Persons Burned to Death.

NEW YORK, June 13.—At 12:45 o'clock this morning, Officer Burkhardt, of the Fourteenth precinct, discovered a fire in the four story tenement house No. 45 Second street. He saw the smoke coming out of the basement. He and another officer went through the building to awaken the tenants. The alarm was sent out, but before the firemen arrived the flames broke out through the roof. Many of the terrified inmates were rescued by the firemen by the ladder. Six persons are said to have been burned to death.

MAINE REPUBLICANS.

The State Convention Nominates Mr. Burleigh for Governor.

PORTLAND, Me., June 13.—The Republican State Convention was considerably the largest held here for years, and delegations came attended by bands of music, and the whole city was given over to the political question of the day. The convention hall was more than packed, fully 3,000 persons being present. Chairman Manley called the convention to order, and after prayer the Hon. Andrew P. Wiswell, of Ellsworth, the temporary chairman, delivered his address.

The temporary organization was made permanent, R. S. Partridge nominated Gov. Marble for re-election. The Hon. J. W. Symonds of Portland in an eloquent speech presented the name of Henry B. Cleaves. He devoted part of his speech to argument against nominating State Treasurer Burleigh for Governor on the ground that was unconstitutional. R. D. Powers presented the name of Burleigh. The convention then proceeded to ballot, having 775 votes. On motion of George D. Bishop, in behalf of Gov. Marble, seconded by the Hon. J. H. Drummond in behalf of Cleaves, the nomination was made unanimous.

In the platform which was adopted the following passages occur:

That free trade, as taught by the British Cobden Club and supported by Grover Cleveland and the Democratic party, is hostile to the industrial and business interests of the United States, and that the Mills tariff bill should be opposed by all honorable and effective influences which friends of American labor can exert both in Congress and among the people.

"That it is the duty of Congress to reduce the national revenue to an amount which shall equal as nearly as possible the annual expenditures of the government, including therein a liberal provision for our veteran soldiers and the proper means of national defence, and that this should be done in a way not to impair our Republican protective system, which has proved of inestimable value to American labor and our home markets.

"That the Republicans of Maine send greeting to the Republicans of Oregon and rejoice with them in the splendid victory they have just won over the supporters of Grover Cleveland, and for the cause of American labor and the principles of sound government.

"That this convention sends across the sea words of good cheer to Hon. J. G. Blaine, and expresses the ernest hope that he will soon return to this country to give the weight of his name and the force of his influence in aid of the Republican cause in the pending campaign.

LIKED TO SEE BIG FIRES.

Startling Confession from a Youthful Firebug in Buffalo.

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 13.—Andrew Howard, a fourteen-year old boy, living with his parents at Black Rock, is under arrest charged with firing the Barnes, Hengerer & Co. building on Feb. 1. last.

He made a full confession to the officers, telling them the startling story of how he fired the store.

On Saturday last Howard bought a watch at the jewelry counter of the firm, and desired to have it charged. He tore up the charge check and pocketed the watch.

The act was traced to him, and when charged with the theft he confessed, and also admitted having fired the store.

"I like to see big fires, if no one is hurt," he said.

He was accounted one of the best boys in the firms employ, and was among the first aids taken into the new store.

Vermont Prohibition Convention.

MONTPELIER, June 13.—There were fifty-nine persons in Capitol Hall when the Prohibition State Convention was called to order by Clinton Smith yesterday. W. L. Pearl of St. Johnsbury was Chairman. The following ticket for State officers was nominated: Governor, Henry M. Seeley, Middlebury; Lieutenant-Governor, George E. Crowell, Brattleboro; Secretary of State, Archibald O. Ferguson, Burlington; Auditor, C. S. Parker, Elmore; Treasurer, A. B. Bixby, Poultney. Congressmen—First district Peter Dakin, Ferrisburgh; Second district C. W. Wyman, Brattleboro. Resolutions were adopted favoring equal suffrage of women and calling for the abolition of the internal revenue system.

Humane Society Agent Assaulted.

PHILADELPHIA, June 13.—Herbert T. Currier, an agent for the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, was badly beaten by two cart drivers while attempting to arrest one of them, who had refused to obey an order of the agent about driving his horse too rapidly. Another driver came up, and they beat Currier over the head with a shovel, and then escaped on their carts. Currier was taken to his home, and is in a critical condition, his skull having been fractured. Joseph Black and Michael Morrisey were arrested last night, charged with being his assailants.

Rev. Mr. Widdemer Guilty on One Charge.

PHILADELPHIA, June 13.—A decision has been rendred by the five judges composing the ecclesiastical court which tried the charges against the Rev. Howard T. Widdemer, of the Church of the Beloved Disciple. They found him guilty on the specification in the first charge, of having deceived Bishop Stevens as to the other charges they acquit him. The case will go to the Bishop. Two members of the court recommend suspension, one recommends deposition from the ministry, and the other two recommend no sentence whatever.

Shot by a Masked Robber.

LYONS, N. Y., June 13.—Jacob Brock, the well known brewer of this village, going home, near midnight, when he was accosted by a masked man with a levelled revolver, and told to halt and deliver his money. Brock made some reply and made a move to draw a pistol when the robber fired, the ball taking effect in Mr. Brock's wrist, passing through it without breaking any bones. There is no clue to the would be robber.

Seventeen-year Locusts Again.

CHICAGO, June 13.—Dispatches from points in Northern Iowa and Western Illinois report the appearance of swarms of seventeen-year locusts. Prof. C. V. Riley, United States Entomologist, when asked about the locusts, said that a well-known brood occurs this year and this periodical visitor may be looked for in wooded portions of Illinois and Iowa and also in parts of Wisconsin, Michigan and Pennsylvania.

BY THE WAY.

—Oh! for a Y. M. C. A. building.

—Unity Lodge No. 102, K. of P. will entertain a delegation from an Elizabethport lodge, this evening.

—Colored fire for political or pyrotechnical purposes, is furnished by Mr. Mattox, of 51 Park avenue, and warranted to go slow.

—The members of the Singing Section of the Gesang and Turn Verein Society, held a rehearsal in their hall on East Second street, last evening.

—A stage load of men, said to have come from New Brunswick, drove about Plainfield on Sunday with a keg of lager beer on tap in the vehicle.

—The Rodman Seminary will close its school year on Friday and the scholars will be given a picnic on the 19th instant. The exact location has not yet been decided upon.

—The Junior O. U. A. M. nine of Plainfield will play the Junior O. U. A. M. nine of Rahway on Fourth of July at 10 A. M., at the latter place, on the Base Ball Association grounds.

—An evening sociable will be given in the chapel of the First Presbyterian church, on Friday evening, under the auspices of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor.

—The statement that the class of this year is the largest ever graduated from Plainfield High school, is incorrect. The class of '78 numbered 20, and there were 19 in the class of '77.

—The first of the season, and very fine ones, too, are the watermelons offered by J. B. Hatfield, 18 Park avenue. THE PRESS office tried one today, and the entire staff is full of good opinion as well as fruit.

—Machinery for the establishment of a new brick making kiln was received at Dunellen, today. The works will be in charge of Superintendent Brown, for many years acting in a similar capacity at Somerville.

—Children's Day was observed in the M. E. church on Sunday. In the morning Bev. Dr. VanMeter preached a sermon bearing on the training of children, and in the afternoon Rev. Dr. Hurlbut delivered an address before the Sunday school.

—All the scholars and all the teachers of the Crescent Avenue Sunday school are invited to be present at Superintendent H. B. Newhall's residence, next Saturday afternoon from 4 to 7 o'clock. They will be warmly welcomed and most hospitably entertained.

—It is a pity that a sufficient amount of money is not contributed by the lot owners in the Presbyterian Cemetery in North Plainfield, to complete the work of spreading crushed stone on the walks. The work was abandoned some time ago for lack of funds.

—The first section of the extra 300 incandescent lamps, which Messrs. Tidman and Jones are putting into the Pond Tool Works, was lighted for the first time on Monday evening, and gave general good satisfaction. There is now at the works an incandescent lamp over each lathe.

—At the regular encampment of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., held in the post room last evening, two new members were mustered in. The Memorial Day detail also submitted a report, showing that the total receipts for Memorial Day purposes, exceeded the expenditures by about $100.

—Mr. Ira Vail of Chatham street, North Plainfield, complained before Justice Austin of the Borough yesterday that dog-catcher Wyckoff, had enticed his black-in-tan dog from his dooryard, early in the morning, and taken the animal to the pound. The Justice issued a summons for the accused to appear for a hearing.

—Chief T. O. Doane, and Messrs. A. Saltzman and Alex. Titsworth were appointed a committee of three at the meeting of the Exempt Firemen's Association, on Monday evening, to confer with State Counsel Wicks of Newark, with reference to the exemption of firemen from taxation. The committee will make a report on Monday evening next.

—In the divorce case of Kemarer vs. Kemarer, in which testimony was taken before Special Master in Chancery, John H. Jackson, who filed a report in favor of the petitioner and that a decree of divorce should be granted, the Chancellor on Monday confirmed the report and a decree of divorce was granted accordingly. Hon. John Ulrich was solicitor for the petitioner.

THE SEMINARY CONCERT.

Admirable Vocal and Instrumental Music by Mr. Venino's Pupils.

The 19th Annual Commencement Concert took place at the Plainfield Seminary, last evening, followed by the usual soiree with dancing, afterwards. The Seminary assembly room was crowded during the programme of the early evening, with a select audience of the wealth and fashion of the city and borough. Later the chairs were removed and the room was filled with a whirling coterie of the youth and beauty of several places.

Between the concert and the dancing, all eagerly pressed into the salon to offer Miss Kenyon deserved and sincere congratulation upon the close of a Seminary year of even amplified success. Mr. John W. Stimpson assisted Miss Kenyon in her warm reception of her guests, and added just the artistic word of welcome or witticism that was needed occasionally to break the ice.

The concert was rendered according to the following programme as announced in THE PRESS of last Saturday.

Danse Macabre, (Midnight Dance of Death) ..... St. Saens.
Misses Holmes, Maxon, Dumont, Hart.

Fairy Dance, Duet ..... Jensen.
Miss N. Whiton and Mr. A. Venino.

Selection, From "Il Giuramento" ..... Mercadante.
Miss A. Holmes.

a. Arabesques, b. Novelette, ... Schumann.
Miss E. Rollins.

Sonata, Op. 2. No. 3. Part I. ..... Beethoven.
Miss M. Potter.

Capriccio Brillant ..... Mendelssohn.
Miss Holmes. 2d Piano, Mr. A. Venino.

Ballad, G minor ..... Chopin.
Miss E. Sanford.

"When the Heart is Young," ..... Dudley Buck.
Miss Holmes.

Valse Brillant ..... Moszkowski.
Misses Holmes, Maxon, Dumont, Hart.

It is but just to say that no recital of amateur talent in this city, has ever before shown such finish in all who took part. Mr. Venino, the teacher of music at the Seminary, directed the concert, and selected the numbers to best suit the ability and skill of the few of his pupils who were the performers. Consequently all showed to their best advantage—a credit alike to scholar and tutor.

The instrumental solos of Miss Rollins and Miss Potter, were admirably rendered. Miss Sandford betrayed some nervousness, but her effort was, as always, much appreciated. Miss Holmes had a difficult composition, to which Mr. Venino played a part arranged for orchestral accompaniment. This lady's improvement in the past few months, was very visible. Miss Whiton, in a duet with her teacher, impressed all as a young musician of promise. The eight-hand pieces were rendered with remarkably few errors.

The vocal selections of Miss Holmes were each so different that both could not be equally suited to her voice or style. Admiration for both, however, called forth applause for each, and she was compelled to repeat "When the Heart is Young," for the audience refused to be comforted with the bow with which she at first replied to an enthusiastic recall. It was the only encore of the evening.

"Beaty" Baldwin Wins His Case.

Some time ago Mr. Wm. A. Baldwin placed in the hands of Robert L. Pierce, a constable, residing at Piscataway township, a note for $55 against a person residing at New Brunswick. The amount due on the note was collected part in cash and part in a note of a third party. The defendant Pierce did not pay it over to Mr. Baldwin but claimed he had a right to offset it by a note of Baldwin due another party, which note he had also in his hands for collection. Mr. Baldwin's Counsel Mr. W. R. Codington of the firm of Jackson & Codington, claimed that Pierce as Baldwin's agent, had no authority in law to such an offset. The case was tried before Justice Cole at Dunellen, and judgment was rendered in favor of the plaintiff, Baldwin, for the full amount claimed. From this the defendant appealed to the Court of Common Pleas at New Brunswick. The appeal was tried yesterday, and Judge Cowenhoven sustained Mr. Codington in the position taken by him. Counsellor Cook of New Brunswick, represented the defendant.

She Applied the "Cold Steel."

An amusing incident is told in connection with a female employed as a domestic by a family on Putnam avenue. It appears that the girl recently suffered from toothache, and although she tried almost every known remedy, she failed to get any relief.

One morning, a few days ago, the groceryman called at the house while making his usual tour for orders. The girl asked him if he knew of any cure for the toothache, and the latter replied that about the most effective remedy was to apply a piece of cold steel—meaning, of course, a pair of dentist's forceps. The girl did not understand it in that light, however, for she secured an oyster-knife, which she rubbed on her gums until they were sore and bleeding. This process she continued for several days and finally was obliged to have a dentist extract the tooth. Now the girl and the groceryman "never speak as they pass by."

Runaway and Upset.

On Sunday morning, Mr. Edward Adams the Park avenue paint dealer, in company with his clerk, Minor Smith, was seated in a buggy driving along Park avenue. Near the race course, one of the bolts holding the shafts in position came out, allowing the shafts to fall. This frightened the horse, and he ran away. Both Mr. Adams and his companion were thrown out, but neither of them was seriously injured. The horse was subsequently captured on the outskirts of the city.

THE COLORED BAPTIST'S CONVENTION.

Thirteenth Annual Meeting Opens in Mt. Olive Baptist Church To-Night.

The thirteenth annual meeting of the New England Baptist Missionary Convention, which comprises the colored Baptist churches of the New England and Middle Atlantic States, convened in this city today. The convention is composed of delegates from regular Baptist churches, and from Auxiliary Societies, about 75 of whom are in attendance.

Rev. J. W. Mitchell, pastor of Mt. Olive Baptist church in this city, and a member of the Committee of Arrangements, has made all the necessary plans for the entertainment of the delegates. The convention opened with a meeting of the Executive Board at eleven o'clock A. M., followed by the election of officers this afternoon. The session will continue until Monday evening next, closing with a festival and a grand collation for the delegates.

The convention will meet daily in Mt. Olive Baptist church, except on Sunday. On that day, the afternoon and evening sessions will be held in the Seventh Day Baptist church. The programme in full is as follows:

Wednesday evening—Introductory Sermon, Rev. D. W. Wisher, New York City; Alternate, Rev. W. R. Burrill, Chester, Pa.

Thursday evening—Missionary Sermon, Rev. Rev. W. T. Dixon, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Alternate, Rev. J. H. Carter. Boston, Mass.

Friday evening—Paper. Subject, "Our Want of Unity in Church Work as a Denomination." Rev. H. Johnson, Baltimore, Md.; Alternate, Rev. W. B. Davis, Orange, N. J.

Sunday, 10:30 A. M.—Sermon, Rev. W. L. Francis, Stonington, Conn.; Alternate, Rev. P. Smith, Boston, Mass.

Sunday, 3:00 P. M.—Sermon, Rev. T. Doughty Miller, D. D., Philadelphia, Pa.; Alternate, Rev. E. N. Smith, Springfield, Mass.

Sunday, 8:00 P. M.—Sermon, Rev. W.P. Dennis, Philadelphia, Pa.; Alternate, J. A. Brockett, Jersey City, N. J.

Monday evening—Paper. Subject, "Proper Methods of Sunday School Teaching," Rev. R. L. Perry, Ph. D., New York City: Alternate, Rev. H. W. Jeter, Providence, R. I.

Police Protection on the Boulevard.

The respectable residents on and in the vicinity of the Boulevard, are clamoring for police protection. They claim that as tax-payers, they are entitled to at least peace and safety. Brawls and fights, particularly on Saturday nights, are becoming alarmingly numerous on West Third street, and the citizens are just in their demand for protection.

Chief Carey and his handful of capable and efficient officers can not be expected to preserve good order in the heart of the city, and also on the outskirts at the same time. What is needed is an extra man stationed in the above named locality.

Strawberry and Iced Cream Festival.

The strawberry and iced cream festival of the Ladies Aid Society of the M. E. church, held in Vincent chapel, last evening, was a grand success, both financially and socially, and the ladies will realize quite a sum as a result. The beautiful chapel was handsomely decorated with flags, choice plants and cut flowers, and a string orchestra enlivened the occasion by discoursing popular airs. In the centre of the room there was a flower booth, and in other parts of the chapel tables were distributed for the sale of lemonade, cake and iced cream. On the whole the festival was an enjoyable affair.

Wedding Bells.

At the residence of the bride in Washingtonville, at three o'clock yesterday afternoon, Miss Hattie E. Spencer was united in marriage to Mr. George W. Demler. Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes, pastor of the First Baptist church, performed the ceremony in the presence of about thirty-five of the relatives and near friends of the bride and groom. The presents were of a superior quality. The usual wedding feast followed the marriage, after which the newly-wedded couple took passage on an evening train to spend their honeymoon in Philadelphia.

"The Irish Peasantry."

This evening at Reform Hall, Rev. Father Flood, who has been acting in the capacity of assistant priest at St. Mary's church, this city, for some time past, and who will shortly return to Ireland, will deliver his lecture on "The Irish Peasantry." The object of the above lecture is to raise funds for the maintenance of an orphan asylum in Ireland. The cause is a just one and deserves a crowded house, and those attending will be assured of a pleasing and instructive address by the reverend gentleman, on a subject probably never before heard in Plainfield.

One of the Boys.

Everybody knows genial Dan Cory of Warrenville, for so many years Director of the Somerset County Board of Freeholders. He is the great grandfather of Daniel Cory Adams, Jr., of North Plainfield, yet he is as strong and sturdy as an oak, and has not an ache nor a pain.

A friend called at Mr. Cory's home, yesterday, and found him trimming a hickory tree that measured three feet through, which he had just cut—one week before his eightieth birthday. Who can trot out a boy to beat that?

—Much of the corn in this vicinity is just beginning to sprout through the ground. The backward season is accounted for by reason of the wet weather during the month of May.

—A borough official and a teamster, are reported to have got into a fight on Somerset street, last evening, and Marshal Coddington gathered them both in. They will appear before his Honor, Mayor Cooley, this evening for a hearing.

POISON IN OUR DRINK.

Not Alcohol—which one may avoid—but BRASS AND LEAD which one takes unsuspectingly. "How—When—Where?" Well, say, in a glass of Soda. Pity the most popular and wholesome of all artificial drinks—which Soda honestly is—should ever deserve a touch of suspicion. but

is that in some Soda Fountains economy and mechanical facility are studied to the neglect of the weightier matter of purity. Some men are too "smart;" some Soda Fountains are too "ingenious."

We have recently had made a Fountain which secures Absolute Purity for the beverages. Rather pretty, too, we think. We selected the "Matthews' make" because it is the only fount in which the syrups have positively no metallic contact, being discharged direct from glass jars into the tumblers—no tubes; while the waters are contained in and flow through solid block tin,

PURE AS CRYSTAL, COLD AS CHARITY.

We make our own syrups—from REAL FRUIT JUICES, or from chocolate or coffee, etc., as the case may be; no nonsense of essences or make believe.

New drinks? Yes, some of our own contriving. "Winks?" Not a wink; not licensed for winks, and we have an opinion of druggists who take a wink.

Come and try the new Fountain; if you like your drink we'll thank you for saying so, and you'll pay us five cents and come again—it will do you good; only don't come Sundays; no use—Fountain WON'T WORK.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

The family of Mr. F. B. Hawley of Crescent avenue, will Summer at Asbury Park.

Councilman H. C. Squires and family of Broadway will leave the city on Friday for their usual Summer vacation.

Miss McClure of Broadway is visiting at Perth Amboy, after which she will spend a few days with friends at Ocean Grove.

Mr. Frederick Moore, formerly of this city, is confined to his father's house in Dunellen, with an attack of inflammation of the bowels.

Mr. William H. Brower and son, sail from New York, Saturday morning, on the Inman line steamer, City of Berlin, for Europe. They will be absent some weeks.

The Hon. Robert L. Livingston is back from his late Adirondack trip, during which he entertained the Duke of Marlborough, and other swells, as told in these columns at the time.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller, who recently arrived in this country from England, have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Patton of Ninth street. On Monday they left for Halifax to spend the Summer.

Mr. J. W. Murray and Miss Murray will go to Chicago, Friday, and the latter will extend her visit among friends in the West until she joins the rest of her family at Luzerne, N. Y., for the Summer.

The younger Misses VanZandt are at Ocean Grove with their mother. Mrs. VanZandt owns and occupies each Summer one of the handsomest and most pleasantly located cottages at that resort.

Mrs. Sarah Latimer, of East Front street, yesterday paid $10,000 in cash to Mr. Wm. H. Shotwell, treasurer of the First Presbyterian church, as her contribution toward the erection of a new church building.

Rev. W. D. McClintock preached in the Congregational church on Sunday morning. On the evening of that day the Rev. Mr. McClintock started for his home in Kentucky to join his wife, who had previously gone there.

City Clerk Oliver B. Leonard will address the Reform Hall meeting on Sunday evening, on the secret history of the rum traffic in Plainfield. Mr. Leonard will produce some interesting statistics for the moderate and excessive drinker to digest.

Editor Blake of Town Topics, the New York society paper, spent Sunday at the Park House. Mr. Blake married the sister of Mrs. Councilman Watson and came to Plainfield to subdue his loneliness during Mrs. Blake's absence on a visit with friends in St. Louis.

Messrs David W. Rogers and Eugene V. Lorton of this city, started on Sunday for Cincinnati, to attend the biennial meeting of the Supreme Lodge of the World, Knights of Pythias, which is in session there this week. The Uniformed Ranks of Jersey City, Newark and Trenton have gone in a body. They will return on Sunday.

At the residence of the bride's parents on Grandview avenue, North Plainfield, yesterday, Rev. Cornelius Schenck united in marriage Miss Annie Bodine of the borough and Mr. Edwin Gibson Smith of New York city. The wedding was strictly private. The bride and groom left on the 3:51 P.M. train to take up their permanent residence in Harlem.

Cards are out announcing the marriage of Miss Cora Edna Van Nuise, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Van Nuise, formerly of this city, but now of Savannah, Ga., to Mr. Frank H. Thompson. The ceremony will take place at the New Houston street church, Savannah, on Wednesday, June 27th, at 8 P. M. A reception will follow from 8:30 to 10 o'clock.

The ability of THE PRESS to announce the nomination of Allen Thurman, the "Gladstone of America," within a few hours of its happening and a day before any other paper in the vicinity, was because of the thoughtfulness and courtesy of Mr. Charles Wann, who was present at the St. Louis Convention and wired the result at once to THE PRESS office.

In his reply to an invitation from the Board of Education of this city, to be present at the High School Commencement, State Superintendent C. C. Fuller wrote that he had made an engagement in this vicinity for that evening, but would try and be present at Music Hall during a part of the time. Mr. Fuller's engagement is to speak to the scholars of the North Plainfield school at their closing exercises. Mr. James McGee, President of the School Trustees, will also make an address.

Taxing New Jersey Companies.

The first return for the year of taxes on miscellaneous corporations was recently filed with the Comptroller by the State Board of Assessors for the year. Of the 1,400 companies of this character which are to be assessed, 822 have so far filed their returns. These latter are assessed for $200,000, divided as follows: Gas and electric light companies, 24,118.90; foreign life insurance companies, $11,841.08; domestic life insurance companies, $37,619.02; fire, marine or accident insurance companies, $3,890.76; oil or pipe line companies, $6,165.80; parlor and sleeping car companies, $355.66, and telegraph, telephone, cable and express companies, $8,898.80. The companies are taxed on their capital stock $111,005.31. The largest individual taxpayer is the Mutual Life Insurance Company, which pays $32,765.97. The Metropolitan Traction Company pays $10,000 on a capital stock of $1,000,000.

Closing Exercises of the Dunellen Public School.

The closing exercises of the Dunellen Public school will take place in the Methodist church at Dunellen to-morrow evening at eight o'clock. The graduating class numbers eight, as follows: Miss Lucy V. Dunham, Miss L. Maud Titsworth, Miss Hannah L. Larkin, Miss Gertrude A. Enander, Miss Ella M. Fisher, Alexander W. Vars and Howard S. Wilson. The class motto is "Non Scholæ Sed Vitæ Discimus." Following is the full

THE DEATH ROLL.

Andrew Tharp, a young man well-known in this city, died at the residence of his sister, Mrs. L. Klein on East Second street, yesterday afternoon. The deceased was twenty-one years of age, and was for a long time a sufferer from consumption. Funeral services at the house, to-morrow afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock.

Councilman Alexander Milne of the Borough of North Plainfield, died at a hospital in Paterson, N. J., during yesterday afternoon, of catarrh of the bowels. The body was today brought on to the late residence of the deceased, corner of Willow and Sycamore streets.

A special car attached to the one o'clock train from New York, this afternoon, brought the remains of Mrs. George E. Hoadley, which were transferred to the residence of her son-in-law, Mr. W. P. Smith, at Netherwood. Funeral services will be held there, Friday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock.

The remains of Georgiana Force who died at Oakland, Cal., on Sunday, June 3, arrived in this city last evening. The funeral will be private on Friday at 4:30 P. M. The Rev. Mr. Brown, formerly pastor of the Second Presbyterian church of this city, and the Rev. Mr. Richards, the present pastor of that church, which is now the Crescent Avenue, will officiate.

After a long and severe illness of typhoid-pneumonia, the death took place, last evening, at 6:30 o'clock, of Gertrude Lathrop, at the residence of her uncle, Mr. James Clark of West Seventh street. A particularly sad feature of the occurrence is that the deceased's wedding day was fixed, and the cards had been printed for her marriage to Mr. Townsend Rushmore on the 28th inst.

—The Summer travel over the Long Branch Division of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, is already very heavy, and the season has not yet fully opened.

—The new vested choir of the Church of the Holy Cross in North Plainfield, was a valuable and pleasing addition to the morning and afternoon services in that church, Sunday.

—Col. TenEyck of Somerville, has sold 1,800,000 brick to Mr. I. W. Pangborn, the Plainfield builder, to be used in the construction of the Robert house at Somerville and two school houses in this city.

—You can't walk with comfort; can't even sit still in church and enjoy a sermon; and as to dancing, its impossible. All this and more because your feet are tender or tormented. Dr. Kimbell will cure all that at once and forever.

—The Young People's Association of the Park Avenue church will hold a lawn party on the grounds of Mr. L. Heyniger, Grant avenue near Seventh street, tomorrow afternoon and evening. A stage will run to and from the grounds as announced in the advertisement in another column.

—Advisory Master Hugh M. Gaston of Somerville, was in town again this morning at the office of Jackson & Codington for second hearing in the case of Elliott vs. Brugler et als. in case to set aside Sheriff's deed referred to in our issue of Thursday last. The further hearing in the matter was adjourned until Saturday the 16th inst. at 10:30 A. M. at Somerville.

General Telegraphic Despatches.

GREAT FLOODS IN MINNESOTA.

Towns Engulfed, Lives Endangered and Much Property Destroyed.

DULUTH, Minn., June 13.—The recent severe rains have caused the greatest flood ever known in northern Minnesota. Along the banks of logging streams tributary to the St. Louis River, millions of acres of land are overflowed and loss of life is feared. At Cloquet, that portion of the town which is situated on the island is completely engulfed. Only the tops of houses are visible. Dwellings have been carried away. The sawmills are flooded and abandoned and in the booms 80,000,000 logs were jammed yesday and the number now has reached over 200,000,000. All county bridges have been carried away, and if the logs break the booms and dams, which is momentarily expected, the railroad bridge at Thomson, a substantial iron structure resting on solid rock, will go.

At Fond du Lac the village is under water and some buildings have been carried down the stream. From Fond du Lac to beyond Spirit Lake the tracks of the St. Paul and Duluth Railway are under water from two to three feet, and the stream is still rising. Throughout the entire length of the Daltes of the St. Louis river, famed as one of the choice bits of scenery of the country, the river is a mass of soapy froth, and is higher by ten feet than ever before known.

RIVAL TOWNS AT WAR.

Woodsdale and Hugotan, Kansas, Ready to Destroy Each Other.

TOPEKA, Kan., June 13.—The towns of Woodsdale and Hugotan are about two miles apart, and a bitter feeling has always existed, growing out of a county seat fight. R. L. Jones, the Deputy Sheriff, who is a Woodsdale man, the Constable of Woodsdale township and another officer rode into Hugotan and attempted to assassinate Sam Robinson and J. B. Chamberlain, Chairman of the Board of County Commissioners. The fire was returned and the attacting party retreated. One man was seriously wounded. The inhabitants of both towns are now armed to the teeth and bloodshed may follow.

Wedding Under Peculiar Circumstances.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 13.—The Rev. F. A. Andrews, of Jeffersonville, Ind., was called the other day to a country church to preach the funeral of a Mrs. Wascom. He remained over night with Mr. Wascom, and was much surprised to learn that a wedding was to be celebrated during the evening and he would be called upon to officiate. The groom was Mr. Wascom and the bride was sister of the recently buried wife, and the two aged respectively seventy-three and seventy-one. The only witness of the ceremony was the greatgrandson of the groom. The minister's astonishment reached its height when he was told by neighbors next day that the present is Wascom's third wife; that the three were sisters, and the second wedding was as unceremonious as the first.

Bennett After the Money.

BOSTON, June 13.—F. E. Bennett demanded of the Herald the $2,000 stakes on the Paine-Bennett revolver match. The Herald, after taking legal advice, informed him that the stakes would not be surrendered until after the Secretary of the National Rifle Association, who under the articles was the final referee, decided to whom the money belonged. The following telegram was received:

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 11.
To the Editor of the Herald:
Both F. E. Bennett and J. B. Fellows, his judges, know perfectly well that there are several protests to be decided by final referee National Rifle Association. Simply hold stakes until such decision is rendered.
Signed, CHEVALIER PAINE.

A Murderess at Large in Iowa.

ANAMOSA, Ia., June 13.—Anna L. Hower, a convict, has made her escape from the penitentiary here by sawing off an iron bar over her window in the top tier of cells and letting herself down by means of bed clothes, then climbing up a rope and scaling the wall. She was sent from Cedar Rapids for eighteen years for murder in the second degree.

Mr. Garrett's Body Found.

BALTIMORE, June 13.—The body of T. Harrison Garrett, who was drowned on Thursday night last, by the sinking of his yacht, the Gleam, has been recovered. It was found a mile distant from the spot where the accident occurred. The steamer Nanticoke brought the body to Baltimore.

A Copyright Association in Canada.

TORONTO, June 13.—The Publishers have organized the copyright Association of Canada. The object is to secure such legislation as shall best conserve all interests in connection with book printing and publishing trades of Canada.

Weather Indications.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—For New England, New York, Eastern Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware, light to fresh variable winds, becoming easterly, warmer, fair weather.

Mrs. E. L. TILLOU, of 426 Linden street, Elizabeth, has had moles removed from her face by DR. KIMBELL, and has no hesitation in recommending him.

From Mrs. General J. A. Fay, of Elizabeth: I can recommend DR. KIMBELL'S painless treatment for ingrowing nails and corns. MRS. J. A. FAY.

MOLES AND WARTS OF THE FACE, NECK, OR ANY PART OF THE BODY.

Dr. Kimbell offers $500 for a mole or wart that will baffle his skill to successfully remove.

He guarantees to cure the worst case in one treatment.

All bad cases solicited.

During the past five years Dr. Kimbel has treated 10,000 persons, ladies and gentlemen.

Ladies often make up parties of from two to six and call upon Dr. Kimbell together. The most timid lady, aged person or child can have the most aggravating feet troubles radically and permanently cured and suffer nothing from the treatment.

Dr. Kimbell will furnish remedies that will cure the worst bad odor of the feet or arm pits, ingrowing nails, soft corns, and removes all soreness and swelling from the great toe joints. These remedies never fail to give immediate relief.

Dr. Kimbell's remedy for bad odor and excessive perspiration of the feet and armpits cures the worst cases in 10 days. Try it.

APPOINTMENTS:

For the removal of Moles and Warts, can be made for evenings if desired.

Hours from 9 A. M. till 6 P. M. On Sundays for the working classes, from 10 A.M. till 4 P. M. His charges are moderate and invariably known after examinations, which are always free.

Special favors shown people in moderate circumstances.

Servants will be in waiting to conduct ladies and gentlemen to the Doctor's parlors at the CITY HOTEL, Plainfield, for a FEW DAYS ONLY.

Dr. Kimbell cures all diseases of the FEET without PAIN. Boot or gaiter worn immediately, with ease and comfort. 5-28

BASEBALL INTELLIGENCE.

Chicago Wins Another Game from New York—Other Winners Yesterday.

New York	2

NEW YORK, June 13.—The last of the series between the New Yorks and Chicagos was played yesterday and the home team suffered another defeat. Ward and Gore were down to play. The only change was in the striking order, Tiernan being placed up at the head, and Gore shoved down in the middle, an uncertain matter under any circumstances. Capt. Ewing's illness may have had something to do with the postponement of a change that is expected. He was out to-day, but was too weak to play. Keefe or Weidman were down to pitch, but neither of them seemed to impress the spectators with a confidence that they would overcome the League leaders.

When the Chicago club took the field for practice Borcher's work was watched with interest. He is a smooth-faced, sturdily built young fellow, and on the field, resembles Krock closely, but is a trifle shorter. When the Giants took the field for practice, it was seen that a great change was made in the nine, though not down on the score cards. Cleveland was on third and Hatfield at short. It was an experiment, and made a favorable result for the home team still more dubious. The result:

PITTSBURGH vs. PHILADELPHIA.

Pittsburg	2

PHILADELPHIA, June 13.—The Phillies presented little Gleason in the box yesterday. He showed plenty of speed but was rather wild, and kept Clements guessing about as much as he did the Pittsburg batters. Galvin tossed the spere for the visitors and pitched a good steady reliable game. Score:

BOSTON vs. DETROIT.

Detroit	2

BOSTON, June 13.—The last game of the Boston-Detroit series was certain to be a close one and there was much interest in the result. Big Dan Brouthers was unable to play, the injury to his hand being worse than was at first supposed. He will be laid up at least two weeks. When Getzein threw the ball he was in a very savage mood. Manager Watkins had just fined him $100, in sums of $10 each, for back talk, and he didn't care a continental after that how he pitched. Radbourn was placed in the box for Boston and the crowd gave him a tremendous reception. Score:

WASHINGTON vs. INDIANAPOLIS.

Indianapolis	1
Washington	5

WASHINGTON, June 13.—The last game of the series between the Washington and Indianapolis clubs was poorly played by both teams. The Washingtons fielded like secone rate amateurs, and did all in their power to lose the game, but O'Day was equally stubborn against his field support, and he finally left the field not only victorious over the Hoosiers, but also over his own club. The score:

ASSOCIATION GAMES.

Brooklyn, 8; Cleveland, 5.

BROOKLYN, June 13.—The last game of the scond series between the Brooklyn and Cleveland teams took place here yesterday, before a small audience. The visitors looked neat and trim in their dark blue suits when they came out for preliminary practice. They played well together. Score:

Brooklyn	1	2	0	2	1	0	0	2	.—	8
Cleveland	0	0	0	0	3	0	0	2	0—	5

Athletics, 4; Baltimore, 2.

BALTIMORE, June 13.—The batting in yesterday's game was even, but the Athletics won by superior fielding. The score:

Base hits—Athletics, 9; Baltimores, 9. Errors—Baltimores, 6. Batteries—Shaw and Trott; Seward and Robinson. Umpire, Doescher.

St. Louis, 8; Kansas City, 7.

ST. LOUIS, June 13.—The home team won a close exciting game here yesterday. The score:

St. Louis	3	1	0	3	1	0	0	0	0—	8
Kansas City	1	0	4	0	0	0	1	1	0—	7

Base hits—St. Louis, 11; Kansas City, 12. Errors—St. Louis, 5; Kansas City, 6. Batteries—Knouff and Boyle; Porter and Donohue. Umpire, Sylvester.

Other Games.

At Easton—Allentown, 9; Easton, 8.
At Philadelphia—Cuban Giants, 6; Quaker Citys, 0.
At Rochester—London, 8; Rochester, 4.
At Syracuse—Hamilton, 7; Syracuse, 6.
At Troy—Buffalo, 6; Troy, 4.
At Albany—Toronto, 9; Albany, 7.
At Ashland—Ashland, 6; Shehando ah, 5.
At Shamokin—Shamokin, 9; Mount Carmel, 3.
At Lowell—Lowell, 6; Lynn, 5.
At Manchester—Worcester, 5; Manchester, 2.

RACING YESTERDAY.

Fair Attendance at Jerome Park—Good Sport at Guttenburg.

JEROME PARK, June 13.—On account of the numerous accidents from steeplechasing the Executive Committee of the American Jockey Club will likely discuss the question next fall with a view of doing away with it. There was a fair attendance at yesterday's races:

First Race—Five furlongs. Ransom won. Hayward second, Howe third. Time, 1:03¾.

Second Race—One mile and a furlong. Brown Duke won. Refund second, Union third.

Third Race.—One mile and three furlongs. Belvidere won. Le Logos second, Ben Ali third. Time, 2:26¼.

Fourth Race.—Titan course, 1,400 yards. Cyclone Colt won. Laredo second, Climax third. Time, 1:21.

Fifth Race.—One mile and a sixteenth. Firefly won. Glenspray second, Bordelaise third. Time, 1:53.

Sixth Race.—Steeplechase, full course. Willie Palmer won. Glenbar second, John Henry third.

Harry Mann fell at the same jump where Pope fell the day before and his jockey, M. Daly, was badly hurt and the horse was killed.

Racing at Guttenburg.

GUTTENBURG, June 13.—The result of yesterday's races are as follows:

First Race.—Five-eighths of a mile. Mollie Thomas won, Trade Dollar second, Barbara third. Time 1:04¼.

Second Race.—Three-quarters of a mile. Theora won, Wayward second, Falsehood third. Time 1:17¼.

Third Race.—Three-quarters of a mile. Alveda won, Peacock second, Hard Cash third. Time, 1:19.

Fourth Race.—Seven eighths of a mile. Ivanhoe won, Matins second, Charlie third. Time, 1:33¼.

Fifth Race.—One mile. Melodrama won, Vigilant second, Landseer third. Time, 1:46¼.

EMPEROR FRITZ SINKING

HIS CONDITION SUDDENLY BECOMES ALARMING.

The Crown Prince Summoned at Midnight to His Bedside—The Doctors Say He May Die Within a Few Hours.

BERLIN, June 13.—The Emperor's physicians now admit that his Majesty's case is almost hopeless. The Crown Prince was summoned to his bedside at midnight. Dr. Bardeleben will remain in constant attendance upon the patient until relieved or joined by his colleagues in the event of the Emperor's further decline.

It is said that the cartilage of the epiglottis has become permeable, allowing particles of food to enter the air tubes. This produces violent fits of coughing and choking, necessitating the abandonment of feeding through the throat. The doctors are unable to exactly state the causes of some of the changes that have taken place in the Emperor's condition, but it is plain that he is weakening very rapidly.

The Emperor does not seem to be aware of his extreme danger, which all about him now realize. It is said if his condition does not considerably improve a regency will be appointed to-night.

LONDON, June 13.—The Prince of Wales received a telegram from Potsdam stating that the condition of Emperor Frederick is very serious. The Prince, on receipt of the telegram, ordered that the usual State procession to Ascot Heath be abandoned. A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company states that the Emperor can take food only by artificial means.

The reports received last night concerning the condition of the Emperor indicate that his disease has assumed a very grave phase, and that his physicians share the general fear that the end is not far off. A rumor was in circulation here at 6 o'clock last evening that the Emperor was dead, but subsequent dispatches contradicted the report. The latest authentic reports are that the Emperor has a very high fever and is totally unable to swallow.

Tory Newspapers Attack the Government.

LONDON, June 13.—The Standard says that the government ought to announce at the earliest possible moment its final decision regarding the compensation clauses of the County Government bill, and not allow such an important matter to remain in suspense. The Times says: "There is no real doubt felt that the licensing clauses of the County Government bill will be dropped. Mr. Smith has been pressed unfairly by the opposition, seems to have been carried somewhat beyond the bounds of prudence.

His Society Not Desirable.

CALGARY, N. W. T., June 13.—It is undoubted that W. J. McGarigle, the Chicago boodler, has been at the Park since the beginning of may, and it is also said he is in partnership with Dr. Brett in the sanitarium there. He was introduced to the visitors there, but several ladies have declined the honor and have also declined to dine at the sanitarium, not wishing to meet him.

Threatened with Dynamite.

LONDON, June 13.—A quantity of dynamite and gunpowder was stolen Sunday from a hut in which it was stored on the island at Arran. A number of tenants on the island have been warned not to pay rent, otherwise they would be punished by the use of dynamite.

The Spanish Crisis.

MADRID, June 13.—Senor Sagasta has induced several of the Ministers to postpone resigning until the colonial budgets are disposed of. The Cabinet has decided that Spain shall not be officially represented at the Paris exhibition.

Jews Warned Against London.

VIENNA, June 13.—The Government has warned Jewish workmen against emigrating to London. This action is due to the recent "sweating" revelations.

Dom Pedro's Big Expense.

LONDON, June 13.—The expenses of the Emperor of Brazil at Milan amount to 16,000 pounds.

GARFIELD DOUBLE WEDDING.

Magnificent Trousseaus for the Brides. Newspaper Men Barred Out.

CLEVELAND, June 13.—In the library of the homestead at Mentor, which James A. Garfield loved so well and which he struggled so hard to pay for during his younger days, his daughter Mary and son Henry are to be married on Thursday afternoon.

Mary will be wedded to J. Stanley Brown, who became well known during the campaign that culminated in Garfield's election and the troublous political and bloody personal episodes that succeded that election.

Harry will marry Belle Mason, eldest daughter of the Hon. James Mason, who is famous as a railroad lawyer and as a strong and close friend of James A. Garfield when he was a Buckeye legislator and almost unknown. The double ceremony will be performed by the Rev. W. V. W. Davis, of Worcester, Mass., formerly pastor of the Euclid Avenue Presbyterian Church of Cleveland, of which Mrs. Garfield is a member.

Mary Garfield and J. Stanley Brown will be married at 5 p. m., and immediately afterward Harry Garfield and Belle Mason. The ceremonies will be as private as such events can well be, but covers will be laid for 150 guests at the supper which will follow the marriages. After supper the young people will come to Cleveland by special train and go East for a short tour, and thence to Europe.

The local newspaper men have been using every kind of device known to the profession to obtain pictures of the parties to Thursday's double ceremony.

Mrs. Garfield, warned by an early request for Miss Mary's picture, closed all the avenues, and photographic workers and the albums of friends alike are not to be bribed or cajoled into giving up what is sought.

The wedding trousseaus of the brides are magnificent, and the floral decorations and jewels will be plenteous and rare. Mary, or Mollie Garfield, is a cultured lady with a fine face, in which there are flashes of the Garfield strength at whose beck Ohio nodded and swayed. She is of fine figure and very accomplished. J. Stanley Brown, her intended husband, is on the road to riches in commercial lines.

Walt Whitman Much Improved.

PHILADELPHIA, June 13.—Walt Whitman is much improved to-day, and Dr. R. M. Bucke, who has been attending him all through his illness, said the poet would be able to come downstairs and resume his literary work in a day or two. The doctor will return to his home in London, Ont., to-night. Many of the aged poet's friends called to inquire as to his condition, and a pile of unopened letters has accumulated in his "den." His nieces, the Misses Whitman, were at the house this morning. There is no further danger to be feared from his last attack.

MEANNESS OF SPOOKS.

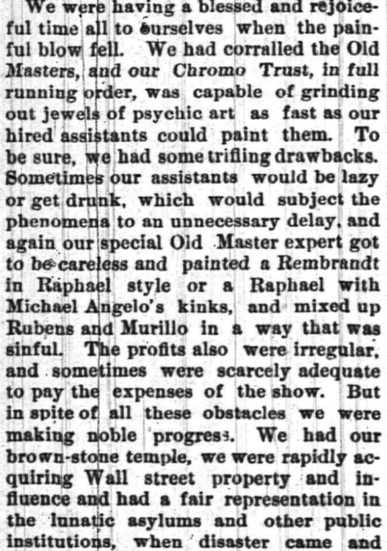
COMPLAINTS FROM VARIOUS MEDIUMS

A Retrospective Glance at the History of Spookery—Brilliant Schemes that Have Been Ruthlessly Exposed.

I am now convinced that we Spiritualists are having an exceedingly hard row to hoe. The unbelievers, with devilish ingenuity and great malice, have succeded in crowding us from the celestial hosts by landing our principal means of communication in the cooler.

We were having a blessed and rejoiceful time all to ourselves when the painful blow fell. We had corralled the Old Masters, and our Chromo Trust, in full running order, was capable of grinding out jewels of psychic art as fast as our hired assistants could paint them. To be sure, we had some trifling drawbacks. Sometimes our assistants would be lazy or get drunk, which would subject the phenomena to an unnecessary delay, and again our special Old Master expert got to be careless and painted a Rembrandt in Raphael style or a Raphael with Michael Angelo's kinks, and mixed up Rubens and Murillo in a way that was sinful. The profits also were irregular, and sometimes were scarcely adequate to pay the expenses of the show. But in spite of all these obstacles we were making noble progress. We had our brown-stone temple, we were rapidly acquiring Wall street property and influence and had a fair representation in the lunatic asylums and other public institutions, when disaster came and blasted our industries with one fell swoop.

In this day of gloom it is of interest to take a retrospective glance and note with pride the vigorous strides we have made. We began thirty years ago by rapping with our finger and toe joints, and upsetting light tables and old ladies. Then we started planchette and enabled any person who desired to become his own medium and an imbecile with rapidity and ease. Our next step was the spirit photograph. This superhuman, mysterious and startling phenomenon was an absolute proof of the truth of our creed until some ribald and scientific reporter got on to the process and showed that the medium worked a double negative as well as his patrons.



SPIRIT PHOTOGRAPHS.

We then introduced slate-writing, which, unfortunately, was exposed almost as soon as born, and then the spirits favored us with materializations of spirit forms and flowers.

This last manifestation was the most beautiful evidence of the truth of our assertions, and was utterly unanswerable and inexplicable by any scientist or unbeliever until one lamentable night when an uproarious gang of reporters and investigators artfully gained access to a seance, and at a concerted signal, while a dozen spirits were favoring us with their presence, squirted ink on the ghostly visitants, grabbed the medium by the hind leg, laid violent hold of the spirit hands, turned up the light and discovered the medium's entire family, from her grandmother down, in night-gowns, hysterics and durance vile.

He demands to have the privilege of watching the slate-pencil in the grasp of us by the hndeel.

It is perfectly impossible for us to accede to the vulgar demands made upon us by the hndeel.

Science was balfled. What human power could summon these dead potentates from the dark and silent tomb to be sure, Rembrandt had forgot the art of drawing, and Raphael's best productions were less striking and more gaudy than a cigarette chromo, but for paintings wrought on Sixth avenue canvas in Third avenue paints with Bowery brushes, and not as a work of art, but as a proof of immortality, they answered the purpose. Besides, it could not be expected that Michael Angelo, who was high-priced even in the Dark Ages, would give much more than a rough sketch for a five-dollar bill, which was all that was generally contributed.

The beautiful system adopted by gifted medium was one calculated to place these phenomena beyond power of exposure. Only orthodox believers were admitted to see the pictures, "come," and when we watch a blank canvas until we fall asleep and are suddenly awakened to see it, or one just like it, either to suspect fraud or watch for it. It is not etiquette for us Spiritualists to do so crowded upon Truth as ours can be crushed by the Scoffers.

We rose again—and this time with grandeur and confidence. A princess of the royal house of Bavaria, wedded to a distinguished hero, became the chosen earthly vicar of Mediæval Art and ancient Philosophy.

Through her Cicero, St. Peter, St. Anthony of Padua, the Angel Gabriel and other grandes of the spirit world wrote to us, giving wisdom and advice of immense value, particularly when counselling us to give our real estate and chattels to the Cause!

Obedient to her power, Rembrandt, Raphael, Michael Angelo, Rubens and other princes of art threw their whole souls into marvellous portraits worth half a dollar per square foot.

Obedient to her power, Rembrandt, Raphael, Michael Angelo, Rubens and other princes of art threw their whole souls into marvellous portraits worth half a dollar per square foot.

These were deadly blows to the cause, but no creed so confided upon Truth as ours can get back; or when it is held over our head and there swapped for another! suspect that we have simply been insult to the cause, which no true Spiritualist would countenance.

He demands to know why the spirit fingers, and refuses to believe that it is necessary for an honest spirit to write under a table.

He demands to sit in the materializing cabinet or to be allowed to construct one himself and buck and gag the medium in it himself.

He demands to be allowed to furnish a marked canvas for Raphael to work on, and will give that great artist a month to paint it through any medium, if the medium be locked in a room known to be free from brushes, paints and oils and shall have been thoroughly searched before entering.

He demands to know why the spirits invariably select swindlers and immoral outcasts for their interlocutors and why, if they are are really anxious to have the truth known, they refuse to work the phenomena except in the presence of persons unable to detect fraud or who refuse to try to detect it, and only under conditions which admit it.

He demands to be favored by some spirit with an exact account of his transactions with a friend who is dead—transactions only known to that friend and him.

He demands to know why Rembrandt, St. Peter, Cicero, St. Anthony of Padua, Rubens, Michael Angelo, the Angel Gabriel and other great spirits utterly refuse to work one little miracle in the Tombs Police Court to save their great priestess from the penitentiary for fraud. Earthly governments protect their ministers. Are the governments of spiritland so cowardly and impotent that they desert their faithful servant in the hour of trial? One miracle in that court-room could convert the whole world and better establish Spiritualism than a whole row of brown-stone temples.

To these impudent and blasphemous demands we have not a word to say. What could we have to say? We can only reply that we ourselves have investigated with our eyes closed and have seen nothing. We are satisfied. We pay our money and we get what we think is the wurth of it in spookery, and that is enough.

But one and fact is apparent. We shall have to get another jacket. Materializing and this picture business have been struck by a cyclone. Rembrandt, Raphael & Co. might go into the photograph business and take original portraits, touched up in oil, but I doubt if the enterprise would pay. Cicero and St. Peter might start a night school to teach oratory and boxing, roller-skating and rhetoric, but I am not sure that they could earn enough to pay rent. The whole snap seems to be fizzling out. The police are on to us, and I fear me greatly I we will have to take in our sign.—Henry Guy Carleton, in New York World.

REMBRANDT, RAPHAEL & CO.

HE GOT THE FISH.

One of Opie Read's Good Stories of a Negro's Cunning and a White Man's Cupidity.

When the recent disastrous run was made on the Hot Springs (Ark.) bank, an old fellow who had come to town with a load of fish, stopped on the sidewalk, and in astonishment viewed the excited crowd.

"What's the matter with all these folks?" he asked of a bystander.

"Why, the bank is about to break and they want to draw out as much of the money as possible."

"If that's the case I'm in with 'em; been looking for somethin' of this sort for some time," and dropping his sack of fish he crowded into the bank, fought his way to the cashier's window and said: "Here, Cap'n, hand her out."

"Hand what out?"

"Money. Give me my share."

"What is the amount of your deposit? Where's your check?"

The old fellow did not understand and the cashier continued:

"How much money did you put in here?"

"Didn't put none in. What do you take me fur? Thought it was a sorter free fight."

"Stand aside, old man!"

"Hold on. If the government is busted, why don't you divide up?" Say, gimme ten dollars an' I'll call it squar'."

He was thrust aside, and finding himself, near the door, he thought of his fish and hurried to the place where he had left them. The sack was gone.

"Whar's dem fish?" he exclaimed, turning to a cripple, who, with a ghastly expression, leaned on his crutches.

"I don't know."

"Yes, you do know. Bet you ran away with 'em.'

"I look like running away with any thing," sighed the poor fellow.

"Wall, it ain't your fault if you don't, an' if you wasn't a cripple I'd whale you. Any body seed a sack o' fish?" he cried, and, rushing into the street, he accused nearly every one he met. The circuit court judge was upbraided, the county court clerk was called a thief, and the leading minister of the town was rudely jerked to one side, and told that if he did not immediately surrender the sack of fish the air would be full of his tattered wardrobe.

In a tumble-down cabin, at the end of a squalid alley, sat an old negro, contemplating, with the steady eye of satisfaction, a gleaming array of bass, pike, sun fish and goggled-eyed perch.

"Lawd! Nelson, whar'd yer git all dem fish?" asked a woman who entered and put down a bundle of clothes.

"De Sabier sent 'em, honey, fur de Lawd hab dun had His eye on my appetite an' longin' fur fish fur some time. De Lawd made a white man go an' ketch 'em, chile, an' fetch 'em ter town. When de white man met me, he put down de fish an' scrought into de bank airter money; an' I have eevery reason to beliebe dat when he come back de fish wuz gone. Dish heah transacshus wuz intended by de Lawd to sarve two pupposes: One puppose was to satisfy an old servant's appertite, an' de udder wuz ter show er white man de vanity of leabin' whut de Lawd had gin him, an' runnin' arter de gains o' dis heah world. Fix de cookin' intentials. Daim ef dis ain't a monstrous fine pike. Uh, huh! Fish wan't tended fur white folks, no how. Hurry up dar. I wants ter heah dat grease spatter."—Opie P. Read, in Texas Siftings.

He Had Read Them.

"I don't believe any man ever read all of Dhowell's books," said Carper to an admiring group at a literary reception.

"I have," assented a meek-looking gentleman at his side.

"You have, eh?" said Carper; "and who, may I ask, are you?"

"I am Dhowells," said the meek-looking man.

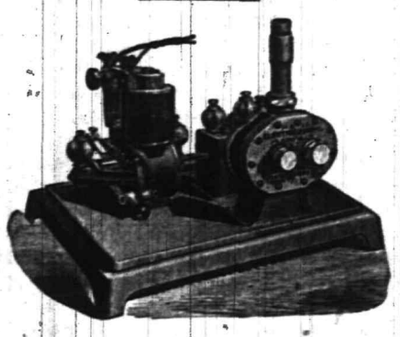
DOMESTIC WATER SUPPLY.

Water for Lawns and Gardens.



The citizens of Plainfield are respectfully invited to call at the drug store of Messrs. Field & Randolph, on West Front street, between the hours of 5 P. M. and 10 P. M., and see the working of the HALL ELECTRIC PUMP, an ingenious combination of an Electric Motor, a Rotary Pump and an Electric Switch attached to an ordinary House tank, whereby any residence in Plainfield may be furnished with a constant and abundant supply of water for all Domestic purposes; for sprinkling lawns and gardens, and for use in stables and carriage house without giving the subject any more attention than is required by a complete gravity system of water works. The Electric Pump is Automatic, Safe, Reliable, Compact, Clean, Economical, Simple, Noiseless. No Ashes! No Coal Dust! No Smoke! No Fire! No Gases! No Heating of the Atmosphere! No Valves to get out of Order! No attendance required! No Danger to Life! No Explosions!!!

It is always ready!

The Hall Electric Pump Company specially invites the most searching examination into the mechanism of the Electric Pump, and invites the criticism of experts upon the efficiency and reliability thereof. The Pump has already been in actual every day use for many months, and as its need in this city is well understood, so it is hoped that the citizens will be sufficiently interested to call and see it at work. Its use will reduce the size and weight of House Tanks very materially. It provides a constant supply of fresh water, without the labor of hand-power or any personal attention other than a fortnightly supply of oil. It is so free from danger to life that the youngest child may receive all the Electricity passing through it, without even feeling it.

The Hall Electric Pump Company is incorporated under the laws of the State of New Jersey and is made up of Plainfield citizens. It proposes to sell Electric Pumps and the power to run them to the citizens of Plainfield, and its aim is to deal with its patrons on the most liberal and accommodating terms that are consistent with resonable business prudence.

REPUBLICANS ARRIVING

CHICAGO ASSUMING A DECIDEDLY POLITICAL AIR.

A Few Delegates Already in the City—More Important Leaders Expected Saturday. A Lengthy Session Now Expected.

CHICAGO, June 14.—The city is beginning to assume a decidedly political air. Strangers are arriving and the confusion incident to big affairs of this kind is hourly growing in proportion. A few straggling delegates arrived to-day, and the hotel corridors are beginning to fill up. There is little talk heard yet, for the reason that none of the big leaders are here. By Saturday the big men of the party will be on the ground and the boomers of favorite sons will lift up their voices. The earliest workers came from Indiana, Ohio and Iowa, while Alger's men from Michigan, if not his delegates, will not be headed off by anybody. Michigan will have several hundred strong-lunged citizens here from early to late, and one armory has been engaged with the prospect of getting another for them to sleep in. But some of them will not sleep, and many people who could not saw a cord of wood without incurring a month's illness will stay around all day and all night doing hard political work, and enjoy it. Indiana and Ohio will not be quite so numerously represented as Michigan, but they will have abundant and sufficiently vociferous crowds to see that their candidates are thoroughly nominated on the streets and in the hotels, whatever view the Convention in its wisdom may take.

It is impossible to go into the situation while so few people from everywhere out of Illinois are accessible. The few that are found speak only for their sections and opinions as to the most available candidate widely differ. Men who are leaders in their States will come here without having made their choice. The convention is certain to be a consulting and deliberative body. That the session may be continued much more than the ordinary length of time is everybody's opinion. The preliminary work will also begin unusually early.

In previous conventions the South has been given a representative, but such will hardly be the case in this instance. Another tendency brought out to-day is the disposition of States not having bona fide favorite sons, to take the cue from the delegates of New York, New Jersey, Connecticut and Indiana, but to act en masse and not individually. This seems to be particularly the outlook for the old Blaine States of Kansas and Arkansas. Cyrus Leland, Jr., Kansas member of the National Republican Committee, emphasized this view. "Kansas is for Ingalls," said he, "that is to say, the Kansas delegates will give him a complimentary vote at least. We want a man who can win above all things, however, and will be disposed to let the representatives of the doubtful states—New York, Indiana, Connecticut and New Jersey—name such a man if they can. No, I do not think the Kansas men will scatter after the first few ballots. My opinion is that they will continue to vote together. Why? Well, for one reason, they have always done so.

"Yes, we wanted Blaine out in Kansas," added Mr. Leland sadly, in reply to a mention of the man from Maine. "Would I vote for him now? Certainly, sir," firing up, "in a minute, any time. I voted for him in 1876, 1880 and 1884, and I would vote for him now if it would do a particle of good. Wood it do any good, you say? Well," smiling, "I don't know. Let us wait and see."

Gen. Powell Clayton, Arkansas member of the National Committee, said: "The Arkansas delegates appear to be very much in the attitude of Mr. Micawber. Practically, they were unanimous for Blaine. Now they are in doubt, and look for light, most particularly perhaps from New York. It will be impossible to say what they will probably do until they arrive and have had a chance to confer with other delegates, and see what is best. The men from Texas are in much the same fix, I understand, and throughout the South generally to a large extent, though Mr. Sherman will have many firm friends from that section of the country."

John C. New is here. He says: "We are here simply to carry out the expressed wish of the people of Indiana. Every county in the State has pronounced for Senator Harrison, and he is, beyond any question, the choice of Indiana. We are here to fight no one, but simply to present the facts. One duty is to dispel any false impressions. For instance, it is untrue to say that there is a Gresham sentiment in that State. Indiana is undividedly for Harrison, and, what is more, he will get the nomination. Of that I am confident. Who would be second on the ticket in that event? An Eastern man undoubtedly. That will be a matter for future consideration.

A curious bit of gossip floating about is in regard to Mr. Blaine's sons. It can be authoritatively stated that neither of the sons of Mr. Blaine, resident in Chicago, is president of a Gresham club. The report, which, it was stated, had been circulated in the East, is without foundation, as both have refrained from any expression of opinion as the Presidential candidacy of the Republican party.

PHILADELPHIA, June 13.—The Press to-day says: "The movement to present Mayor Edwin H Fitler as the Pennsylvania candidate for the Presidential nomination yesterday assumed the most significant character. It took such a shape as to justify the expectation that he will receive a majority of the State delegation and probably the whole. The Philadelphia delegates had already declared for the Mayor, and yesterday Col. Quay, while still indicating that he would go to Senator Sherman in the end, announced that he would vote for Mayor Fitler and advise the delegates from the State to do so."

EMPORIA, Kan., June 13.—A portion of the Texas delegation to the Chicago convention passed through this city last evening and were interviewed as to preferences. Among the number were H. C. and C. M. Ferguson, the delegates at large for that State, both of whom declared a warm preference for Gresham and thought the entire delegation would vote solidly for him. On being asked their choice for a dark horse, one said he was for Ingalls, and the other for Hiscock, of New York.

A VERY EXPENSIVE FENCE.

The Railroad Company Would Not Build It and Now They Are $40,000 Out.

EAST HICKORY, Pa., June 14.—There has been a dispute for some time between the Buffalo and Philadelphia Railroad Company and a strong-minded farmer whose land adjoins the railroad near this place over a few rods of fence. The company insists that the farmer should build it, as it has to keep his cattle safe from the cars. The farmer insists that the railroad endangers his stock, and therefore should build and maintain the fence. A few days ago the company's representative informed the farmer that if by reason of the fence being down any of his cows were killed on the railroad, the company would not be responsible.

On Monday an old one-horned cow belonging to the farmer got on the track, just before a freight train was due. The engineer saw the cow, but knowing the stubborn way in which the farmer had refused to protect his cattle, he said to his fireman that he wouldn't whistle for the cow, but would knock her sky high, just to teach the old skinflint a lesson. The cow wasn't knocked sky high, but was thrown in under the wheels of the locomotive, throwing it down the bank and taking most of the train with it. The engineer had his leg broken. The locomotive and ten cars were demolished, and the contents of the cars destroyed. The cost to the company for giving the old farmer a lesson will amount to $40,000. The fence would have cost $10, and the chances are that the cow will have to be paid for by the company.

Reformed Church in America.

CATSKILL, June 14.—The General Synod of the Reformed Church in America devoted a part of yesterday to the report on domestic missions, which was read by the Rev. Dr. Wesley A. Davis, the new Corresponding Secretary of the Board, and adopted after a long discussion. Mrs Margaret E. Sangster and Mrs. E. P. Terhune of Brooklyn were added to the committee appointed by the General Synod to prepare a suitable catechism for young children. The catechism submitted to the Synod was recommitted to the enlarged committee for further consideration and revision. The Rev. Dr. J. W. Beardslee was elected Professor of Biblical Theology in the Western Theological Seminary at Holland, Mich.

No Damage from the Locusts.

CHICAGO, June 14.—Despatches from several points in Illinois and Iowa say that the locusts which are making their appearance in such numbers are not molesting fruit, grain or vegetables as yet. The only damage done is the killing of young and tender trees, many of which die from the incisions made from the insects in depositing their eggs. The Secretary of the Iowa State Agricultural Society says he has received information from Muscatine that there are millions of locusts in that county, but no special damage has yet been reported.

A Warning to Governor-General Stanley.

MONTREAL, June 14.—A morning paper says that an intrigue is on foot among the imperial federationists of Canada to induce Lord Stanley to accept the position of honorary President, and it warns the new Governor-General to be careful not to overstep the principles of constitutional government. Imperial federation, he is told, though now looked upon as a harmless lunacy, would be regarded in another light if its advocates were successful in inveigling the Governor-General into a compromising attitude.

Missouri Prohibitionists.

KANSAS CITY, June 14.—The State Prohibition Convention nominated the following ticket: Governor, Frank M. Lowe, of Kansas City; Treasurer, W. H. Craig, Kansas City; Lieutenant Governor, W. C. Wilson, of St. Louis; Secretary of State, H. P. Farris, of Clinton; Attorney General, Geo. E. Dowling, of Lamar; Auditor, J. A. Cobban, of Springfield; Register of Land, G. S. McMurray, of Shelbina; Railroad Commissioner, D. H. Larcy, of St. Joseph; Judge of Supreme Court, L. G. Rowe, of Westport.

Dr. Pemberton Convicted of Assault.

FREEHOLD, June 14.—The trial of Dr. John P. Pemberton, the Long Branch physician, upon an indictment accusing him of assault and battery upon Clifton W. Taylure, the editor of the Long Branch News, closed yesterday. The jury deliberated about twenty minutes and rendered a verdict of guilty. The sentence was postponed for a few days at the request of Dr. Pemberton's counsel, who will probably carry the case to the New Jersey State Supreme Court.

Suing to Recover $1,200,000.

CHICAGO, June 14.—Judge Clifford has on trial another branch of Ambler-Whipple litigation. This is an action of debt brought by A. J. Ambler to recover $1,200,000 from R. M. Whipple. Numerous suits were brought by the parties growing out of the partnership business in patents at Washington. In 1880 Ambler recovered judgment for $667,000 against Whipple in the District Court of Columbia and this suit is based on that judgment.

Ruined by Swindlers.

SOUTH ROYALTON, Vt., June 14.—The property of Henry Doubleday, an extensive dealer in bark, has been attached by the White River National Bank to cover a debt contracted, it is said, through Mr. Doubleday having been swindled out of $4,000 or $5,000 by the "gold-brick" scheme. The swindlers, who gave the names of Stewart and Ellison, induced Mr. Doubleday to raise the money, giving his property as security.

Gen. Ekins Denies the Story.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 14.—The story of John F. Coyle that a petition for mercy, bearing the signatures of all the military commission which tried Mrs. Surratt except Gen. Ekin, was forwarded to President Johnson, but never reached him, was published here recently. Gen. Ekin says that such a petition was signed by himself and four others, and their is abundant evidence that it did reach President Johnson.

BY THE WAY.

—Oh! for a Y. M. C. A. building.

—There is said to be an unlicensed garbage collector making regular trips in the Third ward.

—A fine farm of 32 acres within one mile of railroad station, is offered in another column today.

—Jerusalem Chapter, No. 24, R. A. M., of this city, will confer the Royal Arch Degree, in costume, this evening.

—The regular meeting of Franklin Council, No. 41, will be held in the Crescent Glee Club rooms, this evening.

—The shad season will close on Friday. The present season has been a most profitable one to the Delaware River fishermen.

—Officer Lynch was detailed to keep order around the Seminary building on Tuesday evening, while the concert was in progress.

—The Y. M. C. A., "Crescents" will play the "Actives," of North Plainfield, on Saturday. The game will be one of great interest.

—The Champions of this city will compete in a match game of base ball with a nine from Dunellen, on the Potter grounds, Saturday morning.

—The graduating exercises of the Dunellen public school will take place in the Dunellen M. E. church this evening, beginning at eight o'clock.

—Special Officer James Babbitt, has been detailed to do regular police duty in the vicinity of Mt. Olive Baptist church, while the convention is in progress there.

—The weather continues delightfully cool for this season of the year, and is the cause of delaying some families from their trip to the seashore and mountains.

—Officer Lynch captured an unlicensed peddler, who was peddling his wares about the city, yesterday. With much reluctance he took out a license and was released.

—Beginning next Saturday, the clothing factory of Messrs. Schepflin, Baldwin, Tweedy & Co., will close at noon and continue to do so every Saturday during the Summer.

—The Street Commissioner is at present engaged in the work of macadamizing Putnam street. The street, when completed, will be one of the most attractive in the city.

—At the regular mid-week meeting in Reform Hall to-night speaking is expected from some of the delegates now attending the Colored Baptist Convention in Plainfield.

—A tenting party from the Y. M. C. A., of this city, is now being arranged for the College Students' Summer Encampment, for Bible study, at Northfield, Mass., June 30 to July 15.

—There was some exciting bicycle racing on Eighth street, last evening. The road bed is at present in an excellent condition, and the street is a favorite thoroughfare for bicyclists.

—A musical and dramatic entertainment will be given by the "Ministering Children's League" of Grace church, in the W. C. T. U,, rooms, to-morrow (Friday) evening, at 7:30 o'clock.

—The members of the Park Avenue Social Club are requested to meet at their rooms to-morrow at half-past twelve, to attend in a body the funeral services of their late member, Andrew Tharp.

—Dr. Kimbell's consulting rooms at the City Hotel, are very conveniently situated. He refers to none he has cured without their permiseion. Ladies and gentlemen may be treated alone, or in the company of friends.

—"Natural Gas" still continues to flow at the Fifth Avenue theatre, New York. It is the funniest of skits, and besides Girard and Amy Ames who are unequalled, contains in its cast some of the cleverest comedians in the profession.

—Mr. Joseph Sattels the expert piano tuner, has opened a depot for the sale of the Mason & Hamlin pianos and organs, at Allen's, 23 East Front street. He also offers upright pianos for rent. Mr. Sattels makes a specialty of concert tuning.

—Some of the Plainfield Club's pigeons will be released from the Steamer "Cherokee," next Saturday. Captain Doane has been appointed an official liberator for the Federation, and he will countermark the birds and take an observation when they are released, so that the time they make will be an official record.

—The Bound Brook Chronicle says:—"The Plainfield Press constantly exclaims: 'Oh! for a Y. M. C. A. building.' If the credit of the Y. M. C. A. is good, they might 'owe for it.'"

—This is the season of the year that folks are attracted to the different cemeteries, and daily parties may be seen sodding, filling-in and planting flowers on the graves of departed loved ones.

—The first number of the Somerset Democrat, a new weekly published at Somerville, appeared on Friday last as bright and newsy as possible, and with judgment, enterprise and equity stamped all over it. Long may it float.

—The new Woodruff Parlor Car "Plainfield," recently added to the rolling stock of the Central Railroad, passed through the city on the 11:44 A. M. train today. The parlor car, "Dunellen" was attached to the 2:16 Philadelphia express train this afternoon.

—The merchants on Front street and Park avenue, are complaining that the streets are not sufficiently watered to lay the dust. Yesterday the dust was blown about in clouds, much to the disgust of pedestrians and others who were obliged to be out.

—John Dady, another of the young men implicated in the Boulevard row on the night of April 28, last, gave himself up yesterday. Before Judge Suydam he pleaded not guilty, and his mother going his bail in the sum of $100, he will appear for trial on Monday morning next at ten o'clock.

Look Out, Girls in Red!

It is quite the fashion nowadays for young ladies to take botanizing rambles along the brooks and through the meadows and umbrageous woodlands that surround our city. This is all right enough as far as the ramble is concerned. There is no impropriety in it at all, that we are aware of, and we do not think that the owners of the premises trespassed upon have any objection to the exercise. But the young ladies should have a care about entering fields where blooded, well-fed cattle are grazing. Particularly should girls avoid entering such enclosures when they are clad in red dresses or shawls, as there is a peculiar influence about this color that speedily excites the ire of cattle, and harm is likely to result to the wearer. A farmer friend, who is familiar with bovine peculiarities, urges us to mention this matter for the benefit of the girls in general. A word to the wise is as good as a two hours' sermon, so hereafter any color so it isn't red.

A Strange Coincidence.

Mr. George H. Polhemus of North Plainfield, while making some purchases at a store, recently, received in change a silver half dollar. The piece, judging from its appearance, has been in circulation for a long time, as the date is entirely obliterated. A strange instance in connection with the coin is the fact it was once in the possession of Mr. Polhemus' father, who is a druggist, now doing business in Southern California. The coin has the following inscription stamped upon it: "J. L. Polhemus, Druggist, 100 J street, corner Seventh, Sacramento, Cal."

The coin was evidently stamped by the person whose name appears on it, and after being in circulation for perhaps many years, has finally reached this city, and fallen into Mr. Polhemus' hands.

In the Special Sessions.

Edward Flood, a saloon-keeper at Summit, who was indicted by the Grand Jury of Union county for keeping a disorderly house and selling liquor on Sunday, pleaded guilty, and was to be arraigned yesterday before Judge McCormick for sentence. When his name was called it was announced that he had died on Sunday of hasty consumption and was then about being buried. Prosecutor Wilson immediately entered a nolle pros.

William Carey, another saloon keeper, who pleaded guilty to the same charge, was allowed to depart with a suspended sentence, after stating that he had abandoned the liquor business, and had a wife and six children dependent upon him for support.

They Beat Him Unmercifully.

"Sailor Jack," a laborer employed by ex-Councilman Tell A. Beguelin, was set upon and severely beaten by two men on East Second street, about midnight, last evening. To a PRESS reporter today "Jack" said that he was molesting no one, but was returning to his lodging place when the two men pounced upon him and administered an unmerciful hammering. He describes one of his assailants as a grocer doing business on the outskirts of the First ward.

New Guns for the Saengerbund.

The members of the shooting section of the Plainfield Gesang and Turn-Verein Society, met at their headquarters in Blatz's Hotel, North Plainfield, last evening, and decided to equip themselves with new Winchester rifles. The members also decided to erect a range, extending from Keller's Grove to the mountain, a distance of about 200 yards, and to have the first club shoot on the Fourth of July, in connection with the Society's picnic.

Don't Rob the Bird's Nests.

The bird law provides that no person shall, during the months of March, April, May, June, July or August, wilfully molest, tear down or destroy the nest of any wild bird, or take, carry away or destroy the egg or eggs of any such wild bird, under a penalty of $5 for each offence.

THE COLORED BAPTIST CONVENTION.

Opening the Fourteenth Annual Meeting—The Election of Officers, and the Transaction of other Business.

The Fourteenth Annual Meeting of the New England Baptist Missionary Convention, convened in this city yesterday. The Convention is composed of the pastors from the regular Baptist churches in the district.

Vice President, Rev. J. H. Carter of Boston, Mass., called the meeting to order.

The afternoon session was devoted principally to the election of officers and the naming of committees. Officers were elected as follows:

President—Rev. T. Doughty Miller, D. D., Philadelphia, Pa.

Vice President—Rev. J. W. Mitchell, Plainfield, N. J.

Recording Secretary—Rev. R. L. Perry, D. D., Ph. D., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Corresponding Secretary—Rev. W. T. Dixon, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Treasurer—Rev. R. A. Motley, Jersey City.

The Board of Managers consists of all the above officers, together with Rev. Messrs. W. Hill of Newark; J. H. Carter of Boston; D. W. Wisher of New York; R. D. Wynn of New York, and Mr. T. H. Woody of New York.

During the afternoon the Committee on Credentials made a partial report, and the trustees of the Widows' Fund reported a balance of $264.64 to their credit.

At the evening service, Rev. Mr. Mitchell delivered an address of welcome, and Rev. D. W. Wisher of New York preached the introductory sermon.

The committee of arrangements have adopted a novel and unique method of feeding the delegate. Breakfast, dinner and supper is provided for all hands in the basement of the church. To meet the expense of feeding the visitors, several hundred dollars in cash was contributed and set apart for the purpose. A committee went to New York and purchased from wholesale dealers, such articles as canned goods and other necessary supplies.

This evening Rev. W. T. Dixon of Brooklyn, will preach a missionary sermon.

What Do They Want, Anyhow?

Firstly: the barber shops were all open on Sundays, law or no law, and no one objected.

Secondly: it was thought best by some right-minded Councilmen that if the barbers and others were permitted to keep open on Sundays, the law should be so amended that there might be no violation of it.

Thirdly: the barbers and others protested against the passage of any ordinance permitting them to keep open on Sundays, and such ordinance was defeated.

Lastly: all the barber shops—with possibly the exception of one—were open as usual last Sunday.

A Summer Night's Praise Service.

Another service of song will be held in the Crescent Avenue church, Sunday evening next, at eight o'clock. A programme as impressive, inspiring, and enjoyable as usual, will be rendered.

Among the selections of the evening, will be these. Soprano solo: "With Verdue Clad." Ladies' trio: "The Righteous Shall Shine." Choruses: "The Heavens are Telling," from Haydn's "Creation;" "Hark, Haris, My Soul!" "The King of Love, My Shepherd is," by H. R. Shelley; and the Sanctus from Gounod's "Messe Solennelle."

A Liberal Reward.

John A. Moran, a school boy, residing with his parents on the Rahway road, picked up a pocket-book at the new Hillside Cemetery yesterday afternoon. Upon examining the wallet it was found to contain a $300 check, another check for $33.33, eight dollars in cash, besides a commutation ticket and some other papers. The owner happened to be a gentleman residing on Broadway. The boy went to the gentleman's house and surrendered the property to the owner, who rewarded him by giving him fifty cents—scarcely enough to pay the boy for walking from home.

A Valuable Leaflet.

"Wages and Vice," by Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, has just been published as an eight page leaflet of "The Philanthropist Series." It presents in a striking light the close connection between the very low wages paid, especially in our large cities, to unskilled and dependent working women and girls, and social vice to which they are tempted, and many times well nigh driven by sensual men. It makes a strong appeal for better industrial and social conditions. It is a valuable leaflet for "Mothers' Meetings," and merits a wide circulation everywhere.

Let the Good Work Go On.

That which THE PRESS has alone and so long urged—the renovation of the City Park—was begun yesterday. Under the direction of landscape-gardener Winston, soil is being dumped in the low places, and the scheme of grading, the cutting of half the trees, laying out walks, and the sowing of grass seed, will be continued as long as the money is forthcoming.

Union County Republican League.

The Executive Committee of the Union County Republican League held a meeting at Elizabeth on Tuesday and elected L. V. DeForest, Chairman. A regular meet of the League will be held to-morrow evening, at the Republican Headquarters, Union Hall, corner Broad and East Grand streets, Elizabeth, at 8 o'clock.

POISON IN OUR DRINK.

Not Alcohol—which one may avoid—but BRASS AND LEAD which one takes unsuspectingly. "How—When—Where?" Well, say, in a glass of Soda. Pity the most popular and wholesome of all artificial drinks—which Soda honestly is—should ever deserve a touch of suspicion, but

is that in some Soda Fountains economy and mechanical facility are studied to the neglect of the weightier matter of purity. Some men are too "smart;" some Soda Fountains are too "ingenious."

We have recently had made a Fountain which secures Absolute Purity for the beverages. Rather pretty, too, we think. We selected the "Matthews' make" because it is the only fount in which the syrups have positively no metallic contact, being discharged direct from glass jars into the tumblers—no tubes; while the waters are contained in and flow through solid block tin,

PURE AS CRYSTAL, COLD AS CHARITY.

We make our own syrups—from REAL FRUIT JUICES, or from chocolate or coffee, etc., as the case may be; no nonsense of essences or make believe.

New drinks? Yes, some of our own contriving. "Winks?" Not a wink; not licensed for winks, and we have an opinion of druggists who take a wink.

Come and try the new Fountain; if you like your drink we'll thank you for saying so, and you'll pay us five cents and come again—it will do you good; only don't come Sundays; no use—Fountain WON'T WORK.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Councilman Dunham was one of the interested spectators at the merry-go-round last evening.

Miss Emma Sutphen of West Second street, left today for Morristown, where she will spend several days with friends.

The funeral of the late Andrew Tharp will take place to-morrow afternoon at one o'clock, at the residence of his brother-in-law, Mr. L. Klein.

Mr. Andrew Onderdonk, a former Plainfielder, and City Surveyor during his residence here, was "in town," yesterday, looking well and prosperous.

Miss Ida Angleman, one of the able assistants in the C. L.S. C., Headquarters in this city, will spend a fortnight at Ocean Grove, prior to her usual trip to Chautauqua.

Mr. S. F. Kimball of Broadway, has leased his house to a New York family for the Summer. Mr. Kimball will spend the season with his family at Asbury Park.

Mr. J. J. H. Poillion, is erecting two new dwelling houses on Putnam street, just beyond his own residence. Mr. Leo Daft is also building a new and attractive house on that thoroughfare.

The Somerville Messenger says: "Mme. Alberti taught the young ladies of Miss Kenyon's Seminary, Plainfield, the great Milton's 'Masque of Comus' for their closing exercises, last Friday."

Mr. John Willet, for a long time past a resident of North Plainfield, died at his home on Harmony street, about three o'clock on Tuesday afternoon, from heart disease and dropsy. The deceased was 79 years of age. His wife was buried exactly two years ago, from the time of his death.

WESTFIELD.

(The PRESS is for sale by W. W. French.)

Wm. Merton, age six years, oldest son of Robert M., and Georgia F. French, died at his parent's residence at Orange, N. J., on June 11, of spinal meningitis. The funeral services were held at the residence of his grandfather, Mr. Robt. French, on Central avenue, yesterday afternoon, at 2 o'clock. Interment in Fairview cemetery.

Horatio Wragg, a lad about 14 years of age, in attempting to catch a ride on a coal train yesterday morning, missed his footing and slipped under the wheels, crushing his foot so that amputation was necessary. At last accounts he was in quite a precarious condition, being very weak from loss of blood. It was also feared that another amputation would have to be performed which would greatly endanger his recovery.

A young folks sociable was held in the Baptist church parlors last evening. A large number were present, and an enjoyable time was had by all.

Mr. Charles E. Conant has rented his house on Prospect street, to a New York gentleman, who will occupy it during the season. Mr. Conant and family will leave Westfield, in a few days and expect to spend the Summer months in Middletown, Monticello, and other parts of New York State; returning here again in the fall.

Mr. Sayres of Westfield avenue, expects to leave with his family in a short time, for Denver, Col., where he will engage in the real estate business.

A Republican Paper's View.

The New York Weekly Post, in reply to a letter from a subscriber charging it with inconsistency in supporting Mr. Cleveland on a tariff issue, in spite of his failure to fulfil all his civil-service reform promises—the principal basis on which the Post supported his first candidacy—thus defines its position: "If we saw the smallest chance of Cleveland's being opposed by any one who would carry out or come anywhere near carrying out the pledges Cleveland made in 1884, we should not be prevented by any concern for the tariff from supporting him, because we know well that tariff reform is not within the President's reach, while civil-service reform is. But we see no prospect of anything of the kind. In the present condition of the Republican party we see no possibility of it. If the Republican Convention nominates a fit men it will be with the intention of 'knifing' him; if it nominates a bad one, it will be with the view of using his clothes to disguise the well-known features of James G. Blaine."

New Jersey Alms Houses.

The State Charities Aid Association of New Jersey, in its annual report, which has just been issued, says there are in the State forty-one poorhouses of a public nature, of which twelve are county almshouses, supported by county tax. In twenty-nine townships the poorhouses are owned by the Overseers of the Poor. In seventy-one townships there are no poorhouses. The indigent persons are "farmed out" to the lowest bidder.

It cost local authorities $783,000 to take care of indoor and outdoor paupers. To this should be added the care of the pauper insane and tramps, and the costs show a grand total of $1,409,505.69.

Boys' Camp.

Members of the Y. M. C. A., "Seniors" met at the rooms on Tuesday, to confer in regard to the N. Y. State Boys' Camp, to be held at Lake Wawawanda, Sussex county, July 3 to 17, under the personal supervision of Mr. S. F. Dudley, General Secretary of the Orange Y. M. C. A. Mr. Dudley has conducted a Boys' Camp for the past three years, during which time no accident has occurred to mar the pleasure of any. Circulars and information may be obtained at the Y. M. C. A. rooms.

THE MIDDLESEX GUN CLUB.

The Dutch Again Victorious—Tee Kay Jubilant—Excellent Arrangements Under the New Regime—"Oh! if Uncle Billy Siegler and Quinlan Had Only Been There!"—Also See-me-more and Moses.

Yesterday was the regular club shoot day of the Middlesex Gun Club, and it was expected that there would be a larger attendance of members than there was. Several sweepstake matches at blue rocks were indulged in by a number of the members, when some one proposed a live bird race between Gus Manitz of Orange Valley and Charley Smith and Forrest of Plainfield. It did not take long to arrange a contest at 15 live birds each, $25 entrance fee, 30 yards rise, Club rules to govern, two moneys. The birds, furnished by President Robinson, were an excellent lot, strong flyers, and in most instances went like a bullet from the five traps, when each of them was sprung. It was an interesting match all the way through, and a fine exhibition of skill with the gun. At the close the score stood as follows:

The figure (2) denotes second barrel.

C. Smith..1 2 2 2 2 2 1 1 1 1 1 1 2 1 2—15
Forrest....1 0 1 0 1 1 1 2 1 2 2 0 1 1 1—12
Manitz....2 2 1 2 2 2 2 1 1 2 1 1 1 1 2—15

Forrest was awarded second money, and then came a test of skill between Smith and Manitz for first money. "Gus" was suffering with a severe headache, and "Charley" was just as jovial as the Dutch usually are. President Robinson "braced" each of the contestants up with a bottle of sarsaparilla and then came the word "pull" from Manitz. The appended score shows that each one of them had "blood in his eye" and wanted to win. The Dutch took Holland, however, by the following score:

Manitz...1 1 1 2 1 2 1 2 1 1 1 1 1 2 1 1 1 2 1 1 2 1 2 1 2 0 —24.
Smith....1 2 2 1 1 2 1 1 1 1 2 2 2 1 2 1 1 1 1 1 2 1 2 2 1 2 —25.

Not satisfied with this, the three parties again made up the same sweepstake, same conditions and money, with the following result:

Manitz....2 0 2 2 2 2 2 1 1 0 1 2 1 1 2 1—13.
C. Smith..2 1 2 2 1 1 1 2 1 2 0 1 1 1 1 1—14.
Forrest....2 1 1 1 1 1 2 1 2 1 2 0 2 1 0—13.

The German population was again enriched by Charley Smith taking first money. Manitz and Forrest then contested for second money, Forrest securing it by the following score, miss and out:

Manitz...1 1 0
Forrest..1 2 1

Then came double bird shooting between the above three, in which honors were about evenly divided. Altogether it was a pleasant afternoon to all concerned. President Robinson having been designated by the Club to take charge of the grounds and provide suitable accommodations for the shooters, demonstrated yesterday that he can fill that bill. Everything was in satisfactory shape and ready for the shooters to face the traps immediately upon arrival on the grounds. Under this new departure the Club will gain a still further impetus.

The Middlesex Gun Club ranks among its numerous members, a number of "sure shots" that are not afraid to tackle a like number in a team race from among the members of any other gun club in the State. Tee Kay was scorer and C. Huff puller and referee.

Gen. Gillmore's Will.

The contest over the will of General Quincy A. Gillmore, who by a will executed two days before his death left the bulk of his property to his wife and cut his four sons off with $500 each, was begun Tuesday before Surrogate Lott of New York city.

The widow was Gen. Gillmore's second wife, and the contestants were his sons by a former marriage. The estate is valued at $50,000. The sons, one of whom is Edward Gillmore, Esq., of West Second street, alleged that by a will executed in 1882 the property was given to them, and that their stepmother had destroyed it and had exerted undue influence to get their father to execute another.

After the Surrogate had appointed Dr. Clarke and Lawyer Greenwood temporary Administrators, the defense put the Rev. Dr. Henry J. VanDyke on the stand. He said he was called to Gen. Gillmore's house on March 31, and met there Dr. Little, Mr. Greenwood, Mrs. Gillmore and a servant. Mr. Greenwood produced a document, which Gen. Gillmore signed and attested as his will and which Dr. VanDyke witnessed. Then the will of 1882 was produced, and Gen. Gillmore ordered that it be destroyed. He handed it to Mrs. Gillmore, who put it in the fire, and it was consumed. Gen. Gillmore talked intelligently, and seemed to be in his right mind.

The Party Traded and Dickered.

The story that comes from Pittsburg of a deal between Blaine and Sherman, whereby the latter is to be President and the former Secretary of State, savors very strongly of the natural tendencies of both men. There is no doubt but that the same sort of a dicker was made in 1880, when Blaine found the ground sliding from under his feet, and there is still less room for doubt that the maneuvre would be considered by his particular admirers as a piece of state-craft worthy of commendation.

But what, in the meantime, has become of the Great Republican party that is being traded and dickered over in this way. —True American.

—A despatch from Morristown to THE DAILY PRESS this afternoon, states that "the whole city is decorated with flags in honor of the reunion of the Eleventh N. J. Veterans." Several people from this city are in attendance.

BARKLEY PEAK'S CONFESSION.

He Killed Katie Anderson Accidentally. Sentenced to Twenty Years.

TRENTON, June 14.—Barkley Peak was sentenced to twenty years at hard labor in the state prison, which is the extreme penalty for murder in the second degree. Before leaving Mount Holly he made the following confession:

"On the night of the shooting I walked over to Colkitt's to see Katie Anderson, with whom I had an appointment. We stood by the gate talking a few minutes and then went down the lane together, stopping about one-third the way down for another talk. Just what it is all about I don't remember. Then Katie took my pistol from her pocket. The day before we had been shooting at a mark in the yard back of our house. When we were done shooting she refused to let me have the pistol, saying, 'You can have it when I am done with it, not before.' As she drew it from her pocket she handed it to me. I took it and held it in both hands, trying to make the cylinder turn, but there was something the matter with it that prevented it from working properly. While we stood there the raindrops began to fall. Before that it had been foggy and misty. 'Don't you think it is too wet to go any further?' she said. 'Hadn't we better go back to the house?' I said I thought we had; so walked along together, talking as we went. I was still fooling with the pistol and trying to get the cylinder to revolve. The pistol was cocked at the time and pointed toward her.

"All of a sudden it went off, and Katie fell to the ground with a groan, and threw up her hands. She didn't move after that and seemed as if she was dead. I was scared nearly to death, and hardly knew what to do. She did not show any signs of life, so I threw the pistol down and ran home as fast as I could. When I got home and in bed I could not sleep. All night long I tossed, vainly trying to get to sleep, and as soon as morning dawned I was up and dressed. After awhile I walked away from the house.

"I was strongly tempted two or three times to go down to the Colkitt field, where Katie was shot, but I managed to keep away from it, and after awhile went down to Witcraft's house. When I got there they were all at breakfast. I sat down on the settee by the window and talked with them until the news came that Katie had been found. After that I didn't stay there long, I tell you. I was glad to hear she wasn't dead, and I hoped she would get over it, but it wasn't much use wishing. That's about all I know, I believe."

Peek desired to keep his story a secret until after he was sentenced.

They Will Vote for Blaine.

WAMSUTTER, Wy. Ter., June 14.—The California delegates to the Chicago Convention held a meeting here and agreed to act as a unit upon Blaine as the first choice and to cast their first vote for him, unless they decide upon a more available man after their arrival at Chicago.

Funeral of T. Harrison Garrett.

BALTIMORE, June 14.—At a special meeting of the B. & O. directors, suitable resolutions of respect to the memory of T. Harrison Garrett were passed. Mr. Garrett's funeral took place from "Evergreen," his country seat, at 1 p. m. The services were conducted by Rev. Wayland D. Ball, Associated Reform Church. An immense throng were present, including prominent business men from other cities.

BASEBALL INTELLIGENCE.

Detroit, Washington, Philadelphia and the Athletics Among Yesterday's Winners.

Detroit	8
New York	6

NEW YORK, June 14.—The Detroit team made their initial bow this season in this city and were greeted by a fair sized audience. They wore their familiar old uniforms of blue knickerbockers, striped shirts and white stockings, and presented anything but a neat and engaging appearance.

The Wolverine champions are a formidable set of men in size and look as if they could slug the little sphere about the lot at will, but they don't do it any more frequently than any other of the leading League clubs, and the crowd hoped that the day might prove one of the days when they could not. The gigantic figure of Dan Brouthers and the handsome black mustache of Backstop Bennett were missed. Whatever regrets were felt for their absence were doubtless fully compensated for by the fact that it improved the home team's chances of winning.

The battery for the visiting club was Conway and Ganzel.

The composition of the New York nine was not of a character to encourage the hope of a victory. Ewing was still on the sick list. O'Rourke and his sore hand were on third, and Titcomb and Murphy was the battery. Score:

Detroit	1	2	1	4	0	0	0	0	0	—8
New York	0	0	1	0	0	0	0	1	4	—6

WASHINGTON vs. PITTSBURG.

Pittsburg	0

WASHINGTON, June 14.—Ted Sullivan arrived here yesterday. He says he is somewhat disappointed at the recent work of the Senators, but still has confidence in his team. When he took his seat on the players' bench, the crowd, though small, gave him a good reception. Long Jim Whitney, with Mack to hold him, did the lion's share of the work for Washington, while Morris, with Carroll to receive, filled the points for Pittsburg. John Kelly, late manager of the Louisville club, has been appointed a League umpire, and began work here yesterday. The score:

PHILADELPHIA vs. INDIANAPOLIS.

Philadelphia	15
Indianapolis	5

PHILADELPHIA, Jun 14.—Moffet and Denny, who pitched for Indianapolis yesterday at the hands of the Phillies, who pounded both in a terrific manner. The former, after eleven, with a total of twenty bases had been secured from his delivery, retired with a split finger. Buffinton sprained his foot in running the bases and gave way to Tyng, who pitched fairly well. The score:

Philadelphia	2	7	0	1	0	5	0	0	0	—15
Indianapolis	0	0	1	0	0	0	3	0	1	—5

Athletics, 6; Brooklyn, 3.

PHILADELPHIA, June 14.—The Brooklyn team dropped a game to the Athletics, principally through the rankest kind of fielding in the fifth inning, when a muff by Dave Orr permitted the local men to score three runs after the side should have been retired. Weyhing pitched with great effect, holding the bridegrooms down to one single and two tripples. Mays also pitched an excellent game, six of the eight hits made off him being secured after two had been put out. Smith and Pinkey made clever stops and throws, and Radford and Caruthers each made difficult catches. Bierbauer an Sullian excelled for the Athletics. The score:

Cincinnati, 11; Kansas City, 6.

KANSAS CITY, June 14.—The Cincinnatis defeated the Kansas City by the following score:

Kansas City	1	0	2	3	0	0	2	0	0	—6
Cincinnati	2	1	2	0	3	0	1	1	1	—11

St. Louis, 3; Louisville, 2.

ST. LOUIS, June 14.—The home team succeeded in downing the Louisville club yesterday. Score:

St. Louis	0	0	0	0	0	0	1	0	2	—3

Jersey City, 7; Newark, 2.

JERSEY CITY, June 14.—The Jersey Citys played a strong game yesterday, and won through the superior battery work of Daley and Hofford. The features were the stick work of O'Brien and Hofford. The score:

Jersey City	0	0	0	0	1	2	0	0	4	—7

Other Games.

At Albany—Buffalo, 3; Albany, 2.
At Troy—Toronto, 7; Troy, 4.
At Syracuse—Rochester, 8; Syracuse, 4.

RACING AT CLIFTON.

Cato, Stripling, Bass Viol, Windsail, and Atom the Winners.

CLIFTON, June 14.—The following are the results of yesterday's races:

First Race.—Five-eighths of a mile. Cato first, Theodora second, Purse third. Time, 1:06.

Second Race.—Five-eighths of a mile. Stripling won, Easter second, Lucky Seven third. Time, 1:04¾.

Third Race.—Three-quarters of a mile. Bass Viol won, Adolph second, Costello third. Lizzie Glenn and Craftie finished as named. Time, 1:18¾.

Fourth Race.—One mile. Windsail won, Charlie Russell second, Brian third. Traveller, Gold Bond and Mink came in as named.

Fifth Race.—Five-eighths of a mile. Atom won, Canticle second, Tenacious third. Time, 1:05¾.

The New Canadian Loan.

MONTREAL, Ont., June 14.—A London cable despatch says: "The new Canadian loan is still quoted at a premium of 0.82½, though the demand is slightly less than yesterday. Of course, till the tenders are opened on Friday, the actual result of the issue will be unknown, but it is believed in the city that the average price obtained will be nearly 9%. This will be a very good result for the first 3 per cent. colonial loan ever offered.

An Absconding Cashier.

HAMBURG, June 14.—The cashier of the Royal Savings Bank of Siegen has absconded, leaving behind a deficit of 450,000 marks in the funds of the institution. Great exasperation is shown by the depositors, many of whom are poor. It is supposed the cashier has flown to America.

K. of P.'s Big Parade.

CINCINNATI, O., June 14.—The Knights of Pythias parade here yesterday was a great success. Fully fifty thousand men were in line. The streets were crowded with spectators. It is understood that Gen. Wm. Ward, of Newark, New Jersey, will be the next Supreme Chancellor.

FRITZ A LITTLE BETTER

IT IS NOW THOUGHT HE WILL DIE OF EXHAUSTION.

A Steady Decline of the Vital Forces—The Effect His Death May Have On the Political Situation of Germany.

LONDON, June 14.—Despatches received here direct from Potsdam up to this hour report that nourishment was repeatedly administered to the Emperor last evening. He gained some strength and the fever did not increase so rapidly as on previous nights. But it is apparent that he has not regained on any one day since his last relapse, all the strength which he lost the previous day. There is a steady decline of the vital forces, which the artificial supply of food is unable to arrest. The temporary rallies of the patient are brief and delusive and leave him in a worse condition than before.

Medical experts are now inclined to the opinion that the Emperor will gradually die of exhaustion.

The Empress is constant in her attendance at the bedside.

LONDON, June 13.—The last serious relapse of Emperor Frederick is what was naturally to be expected from the steady and irresistible progress of the disease. There has been no news but this for some time past, all who have been well informed simply looking for the advance of the malady beyond the skill of the physicians to delay its further progress. Such a point seems to have been now reached, and the absurd misstatements of the favorable bulletins are becoming such bold falsehoods that almost no credit is given them, even as indications of the Kaiser's superficial condition. It is a wonder that blood-poisoning has not been manifested, and this, as well as the unexpectedly slow encroachments of the fatal malady, is to be credited to the extraordinary care, skill and good sense of Sir Morrell Mackenzie. The cause for alarm is now more serious and pressing than at any previous time. This is understood all over Europe, and the critical condition of the Emperor is again inspiring European political circles with intense uneasiness. The situation is felt to be everywhere more strained than during the winter, and the belief is now universal that after Kaiser Frederick's death war can not be long avoided.

It would not be at all surprising if the cable were to carry to you before you go to press to-night information of the sufferer's demise; so you will understand how vital a crisis is at hand in the international relations of the Continent. The continued armaments throughout Europe, Herr von Tisza's recent warning speech in the Hungarian Diet concerning foreigners at the Paris Exhibition, and the violent German measures directed against France or against a hostile nation, like the Elsass-Lothringen passport business, all give indisputable evidence of the ticklish insecurity of the position of public affairs. Every army on the Continent seems to be crouching for a spring, and even Austria is not credited with any real desire for peace.

The hope that Prince von Bismarck might be able to effect some sort of compromise between Russia and Austria, which the parties of peace have entertained, is no longer held, and there is no expectation except of war. The news that M. de Giers has obtained leave of absence from his post at the head of the Russian Foreign Office proves that negotiations between the two governments will not be entered upon, and points in the direction of a total severance of diplomatic interests and efforts at peace.

Banquetting Released Irishmen.

LONDON, June 14.—Mr. Parnell tendered a banquet a to number of his friends at the Cafe Royal last evening. Chief among the guests present were the members recently released from imprisonment in Ireland. Sir Thomas Henry Grothan Esmonde, who recently returned from a tour of America in behalf of Home Rule, handed in a check for $2,000, presented him by the citizens of New York to aid the cause.

The Spanish Crisis.

MADRID, June 14.—The Queen Regent has ordered Senor Sagasta, Chief of the Ministry, which resigned yesterday, to resume his portfolio and form a new cabinet.

Reduction in Wages.

GLASGOW, June 14.—The Scotch iron-masters have reduced wages 2½ to 7½ per cent. A strike is threatened.

The Friends' Advice to Congress.

NEWPORT, R. I., June 13.—The new England yearly meeting of Friends adopted a memorial to Congress, praying that body, in the exercise of the authority vested in it by the Constitution, to regulate commerce with foreign nations, "to take prompt and effective measures to suppress the exportation of all intoxicating liquors to the continent of Africa, and to endeavor to secure the co-operation of other nations in this righteous act.

Going to Oklahoma.

GAINESVILLE, Texas, June 14.—The negroes in the Chickasaw nation are making preparations for a general exodus to Oklahoma, where they contemplate farming. Numerous colonies are entering lands and making parmanent plans. Several thousand of them assembled at Wynnewood yesterday for organization. Sam Paul, a full blooded Chickasaw tribal Senator, is assisting the colored people in this move.

Went Down With All Hands.

LUCKNOW, Ont., June 14.—Stephen Martin, living on the lake shore near Kingsbridge, found a bottle on the beach, inside of which was a piece of bark, signed by Captain McDunn, and saying that the schooner Tiffen of Bay City, Mich., went down with all hands fifteen miles from Goderich. There was no date.

Mr. Hoffman Will Accept the Nomination.

CHICAGO, June 14.—Francis A. Hoffman, jr., of this city, who was nominated by the Democratic State Central Committee for State Treasurer in place of Charles Wacker, who declined, has consented to run.

Minister McLane Returning to France.

BALTIMORE, June 14.—Mr. McLane, United States Minister to France, left Baltimore yesterday for New York, and will sail from that city on Saturday for Havre on the steamer La Normandie.

Big Bertha in Trouble.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 14.—The preliminary trial of Bertha M. Stanley, known as Big Bertha or the "Confidence Queen," is concluded and she and her alleged son, Willie, were held in $5,000 each on the charge of obtaining money under false pretenses. This woman, who managed to ingratiate herself into the good will of the Jewish people here, became for a short time a social queen and borrowed money from all her acquaintances. She could then have left the state.

HOW A LOST BOY WAS FOUND.

The Guileless Youth Concluded to Go A-Fishing.

In all Southern Missouri there was not a more quiet, inoffensive boy than Dabner Crane. His mother often remarked, "Folks 'low Dab ain't so peart as some, but as for bein' stiddy, there ain't nary a kid in the county that can hold a candle to him." When quite a small boy, he was noted for his obiedence. Whenever his mother would say, "Dabner Thomas, didn't I tell you that I wouldn't tell you to sit down again to-day? Now I tell you to sit down!" then Dab, if he wanted to, would immediately sit down. As soon as he was strong enough to use a hoe, he was set to work in the corn-field, where, patiently, day after day, he shuffled up and down the long rows, hitting a clip here and there, just as it happened, sometimes cutting down weeds, sometimes corn.

Month after month, as the years rolled on, when the sun touched the crack in the puncheon floor that served for their chronometer, Mrs. Crane pulled a cow's horn from under the pillow, and, putting it to her mouth, blew a blast that reached Dab at his work across the hills like a strain of the sweetest music, and before the cornpone and bacon were fairly on the table, he was on his three-legged stool ready for his dinner.

But, one sad day, the horn failed to arouse him. The corn-pone stood uncovered on the hearth until the chickens devoured it, while the young pigs held a picnic in the deserted cabin. They upset the coffee-pot in the corner of the fireplace, and the black mournful looking streams ran around in the ashes and on the floor. Then pigs and chickens chased each other under the bed where Dab usually slept—would he ever sleep there again? and tearing round in the pile of corn they saw there, soon, without any "shuckin' peg," had it nearly, if not neatly husked.

Father and mother had hastened to the field to find their boy. "It's a mis'able pretty day," said the father, "but the sun is just that pow'rful that I reckon he's got tired and drapped asleep under the old ellum tree."

"I hope 't aint nothin' wuss 'n that," sobbed the mother, "but I'm skeered he's took a fit. It don't run in none o' his very kin, but my step-mother was fittified."

Under the elm tree lay a ragged blue coat, and dropping down beside it, this poor, untutored woman shed tears of quite as agonizing sorrow as you would shed, oh! New York mother, if your pampered son, just starting out in his career of beautiful and promising dudehood, should fail to come in punctually to dinner. What could have taken him away?

The weeping mother suggested that, "Eagles mout a' done it," but as Dab was almost as tall as his father and quite as strong, the romantic idea that the eaglets might now be picking his bones was hardly plausible.

Bears, gypsies, a cyclone, were one after another suggested, argued over and cast aside. Meanwhile the neighbors were notified; men left their plowing and hoeing and the teacher in the old log school-house turned all the children loose for a holiday, in sympathy with the occasion. One man bet his yoke of steers that "Dab, poor feller, had just been spirited off, an' nobody wouldn't never hear nothin' of him no more." It was an eager crowd, some carrying guns and clubs, some with a pack of yelping hounds at their heels, growing more desperate as daylight faded and the dark, starless night settled down drearily, bodefully, over the sorrowing community.

Bonfires were lighted, shouts echoed from hill to hill, and day-dawn found them weary yet resolute not to give up the search as long as any tree, rock or cave in any of the foot-hills of the Ozarks remained unexplored. Many a band of men less brave, less loyal, less self-forgetful, have won immortality for their deeds. It was noon again, and the weary neighbors had all gathered in front of the "Crane Shanty" to decide if anything more could be done. One man said that this reminded him of "the time Si Perkins' dog went mad and bit half the sheep in the settlement." Another "'lowed that hadn't nothin' to do with this," and added that he "felt in his bones, and knowed for a sartinity, that Dab Crane was mor'n forty miles away, or else they'd a drapped on him afore now."

The others paused to digest this wisdom; the air was heavy with heat and stillness. Suddenly the hearts of the crowd gave a startled, simultaneous throb, for right before them stood Dab with a willow branch in his hand, on which were strung three or four little fishes. He was the only one that could speak.

"'Pears to me you'uns can make the blamedest noise I ever heern. A notion struck me to s'prise the folks by slippin' down to the Gasconade an' catchin' 'em some fish, and I'll be switched if I didn't think you'uns was havin' a shivaree, for you kep' up sich a racket all the afternoon an' night, that I didn't get nary a bite till bout a hour ago. Ain't they daisies?" and he held up the willow branch for admiration.

With a look of unutterable bewilderment and disgust, as a vision of neglected work flitted across their minds, the exhausted crowd turned, as if on one universal heel, and dispersed homeward. Still no one spoke but Dab, who looked back in a puzzled way as he went into the house and muttered: "Seems to me there's lots o' folks this year."—Mary A. Bonsin, in Texas Siftings

Foreign Curios Made at Home.

I have known the time when a bronze catch for a Japanese cooly's tobacco pouch was worth a good deal, and a man who had a piece of Japanese lacquer or a vase was a man above the common. Now they make Satsuma ware in America, and export Chinese bronze josses for popular worship from Birmingham to China. Curios? What's the use of paying big prices for curios when you can lie about them just as easy? I know a lady who has a beautiful set of china, which is the admiration of her friends. She says it came from Japan and is 800 years old. I know she bought it in Oakland, and it never saw Japan. Another has an old lamp that was supposed to have burnt in the Temple of Diana, goodness knows how many centuries ago. She fished it up in a second-hand store on Third street, and the proprietor of the store bought it with the effects of an Irish woman who made a fortune in a mine and sold out all the old truck she brought from Ireland. I have myself seen the Japanese curio merchants pay $1 apiece for brass imitation Japanese hairpins, made in Birmingham, and sold by auction in Nagasaki; and I've seen the wily foreigner pay them $5 for the same pin and send it home as a great curio. Everything seems to grow plentiful, even the oldest kind of relics.—San Francisco Chronicle.

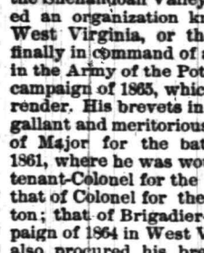
A False-Alarm Clock.

A woman purchased in the town of Kattowitz an alarm clock with other things, and intended to smuggle them into Poland. She told the watchmaker of her intentions, and asked him to have his wife fasten it to her bustle under her dress. The watchmaker for fun set the alarm to go off at the same time the train would land at the frontier. The woman, arriving at the frontier, passed the customs easily; but just as she was again stepping into the railway carriage an awful noise burst forth. She was made to dismount amid roars of laughter, to disrobe, and to pay the fine for smuggling.

GENERAL CROOK.

The Major-General Succeeding General, Terry, Recently Retired.

The officer recently nominated by President Cleveland for the vacancy in the army occasioned by the retirement of Major-General A. H. Terry, on account of ill health, is General George Crook, the senior Brigadier-General, and first in the line of promotion. Not only as the ranking brigadier, but also in acknowledgment of his long and distinguished career, this honor was well deserved. Born near Dayton, O., September 8, 1829, General Crook was appointed from that State to the Military Academy at West Point in 1848, and graduated four years later, number thirty-eight in a class of forty-three members, receiving an assignment as brevet Second Lieutenant in the Fourth Infantry. His promotion to be First Lieutenant followed in 1856, while the outbreak of the civil war advanced him to his Captaincy. His service up to that time had been in frontier duty, principally on the Pacific coast, where he was wounded by an Indian arrow in the Pitt river expedition of 1857, which he commanded.



GENERAL CROOK.

Made Colonel of the Thirty-sixth Ohio Volunteers, he took part in the operations of 1861 in West Virginia; subsequently in McClellan's Maryland campaign of 1862; then in command of a division of cavalry in Rosecrans' Army of the Cumberland, fighting at Chicamauga, and pursuing General Wheeler across the Tennessee, in 1863; then again in West Virginia, in 1864, when he won a victory at Cloyd Mountain; then in the Shenandoah Valley, where he commanded an organization known as the Army of West Virginia, or the Eighth Corps; and finally in command of a division of cavalry in the Army of the Potomac during the final campaign of 1865, which ended in Lee's surrender. His brevets in the regular army for gallant and meritorious service include that of Major for the battle of Lewisburg in 1861, where he was wounded; that of Lieutenant-Colonel for the battle of Antietam; that of Colonel for the battle of Farmington; that of Brigadier-General for the campaign of 1864 in West Virginia, which latter also procured his brevet of Major-General of Volunteers; that of Major-General for battle of Fisher's Hill. Meanwhile he had risen to the full rank of Major-General of Volunteers in 1864.

After the war he was made Lieutenant-Colonel of the Twenty-third Infantry, and reached his grade of Brigadier-General in the regular army nearly fifteen years ago, in 1873. He has until now been in command of the Department of the Platte, with head-quarters at Omaha, but will hereafter have a Division command.

The prominent part taken by General Crook in Indian affairs during the last twenty years has made his name familiar to the public. His successes have been not only in conducting hostilities, but in warding off Indian wars, and in negotiations with the tribes. Nothing in General Crook's career is more to his credit than the earnestness with which he has often defended the red men from imputations of bad faith and of desire for war, sometimes sacrificing his own popularity among the frontiersmen to a sense of justice in placing the responsibility for outbreaks where it belonged.

Her Diamond Collection.

A girl in Jersey City is sending circulars all over the country to prominent people informing them that she is making a collection of diamonds for her amusement, and asking them to contribute a gem or two. The next thing will be the girl who is collecting farms or corner lots.

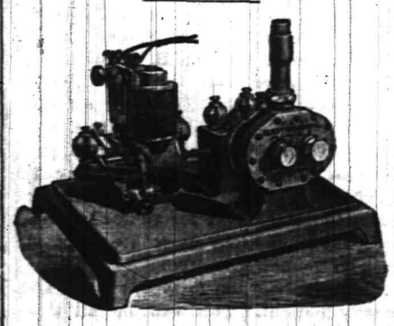
DOMESTIC WATER SUPPLY.

Water for Lawns and Gardens.



The citizens of Plainfield are respectfully invited to call at the drug store of Messrs. Field & Randolph, on West Front street, between the hours of 5 P. M. and 10 P. M., and see the working of the HALL ELECTRIC PUMP, an ingenious combination of an Electric Motor, a Rotary Pump and an Electric Switch attached to an ordinary House tank, whereby any residence in Plainfield may be furnished with a constant and abundant supply of water for all Domestic purposes; for sprinkling lawns and gardens, and for use in stables and carriage house without giving the subject any more attention than is required by a complete gravity system of water works. The Electric Pump is Automatic, Safe, Reliable, Compact, Clean, Economical, Simple, Noiseless. No Ashes! No Coal Dust! No Smoke! No Fire! No Gases! No Heating of the Atmosphere! No Valves to get out of Order! No attendance required! No Danger to Life! No Explosions!!!

It is always ready!

The Hall Electric Pump Company specially invites the most searching examination into the mechanism of the Electric Pump, and invites the criticism of experts upon the efficiency and reliability thereof. The Pump has already been in actual every day use for many months, and as its need in this city is well understood, so it is hoped that the citizens will be sufficiently interested to call and see it at work. Its use will reduce the size and weight of House Tanks very materially. It provides a constant supply of fresh water, without the labor of hand-power or any personal attention other than a fortnightly supply of oil. It is so free from danger to life that the youngest child may receive all the Electricity passing through it, without even feeling it.

The Hall Electric Pump Company is incorporated under the laws of the State of New Jersey and is made up of Plainfield citizens. It proposes to sell Electric Pumps and the power to run them to the citizens of Plainfield, and its aim is to deal with its patrons on the most liberal and accommodating terms that are consistent with resonable business prudence.

LATE WASHINGTON NEWS

APPROPRIATION BILLS PASSED BY THE SENATE.

Report of the Treasury Department on Bread-Stuffs—Gen. Sheridan Still on the Mend—The Labor Bill Approved.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—The bill making appropriations for the Department of Agriculture was passed by the Senate. Among the amendments agreed to by the Senate were the following: Directing the allowance of the suspended account of George B. Loring, late Commissioner of Agriculture, for sums expended in the purchase and distribution of sorghum seed and beet seed, not to exceed $4,800, and appropriating $100,000 for the continuance of experiments in making sorghum sugar.

The Senate has also passed the Postoffice Appropriation bill. The following are the more important of the amendments agreed to: Striking out the item of $35,000 "for compensation to clerks in Postoffices for unusual business;" reducing the item "for rent, light, and fuel to Postoffices of the third class" from $65,000 to $45,000, with a provision restricting rent of such offices to $300 a year and fuel and light to $60; inserting an item of $1,000,000 for additional expense of the free delivery service rendered necessary by the act of May 24, limiting the work of letter carriers to eight hours a day; inserting an item of $800,000 for more efficient mail service between the United States and Central and South America and the West Indies, and inserting an item making the postage on seeds, cuttings, roots bulbs, and scions one cent for every eight ounces or fraction thereof.

The reports of the Treasury Department show the exports of bread-stuffs as follows: Exports of wheat in May 2,000,000 bushels against over 8,000,000 in corresponding month last year. For eleven months ending May 31, '88, export of wheat was 61,000,000 bushels, while for corresponding period last year it was 500,000 bushel. The growing tendency to convert wheat into flour, is illustrated by fact, that while exportation of wheat is decreasing, that of flour appears to be getting greater. In May '88, although exportation of wheat fell off greatly, there was an export of 895,000 barrels of flower against 758,000. In '87, export of corn for eleven months during May 31, '88, was 22,000,000, that for same period of last year was 370,000,000.

Senator Sherman offerred an amendment to Sundry Civil bill appropriating $240,000 to enable the President to carry out the provisions of the convention with Mexico for fixing the boundary line between the United States and Mexico west of Rio Grande River.

Lindsay Muse, the venerable messenger to Secretary Whitney, died this afternoon. He was appointed in 1829, while J. Q. Adams was President, and has served under twenty-seven Secretaries of the Navy.

The President has approved the bill to establish a Department of Labor in charge of a Commissioner of Labor, with a salary of $5,000 per year.

The Naval Appropriation bill was completed by the House Committee and will be reported to-day. It appropriates about $24,000,000 of which one-half is for new war vessels. It directs the Secretary of the Navy to have constructed two steel cruisers of three thousand tons each to run nineteen knots per hour, costing $1,200,000 each: one steel cruiser of fifty-three hundred tons is to be built at a cost of $1,800,000. Also one steel war ship of seven thousand five hundred tons displacement to cost three and a half millions dollars. The bill also appropriates $4,000,000 to continue work on war vessels all ready under way and $2,000,000 for armament. When these vessels are completed it will give the United States a navy of twenty-one modern war ships.

General Sheridan is still on the mend. He passed a comfortable night, sleeping most all the time, and was not disturbed by coughing. His friends are greatly elated at his condition and say that while he is yet very weak he will surely pull through. There have been no set-backs of any kind for over five days and everybody in the house secured a good night's rest. The doctors took turns setting up with the patient, and they are free to say there has been an improvement in the patient's condition for the past five days, and for the past twenty-four hours a very decided change for the better. The General has all along firmly declared that he would get well and from present indications it would not be surprising if, with his plucky disposition, he did.

In the Senate yesterday a resolution was offered by Mr. Cameron allowing persons now in the government service, and who were in the Confederate or United States armies at Gettysburg to attend the Gettysburg celebration. It was objected to by Mr. Hoar because of the words "Confederate Government." Mr. Cameron amended the resolution to suit and it was then passed.

Count Arco Valley's commission as Minister to the United States was signed by the Emperor Frederick III. in a good, bold hand. It was countersigned in the corner by Count Herbert Bismarck, as Minister for Foreign Affairs.

The President has remitted the term of imprisonment, unexpired, of Paymaster Geo. R. Watkins who was on July 19, 1886, imprisoned for three years hard labor in San Quenta prison, California.

Mr. Nichols Elected a Bishop.

CLEVELAND, June 15.—The Episcopal Convention, called to meet at Sandusky, Ohio, to elect an assistant to Bishop Bedell, of the Cleveland diocese, last night chose Rev. W. F. Nichols, of Philadelphia, for the position.

Thirty Pinkerton Men on Guard.

VERPLANCK'S POINT, June 15.—Thirty armed and uniformed Pinkerton Detectives in the employ of Westchester county are still on guard at the brick yards here. Trouble is expected.

THE GARFIELD WEDDING.

The Double Nuptials Solemnized in the Quiet Village of Mentor, Ohio.

MENTOR, Ohio, June 15.—Miss Mollie Garfield, only daughter of the late President Garfield, was married to J. Stanley Brown, ex-private secretary of the martyred President. At the same time Harry Garfield, eldest son of the sage of Mentor, wedded Miss Belle Mason, daughter of Hon. James Mason of Cleveland.

The ceremony took place at 6 o'clock in the library, Garfield's favorite room. Rev. W. V. W. Davis, of Worcester, Mass., and formerly pastor of the Euclid Avenue Presbyterian Church, of Cleveland, where Mrs. Garfield and her family attended, officiating.

Mr. Brown and Miss Garfield were first made man and wife, and this done, Harry Garfield and Miss Mason were united in the bonds of matrimony. Both brides wore the conventional costumes of white lace and satin, with orange blossoms.

There were 150 invited guests at the wedding supper. The presents yesterday were many and elegant. They came from all parts of the country from the late President's political friends and admirers, as well as from friends of the family and the contracting parties.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown left last night for Kansas, where Mr. Brown has a cattle ranch. After a short stay there they will go to New York, and will start for Germany July 1. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Garfield go to New York on their bridal tour.

Unveiling the Putnam Monument.

BROOKLYN, Ct., June 15.—The exercises connected with the unveiling of the statue of General Israel Putnam began at 10 o'clock to-day. President Dwight of Yale made the opening prayer. Governor Lounsburg accepted the statue in behalf of the State and Hon. Henry Robinson of Hartford deliverd the oration. The exercises closed at 4:30 and the troops including the veteran organizations of the Seventh, Seventy-first and Twentieth New York militia and others from Massachusetts and Rhode Island. The Third Regiment of the C. W. G., the Governors Foot Guards and the Putnam Phalanx representing Connecticut were renewed by Governor Lounsbury and other distinguished military officials present. Immediately after the dedication of the Putnam Monument the unveiling of the Soldiers' Monument, the gift of Mrs. Thomas Manlor, took place. Senator Hawley delivered the oration.

Tax War in Texas.

SHERMAN, Texas, June 15.—Prominent citizens of the Chickasaw nation, in the Indian Territory, arrived here to-day and say that all able-bodied men in that nation are assembling at Tishoming, the capital, under arms in obedience to the proclamation of Governor Gay, for the purpose of enforcing the cattle tax required under the law of all non-citizens in the country. The non-citizens owning cattle are rallying at the towns of Ardmore and Otterbrook, also under arms. They are about 500 strong, and a battle is inevitable notwithstanding the recent order of United States Indian Agent Owens at Muscogee, commanding the non-citizens to submit to the tax.

New York's New Excise Commission.

ALBANY, June 15.—The newly created excise commission met yesterday in the Secretary of States Office. Daniel G. Rollins, of New York, was elected chairman. The other members present were Dr. Howard Crosby, Hon. Denis O'Brien, James S. Smart, Hon. Frederick W. Kruse, G. T. Homan and Max D. Stern. George B. Colby and John C. Pine, of New York, and Solomon Weyle, of Rochester, were nominated for secretary. Colby was chosen and his salary fixed at $1,000. Adjourned to meet in New York June 23.

Plans of the Western Paper Trust.

CHICAGO, June 15.—At the monthly meeting of the Western Paper Manufacturers' Association Secretary Brown reported that 50 per cent. of the manufacturers, as represented by the capacity of the mills, had signed the new agreement adopted two months ago. The agreement cannot go into effect until 65 per cent. have signed. The agreement provides for the shutting down of any mill for not more than two weeks at a time, and not oftener than twelve times a year, upon the order of the board of five trustees.

K. of P. Officers Chosen.

CINCINNATI, June 15.—The Knights of Pythias Supreme Lodge yesterday elected Wm. Ward, of New Jersey, Supreme Chancellor; Geo. B. Shaw, of Wisconsin, Vice-Chancellor; P. S. Barrett, of Maine, Prelate; J. Willey, Delaware, Supreme Master of Exchequer; R. L. C. White, Tennessee, Supreme Keeper of Seals; Robert Newall, Arkansas, Supreme Master of Arms; F. B. Kennedy, Ohio, Secretary of Endowment Fund. The day was spent in prize drilling. Many were prostrated by heat.

Notable Japs Com.

CHICAGO, June 15.—Mr. Matsu, Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to the United States from Japan, is here, en route from San Francisco. He is accompanied by Mr. Sato, Secretary of Legation, and his wife and daughter. There are also in the party Mr. Oda, a newspaper man of Japan, and Messrs. Turnkawa, Glover, Malsudaira, Yamamato, Luzuki, Kabayama, Dato, Nagaska, Tukushmia and Migimatsa, who are Japanese students, and have come here to complete their education. Mr. Oda will visit all the large cities of this country, and expects to take back some ideas regarding American journalism.

Murdered His Wife and Kills Himself.

WATERBURY, June 15.—Deacon Isaac Bronson and wife of Pokeville, near Forestville, Conn., were found dead in their farmhouse yesterday by Almeron Pond, who was doing chores on the farm. The woman's head was hanging by a mere thread, and Bronson's throat was gashed by a razor. The theory is that Bronson, in a fit of insanity, symptoms of which he has lately shown, cut his wife's head off with an axe, and then cut his own throat. A broken pitcher found in the room gives rise to the opinion that he first stunned the woman by a blow with this.

—It is reported that week fish are biting good at Boynton Beach.

—The mail from New York, this morning, was an hour late in its arrival.

—Don't fail to see the game between the Y. M. C. A. Crescents and Actives of North Plainfield to-morrow afternoon.

—The second service of the Crescent Avenue church will be held from 8 to 9 o'clock on Sunday evenings, during the Summer.

—The "Brickmakers" of Somerville defeated the "Rag Chewers" of Plainfield—both colored—on the Somerset street ball grounds, yesterday, by a score of 24 to 8.

—The Central Railroad of New Jersey will put into effect about June 25 a new Summer time table, which will afford extra train service on the New Jersey Southern division.

—The members of the Alumni association of North Plainfield public school will hold a short business meeting at the school house, on Monday evening at eight o'clock.

—To-morrow evening will be the last opportunity to witness the public exhibition of the Hall Electric Pump, in the window of Field & Randolph's pharmacy, 21 West Front street.

—Rev. Father Flood delivered an excellent lecture on "The Irish Peasantry" before a large audience in Reform Hall, on Wednesday evening. The lecture was both entertaining and instructive.

—In a costly and extensive trade journal published by the Waterbury Watch Co., they quote "Collier, in the DAILY PRESS of Plainfield, N. J.," as one of the most novel and effective advertisers.

—Information in regard to the Plainfield Y. M. C. A., Tenting Party at the College Students Encampment at Northfield, also the Boys' Camp at Lake Wawawanda, may be obtained at the Y. M. C. A. rooms.

—Emperor Fritz of Germany died this morning, and immediately upon the wiring of the news to THE PRESS office its flag was raised at half-mast in announcement of the event that had been so long expected.

—The merry-go-round, located at the corner of Sixth street and Arlington avenue, continues to attract several hundred persons nightly, and the proprietor continues to gather in the nickels by the wholesale.

—The members of the Star B. B. C. are anxious to secure grounds of their own. They have their uniforms, but they lack the necessary collateral to secure a place whereon to play. The Club includes some of the best players in this locality.

—The shower last night interfered with the lawn party the Y. P. A., of the Park Avenue Baptist church, had arranged to hold on Mr. L. Heyniger's lawn, Grant avenue, and it was postponed until this evening when, they will be pleased to see their friends.

—Mr. E. A. Hayes of New York, whose method of vocal instruction has resulted so successfully and satisfactorily with his pupils here, may be engaged for private lessons during the Summer. In his advertisement elsewhere, he refers to some of his patrons in this city.

—Nine of the members of the Plainfield Gesang and Turn Verein Society went to Trenton on Monday to attend a picnic of the Trenton society. When returning home some of the members boarded through trains and were taken to Elizabeth, while others were obliged to take passage on a coal train from Bound Brook in order to reach home at all that night.

—A gentleman and two ladies participated in a foot race on West Fifth street, Wednesday evening. The conditions of the race are not known, but it is supposed that the first one reaching a given point, was the winner, and it is stated that a stick of chewing gum was the prize. The race was very warmly contested, but the young man "got there" slightly in advance of his competitors.

Jumped From a Train.

Abram Brown, a resident of Fanwood, took passage on an East bound Philadelphia express train at the depot in this city, at 8:40 o'clock last evening. He wanted to alight at Fanwood, but the brakeman informed him that the first stop was at Elizabeth. Brown jumped from the train near the Peace street bridge, and received a severe cut on the left eye. Dr. Long dressed the wound.

DUNELLEN PUBLIC SCHOOL COMMENCEMENT.

Closing Exercises in the M. E. Church—Vocal and Instrumental Music, Essays and Declamations—Presenting the Diplomas.

The closing exercises of the Dunellen Public School were held in the M. E. church at that place last evening. The heat was very oppressive and the dark and lowering skies threatened at any moment to break forth in vengeance over the beautiful little village. This did not, however, materially interfere with the attendance at the graduating exercises, and when the hour of beginning arrived, the spacious church was filled with a sweltering mass of humanity. Extra settees were brought into requisition, and the courteous ushers exerted themselves to comfortably seat the multitude, but the church was inadequate to meet the demand, and many persons were obliged to remain standing throughout the entire programme.

The floral decorations in the church were modest and appropriate, and the air was redolent with the sweet perfume of the many and handsome bouquets banked up at the feet of the graduates. Beautiful ferns and cut flowers adorned the pulpit, while from an arch of evergreens suspended in the nave was the class motto in gold letters "Vitæ Discimus, 1888."

At precisely eight o'clock Messrs. R. J. Swackhammer, S. P. Tallman and T. L. Thomas, constituting the Board of Trustees, took their seats on the platform, followed by the granduates, who were assigned seats facing the audience. Principal C. W. Oley and his corps of able assistants, were seated on the left.

The scholars of the school marched up from the assembling room, accompanied on the piano by Miss Imogene Smith, and from the platform sang "A merry greeting."

Principal Oley announced the first essay on the programme "Girl's Education" by Miss Lucy Dunham, which the young lady delivered in a clear and distinct tone, showing careful thought in its preparation. "Signs and Omens" a declamation by Josie Thomas and another "Johnnie Sleepy Head" by Freddie Giddis, were followed by a song "A. B. C." by twelve little girls.

Miss Hannah Larkin's essay on "Harriet Beecher Stowe" was commendably written and well delivered. In it she paid a fitting tribute and gave some interesting statistics concerning this famous writer of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," and other books of equal interest.

Chester Gaskell followed with "Spell Talk," and the Misses Earnie Giles and Maud Williams sang a duett, "I would I Were a Lark," in an acceptable manner. Master Alex. Vars' oration, "Arctic Explorations," was handled in a masterly manner, and delivered to the evident satisfaction of all. Declamations "The Dog and the Lobster" and "A Peddler," by Masters Lewis Thomas and Arthur Ransom, were both amusing and well rendered taking into consideration the extreme youthfulness of the latter.

No. 12 on the programme was a song, "Sighing for Thee," by Miss Mabel Burniston, accompanied by the Misses Earnie Giles and Maud Williams. The young ladies voices blended beautifully together, and they were the recipients of loud and prolonged applause.

Miss Maud Titsworth's essay was on "Woman Organizations," and the young lady acquitted herself in a creditable manner. A dialogue by Celia Staats and Maggie Thomas and a march by sixteen young Misses, completed the first part of the programme.

The second part was in the following order:

Song—Jack's Come Home
Mabel Burniston and Chorus.
Dialogue—The Opening Address..Josie Thomas,
[Gilbert Hurlick, George Richardson
(A) A Burlesque—Mother Goose and her Goslings
Meta Walters, Mother Goose.
Five Boys and Five Girls, her Goslings.
(B) Song—Little Bo Peep.....Emma Marlow
Wand Drill..... .....By Twelve Boys
Duett—Quaker Courtship,
Clarence Marlow, Lillie Gaskill.
Oration—Sunbeams and Shadows in U. S. His[tory....Howard Wilson
Declamation—How Jimmy Tended the Baby....
[Edison Brown
Solo—Swiss Toy Girl....Bessie Benton.
Declamation—Freddie's Broken Nose.....Elias
[Giles
Essay—Luck and Pluck.....Ella Fisher
Instrumental Duett—Race for Life.....Sallie
[Gray, Lottie Tinsman
Essay—History and Prophesy, Gertrude Enander

Space will not permit us to allude to each individual member on the lengthy programme. Suffice it to say that every part was rendered in a highly complimentary manner, and the oration by Master Howard Wilson, "Sunbeams and Shadows in U. S. History, the essay "Luck and Pluck" by Miss Ella Fisher and another essay "History and Prophecy," by Miss Gertrude Enander, were excellent in quality and showed thoroughness in every particular.

Another pleasing feature of the exercises was the Wand Drill by twelve boys, who went through the various difficult evolution with neatness and precision. Still another feature worthy of special mention was a solo, "Swiss Toy Girl" by Miss Bessie Benton, a young lady possessing rare vocal talent. An instrumental duett, by Miss Sallie Gray and Miss Lottie Tinsman, was heartily applauded, and the performers were obliged to respond to an encore.

Following an address by Rev. L. E. Livermore, District Clerk, Mr. T. L. Thomas presented each of the following graduates with a diploma: Miss Lucy V, Dunham, Miss L. Maud Titsworth, Miss Ella M. Fisher, Miss Hannah L. Larkin, Miss Gertrude A. Enander, Masters Alex. W. Vars and Howard S. Wilson. The exercises closed with a chorus, "Hurrah for Vacation," by the School.

The school year just closed has been one of the most profitable in the history of the Dunellen public school, and too much cannot be said in praise of Principal Oley and the following corps of teachers: Mrs. Coriell, Miss Imogene Smith, Miss Fannie Smith and Miss Minnie Swackhammer.

HILLSIDE CEMETERY.

Reelection of Its Trustees—Progress and Prosperity.

The annual meeting of the plot-owners of Hillside Cemetery, and the election of trustees, was held in the public library building, Tuesday evening.

The terms of three trustees expire each year, and their vacancies are to be filled for three years by an annual election. Last year no quorum was present at the stated meeting, and Trustees Alexander Gilbert, A. C. Baldwin and L. W. Serrell held over another year. Tuesday evening these gentlemen were duly elected to serve for the coming two years balance of the term, and Messrs. M. W. Tyler, C. Potter and Job Male were chosen to succeed themselves for three years.

The Board of Trustees now stands: Mason W. Tyler, Charles Potter, Job Male, Alexander Gilbert, Augustus C. Baldwin, Lemuel W. Serrell, A. D. Shepard, John W. Murray and William B. Wadsworth. These meet later, and elect their officers.

The report of the Treasurer showed that the entire indebtedness of the Cemetery Association had been liquidated, and that its only outstanding liability is $12,000 in bonds. There is sufficient money in the treasury for all the Association's needs, and four men are kept at work on the new grounds.

About thirty of the forty-five acres are already laid out. This will be all that will be necessary for some time, and the balance will not now be improved because of the expense of keeping it up until required. A visit to the Cemetery is quite the thing nowadays. The view from some of its knolls is unequalled in the State. Next year when the young trees and shrubbery have had a good start, the spot will compare favorably in landscape beauty with most of the cemeteries in the country.

PROGRESSIVE CITIZENS AROUSED.

A Public Meeting Called to Consider the Desirability and Advantage of a Street Railway.

All last Summer THE PRESS arrayed itself on the side of the people in their demand, plainly expressed, for some sort of street railway accommodation. Yet in spite of the fact that favorable offers were made by more than one company to build and maintain such a service as the Council should demand, the Council tabled or laid over all such offers and ignored the expressed desires of a majority of the property owners along the proposed routes.

This season the people take up the fight again and THE PRESS is with them. They propose to learn just what will best serve and please the majority, and then they propose that the Council shall respect their wishes.

That there may be no mistake in discovering what is needed, a public meeting for the consideration and discussion of the subject has been called by the following philanthropic and progressive gentlemen:

P. C. Anthony,	L. L. Manning,
Wm. C. Burt,	Jeremiah Manning.
Leo Daft,	Samuel Milliken,
Jno. H. Evans,	David W. Pond,
N. P. T. Finch,	I. W. Rushmore,
Seymour Hait,	Wm. M. Sandford,
Rev. J. P. Taylor.

The meeting will be held in Reform Hall, next Tuesday evening at eight o'clock. All are welcome. Let the gathering be a big one.

Funeral of One of the Warren Mission Originators.

The funeral services of the late Georgiana Force, were held at the residence of her parents, West Second street, this afternoon. The ceremonies were private yet there was a large attendance of relatives and such family friends as had been invited. The Rev. Mr. Richards of the Crescent Avenue church, and the Rev. Mr. Brown, formerly pastor of the old Second Presbyterian church, officiated.

There was singing by a quartette composed of Miss Clara Dunn, Miss Nettie Worth, Mr. Morris VanArsdale and Mr. B. T. Barnes. One good deed of public interest, that shines forth from many in the past life of the deceased, is the fact that with three others she started Warren Mission—a mission whose righteous work has never been excelled by any other organization in this city. The meetings were at first held in a barn, and carried on by the deceased, Miss Lizzie Paul and Mr. H. O. Newman and Mr. Main. Afterwards the late Peter Balen joined in the work that has since grown to be so great and good.

The New Presbyterian Church.

At the close of the usual Wednesday evening service in the First Presbyterian church, an informal talk was had over the proposed new church building. Messrs. Bettman, Shotwell, St. John, Radford and Lounsbury, constituting the Building Committee, reported progress. It is the intention of the committee to proceed at once with the erection of the new edifice, and plans will soon be submitted and the contracts awarded. It is stated that Mrs. Sarah Lattimer has given the committee assurance that any pecuniary assistance will be cheerfully met, and that the work of erection will not be retarded for want of funds.

POISON IN OUR DRINK.

Not Alcohol—which one may avoid—but BRASS AND LEAD which one takes unsuspectingly. "How—When—Where?" Well, say, in a glass of Soda. Pity the most popular and wholesome of all artificial drinks—which Soda honestly is—should ever deserve a touch of suspicion, but

is that in some Soda Fountains economy and mechanical facility are studied to the neglect of the weightier matter of purity. Some men are too "smart;" some Soda Fountains are too "ingenious."

We have recently had made a Fountain which secures Absolute Purity for the beverages. Rather pretty, too, we think. We selected the "Matthews' make" because it is the only fount in which the syrups have positively no metallic contact, being discharged direct from glass jars into the tumblers—no tubes; while the waters are contained in and flow through solid block tin,

PURE AS CRYSTAL, COLD AS CHARITY.

We make our own syrups—from REAL FRUIT JUICES, or from chocolate or coffee, etc., as the case may be; no nonsense of essences or make believe.

New drinks? Yes, some of our own contriving. "Winks?" Not a wink; not licensed for winks, and we have an opinion of druggists who take a wink.

Come and try the new Fountain; if you like your drink we'll thank you for saying so, and you'll pay us five cents and come again—it will do you good; only don't come Sundays; no use—Fountain WON'T WORK.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Rev. and Mrs. W. E. Honeyman who started for Colorado on Wednesday of last week, are spending a week in St. Louis.

Mr. Morgan S. Taylor and family of Rock View avenue, left this morning for Beach Haven, where they will remain for some weeks.

The Rev. Carter Helm Jones of Elizabeth, will occupy the pulpit of the Seventh Day Baptist church on Sabbath, June 16. Service at 10:30, A. M.

S. E. Flower's alligator "Jim Blaine" departed this life yesterday afternoon. He had been unwell ever since the nomination of "Cleveland."

Gen William Ward of Newark, was yesterday elected Supreme Chancellor at the biennial meeting of the Supreme Lodge, K. of P., held at Cincinnati.

Rev. Dr. J. L. Hurlbut and family will leave town for Chautauqua, N. Y., in the course of a week or two, to be present at the annual Chautaugua Assembly.

The social gathering of teachers and scholars that was to be held at the residence of Mr. H. B. Newhall, to-morrow afternoon, has been indefinately postponed.

An infant son of Mr. and Mrs. George Braun, formerly of this city, but now of Newark, died recently. Mr. Braun was formerly leader of the Saengerbund society.

Mrs. Wm. Ross, of New street, spent yesterday with her sister, Mrs. P. Frazee of Fanwood. The latter's son Walter, about 15 years of age, recently laid 600 brick in one day.

Mr. George Burdick, a nephew of Mr. C. Potter, Jr., who was taken violently ill at the latter's residence on West Seventh street, last week, with hemorrhages, is slowly improving.

Mrs. W. J. Roome who is lying so alarmingly ill at her residence on Sycamore avenue, is possibly somewhat better today, and hope for her entire recovery is strengthened.

The funeral of the late Andrew Tharp, who died recently, took place from the residence of his brother-in-law on East Second street, at one o'clock this afternoon. Rev. Archdeacon Rodman officiated. A delegation from the Park Avenue Social Club, of which the deceased was a member, attended in a body, four of the number, Lewis Beekman, James Laughlin, Fred Haberle and Gilbert S. Martin, acting in the capacity of pall-bearers. The floral decorations consisted of a broken column from the P. A. S. C., and a cross from admiring friends. Interment was made in North Plainfield.

Reform Hall Meeting.

A threatening thunderstorm and certain other events prevented the usual audience in Reform Hall last night. There was, however, a goodly number of delegates now in attendance upon the Colored Baptist Convention present, and the interest they took in the meeting was very marked. Judge Harper presided, and as he called the visiting brethren to the floor, each responded with earnest and well delivered remarks in favor of gospel temperance and total abstinence from intoxicating beverages. Their speeches were all of high merit, and the spirit with which they took part in the singing was cheering to note. Rev. Mr. Jackson, of Connecticut, made the opening prayer, and Rev. Mr. Jones, of Rhode Island, pronounced the benediction.

A Sociable With no Formality.

An evening sociable was given in the lecture room of the Trinity Reformed church, under the auspices of the Young People's Society, last evening. Everything was of an informal nature, and the programme, which included vocal and instrumental music, was impromptu and without formality. The object of the sociable was to afford an opportunity for all to become better acquainted with one other, and the time was utilized to the best advantage. Promenading was indulged in to a limited extent, and general sociability prevailed throughout the evening. The sociable was intended to close the series which the Society has successfully conducted during the Winter, but the general opinion is that a repetition would be the proper thing.

A New Bridge at Dunellen.

The Middlesex County Board of Freeholders held a special meeting at Dunellen on Wednesday, to take action on the petition of the residents of that place for a new iron bridge over Green creek on Central avenue above Dunellen. The Freeholders viewed the bridge, and found it in a bad condition. It will cost $3,000, to build a new one, and the board will not authorize its erection until it is ascertained whether enough money remains from the appropriations. Accordingly each member will at the next meeting bring in an estimate of the amount of money that will be needed in his township for bridge construction and repairs, and if enough remains above these estimates the board will take action on the Dunellen case.

A New Factory at South Plainfield.

A party of capitalists, including several Plainfielders, have purchased the old mill and factory buildings located on the bank of the lake at South Plainfield, and intend to erect on the site extensive buildings for manufacturing purposes. The location is a most desirable one for the purposes above referred to, and the facilities for water power are said to be unsurpassed. We shall have more to say concerning the project, in the near future.

—Today has been a busy one for the undertakers. Messrs. A. M. Runyon & Son had five funerals to attend to.

CLOSING DAY AT RODMAN SEMINARY.

Private Exercises at the School Building this Morning—Prizes Awarded.

The closing exercises at Rodman Seminary this morning were of an interesting nature. The exercises were private, and were arranged by the "Argonautic Society" of the school, whose president, Miss Matilda Daft presided. The motto of the society is: "Knowledge unused for the good of others, is more vain than unused gold."

The exercised opened with the roll call, each scholar responding to his or her name with an appropriate quotation from some noted author. The programme was arranged in the following order:

Recitation, "Your Mission,".....May Rodman.
Essay, "Alexander the Great,".....Miss Walz.
Reading, "Riddle,".....Anna Daft.
Recitation, "Housekeeping".....Agnes Rodman.
Recitation, "Tommy and Me".....Benny Bowers.
Essay, "Celestial Journey".....Matilda Daft.

Each and every number on the programme was rendered in pleasing style, and reflected great credit upon both the scholars, and their principal, Mrs. R. C. Dingee, together with her able assistants. Prizes of books, etc., were awarded to the following pupils the figures indicating their average:

Star prize, for having the highest average in everything, Master Fred Smith.

Why Should We Give Away Our Goods?

An exchange full of practical sense, thus discourses on the shortcomings of tha class of people who think the local newspaper ought to print everything for nothing and "find itself:"

"The publisher of a newspaper has one thing to sell and one thing to rent. He has the newspaper to sell and the space in the columns to rent. Can any one inform us why he should be expected to give away either one or the other? He can do so if he chooses, and he does, as a matter of practical fact, furnish a great deal of space rent free. But it does not follow that he ought to be expected to do it. It ought to be recognized as a contribution exactly as would the giving away of sugar or coffee by the groceryman. But strange to say it is not looked upon in that light at all, yet everybody knows that the existence of a newspaper depends as much on the rent of its space and the sale of the paper as the merchant's success depends on selling his goods instead of giving them away."

A Fraternal Visit.

A delegation from Harmony Lodge, K. of P., of Elizabethport, came to Plainfield last evening and paid a fraternal visit to Unity Lodge of this city. The visitors were escorted to Odd Fellows' Hall on Park avenue, where a few hours were passed pleasantly together. Later in the evening Unity Lodge took their guests to Tier's Lake House, where they were given refreshments. The delegation returned home on a late train.

Odd Fellows' Home.

The new Odd Fellows' Home in Trenton was dedicated yesterday with imposing ceremonies. The building contains sixteen rooms, and is situated at the corner of Scotch road and Penington avenue. Previous to the ceremonies there was a parade, in which 4,000 Odd Fellows from all parts of the State, took part. Governor Green and other State officials reviewed the procession from the veranda of the American House.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

A strawberry and iced cream festival, given under the auspices of the Baptist church of this place was held in the old mill building last evening. The attendance was fair, notwithstanding the threatening weather. The total receipts from the festival is not known, but a goodly sum will accrue to the church.

General Telegraphic Despatches.

FRESHETS IN WISCONSIN.

A Village Carried Away by Logs From a Bursting Boom.

SUPERIOR, Wis., June 15.—Several million feet of logs broke loose from the booms above Cloquet and came tearing down the stream to the island on which several hundred people live, doing great damage. The buildings carried away were the Freeman House, Everett House, Tyndall's saloon and boarding-house Bovey's barber shop, Wallace's flour and feed store, McCullough's saloon, Blakeston & Smith's saloons, the Court House and jail, and the dwellings of George Price, Anthony Shannon, George Shaffer and M. T. McGovern. Thirty or forty other buildings are surrounded by water, and most of them have been abondoned.

The St. Paul and Duluth Railroad at Fond du Lac is under two feet of water, and the depots and other buildings have been abandoned and are likely to be carried away at any time. At the falls near Cloquet the scene is one of magnificent beauty. In twenty years so great a volume of water has not been known, and as it washes down over the rocks in great waves of foam it forms a picture not to be forgotten. Great trees are thrown into the air and torn into shreds. The St. Paul and Duluth Railway has abandoned the line from Duluth to Northern Pacific Junction. Grave fears are felt as to the safety of the St. Paul and Duluth bridge across St. Louis Bay, and a large force of men is stationed there to prevent a jam from forming. The loss thus far is estimated at $500,000.

Losses By Fire.

SALEM, Mass., June 15.—A fire broke out yesterday in the works of the Salem Lead Company. With great exertion some of the smaller buildings were saved, but the main building, 200x98 ft. and four stories high, was totally destroyed. It contained from 200 to 300 tons of white lead, a large quantity of lead pipe, and a great amount of machinery. The loss is between $100,000 and $125,000, and is fully covered by insurance in local and out-of-town companies. The insurance, as far as can be learned, is as follows: Phœnix of London, $2,500; Commercial Union, $3,000; North British and Mercantile, $3,000; Providence-Washington, $2,000; Hanover, $2,500; Merchants' of Providence, $2,500; Neptune of Boston, $4,500; Washington, $2,500; Firemen's, $2,000; Traders', $1,500; Merchants' of New Jersey, $2,000; North American, $2,000; American Central, $1,000; Western, $1,000; St. Paul, $1,000. The company was incorporated in 1868, and the building was erected at that time.

CHICAGO, June 15.—Fire destroyed the lumber yard of J. B. Lobstein & Co., on Twenty-first street. The main factory was gutted together with the drying kilns and boilers and valuable machines. Loss, $100,000.

HALIFAX, N. S., June 15.—Forest fires yesterday destroyed the gold mining village of East Rawdon, Hants County. Fifty dwellings, together with mills and crushers, were burned. First authentic news just received. The fires have also done immense damage to farm houses. Mrs. Manning and two children were burned to death, and her brother in attempting to save his child also perished in the flames. Two hundred people are left destitute.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., June 15.—Greenup, Ill., was visited by a destructive fire. The north side of the square and a large part of the West Side were completely destroyed. The losses amount to $75,000 with light insurance.

GATHERING AT CHICAGO

EACH FACTION CONFIDENT OF VICTORY.

It Looks Now as if the Candidate for the Presidency Would be Named By an Eastern State.

CHICAGO, June 15.—One might as well attempt to form an opinion as to the result of the National Conventions for 1892 as to attempt to guess the likely outcome of the Republican National Convention of next week. The Alger men will tell you that Gresham is out of the race. The Gresham men will allege that the Alger supporters are simply holding their candidate in the field so as to force his nomination for Vice President and Indianians will emphatically assert that Harrison has a practical surety of the nomination.

Murat Halstead is in command of Senator Sherman's candidacy and is confident that the great Ohioan will be named for the Presidency by the convention. A. L. Conger, the National Committeeman from Ohio, is talking eloquently for Sherman and is assisted by the Mansfield editor, W. S. Cappelar; Mr. B. F. Jones, chairman of the National Committee, is non-committal and takes the ground that no definite drift of sentiment will be apparent until the arrival of the delegations from New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Connecticut.

A man who has made a careful estimate says that the delegations named hold the key to the situation. Patriotic delegates from the Pacific States and the South and West are willing to abandon their personal preferences for the good of the party and the nation, and they feel that the New York delegation, especially with the New Jersey and Connecticut delegates, ought to be permitted to indicate the nominee. With a New York man to head the ticket and an Indianian like Harrison in the second place the Democrats would be placed on the defensive from the start.

Delegates already on the ground whose sympathies are divided between Gresham, Alger, Harrison and Sheridan agree that there must be a cordial interchange of views, and that the personal ambitions of any man must not be made paramount to the welfare of the Republican Party in the nation. There seems to be a strong undercurrent feeling for Chauncey M. Depew. He is looked upon as the one man sure to carry New York and Connecticut, and with Harrison on the ticket there would be a better chance for Indiana.

There are hundreds of Sherman's supporters on the ground, and they assert that the Ohio delegation is solid, and will remain intact for the Senator. There are probably, men in the Ohio delegation who prefer Foraker in the second place, but it is believed that Sherman's strength in the South and in Pennsylvania and Massachusetts will hold them as a unit for the Senator, unless a decisive break comes after the third or fourth ballot. The Sherman men say they will give the Ohio man 367 votes on the first ballot and 501 on the second. The latter figure, if he can get it will make the nomination, as only 411 are required. It is quite generally conceded that the Senator will lead every other candidate on the first ballot.

In the estimate of strength in the North the Ohio men claim forty votes from Pennsylvania and twenty from New York.

Next to the Sherman men, the supporters of Alger are the most confident. Congressman Roswell G. Horr is sure the nomination will go to Michigan. He is responsible for the rumor that half of New York's delegates will go to Alger on the second ballot. When asked for proof of his statement, he asserts that Chauncy M. Depew will retire, and when asked for proof of that assertion simply replied: "Wait and see." Portraits of Alger are being distributed about town. To-day it is asserted that he will have 70 votes on the first ballot and 160 on the second. The States outside of Michigan, from which he will receive these votes are not named.

Gresham's supporters are jubilant at the attitude of the Minnesota delegation. Frank F. Davis, of Minneapolis, one of the delegates being responsible for the statement that twelve of the fourteen are for Gresham. The other two are believed to be for Alger.

Indications of Allison's strength are few. Outside the men from his own State he is not much talked of. Possibly the situation regarding him may be changed when some of the delegations get here and uninstructed States begin to take places, but so far it is almost impossible to find that he will get anything except Iowa. The situation may easily become such, however, that Allison or any of the favorite sons who now appear but little in the figuring, or even some one now wholly unmentioned may be pushed to the front in an hour; but that will happen, if at all, at a later day and at some critical moment in the convention's proceedings. With eight or ten candidates formally presented in the convention, and plenty of others standing around willing to be pushed in, it is far too early to jump at conclusions. The Sherman strength, whatever it may be, in the Pennsylvania delegation, will not be shown on the first ballot; the report received here privately last night and confirmed today, that Mayor Fitler was likely to become Pennsylvania's candidate and with Senator Quay's support has caused a good deal of comment. To sum up the situation here this afternoon it may be said that the ascendancy of any one man in and fact of the party in the nation will be settled by the Eastern delegates.

The Republican National Committee met at 11 o'clock this morning at the Grand Pacific Hotel. There was a full attendance, Chairman Jones presiding. The Committee will hear claims of contesting delegations.

The News to-day says: The first real work of the Convention was done yesterday evening, when it was definitely announced at the rooms of the different headquarters that Warner Miller was to be made temporary chairman of the Convention. There had been up to yesterday a great deal of doubt about this, and also that Chauncy I. Filley, of Missouri, would probably be made permanent chairman. Mr. Filley is to be backed for the permanent chairmanship by the Sherman men, and the Alger men. The Missouri delegation, thirty-two strong is coming to Chicago without a candidate, and this fact will doubtless tend to increase Mr. Filley's strength for the chairmanship with the different managers.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—Elaborate preparations are being made by public men in this vicinity for attending the National Republican Convention in Chicago. The special train with the Washington newspaper correspondents left via the Pennsylvania Railroad at 10 a. m. to-day. The train will be followed over the same route during Friday and Saturday by delegations from North Carolina and South Carolina and Virginia, including the Mahone and Wise factions.

Col. Mapleson's Bankruptcy.

LONDON, June 15—The Bankruptcy Court has sanctioned a scheme to provide $2,500 to liquidate the debts of Col. Mapleson. Claims against him to the amount of $200,000 were presented to the court. Of this amount $125,000 were withdrawn.

THE GREAT SUBURBAN.

Elkwood Wins in 2:07 1-2—Terra Cotta Second—Winner Paid $229.25.

NEW YORK, June 15.—The Suburban, a handicap sweepstakes race of one and a quarter, worth to the winner $8,375, was run over the Coney Island Jockey Club course at Sheepshead Bay yesterday afternoon, and was won by Elkwood in 2:07½, Terra Cotta was second, and Firenzie third. What the Derby is to England, what the Grand Prix du Paris is to France, the Suburban is to America—the greatest races of the year. As early as 10 o'clock the trains leading to the course were well patronized, and two hours later they were thronged and overcrowded. The Coney Island Jockey Club course buildings and accommodations for the public are the finest in America, and both buildings and grounds presented a splendid appearance. Who was there? It would be a difficult question to answer. Who was not? Who of any prominence in New York, Brooklyn, Philadelphia and their vicinity who could spare the time to attend was not there?

Good judges estimate that there were not less than 35,000 people on the ground when the event of the day, the great Suburban race, was run.

The event of the day was set for 4:10 o'clock. The following were the starters:

Linden,	Dunboyne,
Terra Cotta,	Joe Cotton,
Auzelia,	Connemara,
Elkwood,	Triboulet,
Eurus,	Grover Cleveland,
Firenzi,	Strideaway,
Banbury,	Fenelon,
Hidalgo,	Ordway,

Royal Arch.

The horses were ranged along in a line and paraded down the quarter-stretch. considerable difficulty was experienced in getting them off.

Several times they were just on the point of starting when Connemara would swerve across the track and defeat it.

They broke away no less than four times before the flag fell on a very fair start. Joe Cotton immediately jumped out in lead, with Hidalgo and Triboulet right at his heels.

Triboulet came to the front on the near stretch and passed the stand a lenghth and a half in front of Joe Cotton, who was a head before Royal Arch. The latter was was so lively that he quickly headed the flying field, and opened up a gap of three lengths. Eurus was the only one inclined to accept this challenge, and he at once set sail for the old chestnut. He chased him around the first turn and all the way along the back stretch before he caught him. Meantime the ruck was led first by Joe Cotton and then by Firenzi, Garrison seeming not to like the sight of Eurus so far ahead.

The crowd held its breath. The issue was too uncertain for shouts. On they came, with every nerve strained and every power of horse and jockey exerted to the utmost. A few brief seconds and Elkwood rushed beneath the wire so closely pressed by Terra Cotta that the crowd waited in suspense until the winner's number was displayed.

Firenzi was third, a short half length behind Terra Cotta, while the others were strung out for a furlong.

The time, 2.07½, is within half a second of the record. Mutuals paid: Straight, $229.25. Place—Elkwood, $101.45; Terra Cotta, $31.40.

BASEBALL INTELLIGENCE.

New York Did Finally Get There—Results of Yesterday's Games.

New York	4
Detroit	2

NEW YORK, June 15.—The second game of the series between the New Yorks and the World's Champions was played yesterday. There were not over 2,500 people present, the more interesting sporting event being the great Suburban race. The wretched playing of the home team may have had something to do with the falling off in attendance. The Wolverines had their "pretzel" battery, Getzein and and Ganzel, in the points, while the home club relied on Keefe and big Bill Brown to aid them in breaking their disheartening succession of defeats. Score:

Detroit	0	1	0	0	1	0	0	0	0	—2

PHILADELPHIA vs. INDIANAPOLIS.

Philadelphia	9
Indianapolis	4

PHILADELPHIA, June 15.—Shreve and Casey occupied the points for their respective clubs in the game here yesterday between the Philadelphia and Indianapolis teams. The score:

Indianapolis	0	0	4	0	0	0	0	0	0	—4

No Games on Account of Rain.

At Boston—Boston-New York.

At Cleveland—Cleveland-Athletic.

At Washington—Washington-Pittsburg, called after first inning. Game then stood Washington, 2; Pittsburg, 0.

Baltimore, 8; Brooklyn, 5.

BALTIMORE, June 14.—Two home runs for Brooklyn by Darby O'Brien and George Smith made things look very cheerful for a time for the Bridegrooms, but young Shaw proved more effective as the game progressed. The terrific slugging of O'Brien may be seen when it is considered that he hit four times for a total of nine bases. The Orioles batted for a total of sixteen bases and Brooklyn for twenty but the latter could not train their batteries to follow each other while the Orioles concentrated their hits well, especially in the fifth inning. But one fielding error was made by either team and the exhibition was a pretty one for the 5,000 spectators present. Score:

Baltimore	0	0	2	1	5	0	0	1	1	—8
Brooklyn	0	1	0	3	0	1	0	0	0	—5

St. Louis, 13; Louisville, 7.

St. LOUIS, June 15.—The St. Louis team had little difficulty in winning yesterday's game. The score:

St. Louis	1	0	3	1	0	0	1	6	1	—13
Louisvilles	1	0	2	0	0	3	1	0	0	—7

Base hits—St. Louis, 16; Louisvilles, 13. Errors—St. Louis, 5; Louisvilles, 8. Batteries—Hudson and Boyle, Ramsey and Kerins. Umpire—Ferguson.

Cincinnatis, 16; Kansas Citys, 3.

KANSAS CITY, June 15.—The Red Stockings won the game yesterday with ease. The score:

Cincinnatis	0	8	0	4	0	2	0	2	0	—16
Kansas Citys	1	0	1	1	0	0	0	0	0	—3

Base hits—Cincinnatis, 17; Kansas Citys, 9. Errors—Cincinnatis, 4; Kansas Citys, 12. Batteries—Mullane and Baldwin, Porter and Donohue. Umpire—Uhln.

Newarks, 7; Jersey Citys, 2.

NEWARK, June 15.—To-day's game between the Newarks and Jersey Citys was a well contested game, though the former team won handily. Dooms was in excellent condition and pitched a very effective game, the visitors being unable to get a runner across the plate until the ninth inning. The score:

Newarks	1	1	0	0	1	0	0	2	2	—7

Other Games.

At Allentown—Allentowns, 15 runs, 21 hits, 4 errors; Eastons, 4 runs, 9 hits, 7 errors.

At Scranton—Scrantons, 7 runs, 14 hits, 4 errors; Wilkesbarres, 3 runs, 7 hits, 3 errors.

GATES AND BARS.

Some Interesting and Instructive Relics of By-Gone Days.

Public gates and bars in America are confined to the very harmless and fragile institutions such as one finds stretched across plank and pike roads for the purpose of levying toll upon drivers of vehicles. Across the water there are very few old world cities and towns but have at an early period of their history been enclosed with more or less massive walls, ingress or egress being possible only through gates and bars. No country can show more or finer relics of the past in this line than can England. Of course, in great and progressive cities like London, old-time gateways are a nuisance as they impede traffic, and, although, with his accustomed conservatism and love of historical monuments, Mr. Britisher has been loth to part with any of his treasured bars, one by one they have all disappeared from the London streets. The last to go was Temple Bar, which until ten years ago blocked Fleet street at its connection with the Strand.

Anyone who has visited the British metropolis is aware that the traffic along that important thoroughfare fully equals Broadway, New York, and yet until so recently as 1877 it all had to pass through Temple Bar, where it was with the greatest difficulty that two vehicles could steer past each other. The bar was of heavy masonry with an arch over the street and two smaller arches over the sidewalks. Its removal caused a deal of squabbling for years among the city fathers, and when it was finally ordered to be taken away it was with the distinct understanding that it should be set up at some more convenient place, as a monument of old London. It can be seen now in the Victoria Park.

But although London has no more gates and bars, they exist in many other cities—notably York, Canterbury, Chester and Coventry.

At York the old Roman wall still surrounds the ancient city, as perfectly as when it was built two thousand years since. Even the railroads were compelled to enter the city by making arches in the wall, so leaving the public promenade on the top of the wall unbroken. In York and many other northern towns the streets are invariably known as gates, while the gates are called bars. These bars are mostly the work of Roman days and are in wonderfully good preservation. There are many of them, but the finest is Micklegate Bar, at the southern limit of Micklegate, the most important street in York.

Alnwick, a border town and the home of the Northumberland Percys is only a small place, but its castle, its town wall and its gates are the most perfect specimens of feudal fortifications in existence; they are carefully preserved with great pride by the ducal family of Northumberland.

Chester, always visited by American sightseers, has a complete wall and, of course, the streets are crossed by massive gateways. Coventry, always remembered as the scene of the Lady Godiva's famous ride, is approached by gateways, one of which is represented in an accompanying sketch.

Of course, most of these gateways are of massive masonry, with iron doors, having been intended to resist the assaults of enemies in days when quarrels of all kinds were invariably settled outside the courts. Still there are some of wood. That these wooden gateways were well and strongly built may be surmised from the fact that some of them, from four to six hundred years old, are still in excellent preservation. At Hatfield, a small town twenty miles north of London—the home of the Cecil family, whose present head is the Marquis of Salisbury—is a wooden gateway in excellent preservation. It was in existence at the time of Queen Elizabeth, and probably for centuries preceding her time.

One of these gateways having been set up in Victoria Park, London, it would be in order for the New York Anglomaniacs to secure one for Central Park. Anyway, they are certainly interesting and instructive relics of by gone days.

W. H. S. ATKINSON.

Didn't Marry for Love or Money.

A farmer's son from Wakeville was in town last week selling hogs, and ran into an old acquaintance on the street.

"What d'ye think, Alex? I'm married," said the Corn County youth.

"The deuce you are! Well, I never thought that of you, John. Who is she?"

"Old Uncle Joe Simkin's daughter, Liza; and I'll open your eyes a bit, Alex. You won't believe it, maybe, but it's honest gospel truth. I didn't marry that girl for either love nor money—honest Injun," said John, with a smile that made his face look as though his eyes were about fenced in.

Alex leaned up against a lamp-post and gave him a look of speechless amazement for a second or two, then whistled, and slowly said:

"Well, then, by the old Harry, I'd like to know what you did marry her for, any way."

"Well, Alex, I'll tell you how it was. You see she's one of the best little workers in that part of the country," returned John with a double dose of the old smile.

"Oh, that's how it comes, is it?" said Alex. "Well, old Tom Pekin bought a couple of mules last week on the same recommendation."

John said he had to meet a man at three o'clock, and hurried away.

THEY SLIDE TO THE BASES.

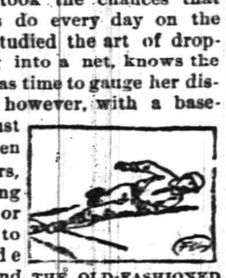
Ball Players Who Make Daring Attempts to Score Runs.

Possibly no other branch of the national pastime affords so much amusement to spectators as base-sliding does.

THE STOMACH SLIDE.

It matters not how close and exciting a game may be, how great the disappointment will be if defeat is the lot of the home club, the on-lookers will always laugh at the antics of the base-runner as he slides under the guardian of a bag in order to avoid being put out. It is a peculiar thing, this sliding to bases. There is a decided knack about it, and very few men attain anything near perfection in it. The men who excel at it in both the League and the Association can readily be counted on the finger ends, and those in the second grade of the study are not numerous, either, says the New York World.

Zazel has gained notoriety, fame if you please, by her daring, by her plunges from lofty heights into strong nets, but the famous acrobat, or, as she is called, aerialist, never took the chances that baseball players do every day on the field. She has studied the art of dropping or plunging into a net, knows the difficulties and has time to gauge her distances. Not so, however, with a base-runner. He must sprint away when opportunity offers, and by throwing himself head or feet foremost to the earth, slide along the ground toward his goal, over pebbles and through mud and dust, only to be greeted with laughter if unsuccessful, and with mingled laughter and applause if successful. Barked shins, torn scalp, bruised limbs and body he gets for his daring, and very little else. As has been said some men slide to the bases feet foremost and others go headlong. Which style is the better is a mooted question, each having an equal number of exponents and adherents. The best sliders, however, prefer the headlong plunge. Johnnie Ward, Ned Williamson, Fogarty, Ewing, Sunday, Mulvey, Nash, Brown, of Boston; Latham, Dave Orr, McClelland and others equally as well known go in headforemost, while "the only" Kelly, Gore, Connor, Smith, Robinson, Bastian, Anson, Hanlon and others prefer jumping feet foremost.



THE OLD-FASHIONED FEET-FIRST SLIDE.

There are some startling peculiarities among base-sliders, too, and these in part are the cause for merriment. Dave Orr and Esbrook always impress a person with the idea that it is easier to slide than run, and they invariably make longer slides than a speedy man would find necessary. Orr, in fact, always gives the impression that he has forgotten that winter is past and tobogganing over. He runs about half the distance between the bases and then slides the rest. Although he weighs considerably more than two hundred pounds and has a rotund paunch, he never seeks to save himself, but slides along as if on an Indian sled out of a chute on the polo grounds. Williamson is another long-slider, and he, like Orr, uses his "wealth" of stomach as a sled. Ward is the scientific slider. He runs toward the base at a breakneck pace and when within a few yards of it dashes to the ground, throwing his legs outward as he does so and passing behind the baseman. His trick has not been learned by others yet, but it is a good one and rarely is he caught when stealing to a base. Ewing is another very clever slider, but "Buck" depends more on speed and dash than on trickery to gain his point. He goes in headforemost and if a baseman is not very careful he can scarcely avoid being upset. Latham is like Ewing. Speed is his strong point and often has he slid so hard that when coming in contact with a baseman the latter has been upset.

THE SIDE SLIDE.

On the other hand, Connor depends on his weight. His style is peculiarly his own, and while there is no record of its being copyrighted, there have as yet been no imitations placed on the market. To describe Connor's movements as he slides to a base would take volumes. But, put briefly, it is as if he were sitting on a wave and went first into the trough of the sea and then rose to the crest. He slides in feet foremost, lying on his back, but regains an upright position as soon as his feet touch the base. Just how it is done nobody seems to know, and it is doubtful if Roger could tell. Of course it is partly accounted for by the fact that he has marvelous strength in his limbs, but there are contributing elements that so far have not been defined. Hanlon is another "foot" slider, but Ned, instead of going in on his back, slides on his side. He has a rare knack of judging distance, too, and seldom slides more than twice the length of his own body. Fogarty, of the Phillies, slides in a clever way that reminds the spectators that the swimming season is at hand. His arms are stretched far in advance of his body, and his legs bent at the knees. Mulvey, of the same club, slides much the same as Fogarty, but does not bend his knees.

THE SIDE SLIDE ON THE TEGS.

Pittsburg's clever fielder, Billy Sunday, slides in almost the style that Ward has made so popular here, but Billy has not the knack of swinging around the bases. He is a very speedy runner, however, and his pace and sliding ability make him a dangerous man for opposing teams when he is on the bases. Brown, of Boston, gets to the bases as if the base-line were a strip of water off Nantucket Beach. His style on the ground is like that of an expert in the water. He extends one arm and slides half on his side, much the same as the man who is using the English over-hand stroke in swimming. Opposed to those men who slide are others who believe their necks are too valuable to risk. Jim O'Rourke is one who does not believe in being injured by sliding, although he sometimes breaks over his rule.

Adam was the first loan association, but this was before Eve joined him. He wasn't alone after that.—Texas Siftings.

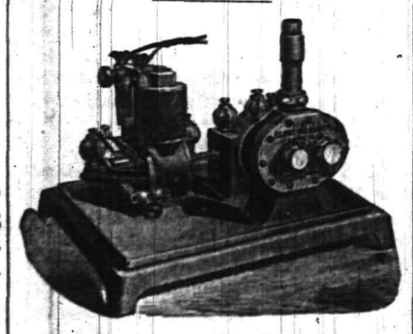
DOMESTIC WATER SUPPLY.

Water for Lawns and Gardens.



The citizens of Plainfield are respectfully invited to call at the drug store of Messrs. Field & Randolph, on West Front street, between the hours of 5 P. M. and 10 P. M., and see the working of the HALL ELECTRIC PUMP, an ingenious combination of an Electric Motor, a Rotary Pump and an Electric Switch attached to an ordinary House tank, whereby any residence in Plainfield may be furnished with a constant and abundant supply of water for all Domestic purposes; for sprinkling lawns and gardens, and for use in stables and carriage house without giving the subject any more attention than is required by a complete gravity system of water works. The Electric Pump is Automatic, Safe, Reliable, Compact, Clean, Economical, Simple, Noiseless. No Ashes! No Coal Dust! No Smoke! No Fire! No Gases! No Heating of the Atmosphere! No Valves to get out of Order! No attendance required! No Danger to Life! No Explosions!!!

It is always ready!

The Hall Electric Pump Company specially invites the most searching examination into the mechanism of the Electric Pump, and invites the criticism of experts upon the efficiency and reliability thereof. The Pump has already been in actual every day use for many months, and as its need in this city is well understood, so it is hoped that the citizens will be sufficiently interested to call and see it at work. Its use will reduce the size and weight of House Tanks very materially. It provides a constant supply of fresh water, without the labor of hand-power or any personal attention other than a fortnightly supply of oil. It is so free from danger to life that the youngest child may receive all the Electricity passing through it, without even feeling it.

The Hall Electric Pump Company is incorporated under the laws of the State of New Jersey and is made up of Plainfield citizens. It proposes to sell Electric Pumps and the power to run them to the citizens of Plainfield, and its aim is to deal with its patrons on the most liberal and accommodating terms that are consistent with resonable business prudence.

NEWS FROM CHICAGO.

THE CITY RAPIDLY FILLING UP WITH REPUBLICANS.

A General Quieting Down of the Several Booms—All Waiting Now for the Arrival of the Eastern Delegations.

CHICAGO, June 16.—Notwithstanding that many more people have arrived here since yesterday who will more or less take a hand in the selection of the two men to represent the Republicans in the national contest, yet it is impossible to form any positive idea as to what will be the outcome of the Convention, and it is clear to be seen that no marked progress can be made toward the selection of a ticket before Sunday or Monday. The first excitement of the canvass is over, having died out for want of new material to feed upon, and to-day there is a decided lull. The Western States have exhausted their first store of booms, so to speak. They are now waiting for Eastern delegates to come. If the five or six States surrounding and including Illinois, which have candidates were permitted to proceed with the balloting, without the rest of the Union, the country would be treated to a spectacle fully as exciting as a horse race, in which every horse was sure to win. No one of these five Western candidates is nearer a nomination than he was a week ago, except in point of time.

Delegates who are here, and delegations on the way here from states that have no home candidate, are practically unpledged. The Pacific Coast is reported to be solid for Blaine, yet the friends of the recognized candidates protest that their men have votes in each of the Pacific delegations. It is no doubt true that no further progress will be made here until the New York delegates arrive, who will reach here some time Saturday. They are anxiously awaited; but when they get here the chances are that they will be so divided that no one of the standard candidates will receive a noteworthy advantage from them. The Western managers are looking to Mr. Platt for light on the New York delegation.

Not much time is likely to be spent considering the platform. No State or section is likely to demand a plank that will not be granted readily and with practical unanimity. Protection will be the leading feature, qualified only by some generalities that will look like tariff reform. If the Pacific slope want an anti-Chinese plank, it will be allowed to frame it to suit itself. If the Mississippi States want protecting levees built, they will be left free to say so. The other river and harbor States need only to ask in order to get what they want. Ohio will be allowed to have as much wood tariff as she wants, while Louisiana may possible be offered a sugar bounty in lieu of a duty.

It is thought by leading Republicans now here that the liquor question will be given the go by. They say there is nothing to be hoped for from the Prohibitionists, and it is not worth while to attempt to interfere with the monopoly which that party claims upon this question. A service-pension plank is favored by the Grand Army element among the delegates, the Alger camp being especially solicitous in that direction. The study of the platform makers will be to catch electoral votes by committing the party at large to the special demands of States. If a like study shall be applied to the selection of candidates with a view to securing doubtful States, it is not improbable that the catalogue of Western candidates may be so far recast as to be unrecognizable in the result.

Mrs. John A. Logan's part in the canvass, spiced as it is with a tinge of bitterness toward the other candidates, is likely to create a good deal of feeling. In conversation with several newspaper men she paid a high tribute to Gen. Alger, saying: "He has always been honorable in his every dealing. People say that he is unknown. The reason for this is that he has never antagonized anybody. He has not abused other Republicans. This is more than can be said for some of the other candidates in the field."

PITTSBURG, Pa., June 16.—The Western trains were crowded yesterday with distinguished Republicans en route to Chicago. Among the most prominent at the Union Depot this morning were Senator Hoar, of Massachusetts, Hale, of Maine, Hiscock, of New York, Aldrich, of Rhode Island, and Stewart, of Nevada, Congressmen Payson, of Illinois, Steele, of Indiana, and Hayden, of Massachusetts, Gen. Cogswell, Delegate-at-large from the same State, and Chairman Cooper of Pennsylvania. There was a disposition among the Eastern men to maintain a strict silence regarding their choice. Senator Hale said his people had no choice. Senator Hiscock said he would name no one at present. Senator Hoar, when asked if he would accept the Permanent Chairmanship of the Convention if tendered him would not say. Gen. Cogswell and Congressman Hayden said that they had no preference. Judge Payson, of Illinois, thought the only really strong candidates were Sherman and Gresham. A number of others were to be used as foot stools until the proper time came to vote for some leading candidate.

Amateur Running Record Broken.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 16.—At the special Yale Athletic meeting held at Hamilton Park, Brooks and Meyers, the two great Yale runners, had their records beaten by C. H. Ferrill, '89. He ran 250 yards in 25 4-5 seconds, breaking the amateur record of America. He ran the 150 yards dash in 15 seconds. The record has previously been 15⅕ seconds.

Freight Cars Destroyed By Fire.

PHILADELPHIA, June 16.—A big fire occurred on the Pennsylvania Railroad near Fifty-sixth street yesterday afternoon caused by a car jumping track and upsetting an oil tank. Twenty freight cars were soon in flames and great difficulty was experienced in extinguishing. Loss about $50,000.

Death of Col. W. H. Forbes.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., June 16.—Col. W. L. Forbes, Secretary of the Subtropical Exposition, died here yesterday from heart disease. His remains will be taken to Philadelphia to-day for interment.

BASEBALL INTELIGENCE.

New Yorks Again Downed—Chicago and Brooklyn Winners—Other Games.

NEW YORK, June 16.—Getzein was down to pitch for the Detroits yesterday, but the injury to his leg from O'Rourke's line hit proved to be more severe than was thought at first, and he was sent home. Conway was put in his place. New York put in Welsh and O'Rourke for their batteries, Ward going to third. Score:

Detroit	3
New York	2

BOSTON vs. CHICAGO.

BOSTON, June 16.—The Chicago club marched upon the ground in their regulation style. They had no mascot but were guided by Capt. Anson. The home team done good work and as a result the following score was recorded:

Boston	5
Chicago	2

INDIANAPOLIS vs. PHIADELPHIA.

PHILADELPHIA, June 16.—The third game of the series on the grounds here yesterday between the Phillies and Hoosiers resulted in a victory for the Hoosiers. Score;

Indianapolis	5
Philadelphia	4

WASHINGTON vs. PITTSBURG.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—The Senators succeeded in doing up the Pittsburgs yesterday with great ease. Score:

Washington	7
Pittsburg	3

BROOKLYN vs. BALTIMORE.

BALTIMORE, June 16.—Rather a small crowd witnessed the second game of the series between the Brooklyn and the Baltimore clubs. The players of both nines did good work, but the Brooklyn's must have done the best from the result:

Brooklyn	3
Baltimore	1

WARRING KANSAS TOWNS.

Everybody on the Fight in the Rival Villages of Hugston and Woodsdale.

TOPEKA, Kan., June 15.—All the people of the warring towns of Hugston and Woodsdale are under arms, and squads of armed and mounted citizens from both places patrol the country night and day for miles around.

The gangs act as foraging parties and have but little respect for the property of others. On Monday night two of these patrols, belonging to different factions, met and a conflict ensued, during which a regular fusilade was kept up. Three dead horses were found on the prairie next morning. Farmers are riding about armed instead of tilling their soil, and crops are likely to fail in consequence.

Officers of the Printers' Union.

KANSAS CITY, June 15.—The election of officers in the International Typographical Union Convention yesterday resulted as follows: President, E. T. Plank, San Francisco; First Vice-President, Charles Haye, Leavenworth, Kan.; Second Vice-President, Columbus Hall, Washington; Third Vice-President, D. J. Welton, Chicago; Secretary and Treasurer, W. I. McCleery, Chicago. The term of office was changed from one to two years. It was voted to hold the next Convention at Denver.

"Big Ed" Rice Found Guilty in Canada.

COBOURG, Ont., June 15.—Edward Rice, alias "Big Ed" Rice, was found guilty yesterday, of the robbery of 1,000 five-dollar bills from the Canadian Express Company at Port Hope in October 1883. Rice has been connected with some of the largest bank and express jobs in Canada and the United States. His latest exploit was in Indiana, from which State he jumped his bail to Canada. Sentence was deferred.

Knights Denounce Cigarette Pictures.

CINCINNATI, June 15.—National District 225, Knights of Labor Cigarmakers in session here, adopted a resolution yesterday condeming the placing of pictures of nude women in cigar boxes. The assembly elected Anthony Leininger, of Philadelphia, District Master Workman, Conrad Hoffmas, Secretary, and Otto Fischer, Treasurer, the latter two of Cincinnati.

Dan Lockwood Denies It.

BUFFALO, June 16.—Daniel N. Lockwood, yesterday afternoon said there was no truth in a published story that he would, at President Cleveland's request, resign the office of United States District Attorney, and run for Congress, so as to be near Mr. Cleveland at Washington.

Will Reduce Wages.

PITTSBURG, June 16.—A committee of Troy manufacturers appeared before the Convention of Iron and Steel Manufacturers of the United States to-day, and presented their scale providing for a reduction in wages. They stated that they could not and would not grant the workers' demands.

A Boy Sentenced for Life.

ATLANTA, Ga., June 16.—For murdering his brother on March 30, in a quarrel over five cents, Neal Stark, the sixteen year old boy, was convicted of murder in the first degree and sentenced for life.

Murderer Bowers Must Hang.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 16.—The Supreme Court has affirmed the decision of the lower court in the case of Dr. J. Milton Bowers, who was convicted of the charge of murdering his wife and was sentenced to be hanged.

BY THE WAY.

—Oh! for a Y. M. C. A. building.

—That "settled it,"—Dust—shower of last evening.

—The members of the High school graduating class, hold daily rehearsals in Music Hall.

—The scholars of the Rodman Seminary will be taken on a pincic to Washington Rock on Tuesday next.

—Another of those elegant Behr Bros. pianos was delivered by Freeholder Vanderbeek to Mr. Jeremiah Manning's residence today.

—Mr. Joseph W. Gavett will lead the Young Men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A. Monday evening. Topic, "Palm tree Christians," Psalm 92:12. All men welcome.

—A colored picked nine from this city were defeated by a Somerville nine in a match game of ball on the Somerset street grounds, Thursday afternoon, by a score of 13 to 10.

—The openings into the New street sewer were inadequate to carry off the immense volume of water that fell last evening, and New street was entirely submerged.

—The Central Railroad Company will in the near future cut a driveway through the station park, so as to allow express wagons and other vehicles to drive up near the track.

—A regular business meeting of the Order of American Firemen was held in Fireman's Hall, on Thursday evening. Only business of importance to the order was transacted.

—Workers' Training Class will be held at the Y. M. C. A. rooms as follows: This evening at 8 o'clock. To-morrow morning at 9 o'clock, and the women's class Monday afternoon at 4:45 o'clock.

—Hope chapel will entertain its scholars and friends on Tuesday evening next, June 19, with a social entertainment. A pleasing programme has been arranged by the lady teachers of the school.

—Mr. H. T. Smith, the grocer, has located a water cooler in front of his store at Fifth street and Broadway, for the benefit of the public. This is a commendable enterprise and is worthy of mention.

—Do not neglect the only opportunity you may have in your lifetime, of getting rid of that disfiguring mole or those feet tormentors that warn you of coming storm. Dr. Kimbell is now at the City Hotel.

—A dog said to belong to Mr. M. M. Thorn, bit a boy on North avenue, on Wednesday. The dog's teeth penetrated the clothing and lacerated the flesh to such an extent that blood flowed freely from the wound.

—The residents and property owners on West Fourth street, between Park and Central avenues are grateful to the Street Committee, and the Street Commissioner, for the generous distribution of crushed stone on that thoroughfare.

—The Emperor died at Berlin, yesterday morning, at 11:20, and the news was received at THE PRESS office and the flag on the Chautauqua building was raised at half-mast, before ten o'clock. That's the kind of "exclusive telegraphic franchise" we have.

—The family of Mr. J. Mair of Mountain avenue were seated in a carriage driving to church on Sunday morning last. At the corner of Front street and Elm place, one of the wheels on the vehicle collapsed and the occupants were hurled into the roadway. No one was injured.

—A delegation from Plainfield Division, Branch No. 4, A. O. H. will participate in the ceremonies attending the laying of the corner stone of the new Catholic church at Rahway to-morrow. The Division held a meeting on Thursday evening and decided to attend the exercises.

—The same cause that postponed the Park Avenue Baptist's lawn festival, Thursday evening, greatly interfered with its success, last night. A number of patrons, however, arrived before the worst of the storm; and a good time was had in-doors, and a little money made for the cause.

—Edsall's advertisement today will be of interest to the graduates at the coming commencement, as well as the public generally. He does not suggest a way out of the little difficulty between them and the Board of Education, but gives information on other matters that is quite as important.

—Officer Flannigan arrested a man named John Drake last night for being drunk, and this morning Drake was fined $5.

—The first excursion of the season from this city will be that of the W. C. T. U. to Long branch, Ocean Grove and Asbury Park.

—In order to do justice to the entertainment by the Ministering Children's League of Grace church, held in the W. C. T. U. rooms last evening, THE PRESS is obliged to defer publishing the account until Monday.

—You can preserve your comfort and health, besides saving a twenty dollar coal bill, by using one of those gasoline cook stoves offered by Pierson of 42 West Front street, and pictured on the front page. It will do as much work as a range.

—A strawberry and iced cream festival under the auspices of the Union Village M. E. Sunday school, will be held at the residence of Mr. David D. Smalley, Jr., at Union Village, on Thursday, the 21st instant. The proceeds will be devoted to church purposes.

—The Young People's Society of the First Presbyterian church, last evening, held a sociable in the chapel, that was a very enjoyable affair. During the evening refreshments were served, and a programme of vocal and instrumental music, recitations, etc., was rendered.

—Special Officer James Babbitt found the front door of a grocery store on Liberty street, open on Thursday night. He entered the place, but could find no one. Whether or not burglars had entered is not known. The proprietor was sent for and the door was securely locked.

—Despatches to the Newark papers from Easton state that Mrs. Ramsey of this city was put on trial Thursday, for being implicated in the death of Jennie Osborne several months ago. The report is in error. Mrs. Ramsey renewed her bail to appear at the October term of court.

—During these hot days it is not an unusual sight to see a line of private carriages continually drawn up to the curb around the corner of Park and North avenues. In some are the nurses and children only, in others the older members of Plainfield's best families, all there for the purpose of partaking of the far-famed and universally commended Chautauqua Pharmacy soda, served with the pure juices of all the fruits in season, and with Mr. Reynolds' special syrups that have grown so popular.

Bishop Vincent Will Talk to His Neighbors.

Speaking to the hundreds of scholars assembled in the High School Hall, yesterday morning, Miss Bulkley told of one who had resided so long "next door" and who had been so kind and courteous a neighbor, but who was soon to move away. At the request of the Board of Education, she continued, he has consented to deliver the address to the graduates of this year, but she was afraid some of the younger folks before her, would be denied the privilege and pleasure of hearing him on that occasion.

"How many of you will join in an invitation to Bishop Vincent to speak to us here some morning before our school closes?" she questioned. Instantly half-a-thousand hands were raised, and a committee was appointed to present the invitation to the Bishop.

With the characteristic courtesy that the Bishop accords all who approach him, the delegation was received, and its request acceded to. Bishop Vincent promised to speak to his little neighbors, in Assembly Hall, Monday morning next at nine o'clock.

Almost a Serious Conflagration.

The residence of Mr. T. S. Armstrong on Duer street, North Plainfield, had a narrow escape from total destruction by fire yesterday afternoon. The supposition is that the hired girl, who had been attending to her duties in the kitchen, accidentally brought her broom in contact with the fire in the kitchen range. After hanging the broom in the kitchen extension, the girl went to her room, and sparks from the burning wisps ignited with the woodwork in the room. Soon afterward Mr. Wm. H. Shotwell noticed smoke issuing from the building, and upon investigation it was found that a fire had gained considerable headway in the house. With the assistance of some of the clerks from Messrs. R. W. Rice & Co's store, Mr. Shotwell battled with the flames, and with much difficulty the fire was extinguished.

Worse Than It Was Before.

The work on the City Park, which was announced as begun, in THE PRESS, on Wednesday, was continued for just one-half day. A few loads of soil were dumped in one corner, sufficient to obstruct a pathway through the Park that had been used for many years as a short-cut for residents of Ninth street and its vicinity.

If there is any money left of the appropriation made for the renovation of the City Park, it could not be spent more to the purpose than in carting that soil away again.

Free Concert.

Following is the programme of the free concert to the be rendered by Prof. Conde's string orchestra at Caspar's Hotel on Monday evening:

PROGRAMME:

1. Yaeger March.....Faust.

9. Scottische, "Hello Baby,".....E. Harrigan.

Opposing the Opinion of the Corporation Counsel.

W. R. Weeks, Esq., State Counsel of the Order of Exempt Firemen, appeared before City Judge Suydam, yesterday afternoon, in an appeal to set aside the opinion of Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh denying that the $500 tax deduction to firemen applied to the exempt as well as the active.

Mr. Weeks was received by a Committee from the Exempt Firemen's Association of Plainfield, consisting of City Treasurer Alex. Titsworth, ex-Chief Auguste Saltzman, City Assessor Joseph A. Hubbard and Chief Thaddeus O. Doane.

Judge Suydam gave the appeal his earnest attention, and was plainly much interested in the plea. He expressed his sincere sympathy with the firemen in the matter and declared his belief in the justice of the demand. Although he thought that in equity the members of the Association, who were represented by the Committee and the Counsellor before him, should be exempted, yet it would not be professional courtesy, even if just, to reverse the opinion of the City Attorney during that officer's absence.

In every other place in the State—including North Plainfield—the exempt are allowed the same reduction as the active firemen. The adverse opinion given by Corporation Counsel Marsh of this city, was a verbal one, and rendered on the eve of his departure for Europe. The exempts of Plainfield, consequently, hope he may have decided hastily and that such decision will eventually be set aside.

The Century Bicycle Run.

Thirty-six bicyclists from Long Island, New York, Orange, Newark and other places, started from Newark at four o'clock this morning in the great Century run between New York and Philadelphia. The bicyclers arrived in this city at 7:21 and were served with a light breakfast at the bicycle club house. Here the riders were joined by Captain F. L. C. Martin and a delegation from the Plainfield Bicycle club. The latter acted as a pilot between this city and Trenton.

Following is the route laid out, together with the time of leaving and the distance traveled:

SCHEDULE:

and by Ferry to Philadelphia.

North Plainfield Graduates.

As before stated in these columns, the commencement exercises of the North Plainfield Public school, will take place in Warren Mission chapel on Thursday evening of next week, admission to which will be by ticket. The graduating class numbers eighteen, which includes the following: Misses Mara B. Martin, May E. Young, Fannie I. Spencer, Marie C. Loizeaux, May P. Clawson, May E. Hughes, Edith Needham, Lillie L. Huff, Carrie C. Boice, Florence B. Clark, Grace M. Nevius, and Masters Justina M. Smith, Freeman J. Shotwell, William Y. Westervelt, Harry Williams, Frank W. Howland, David M. Boe, Stacy Raynolds.

The class motto is "He conquers who overcomes himself."

Last Night's Storm.

A severe rain and hail storm passed over the city last evening, and for an hour or more the rain came down in torrents, flooding many of the streets. The wind blew a perfect gale and there was a continuous flash of lightning. In several places large limbs were blown from trees and sent whirling to the ground below.

The lightning played around the electric light station, but Manager Moore reports that the company sustained only slight damage. All the street lamps in the west section of the city went out.

Lightning struck some trees in the rear of Mr. R. W. Rice's residence on Central avenue, but no other serious damage is reported.

Perseverance Lodge.

At a convention of this lodge held last night, officers for the ensuing term were elected as follows:

The Righteous Living Forever Shall Shine—Trio [Schnecker
The King of Love my Shepherd is.....Shelley
The Heavens are Telling—(Creation).....Hadyn
Organ—Festal March.....Heap

—During the past week there has been quite a boom in the sale of building lots at Hillside cemetery. Several high-priced lots were disposed of.

—To see the base-ball darlings play,
Is jolly; all the ladies say
That nothing could be jollier,
Unless it's going 'round to see,
And buy, the lovely jewelry
At mart of Asa Collier.

POISON IN OUR DRINK.

Not Alcohol—which one may avoid—but BRASS AND LEAD which one takes unsuspectingly. "How—When—Where?" Well, say, in a glass of Soda. Pity the most popular and wholesome of all artificial drinks—which Soda honestly is—should ever deserve a touch of suspicion, but

is that in some Soda Fountains economy and mechanical facility are studied to the neglect of the weightier matter of purity. Some men are too "smart;" some Soda Fountains are too "ingenious."

We have recently had made a Fountain which secures Absolute Purity for the beverages. Rather pretty, too, we think. We selected the "Matthews' make" because it is the only fount in which the syrups have positively no metallic contact, being discharged direct from glass jars into the tumblers—no tubes; while the waters are contained in and flow through solid block tin,

PURE AS CRYSTAL, COLD AS CHARITY.

We make our own syrups—from REAL FRUIT JUICES, or from chocolate or coffee, etc., as the case may be; no nonsense of essences or make believe.

New drinks? Yes, some of our own contriving. "Winks?" Not a wink; not licensed for winks, and we have an opinion of druggists who take a wink.

Come and try the new Fountain; if you like your drink we'll thank you for saying so, and you'll pay us five cents and come again—it will do you good; only don't come Sundays; no use—Fountain WON'T WORK.

"COMMENCEMENT!"

YES; next Thursday is the time, and every one of you charming graduates doubtless want to look as much more charming as you possibly can on that important occasion. It may be that you have forgotten some of your needed "Fixings," and so we would just mention a few of the many articles we have at your disposal.

FOR INSTANCE, we name a very elegant line of pretty Sash Ribbons in the fashionable tints, viz: Pink, White, Blue, Cardinal, and Black, in plain and moire. Spanish Lace Scarfs and Fichus, in black and white. Satin Fans, in white and black—hand painted—and a large assortment of Fancy Fans, including new novelties. White and Colored Kid Gloves, of the popular "Foster" and "Harris" make.

THE largest assortment of fine neck Ruchings, and Embroidered and Plain Handkerchiefs, and Ribbons, this side of New York. Handsome Dainty Laces, fine Linen Collars and Cuffs, Silk Gloves, Lace Mits, Fast Black Hose, new Veilings, Embroidered Ties. Extracts and Perfumeries; together with the largest stock of Dry and Fancy Goods of every description; including Carpets, Oil-Cloths, Mattings, etc., shown in this part of the State. All are offered at the LOWEST PRICES consistent with FIRST QUALITY OF GOODS.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. Mulford Estil, the Park avenue stationer, will sail for Europe on July 4th.

Mr. S. J. Samelson, of this city, a member of the 19th Sep. Co., of New York, is in camp at Peekskill, N. Y.

Miss Florence Randolph musically entertained a select few of her friends at her residence on Peace street, this afternoon.

Mr. Timothy Day, a former resident of this city, but now located at Riverdale, N. Y., is spending a day or two with his parents here.

Miss L. Walduck of Eighth street, is spending a few days at Mendham, N. J., prior to her usual Summer vacation at Liberty, N. Y.

Mr. W. Rockhill Potts and family left the city yesterday to spend the Summer, at Monmouth Beach, West Long Branch. They will occupy their own cottage.

To-night is the last opportunity for the public to see that remarkable, little electric house pump, that is at work in the window of Field & Randolph's pharmacy.

Assemblyman Ulrich started for Chicago last evening to be present at the National Republican Convention which meets on Tuesday next. He goes as an alternate from this district.

Miss Annie Lincoln, the florest, has purchased from Mr. B. R. Force, the plot of ground opposite the latter's residence on West Fourth street. Miss Lincoln, will probably build on the site before long.

Mr. Joseph W. Yates has presented the High school with a number of specimens of foreign woods—the beginning of a cabinet collection that he and others will further add to the value and interest of by additional gifts.

The funeral of the late Borough Councilman Alex. Milne, who died at Paterson recently, took place from his late home in North Plainfield yesterday afternoon, Rev. Dr. Yerkes officiating. Interment was made in Greenwood.

Mr. George E. Hoadley has taken up his residence with his daughter, Mrs. W. P. Smith, Netherwood. Mr. Hoadley has much improved in health during the past few months, and is now better in every way than he was when he last resided here.

A member of the New York Bicycling Club, stopped over in this city for a short time, yesterday afternoon on his way to Baltimore. The rider told a PRESS reporter that he left 61st street, New York city at nine A. M., and arrived here early in the afternoon.

City Clerk Oliver B. Leonard will address the Reform Club meeting to-morrow evening, and during his remarks he will allude particularly to the secret history of the rum traffic in Plainfield. Mr. Leonard will present some facts and figures, which many persons will doubtless be glad of an opportunity to learn.

Those of our subscribers in North Plainfield who have been supplied with the PRESS by our faithful carrier, John B. Jones, have, for a few days, missed the sight of his bright face and the sound of his nimble footsteps as he hastened to leave the paper at their doors. He is now enjoying himself at the sea shore, being on a visit to his aunt at Long Branch, where he will remain for two or three weeks.

The Third Day's Session.

The New England Baptist Missionary Convention held its third day's session in Mt. Olive Baptist church yesterday.

Letters were read from the several churches, which showed an increase in membership, progress in mission work, and financial success.

The editors and business manager of the Baptist Monitor was tendered the hearty welcome to the convention, and a vote of thanks was given them.

Upon the presentation of the report of the Committee on Education a lively discussion took place, after which the report was adopted.

The report of the Committee on Fields was very encouraging and showed an extension of mission work. Several new churches and societies as well as individuals and ministers became members of the convention.

At 4 P. M., a sermon was preached by Mr. G. Hunt, and at 8 P. M., Rev. Harvey Johnson, D. D., read a paper upon "The necessity of unity in our denominational work."

A committee was appointed to tender the sympathy of this convention to Rev. Wm. Jackson, in the loss of his wife by death.

The Committee of Arrangements presented their reports of appointments for the Sunday services.

All That Can be Desired.

A correspondent writes to enquire when the Music Hall is to be refitted with proscenium boxes, another gallery, etc. We do not know why the question is asked us. No such foolish and untrue statement appeared in THE PRESS.

The Music Hall possesses more gallery now than patrons to fill it. The Board of Directors have no intention of building another; nor of building boxes. They have been "in a box" themselves, ever since the opening of the Hall, trying to fill the auditorium with something besides bad echoes.

Architect Teale, however, has been requested by the Board to turn his attention towards the discovery or invention of a scheme to overcome the wretched acoustics of the Hall; and the Board naturally feels that the public ought to be satisfied if it accomplishes that.

SUBURBAN SAUNTERINGS.

A Full Account of the Strawberry and Iced Cream Festival given by the M. E. Church, Together with the Names of those Who Helped Make the Affair a Success—Crushed Stone Roads in Fanwood, etc.

The regular Summer season of iced cream festivals was opened on Tuesday night in a very satisfactory way. The Methodists have taken the lead this year, and they could not have chosen a better time. Anticipating a crowd, the committee had selected Excelsior Hall as the place for the festival, for it is a more roomy apartment than the church. As it was, every one had plenty of room, with an opportunity for a little perambulation if they cared for it, and they could not sit where they pleased. The change from the church to the truck house was considered a wise one, and the arrangement will probably be continued. M. Baker long-suffering and of great spirit, stood industriously over the iced cream freezers all the evening, and helped with rare discrimination and an abiding sense of the ethics of iced cream helping. It requires some experience to take out "three-quarters lemon, one quarter vanilla, and the rest chocolate;" or to carry in one's head such a request as "four plates of vanilla, two of lemon and chocolate mixed, one of vanilla and lemon and a little chocolate but not much, and two of lemon and chocolate with more chocolate than lemon." Then to fill orders in their turn so as not to create quarrels among the waitresses, to keep a watchful eye upon his subordinates, and worst of all, to look after the unruly boys in the rear of the building, all these tasks and many more, fell to Mr. Baker's lot, and he discharged them all. That is what comes of generously offering one's services; there were many others in the same box as Mr. Baker. But they didn't seem to worry their minds about it. Running around the room, narrowly escaping dreadful collisions, quieting enraged patrons, all these things would have driven hirelings wild. With a labor of love the case is different, the participants only smile and look pleased, and probably would continue to do so were all the terrors of the world, the flesh, and the Devil suddenly to fall upon them. Mrs. Richardson and Mrs. T. J. Nicholl were among the waitresses, and were kept busy from one end of the evening to the other. Mr. W. L. Jamison aided the door-keeper in collecting tribute. The faces of many well-known townsmen were seen among the guests. Mr. Louis Kennedy appeared with a delegation of sisters. Miss Henrietta Frentz and Miss Ida Frentz, Mrs. DeForest Thomae, Miss Alice Stuart, Mrs. Lewis V. Miller, Mr. W. Jamieson, and a great host of natives and foreigners, were among the crowds that thronged the hall. Master Louis Bene was observed walking about the entrance and making various running comments upon what was going on within. Mr. Bene's observations are always listened to with profound respect; they carry with them considerable weight, and in many cases, a deep and abiding conviction. The festival may therefore be said to have been a decided success, and while the exact financial result has not been stated, the proceeds will undoubtedly make a very welcome addition to the church's treasury.

The persons in charge of the distribution of the crushed stone used in Fanwood Township seem to be acting rather hastily. The layer of stone on Park avenue near Midway, and also around the corner formed by the intersection of Park and Mountain avenues. Is not the stone in these places being put on rather more thickly than advisable? As a gentleman who is an authority on road matters remarked, "It seems to be forgotten that all this stone will need a covering of finer stone on top, but with so much stone used in the beginning of the work, where is the fine stone to come from."

The receipts from last week's fair continue to increase, and they have now reached two hundred dollars, and this is outside of all expenses.

SUBURBAN SAUNTERER.

Progressive Euchre at Hotel Netherwood.

A progressive euchre party was given at Hotel Netherwood, last evening, and was thoroughly enjoyed by those of the guests who took part. There were five sets of partners, all of whom are experts and skilled players. Handsome prizes were awarded the winners as follows:

Ladies, first prize, Mrs. Wm. Bayne, Jr., of New York; second prize, Mrs. F. E. Miller, wife of the genial proprietor of the hotel; "booby" prize, Miss Holmes, of New York.

Gentlemen, first prize, Mr. Thos. Perkins; second prize, Mr. H. W. Williams; third prize, Mr. William Bayne, Jr., all of New York. Delightful music was rendered during the evening by the regular hotel orchestra.

SUNDAY SERVICES.

Services to-morrow in the Trinity Reformed church at 10:30 A. M., and 7:45 P. M. The pastor's subject in the evening will be "Journeying Heavenward,"

Services in the Park Avenue Baptist church to-morrow: Rev. J. K. Folwell of Westfield will preach at 10:30 A. M. The pastor, Rev. Asa Reed Dilts, will preach at 7:45 P. M., on the subject: "The Scepticism of Pilate."

—A car has been fitted up as a sprinkler and will hereafter be used to settle the dust on the New Jersey division of the Lehigh Valley railroad.

Frugal Jerseymen.

Police Commissioner Bell, of Brooklyn, on Thursday, received a communication from the Somerset County Board of Freeholders of New Jersey, signed by Wm. E. Jones of North Plainfield, President of the Board, and others, setting forth that the portion of Jersey in which these Freeholders vegetate has been much infested with horse thieves, whom they are very anxious to catch. Therefore the Board had passed a formal resolution requesting the Superintendent of Police of Brooklyn to detail Detective Henry Miller, of the Fourteenth Precinct Police, Brooklyn, to visit Somerset county, N. J., to hunt down the thieves, "with the express understanding that the same is done without any cost or charge to said county or any member of said Board of Freeholders."

The emphatic reply which Commissioner Bell made to the frugal Jerseymen made it very plain that, inasmuch as the taxpayers of Brooklyn pay Detective Miller for his services, he is not to be permitted to work for the bucolic Jerseymen "free gratis, for nothing," at the expense of his present employers.—New York Herald.

WESTFIELD.

(The PRESS is for sale by W. W. French.)

Mrs. Stauffer of Stroudsburg, Pa., is in town on a visit to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Decker.

A social surprise was held at the residence of Mrs. Drew, on Prospect street, Thursday evening, given to her daughter Lucy, by Messrs. W. Brownie, and Hillsborough of Woodbridge. Several of her Westfield friends were present. Good music was furnished by Professors A. E. Wilcox and G. B. Urmston. Dancing was indulged in and an enjoyable time had by all.

To Whom It May Concern.

For the convenience of all householders, the Board of Health has licensed the following named persons to collect and transport kitchen swill: Jones & Co., for the Second Ward; J. H. Albert, for the Third Ward; David Drake, for First and Fourth Wards. These persons only, are authorized and regulated by law for removing such refuse matter. No ashes or rubbish will be allowed in the same receptacle with the swill. There is a penalty of $10, for violating these requirements. O. B. LEONARD, Secretary.

June 15, 1888.

A Nine Thousand Dollar Monument.

Messrs. Charles Potter, Jr., of West Seventh street, who is at present absent with his family in Europe, and his son-in-law, Mr. Joseph M. Titsworth, have ordered jointly from the Westerly Granite Works, of Westerly, R. I., monuments which will when completed aggregate a total cost of $9,000. The monuments will be finished and placed in position in the new Hillside Cemetery between now and Fall.

GERMANY AGAIN MOURNS

Emperor Frederick's Long-Suffering Ends at Potsdam Yesterday.

TOUCHING DEATH BED SCENE.

THE IMPERIAL FAMILY AND MINISTRY WITH HIM IN HIS LAST MOMENTS.

His Son Succeeds Him as William II., Emperor of Germany and King of Prussia—Before His Death Frederick Places the Hand of the Empress in that of Bismarck—The Funeral to Take Place Next Monday—Short Sketch of the Dead Kaiser—The New Emperor.

THE LATE EMPEROR FREDERICK.

BERLIN, June 16.—The death of Emperor Frederick at Potsdam yesterday at twelve minutes past 11 a. m., has cast a deep gloom throughout Germany and is deeply deplored all over the civilized world. The announcement of his death caused great excitement in this city. It was made known by the issue, shortly after noon, by the following publication in a special edition of the official gazette of the Empire:

"The royal sufferer has ended his earthly career. By God's decree the Emperor King, our most gracious master, passed to his eternal rest shortly after 11 o'clock this morning, after long and grievous sufferings, which were borne with admirable fortitude and submission to God's will. The royal house and the German people have been twice bereaved within a short time. They deeply mourn the all too early decease of our much beloved ruler.

("Signed) MINISTER OF STATE."

At 8 o'clock in the morning it became evident that death was near at hand, the Empress caused the royal family to be summoned, and in a few moments thereafter all gathered around the bedside. Dr. Koegel, Court Chaplain, who had been summoned by telegram from Ems, did not arrive in time to administer the last sacrament. Dr. Persius therefore officiated in his stead. Pastor Rogge was also present in the death chamber.

The most pathetic scene of the death bed, was, when the Kaiser, raising himself by an effort, took the hand of the Empress and placed it in that of Prince Bismarck. It was as though he wished to make known his wish for a peace between these two forever.

At 10 o'clock yesterday morning, Sir Morrell Mackenzie stepped from the sick chamber, quickly put on his hat and passing through the court yard, he whispered hurriedly to the Crown Prince, who, with blanched face followed the doctor back to his father's bedside, where the dying man lay with his head propped up by numerous pillows, with his thin, white hands resting upon the coverlet.

The death bed scene was most impressive. Dr. Mackenzie stood between the table and the bed holding in either hand the instruments and medicines. Prince William stood opposite the doctor, while at the lower end of the bed sat the Empress, who afterward sank upon her knees by the bedside, and intently watched the fluttering gasps for breath of the beloved husband.

At the foot of the bed knelt the four daughters and Prince Henry and wife. Princess Frederick Charles brought some roses and remained with the family during the last moments. The only sound breaking the stillness was the voice of the chapiain as he murmured the comforting words of the Litany. At 11 o'clock Dr. Mackenzie beckoned to the Empress, who silently bent over the bed and fervently kissed the brow of her husband. At 12 minutes after 11 Dr. Mackenzie took out his watch and solemly pronounced the Emperor dead.

After Death.

BERLIN, June 16.—The will of the Emper Frederick was opened last evening. In it the Emperor ordered that his remains be buried in the Garrison Church of Potsdam, near the tombs of Frederick the Great and the Great Elector.

After a post-mortem examination the body was clothed in the uniform of a field marshal. The church in which it reposes has been filled with flowers. Gardes-du-Corps occupy the anti-chambers.

William, the late Crown Prince, officially received Prince Bismarck and the Ministers at the Fredericks kron Palace in the afternoon, as German Emperor and King of Prussia. All were deeply affected at the interview.

Among the touching expressions of sympathy and condolence received by the Empress Victoria is a despatch from the Queen Regent of Spain, who telegraphs that as one who has lost a dear husband, she hopes God will comfort Her Majesty as He has comforted her.

The Empress has also received a telegram from Madrid announcing that the Cortes unanimously adopted an address of condolence after eloquent and sympathetic speeches by Prime Minister Sagasta, Senor Canovas de Castillo, formerly Chief of the Ministry, and other distinguished statesmen.

Prince Bismarck announced in the Federal Council the death of the Emperor Frederick. His voice was choked with emotion; his words were almost inaudible, and at times he could hardly articulate.

Advices have been received that the bells were told in every capital of Europe on news of the sad event.

In accordance with the wishes of the late Emperor and of the Empress, Emperor William II. has ordered that the funeral be held Monday morning.

Sketch of Frederick's Life.

Frederick III., Emperor of Germany, was born October 8, 1831, in the royal palace at Potsdam. That historic pile was built by Frederick the Great at the close of the Seven Years' War. Frederick was the only son of the late Emperor William. His mother was Princess Augusta of Saxe Weimar—a heroic women, so recently the widowed Empress of Germany. She saw the Fatherland, when down-trodden and dismembered, regain its strength and rise to prosperity and splendor.

Her boy was a handsome young prince, a manly soldier by nature, who began his life under her care when they were almost outcasts and fugitives from the oppressors of Germany. Notwithstanding wars and days of terror, the Prince was carefully educated and trained for statesmanship and the throne.

When about seven years old he accompanied his father to England, where they were received with befitting honors by the Queen and her Ministry.

The young German was pleased with Victoria and particularly fascinated with the little Princess bearing her mother's name. The attachment was mutual, and Prince Albert said a good word for the imperial lad and the Queen's family encouraged him to make love to the little Princess Victoria.

The result of their billing and cooing was an engagement.

The gallant young German Prince was married to the Queen of England's daughter in 1858. There has been a great deal of history made since that day—America torn to pieces, reunited and saved; France humiliated and made a Republic and Germany lifted to the apex of power and glory. During all those years the little Prince grew to manhood and he and his English wife wore blessed with children and grandchildren.

There was a high old time when those pretty royal babes were married. Their return to Germany was an event, and it was crowned with an ovation. The cliffs of the Rhine were illuminated with banners and soaring fireworks. Never did the big classic hosteleries do such business. Art and science and all the resources of the vast empire contributed to the general rejoicing and the solid old city of Berlin was garlanded with flowers and imperial bunting.

All the world loves a lover, and those stolid Germans shed tears like children in the midst of their festivities. It was a great day for the Fatherland—a day that England and Germany have not yet forgotten.

After the music and the flowers and the pomp and ceremony of the great wedding, the King was stricken with a painful malady. The young Prince was obliged to become Prince Regent, and in October, 1858, he received his appointment with full powers.

He set about to reform the army, and so disturbed the conservative Germans that he brought on a constitutional crisis. The question led to a prolonged contest between the King and Parliament, which resulted in the appearance of Bismarck on the scene, and he was called in to fight the King's battles. He proved a man of marvellous strength and resource. His genius was so unexpected that the Empire was stirred to its centre.

Meanwhile Prince Frederick, who was full of English ideas which he had gotton from his yellowhaired wife and the lordly dudes whom he had met when he was courting, was getting in his best work for civilization and education, but at last, when the old fogies pressed him too closely, he addressed a remonstrance to his father and gave the country to understand that if he was not allowed his rights they could have his sword and resignation. In plain English, he determined to be treated like a white man or he would withdraw and go into other business.

Of course, the old Kaiser did not openly countenance his radicalism, but down in his deep German heart he liked his son's courage. However, the old warrior told his son that he must be more cautious and not tell too much truth at one time.

The trouble was patched up and letters written back and forth between Berlin and England and the wheels of the Empire allowed to revolve once more.

The next event that disturbed the combinations on the European chess board was the death of the King of Denmark and those endless complications which caused many an Amercan to despair in trying to understand the Schleswig-Holstein question. In 1866 there was war all around and Prussia, with only one ally to fight with her, sent out her forces to meet the entire resources of the Confederation.

The Crown Prince was put in command of the army of Selisia. The country was rough, the landscape broken with mountains, and there was any amount of discipline and hard fighting for the young Prince and his men. But they kept their wits about them and in the end the Germans won victory.

It would take a dozen pages to contain a detailed account of those wars and the wars that followed. A hundred and fifty engineers were kept busy changing the maps of Europe to keep pace with the German victories. At one time the Prussian armies were within sight of Vienna, the capital of Austria. The end resulted in the peace which excluded Austria from Germany and founded the confederation of the North.

By this time the Prince wanted to return to domestic life once more and see his English wife and the children. He had that satisfaction and four years of peace followed.

In the campaign of 1870-71 the Crown Prince once more came to the front as a public character and issued from the unparalleled struggle heir apparent to the Imperial Crown. Considering his temperament, his English wife and his hot German blood, he was a modest, capable man, but he never took a back seat for anybody, not even Bismarck. During the fierce and sanguinary struggle between Germany and France the Prince, who had become a powerful military athlete, went in for blood and victory.

He invaded Alsace by passing through the Vosges Mountains. Marshal McMahon had a force exceeding forty thousand men, but Queen Victoria's son-in-law got ahead of them, chopped up a French division and routed the Marshal on the field of Woerth. He rode ahead of his armies and gave the great generals of France all they wanted to think about.

He wore a plain frock, and appeared like an ordinary military man, except for his decorations, but the way he hustled the French forces showed everybody that he was a hero. With Von Moltke and other German chiefs, with his cavalry and portable telegraph lines, he harrassed the French, drove them from position to fortress and from fortress to disaster and death. Napoleon III. was hunted like a rabbit by the German troops; then came Sedan and despair for France.

The march on Paris followed Sedan, but after the capital was invested, the Crown Prince followed a line of duty that did not make him as conspicuous as when taking forts and storming batteries.

Dr. Russell, the London Times correspondent, says of him when they were dining at Les Ombrages. "The Crown Prince spoke of his wearines of the war and asked when the horrid work was to cease."

During the years of peace which succeeded the war between Germany and France the Crown Prince visited his men at their stations and frequently represented the old Kaiser in visits and ceremonials. He was quite a favorite at great celebrations. He attended the opening of the Suez Canal, visited Palestine, went to the Vienna Exhibition, travelled in Sweden, Denmark and Norway, and posted himself up on European affairs generally.

Prince Frederick was not a narrow man, as his recent declarations since his father's death show. He visited Victor Emanuel at Naples and gave him encouragement, and later attended the funeral of that distinguished Reformed King in Rome, in 1878. Frederick presided over the commission organized when the assassins Nobiling and Hodel endeavored to slay the Emperor William, and in 1881, it was his sad duty to witness the funeral of Alexander II., at St. Petersburg. On many other occasions he took part in public business, and was always ready to foster education, literature and art.

The excavations at Olympa, which yielded such fruit, owed much to him, and he did not forget his student days at Bonn. He was rector of that university, and he presided over one of its great student celebrations. In addition to his scholastic rank at Bonn, the degree of Doctor was conferred on him by the University of Konigsberg and Oxford. He also wrote one or two books—one on his brief Eastern tour and another on the war of 1866.

GERMANY'S NEW EMPRESS.

Next comes the unfortunate calamity which carried Frederick to his grave. During 1887 he was troubled anew with irritation in his throat, from which he had been suffering more or less for several years, but it was not until early in November that it was determined that he had a cancer.

Like many of his illustrious countrymen, like the great Napoleon himself who always looked under his bed before he said his prayers and went to sleep, Frederick was as superstitious as a pretty woman. The idea haunted him like a spectre, that he would never be Emperor, and that premature and sudden death would take him off.

But like a brave man he kept his dark forebodings to himself and smiled when his practical, level headed wife bade him forget his foolish fears. Alas, the grim conquerer came steadily on, casting the shadows of approaching death into his life.

In April of last year a despatch from Berlin said that he had been greatly benefited by the waters of Elms and he was confident of being completely cured of his ailments. The despatch also said that the "false rumors concerning his illness had caused great indignation in Berlin."

It is remembered how soon after this the truth began to leak out in spite of court censors and imperial denials that the Prince was seriously ill, and on May 2 a London special announced that Dr. Mackenzie had held that day a consultation with the Prince's physicians. After a prolonged examination of the Prince's throat it was publicly given out that his malady was a thickening of the vocal cords, but privately it was said that there were distinct symptoms of cancerous growth.

Two days later on the authority of the celebrated Virchow it was announced that there was no indications of cancerous growth or anything to create alarm. A few days after this the physicians said that they no longer needed Dr. Mackenzie's attendance.

The official newspapers published a history of the malady, showing that he was attacked by inflammation in the throat in the previous January, which subsequent efforts had failed to remedy, until Dr. Mackenzie, the English specialist, removed the foreign growth with his laryngeal forceps. It was then feared that the tumor would return in a worse form. In spite of deceptive Court bulletins, the Prince grew worse and Dr. Mackenzie was sent for again.

The story of his heroic struggles, the superhuman efforts of England's great physician whose skill brought him world wiee fame and imperial honors, has been fully told in these columns. It is a sad history of lofty, undaunted courage. Death came at last like a thief in the night, and Frederick III, the hope of Germany and the pride of England's Queen, followed his father to the grave.

The New Emperor.

Crown Prince William, who now succeeds his father as Emperor of Germany and King of Prussia, is a young man of entirely Prussian and military training and views. He is a totally different man from his father. He is not nearly so handsome, and his right arm is said to be several inches shorter than its fellow. His disposition is said to be morose and sullen. He is known to be under the domination of Bismarck. The war party in Germany are said to regard his accession to the throne as a menace to France. He is the idol of the soldiery, not for anything he has done, but because of his expressed hostility to everything French. His health is far from robust. He is said to have scrofula, and it is even hinted that his mental health is not altogether sound.

During the fatal illness of his father the present Emperor was devoted in his attentions, though it was said that he and his mother had not been on the best of terms latterly, owing chiefly to the fact that the heir to the throne took sides with Bismarck against the Empress on the subject of the proposed match between his sister, the Princess Victoria, and Alexander, of Battenburg.

Soon after the return of the Emperor Frederick from San Remo the present Emperor was appointed temporary regent. His duties gave him no opportunity of displaying the material of which he is made. His subjects know little about him, and European diplomatists and statemen knew even less. His speech last winter to his regiment, in which he declared, "We Brandenburgs fear God and nobody else," was taken to indicate that the speaker was what his grandfather had always desired him to be, a soldier before every thing. The speebh gave great offense in France, and was answered by expressions of hostility to Germany in quarters that had formerly maintained great reserve.

Frederick William, the new Crown Prince of Germany, is now six years of age. He is said to be a bright little boy who shows a fondness for playing soldier that is thought to prove the possession of hereditary traits.

CAPT. SELFUDGE CENSURED.

Found Not Guilty by the Court Martial But Censured by Secretary Whitney.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—The proceedings of the court martial in the case of Captain Thomas O. Selfudge, charged with target practice on the shore of an island of Japan, and for leaving unexploded shells which were afterwards exploded with fatal results by natives, is made public. The court finds the charges proven in part only and decides him not guilty. Secretary Whitney reviews the findings of the court martial at length, and holds that while Capt. Selfudge was not guilty of intentional violation of the laws of that country among nations he did violate them by establishing target practice on the shore of an inhabited island without first obtaining permission, and for omitting other precautions for the safety of the inhabitants. He therefore disapproves of the findings of the court, but releases Capt. Selfudge from arrest.

GEN. SHERIDAN GETTING WELL.

The Bulletins All Report a Favorable Condition and that He is Improving.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—Gen. Sheridan passed a good night. He rested well and was not bothered with cough enough to mention. His friends and the doctors are now very outspoken in their opinions that the General is on the high road to a complete recovery. Each succeeding bulletin reports the General doing well, and for the past few days contain virtually the same wording. The last one was as follows:

General Sheridan's condition at this hour remains substantially the same as at the last bulletin with possibly a slight improvement.

He Escaped the Lynchers.

BALTIMORE, Md., June 16.—A party of colored men early yesterday morning broke open the station house at Union Bridge, and took out John Bowans, colored, and hung him to a tree. When he was thought to be nearly suffocated he was let down to make a statement, when he slipped from the rope and fled like a deer, making good his escape. Bowans was arrested yesterday for brutally assaulting a colored man and a woman through jealously. He was released from the penitentiary a short while ago, where he served a year's sentence, for attempted rape on Miss Taylor.

Damage By Storm in the Northwest.

ST. PAUL, June 16.—News is slow coming in, but from the latest reports it is learned that the storm of Wednesday and yesterday did great damage at Forman, Rutland, Fergus Falls, Rushford, Aitken and other points in Dakota and Minnesota. Wires are down at St. Vincent, Minnedosa, Medicide Hat Qu'Appelle and other places in the path of the storm. There was a great windfall and the wind was a tornado.

Rada Wins the Triennial Stakes.

LONDON, June 16.—At the Ascot Heath meeting yesterday the race for the Triennial stakes was won by Lord Falmouth's bay filly Rada. The Duke of Westmster's chestnut colt Orbit finished second and Lord Bradford's chestnut filly Fair Haven was third. The Duke of Beaufort's black or brown colt Benburb, Mr. A. Taylor's bay colt Full Together and Mr. E. C. Godfrey's bay filly Primrose Day also ran.

France and the United States.

PARIS, June 16.—A committee of the Chamber of Deputies passed a resolution, on the motion of Frederick Passey, to enter into a perpetual treaty with the United States for the settlement by arbitration of disputes that may arise between that country and France. M. Passey is President of the International Legion of Peace.

They Feared a Cyclone.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., June 16.—A heavy thunder storm visited here yesterday, and for a time many feared a cyclone, but happily it did not come. Lightning did much damage at Peru, ten miles from here. A number of valuable barns, owned by Chauncey Stoddard, were destroyed by fire, having been struck by lightning.

Glass Works to Close for the Summer.

PITTSBURGH, June 16.—All the window-glass factories in this section and the West closed last night in accordance with a resolution adopted at the recent Convention. The "shut-down" will continue until September 1, and longer unless the workers and employers agree on a wage scale for the next "fire."

A $20,000 Fire at South Norwalk, Conn.

SOUTH NORWALK, Conn., June 16.—Fire yesterday destroyed Raymond Bros.' coal sheds, a dwelling, a carpenter shop and a blacksmith shop, entailing a loss of $20,000, but slightly insured. Stephen Wilcox, a carpenter, was badly burned.

Weather Indications.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—For New England New York, Eastern Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and Delaware, local rains, stationary temperature, light to fresh southerly winds.

UNCERTAINTY THE WORD

MR. DEPEW'S CANDIDACY NOT YET DECIDED UPON.

Chicago Full of Noise, Bustle and Boomers. But Who the Nominees Will Be Is Yet to Be Found Out.

CHICAGO, June 18.—Uncertainty is still the word. Another day of noise and bustle and no tangible results. A majority of the delegates are here and trains are bringing in more. The hotels are assuming a decidedly crowded appearance and nothing is talked in the corridors but politics. A prominent politician was heard to say in giving his opinion of the situation:

"Sherman's name will stand at the top of the list when the roll shall have been called for the first time, and it is understood that provision for swelling the number of his votes on the second ballot have been made. But there seems to be very few persons who believe he can be nominated. Harrison will go into the convention with the support of his State and handicapped by the fact that another resident of Indiana will have the votes of Illinois and of delegates from several other States. New Jersey's votes will be cast for Phelps, Iowa's for Allison, Michigan's for Alger, and Wisconsin's for Rusk, while those of Kansas will be cast for Ingalls, and Pennsylvania now intends to give the complimentary vote to Mayor Fitler, of Philadelphia.

After some of the preliminary shouting shall have been done the delegates will give due attention to the doubtful States and try and answer the question who will poll the most votes in New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Connecticut and Indiana. It is the old problem which this convention must try to solve.

The New York men wear handsome badges of dark blue silk, inscribed with the name of the State and the date of the convention in gold letters. They have as yet no candidate's badges.

The Southern delegates, white and black, are spoken of by many persons attending the convention as representing a better class of Republicans from that section than has been seen at any previous convention.

The question whether Chauncey M. Depew will be formally announced as a candidate is not yet decided, and will not be, so the best informed among his friends say, until this afternoon. Most of them believe he will be a candidate before the Convention, but there is doubt that some of his advisers are seriously hesitating whether to put him in the field or not. A considerable proportion of the New York delegation is earnestly in favor of his nomination, and honestly believes that he can be both nominated delegation who do not believe that he can be nominated, are willing, probably with few exceptions, if any, to join in a complimentary vote. There is every reason to believe that so long as it is understood that the vote is simply complimentary, the vote of New York will be solid. But beyond that point, a part of the delegation—just how large it would be difficult to say—will not go. It is not expected that the immediate following of Senator Hiscock and ex-Senator Platt will persist in a serious effort to nominate Mr. Depew. This element, however appears to be much smaller than the public has been led to suppose.

The Alger men are delighted with the report that the Grant Club, of Albany, is coming out here to to whoop up things for their man. They say that the Wolverines are on top. New England is on the ground with a fine body of representatives. They are divided in their preferences between Blaine, Gresham, Harrison and Sherman.

The National Committee met last night and put the choice of temporary chairman over until to-day. Rev. F. W. Gunsaulus of Chicago, and Rev. S. A. Northrup, of Indianapolis, were appointed chaplains and Michael Griffin and G. W. Chisbe, of Michigan, and Henry Bullard, of Vermont, temporary secretaries. A canvass of the members show that Mr. John M. Thurston, of Nevada, will likely be selected for temporary chairman.

The Sherman boom may be said to be in full swing. Although the main body of the Ohio delegation will not arrive until to-night, the leaders are all on the ground and zealously at work in behalf of their candidate. Governor Foraker, Major McKindley, and H. C. Dodge, delegate from Mansfield, Sherman's home, arrived late last night and are quartered at the Grand Pacific. The Sherman headquarters were thronged all day with callers, conspicuous among whom were many prominent delegates from the South. Sherman's managers are jubilant at the outlook and say that his candidacy is gaining strength every hour.

To an Associated Press representative Governor Foraker declared he positively anticipated Senator Sherman's nomination about the third ballot. The Governor said he was not inclined to put much faith in the strength of the Blaine movement as he thought the second letter of the Plumed Knight settled beyond a doubt the possibility of his candidacy. Were it not for that letter the convention would, he had no hesitancy in saying, nominate him by acclamation.

Col. Elliot F. Shepherd is sanguine of the success of Depew.

"I believe," he said, "that the choice of the convention will be made pleasantly and without ill feeling."

"What will the choice be?"

"Depew I hope. New York, New Jersey and Connecticut are solid in demanding him. Those States are the keystone of the situation."

Walker Blaine, the son of the great Republican statesman, who is now in Chicago is exciting very general interest. Every action of his is eagerly looked to an indication, it may be, of what his father either favors or desires. He has had very little to say, but in view of the very great request made upon Blaine by the party until the time of his declination gives his son, and what he may say, an importance that undoubtedly would have some influence on delegates who even yet have not become reconciled to the withdrawal of the chief. Walker Blaine paid a visit on Friday night to the Gresham headquarters, at the Grand Pacific Hotel, and wrote his name in the book for callers who are favorable to the candicacy of the judge. It was a matter of very general comment, and was taken by those favorable to Gresham to indicate a personal interest in his selection. Mr. Blaine, however, when spoken to on the matter, did not make any reply, though in conversation earlier in the evening with the reporter of a local paper, he is reported to have said, with reference to a boom for his father:

"Oh, it does not amount to anything. It is unauthorized, and I do not like it."

"Some claim," said the reporter, "that the boom is being put up to kill off Gresham in Illinois. Will you, as his next friend in the case, take any action to stop the movement?"

"I think the boom you speak of," replied Mr. Blaine, "is unorganized; merely a floating mass, and, as I say, unauthorized. I do not think from the present outlook that any such action will be necessary."

FIGHTING FOR VALUABLE LAND.

One Faction Erects Machinery and the Other Removes It—No Bloodshed.

FRANKLIN, Pa., June 18.—A war has been raging in the centre of the new and promising oil field five miles north of Franklin. The fight is for the possession of a disputed piece of land. The property was purchased by Jacob Sheasly & Co., from the ostensible owners. Connor & Galbraith purchased the same tract at a tax sale.

Sheasly & Company proceeded to erect a derrick and an engine preparatory to drilling a well. On Wednesday night Connor & Galbraith appeared on the scene and removed the derrick and machinery from the land. Thursday Sheasly & Co. returned with a superior force of men, brought back and rebuilt the works. Saturday night the tax title people made a second attack and again succeeded in clearing the ground of everything pertaining to Sheasly & Co., but the latter, promptly gathering strength and numbers, came yesterday morning and overpowering their adversaries, brought back and erected machinery for the third time. To-day Sheasly & Co. still hold the fort.

So far no personal violence has been done nor any blood shed, though the opposing forces number together fifty men. On a writ sworn out by Connor & Co., Sheasly & Co. and their party were put under arrest, but they gave bonds and were released.

Restoring Sight to the Blind.

BALTIMORE, Md., June 18.—It is said that the operation of transplanting a clear piece of a rabbit's cornea into the blind eye of a patient, performed ten days ago at the Presbyterian Eye and Ear Charity Hospital of which mention was made at the time in this paper, has proved a success. At the end of a week the bandages were removed and the eye exposed to light. The piece of the rabbit's cornea was completely united to the human eye and has grown eye opposite the pupil. The clear graft had become cloudy in the process of uniting to the human eye. Already, however, it has commenced to clear up and the man is beginning to enjoy the privelege of seeing. This he has not been doing for three years, when the eyes were destroyed by lime. The operation of transplanting in the left eye was so satisfactory that two days since Dr. Chisholm made a similar operation on the right eye.

A MYSTERIOUS SCHOONER.

A Tale of the Sea that Requires Considerable Elucidation.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., June 18.—A very singular story is reported by Captain Howard of the schooner Edward W. Young, which arrived Saturday at this port from Providence. While near the Capes of Delaware, on May 24, he says he sighted and followed a large two masted schooner for several hours, and then observed that she was blown to pieces, apparently by some explosives on board of her.

Owing to the prevalence of light winds Captain Howard could not get up with the unfortunate vessel in time to see whether any of the crew escaped. A man on the schooner Young, who witnessed the affair, says both vessels were proceeding slowly, under nearly full canvas, when all of a sudden a noise was heard, preceded by a burst of smoke, followed by a flash of flame, apparently out of the main hatchway. In a few seconds the spars and sails were burning, and it was not long before the trim schooner was transformed into an unsightly, smoking hulk.

The sailor added: "I am of the opinion that all on board perished."

Inquiry in maritime circles fails to develop what vessel the unfortunate one could have been, as there has been none cleared lately southward with explosives on board. The schooner may have been from some Canadian port that has not yet been heard from on the subject.

Hip Lung Wants His Wife With Him.

WASHINGTON, June 18.—Mr. Hip Lung, a Chinese merchant of Chicago, recently informed the Secretary of State that he proposed making a visit to China and bringing back with him his wife, who has never been in this country. He asked for information on the subject. His letter was refered to the Secretary of the Treasury, who has informed him that while there will be no legal objection to his re-entry into the United States, his wife will not be permitted to land, except upon the production of the certificate from the Chinese Government required by section 6 of the act of July 5, 1884.

A Woman's Horrible Death.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., June 18.—While the driver of a horse car was rushing his horses across the Philadelphia and Reading track at Fifth and Willow streets Saturday to avoid a train that was dangerously near, there was a semi-panic in the car. Two women leaped from the rear end, one of whom rolled safely over to the gateman's box, while the other fell on the track and was instantly killed by the engine of the train. The body of the unfortunate woman was dreadfully mangled, and not being claimed was sent to the morgue.

Masons of High Degree.

TORONTO, June 18.—The Imperial Council Ancient Arabic Order of the Mystic Shrine for America, will hold their annual session at Masonic Hall in this city, Monday, June 25, 1888. The occasion will bring together many prominent Nobles of the order from all parts of the United States and Canada as representatives of the various Temples.

MASKED MEN ROB A TRAIN

BANDITS MAKE A DASH ON THE NORTHERN PACIFIC.

They Compel the Engineer to Act as Their Guide—The Safe and Passengers Robbed—Ladies Unmolested.

HELENA, Mont., June 18.—The west bound night passenger train on the Northern Pacific Railroad was bowling through the darkness in the vicinity of Junction City, sixty miles east of Billings, last night, when the engineer saw a red lantern swinging violently a few rods ahead. There had been a furious storm the day before, and the engineer, fearing a bridge had gone reversed the lever.

The train had scarcely come to a standstill when a masked man leaped on the steps of the engine and fired three shots from his six-shooter. One of the bullets cut its way through the cab and another struck one of the wheels of the engine. With a revolver levelled at his head, Engineer Sargeant was commanded to throw up his hands, which he did instantly. Fireman W. B. Cavandar was treated likewise.

Sargent was then ordered out of the cab, and under an armed escort of four men, was taken to the express car, the door of which was broken open with the fireman's pick. Sargent was then ordered to crawl through the opening and pinion the express messenger. Sargent was a little slow in doing this, and the bandits crawled in after him. The messenger was then ordered to throw up his hands, but he refused to do so.

The clicking of three revolvers changed his mind, however, and the next instant he couldn't get them high enough. The bandits were in the car 1 hour and 15 minutes. They secured $400 by breaking open the safe.

In the mean time the conductor and other train men had been under guard by the theves who remained on the outside. As soon as the express car had been rifled the bandits leaped upon the rear Pullman car and, with the conductor at their head under the muzzles of two revolvers, they began a pilgrimage of the entire train. All the male passengers were compelled to throw up their hands while their pockets were being searched. Jewelry and papers were not taken. The thieves were after money, but did not carry their systematic search to the lady passengers, who were not molested. Passengers in the forward cars heard of the raid and began secreting their valuables in the upholstering of the seats. One man named Williams had about $15,000, the proceeds of a cattle sale with him.

Only one passenger resisted the bandits, but a bullet through his hat quickly brought him to terms. About $1,000 in money was taken from the passengers. The bandits were eight in number and all wore masks. They had the appearance of cowboys, and during the robbery those posted on the outside of the train kept up a constant fulisade of shots.

On the arrival of the train at Billings Sheriff Harris of Yellowstone County was notified, and with a large posse he started in pursuit. The country is level, and as many of the posse are old Indian scouts, it is believed the bandits will be run down. This is the first time a train has been robbed in Montana.

A Living Necklace.

SEYMOUR, Ind., June 18.—Miss Mollie Dinsmore, teacher of the public school of this town, is suffering from the shock occasioned by a recent encounter with a snake. The reptile caused a scare among the pupils on the playground at recess, and Miss Dinsmore hastened to the rescue, when the snake turned upon her, ran up her back, and entwined itself around her neck so tightly that but for the assistance of a young gentleman, who was passing at the time and promptly responded to the frightened calls of the little ones she would have strangled. The snake when killed measured over four feet in length. It was a black racer, a variety that is usually considered harmless, and this is the first instance in which one of its kind has been known to attack any person.

Suicide of an Ex-Warden.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 18.—Ex-Warden J. A. Reed of the State Prison at Stillwater committed suicide at his home in this city yesterday. The causes that is said to have led to this rash act are the late troubles in connection with his removal as Warden and subsequent investigation of his official career. Warden Reed has been Warden of the prison for a number of years, and was deposed by Governor McGill, who is said to have appointed Mr. Stardock as a reward for political aid in the last State campaign. Reed grieved over the affair, and indignation among the people of Stillwater ran high. They were for the most part favorably inclined to Mr. Reed, as he had shown great fitness for the office.

Ex-Prisoners of War to Enter Politics.

PHILADELPHIA, June 18.—The Union ex-prisoners of war of Philadelphia and vicinity have held a meeting to discuss the outlook for the passage of the bill now before Congress to grant them pensions for the time they were confined in the Southern prisons. Letters were received from veterans in Indiana, stating that if Colonel C. C. Watson, chairman of the House Committee on Pensions, did not give their bill more attention, they would use their influence to kill him politically. The local ex-prisoners are preparing to take steps so that Congressmen who are friendly to their interests shall be chosen at the next election.

Gold-Bearing Quartz in Michigan.

ISHPEMING, Mich., June 18.—A discovery of gold-bearing quartz, worth $40,000 per ton, was made last night at the Lake Superior Iron Company's shaft, seven miles northwest of Ishpeming. A similar discovery was made last August, after which the shaft was closed because the company could mine iron but not gold under its charter. The difficulty was finally obviated and work at the gold mine was resumed two weeks ago. This second discovery proves the permanency of the vein, and has created great excitement all along the gold range north of Ishpeming.

BY THE WAY.

—Oh! for a Y. M. C. A. building.

—A special meeting of St. Mary's T. A. B. Society is called for this evening, when the subject of purchasing St. Mary's Hall will be discussed.

—The pulpit of the First Baptist church was occupied, last evening, by one of the colored ministers attending the convention in this city.

—Considerable space is devoted in this issue to City Clerk Leonard's interesting statistics anent the liquor traffic in Plainfield. Some very astounding figures are given.

—The handsome large Newfoundland dog, belonging to Mr. J. H. Drake of West Seventh street, was clipped a few days ago. The animal now resembles a black lion.

—The glorious Fourth is but a few weeks off, but the interval would be sufficient to arrange for a proper celebration in Plainfield, if patriots would move in the matter.

—The Rev. Mr. Perry of Brooklyn, one of the delegates to the Colored Baptist's Convention in this city, preached to a large congregation in the Washingtonville School House, last evening.

—The First Presbyterian church held services for the last time in its present building, yesterday. The work of tearing down the old church before they begin the new, will commence at once.

—This is the last week of Dr. Kimbell's stay in this city, so those who wish a corns, and the cure of their tender feet, should call at his rooms, City Hotel, at once.

—The Crescents of this city and the Actives of the borough played a one-sided game, on Saturday last, which resulted as follows:

Crescents—	5	5	1	0	3	0	0	0	*—14
Actives —	2	0	0	0	0	2	4	0	0— 8

—Despatches from the West report the appearance of large swarms of seventeen-year locusts. Prof. C. V. Riley, U. S. Entomologist, says a well known brood occurs this year and this periodical visitor may be looked for in wooded portions of the East.

—A horse attached to a milk wagon, belonging to a man named Wyland, ran away on East Third street, yesterday morning. At the corner of Peace and Third streets the wagon was overturned and wrecked, and many gallons of milk were spilled.

—A nine composed of the apprentices in Mr. Edward Love's wall paper designing establishment, competed in a match game of base ball with the journeymen employed in the same shop, on the Somerset street grounds on Saturday afternoon. The apprentices were victorious by a score of 27 to 13. Mr. Fred Cutter was the umpire.

—THE PRESS exceedingly regrets that it is so often obliged to defer for a day the publication of much valuable reading matter, but today our columns are again so crowded that we are compelled to hold over our full account of yesterday's proceedings of the New England Baptist Convention, together with much other interesting reading matter.

Wedding Bells.

At St. Joseph's church in North Plainfield at half-past eleven o'clock yesterday morning, Mr. Daniel C. Nolan and Mrs. Kate Holmes were united in marriage by the Rev. T. J. O'Hanlon. The ceremony was performed in the presence of a few of the relatives and near friends of the bride and groom. The bride was becomingly attired in a neat-fitting dress of cream-colored albatross. Miss Anna Hopkins and Miss Kate McMahon, of Albany performed the duties of bridesmaids, and Mr. Charles Nolan, a brother of the groom, and Robert Connolly officiated as best men.

After the ceremony dinner was served at the bride's residence in Washington Valley, where the newly wedded couple will continue to reside for the Summer.

Horses for Gazelle Engine Company.

Arrangements have been made whereby Mr. John Yoes has decided to stable three horses in Gazelle house, to be used for fire purposes. Mr. Yoes will also stable one horse in the Truck house. The horses will be taken to their new quarters this afternoon. Both Gazelle Engine Company and the Truck Company are now equipped with horses, and are ready in case of emergency.

MINISTERING CHILDREN'S LEAGUE.

Their Entertainment at the W. C. T. U. Rooms on Friday Evening—A Programme of Unexceptional Interest.

The entertainment for the Ministering Children's League of Grace church, held in the W. C. T. U. rooms on West Front street, Friday evening, was of an unusual, interesting nature, and the attendance was large, notwithstanding the fact that a heavy shower was in progress, during the greater part of the evening. Following is the PROGRAMME.

Song—"Away We Go," by Harry Yager, Chorus [by choir boys.
Reading—"The Legend of Bregeuz," May [Rodman.
Song—Embarrassment, Miss L. Williamson.
Recitation—"Only a Penny," Bertram Pittis.
Song—"Somebody's Happy Day," Adelia Runyon.
Drama—The Train to Mawn.

CHARACTERS:

Mrs. Buttermilk, an elderly lady from the [country, Miss Florence Stevens.
Johnnie Buttermilk, a terrible boy, by Master [Frank Stover.
Mr. Bright, clerk at a railroad station, Master [Arthur Freeman.

PART SECOND.

Sunflower scene.....M. C. L.
Solo—"Listen to my tale of woe," Arthur Free[man, chorus by choir boys.
Solo—"Wooing".....Miss Baker.
Piano solo—The Golden Age.....Sadie Wells.
Solo—"The Little Shepherdess," Fred Freeman.
Song—"Bingo".....Jack Bartendale and chorus.

Each and every number on the programme was acceptably rendered. Master Fred Freeman's song "Listen to my tale of woe," was encored, and he sang in response "The old ark moving along." Miss Baker also received an encore and in response sang "Two Marionettes."

A pleasing feature of the entertainment was the Solo, "The Little Shepherdess" by Master Fred Freeman, to which he was obliged to respond four times. The singing was all of a superior quality, showing that great care had been exercised in training the voices. The boy's chorus under the able tutorship of Mrs. Wm. A. Freeman, showed marked improvement. Each of the choir boys wore daisies in his buttonhole, designating them as "The Daisy Choir."

At the conclusion of the programme cake and cream were offered for sale at a nominal price.

Bishop Vincent's Wisdom, Eloquence and Generosity.

Bishop Vincent presented the Senior Class of the High School, this morning, with a beautiful American flag of silk, which, he told them, had been with him all through England and Scotland, in Ireland, to France and Germany and Switzerland, in Egypt and Palestine, to Jerusalem, by the River Jordan and the Red Sea, over the World, which he said he would have printed upon it.

The presentation was made at the close of an entertaining and instructive address that the Bishop delivered to the scholars of the Stillman school, in Assembly Hall. He took as his text the doctrines of America's stars and stripes—Freedom, Equality and Opportunity. The Freedom of every man, his Equality of chances with every other man, and his Opportunity to be all that is in him. The close attention of even the youngest scholars was retained throughout the address, and in the minds of many was impressed a lesson and sown a word of encouragement, that will be fruitful to them in the future, and to the world at large.

Miss Bulkley, for the Senior Class, thanked the donor for the gift of the memorable flag, and in the name of the whole school expressed the deep appreciation of all for his uniform kindness and many courtesies.

Mrs. Elliott's Chancery Suit Dismissed.

In the chancery suit of Elliott vs. Brugler et als., brought by complainant to set aside a sheriff's deed under foreclosure—as published exclusively in THE PRESS—on the ground that no notice had been received by the owner of the mortgaged premises and that there was fraud and collusion on the part of the purchasers—no evidence whatever being produced showing any fraud or collusion, Advisory Master Gaston, Saturday, on motion of John H. Jackson, Esq., of counsel for defendants, dismissed complainant's bill with costs.

Hon. Foster M. Voorhees of Elizabeth was counsel for complainant, and the defendants were represented by Messrs. Jackson & Codington and William K. McClure, Esq.

A New Temperance Society.

A new temperance an literary society to be known as the "Catholic Young Men's Literary and Total Abstinence Union," was organized by a number of the younger parishoners of St. Mary's church, in St. Mary's Hall, yesterday afternoon. The society, whose object is to promote literary and social interests among its members, starts out with fifteen members.

Officers were elected as follows:

President—Andrew J. Nolan.
Vice President—Michael Whalen.
Recording Secretary—Michael Mack.
Assistant Secretary—George Tobin.
Treasurer—James McNally.
Sergeant-at-Arms—Patrick O'Keefe.

A committee of three was appointed to secure suitable rooms for the society to hold its meetings in.

Great Scott! Can This be True?

The New York World of Saturday, quotes on its editorial page this shameful assertion from another journal: "The portrait painter generally gets his pay partially in advance. He is thus always drawing a head."

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Rev. Mr. Graves of Westfield, occupied the pulpit in the Congregational church yesterday morning.

Miss Emma Sutphen of West Second street, returned home yesterday, after spending several days with friends at Morristown.

Fans and ice water will be provided for all who attend the Young Men's Meeting, at the Y. M. C. A., to-night. Leader, J. W. Gavett. Topic: "Palm-tree Christians," Psalms. 92: 12.

Bishop J. H. Vincent will deliver an address before the Home Reading Club of the Morristown M. E. church, this evening, in the main audience room. The Club will give a reception at the close of the address.

Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Fraser, of Louisville, Ky., and Miss Fraser of Orange County, N. Y., are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Demarest of North Plainfield. Mrs. Fraser is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Demarest.

Messrs. John McCarthy, Patrick Kiely, Joseph Dunn and John Harding, constituting a committee from the T. A. B. Society of this city, were present in New York, yesterday, at a meeting of the Provincial Council of the National C. T. A. U. of America. The object of the meeting was to establish a labor and employment bureau in the interest of emigrants landing in this country.

Mr. Perrine Huff, an old and highly respected citizen of this city, died suddenly at his home on Park avenue about noon today. The deceased was 79 years of age and has been on the decline for the past nine months. At the time of his death he was sitting up in his arm chair, when he suddenly fell to the floor and expired before medical aid could be summoned. General debility is assigned as the cause of death.

Rev. R. Hope, a colored clergyman from Philadelphia, was present and made an address to the scholars of the First Day School, yesterday morning. The reverend gentleman said he had become attached to the Friends by reason of his having been brought up in a family of Friends in Burlington County, with whom he lived for eight years. His remarks were exceptionally good and were attentively listened to.

Services at Trinity Reformed Church.

Rev. Cornelius Schenck preached his first sermon as pastor of Trinity Reformed church, Sunday, June 19, 1887. Yesterday morning he preached his first anniversary sermon to a large congregation, taking as his text the 28th verse of the first chapter of Colossians. Those who were prevented from being present missed a very earnest and able discourse, delivered in the pastor's usual forcible manner. During his discourse he thoroughly convinced his hearers of the Divine command, and his (the pastor's) intention to have the preaching of the Word of God to take precedence in his church over all other forms of worship.

At the conclusion of his sermon he read an interesting statement of the work done during the past year by the various branches of the church, in which he paid a just compliment to the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor, and asked God's blessing to attend them in their further efforts. We herewith present an abstract of report read:

Number of families	190
Total number of communicants	375
Members received on confession of faith	38
" " on certificate	34
Dismissed	10
Suspended	1
Died	9
Baptisms	19
Total enrollment in Sabbath School	347
Contributions for religious and benevolent purposes	$1,111.01
Congregational purposes	$8,711.20

Among the floral decorations that graced the pulpit and platform was a large and beautifully constructed banner, composed of daisies and jacqueminot roses, in the center of which was a large gilt figure "1," indicating the first year's service of Mr. Schenck's pastorate.

Praise Service.

The attendance at the Service of Song, in Crescent Avenue church, last evening, filled all parts of the auditorium and galleries. The order of service included a sermon by the Rev. Mr. Richards, responsive readings, congregational singing, and a programme of selections by the choir, consisting of part songs and choruses.

The pastor's text was from Luke X:21, and the impressive lesson drawn told of God's grace to the lowly, and how Christ offered praise for it as the greatest of all blessings. The musical selections were given as published in these columns, with the exception of Gounod's Sanctus. This composition called for a tenor solo that because of an annoying cold Mr. Elmer Runyon did not feel equal to. Consequently, Dudley Buck's "Cantate Domino" was substituted, which was disappointing.

Sentence Suspended.

Mr. Henry Goeller of Plainfield avenue, against whom a complaint was lodged by Mrs. Frey for selling cigarettes and candy on Sunday, appeared before the City Judge this morning, and entered a plea of non vult. Judge Suydam suspended sentence.

It appears that Mr. Goeller who is a shoe maker by trade, had done some repairing for a man who resides in the Short Hills, and who came for his shoes on Sunday. When the defendant entered the side door leading to his shop, a boy named Sutterlein slipped in, and Mr. Goeller claims that he sold the boy a package of cigarettes and a stick of candy simply to get clear of him.

POISON IN OUR DRINK.

Not Alcohol—which one may avoid—but BRASS AND LEAD which one takes unsuspectingly. "How—When—Where?" Well, say, in a glass of Soda. Pity the most popular and wholesome of all artificial drinks—which Soda honestly is—should ever deserve a touch of suspicion, but

THE FROZEN TRUTH

is that in some Soda Fountains economy and mechanical facility are studied to the neglect of the weightier matter of purity. Some men are too "smart;" some Soda Fountains are too "ingenious."

We have recently had made a Fountain which secures Absolute Purity for the beverages. Rather pretty, too, we think. We selected the "Matthews' make" because it is the only fount in which the syrups have positively no metallic contact, being discharged direct from glass jars into the tumblers—no tubes; while the waters are contained in and flow through solid block tin,

PURE AS CRYSTAL, COLD AS CHARITY.

We make our own syrups—from REAL FRUIT JUICES, or from chocolate or coffee, etc., as the case may be; no nonsense of essences or make believe.

New drinks? Yes, some of our own contriving. "Winks?" Not a wink; not licensed for winks, and we have an opinion of druggists who take a wink.

Come and try the new Fountain; if you like your drink we'll thank you for saying so, and you'll pay us five cents and come again—it will do you good; only don't come Sundays; no use—Fountain WON'T WORK.

PLAINFIELD'S LIQUOR TRAFFIC.

Startling Facts and Figures of the Rum and Beer Consumed by the Community—$200,000 Annually Spent For Intoxicants by Plainfield Citizens.

The high temperature of last evening was adverse to thronged congregations, yet a fair proportion met in Reform Hall to hear City Clerk Oliver B. Leonard. The address of Mr. Leonard showed great skill in collecting and tabulating facts. He said:

The infallible logic of the liquor traffic in Plainfield with an excessive high license in force for thirteen years, is this: The business is so lucrative that there are enough clear profits in it to sustain a full dozen shops. Furthermore there are sufficient consumers in the city and borough who require this number of liquor dealers to supply their craving appetites, and are willing to maintain them. These high licensed monopolies have in no degree diminished the quantity of liquor drank, nor in any sense suppressed the terrible consequences of intemperance. But rather all the more firmly has the system fastened the drink habit upon the victims, and perpetuated the evil among the people.

The monetary aspects of the question have a powerful influence upon a great many property-holders who pay taxes. The sum total revenue received from liquor licenses since the organization of the city has been $58,972.25. Without this income, say of $60,000, during the past 20 years, it is believed the city would have less light, more mud and no police protection, unless an increased taxation had been made equal to this amount. Hence a great many citizens are not disturbed that the liquor traffic should assist in paying municipal expenses. They are willing that an annual tax of $6,000 should be levied upon the rum trade, and will vote for the Councilmen who are of the same mind.

High license in Plainfield has done no harm to the liquor business here. The liquor men themselves do not want the license fee reduced nor the license law repealed. If the question was submitted to the dozen dealers in drink—which system they prefer, high license, low license or no license at all—their unanimous vote would be forhigh license, as the most beneficial for the best success of the traffic at the bar.

Why call it a bar? 'Tis a capital name; short,
Easily said and of meaning most pregnant,
And I rather suspect, from the devil it came,
For e'en to his friends, he is slyly malignant.

I'll tell what it means—'tis a bar to all good
And a constant promoter of everything evil,
A bar to all virtue, that's well understood;
A bar to the right, and a fort for the devil.

A bar to all industry, prudence and wealth,
A bar to reflection, a bar to sobriety,
A bar to clear thought, and a bar to sound health,
A bar to good conscience, to prayer and to piety.

A bar to the observance of every good rule,
A bar to the welfare of family and nation,
A bar to the hallowed enjoyments of home,
A bar to the holiest earthly fruition.

A bar to integrity, honor and fame,
To friendship, and peace and earthly position.
A bar that forbids its frequenters to come
To the goal and rewards of honorable ambition.

The average running expenses per year for each liquor bar may be set down at $2,000 to $2,500 including rental, license fee, United States Government tax, bar tenders, etc. Their beer costs them 20 to 25 cents a gallon, which, with wines and ardent spirits costing from $1 to $2.50 per gallon aggregates in the course of twelve months, about $5,000 more making a total outlay for all expenses for each drinking place of about $7,500 per annum to $8,000.

By discreet inquiry, continued observation and careful examination, it is ascertained that there is a weekly consumption in the licensed places, of about 3,800 gallons of ale and beer, not including spirituous liquors. A gallon of beer is said to contain 15 to 18 glasses; and a glass of lager cost the drinker 5 cents or say 75 cents a gallon. This will give the dozen or so bar-room monarchs something over $2,750 per week for fermented beverages only. If the receipts from wines and distilled spirits be added, counting 50 drinks to the gallon at an average of 8 cents a drink, the total income to the licensed lords will reach something over $200,000 a year.

Table tipplers consume at least 700 gallons more of ale and beer every 7 days which bottlers, receiving in large casks, put up in pint packages for home purposes.

How much champagne, wine and spirits, private parties drink, cannot be satisfactorily estimated. But the number of demijohns is very great that come to town every month.

These statistics of enormous invoices of intoxicants can be confirmed by reference to the freight receipts at the office of the Central R. R. The minimum quantity for the dullest month the past year amounted to 16,000 gallons received in the following described packages, 47 barrels, 378 half barrels, 373 quarter barrels, 80 one sixth barrels, 63 boxes of bottled beer and 72 hogsheads. The maximum receipts for the best month's business, were 26,500 gallons. The sum total, passed over the bars and out of the bottles for the twelve months ending June 1, 1888 is 234,000 gallons of ale and beer. Of wines and distilled liquors about 20,000 gallons were disposed of; taking the proportion of ardent spirits consumed in this country to malt beverages drank, which is one gallon of whiskey to seven gallons of beer.

The quantity of beer coming into our temperance town by railroad and wagon road does not diminish. Every year shows an advance. At the increased rate of the present month's receipts, the consumption for the ensuing twelve months will exceed 250,000 gallons. Already 672 pint bottles have been emptied, 68 kegs tapped and made vacant, 310 quarter barrels exhausted, 425 half barrels cleaned out, 40 barrels drained of their dregs, and 31 hogsheads pumped dry, representing all told in round figures about 60,000 quarts, and the month of June is only half gone.

The drinking population of the United States is estimated at 15,000,000 people who consumed the past year 75,000,000 gallons of distilled liquors; 600,000,000 gallons of beer, and 23,000,000 gallons of wines, costing them on an average $50 apiece—a moderate sum compared to the drink bill of many of our townsmen. Of this vast multitude, whose appetite is so ravenous for the intoxicating cup, consider what is Plainfield's proportion among this army of men and young boys.

There are 2,200 men in Plainfield of legal age to vote and 500 minors between 16 and 21 years of age.

In the Borough there are 850 men of full age and 200 male adults under 21 years and over 16 years old.

Of this aggregate number, 3,750, probably 33 per cent, is a moderate proportion of those who are addicted to habitual drink habits, and frequent the bar rooms of Plainfield and North Plainfield. These men and boys, with additional reinforcements of female tipplers and occasional participants, furnish a regiment of about 1,200 to 1,400 willing supporters, who pass into the rum-sellers tills their hard days wages and accumulated surplus, averaging $125 a year. Many a drinker of Plainfield spends $5.00 a week or an amount equal to $250 per annum in the saloons.

The money thus paid by the liquor consuming population (embracing also the work of the "growler" and bottled beer used in domestic circles) is not only wasted, doing the drinker no good, but is diverted from legitimate channels of trade and business. With the suppression of the liquor traffic in Plainfield, there would be great increase in the grocers' trade, the butcher and the dry goods store, and other branches of business which supply the necessaries and comforts and some of the luxuries of life. This waste of personal wealth is furthermore the parent of much misery and want in families, and unhappiness, idleness and disease. Moreover, a large proportion of the criminal acts of our community can be traced directly to the drinking places as demoralizing resorts. Recall the evidence in the recent firebug trials.

But ALL the wickedness, pauperism and lunacy in the land should not be attributed to the use of intoxicating liquors. Crime is caused in many instances by immorality, destitution, haste to get rich and other causes, besides liquor drinking, which is responsible for not more than ⅓ of the occupants of our jails. Poverty is as frequently the result of indolence and shiftlessness as it is of intoxicating beverages and the excessive use of drink is as often the effect as it is the cause of pauperism. Yet the almshouses contain 25 per cent. of patients who get there through the ravages of rum. As for the insane, a very large percentage become so through inexplicable causes very remote from inebriety. Yet intemperance must bear the burden of at least 20 per cent. of the inmates of our Lunatic Asylums.

For the year ending October 31, 1887, the expenses to the State of New Jersey for the insane asylums at Trenton and Morris Plains and county institutions of this character, were $156,500.

The State Prison incurred an outlay last year of $201,462 less the proceeds of $71,000 from convict labor.

There were paid for court expenses of the commonwealth the same time $124,500.

And the pauper fund paid out in the townships and cities of the State was nearly $150,000.

In Union County the bill during the past year was for

Lunacy	$24,031.27
County Jail	4,763.64
Court Expenses	23,773.70
Paupers of the different cities and townships	19,500.00

Plainfield's quota for county tax for '87 was $29,381.95; for care of poor $5,000, making a total of about $35,000, which this city is taxed for, in order to sustain the pauper, maintain the prison, retain the pettifoggers, and obtain lodgings for the luny.

The 8,250 retail dealers in maddening drinks throughout New Jersey form a mutual protective association. They constitute the Ku-Klux-Klan in northern politics. To check their organized and arrogant advance as a dead foe to the purity and freedom of the ballot, the stern injunction of some righteous and restrictive laws must be enforced against them. The liquor saloon, as an institution, under the management of these legalized dealers, is an aggressive power—force, constantly encroaching upon the peace and prosperity of the people. They are the recruiting stations in which a drinking army is enlisted for no three months service, but, enrolled as regulars for life, unless they can be diverted from the enticing surroundings of bar-rooms and given better places to spend their leisure time and sparse earnings.

Every available means should be employed for this purpose, and all honorable manœuverings engaged in to circumvent the foe and unmask their batteries of vice. As in military tactics there is the infantry, the cavalry, the artillery arm of the service, so in the moral contest with the drink evil, there are various methods that may be adopted to reduce the strongholds—weaken the ranks and rout the enemies of temperance. The Christian church, temperance organizations, an untrammeled press, and non-partisan legislation constitute the main array of effective forces for combating the saloon evil, overcoming the appetite and prejudice of the drinkers, and arresting the devastation going on in the realm of social affections and domestic tranquility.

Marvelous conquests are yet in reserve for the faithful contestants in this moral warfare.

The future battle fields will not witness so many disappointed heroes and defeated projects for the good cause, as in the past numerous insurmountable impediments, previously in the way of temperance progress, have lately been removed by liberal legislation of several commonwealths and by recent decrees of the Supreme Court of the United States.

With the sentiment of an increasing multitude, extending in the direction of total abstinence, and strengthening itself in favor of anti-saloon measures, there are encouraging signs of a general reformation reaching not only the moderate drinker, but taking hold of others hitherto held in complete bondage to the terrible habit.

May reason and religion quickly assert their power and soon win their long looked for conquests of ransomed subjects for God; redeemed inmates of home and purified politics throughout our native land.

At the close of Mr Leonard's address, on motion of Mr. G. M. Angleman, the thanks of the meeting were given him.

Vice President Harper occupied the chair, and Mr. Vanderbeek and choir were at their accustomed posts of duty. The devotional services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Taylor of Princeton.

Judge Harper gave notice that in consequence of the Public School Commencements, the next Thursday evening meeting would be postponed for one week. He also announced that the platform of Reform Hall next Sunday evening would be occupied by Rev. Cesar A. A. Taylor, a delegate to the Colored Baptist Convention, and an earnest and eloquent pleader for gospel temperance. After offering the pledge of total abstinence, at the solicitation of Judge Harper, Mrs. George F. Opdyke, President of the W. C. T. U., in a few beautiful and appropriate words urged the taking of the obligation, and several came forward and responded. The singing of the doxology by the choir, and pronouncing of the benediction by Rev. Mr. Taylor, closed a very interesting meeting.

Acquitted.

The case of the City vs John Dady was tried before Judge Suydam this morning. In the absence of the Corporation Counsel, W. L. Hetfield, Esq., appeared for the city, and subsequently asked for the dismissal of the case. W. K. McClure, Esq., counsel for Dady objected. He demanded a trial as his client was charged with boisterous conduct, the use of indecent language and with knocking another down, and he wanted no Scotch verdict of "Not Proven." The trial of the case then proceeded, and resulted in the acquittal of the accused.

General Telegraphic Despatches.

SHERIDAN ABOUT THE SAME.

Dr. Pepper, According to Agreement, Called—One Bulletin a Day Hereafter.

WASHINGTON, June 18.—There does not appear to be any material change in Gen. Sheridan's condition. According to agreement made last Sunday Dr. Pepper was here yesterday and held consultation with Dr. Lincoln and regular physicians. They issued the following bulletin at 9 p. m.:

"Gen. Sheridan's condition as contrasted with that of last Sunday shows gratifying improvement as to the action of the heart and lungs. His strength is greater. His desire for food is more natural. His sleep is more healthy and refreshing. The periods of mental confusion which have caused anxiety have decreased, especially, since last night.

O'REILL, MATTHEWS,
LYRNE, YARROW.

The physician's announce that hereafter bulletins will only be issued once a day about 9 p. m.

In Favor of the Squatters.

FARGO, Dak., June 18.—Last Fall about a thousand squatters' filings were offered at the Fargo Land Office upon the indemnity bills of the Northern Pacific. A few of these were tried as test cases for the whole, and these included pre-emption, homestead, and timber culture filings. The Land Office decided these cases yesterday in favor of the squatters in all the cases. It is understood that the railway company will immediately appeal to the Commissioner, and whatever the outcome the cases will probably go to the Secretary. These decisions cover land in the Grandin and Dwight farms and affect much valuable property. Those who bought in good faith from the railroad company do not seem much worried over the final result.

Fatal Railroad Accident.

WASHINGTON, June 18.—The train which left here on the Virginia Midland road last night was derailed at Pope's head Run, Va., and four persons killed and several others injured. The track at this point is very crooked, and the train was running at a high rate of speed. The engine left the rails and whirled completely around, heading back toward the rear of the train. Fireman Lee Wakely, Telegraph Operator Charles Mayo, who were on the engine, were killed, as was also Baggage Master Poss. Mrs. Stockbridge, of Baltimore, and Mrs. Gaines, of Warrenton, Va., were seriously injured, and several other passengers bruised.

Work for the Court of Appeals.

ALBANY, June 18.—The new calendar of the Court of Appeals is being sent out to the various counsel who have cases before it. Of the 1,250 numbers 21 are against the Mayor of New York City, 8 by the Mayor against individuals and corporations, 17 against the Manhattan and more than twice as many against the New York and Metropolitan Railway Companies. The criminal cases number 8, the probate cases 10, those of Executors and Administrators 238, those relating to Infants' Trustees, Receivers, against the State, city or corporation, public officers, etc., 114, the general calendar 807, and appeals from orders 73.

Mrs. Cleveland Coming to New York.

WASHINGTON, June 18.—Mrs. Cleveland will go to New York next week to meet her mother, and will return here with her. Mrs. Cleveland's plans for the summer have not yet been arranged, but she is likely to spend some little time in August on the Maine Atlantic coast.

ON THE BASEBALL FIELD.

Baltimore Again Defeats the Brooklyn Club—Louisville Wins a Game.

Baltimore	9
Brooklyn	8

BROOKLYN, June 18.—It was somewhat of a slugging match that took place between the Brooklyn and Baltimore clubs yesterday, and only 2,800 spectators saw it. The game was poorly played throughout, and there was not a redeeming feature. The score:

Brooklyn	6	1	0	1	0	0	0	0	8
Baltimore	4	1	0	0	3	1	0	0	9

ST. LOUIS vs. CINCINNATI.

St. Louis,	6
Cincinnati,	4

ST. LOUIS, June 18.—Hudson's magnificent pitching and a bunching of hits, assisted by bunched errors, defeated Cincinnati yesterday. The score:

St. Louis	1	0	0	3	0	0	2	0	6
Cincinnati	0	0	0	0	0	0	2	2	4

LOUISVILLE vs. KANSAS CITY.

Louisville,	7
Kansas City,	6

KANSAS CITY, June 17.—Lucky hitting won the game for Louisville yesterday. Stratton pitched fairly well, and Toole was a little off. Collin's playing at second was the feature of the game. The score:

Kansas City	2	0	0	0	0	4	0	0	6
Louisville	1	0	3	0	0	0	0	2	1—7

The Iron Market Still Depressed.

PHILADELPHIA, June 18.—A prominent iron merchant, speaking of the iron industry, said; "Iron is lower in price than it has been for many years. Steel rails sell at $31 a ton, a reduction of $5 from last year. Pig iron has dropped proportionately. But even with these low figures, it is difficult for local iron to find a standing in the market. Bar iron, angle iron, bridge iron and all styles into which the metal can be worked, flood the market without any buyers, and every business connected with the iron industry is lamentably depressed. Dealers have been closely studying the situation, and the conclusion they have reached is that to no one thing or cause can the present condition of the trade be laid."

The Quaker City Contingent.

PHILADELPHIA, June 18.—The Republican business men have perfected arrangements for the mass meeting to be held at the Board of Trade rooms to-day. The committee of twenty-one will leave for Chicago to-day with a number of small American flags made by the Women's Silk Culture Association for presentation to the delegates. The committee will carry a large American flag in the procession at Chicago as its emblem.

The Monument of the Ninth Militia.

GETTYSBURG, Pa., June 18.—The monument of the Eighty-third New York Regiment, formerly the Ninth Militia, one of the most costly and imposing, is finished, except the bronze eagle, which is to rest on top. It is a shaft 51 feet high, composed of alternate twelve-inch layers of rock-faced and finely cut stone, and cost over $6,000. The Ninth New York National Guard Regiment will participate in the dedication, July 1.

In Respect to the Dead Emperor.

WASHINGTON, June 18.—Memorial services for the late German Emperor will be held at the German Lutheran Church in this city to-day at 10:30 a. m. Invitations to attend have been extended to the President and Cabinet, the diplomatic corps, Justices of the Supreme Court, Senators and Representatives, etc., and their ladies. The services will be similar to those recently held at the same church in memory of Emperor William.

Driven Away with a Rifle.

HUNTINGTON, L. I., June 18.—A party of excursionists from Connecticut landed on the farm of W. H. Conklin for a clam roast. Their fire extended to the woods, and rapidly made its way to Mr. Conklin's barn. The party did nothing to put the fire out and when ordered to leave refused to do so. Mr. Conklin procured a rifle, at the sight of which the excurionists ran. The flames were put out.

Want to Shut Down for Three Months.

PITTSBURG, June 18.—The Aalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers' Convention passed a resolution Friday stating that it was, in their opinion, best to close all the ironworks for three months in the interest of both capital and labor. The resolution will be submitted to the Manufacturers' Association. It is doubtful if the matter will be agreed to by the millowners.

Died After a Surgical Operation.

MERIDAN, Conn., June 18.—Nelson C. Merriam, of the large cabinet hardware firm of Foster, Merriam & Co., died yesterday, twenty-four hours after an operation of laparotomny, because of the stoppage of the bowels. The operation was performed by Drs. Frank Hartly and Newman, of Roosevelt Hospital, New York. Deceased was aged 58 and a prominent manufacturer.

CONDENSED DESPATCHES.

John Cassidy, of Dover, N. H., State Representative, died Saturday, aged 2?.

By the explosion of an oil tank at Cambridge, Mass., five men were badly injured.

Services in memory of the Late A. Bronson Alcott were held in the Hillside Chapel, Boston.

THE DEAD EMPEROR

THOUSANDS OF PEOPLE VIEW HIS REMAINS.

The Services at Castle and Church—The Result of the Post-Mortem Examination, Emperor William's First Proclamation.

BERLIN, June 18.—The funeral ceremonies of the late Emperor commenced this morning by singing hymns. As the coffin was carried out of the castle the anthem, "I Know that My Redeemer Liveth," was sung. Bells have been tolling from 9 o'clock and will be continued until the procession enters Friedrichskirche.

The personages who bore the insignia of the imperial and royal dignities of the dead Emperor are as follows:

Count Stolberg bore the imperial crown; Herr Mayback, Minister of Public Works, the scepter; Dr. Lucius, Minister of Agriculture, the orb; General Schellendorff, Minister of War, the sword; Dr. Friedberg, Minister of Justice, the great seal; Herr von Boettecher, the Order of the Black Eagle; Dr. von Gossler, Minister of Education, the hat of the Prince Elector, and Dr. von Scholz, Minister of Finance, the electoral sword. General Blumenthal was the imperial standard bearer.

The coffin was removed from the catafalque by twelve officers of the body guard. The ceremony in church was conducted according to the instruction of the deceased. Court Chaplain Koegel preached the funeral sermon, and the ceremony concluded by the choral, "When Ich Einmal Soll Scheiden." At the close of the ceremonies the infantry fired three volleys and a salute of 101 guns were given.

The Emperor and Empress, accompanied by the Dowager Empress Augusta and the Grand Duke and Grand Duchess of Baden and other royalties, visited the Jasper Gallery yesterday morning. While they were assembled around the bier of the dead monarch Chaplain Koegel offered a brief prayer. Access to the gallery was prohibited to the public until the royal party had departed. Correggio's painting "Saint Veronica's Veil," is now suspended at the head of the catafalque, on the right and left of which laurel trees have been placed.

The Emperor and Empress visited the Dowager Empress Augusta at the town castle yesterday. Prince Frederick Leopold of Prussia comes to Berlin to receive the royal personages coming to attend the funeral.

The streets are crowded with sad, sorrowing people. On all sides can be seen the evidence of a deep affliction. The numerous editions of the newspapers are eagerly purchased at exhorbitant rates. On many street corners the published encomiums upon the dead Emperor are read aloud, while the men listen with bared heads. Very few shops are open, business being generally suspended owing to the nation's bereavement. It is stated that Emperor William II, and Prince Bismarck have compiled a programme for the immediate future, and that the Emperor will continue the former policy of the Empire. A report was circulated yesterday afternoon that the aged Dowager Empress Augusta, wife of the late Emperor William I., had declared positively that she would not attend the funeral.

Count von Moltke visited the mortuary chamber in the afternoon. Later he was received by the imperial family.

The Court has been ordered to go into mourning for three months. The period of general mourning will last eight days.

The body of the Emperor Frederick was embalmed last evening. It is understood that the Empress Victoria will go to Italy after the funeral. She bears her affliction with the greatest fortitude. Telegrams and messages of condolence have been pouring in upon the royal family from every section of the globe.

The young Emperor William II. has issued the following general order to the army:

"While the army has only just discarded the outward signs of mourning for the Emperor-King William I., my deeply revered grandfather, whose memory will ever live in all hearts, it has suffered a fresh and heavy blow by the death of my dear and warmly-loved father.

"This, indeed, a serious and sorrowful time in which God's decree places me at the head of the army.

"It is from a deeply moved heart I address my first words to my army, but the confidence with which I step into the place to which God's will calls me immovably strong.

"For I know what sense of honor and duty my glorious ancestors have implanted in the army, and I know in how great a measure this feeling has always at all times been manifested in the army. A firm, inviolable attachment to the war lord is a heritage handed nown from father to son from generations, and in the same way I refer you to my good father, who stands fresh in all your memories, as the personification of the glorious and honorable war lord, such as could not be more finely conceived in a form more speaking to the heart.

"I refer you to my beloved father, who as Crown Prince already won a place of honor in the annals of the army, and to a long line of glorious ancestors whose names shine brightly in history; whose hearts beat warmly for the army.

"Thus we belong to each other—I and the army. Thus we were born for one another and thus we will stand together, in an indissoluble bond, in peace or storm as God may will it.

"You will now take the oath of fidelity and obedience to me, and I swear ever to remember that the eyes of my ancestors look down upon me from the other world, and that I shall one day have to render an account to them of the glory and honor of the army. WILLIAM"

A proclamation in a similar vein was also addressed to the navy by Emperor William.

It is said that when Prince Bismarck paid his first respects to the new Emperor, the young man fell upon the Chancellor's neck, and with tears in his eyes said: "I hope, I beg of you, that we may remain unchanged."

It is now understood that Wilhelm II. will to-day, immediately after the funeral, issue a proclamation declaring his intention to follow in the steps of his father and grandfather. Still, it is an undoubted fact that a recrudescence of the Junker Party is greatly feared by the Liberals and the Judenhetze by the Hebrews, though no solid grounds can be discovered for such bodings. The new Emperor is not a boy, but a man of nearly 30, with a mind like that of Frederick the Great, whose early portraits he greatly resembles. Prince Bismarck will necessarily still direct the policy of the Empire and the Kingdom, and the best authorities here contemplate no variation. The Reichstag and the Landtag will immediately be convened and the new Emperor's policy declared. Until then anticipation is likely to prove erroneous.

The result of the post-mortem examination of the Emperor Frederick has been accepted by the German press as a triumphant vindication of the position taken by the German doctors. Prof. Virchow's dissection showed the complete destruction of the larynx by cancer. The Emperor William has ordered Dr. Mackenzie to write a complete history of the late monarch's illness. Dr. Mackenzie said yesterday that he admits that the disease was cancer, but asserts that it was very difficult to make a diagnosis on account of abnormal conditions in the throat.

The Good Boy's Alphabet.

Stands for Albert, who got a chill,
By a fall in the river adown by the mill.

[The same "A" also stands for his aunt, who said he ought to have his hide peeled for fooling around the water.]

Stands for baby, who sits on the floor
And tries hard to equal the lion's roar.

[The same "B" also stands for the broomstick he will get later on in life, unless he mends his ways.

Stands for Charlie, who fooled with a gun
And shot off the head of poor Billy Dun.

[The same "C" also stands for the Coroner, who came with a jury, and decided that Billy met his death at the hands of a a wire operated by the Brush Electric Light Company.]

Stands for David, who ran off to sea,
Because a wild rover he wanted to be.

[The same "D" enlarged four times by the instantaneous process, also stands for his old Dad, who overtook him down at Johnson's Corners and rovered him home with a sprout from a peach tree.]

Stands for Edward, who a whaling received,
For stealing the cake as his mother believed.

[The same "E" also stands for his emotion as he went out and sat down under the currant bushes and took an 8x10 vow that he'd run away that very night and become an outlaw on the prairies. He didn't go, however. Any letters addressed to him through this paper will be promptly forwarded.

EMPLOYING A HERMIT.

The Difficulty Experienced in Securing One—How He Abused His Trust.

There is a wealthy New Yorker who owns a country seat up the Hudson upon which he has expended extravagant sums. He left one little nook of his magnificent domain in a state of wild and uncultivated nature. In this savage corner of his estate the owner conceived the novel idea of erecting a hermitage, and immediately proceeded to gratify his odd fancy by having built, in the heart of its tangled underwood and shrubbery a quaint, rude structure such as hermits of the first-class are popularly supposed to affect.

Delighted with the romantic appear of this hermitage, and filled with a new sense of the wild beauty of its location, the gentleman of bizarre taste determined to perfect his work by employing one who could bring satisfactory credentials, to occupy the hermitage. But here he encountered a difficulty. Hermits who thoroughly understand their business, he found it impossible to reach by the ordinary mediums of advertising. They don't take the papers regularly to see what society is doing, consequently the advertisement which was kept standing for weeks met with no response; he heard of one hermit, by accident, but when he hunted him up he found that he was simply a merchant who did not advertise.

The advertisement which the gentleman had put in all the papers ran as follows. "Wanted, a good live hermit; one who does not know how old he is, has forgotten how to talk, has never heard of the war, has no opinion upon the tariff, is warranted not to wash, and who eats roots, preferred. An Anchorite who fills the bill can anchor right here permanently. Address &c."

READY TO BE A HERMIT.

No applicants for the situation appearing he finally decided that it would be impossible to obtain his beau ideal hermit, so he thus modified his advertisement: "Wanted, a dirty, ragged man who hates work, to live in a house on my place free of charge. None but the friendless need apply; a good salary and steady sitting around for the right kind of a man."

Two or three hundred wretched old tramps answered this advertisement the day it appeared, but a young one was selected and duly sworn in as proprietor of the hermitage, and for a few days everything went well. The abnormal appetite of this hermit for bread and roast beef was not in accordance with the gentleman's preconceived ideas of the cravings of a hermit's inner man, which he had always understood had a natural incliuation toward a root and raw dog diet. In other respects, however, the hermit was highly satisfactory, and the gentleman gave him his check for his first week's wages without a murmur.

Then the hermit asked permission to have half a day off; said he wanted to run down to New York and buy a few little things that he needed. He could go and come most of the way on the "L" road. The gentleman protested against such unhermit like conduct, and endeavored to show how utterly inconsistent it would be for one of his profession to ride on an elevated car. "What will they think of you sitting there in your cowl?" he added.

"That it's a cowl day when I get left," replied the hermit, who is suspected of having been born in Sligo.

Finding that the hermit could not be dissuaded from his purpose the gentleman gave a reluctant consent, with the understanding that the thing should not happen again while he was hermiting at his hermitage.

Well, the hermit went to town and immediately proceeded to get outside of a quantity of sour mash that would otherwise spoil. Then he blew up the bartender because he wanted to make a hermit pay for his drinks, and was ejected from the place.

After that another freak seized him. He went to a barber shop and had a clean shave and a shampoo, and then he sought a bath house where he indulged in a Turkish bath. At this latter place the opportunity presented itself, and he stole the entire outfit of another bather—a dude—which he donned, leaving in their stead, his cassock, cowl, girdle, sandles and staff. From thence he took in the matinees, where he mashed the girls, went out after each act to eat cloves, and altogether comported himself in a manner as far removed from a hermit at three dollars a week as possible.

Late at night he reached the hermitage where he was confronted by his astonished patron, who, when convinced of the identity of his late hermit, bitterly reproached him. "You have abused my trust in you and ruined your prospects;" he said. "In a few short hours you have undone the work that fifteen years of slovenliness and hunger and exposure will not replace. You are toney, and may be able to do something in the bunco way, but as a hermit you are no longer available. Go to!"

And the hermitage is vacant.—Texas Siftings.

A False-Alarm Clock.

A woman purchased in the town of Kattowitz an alarm clock with other things, and intended to smuggle them into Poland. She told the watchmaker of her intentions, and asked him to have his wife fasten it to her bustle under her dress. The watchmaker for fun set the alarm to go off at the same time the train would land at the frontier. The woman, arriving at the frontier, passed the customs easily; but just as she was again stepping into the railway carriage an awful noise burst forth. She was made to dismount amid roars of laughter, to disrobe, and to pay the fine for smuggling.

An English sea captain had a faithful pet pigeon. The bird fell exhausted on the bridge of his vessel while he was on a voyage to New Zealand. He picked it up, carefully tended and fed it, and it became quiet tame. When the captain landed on reaching the port the bird flew near him wherever he went and even entered a coffee-house with him. It is still the captain's constant companion.

HISTORICAL FACTS.

WILLIAM LEE, of Woodborough, Nottingham, Eng., invented the first stocking frame in the year 1599.

THE commerce of the world from the tenth to the sixteenth century was controlled by the Venetians.

BALLOONS were invented by Gusneac, a Jesuit pastor, in 1729, and revived by Montgolfier, a Frenchman, in 1783.

CHRISTIANS were not allowed to receive interest money until the fifteenth century, and Jews were the only usurers.

THE revolutionary war between England and the American colonies cost the former one hundred millions in treasure.

THE "Chamber of Loans" at Venice, organized about 1150, was the first public banking institution ever established.

OSYMANDIAS, of Egypt, who, in 2100 B. C., passed into Asia and conquered Bactria, was the first warlike King of whom there is any record.

PAPER made of cotton was extensively used in the eleventh century. Linen paper was invented in 1319. The use of straw in paper dates back to the opening year of the present century.

EDWARD RANDOLPH was appointed commissioner of the first custom-house in New England, established at Boston in 1680. His authority was superseded when the General Court created a Colonial Naval Office.

FORKS began to be known in France toward the end of the sixteenth century, and were introduced into England in 1608. They were first used in Italy towards the end of the fifteenth century.

ACCORDING to the Greek historian Plato, who wrote 2,200 years ago, the great island of Atlantis, filled with rich cities and priceless treasures, was absorbed by the sea many years before his time.

GENERAL WASHINGTON laid the cornerstone of the old capitol on September 18, 1793. This building was set on fire and destroyed by the British in the war of 1814, at the conclusion of which it was rebuilt. The wings were added in 1851.

BISHOP STILL wrote the first English dialogue drama, called "The Search after Gammer Gurton's Needle," in 1551. The first English tragedy was "Gorbadue, or Ferrex and Perrex," in 1561; and the first comedy, "The Supposes," was written in 1566. Marlowe began to write in 1581, and Shakespeare in 1589.

THE noted English dwarf, Geoffrey Hudson, was served up to table in a cold pie before the King and Queen by the Duchess of Buckingham in 1626. Although the whole affair was, of course, a joke, Hudson felt sorely the indignity of his brief immurement beneath pie-crust, and engaged in various conspiracies against the Duchess and her friends.

THE first clock with a balance was made by De Vick in 1364, and the first with a pendulum in 1641. Watches with springs were first made at Nuremberg, about 1477, but the first successful application of springs to watches was by Dr. Hooke, in 1658. Haroun-al-Raschid, Caliph of Bagdad, in 802, sent to Charlemagne among other presents a clock of curious workmanship.

THE BATTLE IS ON TO-DAY

Nobody Knows Just What Will be the Outcome.

DEPEW IS A CANDIDATE.

NEW YORK'S DELEGATION WILL PRESENT HIS NAME TO THE CONVENTION.

Blaine Persistently Talked of and it Now Looks as Though He Was Getting Stronger — Sherman's Chances — Work Being Done by the Friends of the Several Candidates—John M. Thurston, of Nebraska, for Temporary Chairman—Talk Around the Hotel Corridors.

CHICAGO, June 19.—Bigger crowds and more talk for everybody was the distinguishing feature of yesterday's work, but it did very little toward indicating the Republican candidate in the course of the convention. At the headquarters the crowds were tremendous.

Nearly every one of them had a parlor and a private room, and while the crowd pushed and hustled in the warm apartments, the leaders tried to keep the doors closed against the invasion. A small part of the time they were successful, but their constituents and friends from their State broke through at intervals and interrupted conferences with demands for tickets.

They were hard to refuse, and collectively, the demands took up far more time than the political business. Indeed, outside of the delegation meetings, tickets might be regarded as the business of the day.

The convention hall will hold about 8,000 people, and, exclusive of delegates, alternates, and people having actual business in it there are already in town enough visitors to fill it half a dozen times over.

No less than eleven "favorite sons" are in the field, tying up eleven State delegations with two-fifths of the vote of the Convention, taking into consideration the votes of their States alone. The list is as follows:

Sherman, Ohio	42 votes
Depew, New York	72 votes
Gresham, Illinois	44 votes
Allison, Iowa	26 votes
Harrison, Indiana	30 votes
Alger, Michigan	28 votes
Rusk, Wisconsin	22 votes
Hawley, Connecticut	12 votes
Phelps, New Jersey	18 votes
Ingalls, Louisiana and Kansas	34 votes
Total	330

The Blaine shout has been the greatest sufferer, for while it is so steady and continuous as to attract everybody's attention, the hurrahs from the Ohio and Indiana clubs, and the increase of other excitement and business has made it proportionately smaller.

He is undoubtedly popular, the favorite of the majority of the delegates, if he would consent to run, but just now he is opposed by that conservative sentiment which believes that this should be a convention of other candidates.

The most enthusiastic are the Californians, who seem to have made Mr. Blaine an active candidate, and at the same time brought his candidacy into its most serious trouble.

Just now there are hopes that the Californians will get themselves under reasonable control, but it is still fair to say that trouble from them is apprehended.

The other candidates were more interested in the New York delegation meeting than any of their own direct work, and they all felt that Mr. Depew's nomination, or rather, his own action after he gets started in within the New York delegation would be the most important factor in the convention. Among the Western men it is agreed that he cannot be nominated, and they are equally agreed that he cannot turn the New York delegation over to anybody else.

Pennsylvania, which took an informal vote, instead of the prevailing delay of declaring for a favorite son, gave very little more satisfaction. What actual information there was in it had been discounted days ago, and the figures only corroborated the steady rumors of division. Sherman had 35 votes; Mayor Fitler, 14; Gresham, 2; Alger, 2; Harrison, 2; Depew, 2; Blaine, Lincoln and Cameron, 1 each. The Fitler boom is said to be taken into serious account, and the total figures indicate probably half a dozen more votes for Sherman. There was talk, however, that Senator Quay was leaning very favorably toward Harrison, and it may be that a big change in Pennsylvania will wind up the first rounds of stiff balloting and shift the fight to another quarter.

New Jersey is to stand by William Walter Phelps until they see what his chances as a dark horse will be, and then they can be relied on to push Phelps to the utmost for second place. They do not seem to be worried by Mr. Depew's candidacy and are disposed to regard it as a big push forward for their own man. So far the principal obstacle to the Vice Presidential candidacy of Mr. Phelps has been the chance that Morton would hold New York. That assured, of course, a Western canidate for the Presidency and New York making no fight against him, but in taking up Depew the East in a measure deserted the Vice Presidency and made their demand for the greater fight. If Depew were nominated, or possibly Mr. Blaine, one of the Western Presidential candidates would get the Vice Presidency, but otherwise Mr. Phelps would come naturally into line. The leaning of the State toward Harrison indicates that they would like to see the ticket Harrison and Phelps.

New England is so divided that her support is not likely to do anybody any good. Depew probably will gain more than anybody else, but the other votes are hopelessly scattering. Maine would turn to Blaine if there seemed to be any opening, but in the meantime Sherman, Depew, Alger and Harrison seem to stand about equal in her affections. New Hampshire is inclined to be Harrison first, with Allison a second choice. Vermont is willing to keep close to New York, and Connecticut is strongly for Depew. Massachusetts is blocked by the Hoar leadership for Sherman, and the majority sentiment against him, and is doing nothing. Senator Hoar cannot convince the delegation that Sherman is the man and the delegation cannot convince him that he is not. When they get tired listening to the bands play they call another meeting to argue the subject, but they still have it undecided enough to furnish material for New England debating societies all winter.

To go over the list of Northern and Eastern States would result in a continued show of division which can just as easily be indicated from any one of them. Except where the States have actual candidates thay are not united on anybody, and there is nothing now to induce them to become solid.

Another delegate, D. N. Cooper, said: "One or two of us, I think, are favorable to Mr. Gresham." Mr. Cooper added that Judge Gresham was respected by all the Alabama delegates, but they had the impression that he was a local candidate. The Sherman men were well informed as to when the South Carolina and Alabama delegations would arrive. A dozen gentlemen with Ohio badges were loitering around waiting to receive the southerners effusively. The Harrison contingent was also at the Sherman in moderate force.

Col. Lamb, of Virginia, when asked who the Mahone delegates were for said:

"They can't be said to be for any candidate first, last and all the time. They are very friendly toward Sherman. He has helped us on many occasions in Virginia, and if our delegates are admitted they will vote for Sherman until it is proven that he cannot be nominated. Then our second choice is Harrison."

The Pennsylvania delegation will be labored with to support Depew after the second ballot.

New York's delegation met yesterday afternoon, Chauncey M. Depew chairman of the delegation and Frank Hiscock member of the committee on resolutions. The delegation decided to support Depew first and last. He will be nominated by Warner Miller and seconded by Gen. Knapp.

The National Committee this afternoon selected J. M. Thurston, of Nevada, for temporary chairman.

The sentiments that floated through the hotel corridors yesterday would fill many columns of this paper.

B. F. Jones, Chairman of the National Committee, said: "It was a great mistake for Mr. Blaine to retire. Victory was in his grasp. By far the strongest man in the party, he could have been elected with a hurrah! I think he could have carried New York by 20,000 or 30,000 majority. But it is useless to grieve over the inevitable. He says that he is not a candidate, and that settles his candidacy. Without prejudice to any other candidate, I fully believe his retirement is a serious mistake on his part. The people wanted him, and all he had to do was to say the word and receive a unanimous nomination. I am at sea now as to who will be nominated. Our duty is to select a man strong for protection, and with the stamina necessary to carry out his ideas after he is elected. Yes, I believe with Mr. Blaine that we are in a condition to win this fall. I shall do all I can to elect the nominee."

Charles E. Coon, a New Yorker, is strong for Sherman. He is not a delegate, but he wears a large badge with these gilt letters on a dark blue back ground: "New York Delegation, Chicago, June 19, 1888."

"Yes, I am for Sherman," he said, "he is the man of all others that should be nominated. If I have measured up the situation aright since I have arrived, he certainly has the call and will be nominated. The 'Blaine or bust' business has petered out like a distempered dream after a sudden awakening. I think Warner Miller will be the Vice-President. The tendency that way is very strong. With his name on the ticket it means a great majority in New York, and it means that four years from now he will be the Republican cadidate for the Presidency. I know few people who have any faith in the belief that a Vice-President can ever be nominated for the Presidency, but this will be an exception. Mark my words, Sherman, Miller, protection and victory."

Fred Douglas is a conspicuous figure. The old colored orator ventilates his opinions freely. He said: "Why, Sherman is the man of all others to nominate. He is a representative Republican and believes in a fair and honest count in the South. I feel that a majority of the Southern delegates, especially the colored ones, will vote for him. He is honest and has had a long and brilliant political career. In every emergency he has been the friend of the colored man. I cannot remember the time in his public or private career that he did not advocate true principles of the Republican party. We should nominate him by all means."

Gen. W. Coxswell of Massachusetts, thinks the situation mixed. He said: "The delegation from the Bay State is divided among six candidates. We have not decided on any man yet. I cannot make any predictions when things are in such a chaotic condition. Our State, you know, was for Blaine, but since he retired there has not been a unanimity of sentiment."

Gen. J. S. Robinson came along and declared that he had figured out the solution as follows: Sherman will get it because he goes in with 361 votes that will remain solid as a wall and constantly gain after the complimentary candidates have been dropped. It is just as natural and probable to suppose that he will gain votes as that any other candidate will. They have tried to form combinations against him, but without success.

Senator Stockbridge, of Michigan, said: "Why, I saw Mr. Blaine in Paris last winter, and he told me that under no circumstances would he be a candidate, and I can tell you he was in earnest. He does not care to go through with the arduous work of a campaign. His wife is opposed to his candidacy, too, and I believe if this convention should nominate him he would refuse to run. My conversation with him was, of course, of the friendliest nature, but I do not violate any confidence in telling it. I hear that some one said Walker Blaine was going through the corridors offering to bet a large sum that his father would be nominated. That is not true. I heard him tell a group of men that his father was not a candidate and meant everything he said in his two letters of refusal.

Christopher L. Magee, of Pennsylvania, said: "The Fitler movement is an absurdity upon its face. It is merely to give those who support him a chance to wait and decide how they will really vote in the end. Why, if all the various State delegations acted in such a manner the result would be that the convention would last an indefinite period. A majority of the Pennsylvania delegates are for Sherman and will remain for him, I think, until the end. I know I shall vote for him."

The regular press report says: "Chauncey M. Depew finished his survey of the situation last night and determined to permit his name to go before the convention. He announced this conclusion to Senator Hiscock, Mr. Phelps and several other gentlemen. Although Mr. Depew was considered to be a candidate from the first, he had not until that moment formally announced to his friends that he would seek or accept the nomination. So much had been said about the feeling against Mr. Depew in the granger districts that he desired to find out for himself what that feeling was. He received such assurances from Minnesota and other States, which had been before reckoned as against him, that he finally decided to go into the contest. When Mr. Depew's determination was made known, a meeting of the New York delegation was called and it was at once resolved to support him with the whole strength of the delegation.

As near as can be ascertained Sherman will have at least a dozen or fifteen of the twenty delegates from South Carolina at the start. All the Alabama delegates, except Mr. Threet and one other, reached the headquarters allotted them at the Sherman yesterday. John W. Jones, colored, delegate-at-large, said: "We cannot give an electorial vote to the candidate, and we do not think we should dictate. We came prepared to give our vote to the best man and whoever the North wants. Most of us have preferences, but we are willing to yield them. I should say twelve or fifteen of our delegates are for Sherman. Alger has three or four others."

THE WHEELMEN MEET.

Over 1,500 Bicyclists in Council—Election of Officers—Grand Parade To-day.

BALTIMORE, June 19.—Fifteen hundred bicyclists from all parts of North America are here to participate in the ninth annual meet of the League of American Wheelmen. Delegates from New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Massachusetts, California, Canada and Mexico arrived yesterday, and still the trains hourly bring more.

The streets are alive with the visitors, and club badges bearing the names of all States in the Union are fluttering on many breasts on sidewalks and in street cars. The meeting in the Concert Hall of the Academy of Music to revise the constitution and by laws and to select officers assembled at noon.

At the meeting of the Board of Officers, yesterday, H. W. Hays, Vice President of the League, presided, with Albert Russell, of Boston, Secretary. Fourteen chief consuls and thirty representatives were present.

T. J. Kirkpatrick, President of the League, said the past year had been very satisfactory and Secretary Russell's report was also very gratifying. There are 10,280 members.

The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted in the re-election of T. J. Kirkpatrick, of Springfield, O., as President, and H. W. Hays, of Boston, as Vice-President. A. M. Brewster, of St. Louis, was elected Treasurer, and W. S. Beall, of Buffalo, third member of the Executive Committee.

After the parade to-day the championship races will take place at Arlington Park.

The Keystone and Alleghany Clubs, of Pittsburg, the Juniatas, of Huntingdon, and the Mountain Wheelmen, of Phillipsburg, Pa., came all the way on wheels.

Deroulede Defeated.

PARIS, June 18.—Paul Deroulede, the candidate for Boulanger, is at the bottom of the poll in the election for member of the Chamber of Deputies, held in the Department of the Clearcate yesterday. The Bonapartist candidate is at the top, receiving the largest number of votes, but not the majority requisite for election. A second ballot will take place on Sunday next.

Voluntarily Confessing to a Murder.

PHILADELPHIA, June 19.—George M. Day, walked into the Central station yesterday and confessed to having killed Theodore Clemmer in a fight at Gloucester Sunday. He said that Clemmer was drunk and had assaulted him with a club, and in turn he picked up a heavy stick and dealt Clemmer a crushing and fatal blow on the head.

Weather Indications.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—For New England, New York, Eastern Pennsylvania, Delaware and New Jersey, stationary temperature, light to fresh northerly winds, becoming variable, fair weather.

Within Nine Days of Dr. Tanner.

RACINE, Wis., June 19.—This is the thirty-first day since John Zachar, the Caledonian faster, partook of food. There is no sham about his case. The family physician states positively that to his certain knowledge Zachar has not taken one drop of nourishment. Lately he has taken to sleeping a good deal and does not take the exercise he formerly did. He is very reticent and quiet, and when told that his meals were ready merely said: "When I want to eat I will let you know. I think I know my own business best."

The Diss Debar's Sentenced.

NEW YORK, June 19.—"Gen." and Mrs. Diss Debar, who were convicted on Saturday, in the Court of General Sessions, of conspiring to swindle Luther R. Marsh out of a part of his property, were to-day sentenced by Judge Gildersleeve to the penitentiary for six months each.

DUBOIS, PA., SWEPT BY FIRE.

Thirty Lives Reported to be Lost—Damage Fully $2,500,000.

PITTSBURG, June 19.—The lumber town of Dubois, in Clearfield County, this State, was almost wiped out by fire yesterday afternoon. The town contained several thousand inhabitants, and the loss is placed at $2,500,000.

More serious than all, thirty lives are reported to have been lost. The only means of communication with the town was a single road wire, and that communication has been destroyed, rendering it impossible to learn anything further. John Dubois, the lumber king, has, it is rumored, determined to donate $500,000 to the sufferers.

BY THE WAY.

—Oh! for a Y. M. C. A. building.

—The Dunellen "Stars" defeated a Plainfield nine, Saturday, by a score of 19 to 10.

—The Potter beat the Scott nine at base-ball, Saturday morning, by a score of 9 to 0.

—Comfort and Dr. Kimbell await at the City Hotel the sufferer from tender feet, and aching toes.

—The scent of the fertilizer was heard in the land, this morning, about the vicinity of the freight house.

—The Y. M. C. A. "Crescents," of this city, will play the "Centrals," to-morrow afternoon, on the East Front street grounds.

—Gazelle Engine Co., No. 1, will take their apparatus to the well in front of the Crescent Avenue church for a "wash," to-morrow evening.

—The entertainment which was to have been given this evening at Hope chapel, has been postponed for one week in consequence of the annex to chapel, not having been completed.

—Mrs. T. J. Gillies of No. 7 Madison avenue, announces in another column, that she is closing out her Summer stock of millinery goods at greatly reduced prices.

—If the person who in a fit of absent-mindedness took a bunch of keys from the office of Suydam & Stillman, will return the same, he will be forgiven by the owner, Mr. W. A. Coddington.

—An exchange says: "It is strange to note the delicate little spoonful of cream a lady takes at a party or church festival, and to see her on washday with a dozen or fifteen clothespins projecting from her mouth."

—The finest strawberries that are brought to this, or any other, market-place, are "Halsey's Best," grown on the extensive garden-farm of Mr. H. C. Compton. In size and flavor they are unequalled.

—The horses which will hereafter draw Gazelle engine to and from fires, were last night hitched up and driven around the block for trial. From now on the City will pay for the use of the Fire Department horses by the month.

—The Young People's Association of the Crescent Avenue church, will hold its last prayer meeting of the season on Friday evening, at eight o'clock. Subject—"What Can I do to Aid my Church?" 1 Cor., XII: 12-31. All are desired to be present.

—When the case of the City vs John Dady came up before Judge Suydam, yesterday, Walter L. Hetfield, the acting Corporation Counsel, saw upon examination of its first witness that the city had no case. He thereupon asked the Court to discharge the accused, which was done without trial.

—Residents on East Fifth street, between Peace and Washington streets, complain that the roadbed on that thoroughfare is poorly graded, and that after a heavy rain pools of stagnant water remain for several days afterward. They also complain that certain sections of the street are insufficiently lighted.

—There was a great commotion along the banks of Tier's Lake last evening. Some boys who were in bathing at the time were driven from the water and chased for a considerable distance. Some one shouted "Stop Thief," and persons residing near the lake supposed that a burglary had been committed.

—A valuable truck horse belonging to Mr. C. B. Clifton ran away from the freight house this morning, and when turning into Park avenue, the animal collided with the railroad bridge breaking the left fore leg near the hoof. At the corner of Park and North avenues, Officer Lynch bravely captured the runaway horse, which was subsequently killed.

Will This One Take the Prize?

The first bass to go on record in the season's competition for the prize reel offered by A. M. Vanderbeek & Co., was caught yesterday in the New Market pond, and weighed 3 pounds, 1½ oz. The fortunate fisherman was Mr. William Clawson of South Plainfield. He caught five, each of which weighed over two pounds.

The big one spoken of above, has been effectively stuffed and artistically mounted by Mr. Harry L. McIntosh, and is on exhibition at Messrs. Vanderbeek & McIntosh's store, 33 Park avenue.

EIGHTEENTH ANNUAL COMMENCEMENT.

High School Graduates and Their Essays—Other Features of Thursday Evening's Programme.

Below is published for the first time a list of the High school graduates of this year, and the subjects of their essays—of which, however, only nine will be read at the commencement exercises of Thursday evening:

CLASS OF '88.

Wagner's Operas in America,....Laura Frances [Baker.
Fashions.....Maude Benton.
A Visit to Olympus...Ethel Rathbone Boardman.
Letters from Holland.....Lillietta Dunham.
Housekeeping.....Lillian Earl Fritts.
A Bunch of Flowers.....Myra Rose Lowrie.
Miss Alcott's Girls.....Sarah Kate Potter.
Women Astronomers.....Sarah Louise Schuck.
Indian Schools.....Sarah Cecelia Sharp.
The Modern Arthur and his Knights.....Emma [Eliza West.
The Seasons.....Charles Firman Dayton.
The Children of the Public.....Walter Nelson [Chamberlin.
Homeric Heroes.....Howard Huntington.
The God Janus.....Fred Beebe Newman.
Action, the Test of Character.....Edward Ten- [Broeck Perine.
Locomotion.....Frank DeWitt Randolph.
The Pious Æneas.....William Nelson Runyon.
Purpose.....Harry Laray Maxson.
Valedictory.....Marion Fitz Randolph.

Insterspersed throughout the programme will be selections from Schubert, Waldteufel, Ellenberg, Gunoud and other musical composers, played by Cappa's Seventh Reg't Orchestra. An address by the Hon. I. H. Maynard, Asst. Sec'y of the U. S. Treasury, will precede the presentation of the following awards:

Penmanship, offered by Mr. J. Kirkner.
Mathematics, offered by Mrs. C. H. Stillman.
English Composition, offered by Mr. George H. [Babcock.
U. S. History, offered by Mr. J. W. Murray.
Spelling, offered by Mr. J. Kirkner.
Language (Greek and Latin,) offered by Mr. [Ernest R. Ackerman.

Bishop Vincent will make a ten minute address to the graduates, after the presentation of the diplomas; and Gov. R. S. Green is also expected to speak.

One most pleasing feature of the occasion will be the presentation to the school, by the Class of '77, of a handsome picture. Miss Mary H. Mather, the Class President, and its valedictorian, will be unable to be present, but she has written a letter of presentation. The picture is a photo-gravure of the Acropolis of Athens, showing also the Parthenon. It is elegantly framed, and on a plate below is inscribed "From the Class of '77," and its motto, "Age Quod Agis."

SAENGERBUND PASTIMES.

Putting the Shot, Jumping and Calisthenics at Keller's Grove.

About eighty of the members of the National Turn Verein of Newark and Elizabethport were met at the station in this city by Messrs. Charles Myers and William Leithauser, on Sunday morning and escorted to Keller's Grove in North Plainfield, where they met and were entertained by the members of the Plainfield Gesang and Turn Verein Society. Martin Grau, leader of several societies in Newark and Jersey City, was in command.

The Plainfield society and its friends were divided into two classes, the first in charge of John Metzger, of Newark, and the second was in charge of A. C. Wenzel of this city. The day was spent in running, jumping, marching, calisthenics and other favorite outdoor amusements. Honors in the various contests were divided as follows:

HIGH JUMPING.

First, F. Hosp, five feet, four inches. Second, Chas. Gogel, four feet, eleven inches.

RUNNING JUMP.

First, Chas. Gogel, nineteen feet, six inches. Second, F. Hosp, nineteen feet. Third, H. Keller, sixteen feet, six inches.

PUTTING THE SHOT.

First, M. Grace, twenty-eight feet. Second, H. Haurand, twenty-seven feet, ten inches.

In the above event, Mr. Haurand put the shot twenty-eight feet, eleven inches, on a foul. In the rope climbing contest, the first honor went to a member of the National Turn Verein of Newark, Henry Haurand captured the second honor, and Chas. Dravers the third.

During the day Ferdinand Hosp, on behalf of the Newark and Elizabethport societies, tendered a vote of thanks to the Plainfield society, to which Mr. Henry Haurand responded. The latter gentleman also served a bountiful collation. The visitors were escorted to the depot and took the 7:30 P. M. train for home.

Street Railway or Not?

To-night at Reform Hall, a citizen's meeting has been called to discuss the question of street railways for Plainfield. It is hoped that a large attendance will be present, and that a thorough consideration of the subject will be had.

It is certain that some means of cheap transportation from city-centre to suburb, must be adopted, else the growth of Plainfield which has ceased in all directions except along the line of the railroad, will never continue.

Hacks nor stages cannot be maintained on even ten-cent fares. Street cars only can furnish cheap transportation—and it is the most comfortable, too.

Trot Out Your Dolls.

A grand doll show will be given by the primary class of the Park Avenue Baptist church, in the chapel, Friday afternoon and evening. There will also be a doll drill at four and eight o'clock.

Following are the prizes offered, open to all Plainfield, with no entrance fee: Prize for the prettiest doll; best looking colored doll; homeliest rag doll; most curious doll; handsomest scrap book; most ingenious piece of work.

A SEVERE LIGHTNING SHOCK.

Narrow Escape from Death of Mr. M. DeCourcy and Family.

During the severe storm of last Friday night, a shaft of lightning entered a bed-room window at 66 East Second street, tore the sleeve of Mrs. DeCourcy's night-dress, knocked Mr. DeCourcy over and just missed the little ones who lay on the bed close by.

Mr. DeCourcy and his wife occupied an apartment adjoining, but as the storm increased in violence just before ten o'clock, they went into the bed-room where their children were. Mr. DeCourcy stood between the window and the head of the bed, and was reaching up to pull down the sash, when a blinding flash of lightning seemed to burst with a terrific report in his very face. He was violently hurled backward across the bed, but recovered himself from the terrible shock at once and carried the children from their bed.

Mrs. DeCourcy's sleeve was torn down the seam from the shoulder, and her arm was very red as though it had been severely burned. The children had escaped all harm. No trace could be found of the lightning's course through the house to the ground. The next day Mrs. DeCourcy's arm was black and blue, but otherwise she had entirely recovered from the shock. Mr. DeCourcy very courteously received a representative of THE PRESS and told the story as given above. He said he could not describe in words his sensation when he received the shock, nor what the blow resembled.

$10,000 MORE FOR THE NEW CHURCH.

The First Presbyterian's Building Fund Grows Apace—What They Propose to Erect.

Mrs. Sarah Lattimer has given her check for another $10,000 towards the proposed new First Presbyterian church, making her total subscription so far for such purpose, $20,000 paid into the church treasury.

As stated in THE PRESS of yesterday, service was held for the last time in the old church, on Sunday. The work of removing the organ and carpets will begin at once, and the building will be torn down. The brick chapel erected a few years ago, will remain standing, and the new church will be attached to its walls which were built in expectation of such use.

Already detailed plans in the rough have been submitted by Architect Teale, and considered by the committee of erection. Some of the committee have visited the handsome and convenient church that has just been finished at Hackettstown, and their desire is to build as near like it as possible. It is believed to be one of the most perfect churches in all its arrangements. Its front, however, is 96 feet across, and some alteration in this respect will be necessary, to fit a sixty-foot lot.

Mr. Thorn Wins His Suit.

Mr. Alex. Thorn brought suit recently to dispossess Mr. Geo. H. Cook from the premises occupied by the latter on Somerset street. The case came up before Justice Austin and a jury in North Plainfield, yesterday afternoon. Mr. W. R. Codington, of the firm of Messrs. Jackson & Codington, appeared for the plaintiff and W. A. Coddington appeared for the defendant. The defendant testified to leasing the property for the month of May, with the understanding that he could renew the lease. The plaintiff denied that he leased the place on such conditions, and the jury after a short deliberation returned a verdict in favor of Mr. Thorn, and today Mr. Cook was obliged to move out.

A Team of Horses Stolen.

Chief Carey has received a notice to be on the lookout for a team of stolen horses that were taken from a farmer named Coriell, residing near Millington, last night. The horses were stolen from the stable, together with a wagon and some harness.

POISON IN OUR DRINK.

Not Alcohol—which one may avoid—but BRASS AND LEAD which one takes unsuspectingly. "How—When—Where?" Well, say, in a glass of Soda. Pity the most popular and wholesome of all artificial drinks—which Soda honestly is—should ever deserve a touch of suspicion, but

THE FROZEN TRUTH

is that in some Soda Fountains economy and mechanical facility are studied to the neglect of the weightier matter of purity. Some men are too "smart;" some Soda Fountains are too "ingenious."

We have recently had made a Fountain which secures Absolute Purity for the beverages. Rather pretty, too, we think. We selected the "Matthews' make" because it is the only fount in which the syrups have positively no metallic contact, being discharged direct from glass jars into the tumblers—no tubes; while the waters are contained in and flow through solid block tin,

PURE AS CRYSTAL, COLD AS CHARITY.

We make our own syrups—from REAL FRUIT JUICES, or from chocolate or coffee, etc., as the case may be; no nonsense of essences or make believe.

New drinks? Yes, some of our own contriving. "Winks?" Not a wink; not licensed for winks, and we have an opinion of druggists who take a wink.

Come and try the new Fountain; if you like your drink we'll thank you for saying so, and you'll pay us five cents and come again—it will do you good; only don't come Sundays; no use—Fountain WON'T WORK.

DUNELLEN DOINGS.

What Our Neighbors Find to Talk About.

A new and substantial stone flagging has been laid around the public school property.

The Borough Commissioners are still at work laying sidewalks and improving the streets.

Mr. S. P. Tallman has exchanged his handsome residence place here, for a farm at Belle Mead.

Mr. Abram Runyon, the aged father of Chancellor Runyon, is recovering from his recent indisposition.

Rev. Mr. Beers, formerly pastor of the Episcopal church here, but now of Middletown, Del., is visiting among friends in Dunellen.

Mr. Alvah Gray has artistically painted the dwelling house, store and coal office on Washington avenue, adding greatly to the appearance of the same.

Rev. Mr. Skellenger, pastor of the Presbyterian church, on Sunday preached a sound and practical discourse on the duties of parents and children, taking for his text the "Bible Bees." Mr. Moon of Plainfield sang a solo in a charming manner.

There is every indication that the present season will be a profitable one for the boarding house keepers. Already there are many families from New York summering here, and others are booked to arrive between now and July 1st.

The Central Railroad Company recently put up gongs at the various street crossings here to warn pedestrians and drivers of the approach of trains. The gongs, however, fail to give satisfaction and the railroad authorities have been notified that they must either provide gates at the crossings or station flagmen there.

Invitations are out announcing the approaching marriage of Miss Theodora Wilcox, daughter of Mrs. Theodore Wilcox of West Front street, and Mr. Charles W. Oley, principal of the Dunellen public school. The ceremony will take place at the Church of the Heavenly Rest, Clinton avenue, on Thursday, June 28, at 4:30 P. M. Rev. Dr. J. P. Taylor will officiate.

The anniversary of the First Presbyterian Sunday school was held in the church on Sunday evening, and was largely attended. Superintendent Hamilton presided. The platform settings were superb, and reflected great credit upon the committee having the matter in charge. In the centre of the platform there was a minature fountain, with walks leading to it, and surrounded by flower beds. The handsome new reflectors recently placed in the church, shed a brilliant light on the scene, making a sight most striking and pleasing to the eye. The musical portion of the programme was in charge of Mr. F. Moon of Plainfield. The programme included recitations and singing by the scholars of the school, and an address by Rev. L. E. Livermore. Superintendent Hamilton, to whom is largely due the credit for the success of the undertaking, also made an address.

The members of the Middlesex Bowling Club tendered an invitation collation and bowl to their friends at the residence of Mr. C. Schepflin, on Saturday afternoon, about forty persons being in attendance, including guests from New York, Brooklyn, New Brunswick and other places. During the course of the afternoon an elegant collation was served by a New Brunswick caterer, and Mrs. Schepflin also provided a handsome supply of delicacies. Following the collation, which was grand and sumptuous, a musical party was held in the spacious parlors of Mrs. Schepflin's residence that was thoroughly enjoyed by all present. Among the guests present were: Messrs. Brewster Willis and William Willis, Mr. Powleson and wife, ex-Sheriff Convery, Mr. Evans, wife and daughter, Dr. Linstead and wife of New Brunswick; Mr. Johnson of Plainfield; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Winter of Brooklyn; Miss Whitney, Miss Murphy, Miss Mayler, and Edward Wadsworth of New York city.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. Asa Collier, the jeweler, of this city, was yesterday notified of the death of his mother, which occurred at the latter's residence in Massachusetts on Sunday. Mr. Collier left last evening to attend the funeral.

Mr. J. Howard Leggett has resumed his connection with the pharmacy of Mr. H. P. Reynolds, where in the past he had made so many friends by his uniform affability. Mr. J. A. Sangston has transferred his services to that enterprising firm of young druggists, Field & Randolph.

It is with sincere pleasure that we are able to announce today a decided improvement in the symptoms of Mrs. W. J. Rodme. A consultation has resulted in the assurance of a well-known practitioner of New York, that there is every reason to feel satisfied of the patient's complete recovery.

The New York papers recently published an account of the sudden death of Mr. Charles H. Winfield, of Montgomery county, N. Y. Many persons were at the time led to believe that it was Hon. Chas. H. Winfield of Jersey City who had died, but this is not so. Hon. Chas. H. Winfield is a brother-in-law of Mrs. C. H. Schermerhorn of this city, with whom the latter took dinner on Saturday. Mr. Winfield had anticipated a trip to Brussels on the 28th instant, but he has decided to abandon the journey for the present.

BY THE PRESS SPECIAL SERVICE.

CHICAGO.

The Convention Opened.

[By Private Wire to The Press.]

CHICAGO, June 19—A. E. Bateman, one of the alternates here, tells your correspondent that the nominee of the Convention for President will be either Depew or Sherman, with the chances in favor of the latter.

He does not think Depew will get more than one hundred votes at any time.

Chairman Jones of the National Committee, in his speech opening the Convention, emphatically spoke for protection, and said that platform and candidate of the Convention should be the embodiment of this spirit.

Temporary Chairman Thurston was greeted with applause, when announced. The Kansas delegates, however, stated they were not responsible for his selection, and proposed Warner of Mo. [Hisses].

Thurston's reference to the "Leaders of '84," in his speech, was received with great applause.

He mentioned the candidates in turn and spoke of the Republican party as the party of Protection.

There was great applause when he spoke of the foreign element of the present administration as "calculated to please every coward." He said "the issue of the coming campaign is the tariff, and a great army will rise to trample out forever the pernicious doctrine of free trade."

NEW ENGLAND BAPTIST MISSIONARY CONVENTION.

The Services Sunday in Mt. Olive and Seventh-Day Baptist Churches—Resolutions Adopted—The Convention Closed.

The fourth day's session of the New England Baptist Missionary Convention, which has been in progress in this city since Wednesday last, opened with a prayer and praise meeting in Mt. Olive Baptist church Sunday morning, led by Rev. Wm. T. Dixon, pastor of the Concord Baptist church of Brooklyn.

The regular services were opened with a hymn, followed by Scripture reading by Rev. L. B. Goodall of Orange, N. J. Prayer was offered by Rev. E. Jenkins of Philadelphia. The sermon was preached by Rev. W. L. Francis of Stonington, Ct., who took his text from the 72d Psalm, the 17th verse: "The Perpetuation of Christ and His Kingdom." The sermon was eloquent and the delivery excellent, touching many hearts. The closing prayer was offered by Rev. Rufus L. Perry, Ph. D., of Brooklyn. The collection for the Convention amounted to $10. Benediction was pronounced by Rev. Mr. Francis.

The afternoon service was held after the session of the Sunday school, at the Seventh-Day Baptist church. The Scripture was read by Rev. A. G. Young, and prayer was offered by Rev. W. P. Dennis. The sermon, preached in an able manner, was by Rev. R. D. Wynn, of Abyssinia Baptist church of New York city, from Psalm 144:1, his text being: "God's Drill Room." Prayer was offered by Rev. J. W. Mitchell of this city, and the benediction by Rev. R. D. Wynn. The collection amounted to $26.99.

The evening service was held in the Seventh-Day Baptist church, and was largely attended. Rev. C. C. Stumm of Philadelphia, read the Scripture, and Rev. Wm. T. Dixon led in prayer. The sermon was preached by Rev. T. Doughty Miller, D. D., of Philadelphia: "And He brought us out that He might bring us in." The sermon was of a gospel nature in the full sense of the word, bringing, as it did, the good news and glad tidings to those who sit in darkness, and strengthening those who are in Christ. Prayer was offered by Rev. Geo. H. Jackson of New Haven, Ct. A collection of $52.41 was taken up for the benefit of the Mt. Olive church, after which the Corresponding Secretary, Rev. Wm. T. Dixon of Brooklyn, offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That the most sincere and hearty thanks of this Convention are hereby tendered the Mt. Olive Baptist church and friends of Plainfield, N. J., for their unbounded hospitality, so richly enjoyed by us at this meeting; and we do cheerfully accord the fact that the growth of the Convention since its first annual session in Plainfield, thirteen years ago, has not outgrown the liberal and generous spirit of this dear church and friends. Also the choir, for their valuable services rendered, have our cheerful thanks, as well the Press, for their kindly notices of the doings of the Convention, and also the Seventh-Day Baptist church for the use of their beautiful house of worship.

After singing "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name," the benediction was pronounced by the President of the Convention, Rev. T. D. Miller, D. D., of Philadelphia.

The convention closed last evening, when Rev. R. L. Perry, Ph. D., of New York, read an able paper on the "Proper Methods of Sunday School Teaching." An iced cream and strawberry festival followed in the basement of the church and on the lawn adjoining. The basement and lawn were brilliantly illuminated, and there was a large attendance. The receipts were large.

Building Loan Meeting.

A regular meeting of the Directors of the Plainfield Building and Loan Association was held in the office of Messrs. Jackson & Codington, last evening. Only business of a routine nature was transacted. On Monday evening next, the stockholders will hold a regular meeting in Cutter's Hall.

BASEBALL INTELLIGENCE.

Chicago and Boston Each Win a Game Other Games Yesterday.

MORNING GAME.

Chicago	4
Boston	2

BOSTON, June 19.—As yesterday was a holiday in Boston, and a great one at that, there were two ball games between the Bostons and Chicagos. One was played in the morning and one was played in the afternoon. Capt. Anson and his corps of head waiters walked on to the field as though they intended to make it a Waterloo for the Bostons. The latter were willing to take their chances with a Bunker Hill combination and started in to do up their opponents, with the following result:

Chicago	0	0	0	0	0	2	1	0	1	—4
Boston	0	1	0	0	0	1	0	0	0	—2

AFTERNOON GAME.

Boston,	9
Chicago,	7

The result of the Boston-Chicago game yesterday morning whetted the appetites of Boston baseball enthusiasts, and they turned out yesterday afternoon, filling to its utmost the grand stand and amphitheatre. The Boston boys came on the field about 2:45, clad in white shirts and gray breeches with the uniform red stockings. Chicago followed shortly after, the men in army line headed by Capt. Anson. They wore gray Jerseys and breeches. Both received the customary applause. After some fifteen minutes of practice the game was called and resulted in a victory for the home team. The score:

Boston	1	4	0	0	0	2	0	0	0	0	2—9
Chicago	0	2	0	2	1	0	2	0	0	0	0—7

WASHINGTON vs. PHILADELPHIA.

Washington,	6
Philadelphia,	3

WASHINGTON, June 19.—With O'Day in the box, everybody present at the Washington-Philadelphia game yesteday expected to see the Senators win their fifth successive game and they were not disappointed. The home club backed up O'Day's masterly pitching in championship form, and batted Gleason hard. The Phillies played well in the field, but they had an enigma in O'Day's curves which the could not solve yesterday. Score:

Washington	1	0	0	0	1	0	1	3	0—	6
Philadelphia	0	0	0	1	0	0	0	0	2—	3

THE AMERICAN ASSOCIATION.

Athletic,	3
Cleveland,	2

PHILADELPHIA, June 19.—The Athletics won a game from the Cleveland team yesterday afternoon by better fielding. Bakely was hit harder than was Weyhing, but the hits were well scattered. The fielding of Beerbruer and Stricker was the feature. The score:

Athletic	0	0	0	0	1	0	2	0	0—	3

Exhibition Games.

LYNN, June 19.—About 2,500 spectators saw the New Yorks defeated by the Lynns. The visitors were outbatted, but it should be said that the home nine was materially assisted by Umpre Burden. The shoemakers made by one error. The score: Lynn, 7; New York, 4.

NEW YORK, 8; SALEM, 2.

The New Yorks went to Salem from Lynn decidedly on their mettle. Manager Mutrie objected decidedly to a repetition of Umpire Burden and Caskins was perfectly acceptable to the witches. Bingham went into pitch, and was hit for 13, with a total of 13. George pitched his second consecutive game for the visitors. Long missed a fly and let in three runs. The score: New York, 8; Salem, 2.

BROOKLYN, 11; NEWARK, 1.

Baker did not have an easy time with the Brooklyns yesterday at Newark, for they batted him all over the lot, while the Newark men could do but little with Mays. The work of the Newarks was good, but Brooklyns did poorly. The score: Brooklyn, 12; Newark, 1.

JERSEY CITY, 8; BALTIMORE, 5.

The Baltimore team went over to Jersey City yesterday with the idea that they would get a victory without half trying, but the game they put up would not have won against an amateur team. The Jerseymen batted Shaw with good effect and played sharply in the field. The score: Jersey City, 8; Baltimore, 5.

At Syracuse—Syracuse, 3; Indianapolis, 2.
At Buffalo—Detroit, 9; Buffalo, 6.

Flight of a Defaulting Tax Receiver.

BELVIDERE, N. J., June 19.—An investigation into the accounts of Major J. C. Tibbetts, city tax receiver of Lambertville reveals a shortage of from $4,000 to $5,000. The Major has disappeared. His bondsmen will be prosecuted.

LATE WASHINGTON NEWS

THE SENATE ALMOST DESERTED BY REPUBLICANS.

Hardly a Quorum in Either House--A Number of Bills Passed By the Senate. Other News of Interest.

WASHINTON, June 19.—The United States Senate chamber is now a very dull and sleepy place. There was probably no quorum present, but as nobody complained Senatorial courtesy was invoked and a large amount of work disposed of. There were just about one dozen Republican Senators present, and three of them posed and looked conscious as Presidential candidates should do. Senator Sherman, whose only concession to the extreme heat has been to don a white waistcoat. He makes his headquarters down stairs in the rooms of the Committee on Foreign Affairs, and the rooms have taken on much of the appearance of a headquarters during convention time. In one room a clerk receives despatches, sends replies, manipulates a type writer, and entertains visitors. In the inner room Mr. Sherman talks with his intimate friends and attends to the wire pulling that moves the men on the political chessboard at Chicago.

Candidate Allison was just as calm and smiling as ever, and attended to business just as closely as if a thought of the Presidency had never entered his head to disturb his peaceful thoughts. Allison's headquarters are in the room of the Committee on Appropriations, of which he is Chairman, and here during the next few days he will receive word as to how the battle wages in the Convention City.

After working until 3 p. m., the Senators grew tired and went into executive session for a while. It was so unusually hot in the chamber that they ordered everybody out of the rooms on the gallery floor and then opened the doors. The doorkeerers and clerks and officials and other employes of all kinds were compelled to leave their posts so that the Senators could get fresh air and at the same time keep up a show of secrecy with regard to their proceedings.

The Senate passed these bills:

Senate bill for the surrender and relinquishment to the United States of a portion of the Fort Hall Indian reservation in Idaho for a town site.

Senate bill authorizing the sale of a portion of the Winnebago reservation in Nebraska.

Senate bill to authorize the construction of a railroad bridge across the Missouri river at Parkville, Mo.

House bill to authorize the construction of a wagon and foot passenger bridge across the Noxubee river near Gainesville, Ala.

Senate bill granting to the city of St. Augustine, Fla., the Postoffice and Custom House lot for a public park.

Senate bill appropriating $250,000 for a public building at Oakland, Cal.

Senate bill to authorize the construction of a railroad bridge across the Mississippi River at Alma, Wis.

Senate bill to amend the act of June 16, 1880, for the relief of certain settlers on public lands.

Senate bill to authorize the building of a railroad bridge at Fort Smith, Ark.

The conference report on the Indian Appropriation bill was presented and agreed to.

Mr. Frye gave notice that he would ask the Senate to take up the River and Harbor bill next Monday. The Senate then proceeded to executive business.

The President has approved the act to promote agriculture; the act for a public building at Monroe, La.; the act for a bridge across the Oconee River, near Dublin, Ga.; the act granting to the York Harbor and Beach Railroad Company a right of way; the act for the cancellation of mail contract on route No. 30,109; the act relating to postal crimes; the act making Inauguration Day a legal holiday in the District of Columbia; the act for a bridge across the Poteau River, near Fort Smith, Ark.; the act for the relief of Joseph B. Burton, Charles V. Mesler, Mrs. P. L. Ward, Sidney W. Whitelock, James L. Alsin, George E. Oliphant, and Clarissa G. Green; and the act granting pensions to Charles F. Ward, William Clark, and Caspar Seibel.

The President has vetoed the House bill granting a pension to Dolly Blazer, on the ground that the death of the husband had no relation to his military service. The President has also vetoed the House bill granting an increase of pension to Elijah Martin, a soldier of the war 1812. The President says that he is satisfied that the beneficiary named has died since the introduction of the bill for his relief, hence the veto.

The President has sent the following nominations to the Senate: Thomas S. Maxey, to be United States District Judge, Western district of Texas; Andrew F. Shafer of Michigan, to be Surveyor of Customs for the port of Grand Rapids, Mich.; Second Lieutenant Henry de H. White of Fifth Regiment, cavalry, to be First Lieutenant; First Lieutenant F. Beers Taylor of Ninth Regiment, cavalry, to be Captain; Second Lieutenant John H. Gardner of Ninth Regiment, cavalry, to be First Lieutenant; First Lieutenant Joseph A Sladen of Fourteenth Regiment, infantry, to be Captain.

Commissioner Wright has submitted estimates aggregating $153,540 for the expenses of the Department of Labor for the next fiscal year, of which $84,740 is for salaries.

RACING AT BRIGHTON.

Jocky Taylor's Narrow Escape From Death—Result of the Races.

BRIGHTON BEACH, L. I., June 19.—In the second race yesterday Atom broke his near fore leg at the stable next the upper turn and did not finish.

Geo. Taylor, who is called the Brighton Beach Archer, was thrown from atom, when he fell, and sustained a serious shock. He fell on his back and had a narrow escape from death.

The results of the races are as follows:

Death of an Imprisoned Bank Wrecker.

JOLIET, Ill., June 19.—Benjamin T. O. Hubbard died at Joliet prison yesterday. He was the cashier of the First National Bank of Monmouth, which his shortage of $115,000 wrecked in 1883.

GERMANY'S NEW KAISER

WILLIAM II.'S PROCLAMATION TO THE GERMAN PEOPLE.

Nothing So Very Startling in Its Language--What Newspapers Say of the New Emperor.

BERLIN, June 19.—The following is Emperor William's proclamation in full:

"TO MY PEOPLE—

"God's decree has once more plunged us into the most poignant sorrow. The tomb has scarcely closed over the mortal remains of my never to be forgotten grandfather, when His Majesty, my warmly loved father is also called from this life into everlasting peace. The heroic energy prompted by the Christian self-sacrifice with which, despite his suffering, he knew how to fulfil his kingly duties, seemed to justify the hope that he would be preserved to the Fatherland still longer. God willed differently. The royal sufferer, whose heart beat responsive to all, was great and beautiful. He had only a few months granted to him to display on the throne the noble qualities of mind and heart which won him the love of his people. The virtues which adorned him and the victories which he achieved on the battle field will remain a grateful remembrance as long as German hearts beat. An imperishable glory will illumine his chivalrous figure in the history of the Fatherland.

"Called to the throne of my fathers, I have assumed the government, looking up to the King of Kings, and have vowed to God that, after the example of my fathers, I will be a just and clement prince to my people; that I will foster piety and fear of God; that I will protect peace and promote the welfare of the country, and that I will be a helper of the poor and distressed and a true guardian of the right.

"In praying God for strength to fulfil these kingly duties, which His will imposes upon me, I am supported by confidence in the Prussian people, which a glance at our past history gives me. In good and evil days the Prussian people have always stood by their King. Upon this fidelity, which my fathers have found an indissoluble bond at all times of difficulty and danger, I rely with a consciousness of returning it from the bottom of my heart as the faithful prince of a faithful people, both equally strong in their devotion to their common Fatherland. From this consciousness of the reciprocated love uniting me and my people I derive confidence that God will vouchsafe me strength and wisdom to exercise my kingly office for the welfare of the Fatherland.

WILHELM."

HONOR TO HIS MEMORY.

Resolutions of Sympathy and Services for the Late Emperor.

LONDON, June 19.—In the House of Commons to-day the rising of Mr. Smith was the signal for the uncovering of all the members. Mr. Smith moved that an address be presented to Queen Victoria and the Empress of Germany expressing upon the part of the House of Commons, deep concern and condolence on the death of Emperor Frederick. The late Emperor, he said, had faced death in battle with the greatest courage, but that quality was common compared with the fortitude with which he forced the progress of the terrible disease, sustained by the sense and devotion of the country. Mr. Gladstone seconded the motion in a long and very affecting address, in which he spoke of the many fine qualities of the late Emperor.

In the house of Lords similar action was taken.

LONDON, June 19.—Funeral services in memory of Emperor Frederick were held yesterday afternoon in Westminster Abbey. Places were reserved for diplomats and members of the House of Lords and House of Commons. A special service will be held in the German Chapel Royal next Sunday.

The War Office and Admiralty have ordered that minute guns to be fired and the flags be placed at half-mast at all British military and naval stations at home and abroad, as a mark of respect to the memory of the late Emperor of Germany.

Mourning tokens were general throughout the West End.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—The President and the members of his Cabinet, excepting Secretary Whitney, who is out of the city, and Attorney-General Garland, who is sick, attended services at the German Lutheran church in this city in memory of Emperor Frederick III. Many other distinguished people were in attendance, including nearly all the members of the diplomatic corps.

The services, while simple, were very impressive. They were conducted by the Rev. J. Mueller, pastor of the Church. Appropriate music was rendered by the Washington Saengerbund. The services were conducted in the German language, with the exception of a poem on "The Dead Kaiser," written by Rev. I. H. Cuthbert, of this city, and read by the pastor.

Alarm at the Army Proclamation.

VIENNA, June 19.—Viennese opinions of Emperor William's proclamations are not very favorable. The Neue Freie Presse in a cautious article says: "Frederick, as a victorious General, had no need of boasting. William, on the other hand, was only a boy when the great battles which established the German Empire were fought."

The Tagblatt thinks that Germany's loss is irreparable, and says: "Frederick aspired to freedom and progress. The new Emperor's manifesto is a eulogy of militarism such as has rarely been seen."

The Fremdenblatt says it hopes that Emperor William's only intention is to strengthen the warlike character of the army, establish order, and maintain peace.

LONDON, June 19.—A despatch to the Standard from Paris says "Emperor William's proclamations have sent a cold shiver throughout France. The National says: 'They will edify the world. They are the utterances not of a pastor, but of a slayer of peoples.'"

Bunker Hill Day at Boston.

BOSTON, Mass., June 19.—Yesterday, "Bunker Hill Day" was celebrated in about the usual manner. Mercantile business and operations in the exchanges were generally suspended, and the daily papers omitted editions. The interest of the day centres in Charlestown, where the parades, exercises at the monument, etc., took place. There was a number of civic parades, two games of baseball between the Bostons and Chicagos, regattas of the Dorchester and Bay View Yacht Clubs, and a number of manor sports.

The Striking Brickmakers and the Law.

VERPLANCKS, N. Y., June 19.—The four brickmakers arrested on Friday have been released in $1,000 bail to answer the charges of conspiracy and assault. John Gallagher was yesterday arrested on the same charge and held in the same amount of bail, which was furnished. It is alleged that the Grand Jury found indictments against thirty brickmakers for conspiracy, and that bench warrants have been issued for only five.

I Love Thee So.

Thou art not near me, but I see thine eyes
Shine through the gloom like stars in winter skies,
Pointing the way my longing steps would go,
To come to thee because I love thee so.

Thou art not near me, but I feel thine arm.
Soft folded round me, shielding me from harm,
Guiding me on, as in the days of old.
When life was dark and all the ways were cold.

Thou art not near me, but I hear thee speak,
Sweet as a breath of June upon thy cheek,
And as thou speakest I forget my fears,
And all the darkness of the lonely years.

Oh, love, my love! whatever my fate may be,
Close to thy side, or nevermore with thee,
Absent or present, near or far apart,
Thou hast my love and fillest all my heart.
—San Francisco Call.

An Irish Wild-Flower.

She felt, I think, but as a wild-flower can,
Through her bright, fluttering rags, the dark, the cold,
Some furthest star, remembering what man
Forgets, had warmed her little head with gold.

Above her, hollow-eyed, long blind to tears,
Leaf-cloaked, a skeleton of stone arose,
Oh, castle-shadow of a thousand years,
Where you have fallen, is this the thing that grows?
—Sarah M. B. Platt.

To Bess.

The spirit of old days comes o'er me stealing,
Bearing me backward to a moonlit night
When the blue river flashed its thousand stars
And the fields round us slept in dusky light,
And the long road wound on mysteriously
Past rock and tree,
And John went home with you, and John—the other
John—went home with me.

With mincing pace and most laborious talking
And smiles suave we—John and I—advanced,
Feigning enjoyment (as we feign most things),
And oft the while I turned and backward glanced,
For slowly, laughing came the other two
Without ado—
And I was naught to John, and John—the other
John—was naught to you!
—Mary E. Blanchard.

HER SON'S CHOICE.

The bright October sun was flinging its golden rays into the red and brown-leaved woods, and shining down upon the quaint old gables of the farm-house, while Mrs Carson, knitting briskly at the south window, watched her tall son potting her favorite geraniums and bringing them into the house one by one.

"He'll be doing it for somebody else next year," she murmured to herself, and a tear splashed down upon the worsted that she was fashioning. At the same moment Gilbert looked up, and saw the glitter of the prismatic drop as it fell. In an instant he set down the scarlet blossom that he was trimming off, dusted the earth from his hands, and came hurriedly into the sunny room.

"Mother," said he, "are you crying? What's the matter, mother dear?"

"Nothing," said Mrs. Carson; "nothing out of the ordinary, I mean. It's only what all mothers have to stand, I suppose."

Gilbert put his brown hand kindly on his mother's shoulder.

"Tell me what you mean, mother," said he.

"You oughtn't to let me hear it from a village gossip," said Mrs. Carson, mournfully. "If it's really true, why didn't you come and tell me yourself?"

"But, mother, I don't know what you mean."

"About your engagement to Nellie Harwood," said Mrs. Carson, sternly, transfixing her son with her eyes. "Oh! I see—you're blushing. It must be true!"

Gilbert did color a little, but he smiled nevertheless.

"Your accusation is a little sudden, mother," said he; "and I do not know who has been talking to you. I am not engaged, although I don't deny that I should like to be. I am very fond of Nellie, mother."

"A little dark thing like that," spitefully muttered Mrs. Carson, "with no more idea of housekeeping than yon kitten. Oh, Gil, how can you talk so!"

"I love her, mother," the young man answered simply.

"I know it," said Mrs. Carson, sobbing. "The old saying is true enough—

'My son is my son
Till he takes him a wife.'

You do everything and bear everything for his sake, and just as you're beginning to take a little comfort of your life, off he goes after some girl that'll be a trial to you for the rest of your days. Gil, don't marry that girl! Take your mother's advice. She's only a little, insignificant chit, and you'll repent it."

Gilbert looked pained.

"Mother," said he, "don't you think that this is a subject upon which every man and woman ought to choose for themselves?"

Mrs. Carson screwed up her lips and shook her head.

"Remember what the Bible tell you," said she, "'Honor thy father and thy mother.' And I tell you plainly, I never can feel like a mother to Nellie Harwood."

"But mother—"

"If it was Letty Moorman, now," went on Mrs. Carson, knitting away as if for dear life, "I'd be suited exactly. A nice, handsome, stirring girl, that would be sure to push a husband on in the world."

—"Do I need pushing, mother?" said Gilbert, with a half smile.

"Every man does," evasively retorted Mrs. Carson.

"So you would like me to marry Letty Moorman?"

"I'd like it of all things," cried the old lady, her keen eyes beginning to sparkle again. "I don't know a brighter girl than she is; nor a prettier, nor a sweeter-tempered."

"But perhaps she wouldn't have me, mother," hazarded Gilbert.

Mrs. Carson laid her hand caressingly on her son's arm.

"There ain't many as would say 'no' to you, my boy," said she.

For a moment or two he was silent.

"You are asking a good deal of me, mother," said he, in a serious tone.

"You have never disobeyed me yet," pleaded the old lady. "Don't let this time be the first."

Gilbert returned to his work among the geraniums. Mrs. Carson knitted on, with flying fingers and needles that gleamed like lines of electricity, and in her mind's eye she beheld all the paraphernalia of a joyful wedding, and saw black-eyed Letty Moorman sitting at the head of the little round table, pouring out the tea and dispensing the preserves, while she herself occupied an honored post.

"I'm certain she and me will get along together first-rate," thought she with a thrill of exultation at her heart.

In the afternoon, when the geraniums were all placed in the sunny window, and the housework was done, Mrs. Carson put on her best silk gown and started to go to Mrs. Rickert's to tea.

"I'll go by way of the woods," she thought, "and take Lucy Rickerts some o' them red berries that she's so fond of painting on plaques. Poor Lucy, she's lame, and she's pleased with any such little attention."

The berries, however, grew higher up than Mrs. Carson had anticipated; and it was just when she was balanced on the top of rather an unsafe wall, with a long, scarlet-dotted branch hooked down with the end of her umbrella-handle, that she heard gay, young voices in the thicket beyond.

"It's Letty," she said to herself, "and Martha Dixon. I must keep as still as a mouse till they've got by."

For Mrs. Carson realized that, however harmless her occupation might be, it was scarcely a dignified position for a stout, middle-aged matron to be climbing on the top of some walls, and she did not care to be seen.

"Nonsense!" Letty's clear, sweet voice rang out. "He never asked that of me. He might know I would never put up with a fussy old mother-in-law If any man asks me to accept his home and his heart, I must have a clear field."

"But she thinks a deal of you, Letty," remonstrated Miss Dixon, the village school-mistress. "I've always thought so."

"More than I do of her," retorted Letty. "Gracious me, Mattie, don't you know that young folks and old fogies can't get along together? It isn't in the nature of things."

"It's hard on a mother, though, isn't it?"

"That doesn't signify," said Letty, indifferently. "I tell you—as I mean to tell him—no interfering old mother-in-law for me."

A thrill of gay, sweet laughter followed her words, and then the voices of the speakers died away in the leafy distance, and Mrs. Carson, with a scared, pale countenance, scrambled down from the stone wall, with her trophies of scarlet berries clasped tightly to her breast.

"Has it come to that?" she asked herself; "has he proposed already to that girl? And I brought it on myself. Heaven forgive me! Am I to be turned out of the old home where I've been mistress for thirty years? Not but what Gil is true and faithful to his old mother, but—but what is a mother's influence against a wife's will?"

She turned homeward with a vague uncertain step, still clutching the clusters of berries. But she had forgotten the tea party at Mrs. Rickarts', and lame Lucy's fondness for vivid colors; her heart was full of far other things.

Evidently Gilbert did not expect her yet. He was standing before the fire, watching the leap and crackle of the flames round the old back log, and in his hand there was a little brown glove, four-buttoned, and scented faintly with rose-leaves. Mrs. Carson's heart sank within her.

"Mother!" cried the young man, turning quickly round, as her footstep sounded on the threshold.

"You've asked her, Gil?" gasped the poor woman, her eyes brimming with tears.

"Yes, mother; I've asked her, and she has answered me 'Yes!'"

Mrs. Carson sat down and began to tremble.

"Oh, Gilbert!" she sobbed; "and what is to become of me?"

"You are to live with us mother, dear," said the young man, putting his arm fondly around her still trim waist. "She stipulated for that herself. You are always to keep your own room and your old corner by the fireside. She has no mother, poor dear, and she will feel now as if she had gained one."

"Gilbert!" cried Mrs. Carson, with a great start, as she looked up at her son's face, "who are you talking about? —Letty Moorman? Because—"

"No," said Gilbert. "Even if I could bring myself to care for her, didn't you know that she was engaged, only this morning, to Peter Fanshawe? At least so Doctor Morrison tells me."

"And I pity Peter Fanshawe from my heart," said Mrs. Carson, clasping her hands. "But, Gil—"

"It's Nellie Harwood, mother," said her son. "Try and make the best of it, dear, for I feel that I never can be happy with anyone else."

"The best of it!" exclaimed Mrs. Carson. "Why, it's all best. There isn't any worst to it. I never was so glad of anything in my life."

Gilbert looked at her in some surprise.

"You didn't talk so this morning, mother," he said.

"But one changes one's mind, you know," cried Mrs. Carson, incoherently. "Where's my bonnet? I must go and see Nellie at once, and tell her how rejoiced I shall be to welcome her here."

And it was not until the old bedtime hour, in which, true to the traditions of his childhood, Gilbert Carson always came and sat beside his mother's arm-chair for awhile, that the old lady told him what she had heard from her covert among the berries.

And Gilbert Carson's mother never regretted her son's choice.

Regulations have been established in the coffee districts in Guatemala by which farmers are required to build furnaces on their lands, and, whenever a signal is given to indicate the danger of frost, to light in them fires of tar, pitch, or other substance likely to make a great smoke and keep away the frost.

A Last Resort.

Eastern landlord—Yes, madam, that house is for rent. Sit down.

Desperate applicant—Thank you. I have never been so nearly dead in my life. I believe I have walked fifty miles to day trying to get a house. How much is the rent?"

"Only—by the way, madam, have you any children?"

"Um-er—n—o."

"You seem to hesitate about it?"

"Well, the fact is, I have children, but I intend to kill them to-night."—Omaha World.

THE CONVENTION OPENED

National Republicans Begin Their Work at Chicago.

JUDGE THURSTON'S ADDRESS.

HE TELLS THE DELEGATES WHAT THE REPUBLICAN PARTY STANDS FOR.

He Defines the Issues of the Day and Says that Protection is Necessary to Success. He Also Pays a Tribute to Blaine and Logan—Resolutions of Sympathy for Gen. Sheridan Passed—A Wrangle Over the Admission of Virginia Delegates—M. Estee, of California, for Permanent Chairman.

CHICAGO, June 20.—When Chairman Jones of the National Republican Committee ascended the platform of the great auditorium hall, to call the National Convention to order, he looked upon a wonderful scene. Larger assemblies have been held in more spacious halls, but at none have the ocular properties been so effective, or the brilliancy of illumination and picturesque coloring been so splendid. Every face can be seen without effort and an audience of less than ten thousand appears to be an almost countless multitude. The magnificent sweep to the great gallery alone, which seats nearly 3,000 persons, is a picture which impresses even those familiar with great audiences, and the whole scene is bathed in a flood of electric light, shed by 2,500 incandescent lamps. The auditory is 250 feet long and 120 feet wide, with two side balconies and a great gallery, the seats which raise tier on tier at an angle of forty degrees.

The stage, which is but slightly raised above the floor of the hall, commands a view not only of the great audience in front, but of a large balcony in the rear, and a tier of boxes at either side. This stage stretches from side to side of the hall, and accomodates in addition to the President's platform, which is in the centre, several hundred newspaper representatives. There are just 8,100 seats in the hall, and as the convention was called to order probably 9,000 people were within the glance of Chairman Jones's eye.

The decorations appeared a trifle bewildering at first. The wall, ceiling and every post, pillar and panel are covered with flags, bunting and streamers in varied artistic designs and color, and portraits and paintings of historic scenes meet the eye at all points. The red, white and blue is conspicuous of course everywhere, but a great sheet of terra cotta bunting hangs as a roof between the sunlight, which pours through it from a great open space just above the great gallery and relieves the monotony of so prodigal a display of the national colors. The electric illumination is depended upon because of the impossibility of protecting the audience, in the present unfinished state of the building, and letting in the daylight at the same time. The arrangement of the electric lamps in great stars suspended from the roof and walls of the hall, is one of the most effective and beautiful features of the scene. Some of the details of the auditorium decorations are worth special mention. At the apex in front of the Chairman's desk is a gilded American eagle and beneath it a portrait of Washington. On the right of the Chairman's desk is a plaster bust of John A. Logan in heroic size, draped with an American flag. Hanging from one of the boxes at the right is a large painting of Logan's charge at the battle of Atlanta. On the face of the north and south walls of the auditorium, framed in festoons of large American flags, and surrounded by a circle of electric stars, are portraits of Grant and Lincoln, the designs being mammoth in proportion and form the two most striking details of the decorations. Facing the audience and delegates is a suspended American shield, formed of different colored electric lamps. At the points of exit and entrance to the Hall, which dip like great wells into the auditorium, are the nation's standards, planted at either side, and draped so as to hide the rough boards, which form the staircases of those avenues to the Convention, of which there are sufficient to empty the place in case of an accident in three minutes.

The Convention Opened.

CHICAGO, June 19.—At 12:15 Chairman Jones, of the National Committee ascended the platform amid great confusion and at precisely 12:34, called the Convention to order. The Rev. Frank W. Gunsaulus offered prayer.

Chairman Jones then addressed the Convention. He spoke so low that he could not be heard and shouts of louder, were continually kept up. His address was brief and chiefly an arraignment of the Democratic party.

He emphatically favors protection, says the platform, and the candidate of this Convention should be an embodiment of this spirit.

After Mr. Jones concluded Mr. Thurston was introduced as temporary Chairman, and spoke as follows:

GENTLEMEN OF THE CONVENTION—I am deeply sensible of the distinguished honor you have conferred upon me as the presiding officer of your temporary organization. I am also mindful of the responsibilities of the position; and if they are successfully met it will be due to the continuance of your generous favor and the bestowal of your loyal assistance. I have no words in which fittingly to express my heartfelt appreciation of your confidence. I thank you, gentlemen, not for myself alone, but for that great and growing West, which never disappoints the expectations of the Republican Party.

We are met in national convention for deliberation and conference. The Republican party of the United States relies upon the wisdom of its assembled delegates for such action as will insure success. If we are prepared honestly and fairly to meet the supreme issues of the hour with a clear, fearless and ringing declaration of principles, and to nominate a ticket which will commend itself to the loyalty and intelligence of the country, we can really win. We enter upon the proceedings of this convention prepared to sacrifice individual judgment to the wisdom of the majority, and to lay down personal preferences on the altar of party success. When our candidates are chosen we will join with heart and soul in the grand chorus of rejoicing, and the rainbow of our harmony shall give certain promise of the glory of a victorious morning in November. When the Democratic party at the close of the last Presidential election robbed us of a victory honestly and fairly won we patiently waited for the certain coming of the justice of the years. We hoped and believed that 1888 would right the great national wrong of 1884—right it not only for the Republican party, but also for the grand and glorious candidates whose names were the inspiration of that wonderful campaign.

The infinite wisdom of an all-wise Providence has otherwise decreed. One of them—the citizen-soldier, the warrior, statesman, the Black Eagle of Illinois—has been summoned by the Silent Messenger to report to his old Commander beyond the river. But although John A. Logan is dead in the body, yet he lives again in the illuminated pages of his country's most splendid history; lives in the grateful love of a free people whose union he so gallantly fought to preserve; lives in the blessings of a down trodden race whose freedom he so manfully struggled to achieve; lives in the future song and story of a hero-worshipping world; and along the highway of the nation's glory, side by side with old John Brown, Abraham Lincoln and Ulysse S. Grant, his soul goes marching on.

The other, that gallant leader, that chevalier of American politics, the glory of Republicanism and the nightmare of Democracy, our Henry of Navarre, is seeking in foreign travel the long-needed relaxation and rest from the wearisome burdens of public life and service. With the sublime magnanimity of his incomparable greatness he has denied us the infinite pleasure of supporting him in this convention. Desiring above all things party harmony and success, he has stepped from the certain ladder of his own laudable ambition that some other man may climb to power. And though James G. Blaine may not be our President, yet he remains our uncrowned king, wielding the baton of acknowledged leadership, supreme in the allegiance of his devoted followers, honored and respected by all honest and loyal men the greatest living American and the worthy object of our undying love.

But the Republican Party is not left without great men to place upon its ticket. We have that honest, able and experienced financier, statesman and Senator from Ohio and his no less distinguished colleague from Iowa. Indiana, Michigan and Wisconsin present to us gallant soldiers, while New York, New Jersey, Kansas, Connecticut and other States offer worthy and favorite sons. From this splendid galaxy of political store we cannot choose amiss. The Republican Party points out with pride to the great achievements of its past, and offers as an earnest of its future faithfulness an unbroken record of services performed for freedom, union and national prosperity. It is pre-eminently the party of protection. It was born of the irrepressible desire to protect the slave from the lash of the master and to save our civilization from the blighting curse of its crime against humanity. It performed the sacred mission of protecting the republic from secession and disunion; and in the later time it succeeded in protecting the credit and currency of the nation from repudiation and inflation.

Its platform, epitomized, stands for the protection of popular government on the American continent; stands for the protection of all governmental and international rights from restriction or invasion; stands for the protection of the life, liberty and property of the individual; stands for the protection of the immunities and privileges of American citizenship; stands for the protection of the ballot-box from the crimes of intimidation, robbery and substitution stands for the protection of American commerce American manufacture and American agriculture from destructive foreign competition stands for the protection of home invention, home skill and home labor against the free trade heresies which would pauperize and degrade them all; stands for the protection of the people from the unjust and oppressive exaction and combination of aggregated capital and corporate power; stands also for the protection of both capital and corporation from confiscation and mob violence, and, above all, stands for the protection of the sancity and happiness of the American home.

There are those in this land who seem to believe that the mission of the Republican party is at an end; that the Emancipation Proclamation, Appomattox and the Constitutional amendments are at once the monuments of its glory and the gravestones of its demise. But the work of the Republican party will never be done until every American citizen enters into his unquestioned inheritance of liberty, equal rights and justice; until representation in Congress is based upon votes freely cast and fairly counted; until adequate provision has been made for the helplessness and old age of the disabled veterans and the widows and orphans of their dead comrades; until those policies of government which insure national and individual prosperity are firmly established, and until patriotism and loyalty are the only qualifications, except fitness, for official position in the service of the Republic.

The great distinctive issue of the present campaign is the issue tariff. To the support of a protective tariff there will rise up an overwhelming army of intelligent, thoughtful and practical men, and the East and West, the North and South, will join hands together to forever exterminate in this republic the pernicious doctrine of free trade. As we gather here we remember that other great convention held in this city in 1880. We remember how it was inspired with the wisdom and courage to select that great man of the people, that Moses who led us through the parted waters of the sea past the wilderness of battle, over the Jordan of safety into the promised land. In 1884 we were driven back into the wilderness again. God give us the wisdom to find another Moses who can limit our wandering to four years instead of forty.

After Thurston finished the names of the officers of the temporary organization were read, and while they were taking their places the band played "Red, White and Blue" amid applause.

Hoar, of Michigan, presented to the temporary chairman a gavel made of oak from the tree under which the Republican party was organized July 6, 1854. In presenting it he said that the convention should begin early to pound daylight out of their adversaries. Laughter.

Bingham, of Pennsylvania, moved that rules of last National Committee be adopted for use. Carried.

Kansas delegate offers resolution of sympathy for Gen. Sheridan. The resolutions were read and carried by unanimous rising vote.

The roll call of States was dispensed with the names sent to the Chairman.

Gen. Fremont was presented to the convention and introduced by the Chairman of the Nebraska delegation. He said that he could not fail to respond to so splendid a greeting and was pleased to greet men and sons of men with whom he had been associated in the party's opening campaign in 1856. He interested the convention with reminescences.

After Fremont finished, a call for Fred Douglass was made. On taking the platform he was warmly greeted and thanked the audience for the compliment and that he hoped the convention would make such a record as to put out of the power of the leaders of the Democratic Party and of the Mugwump Party to say there is any difference between the treatment of a class he represents in the Republican and Democratic party. He says the Democrats were faithful to slave-holding classes before and during the war, and gives them all the encouragement possible. They have been faithful ever since and faithful to-day to the solid South.

The chairman of the National Committee decided to temporarily seat the delegates at large, headed by William Mahone, and recommend that neither set of district delegates be allowed to vote during the temporary organization.

At 2:45 p. m. John S. Wise, of Virginia, arose amid great excitement.

He said: "I claim to be the regular chairman of the Virginia delegation. Of over twenty-four delegates, twenty are contested and four uncontested. The result of the National Committee decision is that one third of the Virginia delegation is led by Mahone, who is trifing with the Republican party.

"These men have put Mahone on the Committee on Credentials to pass on his over ours.

"William Mahone thus decides on Wil-liam Mahone.

"This has gone on in Virginia for nine years and it is always decided in favor of the plaintiff. I ask for a ballot and fair count. I say it isn't fair that these eight men, led by Mahone, should go on the committee and decide the personal policy and complexion of this convention. I shall be for Virginia. I appeal to this convention to say 'Gentlemen, your controversy is unfortunate, but until settled, neither side shall have representatives.' I appeal to the justice of this convention. I therefore appeal from the decision of the chair, which places Mahone on the Committee on Credentials." The speaker closed amid cheers and shouts of "Mahone."

The chair stated that in making his decision the right was reserved to the convention to decide for itself.

Mr. R. G. Horr, of Michigan, arose and tried to smooth the difficulty. He said the convention had much respect for Wise and also for Senator Mahone. He appealed to Congressman Wise not to introduce at this time a factional matter which can't affect the convention. He was interrupted by cries of "Mahone."

Senator Mahone arose and said: "I confess that it is with ordinary regret of embarrassment that I feel that this great Republican Convention should be called to consider a section trouble in Virginia. I want to say in response to what has been said in the attempt to prejudice my attitude toward this convention that I have the honor not only to represent Republican organization in Virginia, but 90 per cent. of Virginia's Republicans. I give you these details so that you may understand the pretensions of these men.

"The National Committee have decided to admit eight delegates, and these whom they have chosen are to act on the Committee on Credentials. I am not ineligable to sit on the case of these delegates."

Congressman Wise interrupted and said: "I charge you with having acted unfairly."

General Mahone turned suddenly to him and said: "Then your charge is false, as you are a fool."

The audience listened intently, and Wise made a response to Senator Mahone. He said that his opponent had done little for the Republican party in Virginia, and that he and his party had come to the convention with hollow pretenses. He then gave a history of the contention between the two factions. Senator Mahone replied, and said that his delegation was the choice of the Republican Convention of 700 members.

Its opponents came from a State Convention of eighty-one members. He said that the opposing delegates came from a county bearing four Republican votes and only three delegates and one alternate. All were elected unanimously to office.

There was great excitement at this juncture, and the opponents of Senator Mahone kept rising to a point of order.

Congressman Ben Butterworth, of Ohio, said that the whole question was whether the gentlemen could sit on their own cases as judges. He said the discussion was entirely premature. In conclusion, he said: "I would move that these gentlemen be excluded until the Committee on Credentials report, but I wouldn't so insult the intelligence of these gentlemen who have taken action on the matter. This is a Republican Convention. This discussion should cease."

The chair decided the discussion out of order, and at 8:10 p. m. it was moved that the rules be amended and that the Committee on Credentials be composed of one member for every state delegation which was not contested. An amendment that only Virginia be excluded was offered. Mr. Horr of Michigan said this would be making a dangerous precedent, and moved that the resolution be laid on the table. Carried. It was declared lost. There was great confusion and calls for another vote. It was carried again.

The Convention at 8:30 adjourned until noon to-day.

A Murderer Confesses.

WAYNESBURG, Pa., June 20.—Ben Clark made a confession last night implicating his father and two brothers with the murder of William McCausland, the wealthy Alleghany City drover. Excitement over his confession is so high that the sheriff fears violence, and has taken extra precaution to guide the prison from the violence of the people.

ENTERPRISE AND HONESTY.

The news of the organization of the Chicago Convention, yesterday, appeared only in THE PRESS.

We gave not only the selection of temporary Chairman Thurston, but extracts from his speech.

Today's proceedings are also published in another column, and as each session progresses its work will be timely and correctly given for the information of our readers.

THE PRESS revolves for all.

BY THE WAY.

—Oh! for a Y. M. C. A. building.

—These are the days when boys enjoy bathing.

—There is every indication of a bountiful sunflower yield.

—The sound of the firecracker will soon be heard in the land.

—The turning section of the Gesang and Turn Verein Society will hold a meeting to-morrow evening.

—The public schools in this city and North Plainfield, will close to-morrow. During the week but one session is held daily in the schools.

—On Wednesday next, a delegation from the Plainfield Gesang and Turn Verein Society will attend a picnic of the National Turn Verein of Newark.

—A buggy belonging to a man named Sharp, of Afton, N. J., was accidentally upset in front of Laing's Hotel, on Monday, and the driver Edw. Harkey was thrown out.

—In just an instant, without the slightest tinge of pain, Dr. Kimbell relieves his patient forever of those ills that feet are heir to. He will be at the City Hotel for the rest of this week.

—Persons leaving town for the season, and Summer travelers, can have THE DAILY PRESS mailed to them, post paid, for fifty cents per month, the address being changed as often as desired.

—The merry-go-round, which for the past two weeks, has been located at the corner of Arlington avenue and Sixth street, has been removed to a vacant lot on Craig place, North Plainfield.

—On account of "the division of sentiment on the question of legal prohibition," in the Westfield W. C. T. U., a number of its members have published their resignation in a "card" stating also their reasons.

—Prof. Conde's string orchestra gave an open air Concert at Caspar's Hotel on Monday evening. The music was good, and the number of listeners was large. The concert will be repeated in the course of a week or so.

—Edsall announces special reductions in prices on fine attractive goods, for three days, commencing to-morrow. The articles noted in his advertisement today are of such a desirable class that no doubt they will meet with a ready sale.

—A horse belonging to Mr. C. P. Pound of Grant avenue, ran away on Park avenue near the railroad bridge, Monday evening. One of the wheels on the buggy attached was wrecked, but otherwise no other damage was done. The driver jumped in time to save his life.

—The attention of the Board of Health is called to the fact that there is gnashing of teeth among the residents of Crescent avenue. They have been unable to engage a garbage-collector for many days, and the deceased odor of vegetables in their dotage, roams at will about that aristocratic quarter.

—Surveys have been completed by the Central Railroad of New Jersey for the proposed extension of the Lehigh and Susquehanna road from Phillipsburg to Belvidere, a distance of twelve miles. Negotiations are being made for the necessary right of way to make connection with the Lehigh and Hudson.

—Howell Division No. 97, Sons of Temperance, of this city, being unable to meet in their room for several weeks, owing to the fact that the room has been thoroughly renovated, ceilings decorated etc., held their regular meeting there on Tuesday evening. The society is to be congratulated on having one of the neatest rooms for meeting purposes in the city. During the absence from their room the Division continued the regular meetings and held two public meetings in Hope chapel obtaining more than a score of signers to the pledge.

SHALL WE HAVE STREET CARS?

A Citizen's Meeting Called to Consider the Advisibility of Adopting Some Means for Rapid Transit.

Pursuant to a notice published in THE PRESS a fairly good representation of the citizens of this city met in Reform Hall, last evening, to confer with reference to the introduction of a street railway or any other feasible means for cheap transportation in the city of Plainfield. The call was signed by Rev. J. P. Taylor and Messrs. P. C. Anthony, Wm. C. Burt, Deo Daft, John H. Evans, N. P. T. Finch, Seymour Hait, L. L. Manning, Jeremiah Manning, Samuel Milliken, David W. Pond, I. W. Rushmore, Wm. M. Sandford, but strange to say, there were but few of the instigators present.

Hon. Job Male called the meeting to order, and stated the object, which he said was for the purpose of getting the sentiment of the people with reference to the introduction of a street railway. Mr. Isaac W. Rushmore was elected chairman, and Mr. O. B. Leonard, secretary. The chairman stated that the meeting was now open for discussion, and at the suggestion of some one in the audience a resolution was adopted bearing on the subject. It was as follows:

Resolved, That the time has come when a street railroad is necessary for the advancement of the City of Plainfield.

Messrs. V. W. Nash, J. W. Yates, Judge L. F. Wadsworth, Dr. Burnet and others discussed the subject intelligently. Mr. Nash stated that on a former occasion signatures had been obtained of those in favor of a surface road on the following thoroughfares: Front street, Richmond street, Tenth street, Putnam avenue, Broadway, Fourth street, Plainfield avenue, West Seventh street beyond Plainfield avenue, and Clinton avenue.

Mayor Male stated that inasmuch as there are at present two applications before the Council from companies who are desirous of introducing a street railway here, without cost to the city, that the matter of designating the streets had better be left for the Council to determine.

Mr. Leo Daft, the electrician was called upon, but that gentleman said he would rather postpone his remarks, until the time arrived for the discussion as to methods, etc. At this point in the meeting a vote was taken on the adoption of the above resolution. The vote was unanimously in favor of it.

Mr. Wm. M. Stillman made a motion that the chair appoint a committee of three to draw up a suitable petition to present to the Council. Judge Nathan Harper, Wm. M. Stillman and F. E. Kinsman were appointed on the committee. The committee retired to the basement, and subsequently reported the following:

To the Honorable the Common Council:

Your petitioners, residents of the city of Plainfield, being fully convinced that the time has arrived when the comfort and convenience of the people demand greater public facilities for travel through appropriate streets of this city, respectfully ask your Honorable body to take early and practical measures towards the granting of a franchise to responsible parties, under proper restrictions and regulations, for street railway transit.

Some further discussion followed, after which Messrs. Geo. H. Fountaine, J. T. Vail and T. O. Doane were appointed a committee to obtain signatures to the petition, and the meeting adjourned subject to a call by the Chair.

Who Are the Nine.

The question which has been such a vexed one, as to whose essays should be read at the commencement exercises in Music Hall, to-morrow evening, is settled by the appointment of those whose names we give below.

The honored ones, the titles of their essays, and the order in which they will come, are:

Purpose.....Harry Laray Maxson.
Locomotion.....Frank DeWitt Randolph.
The Modern Arthur and his Knights.....Emma [Eliza West.
The Children of the Public.....Walter Nelson [Chamberlin.
A Visit to Olympus...Ethel Rathbone Boardman.
Homeric Heroes.....Howard Huntington.
The Pious Æneas.....William Nelson Runyon.
Action, the Test of Character.....Edward Ten- [Broeck Perine.
Valedictory.....Marion Fitz Randolph.

Visiting Masons.

A delegation from Pyramid Lodge, F. & A. M., of New York, came to Plainfield last evening, and surprised the members of Jerusalem Lodge, No. 24, F. & A. M., of this city. During the evening the visitors presented to Jerusalem Lodge a handsome engrossed set of resolutions in return for the courtesies shown them at the funeral obsequies of their late Brother, John Blimm. The visitors were provided with a substantial supper at Caspar's Hotel.

The Y. M. C. A. Camp.

The attention of young men connected with the Y. M. C. A., is again drawn to the fact that on July 29 a party propose going to Northfield, Mass., to camp out from one to two weeks—mingling with the young men from colleges and institutions of the country for mutual counsel and enjoyment, under the direction of D. L. Moody. Among others who are going are the President, Recording and General Secretaries. Particulars may be obtained at the Y. M. C. A. rooms.

—The closing exercises of the High School were held this morning, and consisted principally of singing. A large number of visitors were present.

—Lodge of the Castle, No. 82, K. of P., of Somerville, worked the amplified third degree on Monday evening. A delegation from Unity and Perseverance lodges of this city were present and took part in the interesting exercises.

BY THE PRESS SPECIAL SERVICE.

THE REPUBLICAN CONVENTION AT CHICAGO.

All at Sea—What Will the Harvest Be.

[By Private Wire to The Press.]

News After Adjournment.

CHICAGO, June 20.—After the Convention adjorned yesterday the crowd scattered like a flock of pigeons and the hall was deserted in twenty minutes. After refreshing themselves with dinner the crowds began to gather about the hotel lobbies and discuss incidents of the day's session and prospects of the individual candidates. The situation as to the nominee remains the same. This is best evidenced by a conversation between two Harrison Hoosiers overheard by a Press News Reporters. One candidate, they said, has just the same chance as any other, barring Blaine, and if our men hold together till the last as they will, we can nominate him. With the same feeling uppermost in the minds of the supporters of Allison, Gresham, Alger, Sherman and Depew, what can happen but a long struggle only to be terminated through sheer weariness, a stampede to Blaine or a dark horse?

People are setting down to the belief that the choosing of candidates is going to be a difficult sort of matter to perform. If Sherman wins the Virginia fight and Warner Miller helps him in New York he will still have but 325 votes or so, and some of these rather treacherous. Where is he to get 100 more? He might get them from the west on a break, but this is doubtful. Harrison's chances would be excellent if he could get New York and New Jersey, but on a break Sherman might beat him, a contingency which would drive Platt to Gresham; but this is not impossible. Many look to see the fight narrowing down to Blaine and Sherman, with Blaine coming out ahead. They say any other sort of move as close to nomination would enable Sherman to hold the South firm and get enough out of the North to win with. But they say Blaine could break the South all to pieces and leave Sherman stranded. A favorite theory with some is that Sherman stands no show, and that his strength will begin to dissolve after a dozen ballots. One who has watched the situation closely was heard to say that Sherman has no chance, Gresham little more; that Depew could get it but for the opposition of the Granger States and that the ticket will be one of these four, Blaine and Harrison, Harrison and Phelps, Harrison and Morton, or Allison and Morton. Morton has certainly developed within the past twenty-four hours for the second place. Much depends on the meeting just before the convention of the committee composed of one member from each delegation to decide, if possible, the most available candidate. This committee meeting last evening agreed without the exception that Depew could carry the Northwestern States, and this, of course, is being used everywhere by Depew's friends. It is probable, however, that this is done for policy and in defence of the Empire State. The speech for Gresham last night at the Music Hall meeting will help the latter's boom greatly.

The Committee on Permanent Organization last night selected M. M. Estee, of California, for Permanent Chairman of the Convention and then adjourned until this morning.

CHICAGO, June 20—Taking the forecasts of all the papers here, and averaging them up, shows that all are as much at sea as they were three days ago. Who will be the nominees, are unknown to any living man today.

The Tribune and Herald state the New York delegation is surely divided, and that at least four will not vote for Depew when the first ballot is taken.

So far Blaine seems the only way out of a prolonged struggle that would damage the dignity of the Convention and lose the party the respect of some and the friendship of many Republicans.

Your correspondent interviewed a prominent delegate, this morning, who is known to be a disciple of the Blaine boom. In reply to the suggestion that possibly Mr. Blaine meant his refusal, the delegate said: "Blaine may be sincere in his expressed desire not to run for the presidency, but Blaine always suggests the thought of Mark Twain's hero, who was such a liar that when he left a note saying that he died by his own hand the coroner's jury, for obvious reasons, brought in a verdict of deliberate and cruel murder."

(Later.)

NO PLATFORM TODAY.

CHICAGO, June 20, 12:30 P. M.—General George Spaulding of Michigan, who is a member of the Committee on Resolutions, a few moments ago informed me that the sub committee on platform has adjourned until 8:30 o'clock this evening, and that the platform will not be reported today.

The convention has just been called to order.

Permanent organization is being proceeded with. The committee on rules in its report, gives Dakota 10 votes, and Washington 6 votes. This is received by the Blaine men with cheers.

It is probable that no ballot for nominations will be had before to-morrow evening, and possibly not until Friday morning.

A Flag That Has Waved in Many Countries.

The silken flag that Bishop Vincent has presented to this year's graduating class, is to be lettered with the names of the principal cities in foreign lands in which it accompanied the donor. It has also been to the Pyramids, the Acropolis, the Red Sea, River Jordan and a thousand and one notable places.

The inscription on the flag is:

POISON IN OUR DRINK.

Not Alcohol—which one may avoid—but BRASS AND LEAD which one takes unsuspectingly. "How—When—Where?" Well, say, in a glass of Soda. Pity the most popular and wholesome of all artificial drinks—which Soda honestly is—should ever deserve a touch of suspicion, but

THE FROZEN TRUTH

is that in some Soda Fountains economy and mechanical facility are studied to the neglect of the weightier matter of purity. Some men are too "smart;" some Soda Fountains are too "ingenious."

We have recently had made a Fountain which secures Absolute Purity for the beverages. Rather pretty, too, we think. We selected the "Matthews' make" because it is the only fount in which the syrups have positively no metallic contact, being discharged direct from glass jars into the tumblers—no tubes; while the waters are contained in and flow through solid block tin,

PURE AS CRYSTAL, COLD AS CHARITY.

We make our own syrups—from REAL FRUIT JUICES, or from chocolate or coffee, etc., as the case may be; no nonsense of essences or make believe.

New drinks? Yes, some of our own contriving. "Winks?" Not a wink; not licensed for winks, and we have an opinion of druggists who take a wink.

Come and try the new Fountain; if you like your drink we'll thank you for saying so, and you'll pay us five cents and come again—it will do you good; only don't come Sundays; no use—Fountain WON'T WORK.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. and Mrs. William F. Bass of Brooklyn, are visiting the groom's parents in this city.

Mr. Elmer E. Runyon is confined to his house by a severe attack of articular rheumatism.

Mr. Fred Miller, Jr., of Philadelphia—formerly of Carlton avenue, this city—has been visiting old friends here.

Miss Bertha Thompson entertained a select few of her friends, at her residence on Central avenue, last evening.

Mr. Alexander Robinson, who is employed in the Registrar's office at Baltimore, is the guest of Mr. Geo. Thatcher of West Seventh street.

Mr. Edwin Maynard dislocated his knee-cap—"playing ball," he supposes—and has been unable to leave his home until today since inflamation set in.

Mr. Leo. Daft will occupy with his family the handsome new house he is erecting on Putnam street, having sold his present residence. Possession will be given the new owner on the first of October.

The engagement is announced of Miss Newell and Mr. George Kirkner, both of this city. They will be overwhelmed with congratulations, as two more popular young people do not occupy a place in Plainfield's society circles.

Mr. H. E. Gayle, a member of the Young People's Association of Trinity Reformed church, was on Monday evening elected a delegate to attend the Seventh Annual National Convention of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor of the United States, to be held in Chicago, on July 5, 6, 7 and 8.

We are sorry to learn of the illness of our old friend "Uncle" Jesse Thorn, of New Market, who is in his 96th year. He is confined to his bed with a severe cold, but we trust he may recover speedily and be one of the many solid Democrats to cast their votes this Fall for the successful candidates, Cleveland and Thurman.

Messrs. Eugene V. Lorton and David W. Rogers, have returned from Cincinnati, where they were in attendance at the meeting of the Supreme Lodge of the World, K. of P. Mr. Rogers says he never before witnessed such a general and grand display in the shape of decorations, as he witnessed on this occasion. He says when he arrived in Cincinnati, on Sunday evening, all the beer saloons, billiard parlors, etc., were open, and in full blast.

At the residence of the bride's parents on East Third street, last evening, Miss Ella Genevieve Dunavan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Dunavan, was united in marriage to Mr. Randolph Burnett Rogers of Bloomington, Somerset County. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Schenck, in the presence of a large number of the relatives and friends of the bride and groom, including guests from Freehold, Trenton, Jersey City and Washington, D. C. Mr. and Mrs. Rogers will reside at Bloomington.

The "Lady or The Tiger."

The "Lady or the Tiger" continues on its successful way at Wallack's Theatre, New York city, delighting thousands each week with its merry story, charming music, pretty girls, beautiful scenery and handsome costuming.

The comedy is of a character to keep the listeners in a roar of laughter from the rise of the curtain until its fall on the last act, and Mathilde Cottrelly, Madeline Lucette, DeWolf Hopper, and Jefferson de Angelis are victims of encores in all their principal numbers, while the love duos between Caterino Marco and Eugene Oudin are received with equal favor and applause. One of the pleasantest features of the theatre to Summer visitors is an enormous cooling apparatus, through which constant currents of fresh air are forced over tons of ice and into the auditorium, keeping the temperature always pleasant so that one can enjoy the performance with comfort.

Republican Association Meeting.

A meeting of this association was held at their rooms over the City National Bank, last evening, at 8:30 o'clock. The meeting was called to order by President E. R. Pope. The minutes of last meeting were read by Secretary Doane and on motion approved. The several committees reported progress. A ratification meeting under the auspices of the association, will be held in the rooms in the course of a week or so, to ratify the nominations to be made at Chicago for President and Vice President. Eminent speakers will be present. After some further routine business, the meeting adjourned to meet next Monday evening at 8 o'clock.

Union County Farmers' Picnic.

The annual picnic and strawberry exhibition of the Union County Board of Agriculture is being held today at the farm of Dennis C. Crane, near Roselle. These picnics have for years been notable occurrences, and today's event will be especially enjoyable by the fact of its being held at Mr. Crane's, whose farm is memorable as the homestead of Abraham Clark, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence.

—Rose bugs have again appeared in this locality and have already done considerable damage to fruits. Grapes, blackberries and cherries have suffered from this pest. Peaches are being devoured by them in some localities. The bugs appeared early in June, and it is expected that they will prolong their stay into July, although they seem to be diminishing in number.

A YACHTING PARTY OF YOUNG LADIES.

Plainfield's Beauty Afloat on the Briny Deep.

Miss Minerva S. Handren, a daughter of Mr. John W. Handren of Dunellen, recently took a bevy of her most intimate friends in this city on a yachting party. The Marine Journal of New York, in its issue of Saturday, June 16, thus alludes to the trip:

The sun is high in the heavens now a goodly portion of the day, and the cool sea breeze is welcomed by those whose time and circumstances will permit of an occasional day's outing on the water. Yachting parties are in order and a more pleasant way of enjoyment could not easily be imagined. The first one of these pleasurable excursions to take place among our acquaintances was that of a yachting party gotten up by Miss Minerva S. Handren, for her school girl friends of Plainfield, N. J., on board the 120 ton yacht Alarm, belonging to her father, Mr. John W. Handren.

The party consisting of Miss Bowers, Miss Ethel Bowers, Miss Jackson, Miss Waring, Miss Streull, Miss Dorman, Miss Wilson, and the Misses Laura and May Sandford, met on board the yacht in New York harbor on Thursday morning, and from that time until Friday evening, youth and beauty had charge of the good schooner, while girlish hilarity and good cheer alone prevailed. A spin down the Jersey beach the first day, was followed by a pleasant night at anchor in the Horse Shoe. Another extended cruise was taken on Friday. At the start the young ladies were in charge of Mr. and Mrs. Handren, at the finish the chaperons were in charge of the girls, and a merrier party never trod the deck of a yacht than these Plainfield rosebuds. They all proved themselves as much at home as 'Mother Cary's chickens' and were quite independent of man as a means of society. The party returned from encountering the perils of the deep with just enough sunburn to make their rosy faces look like the sunny side of a basket of peaches.

SATURDAY'S TROTTING.

Some Good Time Made on the Track of the Gentlemen's Driving Park Association.

On Saturday afternoon there was another series of exciting contests on the track of the Gentlemen's Driving Park Association. The weather was fine and the track was in an excellent condition.

The first event was a mile heat between Mr. Zimmerman's "Dan" and Mr. Edw. Waring's "Ledger Boy." The former horse won the heat. Time, 2.41¾.

Following came two one-mile heats between Mr. J. W. Johnson's "Lady Thistle" and Mr. A. C. Vail's "Betsy Bobbitt." "Lady Thistle" won the first in 3.00¼ and "Betsy Bobbett" the second in 2.44¾.

There were three entries in the next contest, namely: Mr. Nathan Robins' "Gelding," Mr. N. Honeyman's "Meteor" and Mr. John Hayns' "Andy." Mr. Robins' horse won two straight heats in 2.52 and 2.50.

Besides the above events, Mr. John Stelle drove his horse "Tramp" a mile heat in 2.35½, and afterward a half-mile with Mr. J. W. Johnson's "Lady Love." The latter horse trotted the half-mile in 1.17.

The day's races concluded with a one mile trial heat by Mr. Lewis' horses "Peter Cooper" and mate. The mile was trotted in 3.11.

The owners of local horses are getting their animals in shape and some fast time may be expected soon.

How the News is Gathered and Sent Us.

A very interesting article in the New York Journalist, dated St. Louis, during the late convention, has something in general to say of the many newspaper men gathered there, and much in particular to say of a gentleman for many years a resident of this city.

We quote from the article the following, which will be pleasurable reading for Mr. Phillip's many friends here, as well as interesting to the people at large who have either a slight, or an erroneous, idea as to how the news from distant points is gathered and handled before it is spread before them.

The United Press is making a splendid record for itself in the way it is handling the business. General Manager Phillips watches every detail with earnest solicitude, and manages his corps of men with the skill of an experienced general. As a result of his careful management, bulletins of every interesting point in the proceedings are on the desks of the editors of his hundreds of newspapers within sixty seconds after each event occurs. Then follow detailed reports of the whole business. This is one of the wonders of modern journalism that comparatively few, I fancy, of the many millions of newspaper readers realize. It is done by having the editorial offices of the newspapers connected by telegraph wires with The United Press office in New York. Day and night from one year's end to another the click of the instruments is heard at headquarters. The best telegraph operators in the country, receiving and sending, handle this ceaseless tide of intelligence. It is in this way that The United Press has grown to be, within the four years that have elapsed since the last National Conventions, the great national institution which it is today. The victory which it won four years ago over its competitors, both in its reports of the Conventions and its announcement of the result of the election, is recalled to many journalists here by the presence of its general manager and his corps of assistants. As a representative man of his profession, he is the great man of the hour from an independent journalist's point of view; about forty years of age, rather under the medium height, with a heavy frame and portly presence, a large head in which the perceptive and energetic faculties are well developed, a powerful neck squarely set on his massive shoulders; with strongly marked and pleasing features, an eye that one moment flashes fire and then twinkles with humor or beams with beneficence, the general manager of The United Press is the journalistic hero of the Convention. In the happy phraseology of Daniel Dougherty, I repeat "a name entwined with victory" —Walter P. Phillips of New York.

Class Day At Rutgers.

Monday was Class Day at Rutgers and the chapel was filled to overflowing. Following an old custom, former classes have presented a memorial on leaving it. This year's class will wait until 1893, following the example of a former class at Princeton, who are now building a new laboratory for their alma mater. The following is the Ivy Ode, written by Beardslee of '88:

O, Ivy vine! what joy is thine,
About old Rutgers' walls to twine,
What envied joy shall now be thine,
O, Ivy vine! O, Ivy vine!

O, Ivy vine! what joy is mine,
That 'round old Rutgers' hallowed shrine,
My strong enduring love may twine,
Through years to come, O, Ivy vine!

Our love of deeper root than thine,
Shall long outlive thy waving line:
Shall live when thou art in decline,
O, Ivy vine! O, Ivy vine!

For when thy tendrils cease to twine,
And thou shalt in the dust recline,
Each year more sweet, like aged wine,
Our love shall grow, O, Ivy vine!

There has been a marked and steady growth at Rutgers since the administration of President Gates began. Former classes have numbered about fifty. Next year's class bids fair to number eighty or one hundred. Besides a new laboratory, to cost $30,000, the college will have a new professor of Geology, one in Biology and another in Chemical Geology and Mineralogy, to be appointed this Summer.

An Open Challenge.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS.—We have challenged the Alerts to play a game of base ball on June 23, but they failed to accept the same without any just cause. So we issue the following challenge:

We do hereby challenge the Alerts to play a game of base ball on Saturday, June 30. Arrangements to be arranged between the captains.

Respectfully, etc.,
ACTIVE B. B. C. JR.

BASEBALL INTELLIGENCE.

Boston and New York Play a Wonderfully Poor Game—Yesterday's Results.

Boston,	8
New York,	7

BOSTON, June 20.—Several thousand people occupied the grand stand and bleaching boards here yesterday to witness the Giants and Bean Eaters grapple for points, but if they came with the expectation of seeing a good game they were sadly disappointed. The playing was poor, both nines playing like a lot of old women. The Bostons made four runs before they made a hit, and the crowd hissed and jeered repeatedly. The New Yorks had out the strongest nine that they have presented this season. Keefe and Ewing were in the points and Whitney was on third. Sowders and Tate was the battery for Boston. When Umpire Daniels called "play" there were over 4,000 spectators on the grounds. The game resulted with the score:

Boston	1	1	0	2	1	2	0	0	0	1—8
New York	0	0	0	1	5	0	1	0	0	0—7

PHILADELPHIA vs. WASHINGTON.

Philadelphia,	7
Washington,	6

WASHINGTON, June 20.—The Senators went to work in the opening inning in a very businesslike manner, and when the third inning had been completed they had a splendid lead against the Phillies. After the third inning they could do nothing with Casey's curves, while the visitors played a grand uphill game and won. The score:

Philadelphia	0	1	0	2	0	2	0	1	1	—7
Washington	1	1	4	0	0	0	0	2	0	—6

Brooklyn, 3; Baltimore, 1.

BROOKLYN, June 20.—The game here between the Brooklyn and Baltimore clubs was played before more gayly dressed ladies than has graced the grand stand for some time. Caruthers and Bushong occupied the box for the Bridegrooms while Trott and Smith done similar work for the visitors. The playing all throughout the game was very good and the spectators expressed their appreciation by repeated applause. The score:

Athletics, 15; Cleveland, 10.

PHILADELPHIA, June 20.—Yesterday's game resulted as fallows:

Athletic	6	2	3	0	0	0	4	0	0	—15
Cleveland	0	1	2	0	3	1	3	0	0	—10

Base hits—Athletics, 16; Cleveland, 16. Errors—Athletics, 4; Clevelands, 13. Batteries—Seward and Robinson; Morrison Snyder. Umpire—McQuade and Matthews.

Cincinnatis, 2; St. Louis, 1.

ST. LOUIS, June 20.—Yesterday's game resulted as follows:

St. Louis	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	1	0	0—1

Base hits—Cincinnatis, 7; St. Louis, 6. Errors—Cincinnatis, 5; St. Louis, 4. Batteries—King and Milligan; Vinn and Baldwin. Umpire—Ferguson.

Other Games.

At Allentown—Allentowns, 6; Binghamtons, 3.

At Jersey City—Jersey Citys, 8; Scrantons, 7.

At Eastons, 5; Elmiras, 4.

At Newark—Newarks, 5; Wilkesbarre, 0.

SHEEPSHEAD BAY RACE

Terra Cotta Wins from Bay Ridge and Other Winners.

SHEEPSHEAD BAY, June 20.—The result of yesterday's races were as follows:

Third Race.—Three-quarters of a mile. Eolian, first, King Crab, second, Coldstream, third. Time, 1:14¾.

Fourth Race.—One mile. Defence, first, Belle B., second, Prince Royal, third. Time, 1:42.

Fifth Race.—Terra Cotta, first, Eurus, second, Dunboyne, third. Time, 2:37.

Sixth Race.—One mile and a furlong. Joe Cotton, first, Richmond, second, Valiant, third. Time, 1:57.

Seventh Race.—Five and a half furlongs on the turf. America, first, Little Barefoot, second, Sweet Avon, third. Time, 1:11.

Bicycle Racing at Baltimore.

BALTIMORE, June 20.—The races in connection with the League of American Wheelmen met at Arlington Driving Park yesterday afternoon resulted in the one mile L. A. W. bicycle championship being won by W. W. Windle, of Lynn, Mass., in 3:43, and the one mile championship tricycle by H. L. Kingsland, Baltimore, in 3:02. In the first race, one mile dash, Fred F. Foster, Toronto, Ont., was second; J. Fred Midgeley, 3d; half-mile bicycle novice, W. E. McCure, Everett, Mass., first in 1:22 3 5; E. J. Decker, Newark, second; H. E. Perlie, Washington, D. C., third. One mile handicap tandem won by Kingsland and West, of Baltimore, in 3:04 4-5, after giving Ward and Serflerle, Washington, ten seconds start. Three mile lap bicycle, W. W. Windle first in 9:32 2-5; Fred Foster second; two mile handicap tricycle, Kingsland first in 7:02; Philip S. Brown, Washington, D. C., second; three mile handicap, McCure first in 8:42; Windle second; two mile handicap safety bicycle, J. J. Fred Midgley, Worcester, Mass., first, 5:37; E. J. Decker, second; J. E. Patterson, Williamsburgh, Pa., third; three-quarters of a mile steeplechase, F. G. Gilbert, Elizabeth, N. J., first in 2:15 2-5; P. M. Harris, New York, second.

The Employer Has No Remedy.

BOSTON, June 20.—The full bench of the Supreme Court yesterday gave a decision of interest to labor organizations and manufacturers in the case Patrick P. Sherry et al., of Lynn vs. Charles E. Perkins et al., officers and members of the Protective Lasters' Union, ordering decree for the plaintiffs. This was a bill in equity to restrain defendants from carrying a banner in front of the plaintiffs' place of business, where there had been a strike, for the purpose of preventing others from entering plaintiffs' employment, and to intimidate those at work, from continuing in such employment. Plaintiffs claimed that it injured them in their personal prosperity, and was a nuisance. The opinion decides that the plaintiffs have no adequate remedy at law and that such practices should be enjoined. This is the first decision on this question in this State and is an important addition to laws that have grown out of strikes.

A Lawyer's Big Sentence.

NEW YORK, June 20.—Lawyer John R. Dunn, who was convicted of grand larceny last week for the part he played in the theft of $160,000 by paying teller Richard S. Scott from the bank of the Manhattan Company was sentenced to-day to nine years and eight months at hard labor. After sentence a temporary stay was granted until Monday to allow his attorney to make an examination of the stenographers minutes.

Death of an Imprisoned Bank Wrecker.

JOLIET, Ill., June 20.—Benjamin T. O. Hubbard died at Joliet prison yesterday. He was the cashier of the First National Bank of Monmouth, which his shortage of $115,000 wrecked in 1885.

EMPEROR WILLIAM II.

THE GERMAN NEWSPAPERS APPROVE HIS PROCLAMATION.

Comments of the English Press—Russia Will Not Double Its Reserve Army.

Stanley Reported Dead.

BERLIN, June 20.—The morning papers approve the Emperor's proclamation to the people, especially the sincere aims which he has set himself and the stress he lays upon his trust of the people and the attachment between the sovereign and the nation. They say his avowals will be everywhere reciprocated as cordially as they are made. They express the hope that perfect harmony between the sovereign and the people will always be preserved, and declares that the people will always support the sovereign in the fulfillment of his task.

One journal asserts that the fact of there being a censorship over the press in Russia positively forbade the newspapers expressing pessimist views on the accession of Emperor William II. It is reported that the Regent of Brunswick has been promoted to the rank of field marshal.

The Vossiche Zeitung, commenting on Emperor William's address to the German people, says: "What the Emperor promises to do for his people will satisfy all. It would be a mistake altogether to suppose that the religious expressions in his proclamation show clericrl tendencies."

The Germania expresses the opinion that the proclamation must satisfy all sections.

The Vienna Presse says: "Prince Bismarck and Count Kalnoky have exchanged despatches affirming their desire to maintain the peaceful alliances now existing between the two countries."

The upper house of the Hungarian Diet yesterday, on motion of the President, adopted a resolution expressing its condolence with the German Imperial family over the death of Emperor Frederick.

LONDON, June 20.—Widely diverse are the press opinions in Loudon concerning the young Emperor's proclamation:

Chronicle—"It may be accepted as proof that his father's example has already had an effect upon the spirit in which his policy will be directed."

Post—"He may not intend to draw the sword, neither will he turn into a ploughshare. There is no reason to doubt his peaceful expressions."

Times—"It lacks the spontaneity, sentiment and individuality which are so conspicuous in the addresses to the army and navy."

Telegraph—"It shows a softer spirit, but has an unmistakbie ring of just rule and sovereignty in it."

Daily News—"It is a man of peace that the people mourn, and the young Emperor seems to have perceived this"

Standard—"To our mind Emperor William's proclamations give color to the interpretations which has been placed upon the doings and sayings of his less responsible days.

The Panama Canal,

PARIS, June 20.—At a banquet given last night in honor of the President of Ecuador, at which representatives of American republics were present, M. de Lesseps affirmed that the Panama Canal would be finished in two years. Senor Florez, member of the Council of State, of Ecuador, replying to a toast, expressed warm sympathy for France and the hope that the heads of all the American States would attend the opening of this canal in 1890. At M. de Lesseps' suggestion it was decided to wire congratulations to Dom Pedro on the abolition of slavery in Brazil.

The Czar Declines.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 20.—It is semi-officially stated that the Czar has declined to sanction the proposal of General Vannovski, the Minister of War, that the number of reserve battalions be doubled, on the ground that the proposed increase would be too severe a burden on the financial resources of the empire, and because the present political situation in no wise justifies such a measure.

GEN. SHERIDAN'S CONDITION.

Reported Yesterday to be Much Worse, But the Regular Bulletin Contradicts It.

WASHINGTON, June 20.—It was reported yesterday that Gen. Sheridan was much worse, and a bulletin was expected at any hour, but as the doctors had decided last Sunday, in view of the General's improved condition, to only issue one bulletin a day thereafter, and that at 9 o'clock in the evening, unless a change was noted for the worse, the non-appearance of this official announcement shortly set all minds to rest. He was troubled some with a cough, but on the whole is about the same. The bulletin issued at 9 o'clock is as follows:

Gen. Sheridan was troubled by a cough before midnight, but after that hour he had but little difficulty and rested well. To-day he has been quite comfortable, and there are no changes in his condition worthy of mention. Robert M. O'Reilly, Washington Matthews, Charles B. Byrne, Henry C. Yarrow.

Fence Day at Yale.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 20.—For the last time in the history of Yale the ceremony of giving away the fence that is situated on the corner of the Yale campus, at the corner of College and Chapel streets, was performed. The exercise attracted only about three hundred students and the customary class supper was omitted, as it would, in the language of the students, seem "Too much like making fun at a funeral." Stow Phelly was the sophomore orator, and he gave away the fence to Albera Lee, a bright young freshman. The Freshman Glee Club sang several selections, and some of the seniors marched to the houses of President Dwight and Professor H. H. Wright and gave them three cheers.

Thirty Thousand Acres in Question.

TRENTON, N. J., June 20.—Advisory Master Gummere yesterday entered a final decree in the Raleigh case, which invoves the title of 30,000 acres of land in Burlington, Atlantic and Camden counties. He decides that the defendants, Conn. Fitzpatrick and Newcomb acted in good faith and protects their interest in such portion of the estate as was acquired as a syndicate. Walter Raleigh is made trustee to one-twentieth part of the property on condition that he pay in $3,95[illegible].

Defeat of the British Government

LONDON, June 20.—In the House of Commons yesterday a division was taken on the question of control of the police. The Marquis of Hartington and the whole body of the Liberal-Unionsts voted with the Opposition, and the Government was defeated. Mr. Chamberlain did not vote.

News of Stanley's Death.

LONDON, June 20.—The Gaulois, of Paris, claims to have news from Brussels that the King has received positive intelligence of Explorer Stanley's death. The news is said to have been suppressed for commercial reasons.

PRESERVING WORDS IN WAX.

Easy Letter-Writing by Means of the Graphophone.

It is about twelve years since Edison's phonograph was invented, and as yet that wonderful instrument has never been applied to any practical use. Three other great inventors, have completed a similar machine, which has already been put into actual service. The graphophone is the invention of Alexander G. Bell, Charles Sumner Tainter, and Chichester Bell, and promises to be of as common use in the business world as is their other invention, the telephone. This new talking machine is not an infringement on Edison's patent, because his machine reproduced sounds by means of indentations on tin-foil, while this engraves the sound on a cylinder, which is thinly covered with a preparation of wax. Mr. E. D. Easton, who was called to this city to look after the interests of the Bell telephone company, which came up for trial recently, has two of the graphophones with him. The machine is perfectly simple, having but few pieces in its construction, and costs less than an ordinary typewriter. The cylinders hold about 3,000 words each, are one and one-half inches in diameter and eight inches long. The machine can be operated by any motive power, those that Mr. Eastman has being propelled by a treadle similar to a sewing machine. The speaking-tube has in it a mica diaphragm three inches in diameter, to which is attached a needle that engraves the vibrations on the wax composition. A fine screw in the rod above the cylinder moves the point along on the cylinder, making 160 threads to the inch. When a cylinder is filled, it can be replaced instantly, and the cost of the roller is but three cents. To reproduce the sound another and smaller diaphragm is attached, which connects with the ears by means of a rubber tube that branches out like a "Y," hanging loosely in each ear.

In the office of the Bell telephone company this machine is used to entirely displace stenographers. A letter is dictated to the cylinder as fast as a man can talk, and the typewriter girl then places it in her machine, hangs the rubber tubes in her ears, turns on the power, and writes the letter on the typewriter at her leisure. An ingenious contrivance enables her to stop the revolutions of the cylinder without throwing off the power, so that she can run it as slowly as she wishes or have it repeat any sentence that is not clearly understood.

But it is likely to still further revolutionize correspondence. The cylinder can be sent by mail for two cents, and, where both correspondents have a machine, the receiver of this circular letter can get not only the words but the very tones of the sender.

"I sent a cylinder to my wife today," said Mr. Easton last night, "she will put it on her machine and recognize the tones of my voice and will then reply in the same way."

The graphophone told a News reporter of its own excellence, whistled "Suwanee River," and sang a sentimental song in tones that sounded suspiciously like the voice of Mr. Easton. It is claimed that it is already being extensively used in Washington by busy men, Congressman R. R. Hitt of Illinois, being one of the number. A cylinder will repeat carefully whatever is told it about five hundred times, but after that cannot be depended upon to tell the whole truth.—Chicago News.

TO TAKE THE PLACE OF RINGS.

Engagement Bracelets Are the Proper Caper with Sweet Young Fiancees Just Now.

Overheard at the Kirmess: "Yes, he padlocked her arm, but not her affections."

"And she really jilted him?"

"She really did, and after the second engagement was announced fiancee No. 1 sent the key of her engagement bangle to fiancee No. 2 with the advice not to lose it 'as it might be awkward for the next fellow.'"

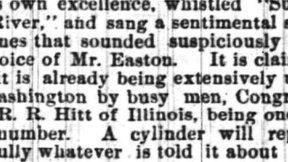
"How rude!"

"Yes, but you'll allow he had provocation."

"She shouldn't have been so stupid as to wear an engagement bangle at all."

"Oh, no! Forgive my contradicting you, but don't you know that they're all the rage again? Some of the girls in Washington revived them at the end of the winter, and they've been a feature of all the swellest spring engagements here. Haven't you noticed ——, ——, and —— wearing them? I don't know that there's much to be said in their favor but at least they're a relief from the inevitable diamond and sapphire ring."

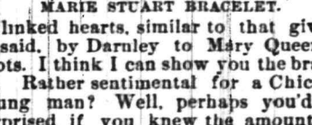
"Have we any engagement bracelets? Oh, yes; there's been quite a demand for them lately," said a south side jeweler,



THE PADLOCK BRACELET.

to whom the reporter applied for information. "There are several varieties. I think we sell more of the padlock ones than any other; like this, you see. What? Fit for a lunatic? Well, now, you're not so far out there. I never knew till the other day, but it's a fact, all the same, that bracelets used to be the distinguishing mark of lunatics. Yes, long ago, before maniacs were so closely confined as they are now, they used to beg their way round the country wearing an armlet for distinction. Perhaps that may have something to do with the application of 'bracelet' to handcuffs. Very likely it has. Modern lunatics who get engaged seem to have a special affection for padlocks just now. I sold two to one young man last week. No, he wasn't a mormon. One of them was for himself. To wear? Yes, to wear. We had to have it specially made. He's the cashier of a well-known bank here. I imagine he pushes his bangles up his arm during office hours.

"Sometimes engagement bracelets are soldered on, but I never recommend either that or the padlock plan myself.



TO BE SOLDERED.

I don't consider them safe. There's always the possibility of an accident, and should one occur such as to cause a swelling of the arm to any great extent the consequence of wearing a band of gold not easily removed might be serious. The best way is to have your bracelet made to clasp in an ordinary way on the inside of the arm. That is perfectly safe and yet secure. I've known bands fastened like that to be worn for years without a single removal. 'Number' bracelets are very nice for engagement purposes. Here is one, you see.

LEAP YEAR BRACELETS.

with the date of the year in pearls. And a few days ago we sent out one which was made to order, a wide gold band with a monogram and 'April 5th, 1888,' in small rubies and diamonds. Rubies are coming into favor again with people who can afford them, and the popularity of sapphires is on the wane. Pearls are fashionable, too—more so than they have been for years. A north side young man, who, I believe, has lately become engaged, left an order here last week for a whole set of pearl ornaments, bracelet, pin, and ring, each to bear a design of linked hearts, similar to that given, he said, by Darnley to Mary Queen of Scots. I think I can show you the bracelet. Rather sentimental for a Chicago young man? Well, perhaps you'd be surprised if you knew the amount of sentiment that exists in Chicago. Jewelers have more opportunities than most people of seeing that side of human nature. What with engaged couples and newly married ones, and women who have to part with their jewelry, we see some curious sights, and every now and then some really touching ones.

MARIE STUART BRACELET.

"Here's something odd in the way of a bracelet. It's an English importation and is called the 'keyless chain-bracelet watch.' It can be worn either open or closed, and I'm told is a great deal used on the other side of the water, where it is now considered 'bad form' to wear a watch-chain of any description, even a fob. They tell me that all English women who possess small German watches are having them set in bracelets this season.

BRACELET WATCH, CLOSED.

The idea doesn't seem to meet with much favor here as yet. It's impossible to say when an English fashion is going to take in this country and when it isn't. —Chicago News.

A Well-Kept War Secret.

Professor George B. Wilcox, of Chicago, reveals in the Congregationalist a well-kept secret of our late war. He says that the purchase of Alaska from Russia by the United States Government in 1867 was really not for the acquisition of more territory, but was for the purpose of paying a debt of the war which President Lincoln and Secretary Seward contracted. At the time, during the war, when it looked as though England and France were going to take hold and help the Confederacy in earnest, President Lincoln secured from Russia a fleet of war vessels to help defend our ports and assist in maintaining the blockade of the rebel ports. The presence of Russian vessels off some of our harbors was a mystery at the time, and they departed as mysteriously as they came. Their departure was due to the fact that the apprehended danger from England and France did not materialize, and then the question arose how Russia could be compensated. President Lincoln had used his war power freely, and Congress had backed him up, but here was a bill for millions, and he feared that he would be criticised for incurring it, although it was a wise thing to do when he did it. While the President was hesitating how to get at it, the war closed and the President was assassinated, and Mr. Seward was left to solve the problem. Russia wanted the money, but she appreciated the situation and waited patiently. Finally the project of getting Congress to authorize the purchase of Alaska was hit upon and the $7,200,000 that we paid Russia for Alaska was really in payment of the fleet bill, and Alaska was thrown in. The secret was so well kept that General W. T. Sherman heard of it for the first time in Russia, and he kept the story to himself until a recent army reunion. Secretary Seward must have shared with some of the Congressmen his secret of the real reason why he wanted Alaska bought, at a time when the United States Government needed money more than territory, but if he did they guarded well his confidence.—Springfield (Mass.) Union.

"There is one thing, however, about woman suffrage which I am free to confess I admire much indeed," he said to a lady of that persuasion in concluding an argument on that important question. "And what is that?" she asked with evident pleasure. "That, so far, it isn't the law of the land, and probably never will be.—Washington Critic.

SECOND DAY'S SESSION

Permanent Organization Effected and Two Sessions Held.

CHAIRMAN ESTEE'S SPEECH.

AN EFFORT TO LIMIT THE NOMINATING SPEECHES DEFEATED.

Seemingly Irrepressible Dissension in Virginia—Mahone's Claims Rejected in Convention—The Platform Committee Will Report To-day and a Ballot May Be Reached To-Night—Two Elaborate Gavels Presented to the Convention—Harrison Now Thought to be in the Lead.

CHICAGO, June 21.—The morning papers of Republican faith continue to assert that Gresham is gaining, though delegates and others are of a contrary opinion.

A noticeable thing yesterday was the general belief that Blaine's name will not be presented to the Convention, at least, until a dead-lock has made him or a dark horse a necessity. Sherman continued to be in the lead all day, but towards evening it looked as though Harrison was the man most talked of, the vote in the Mahone contest being against Sherman.

It was asserted this morning by one of the knowing that the New York vote for Depew has already been won away and will disappear after the first ballot. Alger is looked upon as more weak. The under current for McKinley continues to grow. The West is favorably impressed with him and McKinley and Western men are spoken of as a strong combination.

The weather is very hot and last night's parades and serenading parties and wire pulling kept delegates up late, and many got up this morning in a mood that was anything but pleasant.

California having obtained the permanent chairmanship, is in a state of desuetude, and for the time is willing for almost anyone but Sherman. The Tribune this morning presents elaborate tables to prove that the Ohioan could not be elected under any circumstances.

The crowd began early to surge toward the auditorium, and devised all sorts of plans and ways to get in, but all proved futile. The Press arrangements are exceedingly annoying and the delay in getting off matter is exasperating.

The Porter boom for second place is very quiet this morning, and the Harrison men are making but little noise. They claim, however, that next to Sherman their vote will be the largest on the first ballott. The leaders of the party are making a strong effort to have the Convention adjourn to-morrow, though the rank and file profess to believe it will be Saturday and possibly Monday before the work is completed. It is not thought the convention can now be stampeded for Blaine and his nomination is considered probable only in the event of a deadlock.

There is some probability of exciting scenes in the Indiana delegation before voting has progressed far. It is undeniable that Gresham has warm friends in it and desperate efforts are making to show that the majority of the party in the Hoosier State favor him.

It was reported on the streets this morning that during the meeting of the Committee on Credentials last night, and while the Wise-Mahone contest was under discussion a dispute arose between those two gentlemen, and that it culminated in a fisticuff encounter. As to the truthfulness of this it is hard to verify, but it is generally admitted that there was considerable wrangling and that some very hard words were exchanged.

The Day Session.

CHICAGO, June 21.—At noon the delegates and guests were nearly all in the hall. The temperature has risen several degrees and the refreshing lake breeze that yesterday wafted through the audience has subsided. At 12:30 the Rev. A. Northrup, of Fort Wayne, Ind., offered prayer. North Carolina made a motion that the Committee on Credentials should report before that on permanent organization. But the Chair stated that he was informed that the Committee on Credentials could not report until 8 this evening.

The motion that a recess be taken until 8 o'clock this evening was finally withdrawn and the Committee on Permanent Organization was called for. Ex-Governor Foraker, of Ohio, on arising to present the report, was greeted with cheers. The report was adopted and Foraker, G. B. Sloan and Foley, of Nevada, were appointed a committee to escort M. N. Estee, the Permanent Chairman, to the platform.

The permanent organization is as follows:

Secretaries—Charles W. Clisbee, Michigan; Michael Griffen, Wisconsin; William Ruell, Tennessee; Mr. Lynch, Pennsylvania.

Assistant Secretaries—Thomas J. Brogan, Tennessee; James Bisley, Minnesota; H. M. Cooper, Arkansas; William Nelson, New Jersey; A. W. Monroe, Maryland; J. E. Wiley, Texas; C. M. Shinn, West Va.; John E. Minier, Louisiana.

Reading Clerks—H. Ballard, Vermont; Colonel Clarkson Lake, New York; Captain David Lenning, Ohio: James H. Stone, Michigan; G. M. Brinkerhoff, Illinois.

Official Stenographer.—Gustavus P. English.

Sergeant-at-Arms.—Charles Fitzsimmons, Chicago.

On taking the platform he was greeted with tremendous applause. He then said:

GENTLEMEN OF THE CONVENTION:

I thank you in the name of the States and Territories of the Pacific Coast, as well as from my own heart, for the distinguished honor that you have seen fit to confer upon me.

I appreciate to the fullest extent the grave responsibilities devolving upon me, and, this being a Republican Convention I shall ask in all things its charitable judgment and its candid and earnest support.

Gentlemen of the Convention, following so illustrious a gentleman as your temporary chairman. I shall not attempt to detain you by a lengthened speech. I only want to say to you that we live so far from the centre of the Republic, over on the Pacific shore, that I can't even guess who your nominee is going to be. Laughter. Of course you all know. Laughter.

I say further to you my friends and gentlemen of the Convention, that while I am not exactly able to say what your platform will be, yet the people of the country have echoed its sentiment, and the rattle of the skirmish line was heard only two weeks ago from Oregon.

God willing, next November you will hear from Cleveland's Appomattax all over this great Republic.

My friends and gentlemen of the Convention, I again thank you for the very high honor you have conferred upon me and impressing you, I hope, and pray, with the belief that our duties are of the greatest and most solemn character, and trusting from the depths of my soul that every act may be done to promote the best interests of our common country and to advance the great Republican party. I will call for the next order of business.

Mayor Roche, of Chicago, presented the Convention with a Silver Gavel, and the Delegation from Galena, Illinois, presented a Gavel made from the desk Grant used in the Galena Tannery.

The Illinois Delegate in concluding his gavel speech said he hoped that as the gavel presented yesterday would pound day-light out of Democracy, so this might tan its hide.

Col. T. M. Bayne, of Pennsylvania, took the platform and read the report of the Committee on Rules. The Committee reports to give Dakota 10 votes, District of Columbia 2, and Washington Territory 6, and proposes that there be no dispensing of the roll call in nominating and opposes the unit rule. The rules are substantially the same as those adopted at all previous conventions.

Hoar, of Massachusetts, moved the adoption of the report, except as to the election of alternates.

Woodruff, of Ohio, moved an amendment that speakers in nominating candidates shall be limited to fifteen minutes and seconders to ten minutes.

Bayne, of Pensylvania, objected to the amendment. He says no limitation should be put on speakers nominating candidates. He was interrupted by cries of "Time," but proceeded, however. Butterworth's amendment to limit speeches was lost.

Boutelle, of Maine, asked whether it was purposed that if the delegates from any State were absent their alternates may vote in thier places. If this is so he said it was inimical to the principle of district representation.

Hoar, of Massachusetts, explained and said alternates can only take the place of their district delegates.

The wrangle over rules continued for some time, when Dunn, of South Carolina, moved that the rules as of alternates be stricken out.

Johnson, of New York, moved to have the rules referred back to the Committee to be again reported. Bayne objected.

Horr then offered a further amendment to the effect that alternates might vote in the order they chose for their immediate delegate.

Bontelle, of Maine, moved to adopt all rules but rule 10 and refer this back. Ruled out of order. Sewell, of New Jersey, moved the adoption of original reports. Carried. At 2:05 p. m. a recess was taken until 8 o'clock to-night.

The Night Session.

CHICAGO, June 21.—At 8:20 the convention was called to order.

Chairman Estee announced that as the limit of time for speaking was five minutes, all the speakers would be called to order on time, except in the presentation of names for Presidential candidates, and also that the convention hereafter would be called to order on time.

Mr. Wellington, of Maryland, offered a resolution, tendering on behalf of the Republican party of the United States to the German nation its sympathy in the hour of her bereavement and deep sorrow caused by the death of her ruler, Emperor Frederick, of Germany. Mr. Wellington said in support of his resolution that the German nation is a great nation. The Germans have advanced to the front in civilization and culture, and during the war was the steadfast friend of the Union. It has furnished America with some of its best citizens and statesmen.

Mr. Harris, of North Carolina, suggested that the following resolution, which had been agreed upon by the Committee on Resolutions be passed, not as a part of, but along with, the platform to be adopted to-morrow.

We tender to the German people our heartfelt sympathy in the double loss they have recently sustained in the decease of the great man under whose reign Germany became a united nation, and the other great man, his liberal-minded, peace loving and noble son.

The resolution was adopted by a big vote.

The resolution was adopted by a rising vote.

Mr. Dixon, colored, of Maryland, offered resolutions of respect to the memory of Grant, Logan, ex-President Arthur and ex Senator Conkling, which were also adopted by a rising vote.

The Chair asked for a report of the Committee on Credentials, being the regular order of business.

Mr. Henderson, of Iowa, announced that Chairman Hepburn of that committee was not present.

The band in the gallery proceeded to put in time until the Credential Committee would be ready to report.

The Chairmau again called upon the Committee on Credentials and again received no response. He then called upon the Committee of Resolutions, but Mr. Harris, of North Carolina, stated that that committee was not ready to report and would not be before to-morrow.

Mr. Bayne then suggested that the roll of States should be called for the purpose of selecting members of the National Committee, but his motion to this effect was defeated.

W. O. Bradley, of Kentucky, was then presented to the Convention by the Chairman, and spoke for a few minutes. After Mr. Bradley had finished the Chairman again called upon the Committee on Credentials for a report, and this time Mr. Henderson of Iowa, stated that he had just received information that the committee would be ready to report in twenty minutes.

Mr. Hallowell, of Kansas, amid the greatest outburst of enthusiasm that has yet been seen in the convention, moved that Gov. Foraker, of Ohio, be asked to address the convention. The motion was agreed to and Gov. Foraker was introduced and was received with a volley of cheers. He said he could not be insensible to the compliment which had been paid him, but he would and he would not if he could. While he thanked the convention for the honor conferred upon him, he would greatly have preferred not to have been called upon. The question had been asked, "What are we here for?"

Republicans were here to formulate Republican principles; they were here to nominate the next President of the United States. Applause.

Continued he said: Republicanism is sincerity, and sincerity never equivocates. We believe in a free ballot and a fair count; we will not hesitate to say that in all the thunder we can put in the platform that we believe in a protective tariff, and that the present Democratic Administration is a pretense. We want a change and are determined to have one. We believe that Cleveland's free trade message is fraught with danger. We want to take care of American labor, American homes and American industries, and we will say so. Then we will nominate our candidate.

The Chairman of the Credentials Committee then advanced to the platform and made his report. The report, among other recommendations, favors the admission of the Wise district delegates from Virginia and the four Mahone delegates at large. Mr. Russell, of North Carolina, from the Credentials Committee, presented a minority report, which dissents from the majority report in favor of the admission of the Wise delegates from the Second, Fifth, Sixth, Seventh, Eighth and Tenth districts, who it is claimed, were elected by pretended conventions never called by the State Committee, and favors the admission of the Mahone delegates from those districts.

The majority report was adopted, except so much thereof as relates to the Virginia contest. Gen. Bingham, of Pennsylvania, moved that that part of the report which refers to the delegates at large from Virginia, be adopted.

Senator Riddleberger, of Virginia, then took the stand to present, as he said, the truth of the question. He came here, he said, without a vote being cast against him by a Republican in the Seventh Congressional District. His seat had never been contested there. Yet he was asked to sit down quietly and listen to a gentleman from North Carolina make a majority report that he was entitled to a seat on the floor. If he was not entitled to a seat, who was?

That part of the Credentials Committee's report upon the admission of the Virginia delegates-at-Large was adopted. The question then came upon the adoption of that portion of the reports of the Credentials Committee relating to the admission of district delegates from Virginia.

Mr. Wood, of Virginia, spoke in favor of the minority report, with special reference to the Ninth District delegates. He said that he and his colleagues were properly and legally elected by a convention which was regularly called by the State Committee and the contestants were elected by three men who held a pretended convention in a private office of one of the delegates, who was there chosen. He, Wood, had been elected by a convention composed of delegates from every legislative district in the Congressional district, and it was unjust to throw him and his colleaque out of the National Convention.

General Gibson, of Ohio, expressed himself as one of those who insisted that the magnificent Republican Ninth District of Virginia should be represented in the convention. He then moved that both sets of delegates from the Ninth District be admitted, each delegate to have half a vote.

Mr. Wise, of Virginia, seconded the motion.

Mr. Russell, of North Carolina, opposed Gen. Gibson's motion and called attention to the fact that the majority report did not recommend the seating of the anti-Mahone delegates for the Ninth District, as it had done the in case of the other district delegates. This was because the two anti-Mahone delegates from that district represented a constituency of three men—one besides themselves—assembled in some higuly respectable grog shop in Virginia. Was the Convention going to allow a parcel of revolutionists, as they called themselves, to ride over the regular organization of the party of a great State?

John S. Wise then took the floor and was greeted with applause. He said that when the gentleman from North Carolina, Russell, spoke of the gentleman who made the contest as one who probably went to a grog shop he did not confine himself to the facts of the case. Mr. Pendleton, who made the rival contest, was the peer of the gentleman from North Carolina or any other gentleman here, and his meeting was not held at a grog-ship, but in a reputable place, where every convention had been held for years. He did not come here to be called a trickster and the habitue of a grog shop. He had seconded the motion to admit both delegations, because as a true Republican from Virginia, recognizing the Ninth District as the banner district of Virginia Republicanism, loving its people, whether they came here under the banner of Mahone or Wise, it grieved him to see her unrepresented in the convention.

Mr. Allen, of Virginia, followed in favor of the minority committee's report. He declared that if the majority report was adopted his place as a Delegate-at-Large from Virginia would be valueless to him, because it would declare that there was a taint of irregularity about his own convention. He went into details of the entire Virginia contest and said that there could be no possible doubt of the regular election of all of the Mahone delegates. At Hess's call for the previous question was then recognized, and under the call the convention adopted the motion to seat the Wood delegates by an overwhelming vote.

The question being upon the adoption of the remainder of the majority report of the Credentials Committte, Mr. Reader, of Pennsylvania, demanded a division of the question, and that each separate case in dispute should be voted upon by itself. This was agreed to.

Mr. Fessenden, of Connecticut, moved to reconsider the vote by which the convention had admitted the Wood delegation from the Ninth District.

Mr. Butterworth, of Ohio, moved to lay the motion upon the table, and after a long parliamentary wrangle the question was put and Mr. Butterworth's motion prevailed—242 to 174.

At 11:30 the majority report of the Committee on Credentials was adopted, and the Convention adjourned until 10 o'clock to-day.

BY THE WAY.

—Oh! for a Y. M. C. A. building.

—The Y. M. C. A. Crescents will play the Somervilles on Saturday afternoon.

—Reports of the Y. M. C. A. Convention held in this city, April 19-22, may be obtained at the Association rooms. Price, 15 cents.

—In consequence of the Public School Commencements, the regular meeting in Reform Hall, this (Thursday) evening, will be postponed for one week.

—A valuable Jersey cow, capable of giving fifteen quarts of milk a day, belonging to Col. Mason W. Tyler of West Seventh street, made her breakfast off a bucket of paint on Monday, and died soon afterward.

—A Children's Fair will be held at the residence of Mrs. Ferdinand Fish, corner of Sixth street and Madison avenue, Saturday afternoon, June 23, commencing at two o'clock, in aid of the Fresh Air Fund. Admission free.

—Those who desire the services of Dr. Kimbell, should go as early as possible—or make an appointment in advance—as his patrons are so many that long delay in his consulting rooms is often necessary for patients who must await their turn.

—The Central Railroad of New Jersey is making ample preparations for their Summer sea-shore travel and will run three commodious boats between pier No. 8, North River, and Sandy Hook, to connect with trains on the New Jersey Southern Railroad.

—A carrier pigeon of Mr. Hervey Doane's, and one of Mr. F. R. Stevens', have now each an official ocean record, the first in the country. The birds were released from the Steamer "Cherokee," last Saturday, in mid-ocean, and returned to their lofts here.

—Any soldier's widow who may hereafter be captivated by the notion of applying for a pension will find the track smoothed and cleared by the act signed Saturday by President Cleveland. And her pension will date from the day of her husband's death, too.

—A temperance meeting, under the auspices of the Friends' Temperance and Literary Society, will be held in the Friends' meeting house, at Peace and Third streets, on Sunday afternoon, July 1. Prominent speakers will be present and address the meeting.

—The graduating exercises of the Plainfield High School and the North Plainfield Public School, will take place this evening—the former in Music Hall, and the latter in Warren Mission chapel. Admission to the chapel will be by ticket, but the general admission to Music Hall will be free.

—Officer Lynch was called to the lot at the foot of Stiger Alley yesterday afternoon to rout some drunken men who were insulting women. The men are said to belong in Bound Brook, and when they noticed the officer approaching they forded Green Brook and escaped in Somerset county.

—The fair of the New Jersey Athletic Club is now being held at the LaTourette House, Bergen Point. It is the great event of the season in the circles of aristocratic athletics. All of the higher society ladies of Elizabeth and its vicinity are prominent patrons and assistants in the success of the occasion.

—Gazelle Engine No. 1, was taken to the well at Crescent avenue and Third place for a "wash" last evening, and everything connected with the apparatus was found to be in good working order. With 80 pounds of steam and 170 pounds of water pressure, the engine threw a stream of water through a seven-eighths of an inch nozzle, a distance of 220 feet.

—There will be a grand doll show and doll drill at the Park Avenue Baptist chapel, to-morrow afternoon and evening. Doll drill at four and eight P. M. Prizes open to all Plainfield. Prize for the prettiest doll; best looking colored doll; homeliest rag doll; most curious doll; handsomest scrap book; most ingenious piece of work. No entrance fee for dolls, scrap books, and articles loaned.

—Mr. W. W. Coriell of West Front street, was seated in a dog cart driving through Dunellen on Monday, when he was approached by a gentleman who was desirous of purchasing a rig. Some conversation passed between the two, and in the course of a few minutes the gentleman had purchased the entire outfit—horse, dog-cart, harness, whip, lap-robe, etc.,—and Mr. Coriell was on his way walking home, with his pockets full of money.

$25,000 IN CHARITY AND CHURCH WORK.

What the Crescent Avenue Presbyterians Spent in the Past Year.

The reports presented at the annual meeting of the Crescent Avenue church, show a noble example of beneficence. The different departments of the work of the church, included the Ladies' Aid Society, Home and Foreign Missions, Young Ladies' Mission Band, Boys' Band, Sunshine Band, McAll Mission, Muhlenberg Hospital, Children's Home, Relief Association, W. C. T. U., Floral and Social Reception Committees, Ladies' Aid Society, the Church Poor, Bethel and Hope Chapels, and the Young Peoples' Association.

The church itself is in a most florishing condition. Every pew is taken and a list of applications for sittings await vacancies. The rentals from pews are $10,000.

Rutgers' Commencement.

On Tuesday, at 12 M., Warren Hardenbergh, Esq., of New Brunswick, addressthe Alumni and at 3:30 the Hon. Seth Low of Brooklyn, gave an address before the Literary Societies on "College Bred Men in Politics." The day was closed by the Junior exhibition in the evening. One of the eight men who received appointments was Clarence G. Scudder, who died on May 12. Of the remaining seven, Maurice J. Thompson of New Brunswck, was judged the best speaker; with honorable mention of Kuma Oishi, Tokio, Japan. Oishi's broken English told sadly against him. In ease of delivery, and energy of thought and expression he was unsurpassed.

On Wednesday the Commencement exercises proper took place, followed by a reception at the President's house in the evening.

THE PRESS Revolves For All.

How futile is the attempt of another to publish a newspaper in competition with THE PRESS, and how the effort only emphasizes the unfitness and ignorance of the self-styled "editor and proprietor."

The latter's Chicago "news" of the first day, consisted of the selection of "Mr. Hurst" as temporary chairman. The "news" of the second day was the election of "M. Estel" as permanent chairman.

We sympathise with our Republican friends over the impotency of the organ that disgraces them in this city. If it was not for THE PRESS, their party would know little of what is really going on in itself.

—The Y. M. C. A. Camp at Northfield will begin June 30, instead of July 29, as advertised yesterday. For particulars inquire at the rooms.

THE REPUBLICAN CONVENTION AT CHICAGO.

The Roll Call for Nominations—Great Excitement—The Convention Adjourned Until 3 P. M.

[By Private Wire to The Press.]

CHICAGO, June 21, 11 A. M.—The third day's session of the National Republican Convention opened amid great excitement today. At this hour, after assembling, the roll is being called for nominations. Hammond of California, has taken the stand, and asks that California be passed. [Applause.]

Warner of Connecticut presented the name of Senator Hawley, without a speech, and Davis of Minnesota seconded Gresham. The Indiana men are on their feet, and there is great excitement.

Hiscock nominated Depew.

(Later.)

CHICAGO, 1:10 P. M.—The Convention has adjourned to three o'clock. All the delegates have gone out to hunt up their constituents to howl for their respective candidates.

Meeting of the Friends' Temperance Society.

A regular meeting of the Friends' Temperance and Literary Society, was held at the residence of Mr. Adelbert Vail, on West Fourth street, last evening, and was largely attended. Judge Nathan Harper presided. The subject chosen for discussion was "Longfellow," and it was ably handled. Miss Maggie Vail gave a recitation on the life of Longfellow. Miss Ella Clifton and Judge Harper each gave a sketch of the noted author, and Miss Chellie Vail and Samuel Underhill read poems. Mr. Joseph Harper read a paper on temperance. The members responded with quotations from Longfellow.

The next meeting will be held at the residence of Samuel Underhill on East Fifth street.

The Last of the Season.

The Seventh Day Baptists held their last sociable of the season in the Sabbath School rooms, last evening. The affair took the form of an iced cream festival that was heartily enjoyed by all present.

The Sunday school room was profusely decorated with flowers, flags and Japanese fans. In the centre of the room there was a bower, built of evergreens, from which Miss Grace Lewis displayed an elaborate collection of cut flowers, and Miss Florence Titsworth dispensed the traditional church fair lemonade, to a throng of thirsty patrons. Mrs. J. D. Titsworth presided at the cashier's desk, and handled the cash as dexterously as a bank clerk. In various parts of the room tables were distributed for the sale of cold comfort and cake, and the following pretty waitresses were kept busy attending to the wants of the hungry and thirsty multitude: Miss Bessie Titsworth, Miss Lulu Lewis, Miss Ida Spicer, Miss Etta Randolph, Miss Wooden, Miss Mabel Mitchell, Miss Lizzie Allen, Miss Ernestine Smith, Miss Lillie Dunham, Miss Mabel Maxson.

Y. M. C. A., Boys' Camp.

Boys who desire to join the party going from this city to the Y. M. C. A. Boys' Camp at Lake Wawawanda, July 3 to 17, should apply at the Association rooms for information and credentials.

—The regular meeting of Franklin Council, No. 41, J. O. U. A. M., will be held in the S. of T., rooms, this evening, and hereafter.

POISON IN OUR DRINK.

Not Alcohol—which one may avoid—but BRASS AND LEAD which one takes unsuspectingly. "How—When—Where?" Well, say, in a glass of Soda. Pity the most popular and wholesome of all artificial drinks—which Soda honestly is—should ever deserve a touch of suspicion, but

THE FROZEN TRUTH

is that in some Soda Fountains economy and mechanical facility are studied to the neglect of the weightier matter of purity. Some men are too "smart;" some Soda Fountains are too "ingenious."

We have recently had made a Fountain which secures Absolute Purity for the beverages. Rather pretty, too, we think. We selected the "Matthews' make" because it is the only fount in which the syrups have positively no metallic contact, being discharged direct from glass jars into the tumblers—no tubes; while the waters are contained in and flow through solid block tin,

PURE AS CRYSTAL, COLD AS CHARITY.

We make our own syrups—from REAL FRUIT JUICES, or from chocolate or coffee, etc., as the case may be; no nonsense of essences or make believe.

New drinks? Yes, some of our own contriving. "Winks?" Not a wink; not licensed for winks, and we have an opinion of druggists who take a wink.

Come and try the new Fountain; if you like your drink we'll thank you for saying so, and you'll pay us five cents and come again—it will do you good; only don't come Sundays; no use—Fountain WON'T WORK.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. William Marsh of Denver, Col., is visiting his father, Mr. Seymour Marsh, Putnam street.

Mr. Frank Frazee of Orchard place, left yesterday for Hamilton, Ont., where he will visit his sister.

Stacy Titsworth, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Titsworth of Seventh street, while crawling over the carpet ran a needle into his knee. The needle broke and a portion of it yet remains in the little lad's leg.

Mrs. J. K. Myers gave a luncheon, yesterday, to the ladies of the Crescent Avenue choir. The party was an accomplished and congenial one, the menu was choice and tasteful, the table furnishings elegant and artistic, and the service excellent.

A delegation of eight members of Trinity Commandery, K. T., of this city, visited Cœur de Lion Commandery, K. T., of New Brunswick, last evening, and witnessed the exemplification of the Red Cross, Knight Templar and Malta degrees, a prominent Mason of Plainfield being a candidate. The visiting brethren were handsomely entertained by the members of Cœur de Lion.

Messrs. George Thatcher and his guest Mr. Alexander Robinson spent yesterday fishing in the New Market lake. At night they returned and reported splendid luck, including a bass weighing two pounds and seven ounces, and a large number of cat fish. On the way home the weary fisherman captured a "speckled barnyard pheasant" that was able to sit up in a water pail and pick up corn when they arrived in town.

From a letter received from the Superintendent of the Presbyterian Sunday School of Dunellen, it appears that Mrs. Thomas C. Bodine of Dunellen selected the pieces, both for speaking and singing, and personally conducted the interesting exercises at the Dunellen Presbyterian church on Sunday evening. This correction is made in justice to Mrs. Bodine, who was untiring in her efforts to have the affair crowned with success.

Mrs. T.E.Hazell of Duer street, received by wire, yesterday, the terrible news of the death of her father, S. A. Elder, at Portland, Me. He had gone to a hospital in that city to undergo a surgical operation, and his daughter was anxiously awaiting news of its result when the shocking tidings of his death reached her. The unfortunate gentleman died while under the influence of the narcotics that had been administered. The deceased was a visitor to Plainfield, last Summer, and a guest, with a daughter, at Force's Hotel.

A Threatened Conflagration Averted.

What might have been a serious conflagration in Westfield, was averted yesterday by the prompt and efficient action of Captain Bennett, bookkeeper for Welch Bros. A family had vacated a house on Central avenue, a few days ago, and had left a lot of rubbish and papers piled up in the back yard, which joins Welch Bros. stables. Some boys set fire to the papers and the flames spreading along the fence were making fast headway toward the barn when Mr. Bennett discovered the danger. Although he is a man seventy years of age, instead of losing time by calling help, Mr. Bennet ran and got a pail of water and succeeded in extinguishing the fire. Had it burned a few minutes more without being discovered, it would surely have set the barn on fire, and then the paint store, and the whole row of frame buildings adjoining, would probably have been burned.

WESTFIELD.

(The PRESS is for sale by W. W. French.)

The entire fire department turned out last evening for inspection by the Chief and his assistants.

Mr. J. Urmston, the liveryman, has had an electric call bell put in his stables, connecting with the office. Mr. Frank Spooner, a resident of Westfield, who is connected with the Metropolitan Telegraph and Telephone Co., of N. Y., did the job. He also puts electric door-bells in private houses at a moderate cost. He can be found by leaving word at W. W. French's store.

Plainfield Plumber Win the Prizes.

A delegation of plumbers from this city attended a picnic given by the plumbers of New York city, at 133d street, that city, on Tuesday. During the day a series of athletic sports were indulged in, in which the Plainfield boys carried off a large percentage of the prizes. Following are the winners from here:

James Dady, 100 yards dash—prize, gold medal; Jacob Voehl, half-mile run—prize, four Stilson wrenches; G. Tobin, 440 yard run—prize, gold-headed cane.

—A pike weighing two and one-half pounds was caught in green brook near Clinton avenue, by a painter named Ayers, on Tuesday.

—Mayor Male this morning instructed Officer Lynch to notify Mr. P. M. French that the driver of his water wagons must be more careful about wetting the street crossings.

—The public schools closed at noon today, and pedestrians for the coming two months will no longer be obliged to walk in the gutters on their way to and from home at noon hour.

—The Street Commissioner has made a good job of the work on West Fourth street. Besides spreading crushed stone on the road bed, the gutters have been ploughed up and graded.

BASE BALL.

The Y. M. C. A., "Crescents" Meet Their First Defeat.

On the grounds of the Y. M. C. A., "Crescents," yesterday, the nine played a close and exciting game against the "Centrals" which resulted in a well-earned victory for the latter. An error of Lee's in the first inning, and another wild throw later in the game by the same player, gave the "Centrals" two runs that won the game.

The victorious team were blessed with a battery that the "Crescents" could not get on to until the latter part of the game when Nicholson was compelled by the fierce sun to let-up on his pace. Congdon caught well, and is a fine all around player. Hand also proved himself a valuable short and a good batter, and Dawe and Buckley were all that could be asked. Manager Allen undoubtedly posesses one of the finest amateur teams in the State.

The "Crescents" were a little below the remarkably high average they have upheld during the season. When they play as they can play, few teams of their weight can touch them. Doane, however, was the only errorless player of yesterday. Lee batted well and his costly mistakes were most unusual. He probably won't "do so again" for the rest of the season. Cadmus kept his opponents down to ten base hits. Smith split his finger and was compelled to change places with McMurray who caught a beautiful game and proved he is as sure a catcher as he is a first baseman. Demarest captured two pretty flies and McCutchen and Dilts seized successfully every opportunity offered for their assistance.

Mr. Wm. Stanbury was a most satisfactory umpire. The score in detail is:

PRINCETON'S COMMENCEMENT.

The New President Speaks in Glowing Terms of the Retiring President.

PRINCETON, N. J., June 21.—The regular graduation exercises of the one hundred and forty-first commencement of Princeton college took place yesterday morning. Ex-President McCosh had prepared a farewell address which was intended to form a complete history of his administration from 1868 to 1888.

As it was thus quite comprehensive he did not read it all, but has had it published. Seven honorary orations were delivered. One person received the degree of A. B., five that of B. S.; three that of C. E.; seventy-one were given the degree of A. M.; most of whom were gradutes of Princeton.

A fellowship for archæology has been established and will be awarded at an early date.

The inaugural address of President Francis L. Patton was quite long. Speaking of the retiring President, the venerable Dr. McCosh, Dr. Patton said: "It is a simple truth to say that he has enlarged the curriculum, elevated the standard of instruction, increased its material resources and doubled the number of its students. He has given Princeton a proud position as the home of philosophy, and at the same time has enriched our literature with contributions to mental science which have spread far and wide the fame of this seat of learning, and vindicated for it afresh the place it has always held as a defender of the faith. He has good reason for satisfaction as he reviews the work of these twenty years; and we shall all agree that he has earned the rest from official responsibility which the transfer of office just effected will secure him.

CONFEDERATE SOLDIERS' HOME

Arranging for the Opening of the Home at Pikesville on the 27th Instant.

BALTIMORE, June 21.—A special meeting of the Society of the Army and Navy of the Confederate States in the State of Maryland Line, was held yesterday to make arrangements for the opening of the home for broken-down and indigent soldiers of the Confederate Army at Pikesville on the 27th.

Capt. G. W. Booth presided, and in calling the meeting to order said he wished to give emphatic denial to some current expressions that the movement of the ex-Confederates in Maryland in establishing the home was inimical to and a standing menance to the Government of our country. In some sense, he said, the cause of the Confederacy may be called a "lost cause," but there are some things its adherents did not part with in their surrender, notable among which were their manhood, their honor, and their citizenship. "The memories of the past are ours, and doubly precious, because they are among the few things left us of that strife, in which we made a record that will go down to all time and be of interest to coming generations as a display of courage and self-sacrifice seldom witnessed in the world's history. As brave men we fought for our convictions; as honest men we have loyally abided the issue of the contest, but as true men we propose to keep bright the memories of our fallen, and to preserve and protect our helpless living."

The B. & O. Palace Car Sale Confirmed.

BALTIMORE, June 21.—The regular monthly meeting of the B. & O. directors was held yesterday. The sale of the company's palace cars to the Pullman Company for $1,250,000 was confirmed with a contract to operate lines of the B. & O. road by the Pullman Co., for twenty-five years. W. H. Blackford, President of the Maryland Life Insurance Co., was chosen director vice T. Harrison Garret deceased. The net earnings of the road for the past month were $50,000 in excess of expenses. $10,000 was expended in repairing the road. The traffic contract with the West Virginia road was confirmed.

A Mother's Terrible Deed.

PITTSBURG, June 21.—Yesterday morning Mrs. Josephine Morike, a Polish lady, residing on Sycamore street, Allegheny, administered a dose of strychnine to each of her three children, aged respective 8, 5, and 3 years, and then took a dose of the poison herself. At 11:15 o'clock the mother and two youngest children were dead and the eldest dying. The husband and father had left home a few minutes before the poison was administered. He is a mill hand, and can assign no cause for his wife's terrible deed.

GENERAL WASHINGTON NEWS.

Debate on the Sundry Civil Appropriation Bill—Offensive Mail Matter.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—The House yesterday went into Committee of the Whole on the Sundry Civil Appropriation Bill.

In the course of the debate upon an item relating to special agents, Mr. McShane, of Nebraska, favored a reduction of the appropriation from $100,000 to $50,000. He said he wanted less money placed in the hands of special agents to procure false affidavits by bribery and to persecute settlers instead of prosecuting frauds. He said he knew of these things being done in the West.

Mr. Laird also knew of the nefarious operations of these special agents, and cited instances, where, he said, they had used false affidavits. The acts of these men were outrageous and infamous.

The President has approved the acts for the erection of public buildings at Bridgeport, Conn., and Bay City, Mich.

The President has sent the following nominations to the Senate: John F. Phillips of Missouri to be United States District Judge for the Western District of Missouri, James G. Jenkins of Wisconsin to be United States District Judge for the Eastern District of Wisconsin, Edward Mallet of New York to be an Indian Inspector.

The offering of bonds yesterday aggregated $4,261,950, in lots as follows: Four per cent., coupon, $1,500 at 128¼; $3,000 at 128. Four per cents., registered, $1,000 at 127⅞; $1,000 at 128; $50,000 at 128; $20,000 at 127⅞; $1,000,000 at 128; $1,000 at 128; $4,000 at 128¼; Four-and-a-half per cents., registered, $2,000 at 107; $1,500,000 at 107¼; $200,000 at 107¾; $3,450 at 107⅞; $225,000 at 107⅞, $600,000 at 107¼; $153,000 at 107¼; $100,000 at 108.

The Postoffice Department has issued a notice to Postmasters that under a recent act of Congress any postal card or envelope bearing on the outside matter intended to injure the feelings or reputation of the person addressed, or bring him into discredit, including any offensive or threatening language will be excuded from the mails.

The Speaker laid before the House a message from the President, returning without his approval a private pension bill for the relief of Elizabeth Burr. Three-quarters of an hour was spent in the effort to displace certain private pension bills which had been made the special order for to-day, and their consideration was finally postponed for two weeks.

Fatal Explsion of Gas.

SHAMOKIN, Penn., June 20.—An explosion of gas occurred in the Neilson shaft of the Red Ash Tunnel yesterday afternoon, by which George Schmack was fatally injured and Michael Kelly and Kerin Kerins very seriously burned and injured. Three others whose names are unknown, were also seriously burned. The cause of the explosion is a mystery, as the tunnel was supposed to be clear of gas. The force of the explosion was terrible, and great excitement prevailed until the extent of the explosion was made known. The mine is owned by Langdon & Co. The damage to it is not great.

Tents for the Homeless at Dubois, Pa.

HARRISBURG, Pa., June 21.—One hundred and forty state tents were shipped yesterday to Dubois, Pa., for the accommodation of the people rendred homeless by the recent conflagration.

CONDENSED DESPATCHES.

At an early hour Tuesday morning a fire totally destroyed the shear works of Boutgen & Co. at Elizabethport, N. J. The loss is $15,000.

Charles A. Weaver, a postal clerk, was killed on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad near Great Capon, West Va., Wednesday. He was reaching out of the car door with a mail pouch in his hand and was jammed between the train and a bridge. He lived at Elkton, Md., and leaves a wife and child.

Captain Andrews, who started from the Point of Pines, near Boston, on Monday night in his fourteen-foot dory, was anchored off Nantasket Wednesday. There is trouble with the keel of his boat. He will remedy the defect as quickly as possible, and sail as soon as the weather permits.

Five French-Canadians working on the Louisville quarries at Three Rivers, Tenn., were blown into eternity Tuesday by the explosion of dynamite cartridges. Their names were Thomas Lemay, C. Gauthier, J. B. Renard, Joseph Lavarre and Louis Larin. The quarry was owned by a New Yorker named F. C. Bowles.

The satisfaction of the sealers over the announcement by the Collector of Customs at Victoria, B. C., that they would not be molested in Behring's Sea has been dissolved by later intelligence received from Washington via Ottawa that no arrangement has been reached. A number of schooners have already started for Behring's Sea. It is rumored that the order instructing the war ship Caroline to cruise in the sea has been countermanded.

Weather Indications.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—For New England, New York, Eastern Pennsylvania, Delaware and New Jersey, fair to partly cloudy, followed by rain.

ORDERED TO QUIT BERLIN

TWO FRENCHMEN EXPELLED FROM THE GERMAN CAPITAL.

Their Offense is Believed to Be Libeling the Royal Family—A Declaration of Germany's Peaceful Intentions.

BERLIN, June 21.—Two French journalists who came to Berlin to report the funeral have been expelled by order of the police at a few hours notice whose act is believed to be inspired from higher quarters. George de Bonnefon de Puyverdier is the special correspondent of the Gaulois. He was in San Remo when Frederick was there, had constant relations with Dr. Mackenzie and published articles simultaneously in the London World and in the Gaulois, containing reflections on the new Emperor and Empress. Jules Ransom, correspondent of Le Matin, had published some time ago articles which are the cause of the present notice to quit.

BERLIN, June 21.—The Post declares that there is no foundation for the idea that a change will be made in the German policy adverse to Russia. French fears, it says, are also baseless. The moon is more likely to visit the earth than the German Emperor to dream of attacking France only to earn laurels. Germany wishes nothing from France but to be let alone. As soon as the French see this condition will exist for perpetual peace and friendship. At the same time the tone of the Emperor's proclamation may well serve to remind elements unfriendly to Germany whether in the East or in the West, in a manner not perhaps agreeable to them, of the Hohenzollern way of waging war, and make clear to them that any unjust attack upon Germany will meet the fate of the French attack of 1870. The Emperor will wield his sword like his glorious ancestors, but only in defence of the Fatherland against united attacks.

Mr. Condon, M. P., Released from Jail.

CORK, June 21.—Mr. Thomas Joseph Condon, Member of Parliament, who was sentenced to a month's imprisonment for inciting taxpayers to resist the payment of the tax imposed by the Grand Jury of Cork and Clare to compensate Constable Leahy, who was injured at the Mitchellstown riots, and the family of Constable Wheiehan, has been released from jail.

Rumored Retirement of Gen. Boulanger.

PARIS, June 21.—It is rumored that General Boulanger, disappointed in his political hopes, will retire from the field. It is known that he proposes to accompany M. de Lesseps to Panama to inspect the work on the great canal, and after that to make a long tour in the United States and British North America.

England's War Preparations.

LONDON, June 21.—The War Office has issued an order for a number of Martini rifles of the latest pattern to be constructed under Capt. Harston's patent, which a member of the Small Arms Committee says they look upon as a most valuable invention. If it stands the test, the Government will adopt it.

William II. to President Carnot.

PARIS, June 21.—President Carnot has received a telegram from Emperor William thanking him for his message of condolence over the death of Emperor Frederick and expressing the hope that the good relations between France and Germany will continue to exist.

Many Fishermen Drowned.

LONDON, June 21.—Detailed accounts of the gales which occurred on the coast of Iceland last month show that 400 French fishermen were drowned, thirty vessels having gone down.

The Government Will Not Resign.

LONDON, June 21.—Mr. Balfour denies that the Government will resign in consequence of the adverse vote in the House yesterday on the control of the police.

GEN. SHERIDAN'S CONDITION.

No Material Change Noted—His Cough Somewhat Abated.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—Gen. Sheridan's condition remains unchanged. He passed a fairly good night, and the trouble occasioned by his cough is somewhat abated. He takes great interest in the affairs of the day, and inquires eagerly for news from the Convention. The bulletin issued at 9 o'clock is as follows:

"There is very little to be said about Gen. Sheridan's illness for the past 24 hours. No unfavorable symptoms have appeared, and he is progressing by steady, though almost imperceptible degrees, toward convalescence.

Mrs. Parsons Arrested.

CHICAGO, June 21.—Mrs. Lucy Parsons, the dusky wife of the late A. R. Parsons, the Anarchist, was arrested yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Parsons was driving about the streets in a buggy, attached to the rear of which was a life-size crayon portrait of her deceased husband. She was distributing circulars descriptive of the merits of Parsons's book, "Anarchism." A large crowd followed the conveyance, which was led to the police station.

Lumber on Fire.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 21.—The lumbering firm of Perley & Pattee have been advised teat a serious fire is raging on their limits on the Petawawa River. The information is brought by one of their employes and the particulars are very scanty. The conflagration is supposed to have originated with fires started by settlers for the purpose of clearing their land. The limits are the best in the lumbering districts of the Upper Ottawa.

Brown's Particular Weakness.

CHATTANOOGA, June 21.—A. J. Brown, the colored crank who claims to be Jesus Christ, and who went through a farcical fast of forty days in the mountains near the mining village of Soddy, has issued bills announcing that to-day at the little hamlet he will be crucified.

Mr. Jones' $7,000,000 Will.

NEW YORK, June 21.—The will of Joshua Jones, who left an estate of $7,000,000, has been admitted to probate and testamentary letters were issued to the executors, George T. Williams, John T. Lackman and Arthur Mason Jones.

Blew His Head Off.

BUFFALO, June 21.—Max Walter, a G. A. R. veteran, blew his head off with a dynamite cartridge. His body was found in his yard horribly mutilated. He had been drinking hard of late.

THE LINEN WE WEAR.

THE OLD AND NEW WAY OF WASHING.

It May be Clean but There are Causes Creating Great Doubt.

A person wise in his generation once remarked that any man could pass as a gentleman who wore a fine hat and had his boots blacked. That philosopher, however, neglected to mention the most important factor in the outfit—a clean shirt—or what, under circumstances of great emergency, might pass master—immaculate collars and cuffs.

Argument is not necessary to establish the fact that the large majority of us had mothers. Memory, with the most, though even of the middle-aged of the present generation, will recall the circumstance of that mother often wearily bending over the washtub.

Very few persons have any idea of the extent to which the laundry business in cities has grown within the past five years. Nearly one half are conducted by the slant-eyed heathen. A very large majority of the remainder are the main places and branches of rich companies, which run from ten to twenty wagons, and the balance are conducted in a small way by women who wash as they did in the old days, using only a heated cylinder for polishing collars and cuffs. The wear and tear of apparel in these latter establishments is very small, and though unassuming they are very liberally patronized. It is within bounds to say that three-fifths of the residents of cities patronize laundries to a greater or less extent. In many instances collars and cuffs will constitute all that is "sent out," but in thousands of cases the entire washing is sent from the house regularly. In a dim, uncertain way people imagine that every article comes back to them thoroughly renovated by the modern process; but does it?

In the first place, the bundles as they come to the main office of a large concern are passed to the hands of two or three "sorting clerks." These girls if there is nothing but the name on the wash list, put down the articles and otherwise check off to see if all is correct. In former days every article was marked with the name of the owner, according to the list, in indelible ink, and "many" is the name of the man who has had his ancestral cognomen inscribed on collar and cuff a half dozen times, each time in a different language. Now it is different. Occasionally from unknown quarters come requests that clothes shall not be marked in any way. The wearers have their reasons therefor, crooked or otherwise, but the laundry people ask no questions and, consequently have to tell no lies. In such cases a little label is attached and the garments are returned without a mark. They are designated by little strings, attached here and there, sometimes in a button-hole of a collar, and anon fastened in the southwest corner of the flap of shirt. This method of marking is not, as many have supposed, stolen from the heathen Chinee. It is as old as a laundry, and was in vogue in this country long before the Chinaman knew there was a real Melican man.

Upon arrival at the place where the work is done of a large and thoroughly systematized establishment, the packages are submitted to the care of girls who scrutinize each article and "keep tab." It is to their interest so to do, as every missing article is liable to be charged to them directly if the general outcome is not correct. Then the bundles go into the assorting room. Here, without regard to age, sex, or previous condition of texture, skilled, but not clean, hands assort the outfit. If regarded as being of the same degree of cleanliness, the most intimate raiment of my lady may become commingled with the underwear of the man who peddles fish. The laundry is eminently a democratic institution. There is no distinction, either of person or sex. After being duly picked out and packed together the clothes are placed in a hydraulic washing machine, a large cylinder where steam and unlimited soap are supposed to do the work formerly accomplished by the use of elbow grease and a washboard. "Sloshing" through these the dingy appearing garments come to the wringer. In the long ago the moisture was twisted out of clothes by hand and a twist of the wrist. It isn't now. The rubber clothes-wringer, even, will soon be releagted to the things of the past. The place into which the apparel goes is the hydro-extractor.

This is a very lively machine. It is a perforated copper basket, and inside of a stationary one it revolves at the rate of 1,200 revolutions a minute. The water doesn't have time to stay. It flies out of the holes at every opportunity, and at the expiration of three minutes the hardest twist of a Milesian arm could not extract a drop of moisture. There is still dampness, however, and from there the curiously commingled articles are taken to the dry-room. This is an oddly constructed place, with a wide hall, on either side of which are narrow apartments heated by steam pipes. These are filled with racks on which the garments are stretched, and from which they come as dry as tinder. The temperature in the hallway, by the aid of fans at the windows operated by steam, is but little higher than that of out-doors, but the inside is from 175 to 200 Fahrenheit. After this another assortment takes place. The goods to be starched go in one direction, the others to their respective localities. All the underwear in the larger as well as the smaller laundries is ironed by hand. Machinery has not reached them yet. It has, though, in the matter of starching. It no longer takes five minutes to thoroughly starch a couple of collars or a pair of cuffs. The work is done by the bushel, and so thoroughly that neither time nor patience can excel it. The shirt starcher is a machine by itself, inasmuch as that is a portion of the apparel of the male form divine that can not be starched all over. The "dope," so to speak, is applied in a highly artistic manner by a machine and a young lady who seem particularly adapted to the work. In fact so strong is the combination that it can grind through not less than 5,000 per day. Plain bosoms can be ironed by machinery, but others have often to be manipulated by hand.

"What is the average profit on a shirt?" was asked of a manager.

"Less than on any other article that comes into the house, in proportion," was the reply. "It has to go through too many hands. Even with all the machinery we have, and as perfect as it is, the shirt is not a profitable item for the laundryman. Where the great profit comes in, and you may know it is a profitable business when there is a laundry in almost every block in large cities, is in the small articles. Now in this place is this machine that will turn out its capacity only being limited by the dexterity of the feeder."

"I understand about straight collars and cuffs," said the seeker after information, "but how do you manage to turn collars, that is turndown collars, after they are run through flat?"

"The simplest thing in the world. Just look at this machine where the young lady is passing the collars through, and then look at the next, where another operation is performed."

A careful examination of the first detected a tiny stream of water that moistened the seam of the collar as it passed through. The second machine, the linen being thus softened, turned the collar without breaking a thread.

Heated by steam and gas, the mangles perform the general work. Little change has been made in these machines since the noted description by Dickens, but the speed has been notably increased. An able-bodied mangle will now turn out more dollars for its owner than it ground out pence in the days of the great novelist.

The disturbing element in the otherwise placid and peaceful life of the laundrymen is the omnipresent Chinaman. John is altogether too numerous, and when it is considered that his prices are fully up to the average the wonder grows apace that he is patronized so much. As regards rates, the heathen is not a "rat," though he may be a consumer thereof. He charges the ultimate farthing, and collects it all the samee. He appears to have a personal vindictiveness against every article of clothing that comes into his hands, and proceeds forthwith to beat it out of all shape and semblance. As if this were not enough he, as a last mark of his supreme contempt, proceeds to spit upon it under the guise of "sprinkling."—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

Giant Crabs of Japan.

The greatest marine curiosity of Enoshima waters is the giant crab that trundles along a body as large as a turtle's and sweeps out claws that measures ten feet from tip to tip. Formerly the fishermen threw these creatures back into the sea when they found their nets tangled up with them, but of recent years they clean the shells and sell them for foreign museums. The giant crabs are said to promenade the beach at night, and one version gives them phosphorescent eyes. If imagination cannot supply a picture of these crabs on the beach it is detailed in "Allan Quartermain." Rider Haggard, in his careful owning up to where he found the original of the remarkable things in that book, owns to having read somewhere about these horrible crabs, and so borrowed them to put in the canon into which his canoe-load of heroes emerged after their underground baptism of fire. These crabs and the six-foot cucumber are the few things in nature in Japan that are enlarged instead of being in miniature. —Kamakura Letter.

What He Loved.

Brown was boasting of his wife, whose most lovable attribute appeared from his eulogy to be the making of fritters.

"I tell you," said he, "that Mrs. B. can beat the world at fritters. She's a treasure, sir, an inestimable treasure."

Fogg—And you eat all she can set before you?"

Brown—You may well say that! Ah, my dear sir, you should——

"But isn't she jealous of you?"

"Jealous? What put that into your head? Why, my old fellow, I don't care anything about the women folks."

"I wasn't thinking of them. I had in mind the fritters."—Boston Transcript.

READY FOR THE BALLOT

Each of the Candidates Eulogized by Some of His Most Active Supporters.

SPEECHMAKING AT AN END.

THE REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON RESOLUTIONS UNANIMOUSLY ADOPTED.

Tributes to Grant, Garfield, Arthur, Logan and Conkling--Protection to American Industry--Homes for the People. Foreign Pauper Labor Denounced--The Formation of Trusts Condemned--Mormonism Must Be Blotted Out--The New National Committee--Review of the Situation.

CHICAGO, June 22.—Although no ballot was taken yesterday, the situation has somewhat changed and from those best informed it is learned that the result will be determined to-day.

The last move promises to bring Senator Allison forward as a formidable candidate to-day. Senator Hiscock partially agreeing to throw sixty votes from New York to Allison on the third ballot.

This programme has not yet been definitely determined on, for another conference is to be had by the leaders interested before it is accomplished.

The Iowa men have strengthened their position by effecting a combination with the Sherman and Harrison forces, by which all three agreed to stand together against any move toward Blaine. Having accomplished this they used it as an argument with the New York leaders, and made even more headway than they had expected.

Blaine men have had several quiet conferences and the programme would seem to be as follows: Perhaps on the first ballot, but certainly on the second or third, California will regret that she cannot nominate him, or in some way suggest his name, and then the deluge to him is expected. Foraker's clever speech yesterday has made his name mentioned among Blaine men for second place.

THE AFTERNOON SESSION.

Continuation of Speech Making in Eulogy of the Candidates.

CHICAGO, June 23.—The afternoon session was called to order at 3:20 o'clock. Mr. Merrill, of Texas and J. H. Galliger, of New Hampshire, both in eulogistic terms seconded the nomination of General Harrison. Mr. Hepburn then stepped to the front of the platform and presented the name of Allison. He said in part:

GENTLEMEN OF THE CONVENTION—It is the laudable ambition of every member of this convention that to-day we pursue such a course as to deserve and win success at the end of this campaign. Is there such a course open to our choice? We remember that we enter upon this struggle a beaten party—that we were not beaten for want of numbers, but for want of harmony. We are strong enough to compel a triumph, but it will require the united efforts of us all to clutch it. Is it possible for us to-day to name a candidate for whom all Republicans will vote? If we do we shall succeed. If we fail to name such a one our flag goes down in defeat before the organized appetite for spoils and its allies. The candidate of this convention must be of spotless character and with unblemished political record.

Gentlemen, the State of Iowa bids me to name to you this man—fit to be your candidate, William B. Allison, of Iowa. Of all living men he is the one we most do honor. Iowa asks his selection.

We of Iowa know that in here naming our President we place him in generous rivalry with most illustrious names. Sherman, of ripe experience, sagacious methods and honest purposes. Ben Harrison, the worthy son of an ancestry renowned for worth. Gresham, the soldier, the statesman, the just judge, varied has been the character, but never varying the pure quality of his extended service. Alger, who has no enemies, save his country's enemies, and who wins the love of men whether he leads them in the fierce shock of battle or guides them in the quiet walks of peace. New Jersey's son, cultured, eloquent, wise. How contentedly we could all follow him as our leader Rusk, fearless in duty, the clamor of the mob has no fears for his inflexible soul, and Ingalls—how the affections of my old comrades flew towards him as their champion, who never falters in his strife to secure redemption of the pledges made to the boys who wore the blue. The candidate I have named we of Iowa commend to you. A man of that calm poise of mind who seeks the methods of judicious conservatism, and yet who has on all occasions the courage to do the right. Who excites no anger and has no enemies. Who is sagacious, conservative, versed in the details of the public business, whose integrity is above the reach of calumny. Who has the respect and confidence and kindly regard of all who know him, and on whose candidacy all classes of Republicans can unite, and, so uniting, he will lead a harmonious party to a satisfying victory.

Mr. Fraser of Michigan then arose to nominate Alger. He spoke, in substance, as follows:

Alger of Michigan comes into a Republican convention for the first time in his history to ask a favor. His State has always proved true, and it intends to do in the future as well as it has done in the past. During all the contests in which you have been engaged Michigan has been modest in her demands. We do not ask how the Democracy got into power. We provide you means of driving it out.

It becomes necessary to nominate the most available man who is most popular with all classes. Such a gentleman I offer you as our candidate, and we ask nothing except fair consideration.

We believe all the good things that have been said about the other candidates, but our man is none the less available. He is a man of honor wherever known. I came to Detroit and found that next to God the poor people of Michigan loved Alger.

This man can secure votes from the rich and the poor. When the sound of war filled the land he came to his country's relief in money and in the heroism of his presence No other man was more loved by the rank and file. His deed were the familiar stories of the camp fires.

I present to you a business man to run a business man's campaign. I present a business man who has not a superior in all this country. At 24 he entered the army and at 28 was Brigadier General, made so by the recommendation of General Sherman. He has never acquired money in a questonable manner. Wherever need is there is Alger to aid. Backed by the entire delegation of Michigan, backed by every Republican in Michigan, I nominate Russell A. Alger as candidate for President.

Alger's nomination was seconded by Mr. Noyes of Massachusetts. He was followed by Mr. Eagan, of Nebraska, Mr. Estes of North Carolina and Mr. Goodrich of Arizona.

Senator Hiscock of New York then took the platform to nominate Chauncey M. Depew. He spoke eloquently, and his speech is highly complimented. He said, in part:

MR. PRESIDENT AND GENTLEMEN OF THE CONVENTION—The united Republican party of the State of New York is represented here to-day, and by the unanimous voice of that party I am instructed to present for your consideration its choice for Presidential nominee. With every Republican voting in New Nork next November we shall gain a grand Republican victory, and the thirty-six electoral votes of the Empire State will be cast for the nominee of this convention.

We have no factional differences in New York. All bitterness is removed and we are marching against the Democratic-Mugwump combine to overwhelm it and defeat President Cleveland, and to restore the government to the party that preserved, yes, created it. Without exception the States presenting candidates are not doubtful. If we win this year it will be against the Solid South. We must have the vote of New York in this election, and equally with us the Democracy concedes that the result must be determined there.

Labor in New York city, as elsewhere, has become frigetened at the base betrayal of its market to foreign capital by the Democracy, and its sturdy blows will be delivered for our side in this vital contest.

It will help us to name our candidate, and I assure you we shall need the force of all "the sentiment" we can command. We propose a candidate whose name will be an inspiration to our country. His counsel has led us and now will guide us. His broad and statesmanlike utterances have long commanded the respect of our people, not of New York alone, but wherever heard or read. As Chief Magistrate of the republic his suburb abilities, his matchless executive equipment, his thorough knowledge of affairs, his broad comprehension of public interests and the nation's capacities, his perfect integrity, his justness and consideration of the rights of men, his fidelity to Republican principles would assure an administration promotive of national development and progress.

It is true his business relations have been urged against him. If the most brilliant career and achievement as a business man known in our country is a just cause of criticism, then he merits it, for I do admit his success has been phenomenal and his achievements unsurpassed.

And I may add also that his life has been signally pure and stainless. Yes, he is the president of a great railroad corporation, and there is not a farmer, freighter, mechanic or common laborer in New York who will vote against him for that reason. As his life has been above reproach, so in the management of the vast business interests under his control he has gained the confidence and holds the respect of all our people, and they will rally to his standard and make his election sure. As their candidate and as the choice of the Republicans of New York, I present for nomination by this convention as the Republican candidate for President of the United States, Chauncey M. Depew.

When Senator Hiscock finished there was great applause, and the New York delegation rose in their seats, and, waving hats and flags in their air, cheered wildly. Mr. Hartley of Minnesota, seconded Depew's nomination.

It was 5:30 when Pennsylvania was called and General Hastings stepped forward to name the Buckeye's statesman. He said, in part:

Pennsylvania is opposed to Grover Cleveland, and to a continuance of his administration. Her electoral vote will be cast for the nominees of this convention.

Pennsylvania has never faltered in her devotion and Republican principles and will not falter now. Her metropolis was the cradle of American liberty, and the Republican party's birth and baptism were both on Pennsylvania soil.

This convention recognizes that the campaign before us finds the common enemy intrenched in the seats of national power, with the prestige of victory. The support of a solid South, the influence of public patronage and an increasing appetite for office to give it encouragement. But the country is tired of the shams, double dealing and mediocrity.

He whom I shall nominate to you needs no introduction. His career, his character, his manhood and his illustrious achievements are a part of the nation's history. The people know him by heart. They whom I represent, and who ask his nomination at your hands, point you to a grand career beginning with those patriots who rocked the cradle of Republicanism; to a man who has been in the forefront of every battle for his party, who has been its counsel, its champion, its strong right arm; whose name is a tower of strength and who was never defeated for any office for which he was nominated.

My countrymen, the central issue of this campaign is an American policy for the whole American people at home and abroad. Before it all else sinks into insignificance.

We welcome the issue—protection or free trade. Let the sovereign freeman in the next election say whether the only republic founded on the rock of freedom, blessed with every gift of nature, crowned with imperial powers, enriched by willing hands of honest toil, peaceful, prosperous and homogenous, shall be dethroned, degraded, pauperized by a party and a policy at war with the very genius of our national existence. "With malice toward none, with charity for all," let the battle lines which ran east and west be now formed from north to south advancing to the seaboard, there to protect the homes and firesides, and the prosperity of the nation, and let him who has served so long, so ably and so faithfully be placed in command of the victorious column. Make him our standard bearer and every principle for which the party has battled, every triumph which it has achieved will be represented in our leader. Nominate him and there will be no sophistry, no fallacy so plausible as to divert the intelligence and common sense of the people from the vital issue. Nominate him and a sense of security, of safety and of confidence in the future will crystalize into triumph and victory.

I nominate the patriot, the statesman, the honest man—John Sherman.

Governor Foraker, and Mr. Langston of Virginia made speeches seconding Sherman's nomination.

At 6:45 Charles Emory Smith of Pennsylvania placed Major Fitler of Philadelphia in nomination.

Mr. Smith was evidently somewhat embarrassed by the sea of faces before him, but with a mighty effort he began:

"Mr. President and gentlemen of the convention, I desire to place in nomination Mr. Tickler—Fitler, I mean."

But a great roar of laughter prevented his further utterances for a few moments and the Convention nearly went wild with merriment over Charles Emory's blunder.

General Spooner stepped to the front when Wisconsin was called and he placed Governor Rusk in nomination. He said:

MR. PRESIDENT AND GENTLEMEN OF THE CONVENTION: Fully mindful of the possible disadvantages on this occasion which lies in the fact that Wisconsin is last on the roll call of States, I turn for courage to that other fact, that her stalwart and splendid Republicanism has placed her and keeps her well up toward the head of the column when the fighting is on.

I place in nomination Governor Jeremiah Rusk, the honored Governor of Wisconsin. Governor Rusk possesses what seems in these days to be by many considered the fundamental element of eligibility to such a candidacy; he was born in the state of Ohio. He spent his youth and young manhood in the rough but disciplinary work of the farm. Over three decades ago he sought a home in one of the newer counties of Wisconsin. Rich in nothing but brain and brawny and principle, and honorable mention, accustomed to hardship and not ashamed to labor, he cheerfully mounted the driver's seat of a frontier stage coach, as Lincoln in early life went out from the rude cabin of his father with the axe upon his shoulder to split rails the long day through, and as Garfield sought and followed the towpath of the canal, thence through a life of high endeavor to enter the portals of the White House.

Take him, gentlemen of the convention, for your leader, and the Republican party of Wisconsin bids me pledge you that when the fierce white light of the campaign shall beat upon him it will disclose no weakness in his armor, no spot upon his shield, and when our victory shall be won you will have installed in the White House once again an American President in favor of protecting American labor and upbuilding American industries, of enforcing to the full extent of Executive power the constitutitnal right of a free ballot and a fair count who knows that wise liberality is the only true economy, and that the truest statesmanship, as well as the highest patriotism, is to strengthen and dignify one's own nation.

After General Spooner concluded his speech for Governor Rusk a motion to adjourn was made, and at 7:25 it was carried. The convention will meet again this morning at 11 o'clock.

STANLEY IN GREAT PERIL.

Reported Wounded and Surrounded by an Enemy.

LONDON, June 22.—A despatch from St. Paul de Loanda says:

"Several deserters from Stanley's expedition have reached Camp Yambuga. They say that after traversing the Upper Aruwimi, Stanley struck into a rough, mountainous country, covered with dense forests. The natives, who were excited by reports spread by the Arabs, disputed the passage of the expedition, and there was continuous fighting. Stanley was severely wounded by an arrow. He was compelled several times to construct camps in order to repel attacks, and was obliged to use the reserve provisions that were intended for Emin Bey.

"The Soudanese attached to the force had all died or disappeared. The deserters estimate that the caravan lost one-third of its men, and they say that many of those remaining were ill, including the Europeans. Stanley was surrounded by hostiles, and was unable to send news to Emin Pasha or directly to Yambunga.

"Major Barttelot had returned to Yambuga, where he was awaiting the men that Mr. Ward was collecting to form a powerful expedition to go to the relief of Stanley.

"The sickness at Yambuga was lessening, but only 80 of the 425 Zanzibari survived.

Tippu Tib recruited 625 men to form two caravans, and started for the interior about the end of January. Ward left Boma on May 30 for Leopoldville, where he was to embark men and provisions in the Congo State steamer En Avant for the Aruwimi. Early in May the steamer Stanley left Stanley Pool, taking to Barttelot the first reenforcements and supplies. Yambuga advises reach the middle of April. The time the deserters left Stanley is uncertain.

"Governor Janseen left the Congo on the 15th inst. on his way to Europe to consult regarding the sending of assistance to Stanley."

College Boat Races To-day.

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 22.—The first of the series of college boat races on the Thames course will take place at 6 o'clock this evening. The contest will be between Yale and the University of Pennsylvania. The Yale crew appears in fine form, although Woodruff, the strongest of the crew, will not sit in the boat, on account of a recent accident. The Pennsylvanians work hard, but their stroke is very uneven. The race will be four miles straightaway. The Yale and Pennsylvania freshmen crews will row at 2 o'clock on Monday next. Yale and Harvard are having one of their old time wrangles over the choice of course. When the course was changed the Yale and Harvard representatives agreed to toss for first choice. This they did yesterday. Yale winning. Harvard then became dissatisfied, and refused to accept the result as binding, and will refer the matter to the referee, Oelrich.

House and Senate at Odds.

WASHINGTON, June 22.—In the House the Senate amendments to the Diplomatic and Consular Appropriation bill and the District of Columbia Appropriation bill were non-concurred in, and a conference was ordered on the first named bill.

Mr. Franklin and Mr. Tuck Confirmed.

WASHINGTON, June 22.—The Senate has confirmed William B. Franklin, of Connecticut, to be Commissioner General, and Somerville P. Tuck, of New York, to be Assistant Commissioner General to the Paris Exposition.

He Shot His Daughter and Himself.

POUGHKEEPSIE, June 22.—Michael Roach, of Staatsburg, shot at his wife last night. The ball missed her, struck his daughter and broke her leg. Roach then shot himself in the breast and will die. A family quarrel was the cause.

Mrs. Robinson Asks for a New Trial.

BOSTON, June 22.—Counsel for Mrs. Sarah Jane Robinson, the Somerville murderess, now awaiting sentence, have applied for a new trial. Mrs. Robinson's health has so improved that she is able to be in court.

PRESENTATION OF DIPLOMAS.

The "humidity" of the atmosphere yesterday was perhaps greater than at any time thus far this year. Toward evening, however, a brisk breeze came in from the Northeast, and locomotion on foot was agreeably benefitted, so much so that early in the evening, males and females young and old, some in crinkled seersuckers, others in albatros and nun's veiling, with a super-abundance of flowers arranged in every conceivable shape and manner, from the bonnet and corsage to the lower extremities of the raiment they wore, all were bent on gaining admission to Music Hall, to be present and witness the exercises attending the Eighteenth Annual Commencement of the Plainfield High School.

The evening in-coming trains from Dunellen, Fanwood and Westfield brought their quota of passengers who swelled the number, until an audience estimated to number fully 1,300 were present in Music Hall when the exercises began. The orchestra chairs were reserved for the friends of the graduates, and the 700 remaining seats were placed at the disposal of the public. If the number of seats had been twice as great there would doubtless have been ready occupants. As it was several hundred spectators were sandwiched in together in a standing position, with no possibility of their feet "hanging over," and in that position they remained until the programme was concluded.

The thousand and more spectators when they entered the hall, were seated facing a realistic woodland scene, specially arranged by property man Mattox and his supernumeraries. At precisely 7:45 o'clock President Jacob K. Kirkner of the Board of Education, and Judge Nathan Harper advanced on the stage from the left wing and were met by Principal Miss Julia E. Bulkley and Mr. Edwin Lewis, teacher of the Senior class, who advanced from the right wing, followed by the graduates. Judge L. F. Wadsworth came in later.

Cappa's Band played the opening overture, Rosamund, after which President Kirkner announced the first essay, on "Purpose" by

HARRY MAXSON.

This young gentleman, although placed in a rather embarrassing position by being first called to the footlights to face the vast assemblage, proved himself equal to the emergency. "A ship without a rudder," he said "is like a man without a purpose." A vast army of young men are entering life without a purpose; many valued determinations begun, often end in words; true it is riches bring happiness, but discontent comes with them; a man's purpose known denotes his character. Inspired by energy of purpose, men have achieved wonderful results. The life of Peter the Hermit fully illustrates this fact; Lord Beaconsfield was another illustration of the value of purpose, his sole aim being to get into Parliament, and subsequently occupying a position as Prime Minister. The lives of great men are not attained by a sudden start, but while their companions slept, they were up and laboring to obtain excellence, and in order to do so, their views were concentrated. As the indomitable Grant said: "Fight it out on these grounds, if it takes all Summer."

FRANK D. RANDOLPH.

"Locomotion" was the subject of an admirably written essay by this young man. In it he pictured out the various modes for transportation, both in ancient times and in modern civilization. The tramway was the first step in modern civilization. History records the use of steam in England nearly a thousand years ago, but in 1814 Stevenson invented the first steam engine. Today electricity seems likely to use up steam. Back in 1543 the idea of a steamboat was first conceived, but it was left for a Yankee to put the idea into execution, and in 1807 Hudson first plied the river which bears his name, in a steamboat. The subject of aereal navigation is now being seriously considered, and man will succeed in making aereal navigation a means for transportation in the near future.

EMMA L. WEST.

This lady's essay on "The Modern Arthur and his Knights," was one of those of most general interest. Her enunciation was clear, and her delivery good. "King Arthur, you who have vanquished giants and overthrown thrones" she began, "what was it you did to gain your accomplished name?" How do we judge the character of our modern knights—our journalists, our merchants. The club room of the Ancient Knights was a palace, but our knights want social intercourse. Criminal acts are in many instances the medium of our newspapers—the fictional paragraph of something that never occurred, simply to keep the wheels of conversation moving. Ancient knights were careful of their reputation, but the life of our knights is not a mutual one. They are blind to the needs of others. Men whose lives are tried and true, are the pillars of our country. Some of them have gone to the realms above, and others will follow. Will the coming generation fill their places?

WALTER N. CHAMBERLIN.

This young gentleman's essay, on "The Children of the Public," was read by Mr. Edwin Lewis, who explained that during the eleven years the writer had been a pupil in the High School he had not heard a single word of instruction. He had, however, maintained a position among the very first in the school. The paper was well written and showed thoroughness in its preparation. "Father Public we salute thee," it began, and went on to dissect the character of the illustrious individual, giving honor to Dr. Edward Hale, the originator of the name. It is the public that have educated us, and tonight we get our dismissal as scholars of the public; we get our diplomas, for we have been graduated. America is divided against itself. One-half of the people make money its servant, the other half are the servants of money. If one is honest, his opinion is considered, but one who lowers himself is lost from society and his opinion is worthless. In England money is the basis of social life, but it is not the basis of public life in America. The paper discussed at length the American character, and clearly and forcibly portrayed the various traits in the lives of Americans.

ETHEL R. BOARDMAN.

"A Visit to Olympus," was the subject of Miss Boardman's essay. Her articulation was clear and distinct, her gestures good, and her production was well composed. In it she told of a journey to Mt. Olympus, and the conversation with the giant, Herocles. At times the conversation drifted into a witty strain as Herocles asked of the sports, the mountains, etc., in America.

HOWARD HUNTINGTON

In "Homeric Heroes" presented a realistice representation of the heroes of Homer, and illustrated the difference between ancient brutality and barbarism, and modern clemency. He also fluently depicted the characters of the Trojans and alluded to Homer's works. At the conclusion of his essay, Hon. I. H. Maynard, Bishop Vincent and State Superintendent Fuller came on the stage and occupied seats on the left.

WILLIAM N. RUNYON.

Probably one of the best delivered essays of the evening, was that on "The Pious Æneas," by the above-named gentleman. "Who was this remarkable man?" he began. On one occasion where he displayed remarkable qualities he was on the ocean in a furious storm, and his whole fleet was in peril. Æneas saw one of his trusty pilots swept into the water. He prayed to the Gods, but his prayer was a continual complaint because the Gods did not see fit to let the pilot remain. After the storm had subsided Æneas disembarked, and with a companion set out on an exploring expedition on the shores of Carthage in the realms of Queen Dido. They entered the city and repaired to the palace of the Queen. There Æneas saw scenes of the Trojan war, in which he had been one of the foremost. He wept, but his grief was turned to joy when he discovered the lost pilot advancing toward him. Æneas was forgetful. On the night Troy fell into the hands of the Greeks he forgot he had a wife, and she was cut down by a relentless Greek. Æneas escaping to a place of safety. Mr. Runyon creditably acquitted himself in the delivery of his essay.

EDWARD TENBROECK PERINE.

Preceding the Valedictory was an essay on "Action, the Test of Character" by Edward T. B. Perine. "Every material body posesses characteristic qualities," he said, and a practical illustration of character is founded on integrity and morality. Lincoln's character was one of love for his fellows, and of fearlessness. His biographers tell us of his fearlessness in singing the declaration of emancipation—and act which set bells ringing, bands playing and hearts beating, and which has never been equalled. A public indignation meeting was held in the New York Stock Exchange and cries of "burn the rebels" went up from a thousand throats. The mob then charged on the World building, and presently there appeared in an upper window a man bearing a flag. He addressed the howling mob thus: "Fellow citizens, clouds and darkness are about; justice and judgment is the establishment of his throne; God reigns and the Goverment at Washington still lives." The mighty speaker was James A. Garfield of Ohio. How he met that critical moment will go down to posterity. To all of us come trials and tests every day. Character is the creator for eternity, and action is the expression of a man's character.

MARION F. RANDOLPH.

The Valedictorian, was the last of the graduates. Her essay is reproduced in full as follows:

VALEDICTORY.

Once a year a large proportion of Plainfield's citizens gather at our commencement exercies. They listen first with interest and then with patience to the essays, until the inevitable valedictory is reached. Then, I fear, they begin to feel very much as President Lincoln once did; in a time of despondency, some visitors were telling him of the "breakers" so often seen ahead—"this time surely coming." "That," said he, "suggests the story of the school boy, who never could pronounce the names 'Shadrack,' 'Meshack' and 'Abednego.' He had been repeatedly whipped for it without effect. Once again he saw the names in the regular spelling lesson for the day. Putting his finger upon the place, he turned to his next neighbor, an older boy, and whispered: "Here comé those tormented Hebrews" again."

But although these exercises may grow wearisome to the patient audience, we beg that they will bear with us one more. For to us this last day of school comes with a strange newness.

We have always been told that if we did not our work thoroughly every day—every moment, we would regret it. We have heard this so often that it has almost ceased to make its proper impression. But to-night, as we look back over the years we have spent together, we remember the words of our friends and feel their true force and meaning. But, with pleasure, we consider that we have still many years of possible usefulness before us, and resolve to profit by all the lessons learned in our school.

Four miners, weary of their fruitless searches for a new mine, one day went deer hunting among the Rocky Mountains, ten thousand feet above the sea. While resting for their noon meal, they saw a deer start, and one of the men gave chase. But he slipped and fell, and the deer escaped. In falling, the miner's boot-heel slid into a rich, bright vein of galena ore. This is the "Yankee Girl" mine.

These men sold their right for $120,000. At last accounts, three of them had wasted their shares in riotous living, and the fourth was holding on to his in doubtful fashion.

The buyers have taken from the mine almost as much as they paid for it, and still have a rich prospect.

The success of the discoverers, was "luck"—pure luck. The success of the present proprietors is work.

The result of the work is silver, taken from the earth, and useful to mankind. The result of the luck is a wasted fortune, a wasted life.

The same that is true of the "Yankee Girl" mine, is true of the "Yankee Girl" and the Yankee Boy as well. Their opportunities are abundant. But they cannot be successful in the truest sense, nor indeed at all, except through work.

Says Carlyle: "Two men I honor, and no third. First, the toilworn craftsman that with earth-made implement laboriously conquers the earth and makes her man's. * * *

"Second, and still more highly, Him who is seen toiling for the spiritually indispensable; not daily bread, but the bread of Life. Highest of all, when his outward and his inward endeavour are one; when we can name him Artist, not earthly craftsman only, but inspired Thinker, who with heaven-made implement conquers Heaven for us! If the poor and humble toil that we have food, must not the high and glorious toil for him in return, that he have light, guidance, freedom, immortality? These two, in all their degrees, I honor, all else is chaff and dust, which let the wind blow whither it listeth."

Nothing do we find here about "luck" or "talent."

Wherever we look, we find that those whom we truly admire, to whom we look for guidance and example, are only those who have given a life of work to their vocation. And so it is with our Principal, and the teachers who have been with us these years.

In "Bitter Sweet" the Poet David is made to say:

"All common good has common price;
Exceeding good, exceeding;
Christ bought the keys of Paradise
By cruel bleeding.

"Up the broad stairs that value rears
Stand motives beck'ning earthward,
To summon men to nobler spheres,
And lead them worthward!"

And so to-night, comrades, we are parting, some expect to continue their education in other schools; some to devote their attention immediately to the improvement and cultivation of one particular talent.

As there have been a mutual strength and helpfulness in the daily meeting, so in this leave-taking, there is a certain sadness. But may I not express the hope that when you remember the days we have spent together in work and play; when you think of our class meetings, our struggles in Latin and literature, science and mathematics, our successes and failures, you will not forget that

"God gives no value unto men
Unmatched by meed of labor,
And cost of worth has ever been
The nearest neighbor."

After the orchestra played a selection, President Kirkner said in introducing Hon. Isaac H. Maynard, Assistant Secretary of the United States Treasury, that he took great pleasure in presenting a man of sterling quality and unimpeachable integrity, and a graduate of Amherst College, whom President Cleveland did great honor by appointing him Assistant Secretary of the Treasury. The distinguished gentleman then gave some sound practical advice on the need of education to perpetuate the nation. He stated that the time was fast approaching when the doors of every university in the land would be open to admit ladies.

Following came the President Kirkner read a letter from Miss Mary H. Mather, class president of the class of '77, presenting to the school on behalf of the class, a beautiful photogravure of the Acropolis of Athens, showing also the Parthenon. It is elegantly framed and on a plate below is inscribed "From the Class of '77," and its motto, "Age Quod Agis."

State Superintendent Fuller was next introduced, and made a brief address. He spoke in praise of the public school system as a growing institution, and advised the people to interest themselves in the matter of public school education. His remarks occupied but a few minutes and were to the point.

The graduates then formed a semi-circle on the stage, and as the name of each one was called, he or she advanced and received their diploma from President Kirkner. Bishop Vincent, DD. LL. D., then addressed the graduates as follows:

ADDRESS OF BISHOP VINCENT.

"Mr. President, young ladies and young gentlemen of the class of '88, it would be an unwise thing for me to detain you with words of advice. What I should like to have emphasized has been already well said in the able and every way excellent speech of Judge Maynard. I shall detain you but two or three minutes. Let me say first of all, stand by the public school of Plainfield, remembering that it is a representative—I confess a splendid representative of that great American institution on which the perpetuity of our nation depends. The Republic cannot endure without the public school, therefore all your lives long defend and maintain it. Remember that although you have reached the end of your high school course you are but at the beginning of your education. It is as though you had reached Westfield or Fanwood on your way to New York. The day is before you, the day of your educational opportunity. It is but 7 o'clock in the morning for you, therefore whether in school or out of school devote your whole life to personal improvement, for opportunities of education must extend beyond the school room. A venerable friend of mine in England and a distinguished educator, quoted to me a saying of Socrates, "Labor and make music." By music Socrates did not mean the melody and harmony which the human voice or the musical instrument may produce. There are people whose lives are filled with music in the sense in which Socrates used the term, who cannot sing a note nor handle an instrument. There is the music of high aim, lofty aspiration, pure motive, intense sympathy with humanity and the consecration of all our powers to the good of others. Thus labor in the lines of your appointment and make sweet music, the echoes of which shall sound even amidst the glories and the everlasting felicities beyond this world."

As each of the graduates finished their essay, the ushers carried in armsful of flowers, and at the finish the stage presented a veritable Eden. The entire front of the platform was bordered from side to side with beautiful floral designs, including horse-shoes, wreaths, baskets, etc.

The large audience filed out of the building while the band played a march, and thus ended the Eighteenth Annual Commencemeut of the Plainfield High School.

THE RECEPTION

That followed in Assembly Hall, was attend by several hundred of the friends of the graduates. The hall was artistically decorated, and the picture frames hanging on the walls were festooned with oak leaves. Over the entrance was the motto in gilt letters, "Nothing great is lightly won—'87". In the centre of the room there was a pyramid of oak leaves, ferns and trailing vines, and a similar pyramid was built up on the stage. Cappa's Band discoursed popular airs until one A. M., but the festivities continued for an hour longer. Congratulations were showered upon the fair graduates, and school-day recollections were talked over. During the evening iced cream, lemonade and cake, were served.

BY THE WAY.

—Oh! for a Y. M. C. A. building.

—Game will be called at 3:30 o'clock, to-morrow, between the Y. M. C. A., "Crescents" and the Somervilles.

—Full accounts of last night's commencement exercises, crowd out until to-morrow many items of interesting news.

—The Dunellen "Stars" defeated the "Champions" of Plainfield, on the Sixth street grounds, this morning, by a score of 22 to 17.

—The special bulletins from Chicago posted on the front of THE PRESS office, attracted crowds all this afternoon, and many were the expressions of praise given us for our enterprise.

—Three boys were arraigned before the City Judge, this morning, charged with bathing in a nude state in Green Brook at Clinton Avenue. The Judge let them off with a severe reprimand.

—Yesterday afternoon on the Fourth street grounds, the "Stars" defeated the "Athletics" by a score of 10 to 5. McCann and Kane were the battery for the "Stars," and Sergeant and Allen for the "Athletics."

—The "City Pharmacy soda-water" has gained by its own merits an enviable and universal reputation for purity and delicacy of flavor. The milk-shake at this establishment has also proved a popular drink, and the fountain at 21 West Front street, has become the most extensively patronized Summer resort of the season. Everyone commends the purity, frigidity, and flavor of Field & Randolph's drinks.

POISON IN OUR DRINK.

Not Alcohol—which one may avoid—but BRASS AND LEAD which one takes unsuspectingly. "How—When—Where?" Well, say, in a glass of Soda. Pity the most popular and wholesome of all artificial drinks—which Soda honestly is—should ever deserve a touch of suspicion, but

THE FROZEN TRUTH

is that in some Soda Fountains economy and mechanical facility are studied to the neglect of the weightier matter of purity. Some men are too "smart;" some Soda Fountains are too "ingenious."

We have recently had made a Fountain which secures Absolute Purity for the beverages. Rather pretty, too, we think. We selected the "Matthews' make" because it is the only fount in which the syrups have positively no metallic contact, being discharged direct from glass jars into the tumblers—no tubes; while the waters are contained in and flow through solid block tin,

PURE AS CRYSTAL, COLD AS CHARITY.

We make our own syrups—from REAL FRUIT JUICES, or from chocolate or coffee, etc., as the case may be; no nonsense of essences or make believe.

New drinks? Yes, some of our own contriving. "Winks?" Not a wink; not licensed for winks, and we have an opinion of druggists who take a wink.

Come and try the new Fountain; if you like your drink we'll thank you for saying so and you'll pay us five cents and come again—it will do you good; only don't come Sundays; no use—Fountain WON'T WORK.

THE NORTH PLAINFIELD COMMENCEMENT.

Varied Exercises in Which All Took Part—The Original Essays in Full.

The Mission Chapel was crowded with an interested but sweltering assemblage of humanity last evening, to witness the commencement exercises of the North Plainfield Public School. The walls in the vicinity of the platform were simply, but tastefully decorated with wreaths and knots of ferns and flowers. The front of the platform was covered with ferns, and stands holding ferns and vases of flowers stood in the space at each end.

The ushers were kept busy bringing in baskets and bouquets of flowers, which were afterwards presented to the scholars as they retired, after finishing the parts assigned each on the progamme.

The musical part of the exercises was well rendered, though lacking somewhat in distinctness of articulation, a fault which the acoustic properties of the room rather magnified, as might also be said respecting the speaking. A repetition of some of the pieces was called for, but the encore fiend was silently ignored.

After music by the school, came "The True Kings of Earth," a declamation by David Boe. Laboring under the disadvantage of being the first to speak, he nevertheless, acquitted himself well, his utterance being distinct. More of gesture would have made his manner more effective.

The recitation "Ranon," by May E. Hughes was well rendered, as was also that of Philip Wells, entitled "I and Echo;" and "King Volmer and Elsie," a recitation by Edith Needham, was lengthy, but given in a pleasing and earnest manner.

The calisthenic exercise, "Batons," by a company of little Misses, was very interesting. But few mistakes were made, and the almost military precision of movement showed patient and painstaking teaching and commendable skill. The exercise must have been very fatiguing, for so warm an evening; but when the girls retired from the platform they were greeted by a round of applause which must have been gratifying to them, and their teacher also.

The recitation "Brushwood," was a good selection and well spoken by Marie C. Loizeaux, though in a tone so low, for the most part, that it was probably heard with difficulty by those in the rear of the room.

"Grant's Place in History," a declamation by Harry Williams, was given in a good tone of voice, but lacking somewhat in distinctness of utterance. His manner was earnest and impressive.

A charming little piece by a charming little Miss was the recitation, "A Discontented Buttercup," pleasingly rendered by Elsie Horne.

Fanny I. Spencer's essay, "If," was received with applause, and was well read, her tone being clear and agreeable. Her subject was well chosen, and was in full, as follows:

IF.

Only a word of two letters! yet this little "if" holds an important place in our language. As generally used it connects two clauses, one expressing a condition, the other what might be. Its suggests possibilities, and wonderful changes in the world about us.

If America had not been discovered the United States would now be one vast forest inhabited only by the savages, and wild beasts, and where are now some of the largest manufactoring towns, perhaps the deer would be grazing, or the sly panther watching for his prey, stretched out upon the limb of some forest tree, that has long since fallen under the wood-cutter's axe. Instead of beautiful homes, the wigwam would be sending up its curling smoke, and the Indians performing their frightful war-dance or torturing some poor foe that chanced to fall within their reach.

Were virtue and intellectual ability the standard by which people were valued, wealth would not be the only stepping stone by which its possessor could rise to the heights of fame; but as it is, if a person lacks this all important quantity, he cannot rise from his lowly position, but is swept along by the tides of misfortune, and goes struggling on until he is shattered against the rocks of poverty.

As the Presidential campaign draws near, we think of laws that should be enforced, and of others that might be formed which would raise the country so far above its present position that our fore-fathers would not recognize it. We see in imagination the polls removed from saloons to the parlors of mansions, and mankind so elevated above dishonesty that not more than one ballot would be cast by the same man. The assesors would be so sharp that not a feather would escape untaxed, and the "Tariff Question" settled so charmingly that each side would think the problem solved according to its views. Then too, we see the glorious time when principal, and not the man will be voted for, and when justice crowned Queen and placed on a throne of power and influence, shall command the allegiance of all the world. All this, and more too, might be if the high-minded, lofty-viewed, self-esteemed women could vote.

What a thorough understanding of religion some have! How delightfully clear are their ideas regarding the duties of man, yet as soon as they pass out into the whirl of every-day cares, this religion becomes a mere sentiment and disappears like mist before a mid-day sun. Alas! if only the religion of the world instead of resting in the mind, would find its way to the heart or farther down still with some the pocket-book, the results would be marvelous, for then fault finding and sharp bargains would be errors of the past, and help for the poor would not forever end in praying; but each would gladly share his possessions with a less fortunate brother, and this poor old world of ours have a higher aim than making money.

But none of these possibilities, nor those we long for in life will ever be realized until all the requirements have been fulfilled. Though the conditions are sometimes very hard and frequently drown the might-be in a sea of difficulty, yet by strong effort they can be overcome and success assured.

The comic recitation, "The Little Rid Hin," by James Nolan, was given in brogue (which might have been richer) and was applauded. This was followed by a musical piece, which closed Part 1st, of the programm.

Mr. James McGee, in a few well-chosen words then introduced the State Superintendent of Schools, Col. Charles C. Fuller, who made a short and appropriate address to the audience, the school and the graduates. He was well pleased with the school: but touching on the necessity of more school accommodations, he characterized it as a fault which might call for an exercise of his authority as the "Father of the Schools of the State" (being thus designated by Mr. McGee, in his introductory remarks); but he was glad to be informed that it was in contemplation to provide the accommodations needed.

Stacy Raynolds gave in an earnest manner the declamation "Manhood." It was a good selection as to matter, and, as an elocutionary effort, was probably the best of the evening.

A good selection also, was the recitation, "The Silver Bell," given by May E. Young in an agreeable manner, and pleasing tone of voice, though rather low at times, yet distinct in enunciation.

Allen Laing's comic recitation, "An Evening Idyl," was short; but it gave the audience an opportunity to rouse from the depression caused by the heat, as it was received with laughter.

Probably the most telling and effective selection of the evening was the recitation, "The Convict's Christmas Eve," given by Grace M. Nevius, in an earnest and impressive manner.

This was followed by a calisthenic exercise, "Wands," by a company of boys. Entering the room they marched upon the platform with military exactness; and the exercise showed the results of a patient and persistent drill, reflecting credit upon both teacher and scholars, though the boys were hardly equal to the girls in their precision of movement in the "Baton," exercise. Applause greeted the boys as they left the platform.

May B. Clawson gave a recitation, "Tita's Tears," in pleasing manner and voice, though at times her tone was low and her utterance a little indistinct.

"Kentucky Philosophy," rendered by Marion Nevius, was a good humorous selection, full of gesture and dialect, and was received with applause, This was, perhaps, the best acted selection on the programme.

After another musical performance by the school, came the declamation, "Zagonyi's Charge," by William Y. Westervelt. His enunciation was clear, his tone full, his manner was vigorous and earnest, and he closed amid applause.

The essay "Properties of Matter in Human Nature," by Carrie C. Boice was a profound and scholarly selection, given in a deliberate, impressive manner and speech as follows:

PROPERTIES OF MATTER IN HUMAN NATURE.

The prop, or inherent qualities that may be seen in human nature, are both many and complicated. Some of them are peculiar to the human family, while others strongly resemble those of the material world. It is said by scientists that matter tends when at rest or in motion to remain so until compelled by some external force to change its condition. This prop, known as inertia, is common to us all. Observe the youthful student who is idling away so much valuable time. How sluggish and dull; how slothful and inactive is he, when required to perform some slight task! But, presto! As the hand on the dial marks the approach of the hour of dismissal, all previous indifference vanishes, and he is now the liveliest of the group. The unruly member, too, at times, displays such tireless activity, that we often wonder if it is an involuntary organ, and if man is responsible for its use. But the saddest indisposition that appears in human nature is that of the will. While some are throwing their whole spirit and energy into the work of building up some great good, or striving with all their power to overthrow some evil, others are lying sluggishly around gazing on the improvements! These same inactive people will ascend into the Mt. of Allegory, and soaring near Heaven sigh: "O, to be there!" But what a mistake they make, for "Heaven is not gained at a single bound,

But we build the ladder by which we rise,
And mount to its summit round by round."

The ease with which the conscience springs back to its original place, after having yielded to some strain, suggests elasticity, as another of these properties. In business transactions it is very apparent. A man may want to do right by all, and yet, when an opportunity of gain, though of questionable nature, occurs, he will argue and reason with himself, until his accommodating India-rubber conscience seems to give its sanction.

Then, with reference to truth, many stretch their consciences by making use of expressions that convey different ideas from those intended—true in words, but false in meaning. This is certainly an unfortunate quality for the conscience, as it detracts from character; but when found in the temperament is a happy one. A person who has naturally a cheery and loving disposition, infuses sunshine wherever he goes. But should this person meet with a loss, temporary or permanent, all his gay spirits will, for a time, vanish, and this is but natural. Yet, after a time, when the wound has been healed, the gay spirits slowly but surely return. If one would advance in the higher life he should be susceptible to the good influence of those about him, and not surround himself with an impenetrable wall of cold and haughty manners.

This same impenetrability is seen in the mind when it is unable to receive impressions, either on account of natural dullness, or stubborn resistance. How sad the first, and how blindly obstinate the second. And have you observed that some people guard the portals of their heart with such diligence that they are not moved by the evidence of God's love and care over them? They think indifferently of the suffering and cruelty going on around them, and stand with folded arms and untouched hearts viewing the many tragedies of life.

The researches and investigations of modern science tell us further that matter is indestructible. When a body is consumed by fire or decay, there is no destruction of matter; it has only changed its form and position. Likewise, the soul, which is the spiritual and rational part of man, never dies, but merely changes its abiding place. It is not transient, fleeting away at the approach of Time, but is to live on through Eternity.

With what care then should we guard this soul, for it is in fact the major key of life upon which are based all the minor chords and joyous strains of our existence. Then, too, how indestructible is that mystic power of the soul called influence. Every person possesses it He may not be conscious of this power, but in an imperceptible way each one is making lasting impressions on those about him. We, as a class, too, during the past, have been exerting an influence upon our school-fellows that will last through years to come. And, as we go forth in our various paths through life, this same power will not cease to go with us, but will, as Tennyson says:

"Roll from soul to soul,
And grow forever and forever."

Mr. James McGee then presented the diplomas to the graduates, prefacing the presentation with an address, first to the audience, then to the school and lastly the graduate. His address was replete with wisdom and sound sense, showing the importance of education, and the right use of it. The exercises closed with music, the "March of Men of Harlech," by the school, and the audience dispersed.

Where all did so well, it were invidious to particularize. That there were some faults is true; but as a whole we may justly say that all acquitted themselves well. As above written, whatever faults of indistinctiveness of articulation, or of a low tone of voice, they were intensified by the imperfect acoustic properties of the building. The absence of appropriate gesture was noticeable in the majority of the speakers; but their evident earnestness and pleasing deportment were commendable, and their promptitude in action and confidence of manner on the platform were admirable. All the teachers and pupils are to be congratulated on so pleasing and successful a termination of their labors for another scholastic year.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. Leonard Manchee, son of the former pastor of the Congregational church, is visiting friends in this city.

Superintendent Charles W. McCutchen will entertain the officers and teachers of the First Baptist and Mt. Olive Sunday Schools, at his residence, next Tuesday evening.

Miss Julia Bulkley, Principal of the Public Schools, and Miss Harriett Brown, one of the teachers in the primary department, Franklin Building, sail for Glasgow on the "Furnessia," Saturday of next week.

Mr. Frank E. Newman, chairman of the Reception Committee, who had in charge the reception to the High School graduates last evening, threw aside his own personal pleasure, and worked assiduously to have the reception pass off pleasantly. Under his personal supervision, not a hitch occurred to mar the pleasure of the evening.

Not on the Programme.

A pleasing feature of last night's Graduating Exercises, was a private reception tendered to Miss Sarah Louise Schuck, one of the graduates, by her friends, at her residence, corner of Arlington avenue and Sixth street, after the exercises in Music Hall. Mr. Geo. Schuck, a brother, presented his sister with a handsome gold watch. Refreshments were served in abundance, and an hour or so was spent in congratulating the young lady.

—The game to-morrow afternoon on the Y. M. C. A., grounds, promises to be an exciting one. The contesting nines will be the "Crescents," and the "East Ends" of Somerville. In the past their games have always been close, and Somerville at times has won. Let us hope that, Saturday, victory will perch on Plainfield's banner.

That Rarest of Combinations.

A NARROW ESCAPE.

Queen of tragedy upon the stage of the "Opera Grande" was Helene Montaigne, queen of comedy Louise Belfour, and different were they in physical beauty and temperament as the roles in which they appeared.

Helene Montaigne was a pronounced brunette, with eyes lustrous as black pearls, a super-abundance of blue-black hair, complexion the deepest of olive, tall, commanding, and remarkable in the development of figure that sculptors prize in models, and painters delight in transferring in glowing colors to canvas.

Louise Balfour was less in stature, slighter, and more graceful, with eyes of the purplish-blue of the pansy, cheeks as the blush rose, hair as curling threads of amber touched by the red of sunshine, a mobile mouth, ripe carmine lips, and dainty pearls of teeth.

Between the two, rivals in beauty as in art, there had been the most furious jealousy and struggling to monopolise applause since their first meeting within the same theatre.

Yet the intensity of feeling was kept veiled, as women know so well how to do. They treated each other with the utmost politeness, smiled and kissed in public, hated the more in private and under the rose ridiculed each other's acting.

But jealousy, bitter as it was, would have been kept in subjection had not another and more potent cause fanned the smouldering embers into the fiercest flame.

To them, indeed, "love came with all its frantic fire and wild romance," and though their hands used no daggers, their eyes flashed them; though their fingers dealt out no poison their tongues breathed it in malicious slander.

It was an evil day for the mental peace of the two proud, gifted, and passionate women when Claude Akers came to act in the same house, to play leading parts with both, to look the king to command and the lover to win hearts.

Nature had formed the graceful manly figure, the expressive, beaming eyes, the handsome face; had given the deep rich-toned voice; the tender address, the dignified manner for both. From Macbeth to Romeo, from Hamlet to Melnotte, is a wide range; but it was easy for him, and he looked and acted as if born for each and each alone.

Attracted at the outset, both of the women did their best to win him, brought all the arts and blandishments of their sex to bear, never acted as well, and enslaved others if they did not him.

The battle was long, but the end too certain to be questioned. The blue eyes flashed grand and scornful triumph, and the black ones veiled their indignant lightning beneath the heavy curved lashes as they saw the glitter of a diamond upon the finger of her rival.

But Helene Montaigne was far too proud, had too much control over herself, to permit the world to see, to let her successful sister know how much she was suffering. Calm outwardly, but more stately than ever, she appeared in public; was the first to congratulate Louise upon her conquest. Yet it was done in words that left a sharp sting behind, and lowered the idol erected within her heart.

In her own private chamber, hidden from all ears, breath was given to the shame, the indignation, the jealous madness she felt, and the tigress nature could not have been more vindictive, cruel, or treacherous.

"She knew I loved him—knew he looked kindly upon me, and came between, the yellow-haired Delilah, to tempt Sampson from my side. By Heaven, I'll not endure it! All within the theatre, all I meet, mockingly laugh and point the finger of scorn at me, and she openly gloats over my misery. I will be revenged or I shall go mad."

Overmastered by her feelings, she flung herself upon a couch and wept tears as of gall. Every deadly passion within her was aroused and inflamed, every prompting of vengeance at white heat. She was ripe and ready for murder. Very little more was required for her to become unsexed, to stain her hands in blood.

All the tenderness of womanhood, all the restraints of law and reason, were for the time lost, and short indeed would have been love and life for Louise Balfour had she then crossed her path.

The long exhausting night of raging was followed by calm. But it was of the character of the wild beast crouched in the jungle, looking furtively around with its yellow eyes streaked with blood; of the sea that murmurs soothingly before it engulfs, the treacherous silence that precedes the earthquake, the hush in the air before the coming of lightning.

The same power that made the terrible realism in Lady Macbeth enabled Helene Montaigne to conceal the secret that was as a cancer eating out her heart.

With the same savage satisfaction, the very refinement of cruelty that causes the cat to play with the mouse already within sweep of its claws, she watched her destined victim and waited the moment to crush.

No word or look when the lovers were together upon the stage escaped her, and, acting the spy she often heard tender words spoken and saw sweet caresses given and returned.

And every tender utterance, every lingering kiss, only added to her mental agony and the more fixed a firm determination to put an end to them—an end to endearments she fancied should be her own.

So quick and strong working a brain, so unshrinking a nature, were not slow to plan or execute.

Before many days had passed she saw her opportunity, and an almost smile of pleasure curled her lips and permitted a dangerous gleam of the sharp white teeth to flash between. The picture of fiendish malignity that flashed as illuminated by the red fires of perdition upon her in the darkness of midnight almost caused her to shrink from her purpose, so base, so unnatural, so inhuman, so unwomanish was it.

But she nerved herself, set her foot unflinchingly upon the red-hot ploughshare of jealousy, and went forward to dig the grave of her own hopes and make shipwreck of her own heart.

A new play was in rehearsal, one combining the strongest elements of passion love and tragedy. To Helene Montaigne the leading lady part rightfully belonged, and at another time she would have been furious at a hint of its being taken from her.

Now she pleaded indisposition from over-study, and begged Louise Balfour to create it, and joyfully the request was granted, gladly the necessary preparations made. Such an opportunity she had long sighed for. She would show the world and (what was more) her lover how well she could act in the highest role, and at least wither some of the laurels upon the brow of her rival.

Despite the plea of over brain-taxation, the tragedienne closely watched every rehearsal, and perfecting of effects, the selection of properties.

Had her own success depended upon the production she could not have been more interested—more enthusiastic.

"I almost envy the applause you will receive," said Helene in a patronising manner to Louise, as they passed together from the theatre one morning, "and I regret I cannot be present to witness it."

"Not present!" was repeated in astonishment, and the blue eyes flashed at the thought of her being unwilling to witness her anticipated triumph.

"No; I am going away for a few days. My health absolutely demands a change, and I shall have no other opportunity than while you hold the boards."

"I regret it should be so," was responded untruthfully, and the listener knew it as well as she.

"Yet you will manage to survive, my dear," was caustically suggested. "Though the play is not the same, you will have your 'Claude,' and that will compensate for a much greater loss than my poor humble self."

"The hateful jealous thing!" was the comment of Louise when left alone.

"She triumphs now," was that of Helene as she entered the house, closed the blinds, and flung herself wearily upon the bed. "But who will in the end? Oh, Heaven, that it was over! This suspense is killing me. Were it to last much longer I could not endure it. Stay and see her all sunshine while my heart is black and desolate as night? Stay and feel, as I should, every caress showered upon her? Stay and see her usurping the applause and love that should be mine? Heaven help me! I shall go mad with envy and jealousy. But one scene could I witness unstirred, and that—— I must not think of it—I dare not think of it!"

It became evident to all who knew her that something serious was the matter with Helene, but few surmised the real cause—at least the beginning of it; none the actuality of the secret that was draining the life-blood from her veins.

In a brief time she had lost much of her beautiful proportion; the olive of her complexion had become ashy; her eyes sunken and burning with a strange light.

Friends urged her immediate departure; the management kindly gave unlimited furlough; a benefit the means of travel.

Still she lingered until the day previous to the debut of Louise in a new role, then bade all farewell.

The extensive billing of the new play, the whispered words of the engagement of the two leading actors, the hints of costly scenery and startling effects, caused the house to be crowded until "Standing room only" was a painful reality to all who arrived late.

With wild delight the appearance of Louise Balfour was hailed. A new queen instantly leaps into favor if young and beautiful, and she was both. Often as the majority of the audience had seen her, they had never realized it as much as then. To all the attractions of dress were added the love-light in her glorious blue eyes and the loving smile upon her lips.

From the moment she stepped upon the stage she received an ovation. Her every word was listened to with eager silence, every emotion depicted upon her happy glowing face was reproduced in the hearts of the audience. None of her triumphs had been like this, and could she but sustain herself to the end, well might Helene Montaigne tremble for her future supremacy.

The curtain rose upon the last act. The grand effect of the evening was coming, the final scene that would thrill every heart and cause breathless agony, even though it was only acting and not a terrible reality.

Waiting for their cue the lovers stood concealed from the excited mass in front. There was no time for caresses, none for heart utterances other than could be expressed by the eyes.

A little later, as the climax of the play was reached, a dagger flashed in the hand of the jealous lover, and in the whirlwind of anger, he struck the pleading woman to his feet, struck a heavy blow upon the heart. She screamed, reeled, fell at the footlights before an audience convulsed with horror at the fearful reality of the deed.

The curtain sank slowly down amid a tumult of applause, the jealous husband of the evening raised Louise, and assisted her towards her dressing-room, but it was to meet the manager pale with anxiety and trembling in every limb.

"My God!" he exclaimed, "what a narrow escape! By the merest accident I saw that a real dagger had been given out in place of one the blade of which shot back into the handle at the touch of a spring. Had I not instantly made the change it would have been a terrible tragedy indeed, and the stage would have been drenched with the blood of her you love."

Who was to blame, none knew. It was attributed to one of the accidents that ever occur, and soon forgotten by those most interested.

Not so with a woman far away. She knew that her plan had failed, that her stealing into the theatre and changing the dagger had been to no avail, and when, a few years later, the sheaves of her life were gathered by death, she was humbly thankful that one of them was not crimson by a murder executed, though attempted.

RESULTS OF THE BALLOTS

Sherman Maintains the Lead Throughout Early Balloting.

SCATTERING ON ALL OTHERS.

CALIFORNIA PLUMPS HER SIXTEEN BALLOTS FOR BLAINE AMID GREAT ENTHUSIASM.

Depew Withdraws His Name and the Vote of New York Will Go to Harrison. Fitler Also Withdrawn—A Hot Afternoon Session in Which No Candidate Even Approximated to a Winning Vote. Only Three Ballots Taken Yesterday. An Adjournment Until Evening and Then Until 10 o'clock To-day—Doubt and Guesses About the Result.

CHICAGO, June 23.—It was hoped that the first ballot would enable the convention to form some plan whereby a nomination could be made without an adjournment, or with not more than one recess at the most. Many of the delegates are anxious to go home, and when in the third ballot the vote was still scattering, several expressed themselves as of the belief that they were doomed to a further stay in the windy city of twenty-four hours, if not over Sunday. The weather is sultry and the crowded condition of the hotels makes the stay for some anything but inviting. The first ballot yesterday developed nothing but Sherman's weakness and the anxiety of some of the other candidates to get under cover until his hand was shown. Mr. Sherman's friends were pretty well aware that their candidate was shaky the night before, but Foraker's speech, with the applause for Foraker, and the rumors of a combination against the Blaine people, led them into a half confidence that things might have straightened up.

They were not enthusiastic enough to count on anything approaching a nomination on the first ballot, but they had reason to expect a solid support to build upon and a slight help from the anti-Blaine element, which might or might not be strong enough to carry them through.

While Sherman was putting out his strength there was room for the opposition everywhere. Some dropped over to Gresham, some to Alger, Fitler got three from Florida, which were simply thrown in the air for a starter, and Pennsylvania, after a wrangle and a poll of the state, reserved her opinion to the extent of handing Mr. Fitler eighteen.

Quay, who was supposed to be tangled up in the Fitler boom, hesitated a few moments after his name was called and then jumped unexpectedly to William Walter Phelps. Other uncertain votes went to favorite sons. General Hawley, of Connecticut, got one besides his own State compliment. Ingalls had his own State and Powell Clayton's delegation from Arkansas. Governor Rusk had Wisconsin.

Mr. Phelps finished up with seven added to his own State's eighteen, and Lincoln and McKinley were started by what the tally lists know as "scattering." Allison and Harrison made a good effort to show what strength they had, and with the exception of the few flying votes that lit among them the showing was reliable. They stood pretty close together, each pointing to what he had to starting on, and each appealing to some combination to take them up.

In Harrison's case there was the disappointment of a vote against him at home, which apparently hurt him somewhat, and when it doubled later, increased the damage. Harrison's particularly strong claim had been that he was certain to carry Indiana, and the slightest intimation of trouble at home touched him in his most sensitive point.

The sensation of the day was the withdrawal of Chauncey M. Depew from the race. General Harrison has succeeded him as the candidate of New York State, and he will get fifty votes at least out of the seventy-two.

THE EVENING SESSION.

Chauncey Depew Withdraws His Name. Adjourned Until 10 o'clock To-day.

CHICAGO, June 23.—The hall was packed at 7:12, when the evening session of the convention was called to order. From almost the moment the convention adjourned until it reassembled again the time was given to log rolling and wire pulling. The friends of the leading candidates got in their finest work, and it was expected that the evening's session would bring forth some sort of a sensation.

The band played patriotic airs while the convention was assembling, and a cool breeze blowing from the lake made the atmosphere more endurable. The scene in the great convention hall was one of the greatest brilliancy.

When Chauncey M. Depew entered the hall he was greeted with cheers. He ascended the platform amid great applause. The New York delegation shouted until they could shout no longer, and then when the hall was quite still he said:

"GENTLEMEN OF THE CONVENTION—I came here as a delegate-at-large for the State of New York. I desired to appear in the Convention in no other capacity. The delegation from New York State presented my name to this convention. It was done for State reasons, and in the belief that with the organization of the party it would secure the triumph of the party.

"A discussion has convinced me that my vocation and associations will raise the question to the Republican States which may elect the enemy. Under the circumstances, and after most earnest consideration, I have come to the conclusion that no personal consideration should stand for a moment in the way of the general success of the party, nor should it be permitted to threaten the integrity of the party in any campaign nor in any commonwealth which has hitherto been Republican.

"Under these circumstances and after your vote this morning, I called upon the delegation from my own State and requested them to release me from further service in the convention. They have consented and my only excuse in appearing here is to give the reason for their action in the use of my name and to express my heartfelt thanks to the gentlemen from the States and Territories which have honored me with their ballots.

"The causes which have led to this action on the part of the State of New York will leave no heartburn upon the people of that State, and the delegation which voted unanimously will go home to a constituency to find it unanimous to support whoever may be the nominee of this convention." (Great applause.)

When he finished the audience nearly went wild with enthusiasm.

Congressman John S. Wise, of Virginia, announced, after Mr. Depew had become seated, that the Virginia delegation had agreed upon John S. Wise as chairman of Virginia's delegation.

General Hastings, of Pennsylvania, moved that the convention adjourn until 10 a. m. to-morrow. This was hissed loudly, but General Hastings called for a roll of the States. Iowa, Nebraska, Missouri, North Carolina and Maryland seconded the motion.

General Hastings said his reason was a belief that his course was in the best interest of the party, and would tend to preserve party harmony.

The vote was expected to be a test one, and it was closely watched. If California voted in the affirmative on adjournment, it meant that it still favored Blaine.

The vote to adjourn was carried by 535 to 282, but the delegates did not disperse.

Colonel Robert G. Ingersoll took the platform at 7:49 amid great applause. Colonel Ingersoll began his speech by advocating protection, and then caused a demonstration by saying that he favored the nomination of Gresham. There was a great tumult in the audience and great confusion among the delegates.

When Colonel Ingersoll said he would choose for President Walter Q. Gresham the cheering lasted fully ten minutes.

Indiana's delegation and a part of the delegations from Ohio, Massachusetts and New York entered a protest against Colonel Ingersoll's views by getting up and leaving the convention hall. It was a Gresham audience, however.

After the tumult had subsided Governor Foraker was called for, but he did not respond.

California's delegates raised a white banner with "Blaine and Protection" inscribed on it. A man in the gallery waved a big white feather and pandemonium ensued. The convention, which really adjourned on the carrying of General Hastings' motion an hour previous, refused to be quiet.

Actor Charles Pope of St. Louis gave an eloquent recital of "Sheridan's Ride," which carried the audience by storm.

Orator Fitch, of California, began an address on Republicanism and in support of Blaine, but the confusion in the hall was so great that he could not proceed, and at 8:53 the chair requested the audience to disperse, which they did without further demonstration.

The convention will meet again at 10 o'clock this morning.

MRS. PARSONS ARRESTED.

She Was Distributing Anarchistic Pamphlets Among the Republican Delegates.

CHICAGO, June 23.—Mrs. Parsons, the widow of the arch-Anarchist, was arrested yesterday in front of the Grand Pacific Hotel. She was distributing pamphlets advertising her late husband's book among the delegates when a policeman seized her. Here is an extract from the circular:

"Have I one more wish?" said Parsons with that familiar flash in his eyes when, a few days before that black Friday, I called to bid him farewell. "Oh, yes, I have more than one. Never tire in advocating our high principles in the warfare between cowardice and tyranny. Never cease until the American people know why we are murdered and the class fanaticism characterizing our condemnation is understood."

Three Deaths In a Railroad Accident.

READING, June 23.—A frightful accident took place on the Schuylkill Valley division of the Pennsylvania Railroad yesterday near Schuylkill Haven. A down coal train was about taking a side track when a fast freight crashed into it, wrecking both trains badly, killing three men and badly injuring some others. The engineer, John D. Smith, of the fast freight was instantly killed. His engine was hurled upside down, fastening him in the wreck and roasting him to death. He was thirty years old, and leaves a widow and two children. The fireman, Charles H. Ettinger, was pinned fast in the wreck and so frightfully scalded that he died. Frank Hershey, a train hand, was also caught in the wreck. Both his legs were cut off, and he died in a few minutes. The tracks were blocked six hours.

The Liberal Attack on the Government.

LONDON, June 23.—The Liberal leaders, following up their great victory at the Ayr Burghs and the serious defeat of the Government in the House last Tuesday, have decided that the time has come to deliver their main attack upon the Government, while its lines are wavering and its Unionist allies threaten to bolt. They propose to challenge the Government on the whole administration of Ireland, leaving no act or abuse untouched, especially in the tyrannical execution of the Coercion Act. Mr. Gladstone has given notice of a motion to that effect and asked the Rt. Hon. William Henry Smith to grant a day for its consideration by the House.

Baltimore's Crusade Against Vice.

BALTIMORE, June 23.—The crusade against the dives begun several weeks ago has by no means been allowed to sink into a state of "innocuous desuetude." The Society for the Suppression of Vice has just issued a circular stating that they have taken preliminary steps to fight the dive keepers vigorously by legal prosecution and calling upon the public to contribute $2,500 in aid of the campaign. The Society states that there are 2,850 saloons, gambling dens and houses of ill-fame in this city, and that of the 2,500 saloons, only 320 are not known to be carried on in habitual violation of the law.

AFFAIRS AT THE CAPITAL

THE HEAT RETARDING GENERAL SHERIDAN'S RECOVERY.

Five Pension Bills Vetoed by President Cleveland—The Sundry Civil Bill Passed—Other Intelligence.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—Gen. Sheridan, despite the rose-colored bulletins issued from time to time by his physicians, has made little or no progress toward recovery within the past forty-eight hours. At 12 o'clock last night he was said to be sleeping quietly. A hoarse cough, however, could be plainly heard on the street below at short intervals from that time until daylight. His voice was frequently audible, complaining in querulous tones of the heat, which was very oppressive. He could not have slept continuously for an hour during the night. Medicine was administered at frequent intervals, and sedatives were given more than once without effect.

The General ate very little yesterday, and has gained no strength. His physicians have grown anxious with regard to his condition, the four surgeons spending almost the entire day at the house. The following brief and cautiously worded bulletin was issued at 9 o'clock last night:

No material change in Gen. Sheridan's condition has taken place since last evening.

House bill No. 610, increasing the pension of Mary Minor Hoxey. After reviewing the case, the President says: "I discover no reason of any substance why this pension should be increased, and if it should be done it would only be a manifestation of unjust favoritism."

House bill No. 2,115, granting a pension to Charles Glamann, who alleges in his application for pension that he was struck accidentally with a half brick by a comrade and injured in his left arm. Of this case the President says: "There is no doubt that whatever disability he thus incurred was the result of a personal altercation between himself and the man who threw the brick," and he adds: "I believe that if the veterans of the war knew all that was going on in the way of granting pensions by private bills, they would be more disgusted than any class of our citizens."

House bill No. 8,281 granting a pension to Lieut. James G. W. Hardy, who received an injury while traveling on a railroad train on business connected with the military service. In concluding his review of the case the President says: "I am unable to discover why a pension should be granted in this case, unless the Government is to be held as an insurer of the safety of every person in the military service in all circumstances, and at all times and places."

House bill No. 3,016, granting a pension to Mary F. Harkins, whose husband was discharged from military service in 1865, and was pensioned for a gunshot wound in the foot. The President says that he concurs in the decision of the Pension Bureau that the death cause was not the result of wound.

House bill No. 8,184, granting a pension to Ellen Sexton. This bill was vetoed upon the ground that the death of the husband of the beneficiary named in the bill was in no way connected with his military service.

The House finished the consideration of the Sunday Civil bill and passed it, with an increased appropriation of $23,000, secured by Mr. Tracey for the Watervliet Arsenal, New York. A lively debate occurred over that portion of the bill limiting the number of officers to be employed by the United States Courts to three men instead of five. Mr. "Tim" Campbell proposed as an amendment that New York should be excepted from the provision of the bill in this regard, and after a hard fight he won his point, and none of his constituents holding office as bailiffs or deputies in the New York courts need fear that they will be disturbed.

The House Committee on War Claims has reported favorably the bill introduced by Representative O'Neil, of Missouri, to extend the time for filing claims to additional bounty under the act of July 1, 1866 (which expired by limitation July 1, 1887,) until July 1, 1890. The bill also declares the claims filed since the expiration of the act to have been filed in time and requires them to be considered.

Held His Debtor's Child as Security.

BOSTON, June 23.—A singular condition of affairs regarding the custody of a child was brought to light in the Supreme Judicial Court yesterday by the hearing of Judge Allen for a petition for a writ of habeas corpus. The petitioner was Daniel Lucy, a resident of Lynn, who sought to regain possession of his daughter, Nellie Lucy, aged three and a half years. The little girl has been in the custody of Michael Welch, who resides at 73 Harvard street, since the death of her mother in December last. Welch was in court yesterday with the child, to show why the writ should not be granted. He had no counsel, and amazed the court by the statement that, although no relative of the child, he proposed to keep it in charge until her father liquidated an alleged debt to him of $60, due for the maintenance of the little girl since the death of her mother. Judge Allen lost no time in granting the writ. This is probably the first time since slavery was abolished in Massachusetts that a human being has been held as collateral security in this Commonwealth.

Fourteen Lives Lost.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 23.—The steamship Berth, from Kuriuk, Alaska, brought three of the sailors of the codfishing schooner, Isabel, which encountered a gale May 1 and two days later had to be abandoned. The men took to the boats, but in the storm got separated. The light skiffs containing the nineteen men on board the Isabel at first divided themselves into two parties of four skiffs, the skiffs of each party being lashed together. After being out three days two of the men went mad from the hardship endured. They had to be put into separate boats and soon were drowned. Another boat capsized, and Capt. Nickerson, in trying to save the lives of the men, was drowned, as were also the men he was trying to save. It is believed the men in two of the boats which had separated from the other boats have perished, making fourteen lives lost.

Services to-morrow and for the present will be held in the First Presbyterian church chapel, while the new church edifice is being erected.

The Rev. G. N. Karner, pastor of the Westminster Presbyterian church, Manchester, N. H., will occupy the pulpit of the Congregational church, to-morrow morning at 10:30.

The Rev. Wm. D. Bridge, private secretary to Bishop Vincent, will speak at the Warren Mission meeting, to-morrow evening. This will probably be this gentleman's last address in this city.

Services to-morrow in the Trinity Reformed church at 10:30 A. M. and 7:45 P. M. The pastor, Rev. Cornelius Schenck, will preach at both services. The subject in the evening will be "Turning Points."

Services in the Park Avenue Baptist church to morrow: Preaching by the pastor, Rev. Asa Reed Dilts, at 10:30 A. M., and 7:45 P. M. Morning text, "It is Finished!" Baptism after the evening sermon.

Rev. Cesar A. A. Taylor of Princeton, N. J., a delegate to the recent New England Baptist Missionary Convention held in this city last week, will address the Reform Hall meeting to-morrow evening. Rev. Mr. Taylor will present some interesting statistics concerning the temperance question.

THE MONDAY AFTERNOON CLUB.

An Organization For Intellectual and Social Culture.

The society women of this city and its suburbs—representing the refined and cultured circles of our upper classes, and our aristocratic families of intellect and accomplishment—have organized a "Monday Afternoon Club." The membership is limited to seventy-five, and already fifty-eight have joined in the organization. These are its officers and members:

OFFICERS:

President—Miss Eliza Elvira Kenyon.
Vice Presidents—Mrs. Dexter Tiffany, Mrs. Henry B. Opdyke, Mrs. Chas. D. Wadsworth.
Corresponding Secretary—Miss Kate Erskine.
Recording Secretary—Miss Emily B. Tracy.
Treasurer—Mrs. Chas. E. Brooks.

MEMBERS:

Miss Julia H. C. Acly,	Mrs. Charles Hyde,
Mrs. Charles J. Ames,	Mrs. DeWitt C. Ivins,

Miss Sadie Hunter.	Mrs. James W. Whiton.

The object of the Club is intellectual and social culture, and to attain such intent and purpose five standing committees are appointed—on Literature, Science, Art, Miscellaneous Topics, and Entertainment.

Meetings are held on the first and third Mondays of each month, and its exercises are arranged and directed by the Executive Committee. Members may bring to meetings as guests, non-residents only. Honorary members may be elected at the discretion of the Club.

Three willful absences in two months, deprive a person of membership. A member absent for more than a year, also forfeits her membership; but wishing to return, has the first regular vacancy.

Death of Ex-Councilman Wm. Taylor.

After long and patient suffering, ex-Councilman William Taylor succumbed to an incurable disease, his death occurring at his home on East Fifth street, a few minutes before nine o'clock of last evening, surrounded by a devoted wife and kind and loving children. Mr. Taylor's illness dates back from February last, when he was stricken down with nervous prostration while on a business trip through the West. The physician who was called, came on in attendance as far as Philadelphia, where Mr. Taylor was taken to the residence of his mother. Despite the efforts of skilled physicians he continued to grow weaker for a long time, and finally a change for the better was noticed in his condition. He continued to improve and a few weeks ago he was transferred to his home in this city. Since then he has been on the decline, and for the past two or three days has remained in a stupor.

On Thursday of last week, Drs. Bushmore of this city, Morgan of Philadelphia, and Bayard of New York city, held a consultation. The doctors were only able to infer as to the nature of the disease, and their decision was that the case was a grave one, and recovery improbable. The direct cause of death was a tumor or abscess on the brain.

The deceased was 46 years of age, and a member of the Society of Friends. He came to this city and permanently located in 1876, and during his residence here he formed the acquaintance of a large circle of friends, who had learned to love him in life, and will now mourn his demise. He was at the time of his death a member of the well-known firm of Martin, Lawrie & Co., dry goods commission merchants of New York City, and possessed rare business qualities. He was a man of sterling worth, and enjoyed an enviable reputation for his integrity, uprightness and fair dealing. His character was unimpeachable.

Mr. Taylor was elected Councilman from the Second ward on the Republican-Temperance ticket in 1886, defeating his opponant by 61 votes. He continued to serve until forced to resign on account of failing health. As a temperance advocate he was uncompromising, always living up to his convictions. A widow and two daughters survive him.

The funeral will take place on Tuesday afternoon at half-past two o'clock.

Base Ball.

On the two coming Saturdays, June 30 and July 7, the "Crescents" will play out of town, and the Y. M. C. A., grounds may be rented on those days by other clubs.

The nine that will play today against the Somerville team, is as good as can be, and a fine game is expected. The players are, G. Cadmus, catcher; Lee, 3d base; Murray, left field; McMurray, 1st base; McCutchen, 2d base; Demarest, centre field; Dilts, short stop; W. Cadmus, pitcher; Cornwell, right field.

—The Children's Fair in aid of the Fresh Air Fund will be continued this evening at the residence of Mrs. Ferdinand Fish, corner of Sixth street and Madison avenue. Admission free. Small remittances accepted.

Wants $500 Damages.

Mr. Cornelius Shaddle of Hillside avenue, has instituted proceedings against Mr. Henry Liefke, the baker, to recover $500 damages, an amount claimed on account of a recent accident to Mr. Shaddle's wife.

It will be remembered that Mrs. Shaddle and a gentleman friend were seated in a carriage driving into town recently, and on Park avenue the horse was stopped while a train was crossing the bridge. Mr. Liefke's baker-wagon came up behind and collided with Mrs. Shaddle's vehicle, throwing that lady and her friend out. Neither of them, however, received serious injury. It is on account of the alleged recklessness of the driver that Mr. Shaddle brings suit.

The complainant has engaged Mr. R. V. Lindabury of Elizabeth, as his counsel. Mr. Liefke signifies his willingness to amicably adjust the matter, and some settlement may be made in order to keep the case out of the Courts.

Look Out When the Horn Blows.

The Thasbowd Club will make a coaching trip from Newark to this city, this afternoon. The party will be dined at The Netherwood at 6:30 o'clock, and will remain over night. The route of the coach upon its arrival at Plainfield will be through East Front street to Park avenue, to Seventh street, and then direct to the Hotel.

Among the gentlemen included in the party, will be Messrs. W. A. Brintzinghoffer, Jr., Zeph Dennis, Robert Drake, Jr., Charles T. Hawk, A. W. Swain, E. Allcock, H. E. Smith, Edward H. Lieb, W. F. Bailey, W. G. Brown, F. Tompkins and H. W. Knight. A special menu will be served in a private dining room. We trust the Hotel authorities will keep the Newark swells under restraint as far as possible from the susceptible and innocent damsels of this locality.

Ancient Masonic Mysteries.

A. L. Rawson, LL. D., 32°, a member of Metropolitan Lodge of New York city, will lecture to the Masonic Fraternity of Plainfield, on Monday evening, June 25, 1888, at 8 o'clock, in Anchor Lodge rooms. Subject: "Initiation among the Druzes of Mount Lebanon and Syria; Ancient Masonic Mysteries, etc."

Mr. Rawson has visited the Holy Lands on four different occasions, having been engaged in furnishing the illustrations of Beecher's "Life of Christ," and many other books of Bible History. He will be found a very interesting and instructive lecturer, furnishing his audience with facts of Oriental modes of induction into their sacred mysteries.

All Master Masons are fraternally invited to be present.

Prohibition League.

At the rooms of the Crescent Glee Club, last evening, the first Prohibition League of the campaign was organized. The infant league is bright and healthly and bids fair to increase both in wisdom and statue. It will be known as the Young Men's Prohibition League. Officers elected were as follows:

President—Chester McGear.
First Vice President—William L. Sperry.
Second Vice President—George Angleman.
Recording Secretary—John Clark.
Financial Secretary—John Lewis.
Treasurer—Charles Belnap.

A Farmer Injured.

Lewis Burghmiller, a farmer residing at Berkley Heights, met with a painful accident on Thursday. He was at work loading hay on the meadow near his home, when the horses gave a sudden start, throwing him from the load. By the fall Mr. Burghmiller dislocated his right arm at the wrist, and severely sprained the left wrist.

POISON IN OUR DRINK.

Not Alcohol—which one may avoid—but BRASS AND LEAD which one takes unsuspectingly. "How—When—Where?" Well, say, in a glass of Soda. Pity the most popular and wholesome of all artificial drinks—which Soda honestly is—should ever deserve a touch of suspicion, but

THE FROZEN TRUTH

is that in some Soda Fountains economy and mechanical facility are studied to the neglect of the weightier matter of purity. Some men are too "smart;" some Soda Fountains are too "ingenious."

We have recently had made a Fountain which secures Absolute Purity for the beverages. Rather pretty, too, we think. We selected the "Matthews' make" because it is the only fount in which the syrups have positively no metallic contact, being discharged direct from glass jars into the tumblers—no tubes; while the waters are contained in and flow through solid block tin,

PURE AS CRYSTAL, COLD AS CHARITY.

We make our own syrups—from REAL FRUIT JUICES, or from chocolate or coffee, etc., as the case may be; no nonsense of essences or make believe.

New drinks? Yes, some of our own contriving. "Winks?" Not a wink; not licensed for winks, and we have an opinion of druggists who take a wink.

Come and try the new Fountain; if you like your drink we'll thank you for saying so, and you'll pay us five cents and come again—it will do you good; only don't come Sundays; no use—Fountain WON'T WORK.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. Massett and Mrs. Medina have leased the White residence, No. 17 Crescent avenue.

Mr. Alexander Vermeule, an aged lady died at her home on Park avenue, yesterday. Deceased had been ailing for a long time.

Mr. R. R. Fairchild, with his wife and child, left yesterday for Ocean Grove where he has rented a cottage for the season.

Mr. F. T. Lerned of Madison avenue, has leased for the season a popular hotel at Point Pleasant, which he will manage as an attractive Summer resort.

Mr. Aaron B. Karner, of Duer street, North Plainfield, is the father of the Rev. G. N. Karner who will preach in the Congregational church, to-morrow morning, as announced elsewhere.

Many of the public school teachers left the city yesterday to spend their vacation days at their homes. Miss Pettis left yesterday for Lansingburg, N. Y., and Miss Vedder has gone to Harlem. Others left town today.

Mr. George Cadmus, the expert catcher of the "Crescents," has completed his final examinations successfully, and will enter Cornell University in the Fall. He will spend the Summer in Plainfield, and catch for his club during the balance of the season.

Rev. Wm. Wolf, a former pastor of the German Reformed church in this city, but of late living a retired life at Washington, died at that place, recently. The reverend gentleman visited Plainfield last Summer, and spoke in Reform Hall. He was chaplain in the army during the late war.

The funeral of the late Miss Nellie Carey, who died of consumption on Wednesday, took place at St. Joseph's church in North Plainfield at 10 o'clock today, Rev. Father T. J. O'Hanlon officiating. The pall bearers were Messrs. Wm. Martin, Wm. Hardy, Geo. Tobin and S. C. Miller. Among the floral tokens was a beautiful cross from the Crescent Glee Club.

In speaking of the handsome new dwelling now in process of construction at Somerville by Mr. Daniel Robert, which is to cost not less than $40,000 when completed, the Somerville Messenger says: "The builders, Mr. I. W. Pangborn of Plainfield, for the mason work, and Mr. John Chandler of the same place, for the carpenter work, say they will carry out every detail in the spirit of the artists' designs, and Messrs. Stewart W. Milligan and M. T. Connelly, the superintendents of construction, propose to see that they keep their word to the letter."

To Remain Another Week, By Request.

Although desirous of gratifying all who were so anxious to avail themselves of his skillful treatment, yet Dr. Kimbell's engagements have been so many during this, his last week, that he was compelled to refuse reluctantly a number of patients.

Many of them, including some of our most influential people, have since called on the Doctor and requested him to remain another week; and although in receipt of urgent professional calls to Orange, Morristown and other cities, yet Doctor Kimbell's affability and courteous consideration would not permit him to refuse so flattering and earnest an appeal.

The gentleman has therefore consented to remain a few days longer, but next week will positively be his last at the City Hotel. We wish the scores of well-known citizens, whose comfort after years of suffering the Doctor has brought about, would permit us to publish the words of praise and thankfulness they express so sincerely.

The Thanks of the G. A. R.

At the Encampment of this Post held on the evening of June 14, it was unanimously resolved that a vote of thanks be extended to the Editors of THE DAILY PRESS for the space allotted us in their columns for the insertion of our notices and various other items in relation to our observance of Memorial Day.

Also to Messrs. A. M. Runyon & Son, and to H. N. Spencer, for allowing us the use of their places of business as a depository for flowers; also to the ladies of Garfield League, No. 22, Loyal Ladies' League, Auxiliary to the G. A. R., Dept. of New Jersey, and their Auxiliary of children, Houghton Division, No. 1, Children Loyal Legion, for their very able assistance in the services of Memorial Day. And to the children of the Public Schools and all others who so liberally supplied flowers for decorating the soldiers' graves.

Respectfully,
EDW. J. OLSSEN,
Adjutant.

Cut Off His Digit.

George Kirk, an employe of David Jones had the thumb on his left hand cut off, yesterday. He was at work mowing grass at the time, when his hand accidentally came in contact with his scythe, entirely severing the thumb. Dr. Penfield dressed the wound.

Mr. Swan Laid up in a New York Hospital—A Sudden Flood of Culcah—Miss Tuzo Run Away With—Unclaimed Letters Advertise Themselves—Mr. Simpson Astonishes the Natives.

Mr. L. M. Swan met with an annoying, but fortunately not very serious accident, last Monday. While alighting from a street car in New York, he missed his footing and fell on the pavement below. He was at once taken to the house of a medical friend, but as luck would have it, the doctor was not at home. Mr. Swan found that the hurt he had received was not a trifling one, and he therefore sent for a carriage and was taken to one of the hospitals. Here he found everything suited, and not fully able to travel, decided to remain where he was. He will continue at the hospital until he is able to accompany his family to their Summer residence at Sag Harbor. The only injury received was a sprain of the thigh—nothing alarming, but sufficient to put a check upon walking around for some time to come.

Mr. Fred T. Stuart, of Newton Centre, and his daughter, Miss Dora Stuart, are visiting with Mrs. Deforest Thomae. Newton Centre lies within a few miles of the Hub, and everything and every body from Newton partakes to some extent of the elevated qualities of that region. But three of them are in Scotch Plains at once! We tremble for Our Quiet Town if another Triple Alliance is to be formed, and what will become of the easy-going villagers if they are suddenly to be plunged in the midst of such a feast of reason and flow of soul. A mingling of the Bostonese patois with the original Jersey tongue, will be a delightful study for some of our few antiquarians.

The crowd of gentlemen of leisure who congregate on the streets, every night, were engaged last Thursday in watching a drunken bawl in Ilsley's bar-room. They were used to this sort of thing, and were looking on and talking in a listless sort of way, when they were astonished by a horse and tea-cart running through the village at a pell-mell rate, the driver having lost control of his animal. No effort was made to stop the runaway, and indeed it would have been useless to try it. It was rumored that the cart was occupied by Miss Tuzo and her brother, Mr. Paul B. Tuzo. Considerable alarm was felt, and had it not been for the fact that there was no chance of over-taking them, a party would have set out in pursuit. The runaway came to a stop, however, when it reached the hill, and it was found that no bones were broken. At that time the cause of the runaway was not known.

Mr. Ritchie has adopted a unique device for informing the public as to unclaimed letters. Besides the regular placard, (which the person wanted will probably never read), he has posted the letters up themselves. When the villagers come for their mail, every mother's-son of them will be sure to read the addresses on these envelopes, and if the right person puts in an appearance, or some one that knows him, the chances are good that he will get hold of his letter.

Mr. J. A. F. Simpson has astonished the natives of Fanwood by placing awnings upon his house. The march of civilization has hardly reached in Fanwood beyond gas machines and electric bells; and so the appearance of awnings upon a residence, created quite a sensation. But they make about as much difference in the comfort of a house as any one improvement can, and so Mr. Simpson's example will probably be widely followed.

Fell From the Cars.

When crossing between some freight cars standing on the tracks at the station, this morning, Clarence Sutphen, a young son of the late Dr. Sutphen, fell and cut a deep gash in the back of his head. Had the cars been moving, the boy would possibly have been killed.

A Monument to the Father of Masonry.

BOSTON, June 23.—A monument to the memory of Henry Price, the father of Masonry in America, was dedicated yesterday at Townsend, Mass. Although he died over a century ago this is the only tribute of its kind ever paid him. Price's remains were buried at Townsend. The monument stands in the new burying ground in which the remains were recently placed. On the east face of the monument is this inscription: "Born in London about 1697. Removed to Boston about 1723. Appointed Provincial Grand Master of New England in 1733, and in the same year a cornet in the Governor's Guards with the rank of major. Removed to Townsend about 1763, and died there May 20, 1789. His life was consistent with his duty as a Mason and a man." On another face is inscribed: "Henry Price, Founder of Duly Constituted Masons in America." The monument was dedicated with appropriate ceremonies.

Mr. Powderly on the Labor Market.

PHILADELPHIA, June 23.—In the Journal of United Labor to-day T. V. Powderly says: "Every mail brings to this office appeals to workingmen and women to stay away from this place or that, because of the overcrowded condition of the labor market, while, at the same time, wages are reported very low and the hours of labor very long. This state of things is particularly noticeable in those western and southern towns which have been experiencing a "boom" within the last few months. The hours of labor, if reduced, would help others to secure employment, and, unless a step is taken in this direction soon, the cry must continue to go up from every city and town of the land, "stay away from here—there are already ten applicants for every vacant position."

This Decision Interests Railroads.

BOSTON, June 23.—The Supreme Court has decided in the case of Bates vs. The Old Colony Railroad Company that the defendant was not liable for injuries to the plaintiff occasioned by negligence of the defendant's servants to which the riding of plaintiff in a baggage car under permission of defendant contributed. Bates, who was an express messenger, traveling on a pass, was injured in a collision and sued the company for damages. A jury awarded him $10,000, when the company took an appeal with the foregoing result.

The R[illegible] Widdemer Suspended.

PHILADELPHIA, June 23.—Bishop Whitaker has given his decision in the case of the Rev. Howard T. Widdemer, charged with violating the church canon of marriage and divorce. He pronounces him guilty, and imposes the sentence that he be suspended from the ministry so long as his relations continue with the present Mrs. Widdemer (with whom he now lives), and until he has restored himself to the confidence of his Bishop by manifest repentence and amendment of life; provided, however, that such suspension shall not exceed the term of five years.

Fight Between Brickmakers.

CHICAGO, June 23.—There was an exciting encounter between a party of union and non-union brickmakers near Southport, last night. Stones, clubs and knives were freely used. Two Bohemian women, the wives of union men, were among the most desperate of the fighters. The patrol was summoned, and the police after a struggle succeeded in dispersing the crowd and arresting several of the combatants, several of whom were severely and one fatally injured.

Blaine to Visit the Thousand Islands.

KINGSTON, Ont., June 23.—A rumor is afloat that when Blaine completes his present tour through England and Scotland with Carnegie he will return to spend a few weeks among the Thousand Islands as the guest of Sir George Pullman, whose one hundred thousand dollar granite palace in Pullman Island, near here, is nearing completion. People who are crowding to the summer resorts seem much interested in the rumor.

Stanley Believed to Be at Kartoum.

LONDON, June 23.—A dispatch was received yesterday afternoon from Suakim reporting that advices have been received from Kartoum reporting the arrival there of a white Pasha, having a numerous train of followers, chiefly from the Bohrel and Shazel districts. This is believed to be Stanley by the people at Suakim.

Wamsutta Spinners Go to Work.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., June 23.—The striking ring spinners at Wamsutta mill No. 6 returned to work yesterday, it is understood on an advance of former wages.

The Western Cyclone.

LYONS, [illegible] June 23.—A small cyclone passed east of this city Wednesday night. It struck the grounds of the shooting society, scattering the large frame shooting gallery over the surrounding fields and doing $1,200 damages to the grounds. Large trees were twisted off, shingles were dropped from newly completed roofs and other damage was done.

LITCHFIELD, Ill., June 23.—A hurricane passed through the city yesterday afternoon, upsetting and unroofing houses and causing a loss of about $3,000.

The Grant Homestead Sold.

ST. LOUIS, June 23.—The Grant homestead, located four miles from the city limits on the Gravois road, was sold yesterday by Chauncey M. Depew to satisfy a mortgage held by W. H. Vanderbilt. The farm consisted of 750 acres, and was mortgaged to Vanderbilt at the time of the Grant & Ward failure. It was bought by L. H. Conn, of this city, for $70,000. He proposes to make a fine stock farm of it. The farm originally blonged to the Dent family.

Died Protesting His Innocence.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 23.—Wm Patterson, colored, was hanged in the jail yard early yesterday morning for the murder of Jennie Bowman, a servant girl, June 21 of last year. Patterson asserted his innocence in a speech on the gallows, in which he said he never saw his so-called victim either before or after her death, and would not know her from Queen Victoria. "I swear I am as innocent of her death," he said, "as I am that of Marie Antoinette."

Blaine Kept Posted About the Convention

LONDON, June 23.—Cable dispatches are being rapidly exchanged between Chicago and the Blaine party in Scotland. The latter are kept promptly and minutely informed of every movement of the convention. Great interest is being manifested in the proceedings. Long abstracts of the Republican platform are published in the morning papers.

Weather Indications.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—For New England, New York, Eastern Pennsylvania, Delaware and New Jersey, light to fresh westerly winds, cooler, fair weather.

That is the Question.

To breathe, or not to breathe, that is the question;
Whether 'tis nobler for our sex to suffer
The pain and torture of a steel-girt corset
Or to take arms against Dame Fashion's tyrannies,
And, by opposing, end them,
To unlace, to breathe
Once more, and, with full breath, to say we end
The sideache, and those unnatural pains we make flesh heir to;
'Tis a consummation devoutly to be wished.
To unlace, to make
Our waist perchance too large; aye, there's the rub:
For in that life of peace contempt may come,
When we have shuffled off this suffrance vile
And are at ease. There's no respect,
But contumely, for a waist too large,
For who, fearing the sneers and scoffs of men, would bear
The corset tight, the dress' burdening weight,
The pangs of pinched toes, the high-heeled shoes,
The tilting panier, and all those complaints
That patient Nature of the unworthy makes
When we ourselves might restful quiet take
With a loose bodice? Who would a bustle wear,
To grunt and sweat under its weary weight,
But that Madame Grundy's voice, that dreaded oracle
From whose decree no woman wavers, orders it so,
And makes us rather bear those ills we have
Than fly to others that we know not of?
Shall Fashion thus make cowards of us all?
Shall thus the natural form, a God given boon,
Be changed, transformed, till none would recognize it?
Shall grand reforms of such great pith and moment
With slight regard their currents turn awry,
And lose the name of action?

—Minnie Barker Horning, in Dress.

Hunting with Falcons in the Desert.

In our second day's journey we met our two falconers, who had been sent on in advance to find and mark the game. Now for a hunt wiih the falcons! Ah, royal sport of kings, nothing can compare with it! In front, scanning every bush-side, the falconers, each with one bird on his gauntleted left hand, and another perched on his turban. Both hawks are hooded and jessed exactly as in the old knightly days. We make up a party of eight or ten cavaliers, while the rear is brought up by two or three servants armed with guns for defense as well as offense against the eagles, who sometimes pounce on the falcons. Suddenly rises the cry "Wah!" from one of the falconers, as a hare darts from its form. Up soars one falcon unhooded, while the other is drawn from its uncertain perch on the head of the Arab to join the others. We rein in our impatient horses that bound and snort to join the chase, for it is imperative to keep behind the faconers, so as not to interfere with the birds that are now dashing at the head of the hare, which doubles, and marvellously, considering its headlong flight, evades the beaks of its enemies. The chase is now at its height; every one is trying to be in the first flight; the sunlight plays on the rich dresses, the bright arms, the glossy coats of the superb horses, whose elasticity of movement and aristocratic gait imprint on my mind a scene unrivalled. Onward hurries the hare as she bravely runs for her life, in and out of the high hillocks of sand tufted with brush, which our horses take, one after the other, without a stumble. Urged on by the cries of the falconer, a hawk fiercely swoops down again. Ah, she is touched by the remorseless beak, and rolls over and over, showing her white furred belly! 'Tis nothing, she regains her footing, and darts onward once more. I gladly give rein to my Arab, the momentary check having brought him on his haunches, as with arched neck and starting veins he crunches the bit with rage. I find the heat now terrific; the hare is still travelling with seemingly undiminished speed. The two falcons now swoop from opposite directions; they meet almost above the head of the hare; one falls with broken neck, amid frenzied cries from the falconer. In a moment a fresh bird is unhooded and cast off, and at the first dash at the now exhausted hare rolls her over dead. I dismounted with the rest, men and beasts sweltering and foaming; the falconers rehooded their hawks, which had settled on the carcass, and made preparations to feed them with the entrails mixed with tuffts of hair, which was said to assist digestion. Our attendants now produced some kid and dried dates, which, washed down with water and a touch of absinthe, formed our meal. Getting into as much shadow as the hillocks afforded, and thus gaining some relief from the piercing rays of the sun, we lit our pipes and cigarettes, while a pleasant languor overtook us, followed by a profuse perspiration. An Arab began to play on a flute an air of a barbaric yet melodious character, the notes being often sustained for a long time, and producing a most delicious soothing effect. After our siesta we commenced our afternoon march, with very little change in the character of the desert, but late in the day we entered into a superb oasis, verdant and refreshing.—F. P. Sanguinetti, in Harper's Magazine.

Trapping a Rattler.

Israel Bilkins, a well-known farmer residing near Youngstown, O., tells a wonderful snake story, and, as Mr. Bilkins is a deacon in his church, the story goes.

Mrs. Bilkins has been missing chickens this spring and has noticed that as fast as the chicks would leave the shell they would mysteriously disappear. She surmised that either rats or crows were getting away with them, and decided to investigate the method in which her hennery was devastated.

Mr. Bilkins made an old-fashioned box trap and baited it with a young chick, which was tied to a stake driven into the ground at the rear of the trap. They then retired to the house to await developments.

In the course of an hour they heard the trap drop, and out they went to secure the thief. Imagine their surprise on capturing and killing a three-foot rattlesnake, which was in the act of "mumming" the chicken. Mr. Bilkins cut the reptile open and found in its stomach a chicken and two toads. In its tail where ten rattles each as large as an agate marble.

An odd relic possessed by a Southern woman is a pair of scissors that her father used in cutting a suit of clothes for President Washington, as he was entering upon his first presidential term.

There were 26,945 students at the twenty German universities during the last session. Of these, 1,644 were foreigners.

Extraordinary Letter From Greeley to Lincoln.

The following extraordinary letter was written by Horace Greeley to President Lincoln after the battle of Bull Run, and is printed for the first time in the Lincoln Life in the Century. It will be remembered that before the battle Mr. Greeley had kept a standing headline in his paper—urging the armies "Forward to Richmond—Forward to Richmond":

"New York, Monday, July 29, 1861.
"Midnight.

"Dear Sir:—This is my seventh sleepless night—yours, too, doubtless—yet I think I shall not die, because I have no right to die. I must struggle to live, however bitterly. But to business. You are not considered a great man, and I am a hopelessly broken one. You are now undergoing a terible ordeal, and God has thrown the gravest responsibilities upon you. Do not fear to meet them. Can the rebels be beaten after all that has occurred, and in view of the actual state of feeling caused by our late awful disaster? If they can—and it is your business to ascertain and decide—write me that such is your judgment, so that I may know and do my duty. And if they cannot be beaten—if our recent disaster is fatal—do not fear to sacrifice yourself to your country. If the rebels are not to be beaten—if that is your judgment in view of all the light you can get—then every drop of blood henceforth shed in this quarrel will be wantonly, wickedly shed, and the guilt will rest heavily on the soul of every promoter of the crime. I pray you to decide quickly and let me know my duty.

"If the Union is irrevocably gone, an armistice for 30, 60, 90, 120 days—better still for a year—ought at once to be proposed, with a view to a peaceful adjustment. Then congress should call a national convention, to meet at the earliest possible day. And there should be an immediate and mutual exchange or release of prisoners and a disbandment of forces. I do not consider myself at present a judge of anything but the public sentiment. That seems to me everywhere gathering and deepening against a prosecution of the war. The gloom in this city is funereal—for our dead at Bull Run were many, and they lie unburied yet. On every brow sits sullen, scorching, black despair. It would be easy to have Mr. Crittenden move any proposition that ought to be adopted, or to have it come from any proper quarter. The first point is to ascertain what is best that can be done—which is the measure of our duty, and do that very thing at the earliest moment.

"This letter is written in the strictest confidence, and is for your eye alone. But you are at liberty to say to members of your Cabinet that you know I will second any move you may see fit to make. But do nothing timidly or by halves. Send me word what to do. I will live till I can hear it at all events. If it is best for the country and for mankind that we make peace with the rebels at once and on their own terms, do not shrink even from that. But bear in mind the greatest truth. 'Whoso would lose his life for my sake shall save it.' Do the thing that is the highest right, and tell me how I am to second you.

"Yours, in the depths of bitterness,
"HORACE GREELEY."

She Put Him to a Test.

An amusing story comes from one of the clubs here, a club which adorns the sacred slopes of Beacon Hill, says a Boston letter to the Providence Journal. Mr. A., a scion of an old house, has noble pretensions but limited finances, and had his eyes fixed longingly upon the coffers of a maiden aunt who has a good deal of money and far more brains than some of the younger members of his family. The young man had gambled heavily, and at last got himself into a state of financial chaos, where he had nothing left but absolute repudiation of his "debts of honor" or suicide, unless his aunt would play the role of fairy godmother, as she had done before. In desperation he applied to her, of course without specifying the nature of the transactions which had left him so heavily involved. The old lady was too shrewd, however, not to know.

"Been gambling, eh?" she said. "Well, I've paid your gambling debts before, and I can again I snppose; but this time I'll make a condition."

With some trepidation the nephew inquired what the condition was.

"You need a wife to keep you straight," his aunt answered, with a wicked gleam in her eye. "Now, you have had every opportunity to choose a good wife, and you haven't done it. Now, none of the girls in our set would take you for a gift, even with my money thrown in. So I've selected one for you. She's good and pious, and healthy—sure to outlive you—and not bad-looking. She's old enough to take care of you and herself, too, and if you'll marry her I'll do something handsome for you."

"Who is she?" the young man demanded.

"She's my nurse just at present, but I can get another if you can't spare her."

"Oh, I can spare her perfectly well, aunt; and I could never think of taking her away from you."

The end of all the talk was that the young man did actually agree to marry a woman who was said to be 40 and his aunt's hired nurse, if his debts could be paid and he guaranteed an income of $6,000 annually.

And what he got by it was that his aunt invited a cousin, his rival in the race for the old lady's fortune, to dinner and told him the story, adding that she had simply made the proposal as a test, and that she should refuse to receive at her house a man who would marry a servant for money. The affair is still unsettled so far as the gambling debts go, and it can hardly be held that it presents the aunt in an amiable light.

John Wanamaker, the Philadelphia merchant, did his first work in a clothing store for $1.50 a week. He gave his salary to his mother and by a little extra hustling earned enough to buy his two-cent dinner, consisting of a piece of pie and a glass of milk. Each year his salary was increased, and at the time he was twenty he had saved $200.

Revised Anecdotes.

HIPPOCRATES AND ARTAXERXES.

Hippocrates, the celebrated physician, having cured the monarch Artaxerxes of a Persian ague, the grateful King sent him an embassy with rich presents. These the physician declined contemptuously, and the ambassadors were fain to return to the Persian court, where they reported that the mighty healer had refused any payment whatever.

"Not he? They didn't derive hippocrasy from his name for nothing!" remarked the King, who, though illiterate, was possessed of much natural shrewdness. "He meant to make out that his mental anxiety and loss of practic entitled him to a large sum; but I will see to that."

And he appointed a commission to audit the bills, placing at its disposal for all contingencies one-half of the presents.

XERXES AND HIS ARMY.

The Persian conquerer Xerxes, seated upon the heights of Salamis, having passed under review his powerful army, was observed to burst into tears.

Mardonius, his faithful general, having inquired the cause of this emotion, the monarch replied: "Of that vast army not one man will be alive a hundred years hence: indeed, according to the Expectation of Mortality tables, the average soldier in my host can only look forward with confidence to a life of thirty-six and six-tenth years. I weep at the reflection that that is more than I can do."

GALILEO AND THE INQUISITION.

The astronomer Galileo, having taught the heresy that the earth moved round the sun, and thereby incurred the execration of the people (who saw themselves menaced by a demand to purchase new geographies for their children, and so falsely accused the philosopher of standing in with the school-book ring), was cited before the Holy Office, and given five minutes to make a comple recantation of his error.

This demand he promptly complied with, but as he rose from his knees the great scientist was heard to mutter soemthing.

"Did I hear you remark, E, pur si muove, my son?" asked the Grand Inquisitor, toying carelessly with a thumbscrew as he spoke.

"Who? I?" replied the philosopher; "I never said any thing of the sort. What I did say was I wondered how I ever could have made such a stupid mistake."—Editor's Drawer, in Harper's Magazine.

Genuine Mosquitoes.

One of the pests of life in South America is the ubiquitous mosquito, which there attains such an enormous size and venom that his victims are numbered by the scores. Not long ago a herd of valuable cattle taken from the United States to a ranch upon the Magdalena River became so desperate under the attack of the mosquitoes that they broke from their stalls, jumped into the water and all were drowned. Passengers intending to make the voyage usually provide themselves with protection in the shape of mosquito bars, head nets and thick gloves, and when on deck are compelled to tie their sleeves around their wrists and pantloons around their ankles. Even these precautions are not always effective. Large as the insects are they seem to have the power to creep through the smallest crevice, and it is often necessary to change one's clothes four or five times a day on their account. Day and night they give the sensitive skinned travellers no rest. I have been solemnly assured that very often when they have attacked a boat and driven its captain and crew below they have broken the windows of the cabin by plunging in swarms against them and have attempted to burst in the doors. Although this may be something of an exaggeration it is nevertheless true that frequently horses and cattle, after the most frightful sufferings, have died from mosquito bites on board the vessels.—Philadelphia Times.

Can't Get Too Much.

There was a bridal couple coming in on the Bay City train the other day, and the passengers in that particular car were on the grin most of the time over their antics. The bride had got the man she loved, and she didn't care a copper who saw her pillow her head on his shoulder. The bridegroom had got a farm with his wife, and if he wanted to feed her gum-drops or squeeze her hand whose business was it? A little old man, dried up and bald-headed, sat directly in front of the couple, and he looked around so often that the young man finally explained:

"We're just married."

"I knowed it all the time," chuckled baldhead.

"And we can't help it, you know."

"No, you can't—I'll be darned if you kin!"

"I presume it all seems very silly to an old man like you," continued the husband.

"Does it? Does it?" chuckled the old fellow as he bobbed around. "Well, you bet your life she doesn't. I've been right thar three times over, and I am now on my way to Canada to marry a fourth! You orter see me a week hence. I'll hug and squeeze and fondle at the rate of forty miles an hour, and durn the skunk that laffs at me! Silly! Why, children, it's parrydise biled right down!"—Detroit Free-Press.

Bismarck's Cold Reply.

Prince Bismarck maintains that the acquirement of languages does not imply talent. He thinks the ear rather than the mind is cultivated by a linguist. A consul recently appointed to Berlin pestered his minister to present him to Bismarck. At length an interview was granted, and, throwing etiquette aside, the consul brought his son with him. Bismarck looked annoyed, but the consul boldly presented his heir with the remark: "A most remarkable young man, your highness; he speaks several languages." "What a fine waiter the young fellow would make," said Bismarck coldly, to the minister at his side.—New York World.

THE SITUATION IN DOUBT

Is the Subject of the Latest Reports From the Convention City.

BUT CHAOS STILL REIGNS.

CANDIDATES NOT DISCOURAGED AND WILL NOT LEAVE THE FIELD.

An Interview With Sherman, in Which He Says That He is Still Before the Convention—Many Reports Giving Vastly Different Views, Showing the Situation to be Decidedly Muddled—Delegates Spend Sunday in Holding Conferences in Which There Was No Unity.

CHICAGO, June 25.—The last news received from Chicago late last night points to an increased vote for Mr. Sherman on the first ballot to-day. The conference of the representatives of the leading candidates have amounted to but very little beyond an agreement to keep everybody in the field, but the confidence of Ohio in New York shows that their agreement to vote on the first ballot to-day for Harrison includes an agreement among some to vote afterward for Sherman. Pennsylvania promises to stand by him and give him 2 or 3 votes additional. Connecticut and New Jersey seem likely to vote for him also. Major McKinley is doing hard work for him, and Alger's supporters, which, the Ohio men claim, has had good effect.

It is not yet clear, however, that Sherman has enough votes to nominate him, but the best politicians think that with Harrison and Allison still in the field, and with Blaine's friends not yet disposed to vote for him, that he will come up as a stronger leader than ever.

Regular Press Report:

CHICAGO, June 25.—2. a. m.—The results of last evening's conferences are that the Blaine forces are determined to stand their ground, and the anti-Blaine men have combined to prevent his nomination. This means a deadlock, and leaves the situation unchanged. The colored delegates met last night and tried to agree on Sherman, but their deliberations ended in a row.

LOOKING OVER THE SITUATION.

How Things Stood at the Close of Yesterday—A Hard Question to Solve.

CHICAGO, June 25.—Looking back over the five days of the Convention it does not seem to have made much progress, and it now looks as if it will start just where it did last Tuesday. Mr. Sherman, by his own demand, is still in the field Mr. Allison's friends have no present intention of deserting him. Mr. Harrison is not satisfied that his setback on Saturday should mean his retirement from the race, and all of the actual candidates, small and great, promise to come into the ballot to-morrow just as if they had had no experience that the nomination was beyond their reach.

A tour of the headquarters detects nothing in the talk that shows a disposition on the part of any of them to withdraw.

At the Ohio delegation Major Butterworth said that they had a better chance for their candidate than ever before.

"I'll admit," said he, "that there was some talk of withdrawing Mr. Sherman, and some of us thought it was to be done on both Friday and Saturday nights, but we feel now that we have not exhausted his chances. We started him in as the leading candidate. We expect to have enough additional votes to keep him decidedly in the front, and we don't see now why there should be any reason for discouragement."

In the room below, Mr. Allison's headquarters, Senator Wilson, of Iowa, said the same thing.

"I will neither guess, nor calculate, nor give you my opinion about the chances of any other candidate but Mr. Allison," said he emphatically, "because I don't think about any other candidate. Mr. Allison is still in the race. He is going in with a few additional votes to-morrow and he is going to stay there until there is a nomination. I think his chances are good, and no man who has voted steadily for him even hints at his withdrawal."

Across the hallway were the Harrison rooms, and there Congressman Steele was talking about the situation. "Harrison hurt by the ballot of yesterday? No, sir. He didn't get the nomination, but he wasn't hurt, and he stands as well as he ever did. Of course we will keep him in the field. If we had intended to withdraw him because he was not nominated on the first few ballots we would never have mentioned his name. We meant to make a fight for his nomination, and we mean it now as much as ever we did."

It isn't necessary to add to these interviews to show the feeling among the other candidates, for any one of them might have come from any of the headquarters, and Mr. Steele's remarks, for instance, might have been charged to ex-Congressmen Horr without doing the Alger supporter any injustice. Everybody intends to stay in.

Unless some very sudden turn is made the situation to-morrow will be practically the same as it was Friday on the first ballot. The difficulty is that the Blaine managers have made a miscalculation. They assumed that a proof that a man could not make the nomination would take him out of the field, but the events showed that it had no effect upon him.

People who think they see the drift of affairs say that the fight must be between Sherman and Harrison, and that Blaine for President will be out of reckoning. That, however, depends on whether Mr Blaine's friends accept the situation as settling Blaine's candidacy. Plenty of politicians can be found to-day that say he is out of the race for the present, but as yet there has been no assurance that they have given him up.

If he stands behind the convention as he did last week no other course than a repetition of the old one seems probable. The other candidates can't get enough votes to nominate them, and a substantial increase in their forces is improbable. It seems like Blaine or the other candidates with chances of delay, because Blaine's friends neither wish to nominate him by a small majority nor withdraw him altogether.

SHERMAN DENIES IT.

He Has Not Authorized Any One to Withdraw His Name.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Senator Sherman denies the published rumor that he has authorized the withdrawal of his name or advised his supporters to vote for any other candidate. He was sitting by the door of his N street residence yesterday catching a breath of fresh air after the broiling hot day when a reporter called his attention to a published statement that he had withdrawn and instructed his friends to vote for McKinley.

"Ah," he said, with a smile as he read the despatch carefully from beginning to end, "that's very clever; very clever indeed. But it lacks the essential element of truth. I am much obliged to you for giving me the opportunity to deny the statement, though it is pretty difficult to make a denial of all the false statements that get afloat just now. In regard to this one, however, I am quite willing to say that it was absolutely untrue. My name is still, I suppose, before the Convention as a candidate and nothing that I have done has authorized it to be withdrawn."

GEN. SHERIDAN'S HEALTH.

The Very Warm Weather Weakening Him and Change of Location Advised.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Gen. Sheridan, until a few days ago was, to all appearances, slowly on the mend, and the bulletins were full of encouragement. The extremely sultry weather is telling on the General and is weakening him to such a degree that the doctors advise a removal of the patient to some more favorable location. The following bulletin was issued last night after a consultation of the regular physicians with Drs. Pepper and Lancaster.

Gen. Sheridan's condition has continued to improve. The intense heat is, however, beginning to tell upon his strength and it is evidently becoming necessary to consider the question of his removal at an early date to a more favorable locality.

The C. B. & Q. Strike Still On.

NEW YORK, June 25.—Two thousand locomotive engineers and firemen, representing seventy divisions of the Engineers' Brotherhood and fifty-five lodges of firemen, held a meeting yesterday in the Grand Opera House, Twenty-third street and Eighth avenue. Grand Chief T. M. Arthur presided and made a speech. He denied the report that the strike on the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railway was ended and said that the 2,700 men who are still out would stick to the end. He showed how seriously the company was suffering from the boycott on the line, and stated that the earnings of the road had greatly fallen off. Grand Chief Sargent of the firemen also made a speech, picturing the heroism of the men on strike.

A Church Struck By Lightning.

WILKESBARRE, June 25.—At 9 o'clock last evening another terrific thunderstorm visited this city, being the third in four days. A furious gale of wind heralded the storm, tearing away signs and porches and blowing down trees and fences. The rainfall was tremendous. A thunderbolt struck the Puritan Congregational church while service was being held, and many of the audience were prostrated by the shock. Over a dozen women fainted from fright. A panic ensued, but was allayed by the pastor calling out: "Fear not; you are in God's house." The sacramental wine was used as a restorative. The church tower was badly damaged.

Numerous Accidents at Rochester.

ROCHESTER, June 25.—More accidents occurred in this city yesterday than on any one day in several years, except on July 4. The excursion business to Ontario Beach opened, and several of the accidents were caused by trains to that resort. At Irondequoit Bay, a resort near this city, in a severe thunderstorm, lightning struck a German woman, knocking her senseless. It is thought that she will die. The same bolt injured a child, which was in the same party, forcing a large splinter into its legs.

Whipped to Death.

ST. LOUIS, June 25.—Charles Gross, a resident of Pulaski County, Mo., was dragged from his bed last night by a band a masked night-riders and beaten to death. The cause assigned for the murder is that he told the secretsd of an organization called "The Agricultural Wheel." A number of arrests have been made, but unless one of the band mrkes a confession, it will be impossible to punish the murderers.

Death of a Southern Newspaper Man.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., June 25.—Harry Griscom, a well known newspaper man and politician of the South, died of consumption at his home in Hill City yesterday. Mr. Griscom was formerly the managing editor of the Morning Commercial, and also served as postmaster under Arthur. He was only thirty-two years old.

A Fatal Mistake.

CARLISLE, Pa., June 25.—The wife of Dr. Pollinger, a prominent physician of Mount Holly, a town about five miles from here, at eleven o'clock Saturday morning drank by mistake a cup of carbolic acid. She died in fifteen minutes after taking the drink.

Tony Hart Hopelessly Insane.

WORCESTER, Mass., June 25.—Tony Hart, the well-known comedian, who was for many years associated with Edward Harrigan in the Theatre Comique and Park Theatre, New York, has been committed to the State Lunatic Hospital in this city incurably ill of paresis, or softening of the brain. He had been gradually ailing for a year and a half, though his friends were slow to admit that his case was hopeless. Up to within a short time it was hoped that rest and the attention of friends would restore him to health, but last week it was found that his friends could not give him the care and close surveillance which his condition demanded. Dr. J. G. Park, Superintendent of the hospital, says he is suffering from the same disease that afflicted John McCullough, the tragedian.

FATAL HOT WEATHER

OVER TWENTY DEATHS FROM HEAT IN NEW YORK SUNDAY.

A Great Number Prostrated and Sent to the Hospitals—Many Thousands Seek the Seaside Resorts.

NEW YORK, June 25.—Yesterday added to the record another and the third consecutive day of excessive heat. People who were unable to get out of town, after another oppressive night awoke, if they were able to sleep at all, to find the promised cold wave a delusion, and the thermometer's mercury ascending again with remorseless activity toward the notch marked 100. The mercury yesterday did not quite duplicate its performance of Saturday, which was 98 degress at 3:30 p. m., but it came within one small degree of doing it, and continued to register in the neighborhood of 90 to a much later hour than on that day.

During Saturday night there was a diminution of heat of 3 degrees only between midnight and 6 a. m. As a natural consequence the boats and cars which convey people to Coney Island, Long Branch, Glen Island, St. George and other neighboring resorts were early crowded with perspiring people who sought relief from the heat of the city. The churches, although about the coolest places in town, were poorly attended, but the parks attracted their customary thousands. The heat was so distracting that the street preachers who are accustomed to exhort Sunday afternoon audiences about the City Hall abandoned their field of labor.

The observer of the Signal Service on the Equitable building yesterday said: "It will be cooler to-morrow and we shall have rain. It is raining now not far from us, and there will soon be an increase in the wind's velocity. It now averages only eight miles an hour and comes from the South."

On being asked how the rest of the country was doing, he said, "Very nicely, thank you. They have cooler weather down South. The great trouble in New York is the humidity."

At 11:30 p. m. the wished-for rain came with a sudden and heavy downpour, while a fierce but refreshing wind blew through the streets at a lively rate. Many belated Sunday pleasure seekers were caught in the storm, but not many complaints were heard, for, though umbrellas were wrecked and summer clothing was drenched, the longed-for relief from the heat had come, and there were good prospects of a refreshing night's sleep for thousands of weary people. The high wind soon ceased, but the rain continued to fall until the air was thoroughly cooled.

The animals also felt the heat severely, several horses on the car routes falling from exhaustion, notwithstanding that special relays were placed on all the lines at less than half the distances usually run.

For the twenty-four hours ending at 6 p. m. yesterday there were 138 deaths, of which 109 were small children. There were 20 deaths cause by heat and a great number sent to the hospital that were prostrated.

WILLIAM II. IN BERLIN.

The Emperor and Empress Make Their Formal Entrance Into the Capitol.

BERLIN, June 25.—The Emperor and Empress made their formal entry into Berlin last night. They came from Potsdam to Charlottenburg by steamer. They were then driven to the Berlin palace, escorted by a squadron of cavalry. Unter den Linden was crowded, and the royal couple had a hearty reception.

The Prince of Wales and Dr. Hovell left Berlin last night, on their way to London.

The Berlin Post says that in addressing the Bundesrath on Friday, Prince Bismark said:

"The Emperor holds that his first duty is to maintain the Imperial Constitution and protect the territory of the empire and its rights, such protection applying alike to the treaty rights of the federal states individually and as a whole. It will be the Emperor's task to foster mutual confidence and union with the same care that was exercised by his predecessors, adhering to the internal and foreign policy which gained for them the attachment of the federal states and the confidence of foreign powers in such measure that they saw in the strength of Germany a guarantee of peace."

Prince Luitpold, the regent of Bavaria, has arrived here.

LONDON, June 25.—All the members of the royal family now in London attended a memorial service in German for the late Emperor Frederick, in the Chapel Royal yesterday. Prince and Princess Henry of Battenberg represented the Queen.

FOOLHARDY ADVENTURERS.

The Daring Feat of Racing Through Niagara Whirlpool Rapids by Two Men.

NIAGARA FALLS, June 25.—One of the most daring feats of this summer will be a race through the whirlpool rapids in the lower gorge of Niagara, unless the two young men who propose taking part in it back out of an arrangement which they have made. Charles A. Percy, of Suspension Bridge, and Robert W. Flack, of Syracuse, have signed articles of agreement to race through the rapids the maid of the Mist landing clear to Lewiston, at the month of the river, life boats to be used for thn trip. This includes the whirlpool rapids and mailstrom, the lower whirlpool or devil's rapids, the devil's hole and dangerous stretches of water. Percy and Flack agreed to wager $500 each on the result, and put up a forfeit of $100 a-piece with Patrick Seymour. The date will be fixed for about August 1, and an effort will made to get the railroads to contribute something.

BY THE WAY.

—Oh! for a Y. M. C. A. building.

—The butchers and grocers of the city have agreed to close their places of business, all day, on July 4.

—There were two clam-bakes on the mountain, yesterday. One on the Eastern "brow," and the other on the Western "crest."

—The shareholders of the Plainfield Building and Loan Association, will meet in regular session in Cutter's Hall, this evening.

—A party of good Baptists a fishing went, last Sabbath day, and caught fourteen bass that weighed collectively 34 pounds.

—Theodore Schomp, a lad about seventeen years of age, was drowned while bathing with companions at Raritan on Friday evening.

—A special meeting of the Gesang and Turn Verein Society is called for this evening, at the society's headquarters on East Second street.

—This evening the first annual reception of the North Plainfield Public School Alumni Association, will take place in the W. C. T. U. rooms.

—The Sunday school of the First Day Sunday school, will be discontinued during the hot weather. The session will be resumed in September.

—A number of men got into an argument at the corner of Madison avenue and Second street, late on Saturday evening, which resulted in a fight.

—There was some difficulty with the street lights on Saturday evening. On two different occasions most, if not all, of the street lamps were extinguished.

—The "special reductions" made at Edsall's last week will be continued. He says he bought too many parasols, and the low prices must close them out.

—A regular meeting of Major Anderson Post, No. 109, G. A. R., will be held in Perseverance Lodge room, in the Stelle Building, on Thursday evening of this week.

—Several stage loads of people drove to Boynton Beach Saturday afternoon, and spent a few hours pleasantly in the sand. The return trip was made late in the evening.

—A horse belonging to Dr. J. T. Fritts, left standing in front of the doctor's residence on Park avenue, last evening, started off at a rapid gait down the avenue. Near the railroad bridge the animal was captured by a young man named Sharp, whom the doctor subsequently amply rewarded. No damage was done.

—There is no place in this vicinity where anything in the way of a horse, or a pair of horses, can be purchased so reasonably as at the Riverside stock farm, Finderne. Mr. A. D. Thompson, the proprietor, has established at Netherwood, a branch of his extensive stock stables, and if any of THE PRESS' readers want a horse, a pony or a mule, for carriage, trotting rig, cart or farm wagon, they will find it there.

Mr. Love's Employees Score a Victory.

The employees of Mr. Edward Love's wall paper designing establishment in this city, went to West Brighton, Staten Island, on Saturday afternoon, and played a match game of ball with a nine composed of the employes of the Westbrook shop at that place. The Plainfield boys carried off the laurels and were victorious by a score of 17 to 11. The playing of Messrs. Percy and Crater of the Plainfield nine was admirable. A return game will be played in this city in two weeks.

A Lost Bird Identified.

The foot of a carrier-pigeon with its leg-band, that was found and described in THE PRESS, is discovered to have belonged to a bird owned by Charles H. Boyd, of the Monmouth Pigeon Club, Red Bank.

Mr. Boyd writes Mr. Sanders of the Plainfield Homing Club, that the bird was one he released in a race last Fall, and had never seen since.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Brooks of Crescent avenue, will spend the Summer at Plattsburgh.

Mr. Wm. Littell and Mr. Upmore of Newark, were the guests of Mr Dudley S. Miller, yesterday.

At the close of the service in the Park Avenue Baptist church, last evening, the rite of baptism was administered to four converts.

The Misses Kate and Addie Weaver of Grove street, North Plainfield, started today for a six weeks' visit with friends at Easton and Paxinosa Heights, Pa.

By the omission of an "s" in a personal notice on Saturday, the types made us say that "Mr. Alex. Vermeule, an aged lady," had died on the preceding day. The notice should have read "Mrs." Vermeule.

Assemblyman Ulrich returned from Chicago on Saturday evening, where he has been attending the National Republican Convention. To-night he delivers an address at Newton, N. J., at the Centennial anniversary of Harmony Lodge, No. 18, F. and A. M., of that place.

THE PRESS was the first paper in this city to bulletin a dispatch from Chicago this afternoon, announcing the nomination of Harrison of Indiana for President on the Republican ticket. The sidewalk in front of the office was thronged with people, who had been waiting for authentic information.

Mr. Sylvester Hill, a former resident of this city, but now of Roseville, will be united in marriage to Miss Ida L. Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Clark of Newark. The ceremony will take place at the residence of the bride's parents, No. 114 S. 13th street, Newark, on Wednesday of this week.

The Elizabeth Journal says: "Gov. Green made an address Thursday night at the graduating exercises of the Plainfield High School. Nineteen pupils were graduated." The Journal is in error. Gov. Green expressed a desire to be present, but on account of official engagements, he was unavoidably absent.

Bishop Vincent preached an eloquent sermon in the M E. church, yesterday morning. Before beginning his discourse the learned divine said he knew it was easier to speak than it was to listen, when the weather was so extremely hot, and he promised to pronounce the benediction immediately at the close of the sermon, which he did.

The remains of Mrs. Sarah Randolph, widow of Robert F. Randolph, were brought to this city on the 2:16 train, this afternoon, and interred at Evergreen cemetery in the family plot, beside the deceased's husband. Mrs. Randolph died at her residence, Fort Green place, Brooklyn. In former years, before the death of Mr. Randolph, they lived in the family homestead at Front and New street.

Mr. Henry Merrill, who with his family have been sojourning in this city for some time past, died at the residence of Mr. Peter Wyckoff, with whom he was stopping on Ninth street, last evening. Deceased was about seventy years of age. He was formerly a member of the well-known firm of Merrill, Wilkins & Co., dealers in tailors' trimmings, of New York city. A wife and two daughters survive him.

Reform Hall Meeting.

The heat within Reform Hall last night was intense, notwithstanding which discomfort, a fair-sized audience there assembled.

President French was expected to preside, but sickness preventing his attendance, Vice President Harper acted in his place. Mr. Vanderbeek and choir were promptly on hand. Rev. Mr. Taylor conducted the devotional services.

The speaker of the evening was Rev. Cæsar A. A. Taylor, of Princeton, N. J. The historic data, both sacred and profane, quoted and commented upon by him, showed intelligent thought and research, and the proof he advanced to sustain his opening declaration of the curse of intemperance was upheld by well stated incidents and arguments.

The learned speaker began with the first allusion made to temperance in the Bible, which is found in Numbers, 6th chapter, from first to fourth verses. The first temperance organization founded was about 3,378 years ago.

The formal presentation of the pledge was omitted, and the meeting closed with the benediction pronounced by the reverend speaker.

Death of Mr. William Piker.

Mr. William Piker, a son of Mr. Henry Piker, died at his residence on West Front street, yesterday afternoon, after a lingering illness from consumption. The deceased was twenty-five years and six months of age. Although confined to the house since last Winter, he was able to sit up and be about. Yesterday he sat at the dinner table and ate with the family. Later, when seated on the porch, he was attacked with a coughing spell, and in a few minutes was strangled to death. Dr. Tomlinson was hastily summoned, but he was unable to save the young man's life.

The deceased was at the time of his death, a member of the Turning Section of the Gesang and Turn Verein Society, and was also an active member of the Singing Section. The funeral will take place from the German Reformed church, on Craig place, on Wednesday, at 2 P. M.

Middlesex Gun Club.

The regular monthly Club shoot of the above Club occurs Wednesday, June 27, at Dunellen, N. J. Shooting commences at 12 o'clock sharp. Refreshments on the grounds. Live and inanimate targets in abundance.

Councilman Erickson's House on Fire.

A little after nine o'clock last evening, Mrs. E. N. Erickson, wife of Councilman Erickson of Eighth street, went into the kitchen of her residence to get a glass of water. She detected the smell of smoke, and immediately communicated the fact to her husband, who was absent at Mr. J. W. Murray's residence, nearly opposite. The latter accompanied Mr. Erickson home, and a thorough search was instituted. Meanwhile the smoke continued to pour out from the wainscoating in the kitchen in a volume, but no fire was visible.

A considerable quantity of the woodwork in the kitchen and the laundry below was torn away, when a smouldering fire was discovered burning in a beam, directly under the kitchen range. The fire had evidently been smouldering for some time, as the beam was almost entirely burned in two, when it was discovered. A messenger was despatched to Chief Doane's residence, and another to notify Mr. J. W. Murray, Jr., but the fire was extinguished before they arrived. The Chief, however, made a careful investigation, as to origin, etc., with the result above described.

Chief Doane considers the timely discovery of the fire, as very fortunate, and declares that it had been allowed to burn a half hour longer a disastrous conflagration might have resulted.

Another Boulevard Assaulter Committed.

William Ross, another of the men implicated in the free-for-all fight on the Boulevard about six weeks ago, and who also took part in a brutal slugging affair on West Third street, on Saturday evening, was gathered in by Officers McCue and Flannigan, at an early hour yesterday morning, and locked up at police headquarters. This morning he was arraigned before Judge Suydam and pleaded not guilty to the former charge, but admitted taking part in the Saturday night fracas. He was committed for thirty days.

There are still others whom the police are looking for, both for being connected with the fight about six weeks ago, and also for being implicated in the proceedings on Saturday night. These boulevard fights are becoming altogether too common, and show the necessity of a regular policeman there. Nothing short of a long term of imprisonment for the participants will put an end to the disgraceful proceedings.

A Scene in Stiger Alley.

About eleven o'clock on Saturday evening cries of "Police! Police!" came from the direction of Stiger Alley. Officer Flannigan, followed by a crowd of spectators, arrived at the place soon afterward and found everything in excitement. Some of the inhabitants in the rookery were craning their heads out of the windows while others were running about frantically. It appears that a female named Vermeule, who bears an unsavory reputation, passed through the alley with a man. According to her statement one of the residents in the alley insulted her, which she resented with her tongue.

For a time it looked as though there would be blood shed, but Officer Flannigan succeeded in restoring peace, and the crowd dispersed.

A Champion Murdered.

Somebody has poisoned Henry Goeller's $300 bull-dog. The animal was principally valued for its fighting qualities, and died in the proud possession of a record for having beaten the State champion dog in a fight, some time ago, at New Brunswick.

POISON IN OUR DRINK.

Not Alcohol—which one may avoid—but BRASS AND LEAD which one takes unsuspectingly. "How—When—Where?" Well, say, in a glass of Soda. Pity the most popular and wholesome of all artificial drinks—which Soda honestly is—should ever deserve a touch of suspicion, but

THE FROZEN TRUTH

is that in some Soda Fountains economy and mechanical facility are studied to the neglect of the weightier matter of purity. Some men are too "smart;" some Soda Fountains are too "ingenious."

We have recently had made a Fountain which secures Absolute Purity for the beverages. Rather pretty, too, we think. We selected the "Matthews' make" because it is the only fount in which the syrups have positively no metallic contact, being discharged direct from glass jars into the tumblers—no tubes; while the waters are contained in and flow through solid block tin,

PURE AS CRYSTAL, COLD AS CHARITY.

We make our own syrups—from REAL FRUIT JUICES, or from chocolate or coffee, etc., as the case may be; no nonsense of essences or make believe.

New drinks? Yes, some of our own contriving. "Winks?" Not a wink; not licensed for winks, and we have an opinion of druggists who take a wink.

Come and try the new Fountain; if you like your drink we'll thank you for saying so, and you'll pay us five cents and come again—it will do you good; only don't come Sundays; no use—Fountain WON'T WORK.

PARASOLS. BASE BALL.

The Crescents Tie the Somervilles and the Latter Afraid to Finish.

A heavy shower during the early part of Saturday afternoon, prevented the gathering of a large crowd at the Y. M. C. A. grounds, which would have witnessed the most exciting and closely contested game that will be played during the present season.

It is unfortunate that so interesting a game, sholud have been brought to so unpleasant a close. The score was tied at the end of the ninth inning, the Somervilles had played their tenth without a run, and the Plainfielders had three men on bases and none out, when the visitors refused to finish. Of course the "Crescents" will decline hereafter to play again with the "West Ends," and thus the public will miss seeing what would be sure to be another interesting contest between these clubs.

The features of the game were the batting and general playing of Dilts of the Plainfield team, and the catching of Meehan. The latter gave a beautiful exhibition of skill in stopping a rather wild pitcher. Mr. W. Bennett, who umpired the game of the 16th inst between the "Actives" and the "Crescents," occupied the same position, Saturday. The time of the game was two hours and fifty minutes.

The finish was as follows. The ninth inning closed with a score of 6 to 6, and the tenth inning opened with the West Ends at the bat. Dilts hit to Cornwell, who neatly threw the batter out at first. Dunning knocked a grounder to Cadmus, who also fielded the ball into McMurray's safe hands. Meehan followed with a base hit, and stole second where he died. Davenport hit to Lee and was the third man out at first.

Jack Murray went first to the bat for the Crescents, and the grand stand held its combined breath. Jack knew it was his last chance and he took it. When two strikes were already on him, he saw a wild-pitch sailing through the air. He fanned at it, dropped his bat and got his base. McMurray next, was hit with the ball, and took first while Murray passed on to second. Doane struck out, but Meehan to the surprise of everybody, dropped the third ball and the striker got to first in safety.

The bases were thus all filled, and Demarest was at the bat. The Somervilles then demanded that the game be called, but this the umpire justly refused to do. It was not too dark to finish the inning that the Somervilles had already played their share of, and the visitors showed their discourtesy and craveness in refusing to play to a finish. The umpire then declared the game in favor of the Crescents by a score of 9 to 0.

This is a detail of the playing:

Saturday's Storm.

The severe thunder shower which passed over the city on Saturday afternoon, did not result in any serious damage in this immediate locality. The weather was extremely hot, but the shower cooled off the atmosphere, much to the comfort of suffering humanity. An immense volume of water fell, inundating the streets. At Westfield scarcely any rain fell, but at Elizabeth the storm was very severe.

At Raritan the barn of a man named Ammerman, was struck by lightning and fired, and Mr. Ammerman's daughter, who was in the house near by, was knocked down by a shaft of lightning, and badly injured.

The storm was especially severe at Clinton, and was accompanied by a tornado. Trees were torn up by the roots, fences blown down, and a church was entirely obliterated.

Thrown Out on His Head.

The horse attached to the wagon of Mr. W. G. Runyon, took fright when standing in the yard of the Plainfield Lumber Co., this morning. The animal dashed through the gate, and in turning into South Second street upset the wagon and threw Mr. Runyon out on his head.

The horse broke loose from the wagon, but was stopped under the William Street bridge. The wagon was somewhat damaged, the harness was torn apart, and Mr. Runyon was slightly cut on the back of his head. That was about all that resulted.

—A carpenter, whose name we are unable to ascertain, was overcome by the heat on Saturday afternoon!

The Difference.

Freer Trade, but not Free Trade is so definitely expressed in the President's message that it must be understood by all with average intelligence. Those who persist in claiming that this able document expresses or in any way implies Free Trade, do so either with wilful maliciousness or in deficient intellectuality. The principle and policy as is set forth in that instrument is "Necessary but not superfluous protection, a tariff for revenue but not for surplus."

A New York paper well say: "When the Republicans, under the direction of their President, Secretary of the Treasury, Tariff Commission and Congressional leaders, proposed in 1881 to reduce a 42 per cent. tariff to an average of 36.40 it was called by them "a proper and necessary revision."

"When the Democrats, in the face of a larger surplus than then existed, propose to reduce a 47 per cent. tariff to 40 per cent. it is called "British Free Trade."

"The Republican National Convention pledged itself in 1884 to "correct the inequalities of the tariff and reduce the surplus." During two sessions of Congress thereafter the Republicans voted solidly against even the consideration of this subject, and are now fighting, "tooth and nail," every line of a bill framed to carry out this pledge.

"The Democratic Convention in 1884 made the same promise, in different terms, and is at last united and earnest in trying to redeem it.

"This is the present and the main difference in the two parties."

A New Magazine.

The first number of Belford's Magazine gives promise of a successful future. The new arrival is a political magazine, a new feature in our literature. It is intended as a freer trade organ, and will therefore support all movements in that direction. During the present year it will be devoted to the cause of President Cleveland's campaign. The first number opens with a carefully written article on "Protection; the Enemy of Labor," by Thomas G. Shearman. "The Value of the Sliding Seat in Rowing," is statistical, but not dry; "Enchanted Treasure" is as good a bit of dialect as we have seen. Julian Hawthorne contributes a paper on "American Magazines and Authors," viewing the theme from the writer's stand-point; Mr. Hawthorne recommends the exclusion of illustrations from our magazines. Henry George speaks "To Workingmen" on the Tariff. The first part of a valuable tariff article by Frank Hurd also appears in this number. The poems, dramatic criticisms and reviews are up to the standard. Belford's publishes its long stories on the same plan as Lippincott's. "Old Man Gilbert," by Elizabeth W. Bellamy is a very good picture of Florida life, and withal something of a novelty. On the whole the new magazine forms a valuable addition to our present supply.

A Strauss Opera Next.

The last performances of "The Lady or the Tiger" are approaching at Wallack's Theatre, as Colonel McCaull has decided to give his company a vacation during the first two weeks in July, so that this will be the last week of the present season, and the last opportunity to hear this merry opera, which has proven one of the most popular ever presented by the McCaull opera company. When the theatre re-opens July 16, it will be with the same organization presenting Prince Methusalem, a favorite opera of the McCaull repertoire, composed by Johann Strauss, the "Waltz King," who in this work has happily combined music that is bright, pretty and easily flowing, together with a story that possesses an interesting plot and is at the same time very funny. This production will be on a par with others given by Colonel McCaull, and will include a cast very strong in its artistic excellence, together with a large and thoroughly drilled chorus, handsome costuming and beautiful scenery.

Union County Farmers.

At the Union County Farmers' picnic held at Roselle, last week, Wm. Ward, of Lyons Farms, spoke on the "Importance of preserving our song and insect eating birds." He said that statistics proved that $400,000,000 worth of farm produce was annually destroyed by injurious insects, and while the entomologists have given us many artificial ways of killing these insects, the great natural way and the most effective way is by protecting the birds. Mr. Ward spoke of the habits of the various kinds of birds, and told which were most useful to the farmer. He condemned the English sparrow.

Extra School Room Needed.

Pursuant to a resolution passed at the recent annual meeting, the legal voters of School District No. 38 of North Plainfield, are requested to attend a special meeting in the school house, to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock, to consider and discuss the feasibility of making an extra appropriation for increased school accommodations. The school building at present is inadequate to accommodate the scholars, and the coming year the school will probably be more crowded than it was in the year just closed.

—On account of the rain storm on Saturday afternoon, there was no trotting on the track of the Gentleman's Driving Park Association.

SIX PERSONS DROWNED.

Sad Ending of a Newark Pleasure Party. Upsetting the Launch.

NEWARK, N. J., June 25.—Fifteen young people embarked on Saturday night on the steam launch Olivette, owned by the Holzhauer Brothers of 19 William street.

The started from the wharf, and as one of the party had a guitar they all began to sing. As the Olivette neared the Central Railroad bridge a tug with a tow appeared just ahead and signaled the launch to go to port. William Holzhauer, who was at the wheel, turned the boat in response to the whistle, and in a moment the keel was scraping over the Centre street dyke, the proximity of which had been unobserved.

A scene of confusion ensued, but Holzhauer stilled the alarm and attempted to push off from the edge of the dike. With the assistance of the engineer he had almost succeeded when a sudden lurch of the boat threw its female occupants into a state of panic. They sprang to the opposite side of the boat. It capsized, and all the pleasure seekers went into the river.

The heartrending shrieks of the drowning girls were heard by a party of young men in a small boat, and they bent to their oars in a frantic effort to arrive upon the scene before it was too late.

Five men and one young woman were taken out of the water and from the dyke and rowed to the boat house. A second trip being made others were rescued. When the rescued party had assembled in the boat house the sad fact was made evident that six of their companions had perished—one man and five young women.

The drowned are Louis Graff, aged 20, of 22 South Eleventh street; Gussie Lotz, 20, 132 Howard street; Lizzie Sulick, 20, Bergen street: Minnie Burger, 19, 4 Boyd street; Gussie Webber, 19, Broome street, and Annie Frick, 19, Badger street.

At daylight the launch was found upside down against the side of the dyke. The bodies of the drowned girls and young Graff were discovered late last night.

MR. CHILD'S GRANT MEMORIAL.

He Will Present It to the Protestant Episcopal Church at Long Branch.

PHILADELPHIA, June 25.—A large memorial of General Grant has been completed by a stained glass company of this city. It will be the gift of George W. Childs to the Protestant Episcopal Church of Long Branch. Its descripition is: In the centre of the window, near the base, is a bust portrait of General Grant in uniform. It is life size and bears a close resemblance. The dark blue uniform is relieved by the golden epaulets and the well-worked background.

On the sides of the portrait are two full sized figures representing Mourning and Peace, while floating above these is a figure emblematic of Glory bearing a palm leaf in one hand and a laurel wreath in the other. Above this is the sentence, "Let us have peace." At the base of the inscription "General Ulysses S. Grant. Erected by his friend George W. Childs a token of affection."

WAR IN KANSAS

The Militia Called Out to Put Down Trouble Between Rival Towns.

WICHITA, Kan., June 25.—A dispatch received from the scene of war in Stevens county gives a startling condition of affairs The State militia was ordered there last Wednesday by Governor Martin to put down trouble between the towns of Hugotin and Woodsdale. The militia arrived none too soon, as a mob of citizens from Hugotin were moving upon Woodsdale with the determination of destroying it.

The cause of the trouble is the bond election and county seat removal. Hugotin is the county seat, and claims that the railroad bond election was illegal, while Woodsdale claims it is not.

As both places are forty miles from the nearest railroad station or telegraph communication details are meager. Much apprehension is felt that blood will be shed. The towns are seven miles apart.

Dr. McGlynn on Landlordism.

NEW YORK, June 25.—A large crowd, considering the excessive heat of the weather, gathered at Cooper Union last night to hear Dr. McGlynn discourse on "The Coming Plan of Campaign; No Rent to Landlords, but a Fair House Hire to House Owners." After going through the regular anti-poverty speech he developed his plan. It was that 20,000 tenants should agree to reduce their rents. The applications for ejectment writs would be so many and the marshals would be so few that the landlords would be forced to take the reduced rents offered.

Many Mills Shut Down.

PITTSBURG, Pa., June 25.—General Manager J. M. Flagler of the National Tube Works, McKeesport, Pa., came on from New York last night to make arrangements to shut down the immense plant, which employs about 4,000 hands. Recently there was a general reduction of wages in the hope of tiding over the period of depression, but this has failed. It is said not only the McKeesport works, but half a dozen other plants, representing $5,0 0,000 invested capital and employing 12,000 hands, will have to shut down.

Steve Brodie Begins His Swim.

ALBANY, June 25.—Steve Brodie left here at two minutes of 8 o'clock in good condition. Guns were fired and the people shouted. At Six-Mile Light Brodie got entangled with the tow and his suit was torn. He resumed his trip down the Hudson at 12:45 oc'clock. It is expected he will have completed thirty of his 165-mile swim to New York by sunrise. He is accompanied in a small boat by two attendants, who came with him from New York. Brodie suffered much pain from his face and arms, which are badly sun-burned.

Paine Wins the Boat Race at Victoria.

VICTORIA, B. C., June 25.—A boat race for $1,000 a side and the championship of the coast was rowed yesterday afternoon between Henry Peterson, of San Francisco, and William Paine, of Victoria. The race was won by Paine.

Canal Boatmen and the Elevator Bill.

BUFFALO, June 25.—Many canal boatmen are idle as a result of the Elevator bill, and many boatmen whom the bill was designed to benefit say they are doing nothing. The elevators evade the law, and the boatmen are worse off than ever.

Henry Baker, a farmer, near Indianapolis quarreled last night with George Long because the latter insisted on making love to Baker's daughter. Long drew a pistol on Baker, which the latter took from him and shot him. Long then got hold of the pistol and killed Baker instantly. Long will die of his wound.

Sunday night's storm overturned the sloop yacht Millie, in the cabin of which were John J. Gamon, Mrs. Catherine T. Tripp, aged 65, and her little niece, Katie T. Tripp. Gamon when taken from the water was alive. The body of Mrs. Tripp was found near the yacht. The body of the little one is supposed to be still in the cabin of the overturned boat.

OF INTEREST TO STRIKERS.

The Court of Appeals Defines Their Criminality.

NEW YORK, June 25.—A despatch has been received at the District Attorney's office that the Court of Appeals has affirmed the decisions dismissing the writ of habeas corpus in the cases of John E. Gill, John Foster, George T. Worley, James McDonald and John Campbell.

These men were indicted and held for trial on a charge of conspiracy. They were the Executive Assembly of District 91 of Knights of Labor. The discharge of P. M. Hartt, the foreman, and other persons employed in the shoe factory of Gardner & Estes was demanded. The firm was compelled to discharge Hartt. The members of the Executive Committee were arrested on a charge of conspiracy to prevent Hartt from exercising a lawful trade.

"This decision," said District Attorney Lindsay, who argued the case before the Court of Appeals, "is of the greatest importance in view of the large number of strikes. The reason that Hartt's discharge was demanded was because he was a 'scab.' Now, the Court of Appeals holds that strikes for any other purpose than the obtaining of an increase of wages or the prevention of a reduction of wages are illegal. The effect of such a strike is to injure the trade of the employer, and the instigators of the strike are guilty of conspiracy."

In consequence of the awaiting of the settlement of this legal question Gill and his associates have not been called for trial. Now a day will shortly be fixed, as the only questoning awaiting settlement is whether the facts alleged by the prosecution are correct.

WEATHER CROP BULLETIN.

Generally Favorable Condition of Growing Crops—Harvesting Commenced.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—The weather crop bulletin of to-day says the weather during the past week in the grain regions of the northwest has been generally favorable to the growing crops, and the conditions have improved in the upper Mississippi and Missouri valleys and in Michigan, although heavy local rains in Missouri are reported to have injured the wheat and delayed harvesting. An excess of rain is reported from Arkansas, Louisiana and Mississippi, which has been unfavorable to the cotton crop. In the western portion of the cotton region less rain and clear weather would doubtless benefit the growing crops, while in eastern portions of the cotton region, including Alabama, North and South Carolina, the weather has been favorable to all crops. In Ohio, Indiana and Connecticut more rain is needed, while generally throughout the Middle, Atlantic and New England States the weather of the past week has improved the crop conditions cohsiderably. Harvesting is in progress in Tennessee and Kentucky, where the weather and conditions have been favorable for wheat and corn, but unfavorable fot grass.

Futal Fireworks Explosion.

RONDOUT, N. Y., June 25.—An old lady was suffocated and several persons were injured by a fire and three terrific explosions of fireworks in a block on Union avenue yesterday afternoon. Property valued at $20,000 was destroyed. The explosions occurred in Aaron Rice's fancy and variety store, in which there had been many customers during the day. A large lamp bursting set fire to a great pile of Chinese firecrackers, of which Mr. Rice carried a large stock. His family, with the exception of his mother, succeeded in fighting their way through the exploding Roman candles, crackers, etc., to the street. Later on the body of Mrs. Rice was taken out of the burning building by firemen. M. Newwetter's dry goods store, adjoining Mr. Rice's place, was burned out. Jacob Harris (shoe store) sustained considerable loss, as did also other business men. The whole Fire Department fought the flames, and several of the firemen narrowly escaped suffocation from the sulphur fumes. Mr. Rice is one of the richest Hebrews along the Hudson.

New Democratic Paper for New York.

NEW YORK, June 25.—A new Democratic evening paper will be launched in this city July 1, under the auspices of J. P. Pound. The paper, it is understood, will be well equipped and has strong backing.

CONDENSED TELEGRAMS.

St. Jerome's Church, at Hyattsville, Md., five miles from Washington, was dedicated Sunday by Cardinal Gibbons. The church is a memorial to the Rev. John Carroll, first Archbishop of Baltimore.

A severe thunder shower deluged Springfield, Mass., about 8 o'clock last evening. The lightning struck in several places, but effected no very great damage to property or serious injury to person.

A terrific gale at Leominster, Mass., on Saturday night prostrated the tents of Miller & Freeman's show. Hundreds of spectators were panic-stricken. The showmen suffer a loss of several thousand dollars.

Hector Sears, brother of Dairy Commissioner Charles Sears, while rowing in the Wallkill River at Montgomery, N. Y., Sunday afternoon with his wife and Miss McKinsley, fell overboard and was drowned. His body has not been recovered.

A suit which has been pending since 1875 was decided at Lynchburg, Va., Saturday, in favor of the alaintiffs, Melindey & Russell who sued the C., V., M. & Southern Railroad for $50,000 damages for the killing of the race horse Bristow. The jury awarded them $17,000.

The Rev. E. T. Boston, a negro, claiming to be a doctor, has been arrested in Anderson, S. C., for practising medicine for eye troubles. He would make a sore on the top of the patient's head and anoint it with some strange mixture. Ae killed several persons in this way. He has a forged medical diploma.

Suspected of a Fiendish Crime.

TRENTON, N. Y., June 25.—The wife of Benjamin Pidock, of Baker's Basin, her two sons and a female school teacher, were dangerously poisoned on Saturday by drinking water from a well near the house. Yesterday Joseph Camp was arrested on suspicion, and held under heavy bonds for a hearing. It is thought that he threw arsenic in the water. Mrs. Pidock and one son are lying at the point of death.

The Weather Yesterday.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Reports to signal office yesterday show that the highest range of the thermometor was at Yuma, Arizona, where the mercury reached 100. At New Orleans the highest was 90, Washington and New York 92, Chicago 82, St. Paul 66.

A DANGEROUS ADVERSARY.

A Hunter's Adventure with a Huge Panther in Somono County, California.

There registered at one of the hotels of this city a few days since a man who has gained quite a notoriety among his neighbors as a brave hunter and a crack shot. This man is James Henry, or, as he is better known in Sonoma county, "Dead-Shot Jim," a title which he earned by the remarkable skill which he displayed with his rifle.

To an inquiring reporter Mr. Henry spoke freely of his life in the Sonoma woods, and related a story of a fight with a monster panther, in which he had a narrow escape from death after his dogs had been killed by the maddened beast.

"I will never forget that fight," said Mr. Henry, as he settled himself comfortably in a chair, "for I have a reminder in the shape of two scars on my breast which were put there by the sharp claws of the animal.

"My two dogs had treed him on the other side of a deep gulch, which I would have to cross on a shaky fallen tree to reach him.

"I worked my way to the fallen tree and started to cross it. I went very slowly, as the log was quite slippery.

MY LAST BLOW.

My dogs had ceased their noise when I first came in view, but just as I was about half-way across the bridge they began to bark more fiercely than ever. I thought that perhaps the animal had seen me and was about to jump out of the tree and make his escape.

"I stopped in my dangerous walk, and, steadying myself, looked up into the tree.

"Great Scott! I had seen a great many panthers before and had killed a few, but the one I saw looking at me from the branches of the tree was larger and fiercer than any I had ever seen or heard tell about. He lay crouched along a branch about midway to the top of the oak, and glared at me with his great eyes that gleamed like balls of fire. From the moment he first beheld me he paid not the slightest attention to the dogs, but kept his eyes riveted on me, uttering deep, low growls, and swaying his long tail to and fro.

"I knew I had no time to lose, but must act quickly, as the varmint was preparing to spring at me. Bracing myself for the shot as best I could on the slippery tree, I raised my rifle to my shoulder and aimed for the center of the brute's head. Just as I pressed the trigger, a piece of bark that I was standing on gave way, and I slipped at the moment when the rifle vomited its load of fire and lead. In saving myself from falling the empty gun slipped from my grasp to the rocks below, and I would have followed it had I not luckily fallen astraddle of the tree.

"I drew my hunting knife from my belt, but had no sooner done so when the panther gave a shriek of mingled pain and rage, and the next moment he bounded from his perch and landed on the ground within three feet of one end of the log on which I sat.

"The ball from my rifle had made a slight wound in the brute's head, the blood from which ran into his eyes, making him look terrible in his maddened fury. His eyes were fastened on me, and I knew that his next spring would bring him within a foot or two of where I sat.

"My faithful dogs were by this time at the rear of the infuriated beast, and before he could leap upon me they attacked him boldly. He turned with a flash, and with a yell of defiance struck one of the dogs such a blow with his powerful claws that it knocked the poor pup dead into the river below. The other dog had got a grip on one of the panther's hind legs, and held on gamely. The next moment the dog and the panther were rolling on the ground in a struggle for the mastery. The huge beast threw up clouds of earth and dead leaves with his sharp claws and for a time the combatants were lost to view in the dust. The struggle soon ceased, and through the falling leaves I could see the writhing dog in the jaws of the panther. The jaws came together and I could hear the crunching of bones, and in another moment the limp body of the dog was thrown to the ground.

"The panther was now thoroughly enraged. Giving his head a shake to free his eyes from the blood and dirt, he gave a yell that nearly froze my blood, and crouched for a spring.

"I grasped my knife firmly in my right hand, and, steadying myself with my left, awaited the shock.

"It came. The long, lithe body flashed through the air, and the next moment I was sitting face to face with the infuriated beast. Leaning forward quickly I plunged the keen blade once, twice, into the animal's neck. The hot blood spurted into my face. I felt the breath of the panther on my cheek, and then the powerful paws, armed with the long, sharp nails, rose in the air, and then descended on my chest. I felt the sharp claws burning through my flesh. The knife fell from my weakened grasp and bounded on the rocks to the river below. I felt my brain whirling. I made a desperate grab at the panther before me, and, locked in a close embrace, we rolled off the log and fell together on the rocks below.

"The sun was far down the horizon when I recovered consciousness. I was not very seriously hurt, for in the fall I landed on the panther, which saved me from having my bones broken. The huge beast lay dead on the rocks beside me. My knife had touched the heart, and no doubt he was dead before he touched the rocks.

"I bandaged my wounds and took the skin off of the huge panther as a trophy of the fight.—San Francisco Examiner.

As an evidence of the progress that modern ideas are making in Japan, it is stated that that country is now building thirty-four new railroads at a cost of over $50,000,000, and it has hundreds of miles of railroad already built.

The Yankee Farm Hand.

An exchange gives the following picture of a well-known character of forty years ago, but now seldom seen. This was the Yankee farm hand. The writer says: "What an institution he used to be in the days when we were young. A thoroughbred Yankee; not a drop of imported blood in his veins; strong and lithe and active and tireless—intelligent, fairly well educated, skilled in his business, and, as a rule, industrious beyond the belief of this ten-hour generation. From the time he drove his ax into the woodpile in the door-yard on the first of April until the close of the season, after harvesting, he expected to work, and he did work, not from sun to sun but from dawn to darkness, and then did the milking and fed the pigs afterward. His day was fourteen, fifteen, even sixteen hours long, and it never occured to him that it should be shorter. He was no specialist. He could do anything. He was smart with a scythe, handy with a hoe, cute with the cradle, and experienced with an ax. He knew how much grain and grass were required to the acre, when grass was fit to cut, and when it was hayed enough to "go in," and he did not need to be told when to drop turnip seed in the corn field, or how to put corn in the shock. He could build wall, make cider, shingle the barn, make a hay-rack, or doctor a sick hog. It was safe to leave him to work alone. And he got for his service $10, $12, possibly $15 for eight months and saved three-fourths of it. Then when he had worked eight or ten seasons and accumulated a few hundred dollars, he probably married the "hired girl," who had been at work for a dollar a week and saved half of that, bought a farm, got out of debt little by little, educated his children and sent them to the city to preach or practice law or work in the store or shop, while he stays on the old homestead and sees it grow up to bushes.

A Little Boy's Decision.

One day a small boy entered a store. The merchant looked him and asked:

"Well, my little man, what will you have to-day?"

"O, please, sir, mayn't I do some work for you to-day? You see, sir, my mother hasn't anybody but me; and this morning I saw her crying because she couldn't find five cents in her pocket-book. She thinks the boy that took the ashes stole it—and—I—haven't—had—any breakfast, sir."

Then his voice choked, and his blue eyes filled with tears.

"I reckon I can help you to some breakfast, my little fellow," said the merchant, feeling his vest pocket. "Here—will this quarter do?" The boy shook his head, saying: "Thank you, sir, but my mother wouldn't let me beg, or take money unless I did something for it."

"You are a plucky little fellow and I like you," said the merchant. "Let me see, I think you will do for a cash boy here. Go up to the clerk yonder, and tell him your name, and where you live; and then run home and tell your mother that you've got a place at four dollars a week; come back on Monday morning, and I'll tell you what to do. Here's a dollar in advance; I'll take it out of your first week's wages. Now, go."

Tommy ran in to his mother, crying. "Mother! mother! I'm took! I've got a place at four dollars a week. There is the first dollar to get something to eat with. And don't ever cry again; for I'm the man of the house, now!"

But the mother wept tears of joy over him, and then she kneeled down and thanked God for giving her such a treasure of a boy.—Golden Rule.

A Wild South Show.

"Now, chillun, yo' git on dat fence, out ob de way ob dangur, an' I'll show yo' how Buffalo Bill manage de hoss."

HARRISON IS NOMINATED

The Republican Convention Sweeps Over to Him on the Eighth Ballot.

THE BREAK COMES AT LAST.

CALIFORNIA LEADS OFF FOR THE INDIANIAN AND THE OTHERS FOLLOW.

LEVI P. MORTON FOR SECOND PLACE.

NOMINATED ON THE FIRST BALLOT WITHOUT ANY VERY SERIOUS OPPOSITION.

Despatches from Blaine Compel His Constant Endorsers to Cease Voting for Him. Henderson Withdraws Allison—Tremendous Enthusiasm Among the Delegates When the Ballot nominating Gen. Harrison Was Reached—The Nomination Seconded by Foraker, Depew, Hoar and Others—The Convention Tenders Thanks to Chairman Estee and at 8:55 Adjourns Sine Die.

BEN. HARRISON.

CHICAGO, June 26.—General Harrison, of Indiana, was nominated for President on the eighth ballot yesterday afternoon. He received 544 votes, 127 more than sufficient to nominate him, and left none of his competitors with more than a hundred. Sherman was still holding his wavering line with 118 votes. Alger had the bulk of his friends still with him. Gresham still held on to Illinois, and a few of his scattering friends, and McKinley and Blaine were still not deserted.

McKinley was not a cadidate, and the big contingent of votes which had been keeping all the leaders well up on the lists were forced to the conclusion that it was time for a choice. The Blaine vote of California had gone for Harrison. New York had swung over her ballots to him. Pennsylvania was likely to go when it was seen that Sherman could not be nominated, and there was no further reason for the delay.

Above all Mr. Blaine had cabled twice to to the convention reiterating his Paris and Florence letters and he was no longer in sight as a compromise candidate.

The fight had to be made between those on the field, and the most acceptable man was Harrison. The first ballot of the morning was preceded by the announcement that suddenly changed the prospects of the day. It was the two cablegrams from Mr. Blaine which had been received the evening before and yesterday morning. The audience listened carefully while the cablegrams from Mr. Blaine were being read, but gave no expression of opinion when they understood them. There was a rustle of excitement and surprise. An effort was made by some of the delegates to say something, but the chairman had evidently no more recognition on his list, and he ordered the roll call to go on. At first there was nothing surprising in the ballot. Alabama scattered her votes between Sherman, Alger and Harrison about as she had done before.

California stamped 16 votes in defiance of the cablegrams; Illinois held 41 of her 44 votes for Gresham. Michigan still stood by Alger. Harrison had improved his standing by the increased vote in New York, but there was nothing else to show the strength he was to develop, and it was whispered around that it meant another series of ballots and adjournment.

The next ballot, however, showed that there was something different in prospect.

Alabama and Arkansas voted about as before, but California sprung a sensation by throwing 16 votes to Harrison. There was confusion for a moment, then a challenge of the vote in the delegation and a demand that it be polled.

One of the Blaine men had refused to desert his leader. The poll showed 15 Harrison and 1 Blaine man, then the call passed on to Colorado. Colorado cast 6 votes for Allison, but in the confusion it sounded like Harrison, and the New York delegation was on its feet cheering and yelling in an instant.

When they sat down the mistake was corrected. Illinois was the next exciting point on the list, and the audience grew quiet again as Senator Farwell stood on his chair.

"Illinois casts 3 votes for Harrison," said he, "I vote for Alger and 40 votes for Gresham."

There was a cheer from the Gresham men in the audience and the call went on. Indiana's single vote against Harrison was still there. Iowa's 26 votes stood out steadily for Allison. Michigan was still solid for Alger. Ohio was voting for Sherman, but she was crippled 1 vote which had followed Governor Foraker on Saturday night and could not be induced to come back.

Harrison had 278 votes and Sherman 231, but it looked like Harrison on the next ballot. Before the roll was begun General Henderson, of Iowa, withdrew Allison, and the meaning of the withdrawal was seen when Colorado, which had been voting for Allison, turned over to Harrison.

That was the first genuine break since the Blaine whirl of California, and it made a sensation. Connecticut followed with her solid vote: then Delaware, then Florida decreased her vote a little, but Georgia more than made it up.

Then came gains all along the line. Maryland gave 11, Massachusetts 25, Minnesota 13, New Jersey, New Hampshire and New York solid delegations, and Pennsylvania, which had been out consulting since the last ballot, all but one indomitable Sherman man.

After that there were only 30 votes cast against him, and he passed the winning point on the State of Tennessee. Sherman's faithful 45 from Ohio were still in line. Illinois still held her 40 for Gresham. Alger still had his 26 from Michigan, but the total opposition was scarcely larger than Sherman's vote on its biggest day.

The audience knew the result before it was announced, but the delegates led off with the cheers, and kept them going for fifteen minutes. The band played "Hail to the Chief."

The nomination for Vice-President required but one ballot. There were four names presented to the Convention, Levi P. Morton, Phelps, Wm. O. Bradley, and Wm. R. Moore. The last named gentleman withdrew his name and Morton was nominated, receiving 591 votes.

Band plays: "See the Conquering Hero Comes."

Exciting scenes. Howls and yells. Portraits of Harrison and flags were waved.

TOTAL.—Eighth ballot.—Harrison 544, Alger 100, Sherman 118, Blaine 1, McKinley 4, Gresham 59.

The cheering continued for some time and when order was finally restored Foraker took the stand and made a motion that the nomination of Benjamin Harrison, of Indiana, be made unanimous. He said:

"We Ohioans came here all Sherman men, now we are all Harrison men. We can, the more easily support Gen. Harrison because he had the good sense to be born in Ohio. I, therefore, by request of Ohio, move that Gen. Harrison's name be made unanimous."

Senator Farwell, of Ill., seconded the motion making the nomination unanimous.

Horr, of Michigan, seconded the motion of Foraker to make the nomination unanimous. He said they all knew he came here to nominate General Alger. All knew he failed. He belonged to that tribe, however, which did not think it knew everything. Michigan wanted a soldier at the head of the ticket and has got one in General Harrison. (Cheers.) Michigan, he concluded, would give him her electoral vote.

Senator Farwell, of Illinois, seconded the motion to make the nomination unanimous, and was followed by Depew, who said in substance that a good thing about this Convention is that no candidate sincerely expected to win, and hence nobody is disappointed. He came, he said, from a cosmopolitan state, where any man who grew too big for his own state came to New York. He predicted Harrison's election in November.

Gen. Hastings, of Pennsylvania, followed Depew in behalf of Pennsylvania. He said he congratulated the Convention because it had hit on its feet and that Pennsylvania already gave Harrison 100,000 votes.

Henderson, of Iowa, followed Hastings, and said I am full of sorrow, not because the man of my choice was not nominated in this Convention, but because the assembled wisdom here has nominated a man, a man against whom the Democracy cannot say one single word. My heart is full of pity for quill-drivers of the Democratic party. No nomination could have been made by these patriots which would find a warmer response in the hearts of the American people. He stands before you a citizen of incompatible life and of gigantic intelligence, and against whose character no word of calumny dare be uttered, and my first thought was 'what can the Democracy say against him?' A soldier, a statesman, simple manhood, unbeguiled, tender-hearted as a mother. That is the kind of a leader for the American people; that is the kind of a standard-bearer to reach the voters on the mountain tops and in the valleys in New York, and in the cabin of the black man of the South.

Iowa sent me here to say that as we withdraw our candidate so do we promptly respond to the wise choice of the Convention and Iowa this fall, I need not tell you, will stand where she has always stood, holding the Republican banner in the vanguard of freedom and liberty."

Boutelle, of Maine, followed Henderson and made an eloquent speech endorsing Harrison and eulogizing Blaine. He closed by quoting the old lines, "Tippecanoe and Tyler, too," amid great applause.

In response to loud calls, Haymond, of Cal., spoke. He said his State preferred a statesman to a soldier, but predicted great victory for Harrison. He paid high compliment to Chicago ladies and said the red bandana was a badge of servitude liked by no virtuous woman, and under which no brave man would fight.

Davis, of Minnesota, seconded the motion in a few eloquent words.

The clerk read the following despatch from Alger:

DETROIT, Mich., June 25.

HON. MORRIS M. ESTEE, CHAIRMAN:

Please convey to the Delegates who have so loyally supported my candedacy my heartfelt thanks. No state or man will give the gentleman who has won this fight heartier support than Michigan and myself. He's all right. ALGER.

John Wise, of Virginia, said valor was always at the side of Harrison, who in every sense is a gentleman. He said no old passions of the past could keep people of Virginia from electing Harrison.

Mahone in response to loud calls ascended to the platform. He said he felt that he did not need to tell any Republican that he was always for their nominee. He said he came preferring one distinguished statesman above all others. He then pledged Virginia's vote.

Lynch (colored), of Mississippi, followed. He said his constituents were all with the Convention in the protection of American labor. He wanted the Convention to be with them in the protection of human life and the ballot, (applause) and in the enforcement of the laws.

Temporary Chairman Thurston, of Nebraska, in speaking predicted the success of the party under Harrison.

Harrison, of North Carolina, said that the name of Harrison was a tower of strength in his State and might give the Republican Party her votes.

Williams, of Arkansas, said that State came to bury the Democratic Party and had begun the job well. He said that it must needs be that offences come hence the election of Cleveland. Cleveland by his pension vetoes and his free trade message had laid violent hands on Arkansas.

Bradley, of Kentucky, spoke next, endorsing the nomination in the names of Lincoln and Henry Clay (applause).

The question was then put and Harrison's nomination made unanimous.

Chairman Estee called for the presentation of names of candidates for Vice President.

General Hastings took the chair as Chairman Estee became too hoarse to talk. A motion for a recess made by Indiana delegates was lost and Mr. Denny of Kentucky placed in nomination W. O. Bradley of Kentucky for Vice President. He eulogized his candidate, and closed at 2:45 p. m. amid cheers.

The nomination of Mr. Bradley was seconded by Mr. Warner of Alabama, Mr. Houk of Texas, Mr. Buck of Georgia and Mr. Atkinson of Michigan. These gentlemen spoke glowing words for the nominee, and at 3.08 p. m. the rules were suspended and a recess was taken until 6 p. m.

MORTON FOR SECOND PLACE.

Nominated on the First Ballot Without Any Very Severe Opposition.

CHICAGO, June 26.—At 6:07 Chairman Estee called the Convention to order. His voice was again resonant and clear.

General Sewell of New Jersey, who was to have placed Phelps in nomination, had the floor, but he yielded to Griggs of his own State, who did the work in an acceptable speech. He said the Vice Presidential candidate should come from the doubtful States, and particularly from New Jersey, as that State has borne an important part in the struggles of the party in the past.

Senator Gibson, of Ohio, seconded Phelps nomination. In concluding a very eulogistic address he said he might die soon, and if he went up to Heaven like Elijah he wanted a young man to bear his mantle, and that young man was Phelps. (Great applause).

Phelp's nomination was also seconded by Patrick Egan of Nebraska, Mr. Dolliver, of Iowa, Mr. Rosenthal of Texas and Mr. Fuller of North Carolina.

New York was called at 6:48 p. m. and Warner Miller arose and placed in nomination Levi P. Morton. He said that when New York withdrew her candidate for President she did so in sorrow, and not in anger. He said that it was the first time in a generation that the New York delegation had come to a National Convention able to act in harmony and accord. (Applause.) He added that Morton was a man with whom he had crossed swords in partisan strife, but said that if the Convention nominated Levi P. Morton swords would be drawn only in the common cause. He said that the action of this morning made it possible to carry Indiana, and by further action like that of the morning would make it possible to carry New York. (Applause.) He said he gave his word that if Morton was nominated there would be no stopping of the onward march to victory. Mr. Miller begged the Convention not to forget that the battle was to be fought out in New York.

He reminded them that the President and candidate for re-election and present Secretaries of the Navy and Treasury came from New York. It would be a hard fight, but if New Yorkers only aided the fight would be carried to a successful conclusion. (Loud applause and cheers.)

Mr. Miller concluded by saying that New York asked the favor of Morton's nomination. (Great cheering.)

At 7 p. m. Mr. Gage, of California, seconded Morton's nomination.

He said that Harrison's nomination meant Indiana, and that Morton's meant New York.

Ex-Governor Foster of Ohio seconded the nomination of Levi P. Morton. He believed that in the interests of good politics the nomination should be given to Morton.

"He is a willing and capable man, and years ago, during the famine in Ireland, at his own expense, sent a ship load of provisions to the poor, suffering Irish people."

The nomination was seconded by Mr. Hollowell, of Kansas, who said that Kansas had always looked to New York, and that if the name of Harrison was entwined with that of Morton victory was certain. He was greeted with great applause.

General Hastings, of Pennsylvania, followed, and said that Pennsylvania believes

BY THE WAY.

—Oh! for a Y. M. C. A. building.

—The change in the atmosphere this afternoon is agreeable to almost everyone.

—The class in mechanical drawing will meet as usual at the Y. M. C. A., rooms, this evening.

—Advices from Washington Valley, by our special correspondent, state that the Republican nominations will not seriously nterfere with the peach crop.

—People are again cautioned against putting glass and other rubbish dangerous to handle, in their ash barrels. Those who do this will not have their ashes removed.

—Wild strawberries grow to a considerable extent in this vicinity. A West Fourth street school boy succeeded in gathering about two quarts on the Short Hills, yesterday.

—A Committee from the Hackensack Fire Department visited this city, recently, with the view of purchasing an old hose cart stored in the rear of Alert's house. Committee came to no definite conclusion while here.

—A special meeting of the Plainfield Gesang and Turn Verein Society was held at the Society's headquarters on East Second street, last evening, to make arrangements for attending the funeral of their late Brother, Wm. Piker.

—This is positively the last week at the City Hotel of Dr. Kimbell one of the benefactors of mankind—including women and children. He removes absolutely without pain all excrescences that are such sources of pain and discomfort to the feet.

—The North Plainfield authorities have refused to grant another week's license to the owners of the merry-go-round, which for a week or more past has tortured the residents on Craig Place. Yesterday stakes were pulled, and the procession started for Bound Brook.

—Owing to the extreme warm weather, the meetings of the Berean Bible Class, held nightly for the past six months, will be held on Tuesday and Friday evenings only, until further notice. Subject this evening: "The Source of Strength;" Acts, 26:22. Cutter's Hall at 8 o'clock.

—The damage done to Councilman Erickson's residence by fire on Sunday evening is greater than was at first supposed. Both the kitchen range and the stove in the laundry had to be removed, in order to make the necessary repairs. Meanwhile the family is obliged to go out for their meals.

—The Fidelity & Casualty Co., of New York, is offering the best accident insurance we know of. Its policies include all the modern improvements, and are issued at the lowest cost possible with surety. Mr. J. T. Vail, North avenue opposite the station, is the Company's agent in Plainfield.

—The Champions of this city will play a match game of ball with the Stars of Dunellen, on the grounds at Sixth street and Arlington avenue, to-morrow, beginning at 9:30 A. M. The contest will be for one dollar a side, the winning team to buy peanuts with the proceeds. Ray Potter will umpire the game.

—A regular meeting of Zephyr Hook and Ladder Company, No. 1, was held in the parlors of the company's house, last evening. A roll was presented for signatures which it is designed to present to the Council at its next meeting asking for admission to the Fire Department. The list includes fourteen of the old members and ten new ones.

—A number of the New York papers of last Sunday, editorially advised the shedding of the stiff-starched linen shirt of the day, for the light flannel, with soft collar and loose tie. The latter is slowly coming into general use with gentlemen, and a full line of these cool and handsome garments can be found at A. C. Horton's 5 West Front street. Also a big assortment of straw hats, including real mackinaws at 75 cents.

—Announcement was made at the Sunday school session in Warren Mission chapel on Sunday afternoon, of the forthcoming excursion to Ocean Grove and Asbury Park, on Friday, July 20. The Sunday school of Hope chapel will accompany Warren Mission school this year. The Committee of Arrangements visited Highland Beach and other well-known watering places, but came to the conclusion that Asbury Park offered better facilities for excursionists, and consequently that place was decided upon.

—Mr. Samuel C. Allen is trying to arrange a match game of base ball on the Crescents grounds for Saturday afternoon, between the Centrals and a New York Club.

—Those of our readers who anticipate leaving the city for the Summer, should send their name and address to this office, in order that THE PRESS may be forwarded to them.

—A regular meeting of the shareholders of the Plainfield Building and Loan Association was held in Cutter's Hall, last evening. The payment of dues was promptly responded to.

—The members of the Gesang and Turn Verein Society are requested to meet at the society's headquarters on East Second street, to-morrow at 1 P. M., for the purpose of attending the funeral of the late William Piker.

—Tickets for Gettysburg and return will be on sale at the Plainfield station, commencing Thursday. The excursion rate is $6.20, good until July 6. Trains from this city that will connect, leave at 5:12, 8:05, 9:24, A. M., and 2:02, 6:38 P.M. Sundays, 6:33 P. M.

—The driver of a stone wagon turned his team into Front street from Somerset street, yesterday morning, just in time to collide with a buggy standing in front of Mr. H. A. Pope's dry goods store. The shafts on the buggy were broken, otherwise the damage was trifling.

The Fourth at The Netherwood.

The celebration at Netherwood, Wednesday of next week, will equal if not excel the Fourth of July gayeties of last year. A meeting of the Hotel's guests was held in the reading room, Saturday evening, and an informal consideration of plans and means developed much enthusiasm.

Gilmore's band, the same as last year, will probably be engaged again for an open-air concert in the afternoon and the ball in the evening. The display of fireworks will be more elaborate, even, than that of last year. There will be also a supper to guests and their invited friends.

The arrangements are in the hands of some of the very gentlemen who made the celebration of the 4th of July, 1887, the great event of Netherwood's existence.

Major T. H. Cullen, chairman, and Mr. H. D. Brewster, secretary, of last year's general committee, and Mr. H. W. Williams, chairman of the floor committee, are again enthusiastic workers in the cause. Therefore, with the financial assistance of the many generous givers among the guests of The Netherwood, the Fourth will be liberally, emphatically and enjoyable celebrated.

Republican Ratification Meeting to be Held.

The regular weekly meeting of the Republican Association was held in its rooms over City National Bank, last evening. At 8:45 o'clock the meeting was called to order by President E. R. Pope. In the absence of Secretary J. H. Doane, Mr. F. A. Dunham was chosen Secretary for the evening. The President then announced the nominations made at Chicago yesterday afternoon, and the irrepressible "Gep" Frazee proposed three cheers for Harrison and Morton, which were lustily given.

The Committee on ratification meeting reported that they had decided to hold a meeting in the rooms of the Association on Saturday evening, June 30. Speakers from abroad will be present. Further particulars will be made public by posters and through the press of the city. No further business appearing, the meeting was declared adjourned until Saturday evening at 8 o'clock.

The City's Health.

Health Inspector and Councilman M. M. Dunham has his hands full at present in looking after the city's health. He informs us that in all about 200 orders have been issued to violators of the health code, and in almost all instances the orders have been obeyed. Councilman Dunham has a pleasant way of reasoning with the people, and his suggestions generally meet with approval by those whom orders are served upon. Mr. Dunham has also associated himself with Assessor Hubbard, and is making a tour of the city with that gentleman. The work of completing the assessment will continue for about two weeks.

A Magnanimous Offer.

General Grubb, Commander of the Department of New Jersey, has sent to each Grand Army Post a circular offering to pay from his private purse the arrearages of dues of every member who was dropped from the rolls as a delinquent during the last fiscal year. The total amount of these arrearages is not definitely known, but it will amount to several thousands of dollars. Commander Grubb makes this offer to swell the rolls of the Posts and reclaim those members who have allowed their membership to lapse.

Don't Miss It!

The sale of two large country seats and about thirty double lots, a portion of the estate of the late Mahlon Mulford, takes place to-morrow, (Wednesday, 27th inst.) at 2 P. M., on the premises, North Broad Street, Elizabeth, N. J. No finer nor cheaper property in the city of Elizabeth. Terms and particulars on day of sale.

—The picnic of the Plainfield Gesang and Turn Verein at Keller's Grove, North Plainfield, on July 4, promises to be an interesting affair. In the afternoon Prof. Conde's Cornet Band will give a grand concert, followed by dancing. Admission to the grounds will be only by invitation.

North Plainfield Republican Rally.

Pursuant to a call the members of the U. S. Grant Republican Club of North Plainfield, met in Spencer's Hall, last evening, to ratify the nomination of Harrison & Morton, the Republican nominees for President and Vice President of the United States.

Mr. H. N. Spencer called the meeting to order, and he was subsequently elected permanent secretary. Mr. Chas. A. Reed, of the law firm of Clark & Reed, was elected President to fill the vacancy caused by the death of ex-Councilman Alex. Milne. Stirring addresses were made by Rev. Cæsar A. A. Taylor, a colored divine of Princeton, Hon. Charles Place, Councilman Needham and others, all ratifying the nomination of Harrison & Morton.

During the course of the evening President Reed took occasion to express his enthusiasm and delight, by stating that a young Republican had just located in the Borough in the person of a son to him. The President this year will not be elected by a proxy vote, consequently the young man will have no voice in the matter. The little one was christened by some of those present at the meeting as "Harrison Grant Reed."

After the laughter had subsided, the regular order of business was resumed. Twenty-five new members were enrolled. Mr. Place submitted a set of resolutions, endorsing the nominations, which were unanimously adopted.

The Club decided to accept an invitation from the Republican Association in this city to join with the latter association in public demonstration on Saturday evening, to which time the meeting adjourned.

The colored drum corps was present, and during the evening a generous display of pyrotechnics took place in front of the hall.

Poor Thing, He Can't Help It!

THE PRESS' bulletins have day after day given the public the first and only correct news of the proceedings of the "late unpleasantness" at Chicago. Yesterday the nominations of Harrison and Morton, with the decisive ballots, and a large picture of the Presidential candidate, were posted on the front of THE PRESS office not many minutes after the work was accomplished at Chicago.

A moribund sheet struggling daily in futile competion, and claiming to possess the "only telegraphic news franchise," published the selection of "Mr. Hurst" as temporary, and the election of "Mr. Estel" as permanent chairman, and although only the fifth ballot was cast on Saturday, gave a sixth on that day which contained not a single vote for the late John Sherman.

To our extinguished contemporary we would say, don't monkey with the telegraphic news. It is beyond your power of comprehension.

Continue daily to purloin your local items from THE PRESS, and keep your title clear as the Plainfield Stolen News. Fill up with that glorious old song of the "Star Spangled Banner," and claim that you copyrighted it. But leave all efforts of enterprise to those who have the ability to accomplish them.

However, we suppose you are doing the best you can.

Jumped From a Second Story Window.

THE PRESS yesterday contained an item referring to the arrest and imprisonment of William Ross, one of the half-dozen of men who set upon and beat Michael Jones on the Boulevard, on the night of April 28, last. It appears that the officers experienced considerable difficulty in capturing their man.

Officer Flannigan stationed himself in a door yard on South Second street, about five o'clock, on Monday morning, while Officer McCue entered Ross's lodging on West Third street. The latter quietly submitted to arrest, but asked permission to don a shirt before leaving the house. Entering another room he locked the door between himself and the officer, and jumped from a second story window to the ground below. Scaling a high picket fence he fell a prey to Officer Flannigan who took him in charge. Ross declared that he had broken his leg by the jump, but he was able to walk to the station house, and intelligence from Elizabeth this morning states that he is able to manipulate the hammer along with the other 30-day convicts.

Methodist Ministers' Meeting.

An interesting series of meetings was held in the M. E. church at Bound Brook on Thursday last.

In the morning Rev. Dr. Van Meter pastor of the M. E. church in this city, opened a discussion on special forms of Sabbath breaking in our community. Rev. E. M. Garton, the local pastor, spoke of the pastor's relation to the public schools and Rev. W. S. Haggarty of Mount Horeb discussed the subject how class meetings can be revived.

At the afternoon session Rev. T. S. Haggerty of New Germantown talked about the essential elements of a Sunday school worker, and Rev. Mr. Brown of East Millstone dwelt on children's meetings,

An Eight-Base Hit.

The Cadmuses are great ball-players. At a recent game in Prospect Park, Brooklyn, a brother of the "Crescent's" battery made a long hit over centre-fielder's head, and ran the bases like a racer. When he reached the home-plate it was claimed that he had not touched the first-base, so young Cadmus started around once more. He got home again just before the fielder had caught up with the ball and thrown it in.

POISON IN OUR DRINK.

Not Alcohol—which one may avoid—but BRASS AND LEAD which one takes unsuspectingly. "How—When—Where?" Well, say, in a glass of Soda. Pity the most popular and wholesome of all artificial drinks—which Soda honestly is—should ever deserve a touch of suspicion, but

THE FROZEN TRUTH

is that in some Soda Fountains economy and mechanical facility are studied to the neglect of the weightier matter of purity. Some men are too "smart;" some Soda Fountains are too "ingenious."

We have recently had made a Fountain which secures Absolute Purity for the beverages. Rather pretty, too, we think. We selected the "Matthews' make" because it is the only fount in which the syrups have positively no metallic contact, being discharged direct from glass jars into the tumblers—no tubes; while the waters are contained in and flow through solid block tin,

PURE AS CRYSTAL, COLD AS CHARITY.

We make our own syrups—from REAL FRUIT JUICES, or from chocolate or coffee, etc., as the case may be; no nonsense of essences or make believe.

New drinks? Yes, some of our own contriving. "Winks?" Not a wink; not licensed for winks, and we have an opinion of druggists who take a wink.

Come and try the new Fountain; if you like your drink we'll thank you for saying so, and you'll pay us five cents and come again—it will do you good; only don't come Sundays; no use—Fountain WON'T WORK.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

An infant son was born to Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Van Deventer of Woodland avenue, Sunday night.

Bishop Vincent made an address on "Methodism, Old and New," recently, before the Young People's Reading Circle of the Morristown M. E. church.

Miss Kenny, Mrs. Matthews and Miss Matthews, of First place, leave to-morrow for Slaterville, Tompkins county, New York. They will remain until the first of September.

The S. S. Servia, on which Miss E. E. Kenyon of Seventh street, sailed, arrived as Queenstown last Sunday and proceeded to Liverpool where all on board were landed in good health.

Helen Anderson, the four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Mortimer, died at her parents' residence on Putnam street this morning, of diphtheria. Funeral on Thursday as per notice elsewhere.

Miss Mary Hickey, a domestic employed in the family of Mr. A. D. Cook, of Broadway and LaGrande avenue, received a severe sprain of the left leg while at work about the house, yesterday morning. Dr. Fritts attended to the injuries, and later she was taken to her home in North Plainfield in a carriage.

Messrs. Milton W. Craft and C. Curtis Tyler, who have been studying at one of the New England colleges, took first and second prizes respectively, at the close of the past term, as orators. Prof. Miller, formerly President of the Plainfield Y. M. C. A., and teacher of the Senior class of the P. H. S., is a tutor in the same college.

Among the new faces of the staff at The Netherwood this season, is Mr. Charles O. H. Smith, the well-known and popular Winter Clerk of the Royal Victoria Hotel at Nassau, Bahamas. Already has Mr. Smith's good breeding and experience established him in the appreciation of the guests he serves with such courtesy and willingness.

The first annual reception of the Alumni of the North Plainfield Public School to the graduates of '88, in the W. C. T. U. rooms last evening, was an enjoyable affair, and was participated in by a large number of young people. During the evening addresses were made by Principal Boss and members of the Board of Education. These receptions will be held annually, hereafter.

The Adirondack Preserve Association is a society of gentlemen—of whom Mr. Henry C. Squires of this city is President—incorporated under an act of the State of New York. They own 5,000 acres of land, 18 miles from the terminus of the Adirondack R. R. In the centre of a clearing of 100 acres is their club house. The initiation fee is $250, and the membership of the Association is limited.

The Electrical World of last Saturday contains an illustrated article depicting and describing two printing establishments in a New York building, where 13 presses and other machines, and an elevator, are being run by one of the Daft electric motors. The power and results achieved, the convenience, and the economy of space occupied, are shown to be enormously in favor of the electric motor in general, and Mr. Daft's in particular.

DUNELLEN NEWS.

Society Notes and Other Items of Interest.

Rev. Mr. Armstrong, pastor of the Baptist church at New Brooklyn, exchanged pulpits with Rev. Mr. Skellenger, of the Presbyterian church on Sunday.

Mrs. Rogers and daughter, Miss Sarah, have again taken up their residence at New Market, after spending the Winter in Brooklyn.

Messrs. Delaman Bros & Co., grocers are enlarging their place of business, to meet the demands of their trade.

Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Ising are now receiving the congratulations of their friends, over the arrival of a male heir.

The estimable wife of Rev. Mr. Skellenger, pastor of the Presbyterian church, is recovering from her recent serious illness and her friends will be glad to learn that she is now out of danger.

The Central Railroad officials have located a flag shanty at the Prospect avenue crossing, and a flagman will hereafter be on duty there.

Mr. W. J. Hamilton and family will spend the heated term at Ocean Grove, leaving Dunellen about July 1.

Mr. James Lowrie, a well-known resident of this place, was stricken down with hemorhages on Saturday. Today his condition is reported as improved.

Dunellen is fast becoming noted as a Summer residence place. At present there are but two unoccupied houses in the village. This speaks well for Dunellen.

The Borough Commissioners are at work and rounding up and grading Lincoln avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Dexter have taken up their residence at Mr. Vail's at New Market. They will sail for Europe about August 4.

The "rag chewers" went to North Plainfield, yesterday, and defeated a team from there by a score of 16 to 15.

Palpitation of the Heart.

Persons who suffer from occasional palpitation of the heart are often unaware that they are the victims of heart disease; and are liable to die without warning. They should banish this alarming symptom, and cure the disease by using DR. MILES'S REMEDY. J. G. Miller, Agent, Plainfield.

Facts For THE PRESS Readers, Not Crazy Talk.

It may not appear before to our readers that they have reason to object to a tariff which enhances the price of everything made of iron and steel, but a little reflection should convince them that they ought not to contribute any unnecessary millions to monopolist manufacturers.

Our readers should know that the steel rails over which they or their products go to market, not only have paid immense profits to a monopoly, but will continue to pay them until some degree of outside competition is enlisted. They should know that they pay this excessive and unnecessary profit in shape of charges for transportation and that anything which can diminish that burden will be for their own and the common benefit. It will not be unnatural, therefore, if those who pay this should demand a revision of that system which enables a monopoly to burden us with this unjust tax.

If, then, the message of President Cleveland shall set you thinking, many other items of daily expense which are rendered unduly burdensome will occur to your mind. You will not understand why your window glass should bear double the tax that is imposed upon the millionaire's plate glass mirrors, and when you learn that the cheap drugget or carpet which cover your floor is made to cost 40 per cent. more than it should because of a duty on wool that is not grown in this country, you will justly have reason to demand relief, and in this demand will be joined by all who would have such carpets made in this country and who desire that the existing premium on foreign manufactures should be abolished. You would then see our manufactured articles competing in foreign markets, thus stimulating our own factories and increasing the demand for labor, and as the demand for labor increases so also will the price of labor increase.

It is true that some farmers cry out against a reduction in wool because they imagine that its price depends thereon, but this is an error. Granting however that it is true, they are in so small a minority compared with the number of those who use woolen goods, that they would suffer but slightly compared with what the majority suffer by the high tariff. The voice and needs of 55,000,000 of people should be regarded when but 5,000,000 are against. The history of the tariff on wool has shown that the clamor of the few wool growers is unfounded. Their whole product is not equal in value to one-half of the duty now paid on imported woolen goods, and to favor the raising of a few sheep on American soil we support an army of foreign workmen. This is not a good American idea and is in opposition to American industry.

A Good Man on a Bad Platform.

General Ben Harrison is a rare, clean man, a brave soldier and a worthy descendant of his grandfather, but he cannot be elected.

He was the last resort of the Blaine men who failed to nominate the man "who could have it any time." Harrison was chosen in the hope of his carrying Indiana, a State in which he has been beaten before.

But his nomination as a Western man is more than neutralized by the fact that he is put on a platform which will be death to the party that advocates it in the West. Free rum and tobacco and taxed clothes and dwellings, have no charm for the people who pay the taxes out of their wages.

Startling Figures.

The Scranton Board of Trade recently wrote to some of the leading New York newspapers asking their terms for an advertisement setting forth Scranton's facilities for manufacturing purposes, and the following astounding figures came in reply to the inquiry. Naturally it took the breath away from some members of the board. The facts ought to serve as a trite lesson to those who are continually grumbling about the excessive rates charged for advertising by the local papers. The New York World wanted $450 for a half page one time. The Tribune $350, the Times $700, in its Sunday issue, the Herald 90 cents for every sixteen words, agate type.

Who Shall Vote at School Meetings.

State School Superintendent Fuller has decided that "All persons residing in a district who are entitled to vote at a township election, are entitled to vote at a school meeting for selection of a site, appropriation to buy land, and build the school house. The majority of those present can decide these questions. If land is to be condemned, a majority of the taxable residents must be present and vote."

The above may be of interest to North Plainfield residents, who will be governed accordingly at the special school meeting called for this evening.

She Will Continue to Wear Skirts.

A good story is told of a North Plainfield Miss who became enthused with the idea of donning male attire, and starting out to struggle with the hardships of life.

The young lady, it is said, cut down a pair of her brother's pantaloons, in order to get a snug fit, and after fitting herself out from her brother's wardrobe on Friday evening last, sallied forth in male attire. Her plans were frustrated, however, when her elders discovered her seated in a barber's chair, having her tresses clipped. The young lady has indefinitely postponed her trip.

the battle ground will be New York, and that the second State of the Union should reach out her hands to New York. He said Pennsylvania believed that New Jersey could win anyhow, and that Levi P. Morton should get the nomination.

Mr. Oliver, of South Carolina, also seconded the nomination of Mr. Morton. He spoke well and was heard attentively.

Mr. Green, of Delaware, also seconded Morton, and said Delaware heard the Macedonian cry of New York, and believed it should be heeded.

Cries of "Time!" and "Vote!" interrupted Mr. Green's speech, the convention growing impatient, as many delegates wanted to get away on the evening trains.

A roll call of the States was ordered at 7.40 p. m. When Tennessee was called McElwee, a colored delegate, presented the name of William Walter Moore in a strong speech. When North Carolina was called Delegate Spears said his state was passed without being called, and the Irish bull was greeted with roars of laughter. He then started to tell a funny story, and the chair rapped him to orde. Spears protested and exclaimed:

"This is the proudest hour of my life."

Tremendous shouts answered him and he braced up again and thanked his hearers for their "magnanimous magnanimity." This was too much for the Convention, which howled with delight. Spears closed amid the din of voices by proposing the nomination of Morton by acclamation. His motion was not seconded.

Chandler of Mississippi seconded Moore, and tired some of the delegates by a long speech. Then a ballot was ordered, and while it was proceeding Moore was recognized by the chair. He thanked the convention for the honor done him and withdrew his name.

The ballot resulted as follows:

Morton, 591.
Phelps, 119.
Bradley, 108.
B. K. Bruce, 11.
W. J. Thomas, 1.

The Chair declared Levi P. Morton to be the choice of the Convention, and there was tremendous applause for the New Yorker. It was moved that the nomination be made unanimous, and it was so voted.

General Husted, of New York, moved that the National Committee give Alaska two delegates. His motion was carried.

Great excitement was created when Mr. Boutelle, of Maine moved the Convention to suspend rules and adopt a resolution to be added to the platform. Mr. Oliver, of Pennsylvania, created a scene by strenuously opposing the resolution, and the Chair was obliged to call him to order.

The rules were suspended by a rising vote. Mr. Boutelle's resolution follows: "The first concern of good government is the virtue and sobriety of the people and the purity of the home. The Republican party cordially sympathizes with all wise and well directed efforts for the promotion of temperance and morality." The resolution was adopted.

At 8:55 the thanks of the convention were tendered to Chairman Estee, and a few moments later adjourned sine die.

HE WILL DIE LIKE A MAN.

The Condemned Murderer of Arthur Preller Accepts His Position Calmly.

ST. LOUIS, June 25.—Hugh M. Brooks, alias Maxwell, the condemned murderer of Arthur Preller, and who has only a short time to live, was called upon yesterday at the jail. Brooks came forward dressed neatly, with a cigarette in his mouth and a little dog which he calls "Stumpy," at his heels. When asked if he expected his father again from England, he said that he did not, but added: "I received word yesterday that my mother had already departed from England and was coming to St. Louis. If such is the fact she will arrive here about July 1."

"You seem to keep up wonderfully, considering the position you are in."

"Well, a clear conscience will give a man a wonderful amount of confidence," remarked Maxwell.

"Supposing the Governor fails to interfere, what then?"

"Well, I will meet death like a man." The little fellow then turned and entered his cell and resumed his reading, which had been interrupted. July 13 is the day set for the execution.

MASKED BY A BANDANNA.

A Lone Highwayman on a Texas Road "Holds Up" a Stage.

BALLINGER, June 25.—A lone highwayman robbed the Ballinger and San Angelo express yesterday. He was on foot, going toward San Angelo. He had a large red bandanna around his neck, and when the stage pulled up he pulled the bandanna over the lower part of his face and with a six shooter persuaded the passengers, eight in number, to stand and deliver.

After taking about $300 from the passengers, all of whom were unarmed, he compelled the driver to unhitch the best horse and turn it over to him. The driver was compelled to catch a mule to supply his loss. This was not the highwayman that had operated in this section before.

Sale of Bay of Fundy Railroad.

ST. JOHN, N. B., June 26.—The Grand Southern Railway was sold at auction yesterday by the liquidators. This road runs along the Bay of Fundy from St. John to St. Stephen on the American border, and is eighty-two miles long. It had a bonded debt of $825,000. The purchaser was Russel Sage, of New York, who made the second bid of $101,000. It is believed that Mr. Sage will put the road into a satisfactory condition and can operate it profitably. Mr. Sage arrived here yesterday and left last night for St. Stephen, when he will go over the road on a special train.

Dickinson College.

CARLISLE, Pa., June 25.—The commencement exercises of Dickinson College were continued in Bosler Memorial Hall last night with the junior oratorical contest for the Pierson gold medal. The orator and their themes were: George V. Morris, Philadelphia, "Sources of Inspiration;" C. W. M. Black, Carlisle, "Social Panaceas;" Oliver Mordorf, Mechanicsburg, Pa., "Sentiment;" and C. W. Straw, of Dauphin, Pa., "The Invisible Mind." The medal will be awarded at noon to-day.

A Fatal Mistake.

CARLISLE, Pa., June 26.—The wife of Dr. Pollinger, a prominent physician of Mount Holly, a town about five miles from here, at eleven o'clock Saturday morning drank by mistake a cup of carbolic acid. She died in fifteen minutes after taking the drink.

Capt. Andrews and His Dory.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., June 26.—The schooner Ada R. Terry of this port reports speaking the dory Dark Secret all right on Saturday ten miles south-southeast from Cape Cod. Capt. Andrews wanted to be reported.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—To-days bond offerings aggregated $301,100 in lots as follows: Four per cent. registered, $100 at 128; 4½ per cent coupon, $38,000 at 107¼; 4½ per cent. registered, $3,000 at 107¼; $75,000 at 107 ½.

GERMANY IS FOR PEACE

THE NEW EMPEROR FORMALLY OPENS THE REICHSTAG.

In His Speech He Says that He Will Imitate the Peaceful Rule of His Grandfather.

An Eventful Day in Berlin.

BERLIN, June 26.—The Reichstag was opened yesterday with a pomp and impressiveness that have marked few such occasions in the history of the Empire during last half century. It was memorable for the fact that the New Emperor William II. was to address the body.

It was just 1 o'clock when Prince Bismarck entered the white Hall at the head of the members of the Bundstrath. He appeared unwell.

When the Emperor entered he was immediately followed by General Von Moltke, stern, wrinkled and commanding, carrying the imperial standard. The Empress and her ladies seated themselves on the right of the throne. The young Crown Prince sat beside his father.

The Emperor formally opened the Reichstag. He spoke in a clear, firm voice, and was several times interrupted by cheering. His speech was as follows:

"I greet you with deep sorrow in my heart. I know that you mourn with me. The suffering of my father and the moving fact that I have been called to the throne but three months after the death of my grandfather, Emperor William, exercise a like effect in the hearts of all Germans.

"I have before my eyes the example of the peaceful rule which Emperor William, after bitter wars, left to his successors, to which Emperor Frederick's rule corresponded, in so far as he was not prevented from executing his designs by illness or death. I have summoned you in order to declare in your presence, that as King and Emperor, I have resolved to pursue the path whereby my grandfather secured the confidence of his allies, the love of the German people and good will abroad.

"The most important duties of the German Emperor lie within the provinces of assuring the military and political safety of the Empire abroad and in watching over the execution of the imperial laws at home. In the legislation of the Empire I will endeavor to proceed in the same spirit in which my grandfather began.

"Especially will I appropriate to myself in its full significance his message of Nov. 17, 1881, and shall continue to strive in the sense of that document to secure imperial legislation that may afford the working people further protection, which, in accordance with Christian morality, is needed by the weak and oppressed in their struggle for existence.

"I hope that in this way it may be possible to reach an equalization of the present unhealthy social contrasts. I hold myself bound to oppose all efforts to undermine public order. I am resolved to maintain peace with every one so far as lies in my power. My love for the army or my position therein will never induce me to attempt to endanger for my country the benefits of peace, unless the necessity of war is forced upon us by an attempt upon the Empire or upon one of our allies.

"Our army will assure us peace, or if peace is broken, it will enable us to fight to restore it with honor, owing to the strength of the army, derived from the army laws, which you have recently passed; to employ this strength for offensive wars is far from my heart.

"An alliance with Austria I shall hold fast to with German fidelity, because I see in it the foundation of European equilibrium, and because it is also a legacy of German history, the support of which the public opinion of the whole German people sanctions. Similar historical relations and national needs now bind us to Italy.

"Both countries will maintain the blessings of peace and work out in the quiet security of a new-won unity perfection of national institutions and the promotion of their welfare. Our agreements with Austria and Italy permit me, to my satisfaction, to maintain a personal friendship with the Czar and continue the friendly relations which have existed for a century with Russia, in consonance with my feelings and with German interests.

"Trusting in God and in my people's ability for their defense, I entertain the confidence that it will be permitted to us, for an indefinite time, to defend and assure, by peaceful effort, what my two predecessors, who are now resting in God, won by arms."

The Reichstag was opened in regular order at 3:30 p. m. by the President. In his speech the President eulogized the late Emperor Frederick and expressed grief at his death. He said that the nation would show its gratitude to him by fidelity to his son. The President and Vice Presidents were all re-elected, after which the House proceed to draft a reply to the speech from the throne.

SHERIDAN STILL IMPROVING.

He Will Be Removed the Latter Part of this Week to the North.

WASHINGTON, June 26.—General Sheridan rests comfortably at night and yesterday morning enjoyed the northerly breeze that renders the temperature quite satisfactory. His brother, Colonel Michael Sheridan, says it is intended to try and remove him to some point at the north toward the end of this week should his favorable condition continue. No definite arrangements have yet been made either as to the time or manner of the removal, though it is quite probable that the U. S. steamer Despatch may be used for this.

NEW BEDFORD, June 26.—Gen. Phil Sheridan's new cottage at Nonquit, a summer resort five miles from here, has been furnished and it is said the General will leave Washington in time to reach Nonquit this evening or Wednesday.

A Farmer Flayed to Death.

ST. LOUIS, June 26.—A terrible outrage is reported as having occurred in Pulaski County Saturday night. A band of masked riders rode up to the house of Charles Gross, a wealthy farmer about midnight, and, dragging him from the house, carried him a mile away, and there whipped him to death. The alleged cause is the divulging of secrets of the Agricultural Wheel, a secret organization.

Transfer of the B. & O. Sleepers.

BALTIMORE, June 26.—George M. Pullman, President of the Pullman Palace Car Company, yesterday concluded the purchase of the entire Baltimore and Ohio Railroad sleeping car system, including a contract for the operation of Pullman cars for twenty-five years. The price paid is understood to be about $1,200,000.

$100,000 Worth of Jewelry Stolen.

LONDON, June 25.—A thief entered the apartments of the Crown Prince of Sweden in the hotel at Franzensbad on Saturday night and stole jewelry worth $100,900.

The Golden Spike.

The golden spike that united the Union and the Central Pacific railroads and connected New York and San Francisco by rail has been immortalized in song, story, and picture until it has become a part of the history of this country, and wherever the Pacific coast is heard of there will also the famous "golden spike" of the Central Pacific be known. There is one peculiar fact connected with this golden spike, however. The spike is still in the custody of the Central Pacific Railroad Company, and yet there are many charms made from gold that are said to be made from this spike. The stories do not agree, and much speculation has been caused thereby. The charms are made in the shape of little railroad spikes, each about an inch long. They are engraved with the fact that the metal was part of the great "Golden Spike," that joined the two roads, and giving the date of the completion of the road, May 10, 1869, and the name of the owner. These are looked upon as spurious charms, but they are genuine, and to explain this one must go back into history which is comparatively unknown.

The Central Pacific Railroad now owns the track that runs to the city of Ogden, but as an actual fact it never built this road. For months the Central and Union Pacific railroads had been racing, one eastward and the other westward, the Union Pacific aiming to get over the Sierras, and the Central aiming to get the best pass over these mountains into Nevada and beyond. At that time it was the intention of the Union Pacific to have an entrance into San Francisco, and the Central Pacific was trying to get as far east as possible before making a connection. During the first part of the year 1869 and the latter part of 1868 each road had its graders working night and day. They met in the neighborhood of Promontory and passed each other, one set grading to the eastward and the other to the westward within a few hundred feet of one another. Each road had graded many miles beyond their first meeting place when the tracks were laid to Promontory, fifty-three miles west of Ogden. Then they paused and thought over the matter, and negotiations were made by which the Central Pacific railroad purchased the track into Ogden, and grading ceased. Like immense mounds the abandoned grades lay along the shore of the Great Salt Lake to bear witness to the struggles between two great roads.

But to return to the golden spike. At Promontory the spike was driven, and with much ceremony and pomp was the affair celebrated. The spike was made of gold—pure gold, and on the tip of it was a large lump of rough gold. This was broken off; Leland Stanford drove the spike, which was afterward carefully drawn and preserved, and an iron one substituted. It was from this rough lump of gold, cast with the spike, that the little watch charms are made.—Oakland Tribune.

Six Children at a Birth.

The wife of the cyndic Mayor, Castagnola Ticino, has given birth to six children. This fact is testified to as absolutely correct by an authoritative Berne correspondent. The woman, whose name is Rezzonico, is 38 years of age, and has already had three and four children at a birth. Her husband is married for the second time and has seven children by his first wife. The six children—four boys and two girls—were born living, but died soon afterward. The news of this extraordinary event, perhaps hitherto unheard of in the annals of anthropology, has created a great sensation, especially in Italy, and doctors are hastening to the scene from Milan, Como, and other towns to satisfy themselves of its truth.—London Special.

A Use for Postal-Cards.

"There," said an old gentleman, transferring a bloodstone ring from the index finger of his left hand to a less conspicuous place, "I've managed to remember that little errand and the ring can go back to the right finger." "I've a better plan than that," said a bystander. "When I've something important to do I write myself a postal-card. My clerks have got used to seeing these missives come in addressed to me in my own hand. Nobody can read the message, for I use a rough sort of short hand known only to myself.

"When I get to the office in the morning with a dozen things to do there are the postal-cards mailed the night before to remind me of any matter that I might overlook. The post-office is a great convenience. I know a man who habitually posts small packages to his home address simply to save himself the trouble of carrying them up-town. That plan, he says, is cheaper and safer than using a messenger service."—New York Press.

Twin Rabbits.

Young Oliver is a dry youth of 8 or 9, whose face is as blank as the wall when he tells a story or delivers an opinion, but who is an exceedingly precocious chap for all that. The other day he went to visit a rich relative out in one of the suburbs and was taken to see the ponies, and the carriages, and the elegant grounds, and finally given a private view of some cherished white rabbits which had been imported from somewhere and which he was expected to admire very much. He viewed everything, however, with his customary impassiveness.

On his return home Oliver was questioned regarding his visit, and asked, among other things:

"Did you see those wonderful rabbits?"

"Um-um."

"Well, what did they look like?"

"One of 'em didn't look like nothing, and the other looked just like him."—Boston Transcript.

The Typesetter.

The typesetting machine has come to stay, and a good many fear that the days of the typo are numbered. It is not so. The typo was here first, and will remain until the final blast upon the bugle horn of Gabriel resounds over hill and dale—until the heavens are rolled up like a scroll of spring poetry. The typesetting machine may do much. It may let the types drop out of their boxes or puddle around in molten metal, but there are things which it cannot do. It cannot put on a "sub" and attend a base ball game; it cannot use lower registered notes, and yell out, "Who's got take B 13? What's your last word?" It cannot borrow sorts or fake thin spaces, or jeff, turning up three mollies at will; it cannot reach out for a "fff" while keeping one eye in search of a fat take; it cannot hug the fat rack like a brother and borrow fine cut; it cannot cuss the telegraph editor or believe that the proof-reader is a lineal descendant of old Mephisto; it cannot vote solidly against the paper it works for or punctuate matter correctly for literary geniuses; it cannot grubstake a dismantled fellow, nor fit a foot-sore pilgrim for the night; it cannot grow brain weary or paint the office blue when it catches a galley toward morning; it cannot have its lunch basket where the editor can hold a midnight orgie over it, or eliminate the orthographic bone-spavin from a sentence, giving it elasticity; it cannot immortalize a man by ignoring what he did write and setting what he should have written; it cannot sing church music evenings while throwing in type, or believe its dupes draw themselves up when being measured; it cannot, when the ghost walks on Monday and the lunch man is paid, go forth hitting the ground in high places, to carminate the burg, or talk shop on the corner. It cannot do this or that or these or any of them. Science may put fingers on a typesetting machine, but it cannot furnish it with brains or heart. The typo is here, and has his knitting with him.—Fort Worth Gazette.

Landing a Big Salmon.

Before the fly has fairly lit, a great flash of silver darts from the waves close by the boat. He has hooked himself with a rush, and the line goes whirring madly from the reel as he races down the pool. Keep the point of the rod low; he must have his own way now. Up with the anchor quickly, and send the canoe after him, bowman and sternman paddling with swift strokes. He has reached the deepest water; he stops to think what has happened to him; we have passed around and below him; and now with the current to help us we can begin to reel in. Lift the point of the rod, with a strong steady pull. Put the force of both arms into it. The tough wood will stand the strain. The fish must be moved; he must come to the boat if he is ever to be landed. He gives a little and yields slowly to the pressure. Then suddenly he gives too much, and runs straight toward us. Reel in now as swiftly as possible, or else he will get a slack on the line and escape. Now he stops, shakes his head from side to side, and darts away again across the pool, leaping high out of water. Drop the point of the rod quickly, for if he falls on the leader he will surely break it. Another leap, and another! Truly he is "a merry one," as Sir Humphrey Davy says, and it will go hard with us to hold him. But those great leaps have exhausted his strength, and now he follows the line more easily. The men push the boat back to the shallow side of the pool until it touches lightly on the shore. The fish comes slowly in, fighting a little and making a few short runs; he is tired and turns slightly on his side; but even yet he is a heavy weight on the line, and it seems a wonder that so slight a thing as a leader can guide and draw him. Now he is close to the boat. The bowman steps out on a rock with his gaff. Steadily now and slowly, lift the rod, bending it backward. A quick, sure stroke of the steel! a great splash! and the salmon is lifted high and dry upon the shore.—Scribner's Magazine.

Where She Missed It.

"Ma and I," she said, shyly, "are more like sisters than mother and daughter."

"Yes?" he said, with a lingering inflection on the afterguard of the yes, which rose clear to the ceiling.

"Yes, indeed!" said the girl, the rosy flush on her cheeks making her infinitely more beautiful than ever. "Ma and I are 'inseparable. We have never been separated a single day since I was a little baby."

"N-no?" he said, this time with an inflection on the second section of no that went only half way up to the ceiling and back again.

"Oh, dear, no!" the girl went on, in her artless way, "and ma and I always said that when I was married she was going to love my husband like her own son and come and keep house for us."

"Oh-h!" William said, with a circumflex. Then he rose firmly and said that he had a note in bank to take up at 3 o'clock, and as it was now 2:30 he would go. And go he did. And he didn't come back again. Not never. And ma said to the girl:

"That's where you missed it in not fully trusting your mother. Why didn't you tell me that man had been married before. Had I known he was a widower I would have played the 'Home for Old Women' racket on him."—Detroit Free Press.

The Phonograph.

It is suggested that the phonograph may be used as an automatic novel-reader, with each character speaking, as it were, in propria persona. That is, the phonogram will be produced with the various voices as in nature, all the inflections of passion, sorrow, sympathy, ridicule and sarcasm, and songs, etc., uttered to it originally by professional elocutionists, dialecticians, and singers.

CLEVELAND IS NOTIFIED

OFFICIALLY TOLD OF HIS NOMINATION FOR PRESIDENT.

Cabinet Officers, Their Wives and Mrs. Cleveland Present During the Proceedings—Mr. Cleveland's Reply.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—The committee appointed by the Democratic National Convention to notify Grover Cleveland of his renomination to the Presidency performed their allotted task yesterday afternoon. The National Committee appeared at the White House at 2 o'clock, and the mistress of the White House, with the Cabinet members and their wives, were present in the east room to welcome them. Some minutes passed in an informal chat before the President made his appearance. He was received with applause, and shook hands cordially with each of his visitors.

Chairman Patrick A. Collins introduced the business in a few brief sentences, and then Charles D. Jacobs, of Louisville, read the formal notification, which was signed by all the members of the committee. It recited that the manner in which Mr. Cleveland had administered his office gave the Democracy the confidence which resulted in a renomination. The letter concludes:

"In conveying, sir, to you the responsible trust which has been confided to them this committee beg individually and collectively to express the great pleasure which they have felt at the result attending the National Convention of the Democratic party and to offer to you the best wishes for official and personal success and happiness."

The President spoke as follows in response the notification:

I cannot but be profoundly impressed when I see about me messengers of the National Democracy bearing its summons to duty. The political party to which I owe allegiance, both honors and commands me. It places in my hands the proud standard and bids me bear it high at the front in a battle which it wages bravely, because conscious of right, confidently because its trust is in the people, and soberly, because it comprehends the obligations which success imposes. The message which you bring awakens within me the liveliest sense of personal gratitude and satisfaction, and the honor which you tender me is so great that there might well be no room for any other sentiment, and yet I cannot rid myself of grave and serious thoughts when I remember that party supremacy is not alone involved in the conflict which presses upon us, but that we struggle to secure and save the cherished institutions, the welfare and the happiness of a nation of free men. Familiarity with the great office which I hold has but added to my apprehension of its sacred character and the consecration demanded of him who assures its immense responsibilities. It is the repository of the peoples' will and power within its vision; should be the protection and welfare of the humblest citizen, and with quick ear it should catch, from the remotest corner of the land, the plea of the people for justice and for right. For the sake of the people, he who holds this office of theirs should resist every encroachment upon its legitimate functions; and for the sake of the integrity and usefulness of the office it should be kept near to the people and be administered in full sympathy with their wants and needs. This occasion reminds me most vividly of the scene when four years ago I received a message from my party similar to that which you now deliver. With all that has passed since that day, I can truly say that the feeling of awe, with which I heard the summons then is intensified many fold when it is repeated now. Four years ago I knew that our chief executive office, if not carefully guarded, might drift little by little away from the people to whom it belonged, and become a perversion of all it ought to be. But I did not know how much its moorings had already been loosened. I knew four years ago how well devised were the principles of true Democracy for the successful operation of a Government by the people and for the people, but I did not know how absolutely necessary their application then was for the restoration to the people of their safety and prosperity. I knew then that abuses and extravagances had crept into the management of public affairs; but, I did not know their numerous forms nor the tenacity of their grasp. I knew then something of the bitterness of partisan obstruction; but I did not know how bitter, how reckless and how shameless it could be. I knew too that the American people were patriotic and just, but I did not know how grandly they loved their country nor how noble and generous they were. I shall not dwell upon the acts and the policy of the administration now drawing to its close. Its record is now open to every citizen of the land, and yet I will not be denied the privilege of asserting at this time that in the exercise of the functions of the high trust confided to me I have yielded obedience only to the Constitution and the solem obligation of my oath of office. I have done those things which in the light of the understanding God has given to me seemed most conducive to the welfare of my countrymen and the promotion of good government. I would not, if I could, for myself nor for you, avoid a single consequence of a fair interpretation of my course. It but remains for me to say to you, and through you to the Democracy of the nation, that I accept the nomination with which they have honored me, and that I will in due time signify such acceptance in the usual formal manner.

Chairman Barnum Re-Elected.

WASHINGTON, June 26.—The Democratic National Committee last night re-elected Hon. W. H. Barnum chairman by acclamation. To-day at 12:30 on invitation of Secretary Whitney, the members of the committee will be driven out to his country home, Greenlands, to lunch. An invitation to accompany the Notification Committee to pay the formal call on Judge Thurman was discussed, and a decision will be reached to-day. The Committee on Notification will start this evening for Columbus.

The Singer Company Pays Its Back Taxes.

ELIZABETH, N. J., June 27.—President of the city council Rankin, received a check for $30,000 yesterday from the Singer Manufacturing Company for arrearages of taxes. The payment settles the good faith of the recent adjustment of the city debt.

A Woman on the Board.

CHICAGO, June 27.—Mayor Roach has appointed Mrs. Ellen M. Mitchell, wife of a member of the Board of Trade, as member of the Board of Education of this city. She is the first woman ever appointed to such a position in Chicago.

THE HOOSIER CAPITAL

STIRRING TIMES AT THE HOME OF GEN. HARRISON.

The City All Aglow—Congratulatory Messages—News of a Political Nature from Several Other Places.

INDIANAPOLIS, June 27.—This city has been in a great state of excitement for several days past, culminating last night in an immense demonstration in honor of Gen. Benjamin Harrison, the Republican nominee for President. All yesterday the work of decorating was in progress, and last night every street had countless dwellings adorned with bunting, while a prominent feature of the illuminations was the numerous streamers of natural gas blazing away in various grounds.

A correspondent called yesterday morning upon Gen. Harrison, whom he found at his home on North Delaware street, near Home avenue. He lives in a plain, unpretentious, two story and attic brick house, set well back from the street, one side half covered with woodbine, while the lawn in front is well kept, a kitchen garden back of the house being half-hidden behind a grape arbor. The garden is separated from the street by a simple wooden paling, in which are sundry gaps made by eager crowds the night before. An inquiry for Gen. Harrison was met by a cordial invitation to step right in. The General himself came forward to his visitor, rising to do so from amid a crowd of Indiana friends and admirers.

General Harrison is a man rather under medium height, somewhat stout, with a large head set deeply between broad shoulders, giving him an appearance of being shorter than he really is. His hair is a reddish brown, now scanty and quite gray, while his long beard is of the same hue. At the same time there is nothing of age or venerableness in his appearance. He appears to be a wide awake man of about 50 years.

He said he was naturally gratified at the confidence of the Republican party in thus calling him to lead the hosts in the coming contest. He did not know if he would make a personal canvass; his own inclination was evidently against anything of the kind. As regard his views and attitude on the Chinese question, he was satisfied with the assurances of Senator Mitchell of Oregon and John T. Swift of California that the people of the Pacific coast were not disposed to criticize him on that account. When the question first arose in the Senate it was generally regarded as one of local interest, and there was disposition to adhere to the Fourth-of-July idea that this was a great country, an asylum for the poor and distressed of all lands, and the treaties with China were also regarded as having a weight not to be overlooked. The people generally did not realize the peril to the whole country of having countless millions of Chinese coming to our shores. Before he left the Senate, however, a most stringent bill on the subject was unanimously reported by the Senate Committee on Foreign relations, of which he was a member, and was passed.

Mr. Harrison's wife is a pleasant faced person of unassuming manner, who mingles much in society, but is not a "society woman." His family consists of a son about 32 years old, who is in Montana, and a daughter, Mrs. McKee, whose husband is an ardent Democrat. Mr. and Mrs. McKee live with Gen. Harrison.

The town last night was ablaze with enormous jets and masses of flames of natural gas straining skyward, forming wreaths and vases and flames and vast arches with the letter H and the name Harrison stretching across the street. It was beautiful to see square after square aflame with Chinese lanterns, the electric lights erected yesterday afternoon illuminating General Harrison's front yard, and the thousands of people filling the street in front of the house for squares in each direction. It was stirring to see everybody and every vehicle carrying bits of red, white and blue, even horses being draped from head to heels in star-bespangled bunting. It was exciting to watch the moving thousands in the streets.

Every man, woman and child in Indianapolis, without regard to age, sex, color, or previous condition of servitude, is blowing on a tin horn, varying in length from 6 inches and 10 feet, and sonorous in proportion. It is as much as one's tympanum is worth to try to cross the street. This sort of thing cannot be stood forever. The Indianapolis people of all parties are proud of Ben Harrison, but if this terrific, thus appalling sleep destroying horn tooting is kept up for another 24 hours, there will be a general regret that Harrison was ever born, or at least that he ever received the nomination for the Presidency.

General Harrison has been receiving telegrams and letters from all quarters and from many distinguished persons besides the hundreds which arrived last night. In response to a telegram received last night he sent the following:

The Hon. Levi P. Morton, New York:

Thanks for your kind message. Let me assure you that the association of your name with mine on the ticket gives me great satisfaction.

BENJAMIN HARRISON.

Gen. W. T. Sherman has wired the following to the nominee;

"It is proper that I should assure you of my great confidence. You were true and faithful when we needed men of action. I believe you will be elected, and you may command me."

The California delegation to Chicago arrived here to-night and marched to Gen. Harrison's house, where a speech was made by one of the delegates. An immense crowd of people was gathered, and in response to repeated calls Gen. Harrison came forward and addressed the assemblage for a few minutes, thanking them heartily for the honor they had done him.

DEPEW AND OTHER GRANGERS.

He Delivered a Humorous Speech at the First Ratification Meeting.

CHICAGO, June 27.—The speech of Chauncey M. Depew at the impromptu ratification meeting held at the Grand Pacific Hotel provoked much laughter and applause. He said:

"Fellow Grangers, (great laughter) nothing pleases me so much as to meet these intelligent farmers with whom I am and whose occupation has been mine all my life. I inherited a farm when I was born and I have raised enough off it to pay the taxes on it. I had no trouble with the transportation companies because there was no surplus on the farm to transport. When you arrive at that condition the trouble between the railways and the Granger people will cease (laughter.) I never saw a Convention so harmonious at its opening, so long continued and so harmonious at its close. When I had met the enemy and belonged to him, I had the felicity of occupying a position seldom accorded to any one on this earth. I pronounced my own obituary. And I believe every corpse should pronounce its own obituary because it knows better than any man living the virtue and vices of the deceased. (Laughter.) It is a strange sensation, though, to hear the gravel rattling upon your own coffin when you throw it in yourself.

"But the Republican party has done with funerals. (A voice—We'll have one for Grover.) Yes, we'll furnish a funeral for him, but we will furnish no more corpses from our own ranks. The result of the Convention has been the best that could possibly be arrived at. And I say this with no reflection upon Senator Allison or Senator Sherman, or the gallant soldier, Gen. Alger, not upon my friend Judge Gresham, a man who in public and private life stands supreme among those who are considered the greatest and best."

Mr. Depew predicted, as did the others, success for the ticket in November.

Celebrating in Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, June 27.—The Republicans turned out in force last night to welcome home the delegates from Chicago. A parade formed in three divisions with over 10,000 in line compose of Union Republican Club, Republican League, Young Men's Republican Club, Young Republicans, Protective Tariff, Lincoln, Blaine, Alpha Anti-Cobden, and marching clubs. The Union Republican and Campaign Headquarters were gay with flags and fireworks, and cannons were fired. The streets were lined with people to witness the parade. Live coons and log cabins were carried in the procession. The delegates arrived at 9 o'clock.

Blaine to Harrison.

INDIANAPOLIS, June 26.—Among the congratulatory telegrams received by General Harrison was the following from Mr. Blaine:

LENLITHGOW, June 25.

Gen. Harrison, Indianapolis:

I congratulate most heartily upon the work of the National Convention. Your candidacy will recall the triumphant enthusiasm and assure the victorious conclusion which followed your grandfather's nomination in 1840. Your election will seal our industrial independence as the Declaration of '76 which bears the honored name of your great-grandfather sealed our political independence. JAMES G. BLAINE.

London Times on the Nominations.

LONDON, June 26.—The press of the city, where they notice the Republican nominations in Chicago yesterday at all, treat them in the customary indifferent manner.

The Times thinks that the State of New York will decide the election as before, and says that should Harrison be elected Blaine will possibly become a powerful minister. The Times says further that it believes Blaine has overreached himself. The Pall Mall Gazette says: "Harrison, the Republican nominee of the United States for President has as much chance of becoming King of England as President."

Morton Remains Quiet.

NEW YORK, June 27.—Levi P. Morton, the Republican candidate for Vice-President, remained at his country home all day yesterday. Scores of congratulatory messages were received by him. Many came to the banking house of Morton, Bliss & Co., and were sent to him by his private secretary.

To Notify Gen. Harrison July 4.

CHICAGO, June 26.—The committee of the Republican National Convention met to-day and decided to notify General Harrison of his nomination on July 4 at the Leland Hotel parlor. The time of notifying Mr. Morton will be fixed at some future time by the chairman.

INDIAN UNIFICATION.

An Interesting Outcome of an Important Council Held in the Cherokee Nation.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., June 27.—The Indian council at Fort Gibson, Cherokee Nation, adjourned yesterday. It was the most important gathering of Indians in many years. The resolution which was taken up Thursday last, relative to the unification of all the civilized nations, was fully considered for four days and unanimously adopted. The principal champion of the measure, which was proposed three months ago, is the Hon. Pleas Porter, one of the ablest "Indian statesmen" of the day. The measure provides for one common council, with common laws and officers in which all the tribes shall have just representation.

Postoffice Robbers Arrested.

WILKESBARRE, June 27.—For more than a year past the United States Government has been looking for a gang of postoffice robbers who have done successful work in many of the States. Yesterday United States Marshal Barring ran down Wilson Kline, alias Henry Smith, and Clark Belles at New Columbus. Belles showed fight, and tried to escape, when he was shot in the leg. It is said these men have robbed seventy small postoffices throughout the country. They are now in jail at Bloomburg. Belles was formerly a postal clerk at Boston.

To Replace the Assembly Ceiling.

ALBANY, June 27.—John Snaith of this city has been awarded the contract for replacing the Assembly ceiling, and work will begin at once. His bid, $270,150, was the lowest. The other bids were: Sullivan & Ehlers, Albany, $273,566.50; Hughes Bros., Syracuse, $286,435; Crawford & Ballantine, Brooklyn, $287,562; Hillon Bridge Company, Albany, $274,500; John H. Mooney, New York, $286,340. The commission voted Mr. Andrews a salary of $3,500 for superintending the work.

The President in Virginia.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—The President left Washington to-day to attend the exercises at the University of Virginia at Charlottesville. He will be accompanied by Secretaries Bayard and Vilas. The party, after the exercises are over, will be driven to Monticello, Jefferson's home. They will return to Washington to-night.

OUR PRINCIPLES.

It is not proposed to entirely relieve the country of this taxation. It must be extensively continued as the source of the Government's income; and in a readjustment of our tariff the interest of American labor engaged in manufacture should be carefully considered, as well as the preservation of our manufacturers. It may be called protection, or by any other name, but relief from the hardships and dangers of our present tariff laws should be devised with especial precaution against imperiling the existence of our manufacturing interests.—PRESIDENT CLEVELAND'S MESSAGE.

BY THE WAY.

—Oh! for a Y. M. C. A. building.

—Ex-Councilman Taylor's funeral yesterday, was the largest that has taken place in this city in a long time.

—The annual meeting of the New Jersey State Dental Society will be held July 18, at the West End Hotel, Asbury Park.

—It would appear that Blaine's declination reached Chicago just when it was clear that Blaine could not be nominated.

—The United States report for June, concerning crops, says of Union County: Some Winter grain killed; present growth is fine and promises well.

—If you want to spend a real enjoyable evening, go to the Bethel strawberry festival, to-morrow evening. Fine music and plenty of cream and cake.

—All the available money in the Plainfield Building and Loan Association has been sold on share loans. The Association is at present in a flourishing condition.

—By calling at this office, a thoroughly reliable and temperate man can be secured by any one desiring to leave their house protected during our absence from the city.

—The frame building on Somerset street, recently occupied by Geo. H. Cook, has been removed, in order that an addition may be built to Messrs. Homan & Ryerson's carriage repository.

—The rooms of the W. C. T. U., 73 West Front street, will be open during the day and evening of July 4. Refreshments will be served by the ladies, and a cordial invitation is extended to all.

—The Central Railroad of New Jersey will run one of their popular excursions to Mauch Chunk and the Switchback July 4, leaving New York at 8:30 A. M., and returning will reach here early in the evening.

—The grocers and butchers have agreed to close their places of business for the entire day, on July 4th. Housekeepers would do well to bear this in mind, and make their purchases on the preceding day.

—The Jr. O. U. A. M., base ball nine will play a practice game with a picked nine of the Juniors who term themselves "hay seeds," on the grounds near Blatz's Hotel, North Plainfield, this afternoon, at 5 o'clock.

—Complaints still come from the vicinity of Clinton avenue and Green Brook, against the nude bathing there. Ladies who are obliged to pass through Clinton avenue, are oftentimes compeled to turn back on this account.

—Information in regard to the Plainfiled Y. M. C. A. Tenting party, at the Moody Encampment, Northfield, Mass., June 30 to July 16, may be obtained of Messrs. W. D. Murray, J. A. Robinson, or at the Y. M. C. A. rooms.

—Two new passenger engines, Nos. 35 and 36, built by the Baldwin Locomotive Works, have been delivered to the Central Railroad Company. The engines will be thoroughly tested, and then put into service on the Long Branch Division.

—The North Plainfield Republicans are thus far a little more enthusiastic over the nomination of Harrison and Morton, than their neighbors on this side of the brook are. They have floated a large flag to the breeze in front of their headquarters.

—The full Summer time table of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, including the sea shore resorts, both by rail and the Sandy Hook route, will be put into effect July 1, with largely increased accommodations. A large influx of cottagers and hotel guests is expected by that time.

—Prof. Conde's orchestra gave an open-air concert at Caspar's Hotel on Monday evening, that was thoroughly enjoyed by the boarders and patrons of the house.

—"What's the matter with this weather?" was the question geuerally asked this morning. The weather is all right. So are Field & Randolph's milk-shakes.

—Boys desiring to join the party to leave this city for the Y. M. C. A. Boys Camp at Lake Wawawanda, Sussex county, July 3 to 17, under the supervision of Sumner F. Dudley, Gen. Sec. of the Orange Y. M. C. A., should apply at the Association rooms at once.

—Probably the most lengthy revival ever held in this city is that of the Plainfield Berean Bible Class, in Cutter's Hall. Meetings have been held nightly for nearly 200 consecutive nights, and the interest is unabated. About twenty-five additional converts will be immersed at the next baptism.

—In 1867, when the high wool tariff went into effect, there were 5,117,148 sheep in the State of New York. Under the prostrating policy of taxing imported wools, the number of sheep in that State has been reduced to 1,579,866, and the price of wool is lower than it has been in forty years.—Philadelphia Record.

—A number of residents complain that the official garbage-collectors cannot be found, and, consequently, such objectionable matter is accumulating on their own and their neighbors' premises to the discomfort and danger of all. The garbage collectors claim that when they solicited the patronage of these very complainants, the latter refused to engage them.

—At a regular meeting of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R. held last evening, Messrs. Geo. Moore, Wm. C. Smith and Isaac Brokaw, were appointed a committee to make the necessary arrangements for a stereopticon exhibition of war scenes, to be given in the Post room on the next meeting night. One new member was elected, and two applications for membership were received.

Sample Weather Predictions.

The signal office, as now conducted, has become a common jest and public nuisance. If the "experts" cannot do any better guessing than they have done of late, sensible people will prefer to go back to the old-style almanacs where the weather is laid out for the whole year in advance.

Our readers may be aware that we have suffered in this city from a "hot spell" for the last ten days. Every day but one since, and including Sunday, June 17, the surface heat has reached 90°. Now let us see how accurately the weather bureau has predicted this trying time. Here are the predictions and the realizations arranged in deadly parallel:

	June	Prediction	Fact	Highest Thermometer
Sunday,	17...	cooler.....	hotter	90
Monday,	18...	warmer....	warmer	91
Tuesday,	19...	stationary.	cooler	88

Right at last. Which shows that, if the bureau will only stick to one guess, the weather will occasionally come around to it.

Now in all seriousness is it not high time that the weather service of the signal office should be either improved or abolished? We think so, and we urge those in charge of the service to address themselves to this problem in a mood that will not dally with incompetence or yield to favoritism.—Com. Adv.

Varied and Interesting Exercises.

The Loyal Temperance Legion will hold its closing exercises, to-morrow evening, in the W. C. T. U. rooms, 73 West Front street. The programme will include songs and recitations by the Legion, vocal and instrumental solos, an address by Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson, President of Union County W. C. T. U., and the presentation of rewards by Mrs. Opdyke, President of the Plainfield Union. All interested in children's work are cordially invited to be present. Exercises will begin promptly at a quarter before 8 o'clock.

We Don't Believe It.

In its issue of Monday, the Plainfield Stolen News states that "conspicuous" among the audience and "sitting at Bishop Vincent's feet," Sunday, was the "father of the Rev. Mr. Tuttle." His position is explained by his "being somewhat heard of hearing."

But as the gentleman spoken of as making himself conspicuous at the Bishop's feet, has been "somewhat" dead for many months, we confess a lack of confidence in the statement.

Lawn Party.

The scholars of the Friends' First Day School, were tendered a lawn party at the residence of Friend Mary Jane Field on East Second street, between the hours of three and five o'clock, yesterday afternoon. The party was given under the joint auspices of Mrs. Field and Mrs. Margaret Deitrich, and was thoroughly enjoyed by all present. Refreshments were served in abundance.

Fell From a Hammock.

John Keefe, one of the messenger boys employed in the District Messenger office, was lying in a hammock, swinging, at his home on West Sixth street, Sunday, when one of the staples gave away, allowing the hammock to drop. The boy fell to the ground fracturing two of the fingers on his left hand and severely spraining the wrist.

MORE SCHOOL ROOM NECESSARY.

North Plainfield Citizens Discuss the Advisability of Erecting a New School House.

A special meeting of the voters of School District No. 38, was held in the public school building in North Plainfield, last evening, to take into consideration the advisability of increasing the school accomodations, by the erection of another school building, or making an addition to the building on Somerset street. Mr. H. K. Carroll called the meeting to order, and was subsequently elected chairman. Mr. Geo. F. Brown recorded the proceedings and read the call, signed by the trustees.

The president stated the object of the meeting, which he said was not to collect money and adopt plans, but simply to consider the necessity of increased accommodations and to ascertain the best possible means of obtaining them. The present structure he said was erected in 1883. It contains twelve class rooms.

The average attendance in 1884 was 264, but the school population has increased so rapidly that the limit has already been reached. In 1884 there were 744 school children between the ages of five and eighteen years; this year the number is 944, an increase of nearly one-quarter. 152 scholars attended private school in 1884, while the number this year will not exceed 52. Again, 225 pupils out of the 744 did not attend school at all. The lower floor of the school has a seating capacity of 300, while the average attendance is 347. During the past year the trustees were obliged to adopt the half-day system. So crowded was the lower class rooms that three children were compelled to sit on seats intended for two.

The idea of the trustees was that another school building was necessary, and their recommendation was that they be authorized to look up a suitable lot and consider plans for the construction of a new building, and report the same at a future meeting.

Mr. E. Loomis made a motion to the effect that the trustees designate a suitable lot, and inquire as to probable cost of erection, etc., the same to be reported at a future special meeting.

It was stated at this point in the proceedings that the bonded indebtedness on the school at present is about $22,000. Mr. Arnold offered an amendment to the original motion, that the matter of enlarging the present school building also be taken into consideration by the trustees. A long discussion followed, after which the motion was adopted as amended.

Mr. Lomis was of the opinion that an addition to the school building would only meet the immediate demand, and that in the course of a few years, the same question would come up again.

Messrs. McGee, Place, Arnold and others took part in the discussion, and after a motion by Councilman Emmons was carried, providing for the appointment of two extra members on the committee to assist the trustees, the meeting adjourned subject to a call by the trustees.

Forming the Acquaintance of the Second Asst. Superintendent.

Superintendent C. W. McCutchen and Mrs. McCutchen, gave an unusually pleasurable reception at their residence, Washington and Rockview avenues, last evening, to the officers and teachers of the First Baptist and Mount Olive Sunday schools. The gathering numbered about eighty.

During the evening Mrs. George A. Chapman favored all with some vocal solos most charmingly sung. Miss Kitty Case recited a few selections with good taste, and Mr. David Lyon and a stranger friend, played the piano and violin respectively with pleasing effect.

A special intent of the occasion was the introduction of the teachers to the new Second Assistant Superintendent of the First Baptist school, Mr. Biglow. The accomplishment of such purpose was one of the most enjoyable features of the evening. Refreshments were also served.

Notice to News Thieves.

Day after day articles from previous issues of THE PRESS are deliberately lifted into the columns of the Plainfield Stolen News. We have submitted to these depredations for months, for obvious reasons and because the better people advised us to.

We are of the same opinion as the community, that we lower our dignity by noticing a paper that no one else notices; but so long as we have achieved the enterprise, pay for the news and possess the skill to present it, we propose to enjoy alone the credit.

Each day, therefore, we will record the items embezzled from these columns. Yesterday an account of the Monday Night Club's organization, and a list of its officers and members, was republished in the Stolen News from THE PRESS of last Saturday.

A Race of 400 Miles.

A number of birds belonging to members of the Plainfield Homing Club, were sent by express from here, yesterday, for Martinsville, Va. They will be released from there probably today, and the fly home will be for a distance of about 400 miles. The different lofts will be represented in the race as follows: J. Hervey Doane, three birds; Sidney Dorman, three; George Sanders, two: Chas. Doane, two; and F. R. Stevens, one.

—The severe thunder storm of a week or so ago, did considerable damage to the electrical wiring in Mr. Wm. Bloodgood's residence at Netherwood. Wires were cut and twisted and the telephone service was interrupted.

POISON IN OUR DRINK.

Not Alcohol—which one may avoid—but BRASS AND LEAD which one takes unsuspectingly. "How—When—Where?" Well, say, in a glass of Soda. Pity the most popular and wholesome of all artificial drinks—which Soda honestly is—should ever deserve a touch of suspicion, but

THE FROZEN TRUTH

is that in some Soda Fountains economy and mechanical facility are studied to the neglect of the weightier matter of purity. Some men are too "smart;" some Soda Fountains are too "ingenious."

We have recently had made a Fountain which secures Absolute Purity for the beverages. Rather pretty, too, we think. We selected the "Matthews' make" because it is the only fount in which the syrups have positively no metallic contact, being discharged direct from glass jars into the tumblers—no tubes; while the waters are contained in and flow through solid block tin,

PURE AS CRYSTAL, COLD AS CHARITY.

We make our own syrups—from REAL FRUIT JUICES, or from chocolate or coffee, etc., as the case may be; no nonsense of essences or make believe.

New drinks? Yes, some of our own contriving. "Winks?" Not a wink; not licensed for winks, and we have an opinion of druggists who take a wink.

Come and try the new Fountain; if you like your drink we'll thank you for saying so, and you'll pay us five cents and come again—it will do you good; only don't come Sundays; no use—Fountain WON'T WORK.

That Night.

You and I, and that night, with its perfume and glory!
The scent of the locusts, the light of the moon;
And the violins weaving the waltzers a story,
Enmeshing their feet in the weft of the tune,
Till their shadows uncertain
Reeled round on the curtain,
While under the trellis we drank in the June.

Soaked through with the midnight the cedars were sleeping,
Their shadowy tresses outlined in the bright
Crystal, moon-smitten mists, where the fountain's heart, leaping
Forever,
Forever, forever burst, full with delight:
And its lisp on my spirit
Fell faint as that near it
Whose love like a lily bloomed out in the night.

O, your glove was an odorous sachet of blisses!
The breath of your fan was a breeze of Cathay!
And the rose at your throat was a nest of spilled kisses!
And the music—in fancy, I hear it today,
As I sit here, confessing
Our secret, and blessing
My rival who found us and waltzed you away.

—James Whitcomb Riley.

KITCHEN GARDEN GRADUATES.

Closing Entertainment in the W. C. T. U. Rooms Last Evening.

The closing entertainment of the Kitchen Garden, connected with the W. C. T. U., was held last evening in their rooms, 73 West Front street. The room was well filled by the friends of this noble work. The children went through the regular exercises with surprising quickness and intelligence in making beds, washing clothes, setting tables, etc. Showing that the instructions they are receiving from their efficient teacher Miss Smith, who is going to equip them in after life for useful women.

One of the pleasant features of the entertainment was an interesting address by Rev. Cornelius Schenck in which he set forth the necessity of the friends giving their hearty co-operation in support of this band of little misses.

Mrs. Geo. F. Opdyke then made a few well worded remarks in commendation of their work, and presented the diplomas to the graduates nine in number, and made special mention of others who were just as efficient, but had not been there so long.

In closing, Miss Smith, the Superintendent thanked the friends for their presence, and asked the audience to join them in singing their closing song. Miss Yates presided at the piano and gave some excellent selections which were enjoyed by all. The following are the names of the girls: Lillie Ficker, Freda Ficker, Lottie Clark, Mary Berger, Edith Vail, Lizzie Firstbrook, Mary Whitteman, Ella Mackey, Lena Weber, Minnie Drake. Those who were made special mention of are: Florence Carver, Hanah Nelson, Carrie Case and Georgia VanArsdale. The proceeds amounted to $25.

An Organization of Graduates.

We had only space yesterday to refer to the holding of a meeting of the North Plainfield Public School Alumni, Monday evening. The principal reason of the meeting was to welcome into the association, the Class of '88. It was held in the W. C. T. U. rooms on West Front street.

Mr. Daniel Loizeaux delivered an address of welcome on behalf of the Alumni, to which Mr. Wm. Westervelt replied for the Class of '88. School Trustees McGee and Brown spoke briefly and happily, and Principal Boss also gave the scholars a short talk, approving of the association and trusting that much benefit wovld be derived from such an organization of the graduates.

An intermingling in a social way, music and refreshments, were other important parts of the evening's programme of entertainment.

Free Rum But Dear Sugar.

An exchange truly says, the Republican leaders by their platform propose to keep the rates of duty to so high a point that there shall be no competition at all with imported goods and no check whatever upon the greed of their pets, who may then screw wages down to the starvation point, advance the prices of goods at pleasure, grow fat upon the earnings of other men, buy conventions, control electors and put their thumbs to their noses and ask the rest of us what we are going to do about it.

They propose to repeal the taxes on whiskey and tobacco, in part or in whole as the state of the revenue may determine, in order that the taxes upon clothing, lumber, tin plate, hardware, boots and shoes, hats, blankets and other prime necessaries of life may be continued forever and the monopoly enjoyed by their clients may be the more securely established.

State Poorhouses and Jails.

The condition of the penal and reformatory institutions is not satisfactory to the people of the State, and the State Charities Aid Association now propose to organize branches in every county with a view of correcting many abuses that exist. The annual report of the association has just been issued. It states that the county committees have investigated the condition of some of the jails and almshouses and many of them were found to be in a filthy and unhealthy condition.

EX-COUNCILMAN TAYLOR'S FUNERAL.

Impressive Services—Touching Tributes of Affection.

The last sad funeral rites following the death of the late ex-Councilman William Taylor, were enacted yesterday afternoon, at the house, on East Fifth street, in the presence of a large number of the relatives and sorrowing friends of the family, including many from New York and Philadelphia.

The deceased was a man very popular among his fellow beings, and was universally esteemed by all who knew him. His death therefore cast a gloom over a large circle of friends. The service was simple and impressive, and was conducted strictly in conformity with the customs of the Society of Friends. The floral contributions were elegant, and consisted principally of set pieces, noticeable among which was a handsome placque of Pearl and Niphetus roses presented by the "Y's" and a beautiful wreath of maiden hair ferns, sent in by an admiring friend. Several of the designs came from distant points. Among the mourners were noticed several of the city officials, Rev. Drs. Rodman and Ketcham, and Rev. Mr. Richards, representing the clergy.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. Geo. F. Lawrie, a member of the firm with which the deceased was connected, Joseph P. Bickerton, P. H. Farley, James Peck, Chas. J. C. Taylor and Frank Smith of New York city; and Messrs. H. M. Stockton and W. T. Broadway of this city.

At the close of the service the remains were taken to Hillside cemetery and interred in the family plot, members of the "Y" remaining at the grave and depositing floral emblems on the mound.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin W. Conklin will go to Morrisania, N. Y., for a short visit.

Mrs. Wm. H. Brower is rusticating at Asbury Park, while her husband is absent in Europe.

Mr. T. E. Hazell left today for Bailey's Island, Me., where his family is spending the Summer.

Mr. Thomas R. Cone has rented his house on First place for the Summer, and will spend the season with his family, in the country.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Laire of East Third street, are Summering at Lake Hopatcong and in its immediate vicinity. At present they are located at Belvidere. They will return about Sept. 1.

President John H. French of the Plainfield Reform Club, expects to start for Malone, N. Y., to-night. Mr. French has been confined to the house for several days past, but he is now rapidly improving.

Mrs. J. W. Yates entertained the children of the Kitchen Garden, at a lawn party, held on the lawn adjourning her residence on East Seventh street, Monday afternoon. Games were indulged in and refreshments were served.

Cards are out announcing the marriage of Miss Matie Randolph, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel F. Randolph, to Mr. Charles H. Soper. The ceremony will take place at the residence of the bride's parents at South Plainfield, on Thursday evening, July 12, at half-past eight o'clock.

Manager Sliter of the District Messenger office, had a very narrow escape from serious personal injury, yesterday afternoon. He was at work in North Plainfield raising a twenty-seven foot telegraph pole, when the pole fell, striking him on the small of the back. With the exception of some bruises, Mr. Sliter escaped serious injury.

A corps of carpenters and painters are yet busily engaged putting on the finishing touches to Mr. Alexander Gilbert's handsome new residence, at the corner of Central avenue and Eighth street. When completed the structure will be one of the most attractive in the city. Mr. Gilbert will not move into his new house before September. Meanwhile Special Officer Mattox has been secured to sleep there.

The following is clipped from the Woodland Daily Democrat published in California: "Mr. A. Darby, a son of Mr. Levi Darby of Fanwood, and a partner in the firm of A. H. Peloubet & Co., of New York, is stopping at the Byrns. Mr. Darby is an acquaintance of Mr. B. T. Gubleman of this town, and has been in the State since last October. Until coming to Woodland he has been spending his time in Southern California hoping to be improved in health, but failing to receive the desired benefit he has decided to try the climate and locality of Woodland. So far he is favorably impressed with our town and climate."

General Telegraphic Despatches.

Delegates in a Railroad Wreck.

TIFFIN, Ohio June 27.—The Baltimore & Ohio fast line, east bound, loaded with Chicago delegates collided with a freight train near Attica yesterday morning, and an engineer was fatally injured. The engines were wrecked, and the baggage cars smashed. Several delegates were injured. The passengers were sent over the Hocking Valley road to Columbus.

NEW YORK PROHIBITIONISTS.

Opening of Their Convention Yesterday at Syracuse.

SYRACUSE, June 27.—The Prohibition State Convention opened at the Alhambra in this city yesterday morning.

The gubernatorial candidates are G. R. Powell, of Chatham, W. Jennings Demorest, of New York, and Benson J. Lossing, the historian, of Poughkeepsie.

Prior to the opening of the Convention a prayer and conference meeting was held, presided over by the Rev. Dwight Williams of Cazenovia. The Convention was called to order at 11:30 by Fred F. Wheeler, and was opened with a song by the Silver Lake Quartet, entitled "The Recruiting Station." The song was received with applause, the last three lines being:

We'll get so mighty frisky that we'll overturn the whisky,
For we're a mighty jolly lot of cranks."

Frank E. Baldwin, of Elmira, was chosen Temporary Chairman. He returned thanks for the honor, and congratulated the delegates on the success of their course. He arraigned the Republican and Democratic parties, and said the first issue to be decided in politics is the liquor question.

Frank C. Smith, of New York, presented to the Convention a gavel on the behalf H. T. Dunbar, Corps Commander of the Blue and the Gray. The State of New York gavel is made from wood of a tree on Little Round Top, the scene of an important event in the battle of Gettysburg. In the head of the gavel is a bullet which was found embedded in the tree. The gavel was accepted by a standing vote.

GEN. SHERIDAN SETS UP.

But the Doctors Order Him Back to Bed Owing to the Warm Weather.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—General Sheridan is still keeping up against the heat. He sits up some, but owing to fear of over exertion his physicians have ordered that he remain in bed. The General to-day is feeling very well and there are no symptoms of heart failure. Following is the last evening bulletin:

General Sheridan's condition continues about the same as it has been for some days. It is proposed, unless an unfavorable change should occur, to remove him to his cottage at Nonquitt, Mass. It is possible that he will leave Washington on Thursday next, going by a vessel of the United States Navy, which has been tendered by the Secretary.

CRIMES ACT INDORSED

MR. MORLEY'S CENSURE MOTION IS VOTED DOWN.

Mr. Gladstone Replies to a Personal Attack—Emperor William's Address Favorably Received by the Press.

LONDON, June 27.—In the House of Commons yesterday debate was resumed on Mr. Morley's motion censuring the Government for its administration of the Irish Crimes act.

William O'Brien (Nationalist) held that the plan of campaign never really troubled the people and that they approved it.

The Right Hon. Henry Chaplin (Conservative) said it might suit some to forget, but everybody knew that if there was one man in England who was more responsible than another for the atrocities of the League it was the leader of the opposition, who seemed to forget how he encouraged them. (Cries of "Shame!" "Withdraw!") Mr. Gladstone might have forgotten what words he used about the Parnellite chiefs, but that would not be attributed to loss of memory through the infirmities of age.

Mr. Gladstone, who upon rising was received with cheers, said that, however much he was afflicted with loss of memory through the infirmities of age, he hoped, for a time at any rate—(renewed cheers)—that he would remain able to cope with antagonists of the calibre of Mr Chaplin. What was more significant about the state of Ireland than the fact that nineteen out of the eighty-six Nationalist members had been sent to prison! He ventured to say that if they went to their constituents all of these nineteen would be returned by larger majorities than before, if only because they were suffering through the wrong-doing of the Government. The Government's vote might be against them, but their ultimate appeal was to public opinion.

Mr. Gladstone said that those who denounced the plan of campaign had to meet the contention that the plan was framed when Parliament refused to meet the necessities of the tenants. Recent land court decisions had shown that the demands of the plan of campaign were not unjust. The curse of Cromwell lived from generation to generation in Ireland. Could it be supposed that the people, who were aware that horrors and atrocities almost incredible had been done in the name of the law, could consider the law in the same spirit as the Judge? It was a strange irony of fate that Mr. Dillon should be lectured upon legality by Major Saunderson, who had threatened that if Parliament passed a certain law he would counsel violent resistance to it. Mr. Dillon had much to learn before he arrived at Major Saunderson's eminence. (Laughter.) Mr. Dillon's influence in further preventing bloodshed at Mitchelstown might have been remembered by the Judge when he inflicted upon Mr. Dillon the maximum penalty.

Mr. Gladstone then entered into a long, detailed account of the Killeagh case, which he charecterized as scandalous and as bad as anything that had happened in the days of Judge Jeffries.

Mr. Balfour, upon rising to reply was greeted with loud cheers. He taunted Mr. Gladstone with abstaing from bringing against the Government in Parliament the accusation that he made against them before popular audiences, and in referring to Mr. Dilion, he asserted that the murder of Constable Whelehan was distinctly traceable to his speech to the effect that he would not tolerate land-grabbers. Was it a political offense to urge people to destroy land-grabbers? Mr. Balfour concluded by contending that the Government had succeeded beyond their expectations in suppressing lawlessness in Ireland. Whether they would be allowed to proceed he did not know, but he did know that the future of Ireland could only safely rest on foundations of honesty, liberty and law. (Cheers.)

Mr. Sexton, who ended the debate, said that Mr. Balfour's charge against Mr. Dilon rested entirely on the evidence of one of the most infamous of the Government's paid informers.

The censure motion was rejected—365 to 273.

EMPEROR WILLIAM'S POLICY.

The European Press Generally Pleased With His Address.

LONDON, June 27.—Despatches from the continental capitals—Paris, Vienna, St. Petersburg and others—show a remarkable unanimity of opinion that King William's speech in the Reichstag yesterday portends peace. The editorial comments of the press in this city express a similar opinion.

LONDON, June 27.—The Times and Standard both say, although the speech was pacific, it is impossible that peace can long be maintained when the nations continue to prepare for war.

The Chronicle notes the absence of any allusion to Great Britain and regards the fact as a confirmation of the statements, official and otherwise, that England has neither part nor lot in the triple alliance.

The Daily News remarks that the speech leaves untouched the question as to what relief is to be given to a people crushed under military charges, and puts the well-being of the people in the second rank, military feeling occupying the first.

BERLIN, June 27.—The comments of the German press on the speech from the throne are very favorable. Although, according to usage, the speech was handed to the Emperor by the Imperial Chancellor and returned to the latter when the reading was finished, a considerable portion of it was written by the young Emperor himself.

A Drop in Panama Canal Shares.

PARIS, June 27.—Panama Canal shares have fallen 52 francs. The Journaldes Debats attributes the decline to the operations of a ring, which, it says, is trying to affect the Panama Canal loan, which closes to-day. The Temps says the opponents of the loan are making desperate efforts to prevent its success, but that the issue is probably covered.

Bishop Coxe and Pere Hyacinthe.

PARIS, June 27.—Bishop Arthur Cleveland Coxe, of Buffalo, who came here to confirm Pere Hyacinthe's flock, wrote to the Archbishop of Paris for permission to perform the confirmation rites, but has received no reply.

A Swedish Town Burned.

LONDON, June 27.—The town of Sundsvall, on the Gulf of Bothnia, the centre of the timber trade of Sweden, has been almost destroyed by fire.

New England Tennis Tournament.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 27.—In the New Haven tennis tournament H. W. Slocum, of Brooklyn, champion of the New England States, defeated E. P. Macmuller, of Brooklyn, champion of the Middle States, by a score of 6 to 2, winning for the second time the silver cup offered by the New Haven Tennis Club. Slocum says this is his last match.

MANY PEOPLE DROWNED.

Latest Reports From the Floods in Mexico Are Very Distressing.

CITY OF MEXICO, June 26.—The telegraphic communication which has been interrupted for several days by the floods, has been restored, and the particulars of the terrible disaster on the line of the Mexican Central Railway, particularly at Leon and Silao, are obtained.

The first intimation received in this city of the disaster in the north was a telegram from Silao dated the 18th inst. It said: "It commenced raining heavily here yesterday afternoon, and continued all night, raising the Silao River out of its banks, breaking at the north end of the town and passing through the streets with irresistible force and volume. Most houses here being of adobe, as soon as they were saturated with water they began to fall. About 325 houses have been destroyed. The station buildings are occupied by homeless people, who are unable to obtain anything to eat except watermelons and fruit found floating in the water. The rain has been general and the whole country around Silao is flooded. Several dykes have given way. It still continues raining."

The loss of life up to this writing had reached into hundreds, but the threatening danger left little time for sorrow, and the prevailing sentiment was fear for the future. All night it poured, until Wednesday morning saw the lake surrounding the city undiminished in size, with steady rain disturbing its surface. In the afternoon, however, it ceased raining and the waters began to recede. The people recovered from their fright, though water was still covering a part of the city. It is estimated that 700 persons perished.

There is a strong stench from heaps of rubbish that once formed houses, and there must be bodies buried under them. There are also bodies still floating in the water. One hundred and eleven bodies have been recovered, without moving any ruins of houses, wherein are supposed to be hundreds of bodies buried. The number of destroyed houses is estimated at 2,000, and the loss at $2,000,000.

Many other towns have been badly damaged, but loss of life is only reported from Silao and Leon.

The estimates of loss of life and property given are the smallest reported, and certainly within the bounds of truth. The very last statement, just received, places the number of houses destroyed in Leon at 2,224, and the homeless families at more than 1,000. More than 250 bodies have been recovered from the ruins, and there is no probability that the entire number will fall short of 700.

COLLEGE BOAT RACE.

The Yale Freshmen Defeat the University of Pennsylvania By Three Boat Lengths.

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 27.—The Yale and University of Pennsylvania freshmen race, which was to have taken place at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, was postponed on account of the heavy thunderstorm until 7 o'clock last evening, and was rowed up the first two miles of the 'Varsity course.

The Pennsylvania crew took the water first and led the Yale crew by a boat length at the end of the first mile, and at this point the Yale crew made an elegant spurt and passed the Quakers, gradually increasing their lead, and crossed the finish line 9 seconds ahead, or three lengths. Yale's rowing was superb, the Quakers splashing considerable.

The official time was: Yale, 11:32; University of Pennsylvania, 11:41.

Capt. Mecklehani, of Columbia 'Varsity crew of '86, was referee. Woodruff, Yale's most powerful oar, who was injured some two weeks ago, and who it was thought would not be able to row, practiced with the crew to-day and will probably take his place in the boat in Friday's race.

The Harvard and Columbia freshmen meet Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Yale and Harvard University crews were out for practice to-day and show improvement. A large attendance and exciting race is expected. The contest takes place at 3 o'clock.

A Desparate Fight After a Wedding.

WINNIPEG, Man., June 27.—Advices from Lethbridge, a small town in Alberta, give the particulars of a serious fracas which occurred there Sunday between a gang of drunken Hungarian miners and mounted police and citizens. The Hungarians had been attending a wedding, and having imbibed quite freely started a row which developed into serious proportions. In the melee axes and clubs were freely used and several pistol shots were exchanged. No one was killed although a number were dangerously hurt. Sixteen of the rioters have been arrested.

He Had $36,000 With Him.

PITTSBURG, June 27.—A call was made at the home of John Dreyfus, the Pittsburger prostrated by heat in Jersey City Sunday. His wife was seen and said that her husband, who is a dealer in horses, had left the city last Monday with the intention of sailing for France after a shipment of horses. Since that time she had heard nothing from him except the item referred to. He had with him some $36,000.

The Vessel Lost Off Good Hope.

LONDON, June 27.—Lloyd's scout the idea that the vessel lost with all hands off the Cape of Good Hope on June 4, was an emigrant ship. They believe that she was a ship bound from Calcutta to Demerara.

A Saurian Raids a Poultry Yard.

Recently a great uproar was heard in the hen yard of Mrs. Moragne, at Palatka, Fla., in the upper part of town. Lanterns were lit and two of the boys went out to investigate. In the center of the yard was found a half-grown 'gator, struggling to swallow a big goose. It had been nearly half swallowed, but the goose's struggles had bothered the saurian and he appeared very much nonplussed and decidedly displeased. When the rays of the lantern were flashed, with the goose still held in his mouth and struggling wildly, he charged at the boys and swept his tail around with a terrible swish. The lads jumped just in time to avoid its force, but the lantern was hit, shivering it into a thousand pieces. The boys scrambled on two big kerosene barrels that were near by that were used as barrel tanks, as they did not care to tackle the mad 'gator in the dark.

Hearing their cries a young lady who was visiting them from Georgia came out with another light. The 'gator was still standing guard, but while his weather eye was on his prisoners he had made good use of his time, for naught remained of the goose save a few feathers in the saurian's mouth. His expression seemed to say: "Goose was good; boys would be better."

The youngsters jumped for fence-rails when they secured a light, and while the plucky young lady held the light they dispatched the despoiler of their poultry-yard. The 'gator was game, however, and he made the boys step around pretty lively to avoid his flying tail.

GOOSE GOOD, BOY BETTER.

Odds were against him, and in ten or fifteen minutes he was a gone saurian. He measured nearly eight feet in length, the jaws having a width of three feet when fully opened.

The hen-yard was located near a small creek which ran through a swamp, which explained the reptile's presence there. He probably was very hungry and forgot his usual timidity.

He Don't Forget It.

Old gentleman (getting his boots blacked Sunday morning)—Boy, do you know what the good book says, "Remember the Sabbath day?"

Bootblack—Yessir, I allers remembers it.

Old gentleman—Then you go to Sunday-school, do you?

Bootblack—No, sir; I don't go to Sunday-school, but I charges ten cents for a shine.—Life.

She Gave Away Her Children.

It is coming more and more to be acknowledged that all animals have the means of expressing their desires to each other by sounds allied to an articulate speech, says a writer in Massachusetts Ploughman. Those who give this matter careful observation and study will soon come to understand the different tones and inflections by which animals understand each other; and in sign language they are often eloquent. In line with this an incident made public by J. N. Loughborough, of California, is interesting and related as follows:

During the summer of 1870, while residing at Heudsburg, he had among his Spanish hens a mother with nine chickens. This hen at length sickened and died with the comb disease. Her chicks were only about four weeks old and could scratch but little for themselves. The weak mother would go around with them, putting down her bill to indicate where they were to scratch. She soon became too weak for this.

Soon after we noticed all of her chicks standing around her in a sort of a half circle, with their eyes looking piteously toward her, "peeping" mournfully, she in turn giving faint "chirps." At this all the other fowls came around her, and each seemed to have something to say.

After about fifteen minutes had been spent in this manner, a healthy young dominique hen that was laying eggs every day, and had shown no signs of even desiring to set, stepped out from among the rest and took her position by the side of the sick hen.

Upon this the mother hen gave a few faint chirps, which all the chicks answered with a chirp. Then the mother hen looked toward the dominique, and gave two or three "clucks," to which the dominique responded for the first time with "Cluck! cluck!" and the chickens answered with "Peep! peep!" in concert, and all rushed up to the dominique.

The mother hen gave two or three more farewell chirps, and the new mother walked of with the brood, clucking and scratching as vigorously for them as though she had herself hatched the brood.

The dominique and brood never went near the mother hen again. She died the next day, and the dominique protected and faithfully raised the chicks committed to her trust.

Whatever others may think of this, it seemed to the writer and those who witnessed the transaction as genuine a case of giving away children before death as we witness among human kind. These creatures must have had communication with each other respecting the matter, at least, judging from their actions, and the old saying that "actions speak louder than words" was literally true in this case.

Four years ago the body of S. O. Gillette was buried in the city cemetery of Augusta, Georgia. The other day it was disinterred to be placed in another part of the cemetery. Then it was found that the body had been completely petrified. The face was a trifle sunken and a shade or so darker than in life, and when one of the workmen accidentally struck it, it gave out a metallic sound.

COLD WATER MEN MEET

NEW YORK AND MICHIGAN STATE PROHIBITIONISTS.

W. Martin Jones Nominated for Governor of New York and A. B. Cheney for the Same Position By Michigan.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., June 28.—In the Prohibition Convention yesterday several amendatory clauses to the platform were offered and rejected before it was finally adopted, and considerable discussion seemed to be necessary. A resolution recommending the selection of two women from each county as delegates to future State conventions was passed. At yesterday afternoon's session nominations for Governor were declared in order, and W. J. Demorest of New York, W. Martin Jones of Rochester, and Benjamin J. Lossing were speedily placed in nomination.

An informal ballot was taken, which resulted in Demorest receiving 398, Lossing 389, and Jones 249.

The first formal ballot resulted in Lossing receiving 407, Demorest 353, Jones 300.

The Demorest supporters went largely to Jones in the second ballot which resulted, Lossing 406, Jones 417, Demorest 175.

The third ballot nominated Jones, the Kings County delegates voting for him in a body and without furnishing the ballot.

A motion to make Jones's nomination unanimous was entertained and carried amid the wildest enthusiasm.

The Convention then nominated Chas W. Stephens, of Hornellsville, for Judge of the Court of Appeals. Benjamin J Lossing and W. Senning Demorest head the electorial ticket.

The convention adjourned at half past seven, and most of the delegates have gone home.

It is estimated by prominent delegates that the prohibition vote this year will far exceed that of last, and they say the present outlook in this state, and in fact, throughout the country is especially encouraging.

MICHIGAN'S PROHIBITIONISTS.

The Convention Makes a Big Collection and Nominates a Ticket.

DETROIT, June 28.—The prohibitionists nominated a full state ticket and provided some of the sinews of war for a vigorous campaign by subscribing $4,736 as a starter for the campaign fund. This was done at the morning session of the State Convention, after a permanent organization had been effected and after listening to a speech by the Rev. Samuel F. Dickie. The open subscription of nearly $5,000 by the delegates shows better than anything else, perhaps, the earnestness and confidence with which the party is entering the campaign.

Mr. A. Crozier, of Kent, was made permanent chairman.

At the afternoon session a resolution was adopted declaring local option as a policy of moral blindness and political procrastination, and declaring opposition to the enactment of local option laws. The last legislature is condemned for enacting such a law, which was found unconstitutional, and the resolution declares that the prohibitionists will hold the party responsible.

The platform indorses the Indianapolis nominees, invites workingmen to co-operate against the saloon, declares for woman suffrage, demands a revision of the tariff to reduce the revenue to meet expenses while at the same time affording reasonable protection, and declares all money should be issued and controlled by the government.

A. B. Cheney, of Kent, is the nominee for Governor. He is considered as strong a man as the party could have named.

The other nominations are: For Lieutenant-Governor, Stewart B. Williams, of Saginaw; for Secretary of State, Peter M. Hagel, of Lapeer; for State Treasurer, Albert Wise, of Ingham; for Auditor-General, D. A. Waterman, of Wayne; for Superintendent of Public Instruction, J. Montgomery, of Kalamazoo; for Commissioner of State Land Office, Guernsey P. Waring, of Lenawee; for Attorney-General, Lembel Clute, of Iona; for member of the State Board of Education, William Hart, of Eaton.

Mr. Waterman is auditor of the Michigan Central. Other candidates are almost equally well known and prominent.

THE MEXICAN FLOODS.

Repairs to the Mexican Central Road—Relief For the Sufferers.

EL PASO, Texas, June 28.—The General Passenger Agent of the Mexican Central Railroad received a telegram here yesterday from the Mexican Central agent at Silos, saying that in two days the track would be so that passengers could be taken through the flooded area with one tranfer. Steps are being taken for the relief of the sufferers by the terrible overflows along the line of the Mexican Central.

It seems that at least 1,500 people were drowned in Leon alone. Over 1,000 bodies have already been recovered. In some districts the drifting water is full of dead bodies, floating as thick as driftwood, and the stench pervading the country is frightful. Measures are being taken all over Mexico to raise funds for the sufferers.

Steve Brodie Very Tired Already.

NEWBURG, June 28.—Steve Brodie, who is floating down the Hudson from Albany in a rubber suit, left Poughkeepsie yesterday morning at 5 o'clock and arrived here at 11:50 in a badly exhausted condition. His left arm is nearly useless. He says he will never make such a fool of himself again. He left here yesterday evening, but it is doubtful whether he can stand the strain on his system long enough to reach New York. While Brodie was here Max Greiner, aged twenty-nine, had a fit and fell into the river from a dock. Brodie jumped into the river, but could not save the drowning man.

An Insane Murderer.

FREEPORT, Ill., June 28.—Charles Deckler, a farmer near Buena Vista, went to his house and sent his children on some errands. His wife was standing on a chair whitewashing. Without warning he fired two shots into her back, killing her instantly. He then puts two bullets into his own body and cut his throat. Deckler had been drinking heavily of late and was probably insane.

COLLEGE COMMENCEMENTS.

Honorary Degrees Conferred By Both Harvard and Yale Colleges.

BOSTON, June 28.—Yesterday morning Gov. Ames and staff, escorted by the National Lanciers, proceeded to Harvard College to attend the Commencement exercises. They were received by President Eliot and escorted to Sander's Theatre, where the literary exercises took place.

The following honorary degrees were conferred:

Master of Arts—Honoris Causa, Edward Burges, William Endicott, Jr., and the Rev. John W. Chadwick.

Doctor of Laws—Charles Stebbins Fairchild, Joseph H. Choate, and Prof. W. Gibbs.

Doctor of Divinity—Abiel Abbot Livermore, President of Meadville Seminary.

Mr. Fairchild is the Secretaay of the Treasury and Edward Burgess is known to the public as the designer of the Volunteer, Puritan, and Mayflower.

At a meeting of the Overseers of Harvard College yesterday it was voted to appoint a committee to confer during the vacation with a committee of the President and fellows in order that the practical inconveniences which will result from the existing divergence of the opinion between the two Boards regarding the question how far athletic sports may be indulged in by the students may be obviated.

Honorary Degrees at Yale.

NEW HAVEN, June 28.—Honorary degrees were conferred at the Yale Commencement exercises yesterday as follows:

D. D.—President Patton of Princeton College.

LL. D.—Justice Stanley Matthews, United States Supreme Court; Dr. William Tod Helmuth, New York City; Hon. Samuel C. Perkins, '48, of Philadelphia; Henry C Robinson, '53, of Hartford, Conn.; Andrew D. White, '56, of Ithaca, N. Y.; William C. Whitney, '63, Secretary of the Navy.

M. A.—Samuel L. Clemens (Mark Twain) of Hartford, Conn., Henry Stoddard, of New Haven; Alvey A. Adee, Second Assistant Secretary of State, Washington; Rev. Elias B. Sanford of Wesbrook, Conn.; Commander Casper Frederick Goodrich, United States Navy; Charles P. Bartlett of Lynn, Conn.; William H. Jordan of San-Francisco; Prof. George Bendelair of Yale College; Prof. Alfred L. Ripley of Yale College.

A. B.—Stephed Pierson, M. D. '68, of Morristown, N. J., Frederick Weston, '68, of Brooklyn.

Thomas Tufts, of Munson, Mass., was awarded the John A. Porter prize.

DEFAULTING TELLER PITCHER.

Arrested in Montreal and Held Awaiting the Arrival of Providence Authorities.

MONTREAL, June 28.—Charles A. Pitcher, the defaulting teller of the Union Bank of Providence, R. I., was arrested here at St. Lawrence Hall, where he had registered as James A. Roberts of Lowell. The arrest was made by Detective Veillert, and was remanded, pending the arrival of the bank authorities.

Twenty thousand dollars in notes and gold have been recovered. He is believed to have succeeded in hiding a large amount in bonds. Extradition is asked for on the ground of forgery.

PROVIDENCE, June 28.—Eighty thousand dollars worth of certified checks stolen by Pitcher have been returned. The Bank's loss will not be $10,000.

A Secret Marriage Ends in a Divorce Suit.

BALTIMORE, Md., June 28.—Little Florence Winchester, of 15 summers, in March last, started to the the theatre with Charlie Brooks, a boy of 17. The latter in some way had procured a marriage license and on the way proposed marriage. The girl consented, and a Methodist minister tied the knot. Immediately after the girl became conscious stricken and fled to her home. It was kept a secret until yesterday, when the father filed a bill to anuul the marriage. The girl tells a romantic story of their courtship, and charges that her love was won by fraud and perjury, and accuses him of cruelty and dishonesty.

The Harvard-Columbia Freshman Race.

NEW LONDON, Ct., June 28.—The Harvard-Columb a Freshmen race occurs at 4 p. m. to-day, and promises to be the most stubbornly fought contest so far in the collegiate contests. Richard Trimble, of Harvard '79, will act as referee. Delegates from the Harvard and Yale 'Varsity crews met yesterday, and came to a mutual understanding in regard to the dispute arising over the changes of the course. Hotels are filling rapidly, and a large attendance is expected for Friday's contest. Betting is in favor of Yale. The remaining arrangements will be completed to-day.

Navajo Indians Inflamed With Rum.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., June 28.—Reports from the Navajo country states that some of the roving members of that tribe are becoming turbulent and annoying settlers, and are being provided with whiskey from some source. Ike W. Stevens, a prospector, who arrived at Gallup, this county, says that he was attacked by Indians, ambushed, whose weapons were bows and arrows. The Indians who attacked Stevens are ex-United States Scouts employed in Geronimo's raid, and a single white man places himself in danger when passing through the reservation.

Vermont Republicans.

MONTPELIER, Vt., June 28.—The Republican Convention yesterday nominated W. P. Dillingham, of Waterbury, for Governor, Norton A. Woodbury, Lieutenant Governor; W. H. Dubois, State Treasurer; Chas. W. Porter, Secretary of State; E. J. Powell, Auditor. The platform demands the passage of State laws embodying the long and short haul clause of the Interstate Commerce law.

The Gettysburg Celebration.

GETTYSBURG, June 28.—Great preparations are being made for the coming reunion. One thousand tents are being put up at Sprin's Hotel for the Army of the Potomac. 900 on East Cemetery Hill for Pennsylvania G. A. R. men; Gov. Beaver will encamp on the college campus, and about 1,000 tents stand in the wheat field to be occupied by the New Jersey Veteraus and National Guard.

Marshfield's Arson Case Jury Disagrees.

PLYMOUTH, Mass., June 28.—The jury in the famous Marsfield arson case came in yesterday unable to agree, either in the case of Mrs. Walling or daughter Lillian.

GEN. SHERIDAN'S VOYAGE.

To Sail from Washington To-Day for His Summer Home.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—The United States steamer Swatara arrived here at 2 o'clock this afternoon to convey General Sheridan to Buzzard's Bay and Nonquitt. He will be transferred to the steamer by an army ambulance and placed in a swinging berth on the steamer.

The trip to Nonquitt will probably be made in three days. Col. Kellogg of Gen. Sheridan's staff will meet the party on their arrival at Nonquitt. He will take the Boston train for that place to-morrow and complete the arrangements for the General's reception. Col. Kellogg will take the General's four children with him, and also Mrs. Kellogg and his own family.

The following was the last bulletin issued:

General Sheridan has remained in about the same state for the last twenty-four hours. Nothing thus far has occurred to cause any change in the plan already adopted for his removal to Nonquitt. If everything is favorable he will take advantage of the courtesy of the honorable Secretary of the Navy to sail from Washington on the United States steamer Swatara about noon to-day.

NEW BEDFORD, June 28.—A letter received yesterday by the manager of the Hotel at Nonquit from Mrs. Sheridan stated General Sheridan would arrive there Saturday. Mrs. Sheridan and the General's four physicians will accompany him.

WARRING ALASKA INDIANS.

Fellows That Make $7 a Day Determined to Keep Out Competition.

SEATTLE, W. T., June 28.—The steam schooner Leo arrived here yesterday from Alaska. Among her passengers were 21 miners and prospectors, who report a fatal conflict between two tribes of Alaska Indians, the Chilcats and Sitkas. The former hold a monopoly for freighting for miners from the coast to the mines and refuse to permit the other Indians to engage in business, and sometimes interfere with white men who attempt to carry in their own baggage. They charge exorbitant prices and make over $7 a day.

Two weeks ago a large party of prospectors started up the Yukon with a tribe of Sitka Indians, under Chief George, as freighters. A combat resulted in which the chief of the Chilcats was killed. The Indians demanded life for life and chased the Sitkas into Haines, a white settlement. The whites protected the life of Chief Gorge during the day, but at night he was murdered by the stealthy Chilcats. Fearing a massacre, the whites sent to the cost for help, which arrived just in time in shape of a man-of-war. The prospectors say the Chilcats are very insolent and are being urged to more violence by the widow of the murdered chief. They also say that white man has slim protection from the avaricious and murderous redskins.

Half-Breed Chaska and Wife.

WASHINGTON, D.C., June 28.—Pedestrians on Fifteenth street yesterday were attracted by an odd-appearing couple. Investigation proved them to be Chask, the Indian half-breed, who last spring married Miss Cora Bell Fellows, at one time a society belle in this city and daughter of Col. Fellows, of the Interior Department. They are here on a visit to her parents, who reluctantly welcomed her. Her parents were deeply opposed to the match but were unable to break of the infatuation and now are trying to make the best of it. Mrs. Chaska, or rather Mrs. Campbell, (as that is name he goes by), was dressed in cream-colored muslin and wore a large white hat with long blue streamers. Chaska wore civilized clothing with black sombrero and gloves. Mrs. Campbell is much below the medium size, but what she does not possess in height is made up in vivacity, while he is over six feet in height and shows traces of Indian blood.

Mary Irene Hoyt's Injunction Suit.

TOLEDO O., June 28.—Judge Jackson, of the United States Court, yesterday heard an application for a temporary injunction in the case of Mary Irene Hoyt vs. Henry L. Webber. Miss Hoyt is the heir-at-law of Jesse Hoyt, who died in New York in 1882, leaving an estate valued at $3,000,000, most of which consisted of Michigan pine lands. Judge Jackson, after listening to the argument of the counsel, granted a restraining order prohibiting the defendant from selling real estate or otherwise converting the property until July 20, when he will hear the motion for an injunction at Grand Rapids, Michigan.

Shot His Daughter's Assailant.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 28.—A terrible tragedy occurred last night in the suburb of Wanskuck. Arthur Craven, aged 19 years, was shot and fatally wounded by James Jewett. Craven was escorting Ada, the daughter of Jewett, home after being out with some companions, and when near her house made an indecent assault upon her and threw her down. Her cries attracted her father, who was in the cellar. He came out, saw the situation, went back, got a pistol and shot Craven in the side, inflicting probably fatal injuries. Both are well-known and highly respected in this locality.

Diaz Will Rule Again.

CITY OF MEXICO, June 28.—Elections for electors who are to choose a President and members of Congress a week from next Sunday were held throughout the country. There was little animation as far as reported, and no opposition worth mentioning to General Diaz and the tickets of the administration party. This result has been expected and there was no rejoicing on the part of the friends of the government, although everybody is glad to know that the affairs of the government will be administered for another term by General Diaz.

Wilson Hanged at Albion, N. Y.

ALBION, N. Y., June 28.—George Wilson, convicted of killing his wife in this place January 19, 1887, was hanged here yesterday. He maintained his innocence to the last, and insisted that his wife died of heart disease. He was executed on the same gallows on which Bob Van Brunt was hanged. The drop fell at 10:17. Wilson's neck was broken by the fall and death was instantaneous.

OUR PRINCIPLES.

It is not proposed to entirely relieve the country of this taxation. It must be extensively continued as the source of the Government's income; and in a readjustment of our tariff the interest of American labor engaged in manufacture should be carefully considered, as well as the preservation of our manufacturers. It may be called protection, or by any other name, but relief from the hardships and dangers of our present tariff laws should be devised with especial precaution against imperiling the existence of our manufacturing interests.—PRESIDENT CLEVELAND'S MESSAGE.

BY THE WAY.

—Oh! for a Y. M. C. A. building.

—The regular weekly meeting of the Reform Club will be held this evening.

—Don't forget the Bethel festival tonight. They have everything in nice shape to make you happy.

—The North Plainfield Public School is to be equipped with electric call bells. The trustees are soliciting estimates for same.

—The Plainfield Cornet Band serenaded Mr. Elias B. Pope, last evening. Mr. Pope remunerated the musicians for their trouble.

—There is yet no movement on foot for a public demonstration on July 4. The citizens should wake up and show their patriotism.

—There will be good music and plenty of iced cream and cake at Bethel chapel, this evening, when the Mission will hold a festival.

—The Bethel Mission will have a strawberry and iced cream festival in their chapel, Fifth and Washington streets, this evening.

—A regular meeting of the Board of Directors of the Y. M. C. A. will be held in the Association rooms this evening at eight o'clock.

—The excessive heat of a week past is followed today by a rain storm. The rain is needed, and there is a decided change in the atmosphere.

—A number of boys with a "growler" of beer were acting in a disorderly manner on the sidewalk on East Front street, late on Tuesday evening.

—Do not forget the closing exercises of the Loyal Temperance Legion, this evening, at a quarter before eight o'clock, in the W. C. T. U. rooms, 73 West Front street.

—A series of interesting meetings were held in the M. E. church at Bound Brook, on Thursday last. Rev. J. B. VanMeter, pastor of the M. E. church in this city, was one of the speakers.

—Four ounces of saltpetre dissolved in a pail of water and sprinkled on the cucumber vines, is said to be an excellent preparation for destroying the little black insects that infest them at this season.

—The game of ball which took place yesterday afternoon between the Jr. O. U. A. M., nine and the picked nine of "hay seeds," on the grounds near Blatz's Hotel, resulted in favor of the former by a score of 10 to 9.

—At the meeting of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., this evening, at their rooms corner of Front street and Park avenue, the semi-annual election of officers will take place, and other business of importance will be transacted.

—Edward Kline, of Phillipsburg, a freight train conductor on the Jersey Central road, has been appointed a passenger train conductor on the South Branch Division, between Somerville and Flemington. He entered upon his duties on Monday.

—The Chimney Rock correspondent to the Somerset Messenger says: "The story of the battle with the eagle, which is stated to have taken place at the Falls (as published in the Plainfield —— and copied in the Bound Brook Chronicle), is a whopper and false in every particular."

—A team of truck horses, a brown and a bay, belonging to Mr. Peter Rickert of Jackson avenue, North Plainfield, ran away from the stable about eight o'clock last evening, and have not since been seen. The animals were last seen running along Mountain avenue in the direction of Scotch Plains.

—A work horse belonging to David Vall o West Second street, died yesterday from exhaustion.

—The rain and wind storm today has laid much of the early corn in this vicinity.

—A cow, valued at $80, belonging to Mr. L. W. Serrell, of West Front street, died on Tuesday, from the effects of an inward tumor. The animal left a nine-days'-old daughter to mourn her loss.

—The person who took the axe that belongs to Warren Steamer, from the house, will save himself much trouble by returning it at once. If is is sent for, the one who took it may have cause for regret.

—The Republicans are making great preparations for their demonstration on Saturday evening. Prominent speakers from abroad will be present and deliver addresses. The North Plainfield Club will join with the Republican Association of this city in the rally.

Entertaining the Children.

The teachers and others interested in Hope Mission, gave an entertainment in the chapel on West Fourth street, Tuesday evening. About 250 were present, including a large number of children, all of whom thoroughly enjoyed the programme that was given, and the iced cream and cake that followed.

The first number was a piano duett by Miss Nellie Day and Mr. George Schoonmaker, that was well executed. Miss Carrie Dewey and Mr. Louis Newman performed a duett for piano and violin, which was truly pleasing. Mr. Mortimer Day favored the audience with one of his enjoyable banjo solos, and two little misses of Mission school, recited.

The most elaborate feature of the programme was the "Humaniphone," lead by Mr. H. O. Newman, and of which the chromatic scale was formed by the voices of Miss Carrie Dewey, Miss Jessie Day, Miss Nellie Day, Miss Lilian Newman, Mrs. Fred Andrews, Mr. George Schoonmaker, Mr. Mort Day and Mr. Frank Newman.

The affair was a complete success in its purpose, and very creditable to the Mission people. Hope Sunday School has now eleven classes formed, under the charge of the following teachers: Miss Day, Miss Jessie Munger, Mrs. Hillman, Miss Lilian Newman, Miss Florence Rushmore, Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Struthers, Mr. F. H. Andrews, Mr. Amos Andrews, Mr. Fountaine, and Mr. H. R. Munger.

WEDDING BELLS.

RANDOLPH—RUNK.

A large and fashionable audience assembled in the First Baptist church at five o'clock yesterday afternoon, to witness the marriage of Miss Lillie Randolph, daughter of Mr. Daniel F. Randolph of West Seventh street and Mr. Charles Runk. At the appointed hour, the bride, a brunette, charmingly attired in a light silk dress with hat to match, and carrying a bouquet of roses, entered the church, and preceded by the ushers, marched up the right centre aisle, on the arm of her father, to the accompaniment of a wedding march by Mr. W. A. Conger. The groom and best man, Mr. Louis Van Alstine, followed.

At the altar the bridal party were met by Rev. Dr. Yerkes, who performed the ceremony. The ushers were Messrs. L. Van Alstine, George White, David Sutphen, Fred. R. Smalley and George Randolph.

The usual reception and wedding feast followed at the residence of the bride's parents, from six to eight o'clock, which was attended by many of the near friends of the bride and groom. The presents are spoken of as elegant, and consisted principally of silverware.

Mr. and Mrs. Runk took passage on the 8:40 P. M. train to spend their honeymoon at Niagara Falls and other points of interest.

Almost a Conflagration.

The dwelling house of Mrs. M. L. Kellogg, situated at the corner of Park avenue and Fifth street, had a narrow escape from total destruction by fire yesterday afternoon. A workman employed by Dr. Rushmore was burning caterpillars from a tree directly in the rear of a woodshed which adjoins Mrs. Kellogg's residence. Sparks ignited with the roof on the woodshed, and the fire had gained considerable headway when discovered, and extinguished. The cause was purely accidental.

Fire Department Bonds.

Elsewhere is advertised a notice to the effect that sealed proposals will be received by Borough Clerk James K. Arnold, up to Monday next at 6 P. M., for seven Fire Department bonds of $500 each, dated July 1, 1888. One of the bonds will fall due on Jan. 1, 1890, and two bonds will mature annually thereafter until 1893. Here is a chance for some one to make a good investment, and the opportunity will doubtless be taken.

Ratifying the Nominations.

A number of the young Republicans, residing in the vicinity of Central avenue and Eight street, ratified the nominations of Harrison and Morton, last evening, by setting off a quantity of pyrotechnical designs. Fully fifteen cent's worth of Roman candles, sky rockets and pin wheels were discharged. The demonstration closed with three hearty cheers for the Republican nominees.

Spinal Disease.

DR. FLINT'S REMEDY should be taken whenever there is felt pain or soreness in the back, or uneasiness in the extremities, increased by motion, as these are the premonitory symptoms of spinal congestion. Descriptive treatise with each bottle. J. G. Miller, Agent, Plainfield.

William Piker's Funeral.

The funeral of the late William Piker, who died on Sunday, took place in the German Reformed church in North Plainfield, yesterday afternoon, and was conducted by Rev. F. Koechli, the pastor, assisted by Rev. Dr. Yerkes. The members of the Plainfield Gesang and Turn Verein Society, of which the deceased was a faithful member, attended the funeral in a body and escorted the remains to the church. The pall-bearers were Messrs. Louis Weigel, Fred Becker, Herman Keller, Alex. Flack, Frank Compton and Henry Haurand.

The floral contributions were very pretty, including a lyre with the letters "F. F. T. S.," designating the Turners' emblem, inscribed in the centre of it. Interment was made in the Presbyterian cemetery in North Plainfield.

After the funeral a meeting of the Society was held at its headquarters, and the members listened to an eloquent eulogy of the deceased delivered by Mr. Martin L. Haubner. The speech was in German, of which the following is a translation:

"Peace be around this grave! O, you have buried a good man, but to us our so early deceased brother, W. H. Piker, was more, as this large gathering shows. Yes, to us he was more, as he was one of the most prominent members of our society, and possessed the confidence of us all. Acting in the capacity of First Turn-Wart for over five years, he had proved himself a skillful athlete and able teacher; and through his untiring efforts the Turning Section has been upheld.

"Although he felt his failing health long before we were aware of it, he did not retire from office, nor rest in his endeavors to increase the merit and welfare of the Section. He was faithful in his generous services to his end. O we can hardly believe that he has left us—he whose skill in physical feats we often had occasion to wonder at. Great, great, is our bereavement and our loss. Therefore let us tender our heartfelt sympathies to the bereaved family in their great sorrow; and that we never can forget our beloved brother, his portrait on our walls will be encircled with a Turner laurel-wreath of honor."

The speaker then recited the following poem, written by himself:

Lasst perlen die Thranen
Im trauernden Blick
Und denket mit Sehnen
Der Liebe zuruck.
An "Ihn" der geschieden
"Er" bleibet uns werth
Mit "Ihm" da sei Frieden
Im Schosse der Erd.

A committee was appointed to draft suitable resolutions of sympathy, and to have them published in THE PRESS and a copy sent to the family of the late brother.

Here It Is Again.

We gave warning yesterday that we would submit to the depredations of the other daily no longer. We shall expose it each day.

(From the "Daily Press" of June 26.)

The first annual reception of the Alumni of the North Plainfield Public School to the graduates of '88, in the W. C. T. U. rooms, last evening, was an enjoyable affair, and was participated in by a large number of young people. During the evening addresses were made by Principal Boss and members of the Board of Education. These receptions will be held annually, hereafter.

Resolutions of Sympathy.

WHEREAS, It has pleased the Almighty God to remove from our midst a beloved and faithful brother, therefore be it,

Resolved, That the Plainfield Gesang and Turn Verein has lost in brother W. H. Piker one of its most prominent and faithful members.

Resolved, That the Plainfield Gesang and Turn Verein owe him thanks far beyond his grave.

Resolved, To tender our heartfelt sympathies to the bereaved family in their great sorrow.

Resolved, That a copy of the resolutions be sent to the family and also be printed in the daily papers.

Last Night's Fire.

About ten o'clock last evening fire was discovered in the dilapidated and unoccupied house on Terrill road, near Midway avenue. The building was formerly used as a small-pox hospital, but of late the dwelling has not been tenanted, except by tramps.

The fire rapidly gained headway, and illuminated the heavens for a long distance around. No alarm was sent out, however, and the structure was totally destroyed. The building was owned by Mr. Warren Ackerman of Scotch Plains, who purchased it some time since of Dr. Gill. Whether or not it was insured, is not known. The fire doubtless was the work of an incendiary.

Testing Fire Hose.

Chief Doane of the Fire Department, on Tuesday tested a length of new cotton hose, at Mr. J. N. Schenck's machine shop in North Plainfield. The test was entirely satisfactory, and the Chief will probably recommend its use to the Council. The hose stood a water pressure of over 400 pounds, and the expansion was only about two-sixteenths of an inch.

POISON IN OUR DRINK.

Not Alcohol—which one may avoid—but BRASS AND LEAD which one takes unsuspectingly. "How—When—Where?" Well, say, in a glass of Soda. Pity the most popular and wholesome of all artificial drinks—which Soda honestly is—should ever deserve a touch of suspicion. but

THE FROZEN TRUTH

is that in some Soda Fountains economy and mechanical facility are studied to the neglect of the weightier matter of purity. Some men are too "smart;" some Soda Fountains are too "ingenious."

We have recently had made a Fountain which secures Absolute Purity for the beverages. Rather pretty, too, we think. We selected the "Matthews' make" because it is the only fount in which the syrups have positively no metallic contact, being discharged direct from glass jars into the tumblers—no tubes; while the waters are contained in and flow through solid block tin.

PURE AS CRYSTAL, COLD AS CHARITY.

We make our own syrups—from REAL FRUIT JUICES, or from chocolate or coffee, etc., as the case may be; no nonsense of essences or make believe.

New drinks? Yes, some of our own contriving. "Winks?" Not a wink; not licensed for winks, and we have an opinion of druggists who take a wink.

Come and try the new Fountain; if you like your drink we'll thank you for saying so, and you'll pay us five cents and come again—it will do you good; only don't come Sundays; no use—Fountain WON'T WORK.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

The speakers secured for Sunday night's meeting of the Reform Club are Captain Wm. B. Ostrom, Wm. H. Sampson and Alex. Titsworth.

The remains of the late Mrs. J. L. Van Neste were yesterday transferred from the receiving vault in the new Hillside Cemetery, to the family plot.

Mr. Edwin Worsley, erstwhile known to some reward and fame as "Murphy the Detective," is said to be employed as a railroad "spotter" at the Grand Central depot, New York.

The family of Rev. J. B. VanMeter, pastor of the M. E. church in this city, will spend the Summer at their cottage in the Alleghany mountains. Dr. VanMeter will continue to preach in his church until October.

David Bodine, a son of Mr. John Bodine of North Plainfield, received a severe sprain of the muscles in the neck, while playing lawn tennis, yesterday. Dr. Fritts, the attending physician, reports improvement in the young man's condition.

Mr. Lebbeus Pennington of West Third street, was presented by Mrs. Pennington, yesterday morning about nine o'clock, with a twin boy and a twin girl. Mr. Pennington is a graduate of the Plainfield Public school at Fifth and Liberty streets.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Culbertson and family, of Little Rock, Ark., are passing their Summer vacation at Ocean Grove, N. J. Mrs. Culbertson, nee Miss Emily Lee, is a daughter of Mr. John T. Lee, formerly of this city, but now residing at Montgomery, Ala.

Mr. Harry Campbell and Miss Eva Kelly, daughter of Mr. Wm. Kelly of Oak Tree, were united in marriage at the residence of the bride's parents, at half-past seven o'clock last evening. The groom is a brother-in-law of Councilman Wilbur of this city.

Mr. John W. Sands, formerly of Plainfield and Miss Isabella T. O'Rielly, of Bound Brook, were married at the residence of the bride's brother, Laurence O'Rielly, at Chicago, on Tuesday evening, at half-past five o'clock. The bride is a sister of Mrs. Eugene A. Laine, of this city. The happy couple will make Chicago their home.

The Weather and Crops.

The crop correspondent and observers of the New Jersey State Weather Service have made the following report for the week ending June 22, 1888, concerning the weather and crop conditions:

During the week the average temperature of the State has been above the normal for the same week of former years. The rainfall was about the average in Union, Mercer, Essex, Hunterdon, Somerset, Monmouth and Warren counties. In the remaining counties, notably Burlington, Bergen, Atlantic and Gloucester, a very decided deficiency continues.

The long continued dry spell which prevailed during the first half of the month was broken by heavy thunder storms on the first and second days of the week. In some of the counties, notably, Mercer, Union, Hunterdon and Middlesex, great damage was done by high wind, lightning and hail. Hailstones fell which measured four inches in length.

A Handsome School House.

The walls of the parochial school at Sixth and Liberty streets, are already up above the second story, and some idea of the attractive appearance of the building can be formed.

The walls are of red brick with courses of white and black brick at each floor line. The roof will be pitched. In a niche in the face of the Sixth street wall just under the eaves, will stand a statue of the Virgin Mary, about five feet in height.

There are four class rooms on each of the first and second floors. The third story will be finished as an assembly room, the entire size of the building. The beams overhead will be finished in oil, and left to show.

Mr. J. Potter Johnson is doing the carpenter work, and Mr. I. W. Pangborn the masonry. Mr. Jesse Oakley is the architect.

Limp no More,

but call upon Dr Kimbell, the eminent specialist, and the only chiropodist that we have ever heard of that can eradicate and permanently cure the worst cases of feet trouble in one treatment. We know this to be so, having had our feet cured by him. Gentlemen as well as ladies of the highest classes in this city have been cured by him. Saturday will be your last chance to be cured, by calling upon him at the City Hotel. His charges are moderate and always made known to the patients after examinations, which are always free.

Robbers on Cottage Place.

About one o'clock this morning robbers entered the sleeping apartments of Margaret Bunworth, on Cottage place, but were frightened away before securing any plunder. Entrance to the place was effected by forcing a window on the ground floor. Mrs. Bunworth was awakened by the noise, and arising from bed, discovered a man crawling in through the open window. She gave an alarm, and the fellow made his exit, breaking down a table when jumping from the window.

Beats the Record.

A brood mare belonging to Mr. Henry Burdy, gave birth to twin colts, Tuesday. One of the colts, however, has since died, but the other one is apparently strong and healthy. This breaks the record and is considered something remarkable. The mother should be exhibited at the County fair.

Ben and Levi as Fertilizers.

[From the Elizabeth Journal.]

Advices from Washington Valley, by our special correspondent, state that the Republican nominations will not seriously interfere with the peach crop.—Plainfield Press.

We thank our Plainfield contemporary for this bit of highly important information. Its value is enhanced by the fact that while the Press is professedly independent it is published by the same genial and enterprising gentlemen who publish an out and out Democratic weekly. Taking the facts as stated too much gratitude cannot be extended to the Press for refusing to suppress this information. For why? Since the discussion of the Mills bill was begun, since Mr. Cleveland was nominated for a second term, since the Democratic platform pronounced in favor of such a line of tariff reform as the President's message demanded, there have been more business failures throughout the country than have ever been known at a time when money was so plenty. See the logic of the Press' statement. It evidently sees that the Democratic nominations have seriously interfered with the business of the country, and it hastens to assure an alarmed people that the Republican nominations are not damaging. The proper inference is that the Republican nominations are salutary; that instead of seriously interfering with the crops they will materially improve them. And this latter is exactly the case, inasmuch as with good wages and willing, contented workingmen, the crops are always good and the crop growers happy.

What May Not Be Mailed.

The Postmaster-General is forwarding to Postmasters throughout the country official notification of the approval by the President, on June 18, of an act of Congress which provides, among other things, that "all matter, otherwise mailable by law, upon the envelope or outside cover of which, or postal card upon which * * * libelous, scurrilous or threatening delineations, epithets, terms or language, or reflecting injuriously upon the character or conduct of another, may be written or printed, are declared to be non-mailable matter, and shall not be conveyed in the mails nor delivered from any post office nor by any letter carrier. The act further provides, as a penalty for depositing such objectionable matter in a post office, a fine of from $100 to $5,000, or imprisonment at hard labor from one to ten years, or both. Anything in the nature of an offensive or threatening dun apparent upon an envelope, outside cover, or postal card, or conveying the suggestion that such dun is enclosed, will be excluded as non-mailable matter under this act."

Resolutions of Condolence.

At the meeting of the U. S. Grant Republican Club, held in North Plainfield, on Monday evening, Messrs. Isaac Brokaw, Chas. C. Day and W. C. Smith, were appointed a committee to draw up a set of resolutions, referring to the death of ex-Councilman Alexander H. Milne. They are as follows:

WHEREAS, Alexander H. Milne, President of the U. S. Grant Republican Club, was removed by death on the 12th day of June 1888; he was an esteemed associate and a true and tried Republican.

Resolved, That we as an Association greatly deplore his removal in the prime of life as a sad blow to his many friends and associates. Nevertheless, we bow in humble submission to the will of an all wise Providence who doeth all things well.

Resolved, That we as an Association extend to the bereaved wife and family our profoundest sympathy in this the hour of their great affliction.

Signed, ISAAC BROKAW,
CHAS. C. DAY,
WM. C. SMITH,
Committee.

Trotting on the Fourth.

The entries for the Fourth of July trotting meeting at Waverly embrace several of the horses which engaged in the great contest on Decoration day at the same place. The approaching races will be more hotly contested for the reason that some of the horses on the previous occasion had been entered without having received the requisite preparation, and as a result were not in a condition for a bruising race of heats. For instance, Frank M. and Mambrino Ross, who were beaten on Decoration Day by O. S. B., will be in prime condition by the Fourth of July. Both have since trotted four or five seconds faster than they did on Decoration Day.

The entries in both classes for the Fourth, number some of the best horses in the State.

100 Octogenarians in Plainfield.

A correspondent of the Home Journal, in a half-column article in praise of Hotel Netherwood, says among other nice things: "The drives in the neighborhood are over fine macadamized roads. The hotel is surrounded by a park of about three acres, with fine lawns and old oak trees. As an evidence of the healthfulness of this locality, I am informed that in Plainfield there are living, today, one hundred men eighty years old. There is a sense of restfulness and quietude about this lovely place."

—It is suggested that a political organization be gotten up among the bicyclists of this city. There are a large number of riders and it would be a pretty sight to see them in line, each with a torch in his hat.

The Babies Cry For It.

And the old folks laugh when they find that the pleasant California liquid fruit remedy, Syrup of Figs, is more easily taken and more beneficial in its action than bitter, nauseous medicines. It strengthens the Liver, Kidneys, Stomach, and Bowels, while it arouses them to a healthy activity. For sale in 50 cts and $1.00 bottles by Field & Randolph.

CLEVELAND IN VIRGINIA.

Distinguished Guests Attend the University of Virginia.

CHARLOTTEVILLE, Va., June 28.—The final exercises of the University of Virginia were concluded last evening. The notable event of Tuesday was the oration of Senator Daniel W. Voorhees, of Indiana, before the Jefferson and Washington Literary Societies. But yesterday was the great day of the occasion, owing chiefly to the presence of President Cleveland and Secretaries Bayard and Vilas. In the afternoon the Society of the Alumni met and elected Judge Richardson, of Tennessee, President and President Cleveland, Secretaries Bayard and Vilas, Gov. Lee, Judge Bigger, of Florida, and Senator Voorhees honorary members.

Early in the evening the society gave a luncheon in the library hall in honor of the President and other distinguished guests. Places were laid for a company of 250. A toast to the President was responded to by Mr. Cleveland very briefly. He confessed his profound indebtedness to the accomplishments and example of the founder of the University for inspiration in the discharge of his own executive functions. His tribute to the genius, learning and ability of Jefferson was earnest and handsome. Mr. Bayard spoke more at length to the toast, "The United States of America," and cleverly managed to compress into his a philosophical argument in favor of a tariff for revenue only. After speeches by Mr. Vilas, Senator Voorhees and Governor Lee, the company dispersed, and President Cleveland and party were driven over to Monticello to view the former home and the burial place of Thomas Jefferson. Upon their return they took their departure.

A Train Goes Through a Bridge.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., June 28.—Yesterday a south bound train from this city to Mobile went through a small bridge a mile north of Tensas. The engine, bag gage car, postal, two passenger cars and one sleeper became a total wreck. Engineer John Morgan, Fireman Samuel Williams and two tramps and Mail Agent Davis were killed. Baggage Master Taylor and four passengers were slightly hurt. B. F. Smith, a colored passenger, is probably fatally hurt. The bridge was over a small stream and was undermined by heavy rain.

Twenty-five Miles On Wheels.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 28.—The third annual twenty-five mile bicycle race for the championship of the Rhode Island division of the League of American Wheelmen and medals was ridden last night on the half mile oval at Roger Williams Park. There were four starters, and three finished in the following order: W. A. M. Scott, Providence, 1h. 24m. 30s.; William Van Wagoner, Newport, 1h. 26m. 3½s.; B. Taylor Bruce, Providence, 1h. 30m. 20s.

The Death of Mary Hazeltine.

WOBURN, Mass., June 28.—Medical Examiner Winsor yesterday reported the result of the autopsy on the body of Mary E. Hazeltine, who was found dead on Monday on Huckleberry Hill. He says death was caused by a bullet wound. There is not the slightest scientific clue to anything against the moral character of the girl. The police are searching for the young man who was with the girl in Main street on Sunday night.

Wife Better Than Pulpit.

PHILADELPHIA, June 28.—The Rev. H. T. Widdemer, rector of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the Beloved Disciple, who was recently tried and convicted and sentenced for violation of church canons, has concluded to resign his pulpit rather than give up "Mrs. Widdimer," as Bishop Whittaker commanded him to do. He sent in his resignation to the vestry last night to take effect next Saturday. It was promptly accepted.

Decision in the Ayer Case.

OTTAWA, June 28.—The Exchequer Court case of the Crown against J. C. Ayer & Co., of Lowell, Mass., to recover $379,000 penalties and to confiscate the goods owned by that firm and valued at $79,000, was dismissed yesterday by Chief Justice Ritchie, of the Supreme Court. He issued an order for the return of confiscated goods.

A Flood in Nebraska.

NELSON, Neb., June 28.—The heaviest rainfall ever known in this section occurred yesterday and last night. Elk Creek is over its banks and all bridges crossing it are washed away. The county will lose $10,000. The Burlington and Missouri bridge is damaged so badly as to render it unsafe.

A Lumber Fire.

EAST WALLINFORD, Vt., June 28.—A destructive fire raged here this afternoon, and the town at one time was thought to be doomed. Abel Ray's house and four barns, and 400,000 feet of lumber owned by H. B. & E. B. Aldrich are burned; loss $15,000; insurance less than $4,000.

Weather Indications.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—For New England, New York, Eastern Pennsylvania, Delaware and New Jersey, light to fresh northerly winds, brisk on the coast, slightly cooler, fair weather, followed by occasional light rains.

NEW YORK MARKETS.

NEW YORK, June 27.—Money on call to-day 1½ per cent.

STOCK MARKET.

THE NATIONAL CAPITAL

AN ATTEMPT MADE TO LAY ASIDE THE MILLS BILL.

Amendments to the River and Harbor Appropriation Bill Considered—Work Done By Congress—Other News.

WASHINGTON, June 28.—In the House when the Mills bill was called up Mr. Kelley (Pa.) immediately arose and deprecated arguing on the tariff until the end of September and in lieu offered a proposition to lay aside the bill until the next session of Congress when the people of the country would decide in November whether the bill was for the best interests of the country or not.

Mr. Mills replied and said he would submit to no such proposition but wished the bill would be passed at once.

Mr. Reed next spoke and said that Kelley's proposition was an independent personal one, but undoubtedly met the approval of the Republican side and he (Reed) objected to having the Democratic side dictate to the minority as to the exact length of time to be devoted to such an important measure as the tariff reduction.

Demands for the regular order cut off further discussion, and the House went into Committee of the Whole on the Tariff bill. Mr. McComas, of Maryland, moved to strike out line 37—"coal tar, crude." Lost, as were motions to amend the other lines relating to coal tar products and to dyewoods and decoctions.

At the instance of Mr. Russell, of Massachusetts, alizarene colors were added to the free list.

Mr. Mills offered a committee amendment, which was adopted, striking out line 96—"bone black, ivory, drop black, and bone cher."

Mr. Breckenridge, of Arkansas, also offered a substitute for lines 99 to 103 inclusive, relating to essential oils, etc. The substitute, which was adopted, names specifically, olive, salad, cotton seed, whale, seal and neatsfoot oil, as entitled to free entry.

China clay, or kaolin, was stricken out, and the line was replaced by another placing on the free list unwrought glass for use in the manufacture of optical instruments, spectacles and eyeglasses.

Mr. Felton and Mr. Vandeveer of California made vigorous efforts to strike quick silver and chromic ore from the free list, but were unsuccessful.

Mr. Buchanan of New Jersey moved to strike out "Brick other than fire brick." Lost.

Mr. Mills offered the committee amendment placing German looking-glass plates on the free liss, but at the suggestion of Mr. Bayne of Pennsylvania, the matter was allowed to go over until to-day. The committee then rose and the House adjourned.

The Senate had under consideration the River and Harbor Appropriation Bill. Among the amendments reported and agreed to were the following:

Inserting an item of $5,000 for the harbor at Milford, Conn.

Increasing the appropriation for the harbor at Buffalo, N. Y., from $200,000 to $350,000.

Reducing the appropriation for Buttermilk channel, New York harbor, from $100,000 to $59,000.

Striking out the items of $5,000 for Sheepshead Bay, New York, and of $10,000 for Canarsie Bay, New York.

Increasing the items for the harbor of Charlotte, New York, from $25,000 to $45,000, and of Dunkirk, New York, from $15,000 to $20,000.

Increasing the appropriation for channel at Gowanus Bay, New York, from $30,000 to $60,000.

Inserting an item of $10,000 for improving Arthur Kill, New York.

Increasing the appropriation for Raritan Bay, New Jersey, from $20,000 to $35,000.

The item for Philadelphia harbor was the first to provoke discussion. The amendment increases the appropriation from $250,000 to $550,000, and provides that $300,000 of that amount may be expended for the purchase of Smith's Island, Wind Mill Island and Petty's Island in the harbor.

Mr. Reagan (Tex.) opposed the amendment, suggesting that it was a job for the owners of the islands.

Senators Frye (Me.) and Vest (Mo.) defended it, the former stating the estimate of the whole cost of the improvement at $8,500,000, and saying that he would favor it, even if the cost were $5,000,000; and the latter, speaking of the appropriation as a bagatelle compared with the enormous commerce of the Delaware River.

The amendment was agreed to.

General Berden appeared before a portion of the Senate Committee on Naval Affairs yesterday and explained in detail his torpedo devices. He exhibited the model of a ram, whose prow was made to penetrate the net suspended around the enemy's vessel, while at the moment it struck the vessel's side an arm carrying a torpedo was made to drop from the side of the ram, and, swinging below the bottom of the net, land the torpedo immediately under the middle of the ship.

The land bill was called up yesterday and a viva voce vote ordered upon an amendment which provided that in all lands hereafter sold the United States reserves all rights to mineral deposits found thereon. The purchasers simply become the lessees of the lands purchased until Congress at its discretion may legislate concerning such lands and provide for the final disposal of the same. The amendment was adopted.

A bill authorizing the Paris, Choctaw and Little Rock Railroad Company to construct a railroad, telegraph and telephone line through the Indian Territory, not having been signed by the President within the ten days' limit, has become a law without the signature.

A bill was passed granting leave of absence to all government employes who were present at the battle of Gettysburg to attend the celebration of the battle on July 2nd.

The President has decided not to go to Cincinnati to open the exposition to be held there. He desired to go but found it would be impossible for him to leave for so long a trip.

King Thomas Sold for $40,000.

WASHINGTON, June 28.—The young colt, King Thomas, for which Appleby and Johnson, on Monday last, paid $38,000, has been sold by them to Senator Hearst, of California, for $40,000. This is by far the highest price ever paid for a colt.

A Big Order for Photographs.

WASHINGTON, June 28.—A local photographer here has received an order from Baltimore parties for 100,000 photographs of President Cleveland and the same number of Mr. Thurman on red bandanas.

CHICAGO, June 28.—The first number of the Record, the official organ of the trade and labor assemblies will appear to-day. J. R. Buchanan, editor of the labor Enquirer, will be editor-in-chief.

KAISER WILLIAM'S VIEWS

GIVEN IN HIS SPEECH AT THE OPENING OF THE LANDTAG.

He Again Expresses His Determination to Adhere to the Policy of His Ancestors—Foreign News.

BERLIN, June 28.—The opening of the Lantag yesterday was accompanied by an imposing ceremonial similar to that observed when the Reichstag met. The White Hall of the old castle was again the scene of the ceremonies. The King entered the hall followed by the Royal Princess. The Queen and the Princesses occupied a dais to the right of the throne. The members of the two Houses of the Landtag were stationed opposite the throne, the members of the Upper House on the right and those of the Lower House on the left side.

In his speech from the throne he praised the memory of his father and announced that he accepted his declarations adopting the policy of William the First, and would carry out the policy and work of both. He said he would observe the laws and privileges of Parliament and at the same time protect the constitutional rights of the Prussian Crown.

He promised all creeds protection in their religious services and confirmed peace with the Catholic Church.

In conclusion the Emperor said that all would be done to develope the finances of the kingdom and lighten the taxes of the poor.

Pacific Mail Subsidy and Pre-emption.

LONDON, June 28.—Sir Charles Tupper continues negotiations with the Imperial Government respecting the Pacific Mail Subsidy. Progress has been made during the past few days, and the completion of a contract with the Canadian Pacific Railway may be shortly expected. A deputation from the Central Emigration Society waited on Sir Charles Tupper yesterday and requested him to urge upon the Government to give societies such as their's the right to pre-empt land in the Northwest at low prices. Sir Charles said the most the Government could do was to transfer the right from the settlors to the society.

The Panama Canal Loan a Failure.

PARIS, June 28.—The Panama Canal Loan has closed and it has been a flat failure. Only half the bonds offered have been placed. De Lesseps lays the blame for the failure on the policy which allowed the issuing of the entire loan at one time. He thinks it should have been issued in two parts, one half now, the remainder in six months.

Rumored Meeting of European Rulers.

LONDON, June 28.—A telegram from Vienna says that a meeting between Emperor Francis Joseph, of Austria, Emperor William, of Germany and King Humbert, of Italy has been definitely arranged. They will meet during the course of the summer and it is hoped that stronger relations will be established between the three countries by the conference.

Approving the Emperor's Proclamation.

BERLIN, June 28.—The Reichstag closed yesterday after the promulgation of an address approving in every sense the proclamation issued to the Reichstag by the Emperor on Monday. The address declares the belief of the members of the Reichstag, that the peace of Germany will not be disturbed by any one.

Insurrection in Corea.

SHANGHAI, June 28.—The people of Seoul the capital of Corea, are in open insurrection. They have beheaded nine government officials in the streets, and wild excitement prevails. Foreigners are seeking refuge at their various consulates. It is said that the Chinese instigated the trouble.

Imperial Visits.

VIENNA, June 28.—The Fremdenblatt announces that it is in the position to confirm the reports that Emperor William will visit the Czar at St. Peterasburg during the first fortnight in July, and will afterwards come to Vienna at the invitation of the Emperor Frances Joseph.

Bismarck Goes Home.

BERLIN, June 28.—Prince Bismarck will return to Friedrichsruhe at the end of the present week.

Two Ladies Drowned.

NEWBURG, June 28.—About 8:30 last evening, the steamer Baldwin, of the Kingston line, ran down a naptha pleasure yacht a mile north of this city, cutting it in two. Seven ladies were on the launch. Five were rescued. Miss Annie Miller and Mrs. O'Dell, wife of Benjamin B. O'Dell, jr., Republican State Committeeman from the Fifteenth District, are missing. Those who saw the accident say the yacht was to blame, as it had only the white light out and wobbled from side to side as though the engineer had lost his head. The ladies who escaped were Mrs. Addie, Mrs. O'Dell, Miss Emma Harderberg, Miss Joseph and Miss Rose. They were all struggling in the water, but were rescued by the people on the steamer, who threw ropes to them. Three of them are now delirious, but will recover. The bodies of the two who were drowned have not been recovered.

The Pullman Reunion.

BALTIMORE, June 28.—It is the purpose of the Pullman family, which has been made famous by the inventor of the palace cars, to hold a reunion some time in August next, on Pullman Island, one of the Thousand Islands. Rev. Royal H. Pullman, a Universalist clergyman of this city, will take part in the reunion.

A Big Fire in St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, June 28.—The Gauss Plaining Mill and Chair Factory, on Main and Clinton streets, was destroyed by fire last night. Loss, $90,000. The factory occupied a block of ground and did an extensive business.

Apaches On the Warpath.

NOGALES, June 28.—A small band of Apaches have taken to the warpath in Sonora, Old Mexico, and have committed great depredations. They killed two men a few days ago. One of the Indians has been killed.

THE THEATRICAL "ANGEL."

WANTED—A YOUNG MAN TO ACT AS treasurer and willing to invest two thousand dollars in the production of one of the greatest dramas ever written. Experience wholly unnecessary. Strict investigation. Guaranteed fortune. Address "SHYLOCK."

Appointed hour, aspiring youth, who'd read the magic "ad,"
Shylock's seductive smile, by which the sunny ray looked sad.
As brother welcomes brother, so did 'Shy" his little man,
And took him in his confidence as authors only can.

THE SHARK.

"I've got the greatest drama—why, Shakspeare couldn't write it.
Situations come in clusters, the critics couldn't slight it.
There's a climax every minute, its genius on parade.
Compared with it 'Fedora' is a Sunday-school charade.

THE ANGEL.

"And a 'star' that fairly twinkles; they've never made her match.
If you could only see her act—why, Bernhard't ain't a patch.
And they're waiting for us now, in Hohokus. Sakes alive!
My boy, two thousand's nothing 'twould be cheap as dirt at five.'

NOT A RED.

'Twas all his father left him, but he couldn't stand the strain,
His name in print, a sweet soubrette, the vision turned his brain;
He started for Hohokus, the season to begin,
And took a large and ample "grip" to put the profits in.

THE D—— TO PAY.

For the want of paying business excuses they had scores,
And knew that in the next stand they would pack 'em to the doors;
'Twas the same old story over—the landlord kept the trunk—
The manager with all the funds the night before had slunk.

His legs were short, the ties were wide, the wind had chilled his nerve,
He wistfully sighed at the New York train as it whistled round a curve:
"I will never be an 'angel' and back another show.
When my clipped wings grow out again, you bet I'll not fly low."

—Frank L. Perley, Chicago.

Getting the Ears Shaved.

Probably the reader has never had his or her ears shaved. Poor thing! The reporter pities him. If you would seek for joy on earth go forth and have your ears shaved. What ecstasies of joy the operation brings! How deftly that heathen Chung can wield his razor in and out among the chinks and crevices of the auricular organ, and peel away every whispering vestige of down. How dexterously he gets that little gouge of his away down into the orifice of the ear as it monkeys with the tympanum and sends thrill after thrill of inexpressible joy and excitement shooting through every nerve, and quivering down the spine and all over you. Not one touch hard enough to make one squirm; not one scratch or tweak even when he puts those long black tweezers away down into the ear and fishes about for hairs. And then at the end, when the little white, silky brush wanders down into the drum of your ear on its wire stem and tickles it and plays with it!

Why, it is sublime! More than sublime—supreme in its exquisite pleasure—infinit! It only costs a quarter, and the first American barber that learns the art of doing it has an expansive fortune awaiting him on this side of kingdom come.—New York Telegram.

Not Going to Fall Into That Error Again.

Edward—I love you, Miss Claribel. Will you be my wife?

Claribel—Certainly; right away.

Edward—But—the necessary delays—the minister?

Claribel—O, that's all right. Papa is in the next room. He's the Mayor, you know. I've made the mistake of a long engagement once or twice before. Come!

They stampede.—Tid-Bits.

A professor of natural history wandered away from the Smithsonian the other day and got into a lawyer's office in F street, where there is a pompous young clerk. The professor asked two or three questions on the point at issue, and the clerk finally remarked to him largely: "I tell you it's true, and it is true. What do you know about law, anyway?" "Nothing, nothing at all," replied the professor meekly, "but I know a great deal about natural history, and I think you are an ass."—Washington Critic.

JUDGE THURMAN NOTIFED

OFFICIALLY OF HIS NOMINATION TO THE VICE-PRESIDENCY.

The Letter of Notification Read by the Mayor of Louisville, Ky.—His Reply of Acceptance.

COLUMBUS, June 29.—The members of the Democratic committee appointed to notify ex-Senator Allen G. Thurman of his nomination to the office of Vice-President performed their duty yesterday. The committee assembled in the parlors of the residence of Judge Thurman and Mr. Collins in a few brief words introduced Charles D. Jacobs, Mayor of Louisville, Ky., who read the formal letter of notification. Mr. Thurman replied as follows:

MR. CHAIRMAN AND GENTLEMEN OF THE COMMITTEE: I pray you to accept my very sincere thanks for the kind and courteous manner in which you have communicated to me the official information of my nomination by the St. Louis Convention. You know, without saying it, that I am profoundly grateful to the Convention and to the Democratic party for the honor conferred upon me, and the more so that it was wholly unsought and undesired by me, not that I undervalued a distinction which any man of our party however eminent might highly prize, but simply because I had ceased to be ambitious of a public life. But when I am told in so earnest and impressive a manner that I can still render service to the good cause to which I have ever been devoted—a cause to which I am bound by the ties of affection, by the dictates of judgment, by a sense of obligation for favors so often conferred upon me, and by a fervent hope that the party may long continue to be able to serve the republic, what can I under such circumstances do but yield my private wishes to the demand of those whose opinions I am bound to respect? [Applause.]

Gentlemen, with an unfeigned diffidence in my ability to fulfil the expectations that led to my nomination, I feel it my duty to accept it and do all that it may be in my power to do to merit so marked a distinction.

Gentlemen, the country is blessed by an honest administration of the general Government. We have a President who wisely, bravely, diligently, and patriotically discharges to the duties of his high office. I fully believe that the best interests of the country require his re-election, and the hope that I may be able to contribute somewhat to bring about the result is one of my motives for accepting a place on our ticket, and I also feel it my duty to labor for a reduction of taxes and to put a stop to that accumulation of a surplus in the Treasury that, in my judgment, is not only prejudical to our financial welfare, but is, in a high degree, dangerous to honest and constitutional Government.

I suppose, gentlemen, that I need say no more to-day. In due time, and in accordance with established usuage, I will transmit to your Chairman a written acceptance of my nomination, with such observations upon public questions as may seem to me to be proper.

Before going to Judge Thurman's a meeting of the Committee was held at the Neil House, when Mr. Dixon, of Wyoming, presented Gen. Collins with a gold headed cane. Mr. Strange, of North Carolina, did the same to Stephen M. White, of California, and Mr. Bryan, of Tennessee, was commissioned to present one to W. H. Barnum, of Connecticut.

MRS. ROBINSON SENTENCED

To Be Hanged November 16—Her Son Pleads for Her Life.

BOSTON, June 29.—Sarah J. Robinson, the Somerville poisoner, received the death sentence yesterday afternoon without emotion. When she was brought into court, her appearance belied the often repeated stories of her illness, and the impression made upon the unsympathetic spectators did not tend to change their feelings toward her. Judges Field and Knowlton were on the bench.

Mrs. Robinson was convicted of murder in the first degree on Feb. 11, on an indictment charging her with poisoning her sister's husband, Prince Arthur Freeman, in 1885. Exceptions were taken, but were overruled by the full bench, May 4. The present motion that the verdict was against the weight of evidence was filed on Feb. 28.

A delay has been occasion through the reported illness of the prisoner, but after spending some time in arguing, the Court refused to entertain the motion, and Mrs. Robinson was called for sentence.

When asked if she had aught to say why sentence should not be imposed, the prisoner made an address a half hour in length, saying that she never believed Prince was poisoned in any way, but if he was, it was by Dr. Beers, (who has been judicially freed from suspicion), and not by herself. She called upon God to witness her innocence.

Judge Field pronounced sentence fixing the date of execution on Nov. 16. Then occurred a dramatic episode. Charles, the woman's surviving son, rushed to the witness stand, and, climbing into it, began a wild appeal to the Court to save his mother's life. With tears in his eyes and with impassioned gesticulation the boy pleaded her innocence of the dreadful crime.

The few people in attendance held their breath. His Honor was affected so that he did not dare raise his eyes, but simply shook his head in the negative.

Dickinson College.

CARLISLE, Penn., June 29.—The 105th Annual Commencement of Dickinson College terminated yesterday in Bosler Memorial Hall by the Senior Class delivering their graduation orations. No action was taken by the Board of Trustees as to President McCauley's successor, but it was arranged that Prof. H. C. Himes, Professor of Chemistry, will act as President for the time being. The judges met in the afternoon and awarded the gold Pierson Medal to Oliver Mordorff of Mechanisburg and the silver medal to C. W. Straw of Dauphin. The presentations were made by the Rev. Joseph Welsh of Philadelphia. President McCauley gave his annual levee last night to a large crowd.

Deposed Railroad Employes Bring Suit.

PITTSBURG, June 29.—John C. Henry and S. B. Kennedy, who were recently discharged from the passenger department of the Lake Erie Road, pending an investigation, when it was given out that they were short, have brought suit against the company for $150,000 damages.

A PROHIBITION VICTORY.

The Town of Independence, Mo., After a Hard Fight is Captured by the "Drys."

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., June 29.—The Prohibitionists have carried this town and stopped the sale of strong drink for four years to come. Women were everywhere at the polls, at the lunch stands and on street corners, wearing silk badges and with "dry" ballots in their hands. Girls stood at the polls, and at every voting place was a banner on which was inscribed: "Temperance Beaus or no Beaus at All." Free dinners were served at the polling places.

Hundreds of children carried banners through the streets and about the voting precincts. Some of these were inscribed: "Sow whiskey ballots and reap drunken boys; "Young men keep your record clean—J. B. Gough;" "Rum, revenue and rags;" "Rum ruins the reason;" "Vote as you pray;" "For God, home and native land." The legend, "We can't vote, but we can suffer," was carried by the woman in a parade, and occupied a prominent place in each ward precinct. Many of the best people of the town were interested in the contest and it was no infrequent sight to see young girls with horse and phaeton covered with streamers, bringing the young men to vote for local option.

In the First ward, where there was a large colored population, it was expected there would be a large "wet" majority, and both sides worked hard, and the "drys" gained a great victory. It was here the fight centered, and where the women stood all day, even though the weather was unpleasant. The Mormon Church, which has over a hundred voters, voted unanimously in favor of prohibition.

THE COLUMBIANS WON.

The Collegiate Boat Race—Thousands Attend the Opening.

NEW LONDON, June 29.—The contest between the freshmen crews of Harvard and Columbia Colleges occurred yesterday at 5 o'clock. It was rowed in a pouring rain and a strong wind was blowing across the course. Harvard took water first, both rowing 36 strokes a minute. At the first mile Columbia led by a boat length and gradually increased her lead. Columbia crossed the finish line in 11 minutes, 54 seconds, Harvard followed in 12 minutes, 8 seconds. The rowing of the Columbia crew was the finest ever seen on the Thames by freshmen crews. The victorious crews were carried on the shoulders of the large delegation from their college and were parading last night. The Harvard crew was badly pumped when they crossed the finish. The city was filled last night with people who are here to witness the great aquatic event of the year between Yale and Harvard University crews today. The contest takes place 5 o'clock and will be witnessed by a large crowd. The tickets on the observation train composed of thirty-five cars have been disposed of and three large steamers have been chartered to follow the race tickets, which are scarce at $5 a piece. The Yale glee and banjo clubs are giving a concert at the Opera House, and a band concert on the Green makes things lively. Betting is brisk, 5 to 2 in favor of Yale, and Harvard admirers admirers are on hand to cover. The fast steamer, Margaret will be the press boat.

Forming an Iron Trust.

CLEVELAND, O., June 29.—Thirty-five gentlemen representing the principal bar iron manufacturers of the country met here yesterday and organized a trust. The meeting was secret and representatives of firms comprising the trust signed an agreement to permit prices to be fixed by the association and also the amount of output. It was also agreed that any mill should shut down when ordered by the association. This forms one of the most compact trusts in the country. The following officers were elected: M. C. Wick, Youngstown, O., president; S. A. Fuller, Cleveland, vice-president; C. W. Seibfreed, Cleveland, treasurer; George H. Taylor, Cleveland, secretary. An executive committee was also appointed. Representatives of all the important mills in the country signed the agreement. The organization is to be known as the National Association of Bar Iron Manufacturers.

American Association of Civil Engineers.

CHICAGO, June 29.—The American Association of Civil Engineers met in annual session with about 250 members from the United States and Canada in attendance. The meeting will last until July 5, and it is expected four hundred members will be in attendance. The special train of delegates arrived last night. About 150 were on board. During the night about fifty more arrived, making about 200 present in all. Among them are many holding official positions. Owing to the recent death of a member of the family of the president of the society, Thomas C. Keefer, he will not be present at the convention. The reception to the ladies accompanying the members was given yesterday.

The Latest Story of an Art Discovery.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 29.—Considerable flutter was caused here to-day in local art circles by the discovery of a Magdalen of the Correggio school in the possession of an aged negro, once of President Jackson's family. George W. Chambers, director of the Nashville School of Fine Arts, pronounces it undeniably an original by Correggio or some one under the influence of that master. Its history has been traced to a collection owned by Earle, the well-known painter and companion of President Jackson, who died at Jackson's home leaving many valuable works.

The Groom Was Missing.

BOSTON, June 29.—George Gibson, the missing bridegroom, was found at 29 Wellington street with a bullet hole in his temple, but the wound will not be fatal. He says he shot himself because his wedding suit was not ready on time. Gibson is the young man who was to have married Miss Lillian Chandler, of Chelsia, and failed to appear, disappointing some 200 guests. Inquiry showed that Gibson left his boarding house at 6:30 with the money for his wedding trip and no more was heard of him until the sad news of his attempted suicids was circulated. The bride was prostrated, and at a late hour was in a pitiable condition.

THE NATIONAL CAPITAL

SEVERAL PARAGRAPHS STRUCK FROM THE FREE LIST.

Annual Revision of the Presidential Postmasters' Salaries—Work in the Senate—Guests of the President.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—In the House day Mr. Blount was elected Speaker pro tem during the temporary absence of Mr. Carlisle, who is in New York.

Mr. Randall submitted a resolution to provide for a temporary Government expense. According to the existing law appropriating such sums out of the available funds until the regular appropriations for the fiscal year will have been made by Congress. The Resolution was agreed to.

The House then went into Committee of the Whole on the Tariff Bill.

The paragraph relating to vegetables was taken up, Mr. Baker, of New York, offering an amendment to the paragraph to strike out vegetables from the free list as farmers in New York and other border States would be greatly handicapped in being obliged to compete with Canadian farmers.

Mr. Mills noted that vegetables was one of the most important paragraphs in the bill as it included the necessaries of life, which ought to be purchased as possible. The amendment was not adopted.

The paragraph on "marble of all kinds in block, rough or squared" was stricken from the free list, after a lengthy discussion. "Pulp for paper makers' use" was also stricken out. Mr. Mills moved to strike out the paragraph on "plaster of Paris when ground or calcined," which was unanimously adopted.

THE SENATE.

By consent debate on the Fisheries Treaty and resolution was postponed until Monday next to allow the passage of the appropriation bill before July first.

The Committee on Pensions made a long report attacking seven veto messages of the President which was ordered printed in the Record.

Senator Colquitt introduced an amendment to the Appropriation Bill authorizing the appointment of a commissioner to the National Exposition at Atlanta, Ga., on October and November next; also directing the departments to loan articles and appropriating $30,000; also providing for a committee of five Senators and eight Representatives to attend.

The Agricultural Appropriation Bill, with Senate amendments, was non-concurred in. Senator Belmont moved to non-concur in the Senate amendment relating to Congressional business in the conference report, which was agreed to.

The annual revision of presidential postmasters' salaries is finished. The total number as revised is 2,530. Thirty-two presidential offices are relegated to third class, and forty-two third class to presidential. The aggregate of salaries of presidential offices is $4,202,400; the total receipts at said offices for the year were $38,498,721, being an increase over the previous year of $3,322,559.

Ex-Senator Stockton, of New Jersey, was in town to see the placing of his grandfather's statute in the Hall of Statutes. Each State is allowed two statutes, and New Jersey selected for her subjects, Richard Stockton, who was one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, and Gen. Phil Kearney. Both statues are excellent works of art.

The offerings of bonds yesterday aggregated $5,309,000, in lots as follows: Four per cents. coupon, $2,000 at not under 128; 4 per cents. registered, $10,000 at 128 5-16, $1,000 at highest price to-day, $1,000 at same, $1,000,000 at 128¼; 4½ per cents. registered, $3,500,000 at 107½, $275,000 at 107½.

The Interstate Commerce Commission have dismissed the charges of unjust discrimination, filed by the Business Men's Association of Minnesota against the Chicago and Northwestern Railway Company and Chicago and St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha Railway Company.

Chairman Barnum, of the National Democratic Committee, left for New York last night. He had a consultation with the President yesterday as to the composition of the various committees and will announce the list on Saturday in New York.

Among the guests at Oak View now, are the Rev. William Cleveland, with his wife, and Mrs. Hoyt, the President's sister. They will remain a week or two. Mrs. Folsom, with Mrs. Cleveland, came directly to Oak View from New York.

Owing to the reduced appropriations for postmasters, General Dickinson has ordered the removal of twenty postoffice inspectors on July 1, and ten others later on.

The President has notified the Senate of his disapproval of forty-two bills, mostly pension bills.

GEN. SHERIDAN'S CONDITION.

The Cool Weather Strengthens Him—To Be Removed To-Day.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—General Sheridan will positively leave here for Nonquitt, Mass., on the Swatara this morning. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Sheridan, Col. M. V. Sheridan and the attending physicians. The General's children went by rail yesterday. They were accompanied by Col. and Mrs. Kellogg and their nurse and family servants.

The following bulletin was issued at 9 o'clock last night:

General Sheridan seems to be more comfortable since the weather has grown cooler. He rested well yesterday. The contemplated transfer from his home to the Swartara was postponed on account of the rain. He will not be removed until the weather is more favorable.

Muhlenberg College.

ALLENTOWN, Penn., June 29.—At the commencement exercises at Muhlenberg College yesterday the degree of Bachelor of Arts was conferred upon thirteen graduates. The degree of Master of Arts was conferred upon the class of '85, and that of LL. D. upon the Rev. G. F. Krotel, of New York, and the Rev. Dr. W. J. Mann, of Philadelphia.

OUR PRINCIPLES.

It is not proposed to entirely relieve the country of this taxation. It must be extensively continued as the source of the Government's income; and in a readjustment of our tariff the interest of American labor engaged in manufacture should be carefully considered, as well as the preservation of our manufacturers. It may be called protection, or by any other name, but relief from the hardships and dangers of our present tariff laws should be devised with especial precaution against imperiling the existence of our manufacturing interests.—PRESIDENT CLEVELAND'S MESSAGE.

BY THE WAY.

—O,

—What is so rare

—As a day in June!

—Oh! for a Y. M. C. A. building.

—During the past thirty-six hours the thermometer has dropped fully forty degrees.

—Saturday evening is positively the last opportunity for consulting Dr. Kimbell at the City Hotel.

—During the Summer, commencing tomorrow, THE PRESS will be issued on Saturdays at 2 o'clock.

—The Sheriff will sell on Wednesday, July 18, under foreclosure, a tract of land at the corner of Liberty street and Orchard place.

—The Sunday school of the First Baptist church will hold its session in the morning at half-past nine, during the Summer months.

—The regular business meeting of the W. C. T. U., will be held Tuesday afternoon, July 3, in its rooms, 73 West Front street, at three o'clock.

—Those who were last week complaining of the extreme heat, wore overcoats, yesterday, and remarked that "the weather is unusually cool for this season of the year."

—Mr. Rudolph Laurent claimed the medal for catching the largest eel this season, unt.l Special Officer Giesse captured one on Wednesday that balanced the scales at something like six pounds.

—It is a rare instance for a dwelling house to be entirely consumed by fire within the city limits, without an alarm being sounded. Such was the case on Wednesday evening, as told only in these columns, yesterday.

—Before another week elapses there will be direct telephonic communication between this city and Westfield. A corps of linemen are at work erecting poles east of Fanwood, and they expect to complete the circuit within a few days.

—Conductor O. D. Haynes, one of the best known conductors on the Central Railroad, was relieved from duty on Monday. This discharge, like all the preceding ones, was peremptory, with no reasons given. "Daddy" Haynes, as he was familiarly called, has the sympathy of a host of friends. He had been in the service of the company for some 30 years, and for many years past, his run has been between Somerville and Flemington.

Arrested For Malicious Mischief.

For some time past the peace and good order of Scotch Plains township has been disturbed by some persons full of pure deviltry and malicious mischief. This morning Constable Hand arrested Larry Wallace and John Thys, and the prisoners are now in the Plainfield jail awaiting a chance to plead for mercy before some Justice, at five o'clock, this afternoon.

Besides taking off a dozen gates, breaking some and carrying others away, the depredators went a little further, last evening. A load of crushed stone that Mr. Wm. Reynolds had left standing over night was found dumped in the road; and Mr. Robinson, who boards with Mr. Flanders at Scotch Plains, discovered this morning that his phaeton, a valuable blanket, two pairs of gloves and a whip were gone. The thieves had broken into Mr. Flanders' barn and carried the plunder off.

The phaeton alone was found under Mr. Brittin's shed. Constable Hand arrested Larry Wallace on suspicion, during the day. The whip was found in Wallace's house and the blanket in the house of John Thys who was also gathered in. Both prisoners confessed.

Closing Exercises of the Loyal Temperance Legion.

The severe rainstorm, which prevailed last evening, had a tendency to decrease the attendance at the closing exercises of the Loyal Temperance Legion, in the W. C. T. U. rooms, last evening. The entertainment, however, was of a thoroughly enjoyable nature, and those who did venture out of doors and face the storm, were amply rewarded for their trouble.

The children marched in singing, and rendered the following programme in a very acceptable and creditable manner, Miss Yates presiding at the piano:

1 Temperance Doxology, L. T. L.
2 Prayer (with Lord's prayer).
3 Repetition of Pledge, L. T. L.
4 Singing, "We are a Band of Soldiers," L. T. L.
5 Recitation, Percy Vail.
6 Singing, "Hurrah for the Pledge," L. T. L.
7 Recitation, Mabel Vail.
8 Solo, Harry Yaeger.
9 Recitation, George Firstbrook.
10 Singing, "Temperance Boys and Girls are We," L. T. L.

Mrs. Dr. T. H. Tomlinson, President of the Union County W. C. T. U., gave the children a delightful talk, urging them to remember their pledge, and to keep their souls and bodies pure to present to God.

Mrs. Geo. F. Opdyke, President of the local W. C. T. U., followed with some timely advice to the children, impressing upon their youthful minds the words: "Thou God seest Me." She also made the following rewards for regular attendance and deportment:

For regular attendance—Try Mattox.

Special Mention—Clarence Vail and Grace DeForest.

For Best Deportment—Edith Vail and Westley Thorn, neither of whom have given their teacher occasion to reprove them, either by look or word during the entire year.

Honorable Mention—George Firstbrook, Fred Firstbrook, Harry Yeager, Clarence Vail, Percy Vail, Mamie Porter, Lizzie Firstbrook, Florence Carver.

After the awards were presented Miss Alice Smith gave a piano solo, which was heartily encored and gracefully responded to.

The Loyal Temperance Legion numbers nearly 100 boys and girls, and is a branch of the work of the W. C. T. U. It is conducted by the following officers and teachers:

Supt.—Mrs. P. H. Bennett.
Secretary and Treasurer—Miss Maggie Manning.
Musical Director—Miss Hattie Burnett.
Pianist—Miss Emma U. King.
Teachers—Misses Manning, Addie Winter, Bertha Taylor, Lily Burr, C. Ross, Mamie French and Vinnie French.

More of the Same Sort.

The Plainfield Stolen News is betraying its dishonorable character in another way. It is publishing a series of communications on free trade, addressed "to the editor," that are made up by a firm of patent news pedlers in New York and sold at thirty-five cents a yard to every little sheet throughout the country that does not know its own political a-b-c's.

These communications are not addressed to the editor of the Stolen News, nor any other editor. Honest papers like the Evening Mail of Orange, published the entire article in six columns for just what it is and just as it is received from the shop. Tuesday that paper published it all, a copy of which can be seen at this office.

The next installment that the Stolen News will publish, will commence—unless this exposure is read before—as follows:

"III. A third very numerous class of free traders, like Mills of Texas, Morrison of Illinois," etc.

Compare it!

The Camera Club.

The Plainfield Camera Club will hold a regular meeting at the Y. M. C. A. parlor, on Monday evening, July 2, at 8 P. M. A matter of the livliest interest and greatest importance to every amateur will come up for consideration, and it is desirable that every member be present.

There seems to be no question about the success of the club. Great enthusiasm prevails. It is to be emphatically a learners' club so that any lady or gentleman wishing to take up the art, can take no better preliminary step than to join the club. The saving effected by purchasing supplies and outfits at reduced prices through the club's co-operative scheme, will more than return the club dues to each member.

W. H. Lyon, the treasurer, will be present on Monday evening with special reference to receiving the initiation fees of the members.

The '87 Class Reunion.

Prof. Miller, a former teacher of the Senior class in the High School, arrived in town from Worcester, Mass., yesterday afternoon, and was one of the few who attended the reunion of the '87 Class, at the residence of Miss Clara Burt, the valedictorian, on West Seventh street, last evening. During the evening school-day recollections were talked over, and dancing was indulged in, followed by refreshments.

The Class of '87 consisted of ten graduates, as follows: Miss Clara Burt, Miss Ella Beal, Miss Gussie Holmes, Miss Nellie E. Horan, Miss Lucia Wood, Miss Abbie Wilson, Miss Mamie Titsworth and Messrs. Lucius Gilbert, Frank J. Hubbard and Walter J. Moore. The class motto is "Nothing Great is Lightly Won."

—The "Champions" and the "Rag-Chewers," two local nines, will play a match game of ball on the grounds at Sixth street and Arlington avenue, tomorrow at nine A. M. Master Julian Sutphen will umpire the game. Seats on the neighboring housetops can be secured one day in advance.

The Marvellous Results of One Man's Ability.

Among the guests at Hotel Netherwood, is Mr. H. A. LaFetra, of Brooklyn, who although socially one of the quietest and most unassuming of gentlemen, has brought about by his judgment, tact, push and personality, a large part of the unprecedented growth and success of probably the widest-known business in the country. The company with which he is connected sells one simple article, and only one; yet with a capital of but $110,000, the profits of last year were over $700,000, and the sales reached the enormous total of between three and four millions of dollars.

These marvellous results were achieved by advertising that was attractive and convincing, distributed with discretion and discernment. We know this is all so because of our experience of twenty years with the many men, methods and means of the advertising business; and we are therefore in a condition to know whereof we speak. Mr. LaFetra for the past year has had entire control of the advertising department of the Royal Baking Powder Co., and spent in twelve months $300,000 in advertising the simple little culinary article that New York alone purchases one million dollars of.

Of course it is no great feat to spend $300,000 a year in advertising, but to spend it in a direction and a way that will accomplish success instead of sinking the shop, requires intuitive tact, judgment and skill. Mr. LaFetra possesses all these in an unusual degree, besides a thorough knowledge of the worth of every periodical in the United States. There are 6,000 of these papers and magazines that the Royal's ads are placed in—ranging in cost from $1,000 for an insertion of a single advertisement in the best, to four dollars a month in others. The rare faculty of discerning at a glance the worth of any position offered—and its value to the Company judged by the paper and the community and class in which it circulates—is a gift possessed by few, and a power of insight that the gentleman we speak of is marvellously endowed with.

With Mr. LaFetra at The Netherwood are Mrs. LaFetra, Miss LaFetra and Mr. Harry LaFetra, Jr. They leave for the Delaware Water Gap this week. It is their first visit to Netherwood, and so pleased are they that had not their rooms been engaged elsewhere, their stay here would be longer. They are, however, looking forward to a probable return for a short season in September.

UNITED IN MARRIAGE.

WILCOX—OLEY.

There was a scene of mirth and gaiety at the Church of the Heavenly Rest, Clinton avenue, yesterday afternoon, the occasion being the marriage of Miss Theodora Wilcox, daughter of Mrs. Theodore Wilcox of West Front street, to Mr. Charles W. Oley, principal of the Dunellen public school. The beautiful little edifice was comfortably filled with a fashionable audience, including guests from New York and other distant cities. The interior of the church was profusely decorated with flowers, ferns and trailing vines, artistically arranged about the chancel, and from above a beautiful wedding bell was suspended from the chandelier. The ushers were Mr. Harry Hayes and Mr. Fowler Pound. Mr. Fletcher Tilton presided at the organ.

From the church to the sidewalk the bride and groom passed under a canopy, erected for the occasion. The bride, a charming brunette, was becomingly attired in a dove colored silk with bonnet to match. She carried a bouquet of fragrant roses. The groom wore the conventional suit of black.

At a quarter before five o'clock the bridal party arrived at the church, and preceded by the ushers, and two nieces of the groom, advanced to the chancel and took their position under an arch. Here they were met by Rev. J. P. Taylor, the rector, who read the usual Episcopal marriage service.

After the ceremony the bride and groom received the congratulations of their friends, and later they started on a tour through New York State, accompanied by the best wishes of a host of admirers.

WESTFIELD.

(The PRESS is for sale by W. W. French.)

Frank Godshalk, son of Mr. Samuel Godshalk—formerly proprietor of the Westfield Hotel, but now of the Clifton House, Clifton, N. J.—is in town visiting his uncle, Mr. B. F. Godshalk.

Mrs. J. A. Demarest, wife of our former school principle, is in town with her son, on a few days' visit.

The financial committee have had quite some success in securing funds for the 4th of July celebration. The programme for the day's amusement is not yet complete, but there will be foot-racing, sack, potato and tub races, greased pole, etc. The "Eureka" and "Fast Asleep" base ball nines will play a match game in the afternoon, and a fine display of fire works will be had in the evening. The Bound Brook Cornet Band, have been engaged for the entire day and evening and a good time is expected.

Mr. P. Traynor's brick store is rapidly creeping skyward. Mr. C. H. French has the supervision of the brick work, while Mr. Traynor superintends the carpentering. When completed it will be one of finest and most substantial buildings in Westfield, being of 12 inch walls from top to bottom, with a stone foundation, 2½ feet in width.

POISON IN OUR DRINK.

Not Alcohol—which one may avoid—but BRASS AND LEAD which one takes unsuspectingly. "How—When—Where?" Well, say, in a glass of Soda. Pity the most popular and wholesome of all artificial drinks—which Soda honestly is—should ever deserve a touch of suspicion, but

THE FROZEN TRUTH

is that in some Soda Fountains economy and mechanical facility are studied to the neglect of the weightier matter of purity. Some men are too "smart;" some Soda Fountains are too "ingenious."

We have recently had made a Fountain which secures Absolute Purity for the beverages. Rather pretty, too, we think. We selected the "Matthews' make" because it is the only fount in which the syrups have positively no metallic contact, being discharged direct from glass jars into the tumblers—no tubes; while the waters are contained in and flow through solid block tin.

PURE AS CRYSTAL, COLD AS CHARITY.

We make our own syrups—from REAL FRUIT JUICES, or from chocolate or coffee, etc., as the case may be; no nonsense of essences or make believe.

New drinks? Yes, some of our own contriving. "Winks?" Not a wink; not licensed for winks, and we have an opinion of druggists who take a wink.

Come and try the new Fountain; if you like your drink we'll thank you for saying so, and you'll pay us five cents and come again—it will do you good; only don't come Sundays; no use—Fountain WON'T WORK.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Dr. Geo. W. Endicott is now seen daily upon the streets seated in a handsome new village cart.

Mrs. S. W. Milligan, of West Fourth street, is spending a few days with friends at South Plainfield.

Miss Carrie Wright, of Brooklyn, is spending a few days with Mr. George Goodwin, of No. 3 New street.

Mr. Charles Dunavan, of Trenton, is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Dunavan, of East Third street, for several days.

Cadet John Crawford of Duer street returned home yesterday from Virginia Military Institute, at Lexington, on his Summer vacation.

On Wednesday, Bucknell University at Lewisburg, Penn., conferred the honorary degree of LL. D., upon Chauncey B. Ripley, Esq., of Westfield.

Mr. John Crane, of LaGrande avenue, sails on July 4, by the Steamer "Britannic," for Europe, on business connected with the Fidelity and Casualty Co., of which he is the Secretary. On his return, Mr. Crane will resign his present office to accept a different position with the company.

Closing the School Term at Westfield.

The commencement exercises of the Westfield Public School, were held in Arcanum Hall, on Wednesday and Thursday evenings. Wednesday evening was devoted to the small children, and the singing, speaking, etc., was worthy of high compliment. The Hall was crowded to its utmost capacity, with the parents and friends of the little ones.

On Thursday evening the High School scholars and graduates had their exercises, and although the weather was very disagreeable, there was a large and appreciative audience in attendence. After the opening prayer by the Rev. Mr. Folwell, the following programme was rendered:

Piano Solo	Emma M. Darsh.
Salutary	Harry P. Condit.
Recitation	Sarah O'Dowd.
Essay	Mabel Sayres.
Reading of High School news, (first part),	[Clara L. Coughlin.
Glee	High School Choir.
Address	Chas. E. Hathaway.
Essay	Annie W. Greene.
Recitation	Royal Embree
Glee	Choir.
Essay	Carrie H. Beebe.
Reading of High School News, (second part),	[Jennie Crouch.
Prophecy	Clara L. Coughlin.
Aniversary Poem	Helen Beebe.
Valedictory, Music	Emma Darsh.
Song	High School choir.
PRESENTATION OF DIPLOMAS.
Song	Choir.

The choir was ably assisted by Messrs. Harbison, Sansom, Taylor and VanEmburgh. The presentation of diplomas was made by Mr. E. L. Embree, and the graduates, Master Harry Condit and Miss Emma Darsh, were addressed by Mr. Hathaway. After this the Principal, Mr. Francis, and the teachers, were each presented with a handsome basket of flowers from the school.

The entertainment from beginning to end was excellent, and each one who took part in the exercises was loudly applauded by the audience. Surely the principal and various teachers of Westfield public school, are deserving of much credit.

Plainfield Against Newark in an Ocean Race.

On the steamer "Cherokee" sailing from New York today, Captain Doane will take five homing pigeons for an ocean race. The birds will be released 200 miles out, to-morrow, weather permitting.

From Plainfield lofts, Mr. Hervey Doane sends "Cherokee," who has a record of 300 miles from Lovingston, Va.; Mr. F. R. Stevens sends "Mercury," with a record of 115 miles from Havre de Grace, Md., and Mr. Charles Doane sends "Ariel," who has a record of 210 miles from Manassas, Va.

With these birds are "Tommy Snooks," who has an 800-mile record, and "Maybe-so," with a 500-mile record, who are entered in the race from the respective lofts of Messrs. Geo. H. Bowerman and W. B. Garrabrandt of Newark.

"Cherokee" and "Mercury" were released from the same vessel two weeks ago, but are supposed to have first gone South and then home, as they were a long time making the trip. The race will be flown under federation rules; Captain Doane being appointed as an official countermarker.

Special Protection for the Fourth.

The following orders of Chief Engineer Doane, have been posted in the fire department houses.

From six o'clock in the evening of July 3, until six o'clock in the morning of July 5, Engine Company No. 1, will respond to all alarms of fire located in districts 2 and 5, and Engine Company No. 2, will respond to all alarms in districts 3 and 4, as marked on the maps in the engine houses.

The tower bell will be struck "one-one" for district No. 2, "one-one-one" for district No. 3, "one-one-one-one" for district No. 4, and "one-one-one-one-one" for district No. 5.

In case additional assistance is needed, the Chief or acting Chief will go to the nearest telephone or messenger box, and send a call for help. The bell-ringer will then strike thirty continuous taps on the bell, and all apparatus's not engaged will proceed immediately to the fire and render all the assistance in their power.

The men to be on duty from the evening of July 3, until the morning of July 5, are the engineers, first assistant engineers, and drivers of each company.

SUBURBAN SAUNTERINGS.

A Sojourner From West Point Tells About That Academy—The Town Committee Make Another Curious Award—A Skeleton at the Fanwood Station.

I take the liberty of laying before the readers of THE PRESS the following lines, called "The Village Tattler." They were handed to me the other day by one of our prominent citizens, who was, however, ignorant of the author.

THE VILLAGE TATTLER.

Oh! could there in this land be found
Some little spot of happy ground,
Without the village tattlings.

How doubly blest that spot would be,
Where all might dwell in liberty,
Free from the bitter misery
Of gossip's endless prattlings.

Oh! that the mischief making crew
Were all reduced to one or two,
And they were painted red or blue;
That every one might know them.

Now let the author of the above come out and proclaim himself. Or perhaps its a herself.

While taking a stroll down Front street the other day I saw a young man on Mr. Sykes' lawn industriously working a lawn mower. I thought that I recognized his features as those of Mr. T. F. Sykes, and on saluting him found that I was right. Mr. Sykes is living with his parents during the Summer months He has just returned from West Point, where he has been staying a few days. I asked him what he thought of the Military Academy. "It is one of the finest institutions of the kind in the world. The discipline is almost perfect, as is evident at one of the drills. Every movement, every step, every turn of the hand, is done in unison by the whole line without a instant's variation. And the Academy is the best possible place for a young man to go, even if he is not to lead a strictly military life. When they take a cadet there they make a man of him. The embryo officer goes through a most rigid course of discipline. With the exception of a short furlough during the Junior year, he is not allowed to go outside the Academy grounds (which are about two miles square) during the whole period of his cadetship. He is allowed twenty-five cents a week for pocket money, and even this does not mean very much, for he can buy nothing except what is permitted at the Government stores, and he is debarred entirely from the use of tobacco. The instruction he receives is not wholly technical, on the contrary, he lays the foundations of a liberal education. When a man graduates from the academy he is better qualified for life than is the case at almost any other institution. Perhaps the most noteworthy feature is the absolute equality of all the students. This is here an actual fact, and not merely 'the theory.' Every cadet has the same amount of money allowed him, and is subject to exactly the same regulations and discipline as every one of his fellow students, and if there have been any social or other differences they are all annihilated here. Every student, on entering the Academy is given a horse, which he must ride bareback. And though he may never have mounted a horse in his life, he has to go through this ordeal. So it will be seen that the cadets life at West Point is by no means a 'snap.'"

When will the Town Committee learn what it is there for? After its action in respect to the bids for hauling crushed stone to the different parts of the town, by which the lowest bid was rejected because not personally signed, and a public commotion raised thereby, it was expected that more care would be taken on the next occasion. Bids were to be received for hauling crushed stone to a point on the Jerusalem road. The various amounts offered were as follows: By William Reynolds, fifty cents, George Kyte, fifty-five cents, and John G. Cook, sixty cents. Instead of giving the whole contract to Mr. Reynolds, the lowest bidder, the Committee divided the work between him and Mr. Kyte. Why the town should pay fifty-five cents for hauling crushed stone when they can get it done for fifty, is not readily seen. Perhaps the Committee were actuated by a sense of their mistake in refusing Mr. Kyte's former bid, and by a kind of poetic justice awarded him half a contract the second time. Unfortunately, poetic justice is not what is wanted in the execution of public trusts. It is a great deal better to be prosaic all the way through.

The water works at Fanwood will soon be an accepted fact. Already the pipes have been laid for a considerable distance and the windmill itself, in sections, is at the freight house. There will be several of these curious but useful mills erected in a few weeks, and then the inhabitants of Fanwood will all have water up to the top of their houses.

There is a curious wooden frame at the depot, which has been the occasion of considerable comment It is the skeleton of a canvass canoe. It belongs to Mr. George Thomae, Jr., who will use it upon the "Back Pond" at Feltville.

SUBURBAN SAUNTERER.

Crushed His

Thomas Shehan, a resident of West Sixth street, and an employee at the Pond Machine Tool Works, was painfully injured at the Works yesterday. He was at work swinging a heavy sledge hammer, when the sledge parted from the handle, falling on his right foot and crushing two of the toes. The injured man was taken to his home and surgical aid was immediately summoned.

—If you have corns to shed prepare to shed them now, as this is Dr. Kimbell's last week in Plainfield.

Election of Officers.

A regular meeting of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., was held in their rooms last evening. After the general order of business had been transacted the following officers were elected to serve the Council for the ensuing six months:

Councilor—Robert E. Connolly.
Vice Councilor—Charles M. Post.
Warden—Harry Ackerman.
Conductor—Louis Dunavan.
Inside Sentinel—Gilbert S. Martin.
Outside Sentinel—Henry Adams.
Recording Secretary—Charles F. Stephens.
Ass't Recording Secretary—Julius J. Stahl.
Financial Secretary—Charles H. Baker.
Treasurer—Howard Hummer.
Trustee—Walter B. Bennett.

The treasurer was elected for one year and the trustee for eighteen months.

—Beginning on Monday, July 2, a through car to Long Branch and Asbury Park will be attached to the train leaving this city at 2.25 P. M., daily. The through car will prove a great convenience for passengers from this city, as they will not be obliged to change cars at Elizabethport.

EASTERN YACHT CLUB REGATTA

The Peerless Volunteer Wins, Leaving the Puritan Far Behind.

MARBLEHEAD NECK, Mass., June 29.—The annual regatta of the Eastern Yacht Club was sailed yesterday. The course was a triangular one, each leg twelve miles long, and extending from Halfway Rock to Harding's Bell buoy, thence to a stakeboat to the southeast, and thence to Halfway Rock.

At 10 o'clock the yachts began to go out to Halfway Rock and at 11:36 a. m., the signal was given, and under a stiff breeze the boats started in good style with all sails set.

The Puritan, Adrianne and Volunteer passed over the line in the order named.

All the interest centred in the Volunteer, Puritan, Xara and Baboon.

The race between the Volunteer and Puritan was somewhat exciting for the first two hours. Then the Volunteer had passed her competitor, and held such a lead that the race between them was practically settled. Not so, however, with the Xara and the Baboon. Both yachts crossed the line so near together that it was some time before any difference was noticeable.

The winners are: The Gitana in the first-class sloops, taking the Puritan cup for a year and $200; the Bohemian in third-class schooners; the Stranger in second-class sloops; the Xara in sixth-class sloops, and the Clytie in seventh-class sloops, $40.

COMPOSED OF CROOKS.

A Semi-Professional Ball Club Who Use the Game as a Cover for Roguery.

CHICAGO, June 29.—The semi-professional ball club known as the Chicago Reserves is alleged by the police to be an organization of burglars and thieves, who use ball playing as a cover for their depredations. This morning Eddie O'Bert, catcher, and Tom Mooney, shortstop and captain, were held by Justice Lyon in the criminal court in $1,000 bonds on a charge of burglarizing. Dan Murphy, first baseman, occupied an adjoining cell on another charge, while Eddy Griffin, third baseman and manager of the club, only regained his liberty yesterday, after he "peached" on O'Bert and Mooney. The latter deny the story told by their captors. Detectives Holman and Palmer, who declare the nine an organized band of thieves, and that their trips out of town, ostensibly to play ball, were in reality made for the purpose of raiding by wholesale granger dwelling houses and going through country hotels. O'Bert and Mooney are accused of having stolen a watch and some clothing at a Dearborn avenue residence.

Trinity College, Hartford.

HARTFORD, Conn., June 29.—At the sixty-second commencement of Trinity College yesterday, 18 degrees of B. A. were conferred, and 5 degrees of B. S. The honorary degrees were: LL D., Bernard Carter, Baltimore, Md.; D. D., the Rev. A. M. Benton, Suanee, Tenn.; the Rev. James Tobin, Fairbault, Minn.; the Rev. George M. Flake, Bishop-elect of Fond du Lac, and the Rev. William F. Nichols, Assistant Bishop-elect of Ohio.

Labor Men in Consultation.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—Dr. Houghton, head of the Union Labor party here, has just returned from Chicago, where, with other leaders, he was in consultation with the leaders of the United Labor party. He says that a plan was arranged whereby both parties will support Streator, the candidate for President, and Coudry, of Chicago, for Vice-President. He says that a lively campaign was decided on.

A Son Poisons the Family.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., June 29.—Geo. Dean, who, with four children was poisoned Tuesday died last night. It is expected the remaining children will die. Yesterday a 15-year-old son of Dean was arrested and confessed to the poisoning. He had stolen some valuables from a neighbor and poisoned his father to save punishment for it.

CONDENSED DESPATCHES.

It has transpired that ex-Mayor M. A. Smith, of Philadelphia, while taking a bath last Saturday, at Chicago, had his room entered by a sneak thief who stole a diamond stud valued at $600, and a gold watch and chin valued at $500.

Fire at Fort Apache destroyed the entire quartermaster and commission supplies. The estimated loss to the government, including the buildings, is $100,000.

By the falling of a scaffold at Kansas City on the ninth story of the New York Life Assurance building at noon yesterday, three brick layers, Gus Clipper, Wm. Trendall and Thurman Thorne were precipitated to the ground and killed.

Judge Brooke at Upper Marlborough, Md., sentenced Lemuel Ogden to 18 years in the penitentiary for feloniously assaulting his wife's sister, Miss Catherine Fowler, and stated that his wife's entreaties for mercy saved his neck.

The Knights of Labor are organizing a mammoth strike at Montreal to take place simultaneously with the abrogation of the ship laborer's charter by the Provincial Parliament.

A sturgeon weighing two hundred and seventy pounds wast caught at Montreal Wednesday.

Weather Indications.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—For New England, New York, Eastern Pennsylvania, Delaware and New Jersey, light to fresh northerly winds, stationary temperature, followed by fair weather.

NEW YORK MARKETS.

NEW YORK, June 28.—Money on call to-day 1½ per cent.

STOCK MARKET.

BASEBALL YESTERDAY.

Washington and Boston Play a Good Game—Results in Other Places.

Washington	7
Boston	9

BOSTON, June 29.—The Bostons played their twenty-seventh and last game of the opening series on their own grounds yesterday, the Washingtons being their opponents. Not more than 1,300 spectators were present, and they didn't seem to really enjoy the game. Just as the game commenced President Soden gave the telegraph operator two telegrams. One was addressed to Burdock and the other to Sutton. Both players were thus formally released by the Boston Baseball Club. Another surprise was in store for the spectators. Umpire Daniels had asked permission to go home, and the directors were not at all averse to letting him go. Edward McGunnigle was chosen to fill his place, and he did it satisfactorily. The score:

Boston	2	0	0	0	0	2	1	0	0	0	2—9
Wash'g'n	0	0	0	0	0	2	3	0	0	0	2—7

Brooklyn, 9; Louisville, 7.

LOUISVILLE, June 29.—The second game of the series between Brooklyn and Louisville attracted a large crowd to the baseball park, notwithstanding the cloudy and threatening weather. The result was:

Brooklyn	3	1	1	0	0	0	0	4	1	—9
Louisville	0	0	1	2	0	0	0	3	1	—7

St. Louis, 4; Cleveland, 0.

ST. LOUIS, June 29.—The home team succeeded in shutting out the Clevelands. The score:

St. Louis	0	0	0	3	0	0	0	0	1	—4

Cincinnati, 11; Baltimore, 5.

CINCINNATI, June 29.—The Orioles were easily defeated by the Red Stockings yesterday. The score:

Cincinnati	1	4	0	2	1	1	0	2	0	—11
Baltimore	2	0	0	0	0	0	1	1	1	—5

Newark, 6; Scranton, 1.

SCRANTON, Pa., June 29.—Newark won the game with Scranton yesterday by a fortunate bunching of hits in the eighth inning, a base on balls, five singles and an out, netting them five runs, four of which were earned. The score:

Newarks	0	0	0	1	0	0	0	5	x	—6

HEAVY RAINS IN THE WEST.

Villages Under Water and Crops Damaged and Ruined.

TUSCOLA, Ill., June 28.—The floods which visited Central Illinois yesterday and the night previous has not been equalled since 1875, and it is estimated that 10,000 acres of growing corn are under water in this county. The southern part of this city is submerged and fifteen families have already been compelled to move to higher ground with their household goods. Rain is still falling.

At Bloomington the streams are all out of their banks. At Hillsboro great damage was done to property.

Reports from Irving, Witt and Nokomis, of here, state that these towns were partially submerged, causing great loss of property. At Tolona great damage was caused by yesterday's storm.

At Urbana over five inches of water fell. The oat crop is badly damaged. The streams were flooded.

At Monticello rain has been falling for 24 hours, and corn and oats are badly injured. The Sangamon River and all the small streams are overflowing.

Claims to be Entitled to a Wife's Share.

CHICAGO, June 29.—A woman 80 years of age appeared before the Probate Court yesterday and claimed to be the widow of the late Col. Walter S. Babcock, a wealthy Chicago lumber merchant, who was mysteriously shot last August at Gardner, Ill., and died of his wounds. Babcock's friends and relatives always knew him as a bachelor and never heard of any marriage. He was 57 years of age. His estate, after the payment of his debts, will be about $20,000. The alleged widow's share would be about $2,000. The old woman says she was married to Babcock by a Chicago minister in 1871 and lived with him until he left on a trip to Gardner to visit Miss Dodge.

Colored Boy Cuts Two Children's Throats.

BALTIMORE, June 29.—While A. S. Sayter, a farmer residing near Florence, Howard County, and wife were absent from the house yesterday a colored boy, 10 years old, employed about the farm and left in the house to mind the children, cut their two children's throats from ear to ear, who were aged 2 and 3 years. One is dead and the other will die. As soon as he had committed the deed he gave the alarm, saying the man who murdered them had run away. The boy has been arrested. There is intense excitement in the neighborhood.

A Democratic Committeeman Assailed.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 28.—Postmaster Rudd and Judge Goudy, of Chicago, have preferred charges against Superintendent of Mails R. D. Wilbanks. Judge Goudy was member from Illinois on the last Democratic National Committee and was a candidate for re-election, but was defeated by Erskin M. Phelps. Wilbanks supported Phelps, and says, that the charges were started on account of his action in that matter. The parties preferring charges decline to talk.

A $50,000 Suit for Slander.

BALTIMORE, June 29.—Wm. T. Henderson, ex-Postoffice Inspector has sued City Solicitor Barnard Carter in the Supreme Court for $50,000 damages for slander, in being called by Carter in a speech during last fall's campaign, an "Arch Fiend," and being accuse of being the chief one who procured the perjured testimony in order to steal the State of Florida for the Republicans in the Hayes and Tilden election.

Death of a Prominent Western Man.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 29.—Robert Hale, Secretary of the Minneapolis Board of Trade, died suddenly yesterday, as a result of a fall on Monday down the elevator shaft at the Nicollett House. Mr. Hale was at one time prominent as the Superintendent of the Chicago & Alton Railroad, which was financially wrecked in 1864 and which he succeeded in righting.

They Attacked the Wrong Man.

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich., June 29.—While going from Kingsley last night after selling a team of horses, Thedore Caster, a farmer was attacked by three brothers named Droste. He shot one dead, fatally injured another, and thanks he got some lead into the third, who escaped.

HOME RULE FOR IRELAND

A UNIONIST TO INTRODUCE A NEW BILL.

The Coming Meeting of the Three Emperors—The Panama Loan Failure, Supposed to be Stanley.

LONDON, June 29.—An Irish Local Government bill will be introduced in the House of Commons by Sir Edward Watkins, member of Parliament from Hythe. The bill proposes to establish district councils throughout the country, to be elected upon same suffrage laws as the present Boards of Guardians, whose duties it is proposed that the new district councils should take over to themselves. There would be a central council at Dublin, which would be elected by the district councils, and which would be entrusted with the general control of purely Irish affairs. This control council would sit once a year, and the members of it would be elected for five years. The Chief Secretary of State for Ireland, the law officers of the Crown and the heads of the various executive departments of the imperial government would be ex-officio members of the central council. The administration of justice, and to a certain extent the control of the police, and all the fiscal matters of Ireland, would still remain in the hands of the Imperial Parliament, in which the Irish members would retain their seats as at present. The Imperial Parliament would also have the right to veto the decisions of the Dublin council. This is the general idea of the scheme.

The approaching meeting of the three Emperors of which reports are current, and to some extent confirmed, have created some uneasiness in Hungary, where fears are expressed that an attempted will be made to restore the triple alliance of Germany, Russia and Austria in all its force, to the detriment of the special interest of Hungary.

GERMANY AND HER NEIGHBORS.

Bismarck and Crispi to Have a Talk—Arrangements for the Imperial Meeting.

BERLIN, June 29.—It is expected that Prince Bismarck will go to Friedrichsruhe on Sunday to remain for several weeks. It is rumored that Signor Crispi, the Italian Premier, will meet Prince Bismarck at Kissingen.

LONDON, June 29.—The Berlin correspondent of the Standard telegraphs: "Kaiser Wilhelm, with an imposing suite, embark on the imperial yacht Hohenzollern on July 13 and 14, and proceed direct to St. Petersburg, where he will remain for several days. During his stay magnificent fetes will be given in his honor. The arrangements for King Humbert's visit to Berlin will be agreed upon at a meeting between Premier Crispi and Prince Bismarck."

The Church Opposed to License.

ROME, June 29.—The Pope's encyclical on liberty says: "Human liberty, in individuals as in societies or governments, implies the necessity of conforming to a supreme rational law which emanates from God. The church is not an enemy of honest, legitimate liberty, but is an enemy of license. It condemns false liberalism or naturalism which declares that there is no supreme law and that every one must form his own faith and religion. Such doctrine tends to destroy the consciousness of the difference between justice and injustice, and makes force the sole basis of society. The church is not an enemy or democracy and rejects no form of government."

An American Bicyclist Badly Hurt.

AMSTERDAM, June 29.—Temple, the American bicyclist, met with a serious accident while practising here on Monday. He was going at top speed when he fell from his bicycle, striking the ground heavily. He lay insensible four hours. He vomited and was delirious during the night. Yesterday he was better, but could not be moved to his hotel. No bones are broken. His companions, Morgan and Woodside, are constantly watching him.

Liberals Fail Again in Their Attack.

LONDON, June 29.—The Government having announced that it would drop the clause in the Local Government Bill empowering the counties to close public houses on Sundays, the Liberals moved in the House last night that the clause be retained.

After an exceedingly lively debate the motion was defeated by a majority of 62.

The Liberal-Unionists supported the Government, although the majority of them were really in favor of the closing clause.

Hopes to Sell it to France.

PARIS, June 29.—M. Maxim, the inventor of the gun bearing his name, has been conducting a series of experiments at Swain with the weapon. He hopes to sell it to the French Government. He claims that it has beaten all previous records in these experiments, having stood a test of sixty miles a minute.

The Presidential Candidates.

LONDON, June 28.—The Daily Telegraph, speaking of the St Louis and Chicago nominations for the Presidency of the United States, congratulates America on the fact that both candidates are clean men.

Supposed to Be Stanley.

LONDON, June 29.—The foreign office is in receipt of news confirming the reported arrival of a white Pasha in the Bahr-el-Shogil district. It is considered certain that it is Stanley.

French Copper Syndicate in Japan.

LONDON, June 29.—A French copper syndicate has bought for three years the output of two of the leading copper mines in Japan, amounting to seven-eighths of the total Japanese output.

Will Advance the Money.

PARIS, June 29.—A syndicate of bankers has offered to advance the money on the $1,200,000 of unsold Panama bonds, paying one-sixth of the nominal value down.

Teller Pitcher's Offer.

MONTREAL, June 29.—It is said that Charles A. Pitcher, the absconding Providence bank teller, purchased a draft on a Parisian bank for 100,000 francs at the Hochelaga bank here, and that another draft for 1,000 pounds from Boston on an English bank was found on him. It is understood that he offers for $50,000 to give up $400,000 worth of securities.

Fight Between Moonshiners and Marshals.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., June 29.—Deputy United States Marshal John D. Townsend was killed yesterday, near Block Springs, in a desparate battle between moonshiners and marshals. Revenue officer Fry, in command of the marshals, has telegraphed to Fort Smith for reinforcements, as the fight is still on.

RIVERS MOVING WESTWARD.

Is this Accounted for by the Revolution of the Earth on Its Axis?

The people who live on the banks of the Mississippi River are accustomed to the astonishing activity of the vast volume of moving water in shifting its channel and cutting away its banks in one place while it builds up new territory at another. The entire alluvial region of the Mississippi valley was created by the river, and the land it has built up is ever at the mercy of forces that made it.

So long as the changes wrought by this mighty current are all in the same national limits no political complications are possible, consequent upon the ravages of the river and its power to transfer territory from one place to another. It would be different if two nationalties were concerned, and something like this is coming into view in the case of the Rio Grande, which is the boundary for a long distance between the United States and Mexico. In this connection the following statement, which comes from Mexico; is of interest:

Gov. Carillo of the State of Chihuahua has recently made a trip of investigation along the banks of the Rio Grande from Paso del Norte down for a distance of about 100 miles. He found to his astonishment that the river was making slow but constant inroads into Mexican territory, eating away the Mexican banks and depositing them on the American side, and that thus acres of the most fertile lands in the Rio Grande valley on the Mexican side had been washed away. Upon inquiry into this subject he ascertained from the leading inhabitants of that section of the country that this had been going on for over a generation, and that large numbers of people had thus been made homeless and forced to leave the country, many of them going to the New Mexican settlements of Messila, Chamberino, Launiore, Las Cruces, and Socorro. Gov. Carillo ascertained also that great losses of valuable territory had been taking place in the vicinity of Paso del Norte, at which town defensive works are now being erected by competent engineers. The Governor has, since his return to Chihuahua, indicated that he is fully impressed with the importance of the subject, and that he intends to advise not only the State representatives at the city of Chihuahua, but also the national Congress now in session in the city of Mexico, to make appropriations to be expended in fortifying and mattressing and riprapping the river bank at all exposed points. He says these encroachments of the river, unless speedily stopped, will cause a loss of national wealth, irreparable loss to Paso del Norte, and the financial ruin of hundreds of families.

Apart from the international interests involved, there are speculations of a scientific nature suggested in the premises which may be worth mention. It appears that the western and southwestern bank of the Rio Grande is the one that suffers most from the abrasion of the current. Why does not the river show this tendency to work to the westward? Something like this appears in the case of the Mississippi. Formerly the river had its principal debouchment into the sea through Bayou Manchac and the lakes. In the course of time that route was abandoned for the one now known as the main river, which is very considerably to the westward of the old outlet. In the mean time the river had shown a disposition to transfer its channel still further to the westward through the Atchafalaya. Can it be made to appear from these facts that there is a tendency in great rivers flowing in general directions along meridians of the earth's longitude to swerve to the westward? Can it be held that because of the rotation of the earth on its axis to the eastward the weight of the water in such longitudinal rivers is thrown by the centrifugal force against the western banks so as to abrade them with increased energy and effect? This matter is worth examination.—New Orleans Picayune.

Ancient Problems.

Among the problems with which it pleased the ancients to perplex themselves was one which bears in an instructive manner on the doctrine of limits. It may be thus stated: The swift-footed Achilles started in pursuit of a tortoise which was 10,000 yards from him. Achilles running 100 times faster than the tortoise. Now when Achilles had traversed the 10,000 yards, the tortoise had traveled 100 yards; when Achilles had traveled these 100 yards the tortoise had traveled one yard; when Achilles had traversed this yard the tortoise was still 100th part of a yard in advance; when Achilles had traversed this 100th part of a yard the tortoise was the 10,000th part of a yard in advance: and so on forever—the tortoise being at each stage in advance of Achilles by 100th part of the distance Achilles had traversed in the preceding stage. The tortoise then remains always in advance of Achilles by some distance, however minute, and therefore Achilles can never overtake the tortoise. But we know that Achilles traveling faster than the tortoise will overtake it. Therefore, Achilles will and will not overtake the tortoise; which is absurd.

The ancients were strangely fond of problems of this sort. Thus there was the famous problem about the ass between two exactly equal bundles of hay at exactly equal distance. "This ass," said the sophist, "will attempt to eat neither bundle, for, by whatever line of reasoning it could be shown that he would turn first to one bundle, by a line of reason precisely similar it may be shown that he would turn first to both. Therefore, he will turn to neither." Another of these problems was thus worded: "Epimenides, the Cretan, says that the Cretans are liars. Now Epimenides is himself a Cretan, therefore Epimenides is a liar. Therefore the Cretans are not liars. Therefore Epimenides is not a liar. Therefore the Cretans are liars. Therefore Epimenides is a liar. Therefore," etc., ad infinitum. Others stated the problem in a more simple form, thus: "When a man says I lie, does he lie, or does he not lie? If he lies he speaks the truth, if he speaks the truth, he lies."

SHE IS A BRITISH PEERESS.

MRS. HAMMERSLEY UNITED TO THE DUKE OF MARLBOROUGH.

Mayor Hewitt Performed the Ceremony Yesterday in his Office in the City Hall—The First Time an English Duke Was Ever Married by a Mayor in any City.

NEW YORK, June 30.—The Duke of Marlborough late on Thursday afternoon, in company with a friend, called upon Mayor Hewitt and requested him to name an hour at which he would be at liberty to make Mrs. Hammersley the Duchess of Marlborough. The Mayor intimated 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and then the preparations began in earnest. A very few friends were notified by the parties, but the Mayor resolved to do the honors for the city gracefully. It would be the first occasion on which a live duke would be married to an American lady by the Mayor of New York, and it was befitting that it should be done with dignity.

At ten minutes to 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon the little duke, who was attired in a neat Prince Albert suit, entered the office, accompanied by a lady much taller and more dignified than himself. Those who had read the papers and who chanced to be about the City Hall when the party entered had no need to inquire who the lady was. She wore a tailor made suit of cheviot brown tricot cloth. She had a corsage bouquet of lilies of the valley. Her bonnet was of dove's wings, and over her face was a demi-veil.

Behind the happy couple came Mr. Leonard Jerome, the father of the sister-in-law of the soon to be groom, Mr. Ward McAllister, whose saddened looks told how deeply he felt the pain of having his famous fashion regiment reduced to 399. Miss McAllister, Mr. Ward Gillette, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Clews, Nicholas Fish and Miss Fish, Mrs. Wood, Mrs. Cruger, Miss Beckwith, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Spedden, Arthur Leary, Creighton Webb and a few others.

Mayor Hewitt was on his feet in a twinkling, however, though his breath was somewhat taken away when on glancing about the office he perceived just seven reporters who had come in with the bridal party. The Mayor was neatly dressed, as he always is, but there was an added daintiness to his attire and a faint suspicion of a curling to the ends of his mustache that betokened especial care. The party were beginning to be nervous when Mr. Hewitt at length drew from his coat tail pocket a neatly printed card, and having adjusted his spectacles, he began the matrimonial catechism. Everything went along smoothly, though the deferential tone assumed by Marlborough was a surprise to almost everybody.

"Do you, George Charles Churchill Spencer, Duke of Marlborough, take this woman to be your lawfully wedded wife promising to abide with her and to cleave to her through sun and storm, prosperity and adversity, till death you do part?"

"I do you please," answered the duke with courtly grace. Then collecting himself, he looked at the dazzled Mayor in an apologetic tone, and added, firmly, "I do."

Mrs. Hamersley made no mistake about her answer. She answered with a decided "I do."

The ring was then placed on her finger and the belle of Troy and the handsome widow of New York was a duchess.

The marriage certificate was witnessed by Robert Sewell and Walter R. Gillette. Both of the contracting parties have been twice married. The duke is 45 years of age and the duchess 34.

After the ceremony they drove to the residence of the bride, where luncheon was served. The utmost privacy was observed. No callers were received. The couple will sail for England this morning.

"It is easily enough explained," said one of the witnesses last evening. "It was done to avoid any legal question that might arise in case of issue born of the marriage as to their being entitled to the succession to the dukedom. There is no marriage so binding legally as a civil one."

A dinner was given at Delmonico's last night to the Duke and Duchess of Marlborough by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Clews. Among the guests were Mayor Hewitt, Ward McAllister and Leonard Jerome.

The duke is the tenth in rank in the kingdom and with the money which his bride will bring him and the moral tone which she will lend to Blenheim, the Marlborough family may hope to regain some of the political and social prominence which once was theirs.

Allowed to Resign.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—The President yesterday accepted the resignation of Lieut. Emory H. Taunt, of the Navy, to take effect today. Taunt was convicted by court martial in November last of absence without leave and flagrant disobedience of orders and sentenced to be dismissed. Considerable pressure was brought to bear upon the President to prevent his dismissal, and the President finally consented to allow him to resign.

Steve Brodie Arrives.

NEW YORK, June 30.—Steve Brodie made a great race against time down the Hudson. At 9 o'clock last night he arrived at the Hudson Boat Club's house, foot of West Seventy-fourth street, and could have finished his journey to the Battery before midnight. He thought it safer, however, to lie over and complete his task this morning. He will start at 10 o'clock and expects to finish about noon.

They Will Have to Convene.

NEW YORK, June 30.—Gov. David B. Hill returned to Albany yesterday morning on the 10.30 train. Just before his departure he stated to a prominent Democrat who called upon him at the Hoffman House that as soon as he could get necessary papers ready he would call an extra session of the Legislature to reconsider the Prison Appropriation bill and other important legislation which needs attention.

The Bodies Not Yet Found.

NEWBURG, June 30.—Hiland C. Rose, who did so much towards saving the lives of the party on the naphtha launch Enid at the time of the collision on Wednesday night, offers $200 reward for the recovery of the body of Mrs. Odell or Miss Miller. Joseph Rose, to whom Miss Miller was betrothed, is still violently insane whenever the effect of the opiates works off.

Important Changes in the Vatican.

LONDON, June 30.—A dispatch to the DAILY NEWS from Rome says: "Important changes are about to be made in the Vatican. Mgr. Galimberti will probably be appointed Papal Secretary of State. It is expected that a more conciliatory policy will shortly replace the present policy of intolerance."

RESTORED TO HER PARENTS.

Ellen Wahlberg Found After Several Days' Absence From Home.

NEW YORK, June 30.—Little 4-year old Ellen Maria Wahlberg, who wandered from the home of her parents at 157 East Eighty-seventh street on Wednesday forenoon, was found yesterday afternoon in Harlem and returned to her parents. The child was found in the possession of Mrs. Hobby S. Church, a widow of a policeman, residing at 236 East 130th street. The story of the little one's wanderings is unromantic and brief, but it is very probable that the Wahlbergs would never have seen their child again if they had not made their loss public through the newspapers.

On Wednesday afternoon about 3 o'clock, the child was seen in Lexington avenue playing by herself in the middle of the street. Her hat was swinging down her back and the strings were around her neck. A truck came along and the driver called to the child to get out of the way, but she did not appear to understand what he said. A little girl somewhat older than Ellen went out into the street, took the child by the hand and led her to the sidewalk. Mrs. Church, who lives at Lexington avenue and 130th street, was standing in her door and was struck with the beauty of the little girl. She spoke to her, but could get no intelligent answer.

Then Mrs. Church took the little wanderer into the house and gave her some cake. The child could not speak English. Some Swedish people who were neighbors talked to her, but all they could get from her was that her father's name was August.

Mrs. Church sent a little girl around to the 126th Street Station to report that she had a lost child. The girl reported to Sergeant Grant and he told her to bring the child to the station house, but the girl did not deliver the message, and as the police did not come for the child Mrs. Church kept her. Yesterday when she read of the loss of the child in the newspapers she sent word again that the child was at her house, and this time the police thought there was sufficient importance in the notification to send Sergeant Thompson to the house to get her.

She was at once recognized as the missing child and taken home, where there was great rejoicing. The mother fairly screamed with joy, and clasped the little one to her breast and held her there for fully five minutes unable to speak a word.

Mrs. Church was so charmed with the child that she said she was sorry she had to part with her. If its loss had not been published in the papers, she told the police she should have adopted the girl.

Col. Babcock Was Probably Married.

CHICAGO, June 30.—Mrs. Babcock appeared yesterday in the probate court and told the story of her marriage to Col. W. S. Babcock sixteen years ago. Her statement is confirmed by the Rev. Mr. Burns, who performed the ceremony. She was never acknowledged as Babcock's wife, and her narrative, now generally accepted as true, plainly suggests the probability that Babcock married her to avoid the repayment of $10,000 which he borrowed of her former husband, Fairchild, a short time before the latter's death in 1871. The case will be decided in a few weeks.

All the Mills Shut Down.

PITTSBURG, Pa., June 30.—The Wage Committee of the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers of the United States and the iron manufacturers, held a conference yesterday afternoon, but failed to agree. All the iron mills will close to-day for an indefinite period. Manufacturers insist upon a reduction of from 10 to 20 per cent, which the workers have firmly refused to accept. The effect of such a strike is so far-reaching that it can be estimated that from 75,000 to 100,000 men will be thrown out of employment.

Trying to Mob a Collector.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 30.—A tremendous sensation here yesterday was caused by an attempt to mob C. W. McAllister, proprietor of the "Home Law Protection and Collection Agency of the United States and Canada," who came here from Pennsylvania to establish an office two weeks ago. McAllister is now in jail. The people were unable to understand his new methods of forcing collections.

Said to Have Redskin Blood.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, June 30.—Gen. Sam Carey, one of Ohio's most prominent politicians, said yesterday that Harrison was of Indian origin; that the Harrison who signed the Declaration of Independence married Annie Rolfe, a direct descendant of Pocahontas, and that the Indian traits were plainly discernible even so lately as in the sons of Gen. William Henry Harrison.

Indicted for Murder.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., June 30.—Jockey James Stone and Moses Merritt were yesterday indicted by the Kings County Grand Jury for murder in the first degree. On June 21 they shot and killed Henry Miller, a bartender at a Coney Island hotel. Through their counsel, Jere A. Wernberg, they pleaded not guilty, and their trial was set down for July 23.

Increasing the Taxes.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., June 30.—The Board of Estimate yesterday completed its labors on the city and county budget for 1889. For the county expenses $1,732,686 were appropriated, making an increase of $291,416. The city budget calls for $8,282,330.25, an increase of $223,031.84, making a total increase of $514,447.84.

Wanted to Drink and Smoke.

BOSTON, Mass., June 30.—It has been discovered that members of the Common Council secreted several hundred dollars' worth of wine and cigars provided for the recent entertainment of the Honorable Artillery of London. The scandal amounts almost to a sensation.

May Live to Marry.

BOSTON, June 30.—George H. Gibson, the electrician, who shot himself Wednesday night just before his marriage was to have taken place because his tailor disappointed him in his wedding suit, is not dead as reported, and may recover.

Rosaries Must Pay Duty.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 30.—Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Maynard has notified the Collector of Customs at New York that imported rosaries used in Church worship are not entitled to free entry.

The Ticket Ratified at Washington.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—A ratification meeting was held at the Republican League last night. It was addressed by Senator Sherman, Senator Allison and other leading Senators and Representatives.

THE FAMILY IS SEPARATED.

Gen. Sheridan Still in Washington and the Children in Nonquitt.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—The inclemency of the weather again prevented the departure of Gen. Sheridan for his cottage at Nonquitt. The Swatara with steam up, has been lying off the Arsenal Wharf since Thursday afternoon, and an ambulance bearing the familiar red cross stood before the Sheridan residence all yesterday. A canvas cot standing on four stout legs and fitted with handles, which is to be used in carrying the General from his room, occupies the larger part of the ambulance.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., June 30.—Gen. Sheridan's children, a member of his staff and servants, the party in all numbering thirteen persons, came to this city yesterday and were forwarded by carriages to Nonquitt, where they will await Gen. Sheridan's arrival on the Swatara.

In Memory of His Old Mistress.

KANSAS CITY, June 30.—Some time ago Landon Johnson, an old negro of Chillicothe, Mo., at one time a slave, purchased a lot in the new cemetery at that place, removed to it the remains of his former owner, Mrs. Susan Turner, and placed a handsome monument over the grave. He expressed sorrow at his inability to bring the remains of Mr. Turner from California. Yesterday prominent citizens, many of them ex-slave owners and ex-Confederates, gave the old man a gold-headed cane.

Bugs and Worms Ruining Crops.

HARRISBURG, Pa., June 30.—Just now bugs and beetles are doing much damage to fruit and vegetables in Eastern Pennsylvania. Rose bugs are ruining the cherry and peach trees, while worms and slugs are killing currant and gooseberry bushes. Acres of potato crops are being ruined by the Colorado beetles. Farmers are wrestling with the pests and they say that many crops will be an almost total failure.

Hastening Troops to Galicia.

VIENNA, June 30.—Five Galician residents, now stationed here have been ordered to proceed to Galicia without delay by special transport trains. The regiments were not due at the Galician stations until September, and the change of arrangements is owing to news having been received at the War Office of the march of two Russian infantry divisions from the interior toward Galicia.

The Sutton Mills Shut Down.

LAWRENCE, Mass., June 30.—The Sutton Mills in North Andover, manufacturing woolens, shut down yesterday for an indefinite period, and over 100 operators are out. The mill could not make money under the present state of the wool market, unless the operatives submitted to a heavy cut down. This the weavers refused to do, and the mill consequently shut down.

England and the White Pasha.

LONDON, June 30.—If the "White Pasha" in the Bahr-el-Chazel Province is Henry M. Stanley, and he intends to relieve the white slaves at Khartoum, the Government will actively assist him; but if he intends to hold Khartoum and to send from that place a force to Emin Bey, it is not probable that the Government will support him.

English Guns for the Pacific Coast.

OTTAWA, June 30.—The Dominion Inspector of Artillery left for Vancouver last night to examine the fortifications. The Government has determined to accept the imperial authorities proposition to garrison the forts. Six eighty-pound guns will be shipped from Woolwich next month.

Porter and Buck Identified.

LONDON, June 30.—Porter and Buck, the American burglars who are wanted in Zurich for robbery, were arraigned at the Dow Street Police Court yesterday, where they were identified by the owners of the establishment at Munich which they robbed some time ago. The prisoners were remanded until to-day.

Singular Effects of a Lightning Stroke.

KITTANNING, Pa., June 30.—Lizzie Hartman was washing dishes during the prevalence of a thunder storm the other day. A bolt of lightning struck a tree close to the house and, following the tree to the ground, passed to the kitchen and struck the girl, since which time Lizzie is blind, deaf and dumb.

The Welcome to American Athletes.

DUBLIN, June 30.—Extensive arrangements are being made for the reception of the visiting teams of the Manhattan and New York Athletic Clubs at Kingstown and Dublin tomorrow. The visitors will compete with the best athletes in Ireland at Ballsbridge on July 7.

The Atlanta Going to Bridgeport.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., June 30.—The United States steel cruiser Atlanta, Capt. Francis M. Bunce, which arrived here a few days ago from a winter's cruise in the West Indies, has been ordered to Bridgeport, Conn., where she will participate in the celebration, July 4.

Tahiti Abandons Free Trade.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 30.—The Tahitian Government has abandoned the free trade of policy, and has placed a protective tariff on all articles landed on the island from American and English ports. The tariff amounts to 50 per cent. on staple articles.

To Wed After a Long Courtship.

CHICAGO, Ill., June 30.—William Edgell, aged 73 years, took out a license on Thursday to wed a lady of 71. They are the oldest persons to whom a license was ever granted in Cook County, and are said to have been lovers since early youth.

The Emperors Will Meet in Two Weeks.

BERLIN, July 30.—The National Zeitung says that the coming interview between Emperor William and the Czar will take place between the 10th and 15th of July. The place of meeting, it says, has not yet been decided upon.

A Round-About Road.

MONTREAL, June 30.—The customs clerk of a large dry goods house was intrusted with a check for $2.00 a few days ago with which to pay the duties on an importation. He has not been seen since, and is said to be in New York.

$1,000,000 for the Letter Carriers.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 30.—The letter carriers' $1,000,000 appropriation yesterday passed the House Committee on Post Offices.

Bullion Captures the Electric.

LONDON, England, June 30.—Mr. R. Beck's colt Bullion won the Electric stakes at the Sandown Park meeting yesterday.

OUR PRINCIPLES.

It is not proposed to entirely relieve the country of this taxation. It must be extensively continued as the source of the Government's income; and in a readjustment of our tariff the interest of American labor engaged in manufacture should be carefully considered, as well as the preservation of our manufacturers. It may be called protection, or by any other name, but relief from the hardships and dangers of our present tariff laws should be devised with especial precaution against imperiling the existence of our manufacturing interests.—PRESIDENT CLEVELAND'S MESSAGE.

BY THE WAY.

—Oh! for a Y. M. C. A. building.

—Several of our citizens are arranging for a private display of fireworks on the Fourth.

—Four dogs were massacred at the dog pound on Thursday afternoon. The total catch thus far this week, is six.

—About thirty persons in all from this city, are attending the twenty-fifth anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg.

—The public library and art gallery will be open all day of the "Fourth," but no books will be given out of the circulating department.

—Propertyman Mattox of Music Hall, will superintend the pyrotechnical display from in front of the Republican Headquarters, this evening.

—We are for protection, too—the protection of the laboring man who is now compelled to pay 47 cents in taxes for every dollar earned in wages.

—This evening at the City Hotel, is the last opportunity of availing yourself of the skill of Dr. Kimbell. His treatment is painless, effective and complete.

—The First National Bank of Bound Brook is but two months old, and already it has about 200 depositors, with a patronage extending for miles around.

—One of our North avenue business men went home on Thursday evening, forgetting to lock up his place of business. Officer McCue found the door unlocked, but nothing was missing.

—Three colored men knocked over a heap of strawberry crates standing in front of Smith & Rockwell's grocery store, last night. Officer McCue ordered the men to stack up the crates, which they reluctantly did.

—The Plainfield Cornet Band will have its hands full on July 4. In the morning the band plays at Elizabeth, and in the afternoon at Reform Hall. In the evening one-half of the band will play at Reform Hall and the other members will furnish the music in The Crescent.

—In olden days it was the rule,
When satisfaction sueing,
That men should seek the duelling field
That same to be accruing.
In modern times this rule has met
A very wise infraction—
The people now to Collier's go
When they want satisfaction.

—There seems to be a universal movement on foot among the merchants of this city to close their places of business, all day, on July 4, thus giving their employees a full day's recreation. Already the grocers and butchers have agreed to close and efforts are being made among the other merchants to close also on that day.

—Two young children named McIntyre and Whitely, both residing on North avenue, wandered away from home on Wednesday evening, and an hour's search by their parents failed to discover them. The police were notified of the children's disappearance, and they were subsequently found at the corner of Madison avenue and Fifth street.

—At the close of the entertainment by the children of the Loyal Temperance League, in the W. C. T. U. rooms, on Thursday evening, each one of the children was presented with a copy of The Young Crusader, a journal published in the interest of the temperance cause. The League will resume its sessions on the first Wednesay in October.

—The Band Pavilion just completed at Cranford, of which B. Fosgate of this city is the architect, will be inaugurated this evening with a grand illumination and pyrotechnic display, while Cranford's fine brass band discourses sweet music to the delight of the assembled citizens. It is designed in the pagoda style, with ample room for thirty musicians.

A HORSE THIEF CAPTURED.

The Robber Who Stole Mr. Elisha Coriell's Horses Apprehended at Easton.

A week ago last Monday night, a team of bay horses, valued at $500 were stolen from the stable of Elisha Coriell, near Liberty Corner in Somerset county. A postal card giving the description of the rig was sent to the police in various cities, one of them being addressed to Detective Simons and Chief Tilton of Easton. Yesterday morning the detective saw a stranger driving a team through the streets in Easton, in company with an Eastonian.

The stranger wanted to sell the rig for $400. The Eastonian was requested to get the man to drive to a stable and feed. Then the detective told the stranger that he knew a man who would buy the rig, and asked if he could give reference, "Yes," replied the man, "I am from Sullivan county, N. Y., and my name is John King." Then the man started for the telegraph office, but before he got there his suspicions were aroused and he skipped. Detective Simmons followed him through several streets and made him halt by firing two shots in the ground at his own foot. The man was then taken to the police station and locked up. He admitted having stolen the rig from Mr. Coriell. He is about sixty-five years of age and is six feet two inches tall.

The robber's right name is Richard Clark, and he is a brother of Mrs. Coriell. He was but recently liberated from State Prison, after serving a term for robbery. Mr. Coriell went to Easton yesterday, and identified his property. The thief will be brought on to Somerville for trial. A reward of $500 was offered by the county, and $100 more by Mr. Coriell for the arrest of the robber.

At the close of the programme a general invitation was extended to all present to remain and partake of the cake and cream provided by the committee. A good time socially was spent until 10 o'clock.

Festival at Bethel Mission.

A strawberry and iced cream festival was held in Bethel Mission, last evening, that was largely attended. Orlando's orchestra of New York was present, and discoursed popular airs. Excellent cake, iced cream, lemonade, candy and fruit were offered for sale, and met ready purchasers. The following persons composed the Committee of Arrangements:

Mrs. C. Thornton, Mrs. R. Venable, Mrs. I. Dunham, Mrs. S. Reasoner, Miss A. Wood, Miss C. Allen, Miss L. Carey, Mr. B. Sutton.

The waiters were Peter Gordon, Jas. Saunders, Robt. Johnson, Richard Yatman, Pryme Yatman, Wm. Carey, Thornton Langford, Sam Wilson, Arthur Thompson.

Summer Railroad Changes.

The Summer schedule of trains that goes into effect to-morrow on the Central railroad, makes few changes at this station.

The 7:03 P. M. for New York, will hereafter leave on week-days at 7:13. The early morning train from New York, will leave at 5:45 instead of 6:00, and on Sundays at 5:00 instead of 4:00.

A through coach for Long Branch, Ocean Grove, etc., will be attached to the 2:25 P. M. train from Plainfield.

Trains for Lake Hopatcong will leave this city at 6:58 and 9:24 A. M., and 5:17 P. M., with a through coach attached to the latter train. On Sundays, 6:12 A. M.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

A few days ago Superintendent Donnelly of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, was asked by a reporter about the progress being made on the South Plainfield and Roselle Railroad. That official replied that some three months would still probably be needed for the completion of their new route to New York city. Some of the grading is quite heavy, and the wet months of Spring retarded the work a great deal. J. G. Todd of Bernardsville, is superintending the construction of fences along the new road. Forces of men are at work grading on both ends of the line, but the work is necessarily slow.

Open Air Concert.

Following is the programme to be rendered by Prof. Conde's orchestra at Caspar's Hotel on Monday evening:

Courier of the Alps March.....Wagner.
Silver King Waltz.....Wenzlik.
Serenade.....Esser.
Carousal Galop.....Keller.
Waltz, Capitola.....Auerbach.
Overture from Martha and Tell.....F Conde.
Casino Waltz.....Kaulich.
Dove Polka.....Kral.
Aurelian Quadrille.....Berger.

WHO CAN THIS BE?

She Lived in Plainfield and Was to Have Married a Count, but Death Intervened.

The New York Mail and Express yesterday contained the following:

The death of Miss Forrest of consumption at Oakland, Cal., a few days ago, was the end of a sad romance. Miss Forrest was a beautiful girl and belonged to a wealthy family in Plainfield, N. J. Traveling in Europe a few years ago, she met Count Draike, a Frenchman of the old nobility. They fell in love with each other and their engagement was announced. When Miss Forrest returned to America the Count soon followed her. She loaned him $20,000 to start a sheep ranch in Colorado and he soon lost the money. Then he returned to France, and by lucky speculation was enabled to return Miss Forrest's money and make her a present of $20,000. The engagement of marriage was never carried out on account of Miss Forrest's sickness. She left a will bequeathing $20,000 to the Count.

Plainfield Cyclers to Take Part.

The new grounds of the New Jersey Athletic Club at Bergen Point will be open to the public on July 4, which will be made a grand gala day by the members. A number of local athletes and cyclers will attend the opening.

A regatta will be held at 10:30 A. M. At one o'clock cycle racing will begin, and continue till four o'clock, after which the base ball diamond will be the scene of a battle between a champion amateur team from Philadelphia and the Staten Island Athletic team. The events for the regatta have not yet been arranged.

The cycle races will be open to all amateurs riding machines of over thirty-five pounds weight. First and second prizes will be given in each event. Besides these races the Plainfield Bicycle Club, Bayonne Bicycle Club and Hudson County Wheelmen will probably run their one and two-mile club championships. The races will be over a quarter-mile cinder track.

SUNDAY SERVICES.

Services to-morrow in the Trinity Reformed church at 10:30 A. M. and 7:45 P. M. The pastor in the evening will preach a National sermon, and his subject will be "A Revival of Patriotism a Need of the Times."

A prayer meeting for men will be held at the Y. M. C. A. rooms, to-morrow, at 9 A. M., and each succeeding Sunday, in place of the Training Class which has been discontinued for the Summer months. All are heartily invited to attend.

A meeting under the auspices of the Friends' Temperance Association, will be held in the Peace Street Meeting house, to-morrow, (First Day) afternoon, at four o'clock. Nathan Harper is expected to deliver an address on "Home." All are cordially invited to attend.

Mr. Rickert's Horses Still Missing.

THE PRESS on Thursday contained an item referring to the disappearance of a team of truck horses belonging to Mr. Peter Rickert, from the stable on Jackson avenue, North Plainfield, on Wednesday night. Although a diligent search has been made, the whereabouts of the animals have not yet been discovered. Chief Carey was yesterday employed on the case, and this morning he sent out postal cards, offering a reward for information. The supposition of the Chief is that some person is holding the horses, waiting for a reward.

Since his horses disappeared Mr. Rickert has been greatly inconvenienced in his business, and has been obliged to hire a team to do his carting.

Turned Up After 50 Years.

Mr. Lewis E. Barkalew, the builder, has just received a communication from Baltimore from an uncle who he had not seen nor even heard of for over fifty years.

This uncle married a sister of Mrs. Barkalew's father, and removed from Plainfield a half-century ago. He had made no sign of his existence since, and was long ago supposed to be dead, by his relatives here.

The news that he still lived was a glad surprise to Mr. and Mrs. Barkalew, and they are now in happy communication with their uncle.

More Conductors Removed.

The Central Railroad Company still continues to weed out, from among its old and experienced passenger conductors. On Thursday, Conductor Durling of Somerville, was removed, making three removals this week. There are but two old conductors left who are now running between Somerville and New York, and they are very naturally anxious to know whether or not it will be their turn next.

Py Shiminy Gracious!

When Levi was in Congress in 1880 he voted in favor of a bill to repeal the duties on salt, printing type and chemicals used in making paper.

Now that he is the Republican candidate for Vice President, he stands on a platform which denounces such acts as "free trade," and which agrees to maintain the salt combination, the printing type trust, and the wood pulp monopoly.

Resembling a Sweetmeat.

By the occasional use of HAMBURG FIGS, which is less like a medicine than a sweetmeat, the bowels and liver can be kept in perfect condition, and attacks of indigestion and sick-headache prevented. 25 cents. Dose, one fig. J. G. Miller, Agent, Plainfield.

POISON IN OUR DRINK.

Not Alcohol—which one may avoid—but BRASS AND LEAD which one takes unsuspectingly. "How—When—Where?" Well, say, in a glass of Soda. Pity the most popular and wholesome of all artificial drinks—which Soda honestly is—should ever deserve a touch of suspicion, but

THE FROZEN TRUTH

is that in some Soda Fountains economy and mechanical facility are studied to the neglect of the weightier matter of purity. Some men are too "smart;" some Soda Fountains are too "ingenious."

We have recently had made a Fountain which secures Absolute Purity for the beverages. Rather pretty, too, we think. We selected the "Matthews' make" because it is the only fount in which the syrups have positively no metallic contact, being discharged direct from glass jars into the tumblers—no tubes; while the waters are contained in and flow through solid block tin,

PURE AS CRYSTAL, COLD AS CHARITY.

We make our own syrups—from REAL FRUIT JUICES, or from chocolate or coffee, etc., as the case may be; no nonsense of essences or make believe.

New drinks? Yes, some of our own contriving. "Winks?" Not a wink; not licensed for winks, and we have an opinion of druggists who take a wink.

Come and try the new Fountain; if you like your drink we'll thank you for saying so, and you'll pay us five cents and come again—it will do you good; only don't come Sundays; no use—Fountain WON'T WORK.

FIREWORKS GALORE.

The Programme for the Glorious Fourth at Netherwood.

The Netherwood's guests with a few of the adjacent cottagers, assembled in the reading room of the hotel, last evening, and perfected final arrangements for the celebration of the Fourth.

Major Cullen, the chairman, reported for the Executive Committee consisting of himself, Secretary H. W. Williams and Treasurer H. D. Brewster. He stated the band had been engaged consisting of a greater number of pieces than last year. A concert would be given from three to five in the afternoon, and the band would also play during the pyrotechnic display from eight to nine in the evening and at the hop at 9:30 o'clock.

The married men and the bachelors will contest a game of base ball in the morning. The hotel piazzas will be illuminated with chinese lanterns, and a supper will be served shortly before midnight. $680 worth of fireworks have been contracted for.

Every subscriber to the fund will be allowed one invitation for each dollar contributed. The hop and supper will be only for such invited friends.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Bishop John H. Vincent started for Philadelphia, yesterday, on a business trip.

Mr. Thomas R. Cone and family of First place, will spend the Summer at Piermont-on-the-Hill, New York.

A young son of Mr. Howard Wilson of North Plainfield, is recovering from an attack of scarlet fever.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wharton Edwards of Central avenue, leave to lay for Monhegan Island, Maine.

Mr. E. E. Anthony and family, of Richmond street, are at the Cowell House, Ocean Grove, for the season.

Mrs. Jackson and daughter, Miss Addie of Arlington avenue, will spend the coming three weeks at Ocean Grove.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. N. Cadmus, and Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Klemeyer, of Brooklyn, have taken up their residence at the Searing Farm, for the Summer.

Capt. Wm. B. Ostrom, Messrs. William H. Sampson and Alexander Titsworth, are the speakers announced to address the Reform Club meeting to-morrow evening.

Miss Bulkley and Miss Brown of the Plainfield public schools, sailed for Europe, today. A number of friends bid them farewell at the steamer, including some of the other teachers, and Miss Mather and Miss Winslow of the Class of '77.

Dr. Geo. W. Endicott on Thursday evening performed a most successful operation, by removing a wen, about the size of a walnut, from the head of Mr. Frank Hedden. The wen had been gaining in size for several years, and had become uncomfortable.

Larry Wallace and John Thys, the two young men whom Constable Hand arrested at Scotch Plains on Thursday night, were arraigned before Justice Nash—the latter yesterday afternoon and Wallace this morning—charged with larceny. Thys furnished $100 bail and Wallace's mother deposited $200 in cash for her son's appearance at the Fall term of Court.

Miss Clara S. Whitfield, Superintendent of the Primary Department of the Park Avenue Baptist Sunday School, has accomplished a commendable deed by making the last payment on a $250 piano, recently purchased for the school. Although given two years time to pay for the instrument, through the indefatigable efforts of Miss Whitfield the last payment was made within twelve months after the purchase.

Why the West Ends Kicked.

The Somerville Unionist-Gazette in its account of last Saturday's game in this city, makes the following excuses for the action of the West Ends in refusing to finish the tenth inning:

In the sixth inning Murray reached first base on balls and McMurray struck out. Doane was given a base on balls and Demarest, who followed him, had three strikes called on him. Meehan purposely muffed the third strike, gathered it quickly and threw to Barcalow, who touched Murray out at third. This was a pretty double-play and should have retired the side, for the rules provide that when a man is on first and three strikes are called on the batter, it is not necessary for the catcher to hold the third strike except when two hands are out. (See Sec. 6, Rule 47.) The umpire, however, allowed Demarest to hold his base.

A. R. Dilts, the succeeding batsman, knocked a ball that struck at least four feet outside of the foul lines. The umpire allowed a fair hit and the two runs were brought in. The score then stood 6 to 5 in favor of the Crescents.

In the eighth inning the West Ends made another run, tieing the score.

In the ninth neither scored and in the tenth the West Ends were retired again without a tally, and the Crescents came to the bat. Murray got to second on called balls, the fifth ball being a passed ball by Meehan. McMurray was hit by a pitched ball and Doane came to the bat. The situation was then as follows: Murray at second, and McMurray at first. Doane had three strikes called on him and the third one having been muffed he was allowed his base, in violation of the rule referred to above, thus forcing the preceding runners one point up. It was of no avail to protest; that umpire was superior to rules. So with Demarest at the bat and the bases filled, the intention of the umpire to force in the winning run by giving the batsman his base on balls was so plain, that there was no use in continuing the game. Captain Barcalow asked to have the game called on account of darkness, but this the umpire refused to do, and as the West Ends had concluded that they would rather forfeit the game than yield to the umpire's scheme, they refused to play and the game was awarded to the Crescents, 9 to 0.

THE PRESS ON THE TARIFF.

Opinions From Both Republican and Democratic Papers.

(Contributed.)

Fortunately for themselves and the country, the Republican party has taken warning by the defeat of Blaine four years ago. As soon as the imperative-demand-for-Blaine idea was fairly before the Chicago Convention it was seen that there was considerable opposition to the man from Maine, and the party would not invite defeat by engaging in another personal canvass. The issue is squarely before the country of Freer Trade against Over-Protection, of Revenue Reform against the maintenance of a war tariff. And on this issue it is quite probable that Cleveland will find quite as large a support on the part of the press of the country as he did four years ago. The New York World strikes the keynote of the campaign in its editorial of June 26. The World says:

While Mr. Harrison would make an honorable and acceptable President, he will be beaten and he ought to be beaten because he represents the interests of the favored few against the interests of the many; because he stands pledged to a policy of retrogression instead of progression; because he is the candidate of a party which would make the war taxes higher and the cost of living greater instead of reducing taxation by a tariff revision which would lessen the price of articles of necessity. Thus the contest is not between Mr. Cleveland and Gen. Harrison, but between extreme Protection and honest Tariff Revision; between a Chinese Wall of prohibitory duties and a freer trade with all the world. The fight is one of principle, not of persons, and The World's opposition to Mr. Harrison is because he represents a principle which we believe to be antagonistic to the prosperity of the country and the welfare and happiness of the people.

And now comes the New York Times in a long editorial of the same date, to effectually settle the question whether the "Mugwumps" will support Harrison. Of course no orthodox Republican would admit for a moment that a thought of the Mugwumps ever entered his mind, but for all that there were many who believed in their innermost heart that the prodigals would return to the fold under Harrison's banner.

For the working out of the reforms which The Times believes to be the chief issues of our politics, the Democratic Party, with its present candidates, is the "better instrument," to use Mr. Tilden's expression. Its candidates are incomparably superior to those of the Republicans, and the announcement of purposes with which it enters the contest is more satisfactory, and in respect to the dominant issue is firmly right when the other is hopelessly wrong. As regards civil service reform, though we have had occasion to criticise the present Administration for some of its errors and failures, we have greater confidence in Mr. Cleveland's sincerity and fidelity than in the written professions of a party whose leaders are unable to speak of the reform without a sneer. The Times will give Cleveland and Thurman its hearty support, and will do what lies in its power, and it is not commonly an inactive newspaper in a Presidential contest, to make their majority such that there will be no doubt about it the morning after election.

And then, as if to remove all doubts, are heard these decisive words of George William Curtis, showing plainly enough how the Independent Republicans will stand.

As the representative of the platform which we describe elsewhere, no friend of a reduction of the surplus by moderating the tariff tax upon the necessaries of life and raw materials could support Gen. Harrison unless he feared some grave peril from the success of Mr. Cleveland. This is an apprehension, however, which, although strong and natural in 1884, has now disappeared. Mr. Cleveland made his own platform in his message, and there has been nothing in his administration which has alarmed the business interests of the country. Gen. Harrison appears in the canvass as the representative of high and higher protection, and of free whiskey and tobacco, rather than of a lighter duty upon any class of articles produced in this country. In other words, he is for an average tariff tax of 47 per cent. instead of 40 per cent., and of a profuse and consequently demoralizing expenditure of a surplus, instead of leaving it in the pockets of the taxpayers. His nomination promises a clean canvass. The offensive elements of personality which were prominent in the campaign of 1884 are happily eliminated, and we may fairly anticipate the discussion of principles and policies rather than an exchange of vituperation and scandals. This is a great gain for good politics, and in this respect the campaign of 1888 opens auspiciously.

The Providence Journal leads off in the van of those who will be alienated by the party's blind and unreasoning opposition to any tinkering with their beloved tariff. The Providence Journal is one of the oldest and staunchest Republican papers in the country, and it supported Blaine in 1884. But even this old sentinel of the Republicans refuses to follow this year's platform.

The Journal believes that upon this question (the tariff issue) the Democratic policy and platform are right and the Republican policy and platform are wrong. It had hoped that the party in convention would declare for a reasonable revision of the tariff in the line of a reduction in the cost of the necessaries of life, the relief of manufactures, a more open market and a practical revival of our commerce. It has not done so. The Democratic party has. It is a question of national policy overshadowing all others. The Journal is not blind to the shortcomings of the Administration of President Cleveland. * * * But it must take things as it finds them, choosing what it believes to be the right side of the main issue, preferring principle to party, practical wisdom to local popularity, and standing for what it believes to be the best welfare of the whole country.

With a defection in Rhode Island, the banner State of the the Republicans, the outlook is indeed serious for Tippecanoe.

But there are faithful Republican journals yet. Among these is the New York Daily Press, which is in its first year. A correspondent asks for the average rate of duty upon imports, and the Press takes occasion to indulge in the following:

The average ad valorem rate of duty on all imports is about 31 per cent. The average rate on dutiable alone is 47 per cent. During war times the average rate on all imports was 47 per cent. This shows a decline from 47 to 31 per cent., due in a large measure to the additions made to the free list by the Republican party.

The Press should have explained itself. Is the Republican party to be commended for reducing the duty from 47 to 31 per cent? No, for in their platform they declare against any reduction of the tariff, and they denounce the Mills bill, because it aims at a reduction of taxation. But if not, ought a party to be supported which diminished our protection to the level of 31 per cent? Or if a reduction of duties from 47 per cent., to 40 per cent., as proposed by the Mills bill, is "English Free Trade," what kind of free trade is a reduction from 47 to 31 per cent? Or is any tariff reduction by the Republicans a praiseworthy action, and any reduction by the Democrats an attempt to cripple our industries? Don't be afraid, Mr. Editor. Let's have one of those Talks on the Tariff on this point. M. C. S.

The Republican Rally.

The Republicans of this city are making great preparation for their rally this evening. The U. S. Grant Republican Club of North Plainfield, will join with the Republican Association of this city under whose auspices the public demonstration will be given. Assemblyman Ulrich will be chairman of the meeting, and Wilbur Mott of Newark, President of the State League, will be one of the speakers. It is expected that Mr. F. X. Schoonmaker will also be present and deliver an address. The Cornet Band will furnish the music.

—Two heaps of cross ties belonging to the Central Railroad Company, lying on the south side of the track near Netherwood were destroyed by fire on Wednesday evening.

YALE ROWS IN GREAT TIME.

SCORING UP ANOTHER VICTORY OVER HER OLD TIME RIVAL.

Rowing Four Miles in 20 Min. and 40 Sec., and Beating the Record Five Seconds—Harvard a Quarter of a Mile Behind at the End of the Race and Tired Out.

NEW LONDON, June 30.—Yale administered the worst drubbing to her time honored rival yesterday that Harvard has received in several years and at the same time broke the record by five seconds.

The start was made shortly after 2 P. M., Harvard having the west and Yale the east side of the course. There was no apparent advantage for either crew in the start. Both crews dipped their oars into the water almost simultaneously and then came the struggle for supremacy. Sixteen stalwart, sun-tanned backs bent to their work with a will and the frail shells leaped forward at a rattling pace.

For a dozen strokes the shells kept abreast of each other, and then the long nose of Yale's boat began to creep by the other. Despite the efforts of the defenders of the crimson the Yale boat continued to increase her lead until there was open water between the boats. Yale's stroke was perfection exemplified, rowing at the rate of 34 to Harvard's 38 to the minute. At the first half mile flag there was a full length of open water between the shells. The stroke of Harvard's was short, heavy and shallow, carrying no force and spending the strength of the oarsmen.

The record of races up to date is given in the following table, which shows that Yale now leads her old rival in just one race.

Date.	Winner.	Time.
1876—June 30	Yale	22.02
1877—June 30	Harvard	24.36
1878—June 28	Harvard	20.44½
1879—June 27	Harvard	21.29
1880—July 1	Yale	24.27
1881—July 1	Yale	22.28
1882—June 30	Harvard	20.47
1883—June 28	Harvard	24.26
1884—June 26	Yale	20.31
1885—June 26	Harvard	25.15½
1886—July 2	Yale	20.41½
1887—July 1	Yale	22-26
1888—June 29	Yale	20-10

It required no expert to predict at this stage of the race that the great race of 1888 would degenerate into a procession. Both crews kept up the stroke with which they started during the next mile, with the result that Yale continued to add length upon length to her lead. At the one and a half mile flag Harvard was struggling eight lengths in the rear.

The race from this point was nothing but a procession. At the second mile stake there was thirty-six seconds difference between the crews, which, mathematically calculated, made Yale's lead twelve lengths. Yale still continued to row thirty-four to Harvard's thirty-eight strokes to a minute, and this rate was kept up with slight variation to the finish, except on the home-stretch, when Yale raised her stroke to thirty-five, the highest rate since the start, and showed her mettle by making a grand spurt for a quarter of a mile. Cannon reverberated, whistles tooted, the Yales cheered themselves hoarse and pandemonium reigned supreme for several moments. Then Yale crossed the finish line in 20.19.

This eclipsed by five seconds the best time hitherto recorded, made by Columbia University in 1887.

Harvard's discouraged oarsmen reached the finish in 21.24. The conditions, of course, had much influence in developing fast time. A strong freshet caused by the rain of the previous night and a brisk northerly wind favored the crews.

The Janitor Robbed Him.

BOSTON, June 30.—Thomas D. Davidson graduated from Harvard on Wednesday; but had to postpone his trip home to California until to-morrow owing to the fact that all his ready money, $170, was stolen from his room on Monday. Officers searched the room of William Lee, a janitor, and found $65 of the money under the carpet. Lee said he had lost the rest on base ball, but replaced it and was released.

IN JUNE.

The hot June sun comes pouring down,
The grass is burned from green to brown,
Man seeks the shade.
And, disregarding doctors' rules
Against cold draughts, his throat he cools
With lemonade.

The boy out in the broiling sun
Can play base-ball, and leap, and run,
And mind it not;
But when his mother just suggests
An errand—whew! how he protests!
It is so hot!

His sister dons her muslin dress,
And, conscious of her loveliness
Without a doubt,
Within the swaying hammock lies:
When Edward calls her blushes rise—
She can't get out.

And so we know 'tis leafy June,
"When fields and flowers are all in tune,"
And days are rare,"
The poet says; although they're not,
They're quite well done, and sizzling hot—
Poets don't care.

Ill Nye on Folding Beds.

FOLDING-BEDS have their advantages and their disadvantages, also their rise and fall, says Bill Nye in the New York World. They are more especially affected by people who desire to economize room, and for that reason, in small rooms, especially in the flats and thickly-settled portions of our large cities, the folding-bed is becoming a power in our social economy, which threatens to up-end some of our greatest minds.

Whether you would naturally feel so pressed for room at Hannibal as to warrant the purchase of folding-beds in large quantities, I do not know. You must be your own judge in that matter. I cannot intelligently advise you without knowing more of your surroundings and home life.

Folding-beds seem to fit into some home lives first rate, while in other cases they are different.

You do not state whether you are married or single, and, in fact, you do not say which sex you hail from. All these things I should know in order to give you such advice as would reimburse you for the postage which I canceled in your letter. I can not sail in and blindly give advice right and left without knowing something about the case. It has only been a few weeks since I advised a correspondent, who wished to earn a livelihood, to go West and break broncbos, as it paid well and afforded much calm enjoyment to the contemplative mind. Afterward I learned that my correspondent was a widow who had passed the meridian of life. People who write for advice should always state their sex. It does not take but a moment to do so, and may be of incalculable value in arriving at a conclusion.

In Washington the folding-bed is greatly in favor with the girls who are in the government employ, I am told. A typical American girl in Washington will take a hall bedroom at $4 per month, furnish it with a richly caparisoned folding-bed, which acts as a bookcase during the day, and with a disguised washstand, 60 cents worth of chintz, 85 cents worth of cheese-cloth, a paper of tacks and a bunch of violets, she will make the establishment look more like home than the $30 room of a great coarse man who tries to furnish his apartments by means of a hair-cloth lounge and a meerschaum pipe.

So I really ought to know whether you are a man or otherwise before I can suitably advise you as to what would be most likely to please you. There are many varieties of folding-beds now claiming attention, several of the manufacturers of which have asked me to speak a good word for their instruments, but, without naming any special one, let me say that the clinker-built bed with fore and aft braces and patent cut-off is a good machine. Be careful not to select a thick-set or asthmatic bed if your room be small. Nothing is more annoying than to have your folding-bed suddenly extend itself and beg for air while you are entertaing friends at your apartments. Do not use a patent pillow-sham-holder at the head of your bed, for it is apt to fetch loose in the middle of the night and smite you across the bridge of the nose while you are asleep. Never fool with the invention unless you want to wake up in the morning and find your counterpane deluged with your rich, warm brains.

A Narrow Escape.

THEY were sitting together on the veranda in the dim twilight. The robin had sung his last song and the fireflies were beginning to light their lamps. The pensive beauty of an early leap-year summer was around them, and from the azure canopy the planets and the brightest of the stellar lights were beginning to peep, those silent but eloquent herald of the night. It was an hour for love and calm delight.

"I suppose, Mr. Jones, said the maiden, breaking an eloquent pause, "I suppose you expect to marry some day?"

"I do, Miss Smith."

"And you mean to be a kind husband, no doubt?"

"I intend to be a model in that respect."

"You will surround your wife with every comfort, furnish her with plenty of pocket money, stay at home with her evenings instead of going to some horrid club, treat her mother, if she has one, with kindness and respect, and all that sort of thing, ha! ha! Ah! you young men intend so much—you will be this and that; I've heard of you," and she shook her finger playfully at the youth.

"You may indulge in raillery, Miss Smith, but, I assure you, you have exactly described my intentions. You may smile, but I have made up my mind that when I am married I will be everything that an amiable and affectionate wife could desire."

"That being the case," said she, "and this being leap year——"

"Oh! by the way," he cried, starting up, the object of her questions flashing upon his mind, "I hope you will pardon me—how stupid of me—this conversation is very pleasant and I would gladly prolong it—but I have just remembered that I left my rooms open, and all my papers exposed on my desk. I must run. If I lost any of those papers I would be ruined. Good night," and darting down the steps he fled.

"By jings," he said a few moments later, as he wiped the perspiration from his brow, "that was a narrow squeak! How cute she was! Another moment and she would have had me, and she's twenty-seven if she's a day."—Boston Courier.

HOUSEHOLD TOPICS.

ORNAMENTAL COBWEBS FOR HOME DECORATION.

Items of Interest to Women. The Empress of Austria Disappoints Her People. What Mrs. Secretary Fairchild Does at Home. Some Remarks of a Kindly Nature from Kentucky Women. Senator Cockerill's Beautiful Wife.

Although good housewives are always ready to tear asunder a natural cobweb, none would probably object to the ornamental device shown in our engraving. It is formed of silver tinsel on a hoop made of twigs tied together and wound with the tinsel. It may be used to ornament wall-pockets, whisk-broom holders, or almost any fancy article, or it may be hung in the window. The tinsel which comes in balls at three cents each, is simply wound from side to side as seen in the illustration. The webbing is made by carrying the tinsel from one cross-piece to another, tying a knot on each to hold it in place. A bow of tiny blue ribbon is tied where it ends. The spider is made of bees-wax, blackened with ink; fine black wire is used for his legs. These odd-looking creatures can be purchased at any Japanese store for a few cents, ready for use.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN.

Some of the Doings of Fashionable Misses' Both at Home and Abroad.

There are several female novelists at present who have melodramatic skill in the construction of a story, and Miss Braddon probably stands at the head of the list, says a writer in the Epoch. She has the art of being always interesting and may be almost said, although she is so voluminous, to have never written a tiresome book. She understands how to build a good plot and to invent striking incidents and by emulative processes to raise the reader's curiosity to the very end. She has also fine skill in drawing character and is recognized by judges, whose opinions are unprejudiced and of value, to be in her field a thorough literary artist. Nevertheless she has displayed nothing yet that would lead one to believe that she could write a good play. France, which has furnished so many accomplished dramatists of the male sex, has yet to show one in the ranks of the more charming portion of creation. There have been some dramas and trivial comedies by Parisian fair ones, the writers of the day who turn their dainty hands to almost anything; but there is no stage composition from this source which has had more than existence of a season or two. There is a sort of standard farce called "The Clock-maker's Hat," by an accomplished lady, which is still revived and enjoyed, but it is of course, nothing like a work of the first rank. In English literature we find a few more or less successful female dramatists such as the abominable Mrs. Behn, Mrs. Centlivre; that captivating and clever woman, Mrs. Inchbald, Joanna Baillie, Miss Mitford, Mrs. Lovell and one or two others not so well known.

The Empress of Austria a Disappointment.

At the unveiling of the Maria Theresa monument at Vienna, many thousand eager eyes looked out for the Empress, who had not been seen for more than six years upon public occasions. She was dressed in dark brown satin, with beaded embroidery, and, notwithstanding a fierce sun, wore a boa round her neck. Tall and graceful as ever, the sombre character of her dress contrasted with the brilliancy of the scene, and was a disappointment to the ladies, who look to her for an example of fashion and elegance. The Emperor led her to the tent, while the two daughters, Gisela and Valerie, and several other Princesses followed. Baron von Hasenauer, the architect, and Herr Zumbusch, advanced and begged permission to unveil the monument. The Emperor gave the signal, and the twenty-four curtains forming a circle fell slowly and gradually, while the Emperor and all the gentlemen present uncovered.

Mrs. Fairchild at Home.

Mrs. Fairchild, the wife of the Secretary of the Treasury, is a fair, sweet woman of evidently plain tastes. Her manners are pleasing, her smile suggests good nature, and her eyes show good intelligence. The Jeffersonian simplicity of her black lace dress and the plain style of her hair gave token that her sons is not given to dress alone. That she has aesthetic tastes was indicated by the arrangement and adornment of her rooms, and the pieces of quaint and ancient furniture that find places therein. But nothing reconciles us to the forlorn barrenness of bare floors and rags. There is a Puritanic solemnity about them that suggests the dismality of a parlor of the Pilgrims set out with Mayflower furniture.

Western Feet Growing Shorter and Wider.

Says a shoe drummer: "For nearly a quarter of a century I have been in the selling trade for an Eastern house. During that time I have noticed a great many changes, but none has struck me more forcibly than the change in the shape of Western women's feet, which are growing wider and shorter all the time. Twenty years ago a C last was considered wide in this section, while now it is narrow for the general trade. The explanation is simple. The Western women for years have had a weakness for French heels and short shoes, which, it is known, have a widening and shortening tendency, and serve to produce enlargement of the joints and deformed feet."

Kind Words for Kentuckey Young Women.

Speaking of the young man who was poisoned as a result of kissing his best girl, whose cheeks were colored with cosmetics, the Louisville Courier-Journal says: "We invite such of our Northern contemporaries as are dissatisfied with the complexions of their girls to come out to Kentuckey, where the roses of our sweethearts' cheeks are perennial bloomers, always warranted to wash, and, paradoxical as it may sound, while their tints cannot be extracted, albeit they somehow rush over him whose lips come in contact with them as though they were a whole summer rainbow twining about him and making a Maypole of his spinal column—a rainbow, in sooth, one end of which rests in the gardens of the Hesperides and the other in a jug of sugar house molasses.

Senator Cockrell's Handsome Wife.

One of the most popular ladies in the official society of Washington is Mrs. Anna Ewing Cockrell, the wife of the Senator from Missouri. She comes of distinguished ancestry, and her father was Judge Ephraim Ewing, a Kentuckian, who was prominent in the early history of Missouri.

FASHION AND DRESS.

THE WOMEN UNABLE AS YET TO PART WITH TAILOR GOWNS.

Wedding Dresses That Are Worn At This Seasons Ceremonies. Many Notes on Bonnets and Suitings. What Children are Going to Wear during the Summer. Hints for Traveling Costumes.

Tailors commend checked Cheviots, homespuns and Isle of Wight serges for traveling dresses, making them up over alpaca foundation skirts, with stitched or corded edges, and in rather severe fashion. Dresses to be worn at sea have weights of lead in the skirt facing to keep them from being too much blown about on deck. For shorter journeys there are soft and fine chuddah cloths in gray and Gobelin blue shades, also summer camel's-hair, with a selvage border that serves for trimming. Silk is also employed for dresses for summer journeys taken in palace-cars, the entire dress being made of dark brown, indigo blue, or stone-colored India silks, or else of striped or crossbarred surah, or it may be of the cool pongee, which it is the caprice of the season to make up in tailor style, with stitching for its only trimming; the stitching is done in white, and flat pearl buttons are also used. The daily short trip to town from suburban residence is made in tasteful Scotch gingham or Chambery dresses that now come in the dark colors of India silks, such as stripes of two shades of Gobelin blue, or the large plaids of blue with red, or of terra-cotta with cream-color, or two cool shades of gray, or else black and white plaids of large size, with crossbars of color, either bright yellow, or red, or clear blue; these are then trimmed with black velvet ribbons laid over wider ribbon of the color of the bar.

Wedding Dresses.

Fashion and luxury go hand in hand together in the task of creating new wants for their votaries, and thanks to their endeavors elegant ladies now consider two wedding dresses necessary. In addition to the toilette for the ceremony at church, the bride requires a separate dress for the subsequent festivities.

We noticed another innovation in two toilettes made by a celebrated dressmaker for this purpose, and that was the real wedding dress was made of thin silk; silver white faille and lace from the bride's trousseau, whilst the dress for the festive parts of the day was a combination of rich damask and striped, flowered moire. In summer, bridal toilettes are as a rule lighter, we may add therefore prettier, than those intended to be worn in autumn or winter. Thus a dress for a bride of seventeen years of age has just been made of soft ivory white Surah. A tulle demi-tablier embroidered with chenille was arranged with festoons of orange blossoms over the plissed skirt. Train and bodice were cut in one piece, the latter crossing in front over the tulle chemisette. Puffs of crape complete the sleeves.

Rough Finished Wool Gowns.

Striped homespuns, serges, checked Cheviots, and rough-finished fabrics are used for all-wool travelling gowns meant for long journeys and for voyages on board steamers. The striped woolens are liked in even stripes of blue with gray, or drab with green, or two shades of blue or of tan-color; they are made up with a full long draped overskirt nearly covering the pleating on the lower skirt, and a plain basque or a pleated Norfolk jacket, which may be of stripes, or of solid colored wool. The serges and plain home-spuns have a jacket-waist and a straight full skirt, partly pleated and partly gathered. The jacket buttons only at the throat, and slopes away to disclose a shirt-waist or full blouse of washing silk, which may be in Cheviot stripes on white, or plain white, navy blue, or scarlet, or else it is of polka-dotted surah, sometimes of very gay colors, as blue or white spots on poppy red.

Youthful travelling dresses of gray mohair are also made with scarlet or dark blue shirt fronts of India silk, with stripes or dots of cream white. Navy blue cloth gowns for travelling on the steamer and in Europe have a jacket, pleated skirt, and stitched hat or cap of the serge, and are to be varied by different shirt-waists, one of cream washing silk, another of blue and white striped flannel, and a third of plain navy blue China silk. Blouses of white or of blue jersey webbing are also liked for parts of steamer dresses, and are finished with a sailor collar prettily braided, and shirt sleeves with braided wristbands. The belted tucked jerseys are liked to alternate with basques of travelling dresses, and indeed a jersey of any kind is a comfortable waist for steamer use.

Pretty Costumes.

A pretty way to make a costume is to plait the jupe like a priest's surplice, and over that throw the polonaise of the same material, with the yoke of embroidery and a wide sash of black moire. A white veiling is made with a draped waist buttoning under the arms to make the loose front hang properly. Gold gollon forms a pointed belt and trims the sleeves and collar. The sleeves are very large and wavy at the top and close fitting at the bottom. Another of white veiling had open-work gallon of white, with clusters of white floss and embroidered flowers here and there half resting on the jupe. One-half the waiste was made of these boquets, as were also the sleeves up to the elbow.
